(B) That the means which it is faid Castellanus made use of is very unlikely I shall not repen Peter Galand's Remarks against Melanchibon's Narietive but make some that he did not make ist, It is no ways likely, that Irancis I enquir'd what an Ausstellician Philosopher was? He was too knowing a Prince, and took too much care to have meast account of the State of the University of Pari, in a word, he had had too many Conversations with Learned Men to be ignorant of Aristotle's Name, and what a Follower of Aristotle was The Question which he is said to have ask d, would be likely, notwithstanding that Prince's Learning, if to be a Peripatetick had been a rate and a new if to be a Peripatetick had been a raie and a new thing in France, but is there wis almost no Body in the Philosophical Chairs, that did not make an open Profession of Aristotle's Philosophy, nothing is more unlikely, than to suppose that that Prince was so surprized with an Idea of Novelty at the hearing of the Name of an Aristotleician Philosopher, that he would immediately have those Woods explain'd to him adly, I he prosperity of the Peripatetick Sect at that time, and the great respect that was paid to Aristotle, do not permit us to believe, that Castellanus thought he was able to wrong lieve, that Castellanus thought he was able to wrong the Honour of a Rival by calling him a Peripateen the Praises that were bestow'd upon Biggs in the presence of Francis I 3dly, The Professor of Philosophy in the Universities of France do not explain Politicks, and it would have been indiculous in those times to have fud, I will explain to you what an Austrotelician Philosopher is He is one that p of se Common-wealth e b fore Monarches 4thly, It is medication, that I nances I protected Ariforle against Ramus I he Author of Castellanus's Lite, says, (a) That thit Prince was like to condemn that Rebel against Ar solle to the Gallies So this there is some reason to thought the Arifordelian deliances. there is some reason to think that Melanchehon did not relate the bing as he should have done. He was mis-informed, and had suffer'd himself to be pre-possess without hearing both Partial Nevertheless his Words have obtain'd, and Body that speaks of our Biget, without take for certain what Melanchthon publish'd of him. So much Power the Stars of some Men have to improve the tain what Melanchthon publish'd of him So much Power the Stars of some Men have to immortalize any Story, whether it be true, or false, agreeable, or contrary to all appearances! And the same of the him by the Chains of his Liberality if (1) he I ewis XI would have accepted the Principality of his Royal College, or, a Canonship of 1500 Livres of Revenue that he offired him several times, and likewise William Bigot, who was the first Philosopher of his time, if his High (1) Erating Almoner the Bishop of Mascon (2) had not diverted ep ad him from the desire he had to have him near his Person, Christop that he might not have such a Learned Consurer of the Discourses he made every Day at the Royal Table item ad (C) in the Menagiana that is not made item ad Goulenishe Story, "(c) Petrus Gallandias was envy'd, and his Enemies would have caus'd one whose Name ad Joan was Bigot, a great Aristotelician Philosopher, to Hond was Bigot, a great Aristotelician Philosopher, to come from Normandy, to supplant him by that means Francis I who had been spoken to about him, ask'd Petrus Castellanus, what Man he was? Petrus Castellanus answer'd, that he was a Philopher that follow d Aristotle's Opinion And what we Aristotle's Opinions, added Francis 1? Sir, reply'd Petrus Castellanus, Answer's Castellanus, Answer's Castellanus, Answer's Castellanus, Castellanu "reply'd Petrus Castellanus, Aristotle prefers Com"mon-wealths before the Monarchical States,

"This made such an impression on the Kang's
"mind, that he would hear no more of that Mr
"Bigot So that Petrus Castellanus serv'd his Friend
"very dexterously' I could make some Objections against this account 1st, Our William Bigot was not a Norman, but a Mancaga, adde His species and against this account 1st, Our William Bigor was not a Norman, but a Manceau 2dly, His ability in the Peripatetick Philosophy, was not proper to supplant Peter Galand, who only taught Philosopy 3dly, Milanchthon, who ought to pass for an Authentick Witter, as to that matter, since he only made it known, does not fy, that the business was to supplant any Professor of Paris He says, that they would have introduced Bigot to Francis I that that Monarch, who had heard Peter Castellanus discourse so often, might also hear the discourses of that William Bigos Observe well, that when the only Alestor that speaks of any Fact, commits a mistake. fo often, might also hear the unicourses.

liam Bigos Observe well, that when the only Attach that speaks of any Fact, commits a mistake, his Narrative cannot be alter d without a new Error I except the Cases wherein one grounds one s self on the true discovery of the Fact 4thly, We learn from the Life of Castellanus, that at his Recommendation Francis I granted this Bigot a thing which he desir'd How can it be said then, that that Prince would hear no more of that M Bigot?

(d) La Croix du French Veries were printed with the Poems of Charles Maine, p de Sunte Marthe, the Uncle of Scavola Gesner (1)

French Veries were printed with the Poems of Charles Maine, p de Sunte Marthe, the Uncle of Scavola Gefner (1) mentions a Collection of Poems, Gulielms B.

Lavallensis, Printed at Basil in the Year 1536 (2) Gefact in the Year 1536 (3) Gefact in the Year 1536 (4) Gefact in the Year 1536 (4) Gefact in the Year 1536 (5) Gefact in the Year 1536 (6) Gefact in the Year 1536 (7) Gefact in the Year lune atque contemptus novis Lucianis atque Diagoris cu-linariis sed non neglecta sunt a maximo Philosopho Gulicimo Bigotio, qui quidem pene solui boc summum jus hodic tuetur in recondita philosophia

(E) That Calvin upbraided him with keeping the Truth] Here is what we find in the Notes of a very Learned Man on Castellan's Life Adquem

(Rivorum) (Bigotium) extat epistela Jeannis Calvini data IV Kal

Hond (2)R1&her in axiomat Polit

(c) Mena-LAT

15 p m 946 ad Carda-

(.) Galland ubi lupia n 45 P 75 Bongars had not heard any thing of our William Bigot; for in a Letter which he *The Prin writ the 6th of August 1596 he desir'd to (F) be informed who he was

BILLAUT (Adam) known by the Name of Mastre Adam, was a Joynur of Nevers, Princefs who became a pretty good French Poet He made himself first known in his own Anne, Country, and to the Princesses of * Gonzague, who liv'd sometimes in their Dutchy of the first of Nevers, and afterwards he took his chance to go to Parus, where he found some Patrons which has been Queen He made that Journey (A) in the Year 1637 The Duke of Orleans honour'd him with a † Pension That new Poet publish'd a Collection of Poems Intituled Les Chevilles de Maitre Adam, and did not fail to add to it the Verses that many Poets of his time made in his praise The Abbot de Marolles honour'd him with a Pretace that savoured a Panegyrick, and wherein he does not forget to inform us, that Peter Billaut and Joan More, our Poet's Father and Mother, had taken them Original from the Village of Saint Benin des Bois in the Country of Nivernois It appears by Master | St Romulad, Adam's Vertee, that he thrust himself among the Grandees, but I do not believe that he grew (By the Poet's Trade He dy'd the 19th of May | 1662 Mr Baillet Chronol was not (C) produgal of his praises to him I have heard it faid that he was oblig'd Journal, to return to his Joyners Trade for a Livelihood, but I don't believe it

BILLI (James de) in I atin Billius, Abbot of Saint Michel en l' Herme, was one of the Learned Men of the XVIth Century He Translated several Works of the Greek has em Mr. Fathers and Darticulary Gregory Nazianzen, to the satisfaction of good Baillet in Fathers into Latin, and particulary Gregory Nazianzen, to the satisfaction of good Baillet, Judges a I design'd to publish a long Account of him, but I could not find his Life gendles. compos'd by γ fohn Chatard, so that I refer my Readers to Morers, and shall only obferve some Mistakes of the (X) I carned Mi de Launos, who publish'd two Letters that inform the that fames de Bills compluis'd much to being at Paris He com- γ See Testplain'd of it, moong other Reasons, because Provisions were dear, and because he was her Biblioblig'd to (1) lose part of his time with the Ladies His Sister, who lived with Miliothetar dam de Montmorency, was the occasion of it

BILION (Francis de) Secretary †, born at Paris, publish'd i Book intituled, le † La First inexpugnable de l'honneur du Sexe feminin, which he dedicated to Catherine de Medicis, and to some other Princesses His Epistle Dedicatory is dated from Rome in the ancient Field of Mars in the Year 1550 It is an odd  and fantastic il Book, wherein Henry Pag 93  See the Stepher's found many | Blasphemies, that consist in comparisons between the ancient Bibliother Prophets, and the Secretaries of the King of France It was Printed it Paris in the que Fran-in 40 I have quoted it sometimes. The Author was a Nephew of a Verdice,

(a) In editione 3 Hanov 1597 (b) Bongars,epift 130 ad Camerar pag 488 edit Hag 1695

(c) Mi moires M.
I Abbe de Maroles, pag 107

Epistle De-Micatory of Villes to the Count

Jame Chil-

g) Juge-ens Sur s Poetes tom 4 p

Januarii MDLVII in qua cum increpat quod à superstitionious, id est, a prosessione sides Romana non recederet. That Letter of Calvin is (a) the 246 it is written to one Peter Bigot, who did not give Glory to GOD by professing the Truth Calvin had formerly lodg'd at his House The Name of Castellanus's Adversary, was William Bigot 'Tis not therefore he to whom Castella wrote (I) He desir'd to be inform'd what he was He ask'd that question, after he had read the Letter that Joseph Market Bigot Campagning hid want to shot William Campagning hid want to shot William Page 18 achim Camerarius had writto that William Biget as at the end of the 3d Book of the 2d Volume of that Joachim's Letters, Stibarus quis Juerit, nisi motion est explica, G quis Vilelmus Bigotius Gallus ad equem exstat epistola sub finem tertis (b)

(A) He made that journey in the Year 1637] All the proof that I have to it, is a pullage of the Abbot de Marolles, wherein he says, that being at Nevers in 1636 he was saluted one Morning by Adam (d) In the Billaut, who repeated some of his Veries to and gave him some Copies of them That Abbot adds, I hat he promised the Princess Mary to pro-That Abbot claim the Merit of that rare Poet, and that Master Adam came to Paris the Year following He was known there, continues he, to the Grandees, and to all the Count

d Arpajon

That he grew rich by the Poet's Trade] One min not always take in the literal Sense what the left is say about their great Indigence, to those of wife and whom they would fain obtain some Preface of Mr de Marolles

Marolles

(f) Change of Roan

1654

Margin there, continues he, to the Grandees, and to all there is grew rich by the Poet's Trade] One min not always take in the literal Sense what the left of the literal Sense what the literal Sense what the
literal Sense what the
literal Sense what the
literal Sense what the
literal Sense what the
literal Sense what the
literal Sense what the
literal Sense what the
literal Sense what the
literal Sense what the
literal Sense what the
literal Sense what the
literal Sense what the
literal Sense what the
literal Sense what the
literal Sense what the
literal Sense what the
literal Sense what the
literal Sense what the
literal Sense what the
literal Sense what the
literal Sense what the
literal Sense what the
literal Sense what the
literal Sense what the
literal Sense what the
literal Sense what the
literal Sense what the
literal Sense what the
literal Sense what the
literal Sense what the
literal Sense what the
literal Sense what the
literal Sense what the
literal Sense what the
literal Sense what the
literal Sense what the
literal Sense what the
literal Sense what the
literal Sense what the
literal Sense what the
literal Sense what the
literal Sense what the
literal Sense what the
literal Sense what the
literal Sense what the literal Sense what literal Sens

other Tools, which he thought to immortalize by Confectating them to the Deities of Parnassus Unless it be known that he was an illiterate Joyner, he will pass for an indifferent Poet, and perhaps, for a Black-guard of Parnassus For it must be confesi'd, that Master Adam does more Honour to the Joyners, and other Tradesmen, than to the Poets and the Licenne, Muses

(X) Some Mistakes of the learned Mr de Launoi de Herodote
He has inferted in (h) his History of the College of Navarre, two Letters of James de Bills, written m 94 to James Pelletier, and he believ'd they were writ-ten in the Year 1582 This shews that he did not know that the Author of those two Letters dy d in the Year (1) 1581 The ignorance of such like things is nothing, and can do no prejudice to a Learned Man But I cannot apprehend that a Man should make his Ignorance appear in much more considerable Matters, without some prejudice to himself By publishing those two Letters as written in the Year 1582 Mr de Launoi must have believ'd that the Prince of Conde was then in Prilon , that the Prince of Conde was then in Prilon, that the Admiral having gather d the broken Rcmins of the Army pass d the Loire, and committed great Ravages, that the Duke of Guise pursu d him with long Marches, &c All these things are plainly contain d in the first of James de Billi's two Letters, with this circumstance, That the Prince of Conde had almost made his escape out of Prison, which can'd the Overn to have him recovered. which caus'd the Queen to have him remov'd to Chartres It is visible, that this Letter was written in the beginning of the Year 1563 The date that Mr de Launoi produces is Lutetie 10 (k) Calend Feb 1582 Without doubt, he found the date of the Place and of the Day in the Original, and added that of the Year to it I don't know what grounds he could have for his Conjectures, but it is certain, either that he did not mind the Contents of that Letter, or that he was but little skil'd in our Modern History Moreover, the publication of those Letters, shews that he did not underthe right stand Greek, for he left several faults (1) which than Mothe Printers had committed, about some Greek Words that our Abbot had made use of

(Y) To lose part of hu time with the Ladies] If the 23d of you desire to know all the Regions why he was January forry that he had left his Province, read his own Words, Hic omnia perturbata, morbis infesta, hic extrema annona caritas, hic meo succo victitandum, hic

and the

Bishop pag 395

(b) Pag 360 (1) La Croix du Maine affirms it let supposes it as certain in divers places of his Jugements Moreri vember 1580 But in the 2d tom of the Elogies, p 292 marks the 25th of Decemb 1581 He (k) Thatis

(!) For Example, this

Homer.

Ama na per aregistuxou sacophy aruphes mez, was printed thus, And to the west and state taches, administ the

626 the Name of that part of Italy, which we call the kingdom of Naples Taken from Biprefix'd to Sa ion of 1 is Idylls, Longe-Picrie + Mr de Longe-Picire is be Author of them 1 here was a Towncall d Boryfthemis, and a River cilled Borysthen odern Name of that River 21 Dnieper,it runs thro' the Frantiersof Muscovy and Po-1 See the Remarks I and I (a) It may be a fault of Infrefof bullon (/)Billon, I ort mexpugnable, fol 229 (c) Moichus in epitaphio Bionis (d) S . le Remarks of Mi de Long-Pierie, PIE 177. (e) Nel libio pri-mo de liani Lotenzo Craffo quotes bim in his History of the Greek Po-و8 ورك (f) Sono molte altie le

A Such was Bishop (Z) of Senlis I think he had been a Secretary of William du Bellas Lord of

BION, a Bucolick Poet, (A) born at Smyrna, liv'd in the time of (B) Ptolemy Philadelphus, who reign'd from the Fourth Year of the 123d Olympiad, to the Second Year of the 123d There is some likelihood that he past the best part (C) of his life in Sicily, or in & Great Greece He was an incomparable Poet, if we rely on the Lamentations of his Disciple Moschus The sew Pieces that remain of him, witness the same, in the opinion of some Persons very well qualified to judge of such things Bion died of Poison, as Moschus observes very clearly * There are many Editions of the Idyls of those two Poets, but the best of them, is without doubt, that of Paris, of 1686 with a Translation in French Verses, and some Remarks + See what the fournalists (D) said of it It was soon after reprinted in Holland

BION, surnamed Borystbenstes, because he was born at || Borystbenss, was a Philosopher of much Wit, but of very little Religion He flourish'd about 4 the 120th Olympiad He wis much beloved by Antigonus, King of Macedonia, and as he had a Boldness that came near Impudence, he made no scruple to confess to him, that he was (A) the Son of a breed-man, who turn'd Bankrupt, and of a Whore He despiwas (A) the Son of a Freed-man, who turn a bankrupt, and of a whole field the Platonick Philosophers, whilst he was an Auditor of Crates, afterwards he took the Habit of a Cymick, then he addicted himself to Theodorus, who was a protest Atherst, and lastly, he was a Disciple of Theophrastus, who was the Head of Aristotle's Sect. He lov'd Pomp and Ostentation, and shew d himself in several Cities. He caused himself to be followed into the place of Exercises, by a parcel of Sea-men, who had the Complaisance to dress themselves like Scholars at his Sollicitation He cursitandum, litigandum, & sororis causa qua apud Magisti Equitum uxorem educatur inter puellas, tempus t rendum & perdendum This latter point savours but little of an Abbot, neither do we ipeak of a Court Abbot, but of an Abbot that was a great Grecian, and who minded nothing but his Grecian, Studies

(Z) Nephew of a Bishop of Senlis] The 14th Chapter of his Book contains, The Pen's Petition to the Ladies in savour of the Secretaries They have only seiz'd, (says the Pen in that Petition) the Fruits proceeding from my Letters like the Ingention. only seiz'd, (says the Pen in that Petition) the Fruits proceeding from my Letters life the Ingeneer of this Fort, who spent all his Substance in building of the same, for the eternal defence of you all, as his Uncle Mr Aithur (a) Lillon, not long ago Bishop of Senlis, did in Normandy, for the Protestion of the Country definded by him, and eas'd of many Charges, for which he was call'd in his life time, the Father of the Country, according to the ancient mode (b) (A) Born at Smyrna] The Epithet The same of the tattends him every where, is a good Proof of it, it may be strengthened by the Verses of Moschie wherein mention is made of the Sorrows of

chus wherein mention is made of the Sorrows of the River Meles, for the death of its Son Bion That River runs by Smyrna Ιώτυ (c) τοι ως ποταμών λιγυςωποι, Αυτεργ αλγ.

 Ιώτο, Μελη, τένι αλγ. Φ απολείο πραι τοι Ο μαρ.

- 1 my 7m/m a 2009 Tien Parpuer.

His tibi o fluviorum mauime canore, alter mæror eft, Hico Mele novus dolor interest tibs prius Homerus, nunc iterum alium Filium deploras

(B) In the time of Ptolemy Philadelphus | See here the Proof that is given of it Theoreties was afflicted for the death of Bion, and he lived in the mo de time of that Ptolemy, it follows then, that Bion Poeti Bu- liv'd also at the same time. This Proof would be coll Cici- much stronger than it is, if the six Verses that precede their Words of Moschus, is the Sugarmonian Occasion, interque Syracusanos Theoretics, did not pass to a Supplement of Musurus (d) That Author finding a Cap there, fill'd it up, supposing that Moschus mention d the Complaints that the Death of B. on had excited among the Poets in feveral Countries That Supposition connects the beginning and the end of that Gap very well together, but because it is not the only way of finding that Connection, there is reason to doubt, that Moschus had the Thought that Musurus aicribes to him, and conicquently it can be no longer certain, that Theocrirel'autoritu was represented there, as a Man that was alive ta portate dal

VintiTiglia

he almeio crede

l'abitazi
l'abitazi
he chur again, that supplies us with the Proofs of this feel in how John Vintimiglia (e) mikes us of 'em, to maintain (f) that Bion was of Suily of at least, that he made his abode there, but it is very likely, that these two Verses have been chiefly consider'd by him laion Bione Lorenzo Crasso p 90

one C ci-

A μφότιομ παγαίε πιοιλαμινοι ές μιν गामक Παγασιέ 🖫 κορίναι, ο ε दिशा πομα πές αριθυσας

Ambo fontibus chari erant, alter (g) bibebat De fonte Pegaseo alter (h) tenebat poculum de fonte Arethusa

Lorenzo Crasso observes, that John Lascaris, in his Illustrious Men of Sicily, as he is quoted by (1) Maurolicus, does not mention our Bucolick Poet Bion, rolicus, does not mention our Bucolick Poet Bion, but another Bion, who was of Syracusa, and a Rhetorician by profession Jerom Ragusa (k) a Sicilian Jesuit, speaks of none but of this Rhetorician Bonanni maintains a thing that is something like a Paradox He pietunds, that Moschus speaks only of Theocritus Sappia chi legge, says he, (l) che nel sepradetto Idillio non si puo intendere Bione poeta Bucolico, percioche costui non su stracusano, ma Smirneo, e sieri dope Moscho Cosi medesimamente per nessuna ragione vi può este inteso un' altro Rione il quale è Siracusano, perche egli non su poeta, ne scrisse cose pastorali, ma sà Rhetorico fà Rhetorico

(D) The Journalist wiz The Paris Journal of the 19th of August 1886 the News from the Commonmealth of Learning, in the Month of September, 1686 Article I the Acta eruditorum of Leipsick, at the lecond Section of the first Volume of the Supplements I don't believe it has been mention'd in the Bibliotheque Universelle

(A) That he was the Son of a Freed-man and of a Whore | The manner wherewith Antigonus ask'd him, The modern's and towns, who towns, Who P 90 are you, what Country-man are you, and of what Fam.ly? made Biom believe, that the King had been told, that made Bion believe, that the King had been told, that he was of a very mean extraction, so that he thought his best way was, to own the thing, and indeed he would have lost more by denying it, than he would have got Wherefore he ficely confessed, whatever the publick knew about his Father and Mother, and ended with a Verie of Homer, to answer Ansignnus the better, who had made use of one of the same Poet's Verses, when he ask'd him who he was Taure to profit the same who had made use of one of the same Poet's Verses, when he ask'd sime who he was Tauthe to prose to it alposts of support of the I glory to be born of such a Father and Mother He added, Let Perseus and Philonides leave this out of their Histories, and do you judge of me by my self (m) We find in Athenaus what Bion's Mother's Name was (n) Kai Bion's O Bopularitae piùs coordinate in uses O luminate la pine, all onen Nimas a Nimasus en tais to it out of the prosession of the pros losophus Olympia Lacedamonia meretricis silius sus, ut inquit Nicias Nicaensis in successionibus Philosophorum. She had a fine name, and her Country was at a great distance from the place where she was maried. It would be in vain to ask whether she had profituted her felf in her own Country, and whether she went to live near the Boryshenes, that she might pretend to be an honest Maid in case of nemight pretend to be an noneit Maid in case or necessity, or that she might thrive better among the Barbarians, who are not so nice as the Inhabitants of Greece The Books say nothing of this, but it appears by her Son's Answer, that she was taken out of a Bawdy-house when the found a Husband (o) Marmy sh, oran o Thirt & Typing, ar shipping. My Mether

(g)That is a to Say, Ho-

(h) That is, Bion

(1) Nella storia di Cicilia

(k) In eloglis Sicu-lorum quiveteri memoria literisfio-

(1) Nell' Antica Stracula apud Lorenzo Craffo ubi

(m) Diog Laertius l 4 in Bi one, init thom / 63 6 6 pag 591, 592

(e) Diog. Laert ib

Mether

must needs have been very eloquent, to perswade Saylors to such a thing. He had a great (B) deal of justing Wit, we may judge of it by (C) some of his Sayings that have (n) o so been preserved He was no less successful in the making of Puodies In all likelihood its he, who confidering how difficult it is to please several forts of People, had a confidering how difficult it is to please several forts of People, had a confidering how difficult it is to please several forts of People, had a confidering how difficult it is not find, that it was on a like occasion, and (D) falling received several forts of the did as most imprious Men do, he ran into another Lyremity. He became the several forts of the several forts of People, had a confidering several forts of People several forts of People several forts of People several forts of People fuperstitious, he had recourse to Ligatures, and to an hundred other things, which in the had recourse to Ligatures, and

Mon nout of a Bawdy-house, and such a Man Father could pretend to a better Match

(B) He had a lof jesting Wit] This Passage of Horacon and Inderstood of him Passage of Horace

(a)Hoint epist 2 l s v 60

(6) Por Tient ator upon Hortce, Paye fo Sec Cruquius on those Mords of Horace (c) Dacier on that Passage of (d)Acron

(e) D10g Laert ubi fugra,

Plut in amatorio p 770 (g) Diog Laert ib a63 D WDlog

(/) Ibid

(m) E 3174

quam si perforatis vasis

aquam

feirent. Ibe M. 50

Patiage of Hora

Carmine (a)

Ille BION

The deletistur tambis

Ille BION

The armonibus & fale nigro

Chabot remarks of this Paffage, that most Interpreters understand the Comedies by Sermones Bioneos

Their Opinion is, That Aristophanes having excell d in the Comick Part, and Aristophanes S Fither's Name having been (b) Bion, the Epithet in question was given to the Comedies

That Picture was tention is groundless Aiftophanes's Lather was call'd Philip (c), and it the Character of Bion Boryshenites be narrowly consider'd, it cannot be doubted, but that those World Horace are meant of him An ancient (d) upon that Poet has hit the Mark, for he Bione s, by Jatyricis, lividis, amaris, cambre maledico Bion autem, he goes on sophistes cornominatus mordacissimis versibus oft usus, quibus ita omnes laceravit ut ne Homero qui-dem parceret. Why should he have spar'd Homer? dem parceret ret autem & spectatorum studiosus, r sumque movere im overstrain things I hus I translate cossino so me, that the Latin I ranslate or Plutarch did not well under the Latin I ranslate th derstand the place where it is said, that the young Beards of handiom Boys, were, as Bion express'd it, to many Harmodius's and Aissogiton's, because they make the Tyranny of Love to cease, as soon as they uppear This is an Instance of those strong, quick and strain'd Expression, that were usual to our sophister Plutarch made asse of the Word englinance, which I think is very ill rendred by that of importantial. Here is the whole Passage (f) E To the opsitioness, a Costant Beauties of the Model Passage. (g) Diog Laert ib

A profit washes in A easy at most in a new the religion of them, but has no made choice of the most religion.

A profit washes in A easy at most in a new than the mode of them, and it is entirely and its entire them.

A profit washes in A easy at most in a new than the mode of the matter in a new to the most interest in a new to the action World Gold be marked in the most interest.

markable (g) The way to the other World, faid he, is very east, People go the her blindfold. He found something contradictory in Funerals, (b) They burn People, as if they were inscribble, and they lament them, as if they were sensible. He took it for a folly, to tear ones Hair in time of affiction, as if a Man was

(m) Exists tear ones Hair in time of affliction, as if a Man was less tear ones Hair in time of affliction, as if a Man was look of a continuous to the manual of the manu cause it is a common Observation, that the Divine Justice, does sometimes punish the Faults of the Fathers upon their Children, he said, that it was more rediculous, than if a Physician should give Physick

To a Son, and a Grand fon to cure his lather's, or his Grand-father's Sickness (n) Plutarch thews the Falifity of that Comparison with great Solidity. It is easy to shew, that there is something false in the most of Bion's witty Concerts. However, they are to the greatest pair the effect of a quick and happy Imagination, and it may be said in general, that most sum libewitty concerts have a falle side. His Impudence of turning Religion into ridicule, ought to have been crimitatives than deep results and to a serious Resistant of the many serious and the same serious are same serious and the restraind, for a serious Refutation does not to re, magis much hum by much, as the Jests of a witty Man Young Persons suffer themselves to be led away by those kind of Mockers, more than can be imagin'd And Bion (o) thou d many of them Which was unavoid ble, confidering the boldness wherewith he made use of his Wit against a false Religion, which Ignorance and Imposture had made an hundred times more ridiculous, than Religion in it felf, and in its true state, is an excellent thing

(Ca) Considering how difficult it is to please several forts of People, had a thought | B on said, that unless a Man was a Tart, or I hasian Wine, it was impossible to please many People Dion Chrisosom tourd that Thought very insignd, for, says he, it has often happend, that when ten Persons sat it a Table, it seem'd to some that a Tart was cold, and Tible, it feem'd to iome that a Tart was cold, and to others that it was hot It may be, adds he, that Don pretended to speak of a lart, that was both hot and cold it the same time (p) An Author, whom I shall often have occasion to retue, thor, whom I shall often have occasion to retute, has fallified this (q) It is reported, sayshe, of Bion the Ph losopher, that to please every body, he wish d himself to be a Tart, because he said every Body losd it, but Dion Chirs softom shews him in the 64th Oration, that he is grossy mistaken, and that his Wish is the true Wish of a Fienetick, because, said he, every body does not love Tarts alike, for some love them hot, and other soid, now will have them round, another source will have them sound, another square, one will have them soft, another hard And therefore, said Dion Chrysostom, Bion should have destr'd to be Gold or Silver, to please every body, and yet, if I might find fault with Dion Chrysostom's Opinion, as he has past his Judgment on that of Bion, I would say, that Dion Chrysostom is as much mistaken as Bion, for several People love neither Gold nor Silver, no more, than if there was none in the World, and therefore I Jay, Such a Desire is a fantastical

(D) Being fallen sick, he did as most impious Men do, (s) P 354 he van into another extremity] I have heard a Gentleman say, that belong d to the Count (r) de Sossons, (t) Ipse that Sainthibal, a famous Unbeliever, made great Complaints, that no Min of their Sect had the gift of Perieverance They do us no honour, faid he, when they lie on their Death Bed, they dishonour and belie themselves, they die like other Men, confessing their Sins, and receiving the Sa-Men, contesting their Sins, and receiving the va-ciament. He might have added, that they com-monly practife the minute part of Superfittion. The Example of Iulius Hostilius, alledged by the Author (s) of the Phoughts on Comets, is admirable on this Subject. A long sickness brought that Prince so low (t), that after having slighted Re-ligion, he fell at last into a great Superstition. This Conduct is not to be wondered at, most of those that live in Protaneness, are only in a doubt, they do not attain to containty, when doubt, they do not attain to certainty, when effet mitherefore they happen to be fick, I religion being nus regino longer of any use to them, they take the safest um quam way, that which promifes an eterial Happineis, facris deif it proves true, and makes them run no hazard, if it fhould prove falle They confess to a mum, rePrieft, they do every thing else, ad majorem cautelam All Readers have admir'd this Thought nibus of Mr Despreaux (v)

superstitionibus obnoxius degeret, religionibusque eti im populum impleret Livius dec 1 lib 1 (v) Sat 1 towar le the end

1Π νόσον παπ-7 × 1/2 1702-ינאי זפטדי. вох и тейли BioDeum di ul ua (fle med)co qui fincpoti ob morbum patris vel cinam adhiberet Plut de min vindista, pae

n 5,

Chryfost Orat 6. p m 61. (9) Garaffe, Do-

Strine cu-

was kill d ın a Battle dan, m the Year loneinquo morbo eft implicitus Tunc adeo fradi fimul cum corpore funt fonitus ıllı fe10ccs, ut ante ratus genes Laertius in Life It 11 in the 4th Book, Sett 46 & leq oj t*ne r*am Sterdam Edition 1692 † His other faults are mended in tle Dutch Edition See Menagius s Notes upon Diogenes Laeitius.

(a) Patin, Letter 64 of the 1st Edition (6) Lib 8

1 4 n 58

p m 333 (c) In B1one, n

(d) Bion laugh d at 1 in one of his Books, as it may be inferr d from Plutarch de Iuperstitione, pag 168 D

(c) Printed Amfterdam in 1693

pudore, P 3,1 E

(g) Not ad Diog I aeit in B10 1c mit

in the Judgment of the Vulgar were Preservatives and Charms Diogenes Laertius 11-Taken in the Judgment of the Vulgar were Preservatives and Charms Diogenes Laertius ridiculed him to some purpose, (E) upon that account Bion suffer'd much in his Sickgenes Laertius in ness, being affished by none of those that took care of the Sick At last, Antigonus of a Salfamentari-Plutarch (G) have not understood a Thought of Bion, that he Censur'd It seems Coaffs Bi-

Des que l'air est calmé rit des foibles humains To this may be referr'd this passage of Guy Patin, (a) "My deceas'd Father told me, that Mr du "Maine the Head of the League said, That Princes " had no Religion before they come to be above I orty Years of Age, when they grow old, - - Cum numina nobis

"Mors instans majora facit"
Concerning these Latin Words, see (b) Silius Itali-And as for the rest, I refer you to the Remark EA of the Article Des Burreaux

(L) Ridiculed him to some purpose on that account]
The Veries he made (c) against him are very pretty, here is a Latin Translation of them

Bionim Borysthenitem quem Scythica tellus produxit, Dixissi audivimus, reverâ nihil esse Deos As siquidim id dogma tueri persitissis, meritò dicen-

Sensife ut visum fuisset, etsi male visum esset At nunc quum in longum morbum incidisset, ac mori pertimesceret

pertimesceret Qui Deos non esse dixerat, qui fanum non viderat, Mortalibus qui illuserat, dum Diss immolarent, Non pro seco solum, arisque ac mensa, Nidore, adipe, thureque Deorum naies implevit Nec solum, peccavi, dixit, delictis parcite, Sed & anui collum facile porrexit excantandum, Bracchiaque (d) loris persuasus devinvit Rhamnumque & lauri ramum janua imposui* Cunita administrare mani quam mori paratus Cuntta administrare magis quam mori paratus Stultus qui mercede voluerit Deos effe

Quali tunc essent, quum illos Bion demum esse arbitraretur

See the vie that Mr du Rondel made of that in his excellent Life (e) of Epicurus What he lays, that Diogenes Laertius was an Epicurean, is remarkable, for this Diogenes infinuates clearly, that he does not blame Bion's Conficer, and his mea cul-

pa, mea maxima culpa, or his peccavi

(F) Birs and Bion have sometimes been confounded with each other] This Plutarch did, when he faid (f) that Antigonus being importund with the repeated Sollicitations of Bias, order d a Talent to be given him He denotes that Antigonus by the Lpithet year, which is a fign that he speaks of the first Antigonus, who was one of Alexander's Captains and Successors Now Bias having preceded the Death of Alexander, at least two hundred Years, it is plain, that he could not ask any thing of Antigonus, and lince Bion was a Disciple of Crates and of Theophrafius, it is certain, that he might be known to Antigonus. We must say then, either that Plutarch is grosly mistaken, or that the Transcribers of his Book have chang'd we Blood into word Blood. I can't well tell (g) whether Aldod to andinus had reason to understand Antigonus Gonatas by the Antigonus, who ask dour Bion, What Country-man he was? I own it possible, that Philosopher might have live dtill the Reign of Antigonus Gonatas. But in short, Plutarch makes him live ex-Genatas But in short, Plutarch makes him live exactly under the old Antigonus, (for I suppose, he said Bion, and not Bias) This deserves some consideration, and therefore I would not say with Morers, that Been lev'd in the 126th Olympiad, and in the time of Antigonus sirnam'd Gonatas King of Maccedonia See the Remark I, hereafter As for what remains, if Plutarch had taken Bias for Bion through an illusion of Memory, he would not be the only Person that committed the like mistake, for En-(4) Lib 6 flathius ascribes to Antisthenes what belongs only to Bion It is on the Verse of the Iliad, (h) made use of by Bion in his Answer to Antigonus, Towns Antisthener the Cynick, made use of those words, atter having aniwer'd the Person, who ask'd him,

Diogenes Laerius in the 47th Paragraph of the 4th thius Book

I shall observe, that the Sophism against Marriage, the Sophism, I say, that is alledged in All the Compendiums of Logick as an Example of a faulty Dilemma, is attributed to Bion and to Antishenes by Diogenes Laertius, and to Bias by Aulus Gellius There may be a Transcriber's fault in the latter, There may be a Transcriber's fault in the latter, Bionis was perhaps chang'd into Biantis, as Casaubon (k) conjectures. However it be, here is our Bions Dilemma (l) If you take a beautiful Wife, she will be common, and if you take an ugly one, she will be a torment to you. Among other defects, this Argument may be retorted thus, If I take an ugly one, she will not be common, if I take a beautiful one, she will be no torment to me. But this Retortion does not hit the thing it is but a palliative remody. will be no torment to me But this Retortion does not hit the thing, it is but a palliative remedy, so that Bion's Dilemma is worth nothing, take it any way. The true Answei is to say, is, That most Women are neither beautiful nor ugly, and therefore Bion concludes shom a small number to all the generality. See Favorinus in the 11th Chapter of the 5th Book of Aulus Gellius 2dly, That the Beauty of a Woman, is not inconsistent with Virtue, and that an ugly Wife may make herself well-belov'd by her Husband (m). There is a (n) Commentator upon Aulus Gellius, that constutes Biog's Arby her Husband (m) There is a (n) Commentator upon Aulus Gellius, that confutes Bias's Argument by a Reason borrowd from the Hebrews, which is, says he, That they who have been illustry'd, shall be absolved before GOD, without appearing before his Tribunal This is worth marrying an ugly Wife If St Chrysoftom was to be a Judge in the case, he would condemn the Retortion of the Dilemma, for he Preach'd, That those who have a beautiful Wife, find nothing worse than to have her, (it is a possession for full of Suspicions and Snares,) and those that have an ugly one, find nothing worse than to have her, it is seems to seems to one, find nothing worse than to have her, it is feems to fuch a disgustful thing (o) O καλ το γυναϊκα εδεγ χίου ενα το καλν έχαν γυναικα (υποφικτ πασόγμα γίμαν με βαθαλικ) το συσιότη, εδεν χείου εναι τω αμορεοι έχαν γυ-ναικα ανδίας δε το πασόγμα εμπίπληςτα: Qui pulchram the two particular habet unerem nihil pijus esse aut quam pulchram habet unerem nihil pijus esse ait quam pulchram habete unerem, sesse ait quam pulchram habete unerem, sesse ait quam pulchram ces of the plenam) qui desormem, nihil pijus esse dicit quam Dilemma turpem habete unerem, rem enim esse acerbitatis refertam. This Preacher does not talk at random, he goes upon the authority or the Confession of Men, who knew it by Experience, neverthelets, his Conclusion is not better than that of Bion. To condemn the Retortion of the Dilemma, it would be sufficient to say, That it contains two wrong Consequences. If I take a beautiful says the same and the same consequences. Bion To condemn the Retortion of the Dilemma, it would be sufficient to say, That it contains two wrong Consequences Is I take a beautiful one she will be no torment to me, nego consequentiam, for it may be so, and it may not be so Is I take an ugly one, she will not be common, nego similiter consequentiam, for it may be so, and it may not be so But to put a stop to all those Quibbles, one needs only tell the Biai's and the Bion's, I will nagium

I have not mentioned verall the Variations that I have not mention'd yet all the Variations that ubi supra, concern this Dilemma I may full transcribe what n 48

I have read in (p) Traquellus upon it That horn'd Argument is not only ascrib'd to Bion, and to suppress the Discount of the superior of the to Antifibenes by Dogenes Laertius, and to Bien, and Aulus Gellius, but also to Arifippius by the Monk Commubi(q) Antony, and to Solon by Maximus Tyrius, and by al p m (r) Peter Martyr The Retortion was made by Pit- 32 (q) Antony, and to soion by remaining (r) Peter Martyr The Retortion was made by Pistacus, if we may believe the Commentaries of Aritable (s) Stobaus

from, quoted by (s) Stobeus

(G) The Translators of Plutarch have not understood (q) In a Thought of Bion] Let us first set down the Greek Melissa, of Plutarch (t) Eunon many y a Converse m and Bion , is town 2 c.

(r) In locis communibus, e 39 (s) Serm 65 (s) Plut de adulat & amici discrim pag 59

Qui fait l'homine intrepide, & tremblant de foiblesse Whose Son he was? I am the Son of a Man (1) that Attend pour croire en Dieu que la fieure le presse, Et toujours dans l'orage an Giel levant les mains, that mistake of Eustathius See Mr Mende on to on in Laertius made the Answer AN Examination

> Marriage (k) In Diog Laert

Dilimma

narras

heir Surans Cod Recht Esse noirsis , Siturpem pœnam habebis fik autem formofam, com-approve by his silence the two to me that (H) Bion's Sophism, which Seneca answer'd solidly, was but an Argument ad benissent, by which he would conclude, that the Doctrine concerning GOD's Emad homesment, by which he would conclude, that the Doctrine concerning GOD's Empire over all Things, contains some Contradictions I don't know where Konig found that Bion (I) dy'd in the 4th Year of the 134th Olypiad

Without doubt, Theon speaks of him, when he says, * That according to the Sophister Bion, Avarage is the greatest of all Wickednesses A Sentence that has been consider my Canonized by the great Apostle of the Gentiles Plutarch ascribes a Maxim to him, that is worthy of the most Orthodox Philosophers, which was, to tell his Scholars, have received the fame tranquility of Mind those that abus'd them, as well as those that treated them civilly, they might believe that they are the them had made a considerable proceed in Vienna His Archive the Philosophers of the North Mind those that abus'd them, as well as those that treated them civilly, they might believe that they are the theory had made a considerable proceed in Vienna His Archive the Minds William believe that they had made a confiderable progress in Virtue His Answer to Theogras Phista vi-(L) has not so much Morality in it.

BIRON, Marshal of France Look for GONTAUT

BLANC (Lewis le) Professor in Divinity at Sedan Look for BEAULIEU bat a BLANCHE of Cafeile, the Mother of St. Lewis King of France Look for Then CASTILE.

BLAN-

progym cap PAE 72

lin dice-

bat avarı-

(a) 'O jit yb' ayegs u yi slan ywega STOUTH FLEYOF avdeomor A พาคัยส พ or funging na may a flas Emanilles "Atque ager quidem laudando non fit deterior hominem inflant ac perdunt QUI IMImerito laudant Id ibid

to a neg v lusting εγαφιμαζων ευροεμ ποιείν ε) ευπο επον, ουχ αν αμαρτάιεκι έδουμ τέτο ποιών μείνου » σκαπτω ες σοεφ-γιματα ίχων ε τομυν κε αθεροπών αντοπων άι είν επαφών, οι τοϊε επαφιμανικ ωριλιμός ετι εχ ταμφορώ. That is to fay, Βιοπ's Thought is therefore very impertinent He believ d, that if he could make a Field fruitful by bestowing Praises upon it, he should not be to blame if he chose rather to praise it, than to take the paints of Navure it. Therefore one must not be called an painte of he enoge rather to praise it, than to take the paints o Manure it Therefore one must not be call a an absurd Manure praying others, if his praises are useful to them, and make them produce good Fruit The impertinence that Plutarch finds in that Thought, is that a (s) I stell would not become worse by being praised, whereas the Praises that are bestowed upon a Man that does not deserve them, fill him with Nanyay and Good him. This Confuse of Plutarch on a man that does not delerve them, fill him with Vanity, and spoil him. This Censure of Plutaich is lost labour, for Bion did not say absolutely, that one must praise others, but he made Praises depend upon this Condition, viz. That they would make those better that should be prais'd. Let us see how Amyor translates Plutaich's Greek. "Where- fore Bion's Saying is foolish and filly. for he arfore Bion's Saying is foolish and filly, for he argued thus, If I could make a Field fruitful by praising it much, I should not commit a fault in "praising it much, I should not commit a rault in "praising it, rather than tire my Heart and Body "in Manuring and Cultivating it Therefore, neither does he commit a fault that praises a "Man, if by praising him, he makes him useful "and fruitful to him that praises him" In this Translation the Active Verb is taken for the Passive, for Bion did not speak of the Utility of Praises with respect to the passive translation to the passive translation to the passive translation. with respect to him that praises, but with respect to him that is prais'd. The Latin Interpreter has stumbled more grosly, he imputes this foolish and ridiculous Thought to Bion, to have believ'd, (b) that a Field became more fruitful by praising, than by cultivating it Stulte itaque ac fatue Bio qui agrum laudando putabat se redditurum fertilem ac si ugiserum, potius quam sodiendo & colendo Non tamen (c) homo absurde sacit laudans, ubi id iis qui laudantur est utile. To excuse Amyot, it might be said, that he thought that Bion being in Atheist, acknowledged no other Duties but what are profitable, and that therefore his meaning was, that Praises ought to be bestow'd wherever they are well paid for, and that they should not be refus'd even to a Field, if they could make it fruitful. In a word, That the Trade of Flattering is not to be blim'd, provided it be attended with Profit. But this excuse, is altogether idle, a Translator ought faithfully to deliver what he finds in the Original, and refer his Conjectures to particular Remarks. If one thinks, that Plutarch did not relate a thing exactly, let him give notice of it to the Readers, but what Plutarch said must be translated

(H) Bion's Sophism which Seneca Bion (d) prethat Bien being in Atheist, acknowledged no other

Plutarch faid must be translated

(H) Bion's Sophism which Seneca] Bion (d) pretended to pro two very different things, the one, That all Thieves were Sacrilegious Men, the other, That no Thief was Sacrilegious He drew those two Consequences from the same Principles, and that Principle is one of the most solid Truths that good Philosophy teaches us concerning the Nature of GOD The Supreme Being, the most Perfect Being ought to have an absolute Empire over all things, all other Beings depend on him, they belong to Him, as to their Author and Preserver Doubtless Bion's Design was to result that Doctrine by two contradictory and refute that Doctrine by two contradictory and permicious Consequences, which he pretended he could draw from it Here-is one of them, All those that rob what belongs to GOD, are Sacrilegious, now all Thieves 10b what belongs to GOD, for all Things belong to him Therefore all Thieves are Sacrilegious Here 1s the other To transport a thing from one place that belongs to GOD to another place that belongs to him also, is no Sacrilege Now those that rob Churches, do only carry things from one place that belongs to GOD to another, that belongs to him also, for all things belong to GOD. Therefore those this rob Churches do not commit a Sacrilege. Seneca refutes those Quirks easily and folidly, but he represents Bion to himself as a Tyrant that would be cruel at certain times, and at other times plunder Churches. When he would be cruel, he makes use of his sirst Syllogism, It is a Decree to precipitate all Robbers. And he makes use of the scoond, when he desires to enrich himself with the Spoils of Holy-places. only carry things from one place that belongs to cond, when he defires to enrich himself with the Spoils of Holy-places

(1) That Bion dy'd in the 4th Year of the 134th Olympiad I have supposed (e) before, that Plutarch made our Bion to flourish in the Reign of the first Antigonus, and I have not found Aldobrandinus's opinion very certain, (viz) That that Plulosopher was examin'd about his Birth by Antigonus Gonatas To make this more clear, I ought to tay here that Fratashhenes had known Bion at Athens. fay here, that Eratofthenes had known Bion at Athens, a Gown and reckon'd him among his Heroes It cannot be thick fet reasonably question'd, but that Strabo, (1) who informs us of this, meant Bion Borysthenita, for what the says that Eratosthenes alcrib'd to he says that the says the says that the says that the says that the says that the says the says the says that the says that the says that the says the says that the says that the says that the says that the says the says that the says that the says that the says that the says the says that the says that the says that the says that the says the says that the says that the says the says that the says the says that the says that the says that the says that the says that the says that the says that the says the says that the say the fays that Eratesthenes alcrived to his kion, is (m) the fame thing that Eratesthenes ascribes in Diogenes to the fame thing that Eratesthenes as born (f) in the 1st Year of the 126th Olympiad, it must necessarily be granted, that Biom as attained at least to the beginning of the 131st, for homeometrical are Eratesthenes's acquiring a consider and the states of the same eratesthenes's acquiring the same transfer of the same eratesthenes's acquiring the same eratesthenes's acquiring the same eratesthenes's acquiring the same eratesthenes's acquiring the same eratestates acquiring the same eratesthenes's acquiring the same eratesthenes's acquiring the same erates and the same eratesthenes's acquiring the same erates and the same erates are the same erates and the same erates are the same erates and the same erates are the same erates under Twenty Years of age Eratofthener's acquintance with him had not deferved to be mention d I fee but one difficulty in this Supposition, which is, that I observe that the Learned Mr du Rondel Laeit 14 is, that I observe that the Learned wif an Konael Lacit I a intimates (g) that Epicurus furvir d Bion Now Epicurus dy'd in the 2d Year of the 127th Olympiad Stribo, I only propose this difficulty to ingage Mi du Rondel to clear this Point of Chronology learn-Corre led

edly

(K) If they acquired so much Constancy] "Bion told bon, Jays the frends, that they then might be assured as Reproof "Proficiency, when they could endure a Reproof the from any Body, with the sune indifferency and unconcernedness as they could hear the highest "Encomium's, even such an one as this of the highest "Base". Poet

" Some Heavenly Flame inspires your Breast, " Live great, rejoice, and be for ever blest "Live great, rejoice, and be for ever blest place."

Plutarch has reason to observe, that the Rule of Bion, is rather a sign of a consist and pertect Habit of our Soul, than a meer sign of Amendment It is in truth, a Character of Perfection

(L) His Answer to Theogens | Plutarch has it, and speaks well of it Their are his Words (t) (k) Plut and witty also was that of Bion to Theogens, seek virusing,

"And witty also was that of Bion to Theogens, seek virusing,

"One cannot (a), nor do, if poor he be

" faying,

"One cannot say, nor do, if poor he be
"His Tongue is bound to the Peace, as well as he
"His Tongue is bound to the Peace, as well as he
"How comes it to pass then, said he, Theognis, that "thyself being so poor, pratest and gratest our Ears in this manner?" The insolont and insulting Spirit de audiof that Philosopher appears here, a poor Poet, end Poewho complains that Poverty tyes his Tongue, tis, p 2...
ought not to be treated in that manner, to though

(e) In the

RemarkF

Φασι λιγισ

ne de Hist Gr

(b) You'll find in the matters, Bion agrum laudando fertiliorem fieri putabat

(c) Here is tamen well plac d'

(d) Sec Seneca, chap 7 of the 7th Book de beneficus No Commentator observes whether Soneci bad found that Arument of Bion in a-, my of the ancient Aut bors that are extent

* Biblioth Antitrinit pag 28 † That Piece 11

of Valentinus Gentilis

† Taken from the 322 Letter of Calvin

Post varias deliberationes ita fors tulit ut Blandrata qui Medicinam diu ınPolonia deinde in Tranfylvania a-pud Reginas fecerat, eò reverteretur Beza epift

(1) Pluriqua non audent homines pertufa dicere laena Tuven v 130

(a) Theognis v 173

BLANDRATA (George) an Iralian Physician, born in the Marquiface (1) of Saluces, liv'd in the XVIth Century He sled from "Pavila, where the Inquisition had play'd him some ill Trick, and retir'd (B) to Geneva. He embrac'd the Protestant Religion there, and at first, he edify'd the Church by his Conduct and Design the Con cility, but it was perceived afterwards that he attack d privately the Divinity of JESUS CHRIST He was not contented to forced his Difficulties among the Ignorant Social but proposed them also to the Minister of the Italian Church. That Minister, who printed as many Calvin's Opufcula was of the Family of the Count's of Marinnengue rejectable him, and would not fo much as make use of him in his, or his Wife's Sickness, the earnestly offer'd him his Services Calvin, to whom the same Defficulties had been proposed an hundred times, service of the next Day, was at last angry with Blandrata, and (C) created him harring. New overtheless he continued to salute him, and to speak to him: and was also sales and was also sales. vertheless he continued to salute him, and to speak to him; and was also se complainant as to answer his † Objections in writing. But having discover a Trap was laid for him in requiring an Answer in writing, he would hear Blands to more. It is reported that that Heretick accused Calvin publickly for something this he had writ, and that his Accusation was convinced of falsity by the exhibition of the Original. Some time after the Consistory of the Italian Church made the proceedings, of which I speak it of the proceeded against for speak || clsewhere Culom affur'd Blandrata, that he should not be proceeded against for his past faults, but Blandrata durst not trust to it; for having some Days after, seen one of the Syndicks of the Republick come into the Auditory of Divinity, where he heard a Lecture of Calvin, he pretended to bleed at the Nose, and fled (D) as fast as he could, and came no more to Geneva + Having formerly practis'd Physick  at Poland and He west into Poin Transylvania, he pitch'd upon that Stage to dogmatize quietly lands though Experience shews often, that want of Bread and Clothes makes one very talkative, yet And having been a Physician of Reputation in it is certain, that there are many things (i) a Man ill-clothed dares not say. I say, it is certain, that Queens, he chose rather (d) to reture thither, that though Experience shews often, that want of Bread and Clothes makes one very talkative, yet it is certain, that there are many things (1) a Man ill-clothed dares not say, I say, it is certain, that Indigence benumns the Hands of several People, and stops their Mouths, as Theogenis observed. And therefore he was of Opinion, that a Man should use his utmost endeavours to get himself tid of Misery, and that Death itself ought to be preferred to Poverty

And a sand that Death itself ought to be preferred to Poverty

Real presentation, Repts, a minale
"his on xon peuperm is it insummations

Printen is where, Kepts, now while the state of the peuperminal of the state of the server of t

Tedrana othe Kupe merzen platem artet,
"H Zweer zahenn rechauer mule Virum bonum paupertus, quam aliu res omnes domas

Et quam senettus cana, Cyrne, & quam febres

Quam quidem paupertatem oportes fugero, & in Projecere, & petras, Cyrne, contra altus

Omnis enim vir paupertate domitus, neque quicquam dicere,

Neque facere potest lingua verò illi ligata est Oportet igitur simul super terram & lata dorsa maris, Quercre gravis, Cyrne, liberationem paupertutis Mori, 6 amice Cyrne, pauperi melius est viro, Quam vivere dura assistum paupertate Thiognii's Words mention'd by Plutarch, are to be found in those Verses But because that Theognis liv'd a long time before our Bion, Plurarch cannot be excus'd, for if he speaks of that Bion, he is a very bad Chronologer, and if he speaks of another Bion, he is in the wrong not to acquaint his Readers with it I cannot tell whether any Body did ever take notice of this fault

(A) Born in the Marguifate of Saluces] Who would not admire, that Mr Morer: should think there is a great difference between Piedmont and that Marquilate? Blandrata, fays he, was a Piedmontois Others fay, he was a Native of the Marquifate of Saluces. These are in no ways two different Opinions. Those that made him a Piedmontois, did not pretend to place that Marquifate out of Piedmont, they took Piedmont in its general signification, as the usual, when one does not design to explain all the Duke of Sanus's Dominions exactly, and Geothe Duke of Savey's Dominions exactly and Geographically Now it is certain, that in that fense the Marquiste of Saluces is part of Pleasants Sce

Baudi and Dictionary
(B) And retir'd to Geneva Meren makes him go from Prova to Poland, and fays nothing of his Journey to Geneva This is no ways exact Blandrata was more than once in Poland, which ought to have been observed. He practised Physick there before he went to Gineva. He had also practised elsewhere, when he thought he could not be safe Beza's 8; in Geneva nor in Swifferland This is one of those Leser quo-Combinations of Moral and Physical things, of ted in the which Father Mullet anche speaks, in his Trensise of That of the Wature and Grace How comes it that Poland with decide. Nature and Grace How comes it that Poland wind Translivania were sooner insected with the Errors of the Socimians than another Country a It is because the general Laws, that excite our Natural Passions and our Reason, would have it, that George Blandraia being forc'd to seek a Retreat, should rather pitch upon a Place where he was very well acquamted, than upon an unknown Country This is the reason why he went from Geneva to Paland, and when he was the worth from Geneva and Socimus to come to him is the same and Socimus to come to him is the same than the Great, a Prince of Analysboania, whose Physician he was, became his troublyte, & However it be, Moreri should have that, that Blandraia had been a Physician in Poland and in Transformana, before the Physician in Poland and in Transylvania, before the Inquificion of Paois laid hands on him, that being fled from Pavis, he went to Geneva, and leaving Geneva, he return'd to Poland

(C) and created him harfily | Calvin makes for the confess how impartly he spoke to him scruple to confess how imartly he spoke to him fee by your Face what a detestable Monster you feed in your

Mears Here is the whole passage (c) Eodem rempore suis quastianibus futigabat Calvinum, coque magu quad cum subtrade singeres se placasum esse or acquiescere responsis, postridie redibat quasi novus, nec desinesas au spla dequibus sape audierat, sciscium: Itaque cidisus esse es Calvinus: in faciem dicere, vultus suus desquable monstrum mini ostendis quod in corus suus desquable monstrum mini ostendis quod in curus passas desquable geres persidium, or fallucias dolosque vursusos,
geres persidium, or fallucias dolosque vursusos, fastidio eras quodammodo desessus.

(D) And sed as sus as occuration to the could see missis are missisken about the time that the tagentum. They say, he did not leave it to see

They fay, he did not leave the fill the Geneva They fay, he did not leave the fill the Geneva They fay, he did not leave the fill the Geneva They fay, he did not leave the fill the Geneva They fay, he did not leave the fill the Geneva of Bern But this is falle Geneville did not go away till after the had made an becompable amand in all the crofs Streets of the City the 2d of September 1558 (a) Advingatione per compile civitation of the City the 2d of September 1558 (a) Advingatione per compile civitation for the City the 2d of September 1558 (a) Advingatione per compile civitation for the City the 2d of September 1558 (a) Advingatione per compile civitation for the City the 2d of September 1558 (a) Advingatione per compile for the City the 2d of September 1558 (a) Advingatione per compile fill the Calvant of September 1558 (a) Advingatione profit for the City the 2d of September 1558 (a) Advingatione per compile for the City the 2d of September 1558 (a) Advingatione per compile fill the City the 2d of September 1558 (a) Advingatione per compile fill the City the 2d of September 1558 (a) Advingatione per compile civilian the Calvant.

Sequents for the City the 2d of September 1558 (a) Advingatione per compile civilian the Calvant.

Sequents for the City the 2d of September 1558 (a) Advingatione per compile civilian the Calvant.

Sequents for the City the 2d of September 1558 (a) Advingatione per compile civilian the Calvant.

Sequents for the City the 2d of September 1558 (a) Advingatione per compile civilian the Calvant.

Sequents for the City the 2d of Sequents for the City the 2d of September 1558 (a) Advingatione per city the 2d of Sequents for the City the 2d of they did not go from thence till after Marryr had

(6) See the Pallage of lind in the Year 1558 and was honourably receiv'd there by those of the Protestant Religion Calvin made him see that so considerable a Divine (E) as he was, could reach him there. He writ several Letters to the Faithful in Poland, whereby he ex- Antitrin horted them to drive that Man from imong them, who might infect the Purity of the ubi supra Faith with his Herefies The impressions that those Letters made, did very much cross the Design of George Blandata, but nothing prov'd so contrary to him, as the See also Discords that arose among those, who like him opposed the Mystery of the Tri-Calvin puty. But notwithstanding those Discords the Samuel Hardward Calvin Discords. nity But notwithstanding those Discords, the Societan Heresy was settled some epost 320 time after in those Parts. He changed his Scene in the Year 1563 having been *Lattis, invited into Transplvania + by Prince fold Signmund We must not forget that at his compend coming into Poland, he was made Elder of the Churches under the Jurisdiction of History coming filed Folume, he was made Ended of the Standards under the Juffide the Times of Cracow, and that in the Year 1560 the Synod of Xianz, to which he had brought the Sum of Six hundred Crowns from Nicolas Radzivil & great Chancelloi of Itthus. - P m 412 mia, made him and his good Friend Lifmaninus Affiffants to Cruciger, who was Super- & Id ib intendant of the Churches They were willing to give him some Collegues left the Ecclesiastical Government should too much resemble Papacy? Neither must we see forget, that in the Year 1561 Blandrata appear'd in the Synod of Pinezovia with Maint-house Letters of Recommendation from Nicolas Radzivil, $(E\triangle)$ and that he deliver'd Hiff de a Confession of Latth there, by virtue of which the Assembly gave him an honour is 1 Amania b'e Testimonial Hiving retir'd into Translvania, where he was supported with me t, the Favour of John Sigismund, whose Physician he was, and with that of Petrovite $\frac{p}{346}$ of the Munister et State, he made his Heresy appear boldly, and chiefly after the chief Minister et Stite, he made his Herely appear boldly, and chiefly after the butch publick Dispute which he maintain'd with Francis David against some Reformed Doctors, in the presence of the whole Court, in the Year 1560. The Prince adher'd HMaimb intirely to the Antitrinitarian Party, and 14 dy'd in that Persussion in Blandiati, in p 301 Hands, in the Year 1570 That Heistick did not wint new Pitions, he wis Phy-but le Jays

(r) Ifor-Eccles pag ,51 edit 1687

(a) Bibho- Antitiin pag Hittor reformat Polonicx, pag

(b) Pag m 412

(1) Beza epist 81

(d) H1stoire de 1 Arian tom 3 pag 345 of the Dutch Edition

(c) In the Remark K

given them that Advice The mistake of Hornius is worse still He says (1) that B'enchata and Aleiatus being strighten'd with the courtion of Servetus and G. 11 s, went from Su fieland to Poland, and that hiving been expelled from Poland in the Yea 1565 Ale atus urn'd Mahometan, and Blanaratassed into Transsevania incre is nothing of Iru h in it I have constituted the prevended Mahonetism of John Paul Aleiatus elsewhere, and I say here, that Blands at a retird into Poland the same Year that he left Geneva, that is, in the Year 1558 Now Geneils hiving been Beheaded in the Tame Year that he left General, that is, in the Year 1558 Now Generals hiving been Beheaded in the Year 1566 one may eafily judge, whether it could be the reason why Blandrata left Swifferland, and fled into Poland If that Punishment hid made him resolve to fly into that Country, could be have him resolve to fly into that Country, could he have been expell'd from it in the Year 1565? (a) Some Persons that are more to be credited about those matters than Hornius, affirm, that John Sigismund Prince of Transslvania, sent for Blandrasia about the Year 1563 It was not therefore a Decree of Banishment that oblig'd him to fly from Poland into Transslvania in the Year 1565 John Latiu has committed a surprizing mistake in his Abridgment of (b) Universal History In three Lines, he makes two Men of the Physician Blandrasa, and of George Blandrasia. As to the first, he says, That the Synod of Xianz made him an Affistant to the Su-Synod of Xianz made him an Affiftant to the Su-Synod of Xianz made him an Allistant to the Supul-intendent of the Churches in the Year 1560 and he supposes, that the second went into Paland when the Disorders occasion'd by Stancarus, were hidly over Which is a new Lye The Disputes that Stancarus had rais'd, by maintaining, that JESU'S CHRIST is not a Mediator as to his Divine Nature, were in their heighth at the arrival of Bandrata (c) Tum autem force Francisci Stancari Mantuani petulantissimi hominis importunitate (ut sand Elindrata (c) Tum autem forte Francisci Stancari Mantuani petulantissimi hominis importunitate sut sand fatalis esse videtur Polonis Italia) scissa erant Polonica Ecclosa But all this is nothing in comparison of Father Maimbourg's Anachronisms. He says our Blandrata (d) went into Transslvania in the Year 1553. He supposes, that in the same Year Prince John Sigismund took delight to hear his Physician, when setting up for a Divine, he spoke like a Philosopher of the Trinty, which he term'd a Chimera. He adds, that this Prince durst not yet declare himself, as well because hu Mother, Queen Habella a most Catholick Princess, was still living, as because Soliman did not desire that manySects should be tolerated. This concerns the Year 1555. He says, that out of complaisance to Soliman, all the Hereticks were banish'd, but that the Queen and Soliman dying soon after, in the Year 1566 the Innovators return'd and enjoy'd a great Liberty, and that it was then that Blandrata corrupted the greatess part of the Court Blandrata corrupted the greatest part of the Court What a strange way of relating things! How many falsities! We shall see hereaster, (e) Varillai's Anachron: Sms and V fions

(L) So confiderable a Divine as he was, could reach him] It appears from Calvin's Letters, that the Churches of Poland conceived a great Efteen and Affection for Blandrata, but it appears illo from the Socialian Histories, that Calvin's Letters were look dupon as a Perfecution that forc'd Blandrata to retire elsewhere Here are the Proofs of those two tive ellewhere Here are the Proots of those two things (f) Valde miror hominem quem sola oftentation fastuosus vultus commendat canti apud vos sieri, ut quasi novus Atlas Ecclesiam sustineat suu humeris ut quasi novus Atlas Ecclesiam sustineat sus humeris Certe taminconsiderata credulitatus nistima puderet gentem vestram non amarem (g) Unum non dissimulo, eos quitam humaniter Georgium Blandratam exceperumt parum suisse cautos & providos, & male consuluisse vestra existimationi. Magu etiam miror quos dam primaria autioritatis viros graviter offendi quod libere hominem detexerim (h) Ergo non vulgare fecit opera pretium longo itinere quod tantum sibi nomen acquiserit. Nullus est apud alias gentes, vos admiraacquisierit Nullus est apud alias gentes, vos admira-mini non secus atque Angelum è calo delapsum Vistras delicias minime vobus invideo You ice how zealously Calvin expresses his Anger, because Blandrata had found to many Bubbles that admir'd him, and format were offended at a (1) publick Writing wherein Polon he was defam'd, Let us fee now the proofs of the Pag 126 he was detam'd. Let us lee now the proots of the Pag 120 operation of that Remedy (k) Calvinus his non contentus Blandratam quum alia ratione non posset liter (l) Ibid rus in Poloniam missis persequi, apud patronos & fraires pag 170 acriter criminari, sta cunsta ad eum perdendum agere Illae ejus litera sidem in muliorum animus invenerant (l) Quam ille (Blandrata) voca- Antitrin tionem tanto alacrius amplexus est, quod eum Calvinus pag 28 missis per Poloniam & Lituaniam literis persequi non destievit, ita ut ei iutam in hus orus vitam accre per destiterit, ita ut ei tutam in hu oris vitam agere per destiterit, ita ut ei tutam in hu orus vitam agere per ejus cacozeliam non licuerit prout in superioribus exposu mus (m) Cum nec hic quiete degere possit, cating to nus dedicating to him his id Answer to Volanus, concessi in Answer to Answer to Answer to Volanus,
calls him,
strum (n) & consiliarium intimum (E) With Letters of Recommendation from Nicolas Radzivil, and that he delivered a Consession of Faith there] What Calvin had writ to that great Polish Lord to acquaint him, that George Blandrata icin fread of 1570

> (f)Calv1nus epist

> epist 320

cpist ,21

(1) Tis the Pr Jace of tary on the Apostles for Re-

(n) Socie bim his ad An/wer to Volanus, Archiater Polish Lord to acquaint him, that George Blandrata hatch'd Servetus's Herefies in his Bosom, had not hatch'd Servetus's Herefies in his Bosom, had not timus yet produc'd its necessary effect, Blandrasa had warded off the Blow by his Artifices, for Nicolas Radzivil made great Complaints of the Churches Behaviour towards Blandrasa, and declar'd, that Calvin had dealt unjusty and rashly with him (o) Homo Iste facile technis suit fallacibus, optimo principi sucum facit, adeo ut ille iratus John Calvino, Blandrasa nomine suo ad Synodum Principione, Blandrasa nomine suo ad Synodum Principione, An 1561 25 Jun babitam, delegaret cum literus, quibus serio expossulabat in causa Blandrasia cuma Reclessa, dicebatque malè & pracipitanter esisse J Calvinum, quod Blandrasa, dratam,

* See the Remark E towards the end

+ Wiffowatius narrat compend Antitiinit pag 213

*Biblioth Antitrin p 10 28

ubi iupra, p 361 cx Reicio de Lvangel

Vide Histor reformat Polon

p vg 1, & Bibl Antiti 185, 186

Appai PAE 25

(f) In the Remark I

(g) Hoombeeck, Appar pag 26 Konig, 15 m staken time Peri-it Says be, in lecto ftrangulatus per fratruelem quem hæredem constituerat un 1560

fician to Stephen and Christopher Battori, Princes of Transstrains He was also Stephen's Physician, when that Prince enjoy'd the Kingdom of * Poland, and even a Member of his Privy-Council He oppos'd with all his might Francis David, who not being contented to deny the Divinity of JESUS CHRIST, with the other Unitarians, maintain d moreover, that he ought not to be worshipped. caus'd Faustus Socious to come to his affistance from \downarrow Swisserland, to oppose him against Francis David, I say, he made him come to Transslvania in the Year 1578 where he was Prince Christopher Battori's Physician The favour wherein he found himself with the King of Poland, made him take so much desire to hoard up Richards for tear of cooling that Prince's Liberality, he forsook (F) the Interest of the Polaritarians, and began to savour the Jesuits He was yet living about the Year 1585 when Bellarmin writhis Treatile de Christo, but he was dead in the Year 1592, when Socious writ against Wuiekus I ather Maimbourg † relates, that Blandrata became mad, and that he was knock don the Head by one of his Nephews, who carry'd all his coney away I don't know whether what is said of his Madness, may be credit but the other Fact is certain, and has been imputed to a Judgment of GO whoth by the (G) Orthodox, and the Heterodox The List of Blandrata's (H) Works may be seen in the Bibliotheque of the Anti-Trinstarians They had such an ill opinion of his Pen at Geneva, that it was believ'd there, that the Writings that came out in his Name were (I) revis'd by another In the Remark D, I shall take notice of several sails. Dates concerning his Adventures, and in the Remark I, of several Miveral false Dates concerning his Adventures, and in the Remark I, of several Mistakes concerning his Errors Before I conclude, I must observe, that the Unitarian + Historians speak of the disguis'd Confession of Faith that he gave to the Synods of Poland

Varillas's

dratam traduceret, & Servetismi notaret Blandrata pleaded his Cause in the Synod very boldly and cunningly Here is the Confession that he delivercunningly refer is the Contention that he delivered, it was very Orthodox (c) Fateor me credere in unum Deum Patrem, in unum Doninum Jesum Christum Elium ejus, & in unum Spiritum Sanctum quorum gas 86

(c) Id ib pag 86

rum quilibet cft essentializer Deus Deorum pluralitatem detessor, cum unus nobis ssit tantum Deus essentia in divisibilis Fateor tras esse algentationem etc. Spiritum divisibilis Fateor tras esse distinct as hypostases & aternam Christ divinitatem at generationem, & Spiritum Sanctum verum & aternum Deum ab utroque procedencem

The effect of that Confession was such, that the Synod supply'd him with a good Certificate, which appear'd also by the Letters that the Assembly writ to Nicolas Radzivil, and to John Calvin (d)

(f) He forsook the Interest of the Unitarians] This we learn tiom Socious, who complains of it in his Answer to P Whichus He confess, that Blandrata hid done their Sect many Services, de nostris Ecclesiis aliquando praclare est many Services, de nostris est many Services, de nostris est many Services, de nostris est many Service imo eo tandem devenisse, ut vix existimarctur priorem quam tantopere soverat de Deo & Christo sententiam retinere, sed potius Jesuitis qui in ea Provincia tunc temporis Stephani Regis & ejus fratris Christophori, Principis haud multo ante vita functi, ope ac liberalitate Principis haud multo ante vita Juntti, ope ac liberalitate non mediocriter forebant, jam adharere, aut certe, cum ess quodammodo colludere. Illud certissimum est eum ab eo tempore quo liberalitatem quam ambiebat, regis Stephani erga se est expertus, capisse quosdam ex nostris hominibus quos carissimos prius habebat & suis opibus juvabat, spernere ac desercre, etiam contra promissa & observationem suam, & tandem illos penitus deservisse, aque omni vera ac sincera pietatis studio valeduxise, & solique cunis congerendis intentum suise, qua sortase, sussissimo des valeca, quod eravissimo mum axercere solet cantra tale. Dei judicio, quod gravissimum exercere solet contra tales disertores, et necem ab eo quem suum haredem secerat, concellarunt It is said, that his Brother's Son strangled him in his fleep

gled him in his fleep

(G) Both by the Orthodox, and by the Heterodox]

We have feen (f) how Socious applies to him the Judgment of GOD, which he is not to exercise with great severity against those that forsake his Cause for worldly Interests. If Father Mainbourg had had any knowledge of Blandrata's kindness to the Jesuits, he would not have judg'd of his End as he did, and would not have added Madness to it. But let us hear a learned Divine of Leyden (g) A states for file in lette incens sufficients for foreness. fatris sui filio in letto jacens suffocatus fuit sane non extra sustam Dei ultionem in hominem quem primum in istis Ecclesiis execuanda herasis, multarum in Deum & ejus veritatem blasshemiarum, librorum horrendissimorum turbarumque gravissimarum autsorom non aliser quam singulari diroque mortis genere occumbere opor-

(H) The Lift of Blandrata's Works] There are two forts of 'em Some belong but in part to him, others feem to belon; wholly to him Among the latter there are fome Theses, some Letters and some Observations concerning the Invocation of JFSUS CHRIST, that have only been Printed in other Books Most of them have been inserted in a Piece that James Paleologus publish'd in 1580 wherein he refutes the Judgment of the Polish Churches upon Francis David's Cause As to the Works whereigh the chief are the Blandrata had only a share, the chief are the Conferences held at Alba Julia, the one in 1566, and the other in 1568 the Book Intituled, De falls vera unius Dei Patris, Filis & Spiritus Santti cognitione, authoribus Ministris Ecclosiarum consintientium in Sar-matia & Transsituania, Printed at Alba Julia in the Year 1567 (h) And that which is Intiuled, Refutatio Scripti Georgii Majoris in quo Deum trinum in personis O unum essentia, unicum deinde ejus silium in persona o duplicem in naturis exclusivas Antichristi probare conatus ess, Printed in the trans 1569 (1) Hoornbeeck complains justly, the transfer the trenticks had inserted some abominable in the transfer t which had ferv'd to represent the limity rank of borrenda Papistarum simulacra qua aterna (1) Appaoblivione, & executatione sepelienda erant potius rat p 27 non detegenda illa pudenda, & prostituenda coram of also p hue dre (k) which had ferv'd to represent the Trinity Teme-non detegenda illa pudenda, & profituenda coram entitus, & (k)

(1) Were Revis' dby another] Beza declares it plainly enough Extat, iays he (l), apud mi ipfius Blandrata epifola (nontamen scripta sine These, si Blandratam bene novi) in qua Gregorium suo quodam sure (l) non tantum de illa padobaptismi controversia non satis epportune mota increpat, verum etiam aperte illum à Tritheismo ad Samosateni dogma revocare nititur. But what he had already said, is a stronger proof of it for he had nam'd the Person that put Blandrata's Thoughts in order. Petro quodam Statorio maliqui bono ingenio nec contemenda dostrina silvoqui bono ingenio nec contemenda dostrina espam ommem suam fucandii barbarismi scriptam otto set down only part of the passata commentis navante. I might have to set down only part of the passata for the proof of the Question, service to consiste Moreri for not having well characteriz. Blandrata's Heresy He accuses him of having taught Arianssm, and the same Tenets as Valentinas Gentilis. Which is to speak in too general and even deceitful Terms. Blandrata was at first an Arian.

I beheve it hur he only past through that Onion. deceitful Terms Blandrata was at first an Arian deceitful Terms Blandrais was at first an Arian,
I believe it, but he only past through that Opinion, he fell into that of Paulus Samosaienus, in which he was more fix'd, than in any other So that he ought to be characteriz'd by that, and not by Arianism Consider the nature of the Letter mention'd by Bers in the beginning of this Remark Moreover, it is certain, that Seeinus, and the Histories of Sacinianism, mention Blandrais as a Seeinus, and Prince John Sigismund (m) as a Man, who after the Conferences that were held in his presence, embrac'd the Doctrin of the Unitarians, p 213

larmır had Se that B he quotes 18

(m) Wif-

Varillas's (K) Anachronisms and Chimera's are so strange, that one cannot forbear to make some Reflection on them

BLOMBERG, (Barbara) was a Maid of a good Family at Ratisbon, in the time of the Emperour Charles V It was believ'd a long time, that she had lain with lain, and had given him a Son, who was the famous Don Juan of Auftria, but at present, the most general Opinion is, that she only served for a Cloak to a great Princess, by whom Charles V had that Bastard. I have spoke of this more at large in another place Brantome's time (A) it began to be doubted, that the Lady who past for the Mother

(1) Ubi fupra, P 345

(2) Epift

(3) Inde in Morauam nd

Blandratun &Al-

cutum

uliofque nihilo

in the Sense that the Socinians put upon that Name Maimbourg gives only Arianism to Blandrata, and to Prince. Sigismend, and pretends, that Blandrata Prince Sigismend, and pretends, that Blandrata Prince Arianism Fascinian, and became an Arian These are two worse than a Socialian, and it was he who brought Blandrata nearer to that System Let us hear Beza (2) Incidit Blandrata in Transylvaniam rediens in quem-dam Tranciscum Davidis paulo magis quam superiores illi ut ajunt providum, qui cum nimium crassam esse illam Tritheitarum blasphemiam simpliciter propositam animadvertisset, maluit omnia involvere, permixtis omnium pene hac in re hareseon commentis, quam simplici-ter suam sententiam profiters. The truth is, that ter suam sententiam profiter. The truth is, that Blandrata relishing the Samssateman Hypothesis of Irancis David, and Ending it more even than the Nonsense than had believ'd till then, forsook Tritheism, and became a good Unitarian Gentilis
(3) did not the same, and therefore Mareri should not have confounded the Doctrine of those Men

(K) Varillas s Anachronisms and Chimeras are so strange] He says, That (a) George Blandrata, being perswaded that a fine Wit could not continue long in the Catholick Religion took the pains to fearch among the ancient Herefies, that which would fute him beft, and at last pitch dupon that of the Arians minion among the ancient Herefies, that which would sute him best, and at last pitch'd upon that of the Atians that the taught it after a quite new way (b) in the City of Pavia, that the Magistrates consind him to a Phson, where he would have remain'd all his life time, the had not found the way to bribe a Keeper, who set in at liberty, that he sted to Geneva, where not finding himself free enough, he travelld till he found in Transylvania, what he had sought for elsewhere in vain "They were extremely exasperated there against the House of Austria, for the Murther of Cardinal Martinal Those in make his advantage of it "He made himself that he staid in Transseries, with a design to make his advantage of it "He made himself the Disnity of Physician to young John Signsmund in The greatest Persons of Transseries, which he did frequently During the course of their Sickness, which he did frequently During the course of their Sickness, which he did frequently During the course of their Sickness, which he did frequently During the course of their Sickness, which he did frequently During the course of their Sickness, which he did frequently During the course of their Sickness, which he did frequently During the course of their Sickness, which he did frequently During the course of their Sickness, which he did frequently During the course of their Sickness, which he did frequently During the course of their Sickness, which he did frequently During the course of their sickness, which he did frequently During the course of their Sickness, which he did frequently During the course of their sickness, which he did frequently During the course of their sickness, which he did frequently During the course of their sickness, which he did frequently During the course of their sickness, which he did frequently During the course of their sickness, which he did frequently During the course of their sickness, which he did frequently During the course of their sickness.

"manner, as the Popes had fettl'd the Belief of it, they must, by a necessary consequence, give credit to the rest of the same Popes Doctain, which were only Consequences drawn from which were only Confequences drawn from that Principle Whereas by acknowledging no that Principle Whereas by acknowledging no more Persons than Natures in God, all the Difficulties raised in fifteen Centuries, would be removed, the Holy Scripture would be under stood by it self, there would be no more occasion for Councils, and the Popes being no longer consulted, would lose their Authority. These were the ways by which Ariansim was revived in Transilvania (c) (c) Id: hew words will suffice to shew the Impostures prist, f that Historian, and to convince him, that he

(1) Id 1b

of that Historian, and to convince him, that he has fet forth the Imaginations of his own Mind for historical Fiets Do but consider, that he supposes all this happen'd in the Year 1552 and he was obliged to suppose it since Martinusus had been murther d towards the latter and of the foregoing Year Observe also, that he supposes that Blandrata was gone from Geneva, before he vent to dogmatize in Transilvan a Whit will you think when you come to know, that this I feretick did not leave Geneva till 1555 and that he was not invited into Transilvania to be John St. Journa's Physician, till towards the Year 1563? What will you say of it many Arguments prounded on the Murther of Cardinal Mart nisting. What will you say of his Skill in managing the Disposition of those, whom that Murther had lately exasperated? Take notice, that no body accuses him of having dogmatiz'd in Transilvania, during the ibode he dogmatiz'd in Transilvania, during the ibode he made there before he had been impirion'd in

(A) In Brantome's time it began to be doubted] I shall set down his Words somewhat at length (d) John of Austria "was a Natural Son of the great Emperour Charles V and ot a great I ady "and Counters of Flanders, the Mother of a Great "Brand Counters of Flanders, the Mother of a Great "Brand Counters of Flanders," Person, of whom we have spoken, or possibly Captains may speak, and not of a Baker's Wise, or of a tom 2 Laundress, as it was commonly reported She p m 49 was extremely handsome, her Name was Barbawas extremely handlome, her Name was Barbara Blomberg, the was afterwards married to the Lord Requel, a Gentleman of the Country of Namur or Luvemburg One may very well believe, that he lov'd and enjoy'd her But that the was the Mother of Don John, is a mistake, for his Noble Carriage thewed, that he took after his Father and Mother As soon as he was born, the Emperour, his I ather, sent for a rich Shepherd from the Mountains of Liege, to whom he gave him to be nursed, and brought up, with he gave him to be nurled, and brought up, without the knowledge of many Perions, ordering him to use him to labour and hardship, as he would do his own Child, without feeling him effeminately or delicately, and without reesting him the nately or delicately, and without telling him, that he was an Emperour's Son, rill he began to be a grown Child, and the Emperour had a mind to forfake the World, and to active into Spain. Then he commanded the King, his Son, and for him and the Shenherd, and to make refer to be nobly born. He that had been educated in a Country-house like a Shepherd, became afterwards very gentled. "educated in a Country-house like a Shepherd, became afterwards very genteel, gallant, civil, and agreeable, and had nothing letr of his Rural Education I saw him in Spain, he was a very handsome Man, and had a good Grace, as I have said, and though he had been brought up in a rustick Life, yet there appear'd nothing of it in his Behaviour, for he behav'd himself very nobly among the Soldiers; he had also a good Air among the Ladies, to whom he was very acceptable very acceptable

(d) Brant fore en

I shall

Blomberga Ratif-bonenfis forma ac uxta nobilis Lx quaadCaducta ut m(L10rem cantu allevaret, &c 10 Dec 1 p m 611 of the Art'ele John of Austur Jn 1578 Lx Stiada duc id 1 / 10 } (it= launenfis and not

nentis of upon he Sione, as 'tis faid mi Witte's Dinium Su the Preface intituled, Apologia pro du :disNitiomilibus 17/ Jame Pr free affirm it, he lays nothing of it, when he freaks of that Synod Befides the Meicurel rançois does 210t | 17 David Blondel, but only Blondel Now there was more than one

(a) In the Dialogue between Lucretia andBarbara Blombeig (b) Pag

at that

It was (B) less doubted that the Emperour had of John of Austria, was reilly so enjoy'd her, and at the bottom there was no consequence from the one to the other That Prince might have had some sport with the fair Barbara Blomberg, who was a at first brought to him to sing before him, and to divert his Melancholy I say, he might first brought to him to sing before him, and to divert his Melancholy I say, he might have past from the Pleasure of the Lu, to all the rest, without having a Child by that Mistress However it be, John of Austria dy'd in the Perswassion, that Barbara Blomberg was his Mother, and as such he recommended her to the King of Spain That Recommendation had its Effect For Philip II to whom the true Mother 2 was not unknown, did his indeavour to deceive the World He fent for Barbara Blomberg into Spain, the same & Year that Don John dy'd, and gave her a very good reception Some time after he fent her with a very good Equipage to Mazote, into the Royal Monaflery of St Cyprian After having lived there four Years, she went to Lareda for the good Air of the place, where she dy'd Brantome informs us to whom she had been married She had a (C) Son, whom Don John, who believ'd him to be his Uterin Brother, recommended on his Death Bed to the King of Spain, and whole Name was Pyramus Conrad He serv'd under the Duke of Parma

b L O N D L 1, (David) a Protestant Minister in the XVII Century, past Kimark A soi one of the Men that had the greatest Knowledge of the Ecclesiastick and Civil History He was of Chilons † in Champagne, and was made a Minister in a Synod of the Ish of France, in the Year || 1614 He exercised his Ministry at Houdan near Paris Few Years after he began to write for the Protestant Religion, for in the Year 1619 he caus'd a Book to be printed at Sedan, intituled, A modest Declaration of the Sincerity and Truth of the Reform'd Churches of France It was an Answer to the Invectives of three or four Writers of the contrary Party, and particularly to those of the Bishop of Iusson, who was so well known since, under the Name of Cardinal Reshelieu Irom that time Blondel was look d upon as a very hopeful Man. He had always some homograble imployments in the Synods. He was (A) above 4 twenty times Secretary in those of the Isle of France. He was deputed four times (B) successively to the National Synods, where he never fail'd to be chosen to draw up and collect the Acts likely that it was he  whom the National Synod of Castres deputed to the King, in

I shall make three Observations on this Discourse I It seems that Brantome believ'd, that Preface that he put to one of

At Dail
It's Books,

Intituled.

The course of the was the Mother of a Prince, whose Noble Carriage showed that he took after his Father and Mother, the must have diffinguished her from the Great La to the was the Mother of the Father and Mother, the must have diffinguished her from the Great Lady and Countries of Hunders, whom he acknowledg'd to be the Mother of Don folin It he had not made that Distinction, it should be said, that he took Barbara Blomberg, and the Countels of Flanders, for one and the fame Person, but in that case could he have fud, that Don Juan was too much a Gentleman to be the Son of Barbara Blomberg. He was therefore nufriken as to Barbara's I amily and Country She was a Gentlewoman of good Quality in Ratubon, and not a Baker's Wife, or a Laundress of Brussels. II It would be but an ill Proof, that a great Prince could not have had a Bastard by a Woman of a mean condition, to say, that that Bastard is too much a Gentleman to be the Son of fuch a Mother, for Experience shews, that great Lords who under-match themselves, have Children as high Spirited, and as much infatuated with their Grandeur, as those that are equally match d, supposing always that the Education be equal. At the Sultans mean spirited, tho's they are sometimes the Sons of a poor Country Wench? III That Education at a Shepherd's House in the Country of Liege, is contradicted by good Historians, as Emmanus Strada is See the good Historians, as Famianus Strada is See the Article of John of Austria

(B) It was list doubted, that the Emperour had enjoyed her] We have just now seen that Brantome

than one tays, one may very well believe, that he lov'd and in-Minister of joy d her It is very unlikely, that Charles V con-that Name trived that Feint with that Lady of Ratisbon, before he had a very intimate acquaintance with her Nor is it more likely, that the Lady was lefs yielding as to the Being, than as to the Seeming to be, for commonly the latter is more feared than the first, and a Woman would think her felf very unhappy to go through the last, without going through the first. The Author of the New Dialogues of the Dead, might fay many pretty things concerning that par-ticular Idea of the Conduct of Barbara Blomberg He has faid fome good ones (a) according to the Idea that is different from that his Mistress, and that Pyramus Conrad was her lig-timate Son If he had minded what he had faid timate Son If he had minded what he had faid page 279 he might easily have feen that Pyramus was younger than Juan of Austria Strada, whom he copies, says, That Don Juan fent his pretended Brother into Burgundy, to perform his Studies there, and that when he came to hear that Pyramus had laid his Books afide, and plung'd himfelf into Debauchery, he caus'd him to be put into Prison This was his condition at the Death of that Prince The King of Spain having some re-Prison This was his condition at the Death of that Prince The King of Spain having some regard to Don Juan's Recommendation, writ to the Duke of Parma to know Pyramus s Inclination The Duke inform'd him, that he had receiv'd a Letter from him, wherein the young Man acknowledg'd himself unsit, and without any Inclination for Learning, and that he desir'd to bear Arms The King order'd him to learn the Art of War under the Duke of Parma, and assign'd himsa Pension of Thirty Crowns per Month Thus far Father Strada (c) carries the History

(C) She had a Son whose Name was Pyramus Conrad 1 The Halloon Author, who publish'd the Life of John or Austria at Amsterdam, in the Year 1690, believes that Barbara Blomberg (b) was a Widow, when she was willing to pass for Charles V

(A) He was above twenty times Secretary Manesius

(A) He was above twenty times Secretary] Maressus a Professor at Groningen, will have it, that Blondel was chosen for that Function, because he had a tair Hand (d) In assimio suit apad suos fratres, a quibus sepe propter calligraphiam factus est Actuarius sundanna accuration and accuration and accurations. January Jape proper calligraphiam factus est Actuarius in refut fynodorum nunquam tamen in ulla earum vel nationals tione vel provinciali Prasidis aui Assessinis gradum obtinuit He adds, that they never gave him the Office of Moderator, or Assistant to the Moderator, in the Synods I have heard say, that Blondel's Hand-Writing was the fairest and most distinct that could be seen, but very small, so that in few Lines he could make long Remarks, in the Margin a Rook printed on large Paper gin of a Book printed on large Paper

(B) He was deputed four times successively to the National Symples] One of those four Symoles and that of Alex, in 1620 as (e) Mr Des-Marets believ'd That Missake would be very inconsiderable, if he had not added, that du Moulin, Moderator of that Synod, was extremely thwarted by Blondel, Secretary to that Assembly, and if he had not reported that Missunderstanding as the Cause ply price
to Suantum autem Molicate the of many other Events (f) Quantum autem Moli-ed to the lineus suos alsos duos ex ordine Ministeris Condeputatos infensos habueritin illa functione in qua ipse Synodi prases, Blondellus Secretarius suit, & eum sepius querentem tionum audivi, & eventus ipse docuit Cum enim, &c This (f) Mareis a Consideration which ought to oblige Writers sius ibid to avoid the very smallest Faults. to avoid the very smallest Faults That which is inconsiderable in it self, is no longer so when false Consequences, and talke Suppositions are added

(d)Maref in refutaget Curcellæanæ pag

(e) Marcí ubi supra, quaternio dissertathe Year 16a6, and who reman'd thanks to his Majesty in the Name of that Assembly His Speech is to be seen at large, in the 12th Volume of the Mercure François fame Symod order'd him to wrate in defence of the Party † I have heard fay, that + see the they design'd chiesty that he should write against the Annals of Baroneus, and that no above que-Protestant was thought more capable to consute them, than Rlondel And indeed, he tedPresuse Land a (C) productions Memory, and was a Man of vast reading; neither did he want beneration to make Discourcies, and draw advantageous Consequences from matters Fact. Has Style was (Britainh, and perplexed with too many Parentheses But there, would that have dealer'd him from consuting a Fassity? It appear'd by the event he did not trouble himself (E) much about resuting Baronius, and that he appear themself much more to other things. In the Year 1631 the Province of Amou.

(a) Co-lom Mêlanges Historiques, p 14, 15

* .

(6) Apud Paulum Frehetheatr

p 11#4 (c) Sample Cureelleus in Præfat Apologe.

(d) Mr Daille expresses this Elogy in fine terms and more braggy, de-disating to making for the Reformed Churches

See in Sir Thomas Pope Blount many of h Such Ele-

(e) Marel

ubi fupra, p 198 (filmbud fulktubus

3. Mercie de gratin

Oredemp. n 22 f dellus, Photos sile moder fecuri, or

OIDD13 4h

mum, for the Alia-

any Visit as much as he could, because the latter was a great Talker, & omnia in numerato habebat, etiam locos integros authorum, whereas the other, though locos integros authorum, whereas the other, though he had a predigious Memory, Sape filebat Some Persons, who had heard Blondes in conversation, have ssiar'd me, that his Tongue ran like a Torrent, and that he defauired of all kind of things with a surprizing statisty, without ever hesitating about the Names, at Years; nay, he could tell sometimes in what they of the Month, and of the Week such and such things happen'd Those that made the Funeral Sermon of John Caspar Lentzus, say, (1) that when Blondes was blind, he discoursed four Hours with him of the great Book which he design'd to write against Chiffier, and that he did it design'd to write against Chisset, and that he did it with such an Essusion of Memory, as associated the Hearers Quo (malo concitatis) non obstante Amstelodami sum salutantes non admiss modo, sed per 4 horas operis sus, quod pro re Gallica contra Chissettum Hispanica causa patrocinantem spissum moliebatur, summam eis exposust, qui ad prodigiosam tante viri memorima abstuperent We shall hear two Men, who themselocities amontary to one another in many rhings thengh wentrary to one another in many things, and namely, on the account of Friendship for Dawid Blondel, agree about his prodigious Memory They agree also about the meanness of his Stile, but one of them pretends, that Blondel was fo ofteem'd by the Roman Catholicks in France, that to tempt him, they promised him a Micre I shall set down the whole Passage of Vir excellens fust noster Blondellus norm at the promise acrimoniam, judicii soliditatem, normalis ad produgum usque selecem, eloquentiam tempolisma, qua tamen, ut nifil est ab omni parte beatum, ma tia elucet in scriptus, profunda quidem uh que eruditionic. Sed quaren angres. que felocem, eloquentiam temponimini, (qua tamen, ut nibil est ab omni parte beatum, ma tra elucet in seriptu, profunda quidem ab que eruditionis, sed quoram gratificamitas aliquando imminuit) ad hac natura dena materializabilis diligentia, qud non vulgarem linguarum materialis diligentia, qud non vulgarem linguarum materialis seleca, Hebraica, ut & Italica quoque & Hispania, Graca, Hebraica, ut & Italica quoque & Hispania, ontitum sibi vonparaverat, onne Scriptorum gonus pervolverat, & eorum opes in divisem silum cordiis sui thesaurum recondiderat Adeo at nibil esse, silum emagnum, sive parvum, in libris Patrum, Aliis Conciliarum, disputationibus Theologorum, & in historia vetere ac recensi, tum sacra tum profuna, quod ejus cognitionem esqueret, & de quo, interrogautibus, accurate illico non responderet, nullusque cam eo familiarius versaretur, qui non semper delior ab eyus colloquiis discederet. Quare omnes qui noverant, supenda ejus eruditioni assignitatis illicia in partes suas pertrahere para ditioni assignitatis illicia in partes suas pertrahere para di samaram opum aut honorum splendore capereture, di denaram opum aut honorum splendore capereture discam de marum sucutate, de modestia, di amorem rapiebat (a)? Now let us thear his Aleversa amorem rapiebat (a)? Now let us thear his Aleversa amorem rapiebat (a)? Now let us thear his Aleversa concerts culculum mans honorum sucuraren adition partes culculum concerts culculum mans honorum adition adition partes culculum prosedures culculum paras ble, Curcellae, in Blondellum concerts culculum mans honorum adition adition partes culculum paras ble, Curcellae, in Blondellum concerts culculum quas ble, Curcellae, in Blondellum concerts culculum quas ble, Curcellae, in Blondellum concerts culculum quas ble, Curcellae, in Blondellum paras ble, curcellae, in Blondellum paras ble, curcellae, in allemania qua concerta culculum paras ble, curcellae, in Blondellum paras concerta culculum quas ble, curcellae, in glonde culculum paras concerta culculum quas ble, curcellae, omnissant equacities of the experiment of the experimental experiments of the experimental experimental experiments of the experimental experimental experiments of the experimental experiment experiments of the experimental experimental experiments of the experimental experimental experiments of the experimental expe

(C) He had productions Memory Mr Colomies of the same Book, Decennium est prater proper, cam says one thing of them, that gives us as great an Idea of him, to thing whatsoever I have learn'd of Dr Vosius, says he, (a) that M Slanasius alliceret, (nam quam fuit memoriosus & multa lestrobeing at Paris, avoided to meet with Mr Blondel in mis, tam dooppuniona laboravit, paramque falix suit in primum equi en de re Diattide produit den sum Gai-lice tantum scripta esset, nec eo stylo qui suum Lettorem alliceret, (nam quam fuit memoriosus & multa lettio-mis, tam socopunoua laboravit, parumque falix suit in suie conceptibus, sive patrid sive Latind lingua expri-mendis,) tandem visus est voluise cam sermone erudi-

(D) His Style was harsh, and perplexed with too many Parentheses] We have already seen what Judgment Maresius and Curtellaus gave upon this; let us add that of a Jesuit to it Cum Blondellus. proprer sinussas inconditæ plerumque orationis ambages de inextricabiles musoblowe to musipper labyrinthos minus gratus politis lectoribus esse solcat, de bonæ cæusæ offusis gratus politis lectoribus esse soleat, & bona causa offusis tenebris sapius incommodaverit, opera precium visum suit eamadem reciprocare stram(h) He means that he (h) Phihas examin'd again, the Question about Pope lippus Joan Chisset says, that a Lady of Paris, to whom Labbe, is Blondel had given his Volume of the Sibyls, read some Pages in it, without understanding any thing of it, and told the Author, that it would be very proper to translate that Work into better French, and that she was much displeas'd and surprized that everio, a calcem it was not already done (i)

(E) He did not trouble bimself much about consuming I vol de script seems and Notes, which he had written in the Margins clesses of his Baronius. His manner of writing in very pag 841

many Notes, which he had written in the Margins of his Baronius. His manner of writing in very finall and close Letters, made those Notes more numerous, but they cannot be faid to be a Refutation of that Cardinal. The Magistrates of Ambierdam bought that Copy of Baronius, and gave it to the Library of their City. It is there that those who would know what David Blondelwrote against the Appals of Baronius, may satisfy their Curiosity. the Annals of Baronius, may fatisfy their Curiofity the Annals of Baronius, may fatisfy their Curiofity A Minister of (k) Bearn, and a Refugee at Amsterdam, many Years before the Revocation of the Edict of Nantes, says, that the Burgomasters of that City having order'd him throughly to consute the Twelve Volumes of Baronius, he did it, by the help of God, without any trouble, and that he had not only transcrib'd David Blondel's Notes, as he was order'd by those Gentlemen, but also that he had collated them with the Annals of Baronius. had collated them with the Annals of Baronius, which he had never feen before And that having discover'd some Faults that Blendel had not observed, he thought he should commit a Sin of Irreligion, if he should not publish them (1) Quam min de- (1) In mandata foret ab amplissimis Reip Amstelodamensis Consulibus Provincia funditus evertendorum Annalium 12 tomis comprehensorum Deo cooperante nil Deo cooperante nil (m) Ut corum (Coniu-

ardum este comprehensorum

ardum este comprenensorum lum Amstelodamensium) jussu qua Blondellus animadverterat non tantum exscripta sed etiam sum Baranimadverterat publico darem

Non

Patui serio posthumas animadversones Blondelli anima Chronologicis Baronii narrationibus nunquam antea mithi vissi conferre, quin statim tem (en animo sateor) mihi religio suit impio sepelira silinii en He publish di therefore a Book in the Year

1675 intituled Antibaronius Magelenis, which contains 140 Pages in Folio In my Copy the Title makes no mention of David Blondel, but in the Journal des Savans (e) the Title contains these other Words, quibus accesserunt quadam ad Baronium animadversones Davidis Blendelli Moreover, the Title notes the Year 1679 doubtless this is a trick of the Bookseller It is likely that the Book did not sell, and at four Years end they bethought themselves to renew the Frontispiece of it, and to promise Wonders in it, under the famous Name of David Blondel The truth is, that Blondel does

(p) See M

Baillet,
In the second ton David Blondel The truth is, that Blondel does for the figures of his Marginal Notes by that, they would of the be very much dalpis'd (p)

Labbe, in

Magen-

(o) Of the 1679 pag

(p) See Mi 156

(F) Having

& See the Puflle Dedicatory of hes Authentick AEts & At Rou-Cn. 1/41 2n 80 E At Geneva, 1611 111 I! * At Gu neva, 1628 in 4to Secthe Kima k

145 to reston in 1049 111

Ar Amfterdam, 1646

At Amfterdam

1646 in

(11) Samu-cl Marefiusrefurat (urcell png 304

(b) (oloin in

Opulcu-

lis, p m

(1) Alus

quartantibus de Joh unnæ

Papille

hiftour

bulim

commutentione

tita, non fine of-

OMNI-

UM pio-

testanti-

Mnefius

evere tat

, d gra-

his number no Pret -It tut noul t

11 6 11-rifed pim

Curcelleus, pag

per iptum tuggillara

99

(F) Having no Talent for the Pulpit] See what is quoted from Samuel Marofius, in the Remark G I have heard fay that Blondel did not preach by Meditation, and that he had much ado to learn his Sermons Word for Word So that the Pulpit N about do-Indowas not his Talent t At Cha-

(G) Made him a Titular Professor | From that time he was reputed fice from any Engagement with a Church, he was no longer obliged to a Residence, and had full Permission to settle him-Reidence, and had full Permittion to lettle himfelt it Paris to be it hand to confult the Libraries Those were the Reisons that oblig'd the Synod to confer that Title upon him Here is my Voucher for it (a) Posserier (Synodus) Blondello honoraris prosessions numeric specialism assignments, soluto vinculo quo sue Ecclesie tenebatur, & fatta es facultate sels suas ob commoditatem librorum ipsi necessariorum ad Baronii promissam refutationem figendi I utetia

(H) A great Book concerning the Piimacy in the Church] I hat Work is much esteem'd, and confutes Childinal du Pirion most learnedly Mr Colomies tells us, that the Author was preparing a second Part I heard, says he, Mr Darlle say (b) that My Blondel had left a Continuation of the Primacy in the Cherch, almost as large as that which is printed It is in the Hands of a Minister near Leyden, whose Name is Cuiccillous, the Son of him that turn'd Ar-

mininn

(1) Son c of them were also offended at the Book which (1) Sone of them were also offended at the Book which he publish'd concerning Pope Joan] I will not make use of a general Proposition, though a very zerious Divine of Groningen (c) did it, less it should be look'd upon as a Sityrical stroke I am therefore contented to say, That that Work of Blondel offended some Protestants It is an undemable thing The Reasons of that Scandal, which I am going to mention, are to dishonourable, or even so shape the Divine of Groning had not fo shameful, that if the Divine of Groning in had not wouch'd them, I should think that the Arminian Professor of Amsterdam imputed them to the Re-formed to make them ridiculous, or to make them inspected of an enormous Infatuation Curcellaus is the Arm nian Professor, of whom I speak He says, that as soon as Rlondel's Work appear'd in publick, some Persons condemn'd it without any further knowledge of the matter, and had not patience to read it, it was sufficient for them to know what the Author aim'd at, to fay, that he had done very ill, and to compliin grievoully of him for depriving them of an occasion to infult the Roman-Catholicks (d) Non desuerunt qui audito solum equo argumer to dan natoriam confessim sententiam ferrent, indigna'i quod materia sibi eriperetur Romano-Catholicis possible injuliands, & mulicrem Rome Pontifician se dem aliquando tenuisse objectendi. They inquired into Blondel's Motives, and instead of believing that a Man, who had read so much, and had such a vast knowledge, might have discover'd the weak side of that Story, they maintain'd, that Honesty had no share in his Action, that he wanted a good Benefice, and that to obtain it, he had made his Court to the Pope of Rome (e) Pratereo illos ques non pu-det jacture Blondellum in fabulam transformare molitum

(i) Id Ib Maiel p 312

Anjou, demanded him of the National Synod at Chareston, to be Professor in Divinity at Saumur &, but that Request was not granted, either because it was thought that having no (F) Talent for the Pulpit, he was not so fit as another for the Instruction of the Students of Divinity, or because it was believed that if he should apply himself solely to History, in which his chief Skill lay, he might fignalize himself the better for the Party. However that be, he continued in the Isle of France. In the Year 1645, the National Synod of Charenton made him (G) a ritular Professor, and gave him a suitable Pension, quoted Pre-gueted Pre- which hid never been practised before y The Explications on the Eucharist, a given (H) Book & concerning the Primary in the Church the Primary in the Church gicit (H) Book & concerning the Primacy in the Church, the Pseudo-Isidorus and Turinanus Vapulantes *, which is a Work against the Decretal Epistles, the Treatile + of the Sybills, wherein he undertook to prove the Oracles false that are attributed to them, and wherein he refutes the ancient practice of praying for the Doud; and the Treatric || de Episcopis & Presbyterus, pleas'd the Protestants much But some among them disapprov'd that he did not wholly addict himself to Controversy, and that he concern d himself in Disputes of Civil History, as when he wrote 2 Book \(\pm \) de Formula regnante Christo Some of them were also offended at the Book which he publish'd (1) to show that what is reported concerning Pope Joan, is a riduculous Fable After the Death of Vossius, he was invited to succeed him in the Professorship > pingue aliqued Beneficium exterqueret He that menpingue aliqued Beneficium exterquiret. He that mentions this rash Judgment, resutes it by a Reason drawn from the disobliging things for Popery that are in that Book of Blandel's Malignam istam suspicationem scriptum, unde calumniandi ansom arripuerunt, plane jugulat, in que tantum abeliat partium illarum gratiam ambiverit, ut contra multis in locis acriter ease pungere non dubitarit. He adds another Reason, which is, That the Work of the Primacy in the Church, was in the Press, when the Author was Church, was in the Press, when the Author was writing his Treatise concerning Pope Josa Others were less partial, they confess d, that the Author had refuted the History of the She-Pope by such powerful Reasons, that they could not see any good Answer could be made to it, but they took it very ill, that he had made use of his Time and It very ill, that he had made use of his Time and Knowledge to refute a Tradition of that nature The Protestant Interest, said they, requires it should be true, why must a Minister discover the falsity of it? Would it not have been better to leave the Papist the trouble of wiping their own filth away? Did they, who do not cease to reproach the Memory of the Reformers, deserve that any one should do them that good Office? Such was the Discourse of the most Moderate, and thus Men will always shoeak when the Interest of thus Men will always speak when the Interest of thus Men will always speak when the Interest of a Party has a greater share in what is said, than Honesty, and the love of Truth in general I say, in general, for they are two very different things, to love Truth in itself, and to love the Party that one takes for the true One, being resolved never to take it for the sale (f) Alie erga Auctorem & opus paulo equiores, fatentir quidem insum tam efficacibus opinionem vulgarem argumentis impugnasse, ut non videant quid ad illa reponi cum specie possit sed tamen ajunt non debuisse otio suo eruditione abuti, in consutanda sabula quam pro vera bistoria haberi Protestanti-(f) Id 1btanda fabula quam pro vera historia haberi Protesianti-um intersit: Prastitisse Sordes Juas Pontisicius eluendas relinguere: indignos enim esse quibus nostri operam ea in re suam commodent, cum Lutherum, Zuinglium, Calvinum, aliosque Protestantium Doctores, soleant atrocibus convitus proscindere, quibus illorum memoriam, quan-ium in se est, toti mundo odiosam reddant Maresius, who refuted Curcellaus, does not deny that those Judgments were made, not does he jay, that People were in the wrong for doing it. But on the contrary, he confirms to the utmost of his Skill, contrary, he confirms to the utmost of his Skill, the Opinion of those who said, that Blondel composit that Book on purpose to please the Roman-Gatholicks (g), and he relates (h) a Passage of the Seur Congnard, an Advocate of Rouen, who writ against Blondel, and who said, That most of the Resonand were strangely surprized at that Author's Design, and that their Opinion was that he thor's Delign, and that their Opinion was, that he had a mind to make a shew of his Learning, or to infinuate himself into the Favour of Great Persons See below, the Remark P The Church of infinuate himielf into the Favour of Great Perfons See below, the Remark P The Church of Rome is full of People, who judge in the fame manner of those that Confute the Legends, they are call'd Heieticks, or Favourers of them, so that on both sides, a Man, who does not design to confirm himself, by all his Searches and Studies, in all the opinions of his Communion, exposes himself to great inconvenience.

to write det jastare Blon iellum in fabulam transformare molitum

fuels a effective Blon iellum in fabulam transformare molitum

fuels a effective Blon iellum in fabulam transformare molitum

fuels a effective Blon iellum in fabulam transformare molitum

fuels a effective Blondel's Treatife concerning Pope Joan, appear d at ieveral times, and in two Languages. In the Year 1647 they Printed at Amsterdam his familiar

NIMINEM reformatorum reperies qui illi autor exterit isti Explication of the Question, Whether a Woman was feated in the Papal Chair of Rome between Leo IV and

Benedict Benedict

potuit id confilium Blondelli non difplicere bonis inter Protestantes. quibus monstri quid alere præpostera hæc di⊸ ligentia ın agenda caufa adverfariorum, ac si ipsi met el pares non effent Marefius ub: Supra pag 321 (b) Id 1b Blondel's Treatife about JOAN fossorship of History, by the Curators of the College of Amsterdam. He went the ther in the Year 1650 and continued to study with his usual application, which together with the change of Air, drew many inconveniencies upon him, and made them lose his sight. It is affirm'd, that in that Condition, he dictated two * Volumes are the change of the Volumes of the Consolers of the Volumes. in Folio about the Genealogie of the Kings of France against Chifflet It is said, that he undertook that Work at the Request of the Chancellor Seguier There were (K) some morose Persons in Holland, who endeavour'd to make him suspected of 1654 Arminianism,

* InLatin Printed at Amsterdam in

(a) Uu fupra, j 314 (b) In Repræfat p 324 (c) Menagiana, p 344 edit of Hol-land (d) Cum primum ejus fima id Cl Sal-masii diffufiffimæ eruditionıs, ut omnes iciant. Viri aures pervenif-fet, excidit ipfi ut parum Confiderate diceret, tradatur ego i Uum uno hAlitu difflabo Curcell ubi fupra, pag 324 (e) Id 1b Marefius Salmafius's pronon præ-ftitit Salmasius cuius fpem fecerat amicis & mi= hi fæpe Ubi fupra, P 326 (f) Mr Arnauld was of onehis Book Intituled. le renverfement de la Morale was of that nature See the Nouv publique des lettres, Nov 1684 art II pag 975
This Blant anflated into French by Mr Lenfant Minifter of Berlin, was Printed at Amsterqam 118 1694

Benedict III? After his Death Curcellaus caus'd that lane Work to be printed in Latin at Amsterdam in the Year 1657 but much larger. This is the Title of it, de Joanna Papisa, sive famosa quafitans, an farina ulla inter Leonem IV. & Beneditum III. Romanos Pontifices media sederit, auxeone Curcellaus (a) says, that the Author kept his Manuscript above Nine Years by him, and that when he first begun it, he thought of nothing less than of Printing it. He had only the Complaisance to examine a matter upon which one of his Friends examine a matter upon which one of his Friends had confulted him; but at last he submitted to the earnest Sollicitations of his Friends, who asthe earnest Solicitations of his Friends, who alfured him, that that Work would very much please those who were Curious in Ecclesiastical History Marasius affirms (b), that Blondel deny'd that he had a hand in the Impression of his Book, and that by such a Protestation he endeavour'd to lessen the Scandal, and to ayold the Censure of the Synod Quam (promulgationem) sum estam Blondellus ut se inscio sastam excusabat, ad offensionem elevandam, consuram synodicam cautius declimandam. He adds, that the Manuscript was not directly sent into Holland, but from Pars to London, and from London to Amsterdam All which was by way of precaution against the Censures that were to be fear'd Ut silu ulla super ejus editione suo Autori moveretur, eadem pra-so esset excusatio qua hodie utitur Dallaus. To ipeak ulla super ejus editione suo Auto i moveretur, eadem praflo esset excusatio qua hodie utitur Dalleus. To ipeak the truth, I don't believe that that Work was put into the Preis without the Author's confent and knowledge. Mr Menage relates a thing that makes for our purpose, and which shews that he did now well remember the chief Circumstances, for he was ignorant of the Frinch Edition. I have occasson'd, said he (c), the Printing of David Blondel's Treatise concerning Pope Joan. At first he hadonly made a Discourse in French which he lent me, and which I kept some time. I lent it afterwards to Mr. Nublé, who kept some time I lent it afterwards to Mr Nuble, who kept it near a Year David Blondel came afterwards to ask it of me, but I would not give it him at first, because I fear d he would suppress it I tald him it was a piece of Work that deserved to be Printed, and that perhaps he Work that dejerved to be Printed, and that perhaps he would fulfrate the publick of it but he affur a me so positively, that he would cause it to be Printed, that I gave it him again Accordingly he got it Printed in Latin, but he made it quite another thing than it was before It is reported, (d) That on the first News Salapasius had of that Book of Blendel, he cry'd out, Saimplim had of that Book of Blondel, he cry'd out, Let it be brought to me, I will destroy it with one blast of my Mouth Blondel ient him the Original of his Latin Work, and requir'd no other Condition, but that it should be publish'd intire, either at the beginning or at the end of the Answer Salmasius accepted that Condition, and liv'd Six Years after, but the 'he had promis'd to answer it, he did it not, and nothing was tound among his Papers that conditions and nothing was tound among his Papers that conditions. and nothing was found among his Papers that con-cern'd the Refutation of Blondel (e) The fame Curcellans, who tells us all this, affirms, that Rivet had writ to him, that he question'd, whether any folid Antwer could be made to Blondel, Valde se dubita-re an bene es responders posses, & cum lettoris cerdati satisfattione An Advocate of Rouen, whose Name is Satisfations An Advocate of Even, the very fane Conguerd, Aniver'd the French Book, the very fane Conguerd, Aniver'd the Litter Genguard, Aniwer'd the Freuch Book, the very fighe Year that Blandel dy'd Marefus Aniwer'd the Issue Book a year after it was Printed, and inferred it interested in the Aniwer which is a plain proof that he did not perceive the great Difficulties that perplex'd Rives, or that he shought he had fully remov'd them For a Man is never to imprudent as to publish the intire Work which he Aniwers, when he is perfused that he cannot aniwer (everal Difficulties, in fuch a Cafe, he makes choice of what he pleafes in the Wittings of his Antagonist, and pretends not to have feen that which he knows not how to antiwer. There are many Books against which nothing would be faid, if one was oblig'd to infert them at length in his (f) Answer. It is not long since Mr. Spanheim Professor in Divinity, wrote a Book (g) to prove that there was a Pope Year. He was not discourag'd by the Dissiculties that perplay's River and Salmajar. It may be faid of his Book, and of that of Maresur, that if they cannot convince all forts of Readers that the History of Pope Joan is true, they may at least convince them of their Authors Ability and Learning

ONE of Sanavius's Letters informs me, that Blondel having at the Request of some Persons, examin'd the Question about Pope Joan, found that the common Opinion was fabulous, and compos'd a Latin Book on that Subject, some approved of it, and others condemn d it. The latter pretended, that a Protestant made himself (h) infamous, when he opposed the common Opinions of his Party Blandel had some regard to the panick Fears of weak Minds, and put his Work into Sarraviance Land a state has make results at a form of the sarraviance with the sarraviance of the sarraviance w's Hands, that he might refuse it to some Persons that might have a design to publish it against his will see examin'd that Matter again in the Year 1639 because a Report was spread, that he constuted at large the History of Pope Jean, in a Book that was Printing at that time It was that of the Pope's Supremacy Not to be at the trouble of turning over all the Sheets of such a large Book, they inquired of him, concerning that Report He aniwer'd, That he did not speak of that in the Work that was then in the Preis, but that they might know what his Opinion was, he compos'd a French Treatise that was shorter than the Latin, and which foon came into the Hands of feveral People Salmasius law it at Paru in the Year 1641 Sarthe Bookseller Bloew, who publish'd it at Amsterdam in 1647 but he declares, that the Author said, That that business had been manag'd without his knowledge Geree autior affirmat fe inconsulto, quid-quid id est procuratum suisse (s) He adds, that af-tur the publication of that Book, some prais'd Blouded's Ingenuity, and others (k) loaded him with abusive Language The most moderate, tax'd him with Imprudence Some of Salmasiue's Letters, wherein he promis'd to set up for a Proceedor of the Tradition that Blondel had rejected, and to reftore it speedily and easily, comforted those that regretted the loss of an Argument, which in their Opinion, overthrew the Church of Rome (1) Re-(l) Recreafis animos eorum quibus dolebat eripi sibi telum, ut de l' Eglise tem 1 p sarravius was one of those, that were pleas'd with that new design of Salmassus, but he warn'd him to take great care of what he should do Nose, that he sent him Blandel's Latin Treatise, and that he acquainted him that Chamier, Peter du Moulin, and Bochart of Caen, three of the most Learned Ministers of France, believ d that the Story of Pope Joan was fabulous. He did not forget to say, that du Moulin, who might have jested admirably well on that History, had never imploy'd the Wit of his Jests about it. Multa certe cum scripserie (Petrus Molinæus) quidus Romanum suggilaverie pudorem, ab ista tamen samina semper manum abstinuit of poterat tamen samina semper manum abstinuit of poterat tamen sum infacetus alicujus liberalis joci inde captare occasionem. I believe, one might add, Mr Basnage to those three famous Ministers, who took the Story of Pope Joan for a meer Fable. See what he wirtt upon it (m), giving an Historical Account of the Reasons of each Barty, and you will easily apprehend what his thoughts are

(K) Some morose Persons, who endeavour'd to make they pubcreasts animos corum quibus dolebat cripi sibi telum, ut rehend what his thoughts are

(K) Some morose Persons, who endeavour'd to make know what im suffetted of Arminianism] There are many Persons Countries, who have a wrong No-lish about fons in Foreign Countries, who have a wrong Notion of the Dutch Liberty, and of the (n) French France, Servicude They are in the right to say, That the the Inha-Tribunal of the Spanish Inquisition, is abhor'd in bitants of Holland But nevertheless, there are many jealous that Counand inquisitive Men, that take notice what Friends try did not one has, and that build a thousand rash Judgments white their upon it, which they impart to many People from Thoughts House to House, and chiefly to those that may either serve or hurt, according as they are prepared, that going from France to Amsterdam, he should pass from Servitude to Liberty, and did more freely not know that he was going to put himself still than under the Eyes of certain Spies, who would make they write

(b) Quasi fum foret viro Protestantıum partibus addicto, quidquam attuliffe, quod vulgatas fuorum opıniones convelleret Sarrav epift 181 edit Ultraj vius, ubi fupra

pæne optimo viro convicia-

(m) Bafnage, Hift de l' Eglise

France, if bitants of

Thu appears from which David Blondel writ to him the 20th of April 1645 Tus to be found at the beginning of the French Book conceining Pope Joan † The Same Letter Jays (a)That is. with Curcellæus an Arminian Profes-(b) He means a Prece of Mr Daillé concerning Universal Grace (c) See what the Same Author says in the Preface to the free table Considerations upon Blon-del s Authentick AEt s (d) See the following fumma mıhı cüm pfo ne-1emper n tercesserit Id ibid (g) Dallæus in vindicus Apolog part 3 c 8 p 451 (b) Spizelius in infelice lite rito, pag 693 & lequent (1) Curcellæus in præfat Apolog png 309 (k) Marefius in refutatione præf pag 309, 310, Arminianism, and who blam'd (L) the Religious and Politick Considerations, which he publish'd during the War of Cromwell and the Dutch. He dy'd the 6th of April 1655.

Aged Sixty four Years He had two elder Brothers both Ministers; one's Name was Moses, and the other's Aaron. Moses BLONDEL was Minuster (M) at Meann, and Moses, and the other's Aaron. Moses BLONDEL was Minister (M) at Means, and afterwards at London, and publish'd a Book of Controversy, which shew'd that he had Learning It is said that his Knowledge (N) was not useless to his Brother. He was still living " in the Year 1645 It was he that gave the † Manuscript from which the Explanation concerning Pope Joan was Printed. I have forgot to said that Amand Flavien is a saise Name, that David Blondel that himself in a little about Liberty of Conscience, which he opposed to the Bull of Innocent X and Peace of Munster Nor have I spoke of the great endeavours the Catholical to draw our Blondel into their Communion One of his Fraternity that distinct him, it a heinous Crime in him to keep Correspondence with an ancient (a) Friend, who had contributed to his Vocation, and whose Acquaintance was of great use to him in an unknown Country. He knew not that those Spies would report all that he should say, and that a wrong Interpretation would be put upon certain things that might escape him in Conversation; so that he would be loaded with Slanders, and accounted a Man that conspir'd against the State, and Church. I advance nothing but what I have read in the Writings of a samous Divine, who has taken the pains to inform the Publick of those many Slanders. Quodilli Apologia (b) prologum galeatum prassierit o min Blondellus multum detrivit de ipsius existimatione apud pleiosque, ac si meditatus sussets in gratiam Remonstrantium FVERSIONEM (c) dostrina publica in bus Ecclesus, Alia observantibus intimam illam & jugem firantium F VER SIONEM (c) doctrine publice in hu Ecclesis, Alis observantibus intimem illem & jugem quem cum D Curcelleo familiaritatem coluit ex quo vinit in Belgio Aliis ad animum revocantibus liberiores quosdam voces ipsius in sententiam Augustini & Synodum Dordracenam Aliis indignantibus quod justo profundius se immiscuerit negotiis hujus Reip (d) in qua erat recentir hospes (e) I leave many other ill Reports, that the same Author collected to his great Giles, says he (f), and yet so carefully, that Mr Daillé reproaches him very much for it, after havir grefuted them one after another Hac suns qua Epicrita contra clarissimam optimi & eruditissimi viri samam, aut sinxit ipse, aut a malevolis plebeis que ingenis excogitata magno studio conquirenda & corradenda & in publicam hominum lucem edenda putavit, qua quam sint excogitata magno studio conquirenda & corradenda & in publicam hominum lucem edenda putavit, qua quam sint putida, & ad id, quod agit, consciendum inepta, omnes fius exercit 3 de giatia intelligunt Nunc quo nomine appellabo illam Epicitiz diligentiam, qua is quisquilias & nugas, partim futilis, partim falsas, plerasque dubias & incertas, aut ipse cominia dici a jacta inium Dei servum, & post emensos in Christi vinea labores a terris nuper in calos receptum, hoc antequam moreretur, egiste ac meditatum ese ut publicam Ecclessa, in qua degebat, dostrinam everteres (g)? Since the Death of Blondel, things are much worse, and chiefly fince certain factious and haughty Men come out of France, would make themselves to be fear'd by fome Trials of Inquisition Pray see, how a Minister of Germany (b) laments David Blondel's Misfortune, who tho a mild and peaceable Man, and notwithstanding the Services he had done Cause, was nevertheless expos'd to a thousand Bitings, both in his Life-time, and after his

(L) That blam'd the Religious and Political Considerations, which be publish'd during the War of Cromwell] We have seen in the preceding Remark, that his Enemies drew from thence one of their Proofs of his pretended Conspiracy against the Church His Apologist (1) pretends, that it was out of Harred against the States of Helland that Blendel's Considerations were blam'd, but Marefus (k) answer'd him, That that Work contains a fewer which could not have been a fewer which could not have been as for the fewer which could not have been as for the fewer which could not have been as for the fewer which could not have been as for the fewer which could not have been as for the fewer has been as fo ral things which could not but displease the States of that Province, and which displeas'd many good People, and that besides, it contains many Investigation of the People of the Management of the People of the P People, and that beindes, it contain a many anvectives against the Members of the Parliament of England, and against those Princes, who instead of revenging the Death of King Charles I made Leagues with Crommel This is as much as to say, that if Blondel had liv'd two or three Years longer, have the beautiful forms himself ache would have run the hazard of feeing himself ac-cused of a Crime of State, for having made a Libel against the Commonwealth of England; I say, a Libel, that was a violent Censure of the Union that reign'd after that Minister's Death between Helland and England

(M) Moses Blondel was a Minister Meaux, and SOME publish'd a Book of Controversy Book is Inmistakes tituled, Jerusalem au Secour de General It was Prinabout our ted at Sedan in the Year 1624 The Author justing the DEL fies the Opinion of the Protestants concerning the Apocryphal Books, by the Testimony of the Jews, and of the Fathers The samous Controversist Peter Veren accuses Blendel of Plagiarism (1) John Reynolds, (1) Vancation Englishman, says he, composed a great Book in Quarto containing about 600 Leaves (m), Instituted, A Centure of the Apocryphal Books of the Old-Testanument against the Papists, and chiefly against Robert Bellarmin M DCXI which against Robert Bellarmin M DCXI when the Bellarmin M DCXI when the Bellarmin M DCXI when the Bellarmin M DCXI was the Bellarmin M DCXI when the Bellarmin M DCXI was the Bellarmin M DCXI when the Bellarmin M DCXI was the Bellarmin M DCXI when the Bellarmin M DCXI was the Bellarmin M DCXI when the Bellarmin M DCXI was the Bellarmin M DCXI when the Bellarmin M DCXI was the Bellarmin M DCXI when the Bellarmin M DCXI was the Bellarmin M DCXI was the Bellarmin M DCXI when the Bellarmin M DCXI was the Bellarmin M DCXI when the Bellarmin M DCXI was t was composed or colletted out of the Pieces of that great n 3

Volume He Intituled it, Jerusalem & Rome au Secours de Geneva I cannot tell, whether Veron (m) It believed that this Blondel, Minister of Meaux contains was David Blondel, but he was the cause that Chifflet took the one for the other Before Chifflet published his Reply to the great Volume of Blondel, he put out a sinall Fore-runner of 30 Pages, under the Title of Imago Francisci Eversoris Davidis Blondelli Ministri Calvinista Clypei Austriaci liber prodromus He rails much at Blondel, who had not spar'd him, and accuses him of Plagiarism He pretends that it is an old Sin in him, and refers him pretends that it is an old Sin in him, and refers him to Father Veron's Words, which we have just now to Father Veron's Words, which we have just now seen Blondellum Neoclide furaciorem, Boucheto, Dominico, ac Tenneurio totum inequitare nihil novi est, antiquum obtinet dum plagiarium agit, non ignorat hac Pilas, non Tytiygias Recordesur tyrocinii sui sados dies cum apud Meldenses ministellum agens Geneva sua ab Hierosolymis & ipsa Rama suppetiae frustra quassouri, de quibus Francisci Verondo, &c (n) He was therefore persuaded that a sis Adversary was that Minister of Meaux, who writ the Book Intituled, Francisci Jerusalem au Secours de Geneve, but this is to ascribe evers. to David Blondel, what belongs only to his Brother Mose: The mistake of the Abbot de Marelles is loss considerable than that He gives Blondel the Name of Daniel, instead of David It is in the Enumerated of Daniel, instead of David It is in the Enumeration on of the Authors that presented him with their Works, or that spoke honourably of him He says, that Blondel made him a Present of his Book concerning Pope Joan, having made use, adds he, of a considerable Observation, which I imparted to him one Day in the late Mr du Puy's Close on that Subjest He says the same thing in his History of France, and shows wherein that Observation consisted consisted

(N) His Knowledge was not useless to David Blondel] Here is what I find in the Professor of Groningen (e) Caterum inde apud nostres, nostres satisfies est Blondellia, qued ex suit & sui fractuli Photius distine of Blondellia, qued ex suit & sui fractuli Blondelli, veri plentissim & diligentissim, the satisfies, veterum Pontiscum Episolae Decretales, quantification neme sanue volebat admittere, in suit satisfies neme satisfies admittere, in suit satisfies neme satisfies admittere, in suit satisfies admittere, in suit satisfies de insure de comprebasses, & insure all satisfies de comprebasses, de insure de comprebasses de Grufuper diligentissime evolvistet Canones & Constitutiones Syndorum Nationalium Reformatarum, ejustem Mosis fratris sui adjutui industria cui comprebanda id proserve possim quod habeam in meo Musao, ex manu Mossi Blondelli, prater excerpta quadam Patrum Gracorum & Latinorum, & Bellarmini opusculum de Scriptor Eccl, variis noti: manuscriptis elucidatum, Disciplinam Ecclesiarum Gallia nitidisme Scriptam, variis Scholiis en Synodorum Nationalium decisionibui illustratam Observe, that this Professor intimates, that it was not necessary to shew the falsity of the Decretals. To this, let us add these Words of Mr Bailles "As to the Fasse issued these Words of the Blondel, a Breaker of open Deors, by reason of the "Heat wherewith he pursu'd these two Authors, "whose him, pretended that it was not an honourable thing for him His thought (O) deferves some examination. He maintaind also that Blondel had a (P) Pension from the Court of France, which put him by from refuting Baronius

"He * had a fingular way of studying, he lay on the Floor, and had the neccs- * Ancil- fary Books round about him for the Work he had in hand "He that informs me lon, Meof this, tells it for a certain Truth IIe says also that the anominous Author who made lange the Free and Charitable Considerations on the Collection of Authentick Acts collected by Mr Blondel, was one Gauthier, a Minister near Rochelle That Collection displeased the Pag 407 on that Subject, and I shall draw something out of it

BLONDEL

(a) Bail-let, Ju-gem des Sav tom 2 p 307

River oper tom 2 PAE-1079

(c) In præfat Apolog P 338 See above the Remark C

(d) Sed laudes 1pfius pertinere mihi videtur quod eum lıbenter corrupiffent pontificu. cum horum hamus ubique pen-deat, nec foleat honesta matrona fuis laudibus accenfere quod impudicis follicitae tionibus quondam restiturit Mares in refutat

(e) Scioppius,epist dedicat elementor Philofophiæ Stoicz: Moralis ad Cynthium Cardinalem S corgu

praf pag

(f) See Moliere's George Dandin

"whose Defeat was neither difficult nor very considerable, since so many Catholick Citicks had already dicover'd Isdorus s Impostures, and the proceeding of Turrianus had been his'd at and censur'd by the most Judicious among our Writers, before him (a)" Rivet speaks much more advantageously (b) of that Book of Blondel

(O) His Thought deserves some examination] Among other things, Curcellaus had faid (c) in David Blondel's praise, That the Catholicks admit dhis Learning so much, that they offer'd him a Mitter while he was a Grala Mary while ter, while he was a fingle Man, and afterwards a good Office either at Court, or in the Parliament, if he would abjure his Herefy Marefus aniwers (d), that fuch a thing does not deleve any praise, as well because the Papists bait then Hooks at all times, and in all places, as because a virtuous Woman will not praise herself for having rejected an unchaste proposal. This last Maxim is not abfolutely true, it wants to be view'd on a certain an unchaste proposal This last Maxim is not abfolutely true, it wants to be view'd on a certain side, not to appear false. It is a dishonour to a Woman, that any Proposals of Love should be made to her, for it shews that they had no very good opinion of her Viitue, and therefore any Woman that boasts of having resisted any unchaste Sollicitations, discovers at the same time that she shas not been so tender of her Reputation as she should have been, or that she knew not how to inspire all the Respect that a Virtuous Woman deferves. In that senie, the Maxim of David Blondels Censurer ought to be admitted. It will be granted me, without doubt, that of two Women equally beautiful and charming, she that has never had any dishonest proposal made to her, would have more reason to boast, than she who would have more reason to boast, than she who has often repuls'd the Tempter, for it would be a proof, that the latter has not imprinted such a character of Prudence on her Conduct as may per-fuade a Man that he would be very ill received, and that it would certainly be in vain to fet up for a Lover No nicer Praise can be given to a Minister of State, than to tell him, That he is like Cato, of whom no Body durst ask an unjust thing Scioppius made use of that Thought in praising a Cardinal, Erga amicos porro quamvis eximia & constanti voluntate esse foless, cam tamen, cum quid momenti majoris petere in-flituerint, religionem adhibere foles, ut non temere etiam qui te caussa sua omnia velle sciat, vel sibi qui quam, vel amicis austi postulare quod te tribuere vel indulgere wel amicis austi postulare quod te tribuere vel indusgere minus dignum videatur, eaque re in te conveniat, quod de Catene Tullium dixisse legimus o te selicem M Porci, à quo rem improbam petere nemo audet (e) But let us turn the Tables, and we shall see that the Professor of Groningen has not well censur'd Curcellaus Generally speaking it is not true, that a Virtuous Woman ought not to think herself worthy of praise, for having often resisted dishonest Sollicitations Any (f) Family that can name such, or such a Woman, who have resus'd the offers of a great Financier, or of a great Prince, thinks itself crown'd with Glory The strongest and most frequent Temptations are the beat Proofs that a Woman is Honest and Virtuous, and worthy of esteem Some Relations say, that the honestest Women in Spain, are very glad to be alone with a Man that desires the last Favour of them, and that they take it very ill is he does not Not with a Man that desires the last Favour of them, and that they take it very ill if he does not. Not that they will grant it him, but they take delight to have refus'd such earnest Requests. After all, there was reason to praise Blondel for the very thing that Maresius criticiz'd. The French Catholicks would not have us'd so many Promises, if they had not taken him for a Person of great Merit. There is much difference between a Minister to whom Honours are offer'd, if he will change his Religion, and a Woman that is courted with Presents. The Astion, that is proposed to the Minister is not Action, that is proposed to the Minister, is not bad according to the Principles of those that propose it, and (g) he is not requir'd to do it whilst he believes it to be an ill thing. He is exhorted to instruct himself, with a piomise that it only of nohe can undeceive himself, the pains that he will in structure take to seek and find the Truth, shall be largely verters rewarded. But what is proposed to a Woman, is a bad Action, both according to her Principles, and according to the Principles, and according to the Principles. and according to the Principles of the Tempter So that she cannot be tempted without giving her an Affront, that is, without believing her very capable to commit a thing whereof she knows the obscenity Therefore Maresus's Comparison is not right, for there is no injury done to a Man, when it is believ'd that he may be capable to know his Eriors, and to acknowledge the Fruth, or, which is the fame thing, when he is follicited to (h) In rechange his Religion 1 am tuie, that if Maiefius fut plat had made the Panegyrick of a Minister, who had Pag 305 refus'd many great Advantages that the Cartbelicks had offered him he would have deave from to the (1) New head offered him he would have deave from to the (1) New head of the deave the (1) New head of t had offer d him, he would have drawn from it the Subject of a fine Llogy, and would not have feru-Subject of a fine Llogy, and would not have ferupled to praife it as a very noble Exploit Observe quin by the by, how Pyrrhonism prevails in most DisBlondelputes There are many Maxims, that are true on lus in sua one side, and false on the other. I ney are made Papiss use of by turns, either for one sown (ause or amoderagainst an Adversary But is this the way to attionis lautain to Certainty?

(P) That Blondel had a Pension Maressus decomputaclares (b) that Blondel told him, that he was trouresulting clares (h) that Blondel told him, that he was trou- re studie-bled with the Inticements of the World He adds, 11t, prathat Demery Super-intendant of the Finances, paid ferting that Minister a Pension, and that (i) this Pension quo temoblig'd him to publish his Pope Joan Ubi (Lutetra) pore cum tamen nihil minus quam Baronio vacavi, sid in suis conjunta D Demery, summis Prafecti erario Regio, stipendus pensione, cum Ecclesiarum stipendio, animum appu- ex unnua lit ad ca, que ab illa professione honoraria, inter Re- pensione formatos, satis remota erant. Que etiam offensioni suis- hibebut se multis piis & bonis virus, mihi abunde constitit cum supremus e multis piis & bons viru, mihi abunde constitit cum supiemus essemble dim Luteria Undi natum consilium de ipso in Belgium, si pote foret, transmittendo, quo sic & ilus sumptibus presectus sibi inutilibus Ecclesia liberarentur, & ipse expedireru sib p 31, ex Aula & Saculi inescationibus, quas & sibi praves sec associate importunas essemble quantum satura perte prof sus presace to est situation liad been isk d, How he knew his presection of the difference of the sum of the presection of the constitution of the mere paid Blondel a Pention? he would have constituted, with a Hear-say sum Ancillon informs us of a pretty strange thing divertus (k) I know from him, That the President di Messemble sum of the president against the Pope's Supremacy, and that a Councel. lor of the Parliament of Paris, also a very good Roman-Catholick, whom he nam'd to me, but whose Name I have forgot, gave him a Pention of 6 c Livres on the same account, and that to satisfy those two Genlemen, he had made that great Volume in Felio, of the Pope's Supremacy, which ferves pag 4-7, for an Answer to the Book that Cardinal du Perron 48 "writ against James I king of Great Britain' Either those two Magistrates had only the name and out-side of Roman-Catholicks, or their Pensioner and out-fide of Roman-Catholicks, or their Penfioner Higue in betray d them, for the Interests of the Calvinists February cannot be more strongly maintain'd, then Blondel 1699 maintain'd them in his Work of the Primacy

(2) I have Seen a Letter full of Complaints I It (m) Of was written by Mrs Mary (l) du Moulin, Daughter whom I of Peter du Moulin Mr de Wilhem (m) did me the Speak in favour to communicate the Original to me, it is the Rem dated from Delfs the 24th of June 1655 It appears L of the by that Letter, that the two Perions, whom Blondel Article had most abus'd, were du Moulin and Rivet, to whom Bore, and It appears L of the nevertheless he profest himself a great Friend, and by more fully whom he was sincerely below d, as may be provid by the inthe Rem good Offices which he had received from them, and by the I of the Acknowledgments which he made for them Several Do Atticle zens of hu I etters might be produced, which he wr t to Wilhem
M m m m 2

Monstear

dubium

lange cutique de literature t 0222 I (1) W/20 died at the Higue in

* See the Remark B

(a) That is to procure him a place sterdam. (b) These words are to le found Somewhat lower in the Same Leter He had very tow Friends in this Country, except among the very beginning, ind his w iy ot living was not attended with the Prudence that is neceffary to gain the love and the wife Perions of this Country . the extravigint vanity of his Wife had been

1 fufficicle to it (c) San 1-viusepift 166 īd Silmit pag 170 Secalfothe 194 Letter, which was not writen by Salmitius to Sairavius, as tis said at the beginnire but by Sari ivius to Salma-(d)Ancillon, Mclange cist tom

1 p 408 (1) Ti at 15 ntl . Year 1698 (f) Pag

terior Id

Letter 173 pag 65 of the 2d Vol (b) That Letter of Patin is dated the 27 April 1660 Blondel was made Dean of the Faculty of Physikthe 2 of November 1658 Patin Letter 124 tom 1 20g 483

BLONDEL (Francis) Professor of Physick in the University of Paris, was a very Learned Man, but his (A) knowlege was undigested, and moreover his Prejudices against Chymistry, and Antimony, sill'd the Faculty with troubles and divisions Guy Patin though he was of his Opinion concerning Antimony, yet speaks of him as (B) of a litigious Man, and a bad Writer. Perhaps no body has more ingeniously or more pleasantly characteris'd that Physician than the Sieur Lamy; but as he had been persecuted by him, it must be observed whether Passion has not too great a share in the malicious Turn that is observed (C) in his Description of Blondel had thing shews more powerfully how little that Doctor wind or esteem'd, the state of the 神以子子

Mansicur Rivet, wherein he calls him Father, his faith-ful Friend, his Protector, and Benefactor, and one might casily think, that he spoke according to the Sentiments hu Heart, for he was indebted to him alone for the Office that drew him out of the inconveniencies and dangers wherein the most Judicious thought him to be involved, when he was at Paris Surrounded with great Men, and busy about their Genealogies That good Soul, who watch'd con-tinually to prevent Scandals, thought that it was necessary Armini- to get him out of those Snares, to the end also, that his ane whose talentsmight be employed in more useful things. He made Consident use of all his Credit to attain (a) his aim, wherein he met he was with so many Obstacles, that a less constant Friend would from the have been discouraged, and I am witness of the Troubles very be- and Fatigues that he suffer d on that occasion, and tho and Fatigues that he juffer d on that occasion, and tho he was too much us'd to be paid with Ingratisude, yet he never fear'd any such thing from him, who appear'd so thankful to him, and who wanted his continual support n a Place where he had not the good fortune to (b) p'ase at first, and all this may be seen by his Letters that are in the Hands of Mr Rivet, the Son Afterwards the inlarges on the Praises of Mr Rivet. terwards the inlarges on the Praises of Mr River, and assures us, that the Memoirs which he left of his Life, contain a true account of what past relating to those Matters of Controversy, after the gain the National Synod of Tonneins in 1614 where he was love and Secretary, and by which his Moderation may be efteen of easily known I wish, says Mrs du Moulin, that that nipping Piece may not fall into my Father's Hands, for I should fear that he would be too hard struck in his infirm Age, with Blows that cannot be received a as Balm, that have nothing of the faithfulness of Friendship There is no doubt, but that Rivet us'd all his good Offices to have Blondel in Holland, for it appears by Sari avius's Letters, that he was defir'd to concern himself in that Affair, and that they shew'd him the importance of it (c) Utinam were cogitare welthe importance of the continuous continuous description of the plane ad alienum fors-bit to vivit arbitrium Posset istic, honoraria sugens prof. sinonis munere, singulis annis singulos Annalista To-mos consoderc, & alia, qua mortalium nemo queat prasta-re, ad Historia Ecclesiastica purissimum intelletum Idem ent obst :fcribo Riveto hoc agite nos adjutorem habebitis NOTL, That Mr Ancillon observes, that the Author of the fice and charitable Considerations on the authorick Ass, what were Printed a Groningen in the Year 1658 with a Preface of Marefius, (d) treats Mr Blondel very ill Which, tho' common enough, is at the bottom a leastdalous thing, but the worst is, that that Author and Blondel do not agree in the Accounts. The formulations of the base of the common and the second to their Accounts The same discord has been seen between the Narration of Mr River, and that of Mr Amyraut Those Gentlemen might be excus d for not having the same thoughts on difficult mat-ters, and for explaining the System of Grace differently, But ought they not to agree when they relate Matters of Fact? What can one think, when it appears, that they confute each other in their Historical Narratives of what past before their Tyes? Can one belive, that it is only a weakness of Memory? Is not a Man tempted to say, that one of the other Party acts knavishly, or rather that there is some Artifice and Trick on both sides, and that every one relates what is for his Advantage, and suppresses the rest? This contrariety in Matters of Fact, prevails every where We saw a famous instance of it (e) the last Year in the Relations concerning Quietism ons concerning Quietim

co of the

A But his Knowledge was undigefied] "Our d vol of "Monlieur Blondel is a very Learned Man, but the Cene-" he writes an obscure and puzzling Style "Thus va Edition Guy Patin speaks of him in his (f) 405th Letter

(g) Redo-He says in another place that Father Theophilus Ray let Liptia num quo and "that no Author at this day writes so, except tamen est "it be perhaps Monsieur Blondel (h) our Dean, multo de-" who the's one of the most Learned Men in

terior Id

" the World affects that kind of batterity, & ea" dem scalie laborat cum Tertullianes of lome other Testimonies of his undigester that less in the Remak C emak C

(B) As of a litigious Man. Our Monsieur (1) Patin

Blondel is a litigious Man. Our Monsieur (1) Patin and loves to go to Law her and rather go to his 405th

Law than compose and end Quarrels he has a Letter,

Law suit with Thewart Is Cames. Who is another. Law than compose and end Quarrels he has a Letter, and Law fuit with Thevart le Camus, who is another pag 200 selful de litegious fellow, he is printing a Case in his of the 3d Vol Defence, there are as yet but two Sheets printed, he told me, there would be eight He makes great complaints of the First President, whom he thought, as he says, to be his Friend I know not what to make of all those Pettifoggers As soon as the Case comes out, I will send it you, as also a Book which he promises de Vomitu, Stibile and Book which he will prove that Antimony is a Boyson, since it causes Vomiting

This (k) Man loves the Law too much, but it is great pity, for he is a very learned Man

(c) In the malicious Turn that is observed in his Detailed.

"he is a very learned Man"

(c) In the malicious Turn that is observed in his Description of Blondel] There being many Readers that desire to find in a Dictionary, not only an Abridgment of Mens Lives, but also what is said of their Manners and Character, I think I shall not be blam'd for transcribing some passages out of Mr Lany's Book He is one of our most ance to Dottors, says he, (1) speaking of Blondel, and has a happy Memory He can decide very all how a Greek Word in Hippocrates and Galen is to be read He idolizes them in such a manner, that he will hear of nothing but what they have said, and he is better pleas'd with old Errors, than with new Truths will hear of nothing but what they have said, and he is better pleas'd with old Errors, than with new Truths He knows the Names of Plants, like the Gardeners. He knows their Virtues after the Galenick manner. He measures the degrees of Cold and Heat in them, with an exatincs that surprises with Body. He cultivates many of them very careful less so averse to Chimistry, that he cannot hear a field of it without exclaiming against it. He has a very great Inclination to Teach, without any Interest, and without being obliged to it. I assure you, that I have seen him take the pains to come every Day from St. Denis's-Gate to our Schoolstof or a single Scholar, who lest him at last because the was not learned enough to understand him, and because the Hebrew and the Greek, of which his Discourse was full, were Languages not at all, or but little known to him. It is true, that this Gentleman is very curious of full, were Languages not at an, or out fille known to him It is true, that this Gentleman is very curious of Etymologies, and endeavours to collett in his Treatifes all that he formerly read Insomuch, that in a Book that he made about Vomiting, and Emetick Remedies, that he made about Vomiting, and Emetick Remedies, he inserted a Preface concerning Chimstry, and to find the Author of it, he went back as far as the Times that preceded the Flood, and made a Query, (viz) Whether Tubal-Cain was the Inventor of it, because it is of him in the 4th Chapter of Genesis, that he was a figure in Brass and Iron Mr Lamy adds, that the Lamy adds and the lamb in a full Auditory foundation of the Hall the continuous an Heresy, because as he was dispuring an Heresy, because as he was dispuring an intensity, because as he was dispuring an intensity, because as he was dispuring an experiment the Motion of the Hall the maintain'd, he objected, that the Rapidle to the Finnum Mobile would be incredible, since according to the System of Caparnicus, the Equator of the Earth goes as fast as a Cannon-bullet The accus'd answer'd, That there might be an error in the Supposition which be made; but that it could not be said that there was any Heresy in it, since it is not a Point of Religion to know how to recken well Dr Blon-Point of Religion to know how to recken well Dr Blondel reply'd, That it mas not a matter of Physick I granted it, says Mr Lamy, and thereupon, a Dector taking my part, told him, That since the Proposicion was put in the Thesis, I might Dispute against it Well then, reply'd Mr Blondel, let him prove that the Earthturns, but let him prove it Madicinally I confess, I could not do it, and I was fore'd to sho there. I could not do it, and I was fored so ftep there. An ingenieus Student of Physick, who never had any Quartel with Dr Blondel, nor any reason to impose any

the 290 Letter of the 2d Vol Pag 545

(1) See the 4th Letter prefix d Discourses Printed at Rouen fec in what manner his Death was (D) mention'd in the Mercure Galant, September 1682 Not one civil Expression attends that News, to lessen the Blemish that is cast on the Memory of the Deceased I cannot tell whether the Books (E) which he promus'd the Publick, are printed I must not omit, that the great care he had taken to fill himfelf with Grammatical and Critical Learning, did not hinder him from (F) storing himself with the most profound Cunning of a malicious Persecutor, and from knowing how as hide the Violence of his Temper under that Cover. He extended to oppose Novelland, only out of Zeal for Truth, and for the Glory of God amust not be confounded with another Francis BLONDEL, a Physician, that with Book on the Baths of Aix la Chapelle

*Thermal Book on the Baths of Aix la Chapelle

*Land DEL (FRANCIS) Royal Professor in Mathematicks and Architecture, was very tach esteem'd for the Knowlege he had acquir'd in all that belongs to that granens accomplished that young Lord, who had already got the Reversion of the Office of Minister and Secretary of State, I say, he accompany'd him in his Travels, which description on the Month of Talv 1652 and ended in the Month of November, 1655 regan in the Month of fuly, 1652 and ended in the Month of November, 1655 to con-The Latin Relation (F^{\triangle}) of it has been twice printed He had moreover some congruorum iderable Imployments in the Wir, both by Sea and Land, and he managed fome Ne- quoque thing upon him, affur d me, that he once faid in our schools, that all those that make use of the Chinchina, commit a mortal sig, and that they make an impli-cite Past with the And to show that the Cure that is obtain d by And Remedy, is magical, it ought to be observed, sind see, that it works on all sorts of Tempers, and that after a certaintime, the Disease retirns, which has been acknowledged by all those that have writ against Magicians, to be the true Character of a

(D) His Death was mention'd in the Mercure Galant] I hade are Mr de Vize's Words (a) The 2- I wilt, of Phylicians of Paris, enjoys at present a great p- reposed; the Death of Dr Blondel He was the only one that remained obstinately bent against the general one that remain a softmately bent against the general approlation of Antimony, the good Effects whereof he following so much troubled that Learned Company that they seem'd to be always di
As it is likely that his Opinions will die with him, there is reason to hope, that Union and Peace will arain be established among so many civil Persons. It is certain, that in many places, the Death of one Prosessor, is more effectual for the Restoration of Peace, than the Mediations of an hundred Assem-

Peace, then the Mediations of an hundred Assemblies But can any body be sure, that this great Disturber of the publick Repositive will not soon be succeeded by others? Those kinds of People have no end, uno avulso non define sites. Since Mankind must be unhappy in this world, those fort of Persons are necessary, they are essential parts of the

(E) The Books that he promised the Publick] In April 1657 (b) his Treatile de pleurstide, required but three Months to be finished. The Author of but three Months to be finish'd The Author of was come to the Chapter de purgatione, which was to be a general Method, and to contain fine and uncommon things de orgasimo Hipp and upon the Explication of the Twenty-second Aphorism, Seet 1 Here is what Patin says in another place (c) The second of November in the Morning, we made a new Dean, to wit, Monsieur Blondel, which the Antimonian Flock is very much assor of the Aletophanes, a curious piece, as you know, aga nsi Antimony, and the chief Antimonal principally against Guenaut, des Fougementant, Mauvilain, S Jaques, and Theve the Remarks B and C, concerning the Lade vormity

The tile Remarks B and C, concerning the devomitu forcing himself with the Cunning of the tollowing Testimony, he may chuse my first Draught, says Mr Lamy (d) I will tea furthat he stands much on Integrity, that he seems to trample all worldly Interests under-foot, in order to maintain our Statutes in force That all that he says, or does, is always grounded upon a very laudable Motive, and that he never does any body harm, but out of Charity Dr Blondel was one of the eight Examiners that were given to Mr Lamy, and he desir'd one of them to pretend business, and not to be at the Assembly, and then he hinder'd the Decision, under pretence, that they were but seven He shewed some Remarks larger than Mr Lamy's Book, that tended to hinder the Impression He said, that Mr Lamy's Opinions were agans Galen, against the Stautes, and de vomitu Opinions were aga nft Galen, against the Statutes, and against the Holy Scripture. The absent Examiner was so much desired to come on a set-day to the Assembly, that he would have been there actually, if Dr Blondel had not fent him word, that there balneaof Dr Blondel had not fent him word, that there would be no Conference Dr Lamy went early to the place of the Conference, which was at potations & Dr Blondel's House, he waited two Hours, and mis elucities very much tir'd to hear him say nothing, datio This the never to trivial, but what Hippocrates, Plate, is the Title and Aristotle were call'd to witness Dr Blondel of the being told, that some-body asked for him, he was primwhile after, to tell Mr Lamy, that the Doctor ted at Aix, whom they stay'd for, sent word, that he could inthe Year not come He blam'd that Genteman's negligence to the place of Assignation, and that gave me so to come to the place of Assignation, and that gave me so much trouble

See the Honesty and Integrity of that Gentleman, who has always God and the Laws in his Mouth to justify his Astions When it was thought that all those shifts were at an end, he made use of this was the Parachaman. made use of this, he presented his Remarks, and by an Artifice that cannot be sufficiently detested, he brought some Propositions separated from others, that restified them, and which in truth could not pass alone There was a Contest, the places of the Book were read, and after much notic, it was resolved that the Book should pass, provided the Faculty of Divinity ap-proved of it. This was sufficient for Blondel to obtain his ends, for the Divines that read the Book, tain his ends, for the Divines that read the Book, would not subscribe to nor against it. And Mr Lamy would not singage to prove to them, that his Book did not contain any Heresy Upon what a Sea should I embark my self? says he I should inrage its Waves in such great numbers against me, that they would infallibly swallow me up, though unjusty. The Multitude, destitute of Judgment, would think they fought for the Interest of Heaven, and to offer a Pleasing Sacrifice to God, if they made me the Visitm of it.

(Fa) The Latin Relation of it has been twiceprinted. The first Edition is of the Year 1660 and contains only Thirty nine Pages in Twelves. The Second was procur'd two Years after by Charles Patin, and contains Ninty-six Pages in Octavo, the Index and contains Ninty-fix Pages in Offavo, the Index (e) Geographicus that was added to it, being comprehended in it, and without reckoning many Latin Verses, that the most excellent Poets composed, in praise of the young Lord, who performed those Travels But if, on the one hand, many things were added to the Second Edition, on the things were added to the Second Edition ther, a very fingular Passage was cut off from it is that where the Author reports, that in crossing the Forests of Westrogothia on Horse-back, they stop'd a while at Lincopen, to look upon a Column of Stone, wherein there was a Hole design'd for a use that cannot be civilly express d in French, but here is the Latin of it (f) Vestrogoticis ssivils equitante, industi, Lincopia ob loci religionem non omittenda, tantillum substitumus ibi cippus lapideus, pertusus, exploranda maritorum membrostati qui pares foramini, approbantur, impares excluduntur connubiali tore, itinerar inde matrimonia aut stant aut cadunt, pro modulo pe-culii The Preface of the Second Edition informs us why that Passage was suppress (g) Unum Te (g) Ibid moneo, huic Editioni, cui nihil deest, voluisse Lomenium in præsat aliquid deesse, quod scilicet in Westrogoticis silvis, per edit errabunda vessigia, morosa via pellendis tadii juvenili1662 ter luserat, Sapientierem atatem & puderem suppressiffe. The reason of the Suppression is very reasonable, since the thing was not related, because that Cufrom was actually observed in that place, but only

ac falugotiations brium

(e) Made by

(f) Ludovici Hen-TICI Lomenia pag 18 edit 1660

(i) Litter 3 24 dated 100 8 No-• wember, M558 Tol 1 pag 483

(a) Lami,

* Sec the Defeription of the City of Paris, printed in 1684

1De Witte,in Dinrio Biogriph

gotiations with foreign Princes, insomuch, that he attain'd to the Dignity of a Marshal de Camp, and to that of Councellor of State He had the honour of being (a) Nef-challen to teach the Dauphin Mathematicks, and it is he that gave the Draught * of modo not modo not be the date of the Dauphin Mathematicks. the new Grees that were made at Paris, fince the Dutch War of 1672 and of all the hil tam Imbelishments that have been added to that Capital City of the Kingdom. He made absurde also some of the Inscriptions that are to be seen on those new Gates, for he was as dici powell verift in the knowlege of good Literature, as in Geometry, as he made it appear by his Comparison of Pindar and Horace He was Director of the Academy of Articleture, and a Member of the Royal Academy of Sciences We have many the Philip Books of his making. He died the first of February 1997.

(F) Books of his making He died the first of February, 1686†

BOCCACIO (John) one of the most polite and learned Writers of his Age, re de division at (A) Certaldo in Tuscany, in the Year 1313 His Father, though a poor nat lib 2 Peasant, builthen'd with a Family, design'd him for something above his Birth fol m Which he icholy d upon, after having observ'd, that the Child's Physics nomy and Nemo Inch-

as a witty Conceit during the Tatigues of a troublesome Journey So that the Readers had been deceived, and besides, they had been presented with a very obscene thing, and which was very injurious to the Inhabitants of that Country, and conference the state was all the reason in the oniequently there was all the reason in the World, to strike out that part of the Relation If any body should ask me, sught that to have been left out, if the thing had been true? I would freely answer, I hat we must distinguish between Books and Beetle and harvens. Authors and Authors. and Books, and between Authors and Authors
There are some Persons whose Character requires an extraordinary Gravity, and who should be praised an extraordinary Gravity, and who should be praised for scrupling to relate a true Story of that nature, and there are some Books wherein it would be no ways proper to insert such Iacts But I don't think, that a Lay-man, who writes the History of a Country, or the Relation of his Travels, is oblig'd to be filent about a publick Custom, under pretence, that it is reducible, obscene and of der pretence, that it is ridiculous, obscene, and of an ill example If you lay down a contrary Maxim, you will find that it will be necessarily concluded, and without many gradual Confequences, that the Labour of Haftorians is bad, and that their Piofession ought to be plac'd among the un-lawful and permicious Arts, for it is impossible to write History, without relating infamous and abominible Actions Let us remember, that the most rigid Criticks do not blame the Historians, who mention all the Particulars of a Villainous Murther, or of a Horrid Treaton, and that they would not blame those that should truly say, that in some Towns they choose for their Buigomasters, those that have practis'd such and such brutish ways of making themselves drunk, that unless a Man has been able to bear such a Trial, he is not made a Conful, & They only condemn the Relations that mention fome Customs contrary to Chaftity Foi example, they would condemn a Writer, that should give the Pirticulars of the Piattice of the Congress, which has been at last so witel, abolished by the Parliament of Paris, and they do not confider that their Criticisms fall upon the incient lathers, who very ingenuously repreie sted the horrid Impusities practifed among the Pagans and Hereticks However it be, I'll make bold to ity, that if the Column of Stone mention d in the Travels of Mr de Lomenie, had actually feiv d for a rule to judge of the Validity or Invilidity of Marriages, it might not only have been related in the first, but also in the second Edition, and that therefore the only true reason Edition, and that theietore the only true reason of suppressing it in the Second, is, because it was a meet lable. I maintain, that supposing such a thing was prictised by publick. Authority, Mr Blondel had all manner of right to inform his Readers of it. Nay, I maintain, that some Inquiries might have been made about the Original of that Custom and interest in an History. of that Custom, and interted in an History, I say, one might have inquired into the Inconveniencies which had occition d that manner of difcerning those that were incapable of Marriage, from those that were sit for it, what sort of Pro cesses there was before, between Husbands and Wives, what Consultations were held to prevent them, and to invent that foolish remedy, for in short, the Isifory of Men, of their Follies, and Lxti vigancies, and of the infinite Varieties that are to be found in the Laws, and Usages of Nations, are not things of which the Readers ought to be frustrated, and from which we can reap no benefit It will not be amiss to see whether what has been faid of Philosophers, may not be applied to the Legislators It had been said, (a) that there is nothing so absord, but it has been maintain'd by some Philosophers Mr Huet inserted, in the Relation of his Journey to Stockholm, the ridiculous manner of electing the Burgomaster of a certain place call'd Hardenberg He says, that on the Day of the Election, the Burghers place themselves round a Table, and lean their Chins, furnish'd with a long Beard upon it, after which, a Louse is fairly put in the middle of the Table, and he into whose Beard the Louse gets, is chosen Burgomaster My Translation is so careless, that I must set down the excellent Verses of that Author

Mox (b) Hardenbergam fera sub nocte venimus R detur nobes veteri mos ductus ab avo Qu ppe ubi deligitur revoluto tempore Conful, Barbati circa mensam statuuntur acernam Hispidaque imponunt attenti menta Quirites Porrigitur series barbarum desuper ingens Bestia, pos, merdan, sueta inter crescere sordes, Ponitur in medio, tum cujus, numine Divum, Barbam adiit, sosto huic gratantur murmure Patres,

Atque celebratur subjects per oppida Consul

I cannot tell whether the witty Conceit that Mr Blondel inserted in his first Edition, was grounded on some Jest of the Inhabitants of the Country It may be, that some considering the Hole of that old Column, did (e) seriously inquire into the reason of it, and that others being used to jest upon every thing, invented what he laid. It is well known, that filly Jesters will tell in their free Conversations, I know not how many Stories concerning Complaints of Disproportion, brought dum before the Courts of Justice, by married Persons, (d) See as and that they falsly suppose, that the Lawyers well for who pleaded such Causes, did not deny the Disproportion, and were contented to maintain reciprocally, that the Fault was not to be imputed to the Artheir Client, but to the adverse Party, and that they made use of Gestures or Signs, when Words might seem to be too impudent Sweden might have Books, or had such Jesters, who occasion'd the Story related the Ex-

(F) We have a great number of Books of his making I Some Notes on Savot's Architecture A Course of Architecture, in three Voulmes, in Folio A Course of Mathematicks The Art of throwing Bombs The History of the Roman Calendar A new way eruditor of Fortifying Places, & I must not forget to in 1684 observe as to this last piece of Work, that the Aupag 225 thor having presented it to the King his Maker, in 1685 his Majesty would not suffer it to be publish'd, pag 164, before the Fortifications which he caus'd to be 438 Nou hade in divers places, according to that new method, were finish'd, it not being just, that Strangers hould have the Benefit of it before that time For the same reason, the Impression of the Art of throwing Bombs, was put off till another time, when the Author shewed the Manuscript of it to his Majesty, in 1675 (d) That Precaution has been of no use to those of Dieppe, this present

(A) Was born at Certaldo] Betuff, (e) who is my Author, affirms it, divers others fay the same, but I don't know how to reconcile this with a Passage of Boccacio It is that where he makes mention of the (f) River that runs near the Castle of Gertaldo I willingly celebrate, says he, (g) the Memory of that Castle, which was the place of the Nativity, and Abode of my Ancestors, before the City of Florence received them into the Number of its Citizens Would he speak into the Number of its Citizens Would he speak the P thus, if he was born there? Bereff could not be Elfa modo nilosophoægrotus guicquam fomniat fandum quod non aliquis . dicat Philoíophus Varro in Eumenid apud Nonium voce infans p m 56 (b)Huetius in itinere Suecico, P 7 edit 1662 (c) The learned Suares, Bishop of Vailon, made a very learned Differtation de foramınıbus lapı-

2 edit (1) G1Uieppe twiff in Boccacio (f) It 18 Elfa (g)Bocca, CIO in the the Word Igno-tracts publish'd by the Tour-

nalifts See

eruditor,

438 Nou-

vel de la Rep des let 1684

P48 427

Inclinations promis'd much. Inclinations promis'd much. He design'd him for Trade, and put him to a Florence Merchant, who carried him to Parss. Boccaeso serv'd that Master six Years, and was well (B) belov'd by him, for he understood how to keep Accompts; but he grew weary of that Imployment, and as he shewed an aptness for Study, they made him change his Occupation, and learn the Canon-Law, as being a Calling that might enrich him. He lost almost as much time in that second Function, as in the first, it the Reproofs, and the Exhortations of his Friends, did not frop his natural Inclinate Versify and Philipphize Twas in vain to tell him that it was not the way for the Fortune, and that he would deceive the Hopes which the good Man, his Notwing Land that he would deceive the Hopes which the good Man, his Factory and conceived, to find himself one Day at ease, by the help of such a Son. Notwing Landing all this, he continued to have an Aversion to the Lawyers Trade Nevertheless, he could not free himself from that unpleasant Study, till after his Father's Death's he was forc'd to constrain himself till that time. But as soon as he attain'd to Independency, he fully renounc'd his former Occupations, and gave himself over to the reading of the Poets. He put himself under the Discipline of Petrarch, he savery where for other (D) Masters, and not having a sufficient Revenue to fought every where for other (D) Masters, and not having a sufficient Revenue to maintain himself, he sold his Patrimony, and exhausted himself in such a manner, that he stood in need of the Charity of others. He caused Homer to be translated into La-

(a) Quello per le fue degne virtù fu fatto cita-- Mno F10rentino Betussi ib
(b) Sabel licuslib 9 apud Be tulli spid

(r)Benvenuto da

Imola apud Be-cuffi in Vita Boc-

(d) Def-

Sat 8 p.

52

CaCII

ignorant of that Passage, for he translated into Italian, the Treatise from whence I have taken it Perhaps, if he had minded it, he would not have said, that the City of Florence (a) gave Beccacie the freedom of a Citizen Would not that Gift have been superfluous to a Man, whose Anacons were Florence as Saladiana Paragraphs cestors were Florence? Sabellicus pretends, that Boccacio was of Florence, and of the Family of Certaldo, (b) Florentinus Certalda domo Let not these Difficulties trouble you, since Boccacio affirms in the Epitaph that he compos'd for himself, and which is on his Tomb, that he was born at Cerwas well below'd by his Mafer, for he underflood how to keep Accompts] That Love did not continue Boccacio being more fit to be a Wit, than for a Counting-Board, was diffusited with Trade, and neglected his Materia, Business, who being displeas d with his Continue for a country (1) and the continue for the country (1) and the cou dust, sent him back into his Country (c) Egli ediande tale effercise, & pece curande i negetii del Pa-drone, da lui su licenciate, & rimandate alla patria I wonder more at that Merchant's patience, than at his fending him away I fay, I wonder that he could keep a Youth fix Years, that afpir'd only to Poetry, an Inclination much less agreeable to that Master's Interest, than the geading of the Complest Merchant, and the knowledge of a Banker's Trade

Gent (d) francs au denier cinq combien font ills? vingt livres

There are the Sciences with which young Boc-escie ought to have been in love, if he would have continued in his Master's Favour But on the other fide it was a good fign that he might become a Poet, to fee him have an aversion to such Calculations

(e) Horat Poet w 325

Romani (e) pueri lougis rationibus affer Discunt in partes centum diducere Dicat Filius albini, si de quincunce remota est Uncia, quid superat? potei as dixisse, Triens hous, Rem poteris servare tuam redit uncia quid fit? Rem poterts servare tuam redit uncia quid sit seus Ad hac ammes arugo & cura peculi Dim semel imbuerit, seramus carmina singi bastilinenda cedro, & levi servanda cupresso seral inclination to versify Consult him the inclination between assume, says he, (f) and sell in neutrum borum esserum, aut praceptoris delirina, aut genitoris autoritate, qua novis mandatis angebar continue, aut amicorum precibus sen objurgationibus suclinari pesses, un tancum illum poetica angebar continue, aut amicorum precibus seu objurgationibus inclinari posset, in tamum illum poetica trabebat assetsio. What he adds concerning the Inclination which he had from his childhood to Fictions, is curious (g) Nec ex novo sumpto consilio in poesse autorium (g) Nec ex novo sumpto consilio in poesse autorium testis tendebat pedibus quimimò à verussissima dispositione ibat impulsue, nam satis memor sum nondum ad spetimum atatis annum deveneram, nec dum sistiones videram, nondum destores aliquos adiveram, vim prima literarum elementa cagnoveram, & ecce ipsa impellente natura singuali desderium assut, & si nullius esset momenti, tamen aliquas sistionicales edidi, non anim suppetebant tenella atatis officio tanti vires ingenii Ha observes that he soon acquir'd the Reputation enim suppersont tenella atatis efficie tanti wires ingenii of a Poet, and before he knew the Rules of the Art, and he complains of his Father, who thinking of nothing but what is profitable, would not fuffer him to apply himself to that Study He is the cause, says he, that I am neither a Merchant nor a Canonist, as he wish'd me to be, and that I have lost the Advantage of signalizing my self in (b) Id ib Poetry (b) Mirabile dietu, cum nondum novissem, pag 189 quibus seu quot pedibus carmen incederet, me etiam pro viribus renitente, quod nondum sum, poeta fere à no-tis omnibus vocatus sui nei dubito dum ataein hoc aptior erat, si aquo genitor tulisset animo, quin inter celebres poetas unus evasissem verum dum in lucrosas ar-tes primò, inde in lucrosam facultatem ingenium stettere consi er meum, fattum est, ut nec negociator sim, nec evaderem Canonista, & perderem poetam est conspicuum. One may easily represent to one self the old Man's trouble he was not rich, and he found that he had a Son capable to advance himself, but that he had a son capable to advance himlest, but instead of finding in him any Inclination for gainful Imployments, he saw his mind only inclind to Philosophy and Poetry which are things generally contrary to the Acquisition of Riches (1) Piacendegli sommamente legere e intendere i buoni poeti, a quali era molto inchinato, e in tutte le sue attioni la vita philosophica imitando. Nondimeno questo suo proposite giiera non impedito, ma quasi vietato dal padre, il quale si perche era male agiato, come ancho perche ejudiquale si perche era male agrato, come ancho perche grudi-cava gli studi della humanità e Philosophia congiunti con la poessa potergi: dare poco utile, desiderava e voleva che si mettesse ad altra professione, per lo mezzo della quale This puts me

potesse sa aura projessone, per to mezzo acua que potesse sostena se a justo a lui. This puts n in mind of a Passage of Mr Boileau Fills, (k) frere, oncle, cousin, beau-frere de Greffier, Pouvant charge mon bras d'une utile liasse, J'allay loin du Palau errer sur le Parnasse, J'a Emilla ma alle de que en famille La Famille en palit, & vit en fremissant Dans la poudre du Groffe un Poete nassant On vid avec borreur une Muse effrenée Dormir chez un Greffier la graffe matinée Destors à la richesse il falut renoncer

Desires à la richesse il falut remoncer
(D) He sought every where other Masters and exhausted himself in such a manner, that he stood in need of the Charity of others] He (I) went into Sicily, to hear the Lectures of a (m) Calabrian, who had the Reputation of being very learned in the Greek Language He praises (n) very much Andalus de Nigre, a Native of Genea, who had taught him Astronomy We shall see hereaster, that he was acquainted with a learned Man of Thessalianica the following Words shew that he was very low, (e) Ma non posendo il povero poeta cel debile patrimonio. (a) Ma non pojendo il povero poeta col debile patrimonio, che quasi gia se n'era andato lungamente piu negli studi continuare, come disperato se ne stava quasi per pigliare novo partito & senza dubbio sarebbe stato a eso constretto dalla necessita ma ill divino Petrarcha, che molto l'annana incamunica sanana incamunica su divino costa causandi. dalla necessita ma ill divino Petrarcha, che molto bili Tosl'amava incominciò sovenirlo in diverse cose, ajutandolo cane e secondo i bisogni di denari, e provedendogli di libri, & Umbre, altre necessarie cose onde sempre egli lo chiamò padre e in the benefatter sue You see there, that if Petrarch had Journal not supply'd poor Beccacio with Money and Books, and such like Assistances, the latter must have been vans, seoblig'd to give over his Studies, by reason of his Poverty, and to take some other course Note, that Petrarch bequeathed him (p) by his Will, sity Florius for a Winter-Sute, that he might follow his Studies commediansy.

(E) He

(b)Betuffi

preaux épitre 5 p m 92 (1) Betuffi ıbıd (m) It was without doubt the Monk Barlaam (n)Boccacius de geneal Deor lib 15 c G See Papy rius Masfo ubi fupra p 195 (0) Betulli ibid (p) Don Eugenio GamurriniAbbate istoria genealogica delle familie nobili Tof-

(E) He

(f) Boccačius, de genealog Deorum 4

lonem clog 2 5000

* See the Remark A † See the Remark N, of the Naples (Toam I) Taken from his Lif , writ-LOR by Meller Biffano It as pre-Iralian Translati-on of Boccacio's Book de genealogia Deoium,wiit Jame Betuffi

(n)Boccatius de gene il Deor lib is c 7 ipud Pi pyrium Millonem ubi fupra, p191, 192

eund pag

genealogia Deorum

explain that Poet. He did not addict himself so much to Poetry, as to neglect other Studies. He undertook also to read the Bible, (F) but being an old Man, he only run over it, and thought that God having call'd him to the Culture of Poetry, he ought to dwell on that The Republick of Florence honour'd him with the * Freedom of a (*) Betussian, and imploy'd him in publick Affairs, and particularly to negotiate the return ubisuprated for the performance of Poetry. They sent him to him, but Petrarch not only did not return to Florence have They fent him to him, but Petrarch not only did not return to Florence, but of Petrarch also made Boccacio resolve to leave that place, considering the Factions that divided it this Title, I think he had not much trouble to inspire him with that Design; for Boccacio was Traite, Man that lov'd Quiet, and would not joyn with any Faction A Person that is indes mesaclin'd that way, acts a melancholy part in a divided City Having left farence, he ventures rambled in several places of Italy, and stop'd at last at the Court of Naples, where King Robert gave him a very good Reception He fell very much in love t with that signalez Prince's Natural Daughter, which made him stay a considerable time at Naples Messer He made also a long abode in Sicily, where he had a good share in Queen Jam's savour Betussida He return'd to Florence when the Troubles were somewhat appeared, but could not like the course of Life that he must have led there For which reason he retir'd to Certaldo, tor's name where, far from the Noise of the World, he spent his time in Study, according to his a Clau-Hancy. He always lov'd Liberty, which was the Reason that he would never put dius Vi-himself into the Service of any great Lord, though he was desir'd to do it by many His applying himself too much to Study, occasioned an illness in his Stomach, of which he dy'd it Caraldo, in the Year 1375 He was bury'd there in St James's and St. Phi-Inp's Church He was of an (G) amorous Complection, and yet he would never marry, fter La-and left but one Natural Child || He compos'd many Books, (H) Some learned and tinp 527

(E) He procur'd a Professor's Chair to a Grecian] That Man was of Theffalonica, and his Name was Leontius Pylatus Let us fee what Boccacio fays of him (a) Ego, Leontium Pylatum a Venetiis occiduam Babylonem quarentem a longa peregrinatione meis flexi confilis, in paria tenui, illum in propriam domum suscepi, & diu bospitem babui & maximo labore meo curavi ut inter doctores Florentini studii susciperetur, ei ex publico morcede apposita Fui equidem ipscinsuper, qui primus meis sumptibus Homeri libros & alios quosdam Gracos in Hetruriam revocavi, exqua multis ante seculis abiciant non redituri. Nec in Hetruriam tan-tum, sed in patriam deduxi. Isse ego sui qui primus ex Latinis a Leonito Pylato in privato Iliadem audivi Institute in Leonito Printo Printo Printo Itianem aunitor Institute in m n praceptoris demonstratione crebra integré intellexi, of up praceptorus demonstratione crebra integre intelleni, cosque prout oportunum visum est, huicoperi miscui. He quotes him in several places of the Genealogy of the Gods, not that this Pylatus had writ any Books, but Boccacio had heard him say many things which he preserved in his Collections. We shall see in the following Words, part of that Greek Doctor's Character It may easily be concluded from them, that he was a Pedant (b) Leontium Pylatum Thessis loniconsem virum, or ut ipse affert Barlas auditorem, loniconsem virum, or ut ipse affert Barlas auditorem, so a persent barlas auditorem, for ut persent Barlas auditorem, so a persent Barlas of apud fersape diduco, spettu horridus homo est, turpi facie, und pag barba proliza, & capilitio nigro, & meditatione occu-pa'us assidua, moribus incultus, nec satis urbanus homo, verum uti experientia notum fecit, literarum Graconum dottissimus of quodammodo Gracarum historiarum at-que fabularum artiumque inexhaustum, esto Latinarum non latus adbuc instructus sit. Hujus ego nullum vidi opus, sane quicquid ex eo recito ab eo viva voce referente percepi. Nam eum legentem Homerum, & meeum singulari amicita converjantem fere tribus annu audivi, nce infinitis ab eo recitatis urgente etiam alia cura animum, acrier suffecisset memoria nisi in Schedulis commen-(F) He undertook also to read the Bible, but being an old Man | Let us let down a Passage of Bernss (c) Betussi (c) Diede quell' opra maggiore che per lui si potesse alla ubi tupra poessa, & ancho si pose a studiare nelle sacre lettere, ma essendo hoggimai quasi vecchio, si come tessimonia egli (d) Viz de siesso nell' ultimo d'i presenti (d) libri dicendo Catera facultatum studia, & si placorent, quemam mon sictopol-lerent, mirume securus sum Vidi tamen sacra volumina à quibus quoniam annosa est asas, & tenuitas ingenis distascre, destit, turpissimum ratus senom, ut ita loquar, elementarium nova inchoare fudia, & cunctos indecon-tissimum esse il attentasse, quod minime arbitrerio perse-cere poste. Cost non nolto in questo studi si fermo, anni dalcia idozli da parte attese alla sua cara poessa alla quali da i cieli cra chiamato, si come continuando segue dicendo Et ideo cum existimem Dei benoplacito me in has vocat one vocatum, in eadem consistate meni est. This is observable. He believ'd that oven in his old Age, he ought to apply himself chiefly to Poetry, and that it was the Talent that God had intrusted him with, and the Ministry to which heaven had call'd him He follow'd the Maxim, guam quisque neverit artein is hac se exerceat, every vita Boctody must meddle with the Trade he underformed. flands

(G) Of an amorous Completion, and yet he would neGeffner in wer marry] Let us quote Betuffi again (e) Fu Biblioth medessimamente molto inchinato all' amore & libi- fol 390

medefimamente molto inchinato all'amore & [161-dinoso, & non poco gli piacquero le donne, como che di lero in molti luoghi dell'opere sue ne dicesse quel peg-gio che dire si potesse tuttavia di alquante nelle scrit-ture sue sotto sinte nome ne sa honorato ricordo mon lascio di se beredi legittimi perche non hebbe mai moglie, solamente di lui rimase un figlivolo naturale sanmoglie, folamente di lui rimaje un privoco inara noi janza piu

(H) He composed many Books. An Abridgment of the Roman History from Remulus till the Year of Rome 724 with a Perallel of the feven Kings of Rome, and of the Emperors, till Nero, inclusive That Work was printed at Cologne, in the Year 1534 in 80 The History of illustrious Women, printed at Bern, in the Year 1539 in Folio The Genealogy of the Gods, with a Treatise of Mountains, Seas, Rivers, Lakes, & That Work Was printed at Bass, in the Year 1532 in Folio, with the Notes of James Micyllus De cassous virorum illustrum That Work began with Adam, and ended with John King of France, taken by the English in with John King of France, taken by the English in the Year 1356 It was printed at Paris, in Folio, by the care of John Thierri, of Beauvau I do not know in what Year, and consequently I cannot tell whether that Edition is later than that of Ausburg, whether that Edition is later than that or Ausburg, 1944 That Book was translated into Italian, Spanish, English, and (f) French I wonder that Possius (g) spoke of most of these Works, as if they were only Manuscript As for the Books thatware ascribed (b) to Beccacio, do without Sigismund: Imperators in Turchas; de haressburg sufferies in Turchas; de haressburg sufferies in Turchas. Confrantinopoli, de Tartarorum victorea in Turchas, they feem to me chimerical, and some of them are certainly fo Let us fay iomething of Beccacro's Italian Compositions He made it philosole, la flammetta, l'Amace, il labininto d'amore, la vita (i) di dante, il decamerone, of which I am going to speak, &c. All those Books, and most of the Latin, have been translated into French (k) long since As for his translated into Pouch (k) long since As for his Italian Verses, I shall only say, that he made many, and that he did not show a great Talent in them (l) Per dire il vere, to fish volgare in verse non gli su troppo amico. Neversheless, he was one of the Trumpuirs, or nothe short Paracaca and the Trumpuirs. Triumvirs, or of the shree Princes of the Pe of that Age, it is true, that he had only the last Rank given him in the Possical Triumpurate; the Rank given him in the Poesical Triumsvirase; the first was given to Dance, and she second to Petrarch (m) Note, that the Thesiste of Boscasis was a Poem (n) of a new Invention, which is a thing very glorious to him; for mone but great Wits can trace out new ways, unknown to exhert Id ibid ventures fonnages 1578. 12

us de Histor La-

(h) Poc-Ciantius Betuffi in

(1) It was Rome and as Florence 1576 in 0

(k) See the Bibliotheque Françoile of DuVerdier Vau-Privas, at the word JohnBoc-

(1) Betuffi. ubi fupra

(m) Id 1b (n) Scriffe la Thefeide opra in ottava rima, nella tengono f fatti di theseo, & th il priwo th di tale testura percioche permanze non mi rihaver trovato ch'

Serious, and others full of Gallantry and Stories. It is chiefly (1) by the latter, that he immortalized himself He is tax'd with (K) Plagrarism I shall make a Remark

Let us not forget, that he acknowledged his in-feriority for hiving feen Petrarin's Sonnets, and Songs, he refolved to throw his Poems into the (a) Id 🐎 (b) Petrarcha epist ad Boccacium lib

pag 191 (Paulus Jovius Elog cap 6 pag 23

s rerum fenilium apud Papyr Mai-fonem ubi fupra,

(a) Berneggei idol lauret p 128 & icq apud Tho Pope
Flount

ceniura Author pag 308 (e) Balthasai Bo-nifacius, 432, 433

(f) Bail-let, Jugem d Savans des Dom 3 pag $3 He quotes ebe Preface to the Italıan Grammar of the Gentlemen of Post-

(g) Bul-lart, Academ des Science 20307 I pag 26,

(b) Pepyr Mai-fonem ubi fupra

(i) Id 1b

Songs, he resolved to throw his Poems into the Fire. Petrarch writ a Letter to him to distinate him from that design (a) Betassi stops there, but he should have said also, that Beccase actually Lurnt his Italian Verses, after having seen that they came not near those of Petrarch See the Author (b) that I quote

(1) It is chiefly by the latter, that he immortalized himself I This ought chiefly to be understood of the Peccameron, which is a Collection of an Hundred Novels, wherein there are very diverting Adventures of Love, and many rogush Tricks play'd to Husbands That Work his been translated into several Languages, and Reprinted a great many times It is by that Book that many People, who would have been ignorant of the other Writings of this Author, know that Boccasio was an Ornament of his Age, a fine Wit, an excellent Author, a Virtuoso, & C. Paul Journa makes excellent Author, a Virtuoso, &c Paul Jovius makes this Remaik (c) Obsolescunt & agrè quidem out e spi-ritum retinent libri de Genealogia Decrum, varietateque Fortuna, & de fontibus accurate potsus quam feliciter elaborati, quando jam pla decem dierum fabula, Mile-fiarum imitatione in giatiam oblectandi ocij, admirabili jucunditate composita, in omnium nationum linguae adoptentur, & sine ulla suspitione interitue, applaudente po-pulo, cunttorum operum gratiam antecedant. There are some Protestants to whom the Decameron is not uniome Protestants to whom the Decameron is not un-pleasant, they find in it some Railleries against the Monks, and the Popish Devotions In eo fabulis & histories centum papale regnum, confessionem auricu-larem, Sanctos, lipsanolariam, purgatorium &c acer-rime perstringit, pervensitatis Papaa non ignarus (d) Doubtless this is the reason why some Catholick Authors call him an impious Man (e) Boccacus Hetruscorum Cicero, fabulator jucundus, & cloquens ser-mone patrio, sed Latini parum peritus. Theoremia nam Hetruscorum Cicero, fabutator sucunaus, & cooquent ser-Histor mone patrio, sed Latini parum peritus, Theogonia non Ludicire, admodum accuratus, & Mythologia non satis idoneus lib 15 enarrator, in omnibus obscanus, IMPIUS, & veisi-e 3 pag ficator ineptissimus You see he is also call'd an obscene Maii The Gentlemen of Port-Royal reproach'd him with the same thing It ought to be ob-ferv'd, say they, "(f) that there are some Passages "in that Author, that make it appear, that he was "in that Author, that make it appear, that he was less scrupulous to violate the Rules of the purity of Manners, which we have received from GOD himself, than to offend against those that concern the purity of the Language, which proceed only from the Caprices or the Will of Men" Let us see what Mr Bullart observes concerning that Book (g) The most considerable of his Composities, lays he, is the Decameion, having been feccived with applause by all Italy, it was also so favourably entertained by Foreign Nations, that each would have it in the rianguage, and it was so much the more eagerly sought after, because some endeavours were we'd to suppress it and because it was Consurd, by reason of its free and satyrical Discourses against the Monks Boccacio published it in the Year One thousand three bindred forty eight, in a time when the City of Flo-Boccacio published it in the Year One thousand three hindred forty eight, in a time when the City of Florence was desolated, and almost deserted by a cruel Contag on It may be reckon'd among the finest of his Writing that are made for Diversion, and that in some manner are both useful and delightful Petrarch having read it over found so many pleasant things in it, that he took the pains to Translate a Piece of that sine Work anto Latin for his own satisfaction, which was the incredible Patiense of Grifelide towards her Hiuband the Marquis of Saluces Petrarch dedicated the Letin Translation that he had made of that Story of Gri-felide to Boccacio, and told him, that in rushing o-ver the Decameron, he had observed that the Author had been oblig'd to reprove certain Satyrists, that could do nothing but find fault with what they would, or could not do (b) Animadverti alcubi librum ipsum canum dentibus lacessitum, tuo tamen baculo egregie, tuaque voce defensum Nec miratus sum baculo egregie, tuaque voce defenjum. Nec miratus jum nam & vires ingenis tui novi, & scio expertus esse hominum genus, & inselens & ignavum, qui quicquid ipsi vel nolunt, vel nosciunt, vel non possunt, in adiis reprehendunt, ad loc unum detti & arguti. Sed elingues ad veliqua. He adds, that he excuses the lascivious passages on account of the Writer's Age, the nature of the Matter, and the Character of the Persons that would read such a Work (1) Si quid lascivia liberioris accurreret, excusabat atau tunc tua dum id scrip

beres, stilus, idioma, ipsa quoque rerum levitas, & corum qui letturi talia videbantus resert enim largiter qui- (k) Hemas bus scribas, morumque varietate stili varietas excusatur a Native Nothing can be more equitable than this, All those of Dauthat pretend to judge of a Book, ought to go by phine, this Model, they ought to consider the Author's Treasurer Age and Profession, the nature of the Subject, and of the for what Persons he writes, for that which would Wars, and for what Persons he writes, for that which would be intolerable in a Dogmatical Work, is not so in a Secretary Work design'd for Diversion However it be, the to the obscenities of the Decameron did not hinder the Queen of wisest and most virtuous Plincess of France from Navarre ordering it to be Translated into Franch, since it the only was to obey the most Illustrious Margaret de Valois, Sister of Queen of Navarre, that Antony le (k) Macon transflated it into that Language Du Verdier Van-Privas (1) takes notice of sive Editions of that Translation, without mentioning that which I make use of, which is that of Paris by Martin le Jenne 1559 Biblioth In 8° nor that of Paris by Oliver de Harsy 1569 He observes that the same Book had been Translated long pag 72 before by one Laurens Note, that there is an (m) Itaobserves that the same Book maa seen translation tong pag 72 before by one Laurens Note, that there is an (m) Italian Edition of the Decameron, to which Francu San- (m) At fourn added a Preface, and the Author's Life A Venice new French Translation of that Work with Figures, 1549 was publish'd at Amsterdam in the Year 1697 He 410 that made that Translation, owns in the Preface that he has unravel'd the Graces of the Original, (n) Bonithat he has unravel'd the Graces of the Original, (n) Bonithat he has unravel'd the Graces of the Original (n) Bonithat he has unravel'd the Bonit that he has unravel'd the Graces of the Original, (n) Bonithat he has dress'd them according to our fashion, facto Vathat he has abridg'd several things, and avoided nozzi del-Repetitions, and even that he has often alter'd not le lettere only whole Periods, but also the Plan of the Work, that miscellable has only taken the essential part of the Novel, and nee, Vol 1 that to avoid the Preambles that are prefix d to each Stopage 580 that to avoid the Preambles that are prefix a to each Story, he thought fit not to name the Interlocutors, and to omit the distinction of the Days, that when he met with (o) Leand any licentious passages, he took a particular care to wrap Albertus up things in such a manner that the Fair Sex might descript laugh without blushing He hopes there will be Ital pass no cause to complain that he has spoil d any thing
m 101
by 100 service of criminals a Circumspection. But many (a) He many no cause to complain that he has spoiled any thing m 101 by too scrupulous a Circumspection. But many (p) Hi was people are persuaded that all those who are able King of to read the Decameron in Italian, will have a disgust Naples for a Translation of different from the Original, (q) Bocand that they will rather make use of the old Trancat de slations than of this, and when instead of translating literally, Translators take the liberty to cut Deor lib off and alter whatever they please, they are liable 15 c 6 See to the same reproaches as the Wine-Merchants, Vossius de who seldom have any thing but sophisticated Mix-Histor who feldom have any thing but sophisticated Mix- Histor tures in their Cellars

Perhaps no Body has exclaim'd more against 525, 526

Boccacio than Vanozzi He pretends, that the reading of the Decameron has made so many Courtecacius in sans, that a Man would be astonish d if he knew opere de the number of them Al fuece, al fuece, cries he genealo-(n), fifatti volumi, spengasi il seme una vella di cost gia Deo-maligna Zizania Che potesse contare quante puttane rum Ful-ha satte il Decameron del Beccacio, rimarebbe stupido, gentii & senza senso, Che cosa di cano di lui duo Florentini sa-mytholoo senza senso, Che cose dicano di lui duo Florentini samytholoui, o letterati amendue, leggasi in due lettere, una di giam, etiFrancesco Petrarcha tra le laitine o una di Bartolomeo am cum Cavalcante tra le vulgari, o intenderallo Ma che non citat, occorre cercar piu oltre di quello, che n'habbia giudicato graviter la santa inquistione dannandolo? Non si puo negare, che excripsit, l'opera del Decameron, non sia stata di notabilgiouamento adeo ut ex alla lingua Tosca, della quale egli è veramente Maestro. Boccacio ma per conto delle materie, o delle cose narrate da esso, in non in quel suo novelliere, non si può dire, quanto, o quale paucis sia stato, o perseveri tuttavia, il danno, che se ne senemendari te There are in this Letter of Vannozzi, several fulgentiother Testimonies of his Zeal against Books of us potuetit sente

Love-Intrigues

(K) He is tax'd with Plagiarism] It is faid, (e) that in decad his Book de genealogia Deorum, was taken out of n 95 fuch a like Work of the Civilian Paul of Perugia, Library-keeper of King (p) Robert But fince he (1) confesses, that he took many things out of it, Vossii. and chiefly those that he put out under the Name of Theodontius, it ought not to be imputed to him logia, cap as a Crime He is not so excusable as to what he has taken out of another (r) Author, and out of p 57 (s) Vibrus Sequester's Book de nominibus fluminum, fon- p 57 tium, lacuum, nemerum, paludum & gentium, for he never quotes him It is a question, whether he is (t) Leand the true (t) Author of the l'Amete, and of the Albert l'amateria visione Thomasius has not put him in his ubi supra List of Plagiaries Vannount takes notice that the pag 76

N n n Decameron

Latin pag

de Philo-

1 de Jo-1 iff 1, pag

Niciis Lrythizeii. Pina-< h 3 7 2 aking of Ir Book ituled Picti del pringone

|| De nuestios tien pos fer not 1aos por de nchio cr maldiciente, Finnciaco Poeta contra los con Italimos Traj 1 10 Bocalini d (curfift paradoxo con-

(a) Vanozzi, as to an, Notes upon Philip de

Comines, ch 1 letter T pag 3

(4) Id 1b pag 511

Ato Ju

(1) Difficult propolces à Mr Stey-urt IX part pag

A Mar fi- on the care that the (L) Inquisitors have taken to place his Decameron in the 1 de 10- List of forbidden Books His Labyrinth of Love (M) has been lately Translated: that Book is a Proof of his disorderly Ingagements with the Fair Sex, and of the Troubles they were attended with I do not question but that there are a great many particular and very curious things concerning Boccacio, and his Books in the Istoric della volgar poessa, publish'd in the Year 1698 in Quarto, by the Abbot Giovanni Marie de Crescembons. I have not that Book, which would be very useful to me, neither do know my Body that has it Some + fay, that Boccaeso was either the Author, of the Approver of the Book de tribus impostoribus.

Approver of the Book de tribus impostoribus.

BOCCALINI (Trajan) Born at Rome, was a very line Wat in the beginning. the XVIIth Century He was too much given to Jesting and Slandering; and holding his general Court on Parnassus, heard the Complaints of all Personal Justice according to the exigency of the Case. This produced the Ragging Parnassus, heard have been Translated areas forward Language and well relabled. which have been Translated into several Languages, and well relished by the Publick. He fell into the common Fault of those that delight too much in Satyr, which is, that he would not space Crown'd Heads, and attack'd chiefly those that made then the greatest noise in Europe. He attack'd the Court of Spain so much the more sharply, because he pretended to show that the Monarchy of that Name was not so powerful is it was imagin'd, and that the Strength of it might easily be undermin'd by certain ways which he pointed to This has been thought the occasion of his Death The Spaniards || complain'd much of his Detraction See in Morers how he was put to Death That Man, who Censur'd every Body, and who found so much fault with the Government, made it appear, that his Theory (A) and his Theore did not well igree together, for the Jurisdiction which he exercis'd in some places of the Ecclede fu no haffical State was no ways agreeable to the Rules People went continually to Rome to complain of him, which occasion'd many malicious Resections, as well against the Advocates

Decameron is full of Plagianism (a) In un libro di Nouelle, & di bel parlare gentile, anteriore al Boccacio, & di doue egli cauo alcune delle riposte da lui nel suo Detra toda cameron, o Principe Goleste, che vuel dire Principe de' li nacion Ruffiani, si legge questa cosi puntalmente, & de verbo li i inola ad verbum descritta Having quoted the Words of the Author, who liv'd before Boccacio, he observes the Author, who live before Bucacio, he observes that the Copyst had corrupted his Original in a scandalous manner. The Persons mention'd in the Copy, are Clergy-men, who lose their Virtue those of the other Author, were Lay-men, who had forsiken their evil ways (b) To be copiate qui quista nouelletta, dal sus detto libro, acciò si noti il peggioramento, che n'ha satto il Boccacio, trasserendola tra le sue, che è quella a punto de Masetto da Lamporecchio tanto poegiorata, & cosis scandalofamente alterata, come euidichera chiunque la sapia attribuendo a persone sacre il Boccacio quella colpa, che dal suo anteriore su ascrista a pe soni profini, & dove quelli sa di cattino douentar buon lo sue, il Boccacio sa di buone douentar cattiue le

(L) That the Inquisitor have taken to place his Decameion] Mr Arnauld (c) oblives that the Books of the Pagan Poets full of so much fithings, that may incline the Riaders to sin, have not been forbid, for thu one reason, because they are necessary for some Persons to learn the Latin Tongue and therefore those that made the Rules of the Index, did not believe that by any positive 1.am it ought to be forbidden that young Perlous, who are Maffers of their Reading, to whom these Books are much more dangerous than to Children, should read the infamous passages of Martial, Juvenal, Horace, Petronius, Apuleius, Oc Not but that they thought, that most of those who read them did ill, but because others, who are sufficiently confirmed in Firtue not to be affected with those bad Ideas, and to mind only the near-ness and elegancy of the Greek and Latin Tengue, may read them innocently, it was thought expedient to keep to the Law of Mature, and to leave those things to every one's Conscience, and to the judgment of the Directors and Confessors. The like was done with respect to Boccacio's Decameron Because the Italians find the greatest delicary of their Language in it, the licentrouguels of his Stories did not hinder it from being in cutry Body's Hands, provided it was corrected And I have been told, that that Correction confifts only in changing the Words Monks and Nuns into others. But fince things, that may be a Temptation to Impurity, are the more dangerous, when they are related in a pleasant aid, it is not a thing that does much honour to the Christian Religious so leave such a dangerous Book in wery Body: Hands, because it is writ very politely, whilf many others are forbid, wherein there is more to be learn d, and less danger What I say of it, is only by comparing to many forbidden Books, with that of Boccacio, which is not forbidden All this Discourse is wery judicious, and it contains a thingthat may make one believe, That provided the Clergy be not concern'd in the matter, they don't care much what harm the reading of Beccacio may do

(M) His Labyrinth of Love, has been lately Transited that Book is a proof] That French Translations Printed at Paris in 1699 was immediately Berinted at Amsterdam It bears the Title of accio's Dream, and is an Invective against men The Author writ it whilst he was an with a Widow, whom he had lov'd, and who play'd him an ill Trick He who Translated that Work has taken more liberty than the new Translated that play'd him an ill Trick He who Translated that Work, has taken more liberty than the new Translator of the Decameron He has left out many things, which he has fill'd up with Stories, Programms, and Verses, compos'd either by his Friends, or by the Writers of our Time Mr de Beauval (d) frys, That it is me mays a regular Translation of Boccacio's Dream, but an ill forted Collection of Boccacio's Dream, and of all that the Moderns have faid des Ouvrabout Women, a long time after Boccacio Another Journalist is yet more severe, he says, (e) That the 1699, 200 Supplements make the whole piece monstrous and quite 18 Journalist is yet more severe, he says, (e) That the Supplements make the whole piece monstrous and quite destroy the Occomony of it Nothing appears more out of place in a Book of Boccacio, who liv'd above Thundred Years ago, than some Verses of Mademosselle will be Scuderi, Mr de la Bruyeere's Thoughts, Rochesou-cault's Maxims, and some Pieces of a latter date Note, Rep des that the Translator advertises us, that he has less lestres. out many things that Modesty would not bear, but that he has preserv'd Boccasio's Devotion, because he thought he should have too much dissigur'd his Work, if he had depriv'd him of it, after having depriv'd him of his Obscenities He rakes notice, that it is the usual way of that Author to mix Morality and pious Thoughts among Trifles, Let us observe, that generally speaking with the same of the figure of their Empire, the figure of the Murmurings of a Slave who feels the water of his Chains, or who in his Liberty sees the marks of his Servitude remaining on his Body

(A) His Theory and his Practice did not agree toge-

(A) His Theory and his Practice did not agree togother] See what Nicius Erythraus faid of it (f) At qui se aliis Resp bene gerenda ducem ac magistrum profitetur ac prastat, in sis oppidu, quorum illi administratio commisse surat, ragendu, suu spse praceptis non parust, sed multa, ut ajunt, commisse, qua ab illerum rationibus esent aliena Quamobrem siebat, ut Romam crebra de spsiu injurius querimonia deserventur It is but too common for those that write Political Books, and even good ones, to shew but little Capacity when they happen to be promoted to great Offices So true is it, that the application of Rules is more dissicult, than the Art of discoursing well of them (A) His Theory and his Prattice did not agree togofing well of them !

velles de la

April 208 476.

Advocates and Physicians, (B) as against the Divines Those || who have been con- || Moreri tented to say, that be was meditating (C) some political Discourses on Tacitus when he was is one murther'd were not well inform'd. He lest (D) some Children. He has been plac'd in the number of the (E) Plagiaries, and some Faults have been committed on that account, as I have shewed in one * of my Remarks

BOCHART (Matthew) Minister of the Holy Gospel at Alongon in the XVIIth and of the Contury, Publish'd some Books (A) that made him pals for a Learned Man That Remark E which he compos'd against the Sacrifice of the Mass brought him into Trouble, as Mr + Daillé Daillé observes. † A Missionary thinking it more proper to bring him before the Secular Replique Judges than to answer his Arguments, began a Juridical Quarrel with him for giving a Adam the Minusters the Title of Pastors. There is no reason to question the thing, but it is & Cort

Very 2 part pag 103

(a) Ibid

(B) As well against the Advocates and the Physicians as against the Divines] Nician Erythraus (a) pretends, that this occasion d a Proverb, which imported, that there are three forts of Men that make almost no use of the Laws they prescribe to others. No Body swerves more from the Law in Business, than a Lawyer, no Body observes a course of Dyet less than a Physician, no Body sears the remorses of Conscience less than a Divine. You will find in the Original the Exception which the Author has made. He does not relate the thing as Jesters commonly do They say, That the Lawyers, who advise others so much to go to Law, so seldom go to Law themselves, That Physicians, who prescribe so much Physick to their Patients, take but little themselves, and that Divines, who set down so many Articles of Faith to others, believe but sew things. Articles of Faith to others, believe but few things themselves Here are the Latin Words of Nicus Erythraus Quamobrem siebat, ut Romam crebra de spsius (Boccalini) injuriis querimonia deserrentur, ac spins (Boccainit) injurits querimenta aejerrentur, ac locus proverbio fieret quo dicitur, tria esse esse hominum genera, qui nihil sere legibus, quas ipsi aliis imponunt, utantur, nimirum Jurisconsultos, medicos, atque theologos nulii mim magis in negociis ab jure, ab aquitate, discedunt quam J G nulli tuenda valetudinis rationem minus servant quam medici, nulli conscientia aculeos mi-nus metuunt quam theologi Itaque qui justiciam, va-letudinem & conscientiam amittere satagunt, Juris doctorum, medicorum, theologorumque amicitias colant quod tamen de iis tantum intelligendum, qui ea ftudia non ferio ac fedulo, verum in speciem, & dicis causa, profitentur

(C) That he was meditating some Political Discourses when Tacitus They should have said, not only that those Discourses were composed, but also, that they had been Printed twice at Geneva To fet a great Value upon those Editions, People have been made to believe, 1st, That the Manuicript of that Work, was a very rare Piece 2dly, That the been made to believe, 1st, That the Manuscript of that Work, was a very rare Piece 2dly, That the Senate of Venice had carefully kept the Original, till they had made a Present of it to the Queen of Sweden 3dly, That with great Charges, and much Trouble they had found means to get a Copy of the Manuscript given to that Princes by the Senate of Venice This is all false That Manuscript was handed about every where, Twenty Years before that Queen's coming into Italy There are Thirty Copies of it in several Libraries of Italy The Author presented this Work himself to divers Persons, and particularly, to Cardinal Barbarini at Persons, and particularly, to Cardinal Barbarini at Reme, and to the Procurator Morosini at Venice The Cardinal presented his Copy to the Academy of the Hamorist, and it was transcrib'd by several People. The Copy of Morosini, has been no less transcribed for the remarks and the several People. ple. The Copy of Morssim, has been no less transcrib'd, so that it was not difficult to buy some Copies of it. The Governor of an English Lord, bought one of 'em, and parted with it to (b) a Bookseller at Geneva, who Printed it. About the same time, a German Gentleman brought another Copy of the form Teals, and gave it to a Professor of Copy of it from Italy, and gave it to a Professor of Tubingen, whose Name was Mr du May, who added some Remarks to it, and sent it to Mr Lesi at Geneva Mr Lesi caus'd it to be Printed by the Sieur entical di- Widerbol, and intituled it, Bilancia Politica, and addition for pre- ded a 3d Volume to it, to which he put his Name for his (c) That Book of Beccalini has not been esteem'd fine his (c) That Book of Beccalini has not been esteem'd Morals of Mr. Ameles (d) de la Houssaye, speaks very slightly

Tacitus, of it and to his

(D) He left some Children I have his Pietra del

Translation paragone Politice Printed at Paris in the Year 1626 on, of the and dedicated to Cardinal de la Politic It is Boccolini's Son, who dedicated that Work to this Cardinal: The Epistle Dedicatory is dated from Paris

1 acitus's

Annals

to see that that Work is look'd on as a Posthumous

(B) At well against the Advocates and the Physicians one, for I have seen an Edition of the Year 1615 of Boccalini's Book that is intituled, Pietra del para gone politico This would make me conjecture, that the Work which was dedicated to Cardinal de la Valette, was a Continuation or a Second Part of the Pietra del paragone Politico I desire those that have lessure, and many Editions in Hand, to verify the thing Mr Giri had publish'd his French Franslation of that Work of Boccalin, before the Author's Son publish'd it in Italian, in the Year 1626

(E) He has been placed in the number of the Plagiaries] This Word feems improper to me, because Boccasini is not accused of hiving robid the Labours of other Men, but of having lent his Name to hide the true Author. It is faid, that he imitated certain Persons, who to free their Ecclesiastical Patron from the shame of having got a Servant-Maid with Child, take it upon themselves, and marry her, being resolved to own all the Children that may come from the same Hand. Is pretended, that Cardinal Casesan is the true Author of ed, that Cardinal Cajetan is the true Author of the Books that came out under the Name of Boccathe Books that came out under the Name of Boccalini (f), and if you inquire, Why Cardinal Cajetan diverted himself of his Right in favour of another. They will answer you, That he did it to have the pleasure of Censuring and Bring every Body, without prejudicing his Dignity, or railing any Enemies against himself. I cannot believe this to be true, I only believe that Boccalini did like Tirence, he communicated his Thoughts to the Cardinals. he communicated his Thoughts to the Cardinals pag 81 who protected him, (g) and he made use of their mentions. Advice, and of the Thoughts they suggested to him. He rhought that the Opinion People would see Placham He rhought that the Opinion reopie would See Plachave that he was affished by fuch Perfons, would cius de be an Honour to him (b) Quemadmedum Terentio Pieudomalevoli objiciebant, ipfum in fabulis faciendis, Scinym pionis Africani, Lalii qui distus est sapiens, & Furi p 165 & Pii opera uti, assidueque cum illis una scribere, ita Deckherm de Trajano fama distulerat, in his actis referendis homines nobilissimos socios & adjutores habere Ve-Script rum id sibinon minus laudi ducebat, quam Terentius, ades p p qui gloriosum sibi putabat, id quod malevoli quasi ma-253 25 ledictum vehemens existimabant, ac sit verisimile hac (g) He a ledictum vehemens existimabant, as he verisimite has (g) He accum illis eum communicasse, quibus, ad notanda & dicated the animadvertenda aliorum vitia, eadem esset voluntas at-first Centuque propensio. Some for want of taking sufficiently ry of the notice of the order of Time, have said, that Cara Ragguagli dinal Casetan, who Disputed against Luther, made in 1612 the Ragguagli del Parnasso, and the Pietra del paratocardinal gone. Mr. Chevreau (1) imputes that fault to John Borghese, and the Press Saussensia, and the legislation and the legislation and the legislation. Rhodius a Danish Physician, and to Peter Scavenius, and the febut he is mistaken, for they meant another Cardicond in nal Cajetan, and he refutes them by a bad Reason 1613 to Beccasini, says he, who was the Son of an Architect of Cardinal Rome, was murther'd at Venice by the Spanish Ambassador's Order Is this a proof that he could not (h) Nicilend his Name to Cardinal Thomas de Vio, who us Erythr Disputed against Luther? Note. That Nicius EryPunacoth Disputed against Luther? Note, That Nicius Erythraus affirms, (k) that Perenda, who had been Secretary to Cardinal Henry Cajetan, help'd Boccalini to compose the Ragguagli

(A) Publish'd some Books] The chief of his Hist du Works, are, a Treatise concerning the Origin of monde B Works, are, a Treatile concerning the Origin of monde is the Veneration of Relicks, of the Invocation of 5 ch 4 Saints, of Images, and the Worship paid to the pag 185 Images of Saints, and a Treatise against the Sa- of the crisice of the Mais He made also a Dialogue on Dutch E-the Difficulties which the Missionaries rais'd continually against the Protestants of France, by reason of (k) Pinace what had past in the National Synod of Charenton, 3 P 131 concerning the Toleration of the Lutheren Errors (l) Epist concerning the Toleration of the Lutheran Errors (1) Epist That Dialogue being fallen into the Flands of the Elector Palatin, he thought it might (1) incline the Princes of the Confession of Ausburg, to endeavour the Re-union of the Protestant Churches Nnnna

appears by the epiftle dedicatory (f) Scaveaffirms it apud de auctoribus fuppolitus P 42 Mor-hofius Polyhist rus de Script Pinacoth

3 p 131 (1) Epist Dedicat

Bochartı

(c) All these par-LICUlars are taken morialthat comes from good bands I keep the Original by me (d) In the

(b) 'Twas the Sieur de Tour-

Tacitus,

of it

Steph Morin de Bocharto, & ejus Scripbove-min tion d Fas tion

|| Puto me gicas de-fenderit

(a) He praises h.m that place

> (b) V1Z Mr Daille s Apolo-

(i) See the Collection of Editts for the Cl rgy

& they are very likely that Mr Daille did not well (B) remember the Circumstances. Me in the new thew Boshart (C) has sometimes been confounded with his Coulin Samuel Boshart, of whom I am going to speak

BOCHART (Sumuel) Minister of the Word of God at Com, was one of the most Learned Men in the World He was of Romen, and of a very good (A) Family, and was born in the Year 1599 He made early a very great Progress one may judge of it by the $ 44 Greek Verses that he composed in Praise of Thomas Dumpher, who under that Learned Scotchman, and * 'tis likely that he had then in 1612. In the front of his Roman Automatic. At that tame he studied the Famouss Peter du Moulin Minister of the Church of the was his United the publickly some Theses in the Year 1615 with great Glory, not only because he antique Moulin Manister of some of some † Verses which he added to lingum them, and which were very artificially suited to the Figure of a Carole.' The shought them, and which were very artificially fluted to the Figure of a Carcle. 'Tis shought that he studied Divinity at Saumer under Cameron, and it is well known that he followed him to London, when the Civil War had destroy'd that Academy He made no long abode in England, since it is known that he was at Leyden about the latter end of the Vert 1600 where he applied himself connective the Control of the Contr the Year 1621 where he applied himself earnessly to the Study of the Arabick Tongue under Freezus. He sound a Professor of Divinity in that University, who conceiv'd a very particular esteem for him, and who gave him publick marks of it in the Year 1629, by dedicating his (B) Catholicus Orthodoxus to him I mean Mr. River, who was at that tune marry'd to a Sister of our Rochart's Mother. Mr. Bachart being an France. was foon made a Minister there, and given to the Church of Care. The first considerable thing which he did there, was to maintain a long Conferment with Father Verential Court to Dispute, and in some manner invested with the Office of a warranted Conferment of the Court to Dispute, and in some manner invested with the Office of a warranted Conferment of the Court to Dispute, and in some manner invested with the Office of a warranted Conferment of the Court to Dispute, and in some manner invested with the Office of a warranted Conferment of the Court of the C murii au- troversist all over the Kingdom, challeng'd Mr Bachart the 4th day of Soprember 1628 and did not cease to make a noise, till he had obtain'd a day and a place to enter into the list, with him. The Dispute was managed in the Castle of Caen, in the presence of a great many Persons of both Religions. The Duke of Langueville Governour of the list with him. de theses the Province came thither as often as his Affairs permitted him, and Commissioner Theolo-

Affembly of Prancfort That good News being come to the Author's knowledge, made him bring forth a Latin Book Instituted Diallattican, which he Dedicated to that Electoral Highness It was Princed at Sadam in the Very 1662, and consume a Broad at Sadam in the Very 1662, and consume a Broad at Sadam in the Very 1662, and consume a Broad at Sadam in the Very 1662, and consume a Broad at Sadam in the Very 1662, and consume a Broad at Sadam in the Very 1662, and consume a Broad at Sadam in the Very 1662, and consume a Broad at Sadam in the Very 1662, and consume a Broad at Sadam in the Very 1662, and consume a Broad at Sadam in the Very 1662, and consume a Broad at Sadam in the Very 1662, and consume a Broad at Sadam in the Sadam ted at Sedan in the Year 1662 and contains a Project of Re-union between the Lusherans and the

Calcinifis

(B) Mr Daillé did not well remember the Circumfinicis] I need no other proof for it than Mr.

Daille himself He says, That the Missionary being put to a non-plus by Matthew Bechart's Book against the Sacrifice of the Mass, brought an Action against the Author, in the Year 1657 but he owns in one of the Tables of his Book, that the Treatile against the Sacrifice of the Mass, was Printred at General in the Year 1658. He observes in treatile against the Sacrince of the Mais, was Frinted at Geneva in the Year 1658 He observes in the 417th Page of the first Part of his Reply, that that (a) excellent Treatise of the Sacrifice of the Mass, was published but three Years before What he says toward the end of his Presace, is a certain proof that he composed his Reply in 1661 So that it cannot be true, that the Missionary, who went to I aw with Matthew Bachart in 1657 found that way more proper, than to reture the Book of that way more proper, than to refute the Book of the Sacrifice of the Mass. Moreover, Mr. Daill declares, that he does not know, that before the Law-Suit begun against Mr Bechert in 1657 any Complaint was ever brought against the Ministers for qualifying themselves Pastors. And yet immediately after he makes mention of a Decree of the Parliament of Rosen given 22, or 23 Years after the Year 1633 when the Ministers of Chamoston took the quality of Pastors of the Reformed Church of Paris in the Approbation of a Book (b). That Decree of the Farliament of Rosen, was doubtless made upon the Complaint brought against the Minister Bothart, for otherwise, Mr. Dailly would contradict himself. And therefore, it is not true, that the Law furt against that Minister, fell in the Year 16:7 So that Mr Dailla must be mistaken both is to the time that the Suit was enser'd, and as to the Book that gave occasion for in the is as to the Book that gave occasion for in the is mistaken again upon another account, since it is certain, that in the Year (c) 1633 the General Agents of the Clergy of France complain'd, that Mi Aubertin had caus'd a Book to be printed, wherein he took the Title of Passer of the Resumed Church of Paris, and wherein his Collegues Mestrement and Drelincourt styl'd themselves, in the Approbation, Passers of the Resumed Church of Paris, and Mr Daillé, Minister of the Holy Cassel of the jaid Church On that Complaint, the Pawy-Council made a Decree the 14th of July 1633 importing that Mr Aubertin should be Arrested, and that Collegues should be Summon'd to appear, as an Injunction to the Ministers, so take no echor livy upon them, than what was attributed to the the Edicts

the Edits

(C) Has been sometimes confounded Mr le From Doctor of the Serbonne has quoted the Dealle strong of our Bochars in his Reply to Mr Armoni for the defence of his Invincible Motives. I be lieve, he will not take it ill, if I think that he took it for a Work of Mr Bechars of Case If he had known that twee Ministers of that Name has writ Works of Controvers, or, if at least he his known that the Author of the Diallastices, is not the same Bochars, that made himself admir'd it the Common-wealth of Learning by his Phales, he would never have guoted the Author of the Diallastices with this Elogy of the Learned Bechars, as he has done (d) more than once. It were in (d) pag vain to sky, that the Minister of Alarges was a 27 129 Learned Man, and that Mr le Frave might have call'd him so without any exaggeration or Flattery, I am sure, that all sensible Readers will never be persuaded that this Remark is ill-grounded,

(A) And of a very good Family I His Father Read BOCHART du Minister, Ministers of the Resourced Church of Roses, was great Grandson of John BOCHART on Menister, Ministers of the Resourced Church of Roses, was great Grandson of John BOCHART and Grandson of John BOCHART and Grandson of John BOCHART and Grandson of John BOCHART who pleaded with (a) so much Zeal for the march Sanstien, and Son of Seephen BOCHART who made the Branch of Menister. Monard and the Bachare Campigni's, who made the Branch of Menister. Monard and the Bachare Campigni's, who (C) Has been sometimes confounded] Mr le Fran muel Brehmer, and the Bachare Camager's, who exercised formany fine Offices to the Gown (B) by dedicating his Catholicus Orthodoxus in cordat him I Mr River Dedicated that Book to four Persons, were to Perer dy Moulin Minnster and Profession at the Colling of t wie to Perer du Mouliu Minister and Professer at Sadan, to William Rivie Minister of Taillabourg, to John Mountlian de Langh Minister of Raum, and to Samuel Bochare Minister of Caen. He praises the latter for his Dispute against Veron, in which, saya he to him, you show'd him that he was ignorant in Greek and in Hebrew, and you put a bridle to his impudent Sophistry, which he has endoarous'd to shake off by telhog many Lues (according to his custom) about his imaginary Victoriese his wife Men have not been decent'd by them, and you have discover'd his Vanisy by your Austrian of the Dispute, taken from Mr Morin By this it appears, that Veron ascribed the Victory to himself

September to the 1d of Otheber, and the Two Disputants went through most Controversies in the Nine successive meetings that they had. The Acts of their Dispute sign'd and well collected, were published on both sides, but Mr Backers added several things of his own, which had not been put in order by reason of the turbulent Spirit of his charagonal and he added also the Dispute concerning the Eucharist, and Celibacy, which they were agreed to examin, but it had been done superficially, because Peron 1 had a Advergmented the Pield of Baule. That Minister's Reputation, which laid its soundation at that since, increased the much in the Year 1646, by the (C) publication of the Advergmentation of Chancen, wherein he treats 1 Of the Dispersion of Mankind caus'd by the countilion of Languages. And 2 Of the Colonies and Language of the Phenses-ans. The enquiries that he was oblig'd to make in order to compose those Works, Morinns and since others, and which put him upon searching into all the Ancient Authors, and were appointed on both fides to be present at it. The dispute lasted from the 22d of and some others, and which put him upon searching into all the Ancient Authors, and whis supra the must hidden Treasures of the Oriental Languages, have this relation to his being a Minister, that he engaged in them by degrees, only because he had undertaken to Preach on Genesis, for when he came to the second Chapter he was oblig d to explain the Saturation of the Terrestrial Paradise. The following Chapters engaged him to expense the General of Nations, and a great many other passages required that he should mane the Original of Nations, and a great many other passages required that he should write apon the Animals, Plants and precious Stones mention'd in the Bible If he had liv'd long enough he would have left compleat Treatises on those matters, but he could only finish that which concerns Animals It was printed at London in 1663, under the title of Harriconon His Collections on the Terrestrial Paradise, on Plants, and precious Jewes were not found in a condition after his death, to make any thing of them. Every knows that the Queen of Sweden invited him to her (D) Court, and that he went thather in the Year 1652 It is not necessary to speak in pairicular of some Preces that he publish'd at several times, and which redounded to his Reputa-tion For example in the Year 1650, he publish'd a Letter about the Authority of Kings, and about the Institution of Bishops and Priests He publish'd one in 1661, against the Jesuit la Barre concerning the Toleration of Lutheranism decided in the National Synod of Charenton, and another in 1663, wherein he shewed by many Learned Reasons, that there is no likelyhood that Aneas ever came into Italy He died at * she was Caen the 16th of May 1667, having lost his Speech and his Senses all of a sudden in married to the Academy that met at Mr de Brieux's House His Papers are in the hands of a Counsellor, de Colleville his only Daughter's Son, and formerly a Councellor in the Parlia-Parliaparliament of Normandy Among those Papers there are a great many Sermons written ment of ment of Mr Bochart's own hand, Viz. those which he Preach'd on Genesis, from the 1st Norman-notl'Anti-Chapter to the 18th Verse of the 49th Chapter. As many of that great Man's Mabarbarie, as in the nuscript Differences have been collected as could be found, and they have been collected as could be found, and they have been collected as could be found, and they have been collected as could be found.

added le It was a Lordship

In the same Year 1520 Mr. du Moulin Dedicated his (a) Antiborbare to Mr. du Moulin Dedicated given him notice of a milital, which was, that du Moulin having promis'd that Treatise of Controverfy in the Table of the Noveley of Popery, had forgot fy in the Table of the Novelty of Popery, had forgot to publish it

(C) In the Test 1646 by the Publication of the Phalest, and Chanam I These are the Titles of the two Tarts of Mr Beckert's Geographia Sacra A Printer of Reputation, was sent for to Caen, (b) to have that Work more Correct, and the some Printed If we must believe those that Re-printed it at Francfort in 4° in 1681, the Edition of Caen as full of faults, from which they boast to have purg'd theirs, ab infinite southwas, quibm exemplar Cadomi impression reference eras, purgatum To their Edition they joyn'd two of Mr Beckers's Letters, one concerning Episcopacy, and the Right their Edition they joyn'd two of Mr Bobbart's Letters, one concerning Episcopacy, and the Right of Rings, written to Dr Morley Chaplain to Market Charles II of England, and the other (e) to Market Charles II of England, and the other (e) to Market England, and the other England and the other England in 1640 as I have already faid minds in knew nothing of it, for after parting which it would be a piece of Injuffice not to publish that fine Production of Mr Boshart, He saids, that nevertheless, it remains in obscurity I know nothing of the Edition of the Gasgraphia Sacra, meation'd by Sit Thomas Pope Blonm, as made at Caen in Filie, in the Year 1651 and I believe, there never was such an Edition As for the Hieroxolcon, (which is the Title of the Volume de Animalism Sacra Scriptura), it was Ke-printed at Francfort in the Year is the Title of the Volume de Animation Scripture), it was Re-printed at Francfort in the Year 1675 and an Abridgment of it was made in the winch was Printed at Francker The Year 1690 which was Printed at Franker The Author of that Abridgment is an Hungarism, whose Name is Verseus.

(D) That the Queen of Sweden cavited him to her cours I have heard a thousand foolish Stories of that fourney of Mr Becher, as for knample. That one Day being in the Queen's Library, he was suddenly ask'd that Question, What do you the name of think of a tertain Book coll'd the Bible? It is said the Family that he took the thing with as serious a Tone, as, was le he ought, and that he made a large Discourse on Sueur the Characters of Divinity that shine in the Scripture; but that the Standers by did but laugh at it. They add, that the Abbot Bourdelot had made the Onean believe, that Mr. Bakara alari'd admin the Queen believe, that Mr Bochart play'd admirably on the Flute, but that he would not play before her Majesty except she absolutely commanded him, and that thereupon, the Queen, without giving any ear to the protestations of Ignorance, which he repeated several times to her, would absolutely have him play on it, and that he obey'd her Commands I have heard a great many People say these things, and some others of the same nature, but when I inquir'd into the truth of 'em, I sound nothing that might make them credible. I found nothing that might make them credible.

Nevertheless, I mention them here, that those, who hear these idle Stories, may give no credit to them. Mr. Huet, at present Bishop of Auranabes, who went with Mr. Bechare into Sweden, (d) It is made a (d) very pretty Relation of that Journal in Latin

ney
This Remark was finish'd, when the Monagiana fell into my Hands, wherein I found these Words, "(e) It was a fine thing to see Mr Bo"chart play at Shittle-cock with the Queen of "Sweden! The Queen having pres'd him one "Day to play at it with her, he laid down his "Cloak and play'd His Friends laugh d at him
"Cloak and play'd His Friends laugh d thim
"Gar se, and told him, that he ought absolutely to for it, and told him, that he ought absolutely to have refus'd it. I have found there also, that the Queen had resolv'd to be at a Meeting, where he was to read something of his Phales, but that Mr Bourdelos to deprive him of that Honour, felt the Queen's Pulie, and told her, that the had an Emotion, and that the must take some Physick So that she kept her Bed that Day If there was any ground for the Story of the Flute, it would have been in the Books Is have just now quoted.

Tata be fay, he has seen it im the Francfort Edition of Catalogue of the Bodleian Library, pag 462 and Mr Baillet's 2d tome of the Anti pag

(b) His John Jan-Steph Morin in differt de Secharto & ejus

Script

(c) See the Nouv de la Repub. das lettr tone Jeil and A (d) Spizelius in in-the Gengraphia Sacra 1674

(E) To

* De clarissimo Bocharto & omniscriptis

† Colomiés in his Gallia Orient which he dedicated to him Sir Thomas Pope Blount Cenfur celebr Authorum Spizelius, in infel literat p 916 & Siq

Bibl Belg pag 461

A Hi gives an account his Notes on the 147th P∫alm

in vita Philof pag 498

added to the new Edition (E) that was made of all his Works in Holland in the Year 1692 Mr Morin formerly a Collegue of Mr. Bochart, and at present Minister of the French Church at Amferdam, and Professor of the Oriental Languages in the College of the same City, has joyn'd a Discourse to that Edition * which I have made use of in composing this Article. Those that would see the Encommums that have been beflowed upon Mr Bochart, may find them in the † Authors which I Name. His Learning tho' never so great, was not his chief quality; he had such a Modesty as was infinitely more to be esteem'd than all his Learning. And accordingly he enjoy'd his Reputation with great tranquility, being free from those unhappy Quarrels that so many Learned Men draw upon themselves by their Pride, and the vehemence of their Sryle I never heard of a certain Treatise (F) that Mr. Menage ascribes to

BOCHIUS (John) a good Latin Poet, and Secretary of the City of Antwerp, was Born at Bruffels || the 27th of July 1555 He perform'd his first Studies at Lier and in the City of Aeth, and distinguish'd himself from his School-fellows. He excell'd chiefly in Poetry, fo that he might be call'd the Virgil (A) of the Low Countries He was admitted into the House of Cardinal George Radzivil, by which means he had an opportunity to Study Divinity at Rome, when Bellarmin explain'd the Controversies there Bochius attended his Lectures constantly. He travell'd afterwards into Poland, Lithuania, and Muscowy, and it was not without great inconveniencies, and great dangers β , for as he went from Smolensko to Moscow, the Cold was so violent that his Feet were quite frozen. They were talking of having them cut off, when one of the Czar's Chirurgeons found that they needed not come to that extremity The remedy which he made use of would not perhaps have perform'd the Cure, rf another accident had not happen'd. Bochius had got himself carried to the Livenian Quarters, and was there when the Great Duke Basilides came to (B) plunder it Bochius being struck with fear fled as well as he could, but after having been stript and beaten, he escap'd from the Soldiers hands, and return'd the next day to his Quarters. That exercise hasten'd very much the effect of his remedies Being return'd into his Country he made a Poem that pleas'd the Duke of Parma so well, that he cause the Secretary's place of Antwerp to be given to Boebius That Poem was a Panegyrick upon the Duke of Parma about the taking of that City He compos'd afterwards divers (C) Court Poems, and at last he made David's Psalms the chief subject of his Pen. He Melchi- (D) died v before the Impression of what he had made upon it was finish'd. It was

(E) To the new Edition of all his Works]
Morers was not altogether in the wrong, to give fome hopes that Mr le Moyne would publish Mr Bochart's Manuscripts, for it is certain, that he had such a design, and not having all the lessure neceffary for fuch an Undertaking, he committed the case of it to Mr de Villemandy, promising him to affift him with his Advice, and to supply him with many of Bochart's Letters and Differtations Death hinder d him from performing his Promise But on the other side, it is certain, that Morers is grosly missisken in that Article, either when he says, that ill the Manuscript Treatises of Bochart, were in the Hands of Mr le Moine, or, when he says, that a troublesome Business had oblig d Mr le Moyne to a troublesome Business had obligd Mr le Moyne to leave the Kingdom, It is a notorious thing that he did not go out of France without leave from the Court, and that it was his fault that he did not continue in his Church of Rouen, which did all they could to retain him He only left the Kingdom to take possession of a Professorian of Divinity that was offer'd him a long time before at Leyden It is true, that in 1674 a vexatious Suit was commenced against him, occasion'd by a young Gentlew oman of the Protessant Religion, who having tlewoman of the Protestant Religion, who having left her lather, who was a Catholick Counsellor in Parliament, had fled into England, but it is also true, that after some Months Imprisonment, he was fully re-establish'd in his former Condi-

(F) Of a certain Treasise that Mr Menage ascribes to him I It were to be wish d, that Mr Bochart had publish'd his Collections on so curious a Matter, as that mention'd by Mr Menage It runs upon rtain things that are but once to be found in Writers (a) Multa esse in libris Juris, ut libros ceteros taceam, fingularia atque ut Grammatici Graci loqui amant mapu, five want uppus (quo titulo librum audio scripsisse Samuelem Bochartum) quis nescit?

(A) He might be call d the Virgil of the Low-Countries j I must let down Valerius Andreae's own Words, to shew the better with what Precipitation

Mireri compil d his Dictionary (b) In poetica palmam ceteru facile praripuit, adeo ut alterum Belgii nosfri Maronem nominare liceat. In the Copy that I make useof, the first Letter of the Word Maronem is not well printed. to that if it be not carefully observed, it may easily be taken for a V I fancy that Mo-reri's Copy had the same fault, and that it was the reason why he read Varonem instead of Maronem Whereupon, he remember'd that Varro was accounted the most Learned of the Remans, from whence he concluded that fince Bochine was fir-nam'd the Varro of the Netherlands, he ought to fay of him, that he was famous for his Erudition, that fay of him, that he was famous for his Erudicion, that he made a wonderful progress in the knowledge of learned Languages, and in all forts of Learning, and that he improved in all the sublime Sciences of Controversy, of the Civil and Canon Law, and of Scholastick Divinity Francus Swertsus, who loved, and knew him very particularly, bestows no praise upon him, that can give us such a Notion of him delchior Adam and Valerius Andreas, who praise him a little more, are also far from saying any such thing The latter does not so much as say, that he was sirnam'd the Virgil of the Netherlands. but thing The latter does not so much as say, that he was sirnam'd the Virgil of the Netherlands, but only, that he deserved that Title

(B) Came to plunder it] The reason, or pretence of that Violence, was, That the Patriarch of the Muscourier complain'd to the Czer, that the Germans (and under that Name those of Livenis were also comprehended) debauch'd the Courage of the Muscourier, and made them seed a great of the Muscourier, and made them seed a great of the Muscourier. were also comprehended) debauch'd the Courage of the Muscourse, and made them spend a great deal of Money on divers forts of Drinks that they fold them (c) Quasi Germani, in quibus Adam Livenes, deliciis Moschos corrumperent, cottisque variis potus generibus pecunia emungerent, & masculos animos dosoph

(C) Churt Poems] Thus I call for Example, the Pag 498 Description of the Honours done to the Governours of the Netherlands, when they took possession of their Government That which he made upon the Journey and Installation of Albert of Austria, and of his Spoule the Infants Isabella Clara Eugenia, was not printed in the Year 1695 as Valerius Andreas assures, for they did not make their Entry till 1599

(d) He dy'd before the Impression | Melchier Adam (d) Id ih. (d) afferts it twice together in plain Terms 'Ne- (d) Id ih. vertheless it might be question'd, if we should refer ourselves to France Swerting, who makes no manner of mention of any Books of Baching printed after his Death, except a Collection of divers Po-oms Besides, he observes, that the Physical, Mo-

(c)Melch Adam in

(a) Menag Juris civilis amanit cap 20 pag m 99

(b) Val Andreas, Biblioth belg pag 461

the 13th. of January 1609. He publish'd David's Life in 1608 He left but one Daughter. A Collection of his Epigrams, Elegies, and other scattered Poems was Printed at Cologne in 1615, to which they added all the Verses that could be found of his Son John Ascansus Bochius, who died in Italy in the flower of his Youth Francis Swertius * who took care of that Edition, informs us that his good Friend John Bochius had an unlucky Wise, which, says he, is most commonly the Fate of Great Men BODEGRAVE, A Village of Holland on the Rhine 1 only speak of it to correct Marrow's Dictionary, whereas we find it was a Borough Famous for the Victory that rect Morers's Dictionary, wherein we find it was a Borough Famous for the Victory that of Januathe French obtain'd there over the Dutch in 1672 Which is a (Y) falfity Baudrand is ry, which quoted for it, which is (Z) whother fallity

BODIN (John) A Native of Angers, one of the most Learned Men that were in france in the XVIth Century †, studied the Civil Law at Toulouse, and having taken monto bis Degrees there, he read * Law Lettures there with great applause of his Auditors

At that time he design'd to settle himself at Toulouse in the quality of Professor of the Civil tak fund to gain the Love of the Toulousains, he made his Oration de Instituenda in queque.

Parables a way three which he designed to the People and Senate of Toulouse, and subsch he are Republica juventute, which be dedicated to the People and Senate of I oulouse, and which he reested publickly in the Schools of that City It has also been said, that with (A) the same design, ac conhe made the Epitaph of 4 Clementia liaura ingraved at Toulouse in 1557, under the Statue of that Clementia But at last he preferr'd Pleading before the Civil Law, and left the School of Toulouse for the Bar of Paris Loysel and Sainte Marthe say, that he (B) did not well succeed in his Pleas And doubtless that was the reason that made him leave the Bar, to apply himself to the Composing of Books, wherein he succeeded admirably well. His Swert first performance was his Commentary upon Oppian's Books concerning Hunting, and his Translation of those Books into Latin Verse. He is accused of having been a (C) Plagiary in it 398

ral, Political and Historical Observation of Bochius, that are doubtless his Work on the Psaiter, were printed in the Year 1608 But when I confider, that Valerius Andreas, whose Work is without comparison less faulty than that of Francis Smertius, ascribes to Bochius a Book Intituled, Observationes P'yfica, Ethica, Politica & Historica in Pfalmos the Impression, one cannot think, that the Year of the Impression, one cannot think, that the Year of the Impression, one cannot think, that the Year 1808 mark d by Francis Swertius, is right, and consequently, I am of opinion, that one ought to keep to Milester Adam's Narrative, as if the Author of the athense Belgica had fail nothing (T) Which is a falfity] There never was any Battle or Fight at Bedegrave between the French and the Dutch All that can be faid, is, that about the latter end of December 1672 the French drew up the latter end of December 1672 the French drew up a confiderable Army to penetrate into the Heart of Holland by the favour of the Lee, but that a great Thaw that happen'd fuddents caug'd them to give over their Enterprize The Spite they conceiv'd for that Disappointment, carry'd them to extreme Cruelties against the Inhabitants of Bodegrave, which was one of the Posts they had posterio, and which they were forc'd to abandon The particulars of their Barbarities are to be found the Book (a) that Mr de Wicquesore publish'd on that Subject (2) Which is another falsited. For Mr Baudrand

(2) Which is another falfity] For Mr Baudrand does not say, that the French obtain'd a Victory over the Dutch in that place He says only, that the Dutch were ill treated there by the French, ubit Belga unit male habit fuere a Francis of the Parkers of the Park Belga uniti mali habiti juere a Francis anno 1672 Perhaps I have already faid but too often, that a Translator, who ventures to Paraphrase, or to depart never so little from his Original, ought to understand throughly the Matter in question Without which, he exposes himself to mistakes so much the more blameable, because upon that actionally the more blameable, because upon that actionally the second of the Authors that the Translated An hundred Examples of that Disorder might easily be show'd Disorder might easily be shew'd

Aniorder might eatily be thew'd

(A) It has been faid that he made the Episaph of Clementia Isaura Mr Menard (b) alferts it in his Illustrious Men of Anjou, but Catel says, in his Memoir: For the History of Languedoc, that Bodin, who is thought to be the Author of thar Episaph, did not make it, and that Martin Gascon was the Author of it Thus Mr Menage has expected himself Let us see Casel's Words (s)

"No Body doubts that the Pedestal of the said

"Statue is new, and done in the Year reser the" Statue is new, and done in the Year 1557 tho' statue is new, and done in the Year 1557 thoit is uncertain, who made it, for fome fay, that it was Bodm, who writ the Book of the Republick, being a Student at Touloufe, Others fay, that it was an Advocate, whose Name is Dutil, but I believe, it was an Advocate call'd Mr Marin Gascom, born in the Isle of Rhodes, who was Capital in the Isld Year, and a very good

Latinist, according to the Testimony of the Learned Physician Forcer, who in a small Poem which he published concerning the Excellent Men of Toulouse speaks thus of the said Gasson " Latinift, Ipsaque de longis regionibus incly a fama Gasconum adduxit Rhodium, Ciceronis alumnum"

That he did not well succeed in his Pleas, Read this Passage of Sainte Marthe Neque vero quam scriptis comparaverat existimationem prasentia sua minuebat, si quando in samiliari hominum congressu de quacunque re proposita diserte copioseque disputaret Quo magis mirandum est, hominem ca facultate preditum magis miranaum est, hominem ca sacultati preditum inter nobiliores curia Parisensis advocatos locum ob n re non potuisse prasertim cum aquales haberet Bisso, oct, Pascassos, Pithaos & alios cumplures, ingenii laude prastantes viros, qui amanioribus etiam disciplinis incumberent, nec eo minus celebriter in fori luce versarentur (d)

(C) He is accus' dof having been a Plagiary in it] "James" Bongars pietends in one of his Letters to Conrad Rittershusus, a Commentator and Translator of Oppian, that Bodin had composed that Work out of the Writings of Turnebus, which seems very unlikely, Bodin being not inferior in Learning to Turnebus, and in 1555, when Bodin caused his Oppian to be printed, for which he had obtained a License in 1553, Turnebus was still living, for he died in the Year 1565 However Turnebus himself complains at the end of his Edition of Oppian of 1555, that his corrections on that of Oppian of 1555, that his corrections on that Author had been stolen from him Septem ab hinc annis, leviter emendation oppianum de Venatione, partim animi conjectura, partim libri vetcris opc Eas emendationes quidam usurpavit, & sibi donavit quas tamen non putabam tanti, ut in furtivis rebus esse deberent Eas a nobis vindicatas & recuperatas esse, nemo conqueri debebit nam rerum surti-varum, lege aterna est autsoritas Which proba-bly ought to be understood of Bodin On the other side Bodin complains in his Method of History, that a Grammarian had made use of his Commentary upon Oppian in an ungrateful man-Quos ego de Venatione libros, cum Latino versu & Commentariis illustrassem, quidam Grammaticus, quantum libuit de meo labore detrabens, iterum pervulgavit In the same Year 1555 William Morel Printed the Translation in Latin Verse of Oppian's Books de Piscatione, and Oppian's Books de Venatione in Latin Prose and 'tis likely Bodin meant that Translation of Oppian's Books "Bodin meant that Translation of Oppian's Books
"do Venations (c) Note that Bongari's Letter quoted by Mr Menage is to be found in the 82d and ge, u 83d Pages of the Gallia Orientalis It is dated from supr Francfore the 4th of April 1600 Mr Colomies's 142 Father receiv'd a Copy of it in the Year 1648 He that fent it him had it from Mr Gronovius the Father, who had Transcribed the Original at Narenberg in the Year 1632 in the House of Nicolas Rit-tershusius the Son of Conrad There are many things disadvantageous to Bodin in that Letter That which

Andreas

* Matrınon ufque telici cordi Bilg pag

†Menage, Remarques fur la vie de Pierre Ayrault

Sce bis Latin Letter to P1brac, prefix d to his Republick

+ Who infituted the I loral Games of Toulou-Su, as tis falsly pre-tended

elog 1 4

(b) Menege Re-marq sur la vie de Pierre Ay-

(a) Inti-culed, A-wis fidulity anx veri-

tables Hollandois

(L) Catel, Hig Hig Langu doc, pag.

#Menage, ibid pag 145

* See the Remark O

† See the Abbot le Laboureur pag 385 of his 2d Vol of Castelnau's Mc-mo rs

(a) See Colomesius's Gallia Orientalis, p 83 See alfo
Richtetus's Letsers, p 205

(b) See the Remark N

(1) Menage ubi fupra pag 142, 143

(d) Menage is mistaken, Thu 1nus means the French in general, the Angevins in

I shall give the list (D) of his other Books in a Remark, and shall not forget what concerns his Heptaplomeres, which was never printed, and wherein it is faid, that he fet forth many improus things "|| His Reputation of a Learned Man and of a fine "Wit, excited the curiofity of (E) Henry III who loved Men of Letters, and was "pleased with their Conversation Henry III. fent for Bodin. And because his Con-"versation was delightful, for he had read much and remember'd all that he had read,
"Henry was mightily pleas'd with him He had at first so great an esteem for him,
"that he caused * John de Serre to be imprison'd, who had writ an abusive Libel a-"gainst Bodin, forbidding him on the penalty of Death to publish that Piece. But his favour was of no long continuance. Some envious Men did him some ill-offices with the King, so that the King ceas'd to have any consideration for him. Seeing him-" self courted at that time by Frances of France, Duke of Alengon and of Anyou, Brother The Duke of of the Kings Francis II Charles IX and Henry III he went to him Alençon made him Secretary of his Commands +, one of the Masters of the Requests of his Palace, and Chief Justice in Eyre, and carried him with him into England and Flanders, as one of his chief Councellors Being in England, he had the latisfacti-

concerns his Plagiarism is conceived in these terms jam edidisse illum liftiones Turnebi in Oppianum pro suis, nemo nostrorum ignorat (a) Note also that Mr Menage has given but a weak reason to justifie him It is grounded on Bodin's being not inserior in Learning to Turnebus. I believe, that take it all together, he is in the right, for without doubt Bodin was better skill'd in the Civil Law. Politicks gether, he is in the right, for without doubt Bo-din was better skill'd in the Civil Law, Politicks, and Modern History than Turnebus, but he was inferior to him in Critical and Philological Learning, now the Book in dispute belongs to that kind of Knowlege

(D) The List of his other Books, and shall not forget what concerns his Heptaplomeres] He publish'd his Method of History in the Year 1566, and his Discourse about Money, together with his Answer to the Paradoxes of Maletroit, concerning the dearness of all things, and the means to remedy it, in the Year 1568 His Republick was printed in Folio in the Year 1576, and several (4) times afterwards in 80 and got him a very great Reputation "(c) Mornac speaks of it in these terms

" fanı Bodini Gallıcam Rempublican

" jani Bodini Gallicam Rempublicam
"Qul'viderit, majus nihil fatebitur
" In erudita luce prisci saculi
" Gallis hic, olim quod Quiriti Tullius Thuanus speaks no less advantageously of that Work, tho' he speaks less advantageously of the Author, accusing him of Vanity, which he calls the Vice (d) of the Angevins Opus magnum de the vice (d) of the Angevins Opus magnum de Republica Gallice publicavit in quo, ut omni scientianum genere, non tinëti, sed imbuti ingenii sidem sciet, sic nonnullis, qui reste judicant, non omnino ab ostinationis innato genti vito vacuum se probavit I hese great Elogics of Bodins Republick, put me in mind to impart to my Renders, what I have board Me Wart Compared to my Renders, what I have I hele great Elogics of Bodin's Republick, put me in mind to impart to my Renders, what I have heard Mr Naude say soimerly That Arisotle's Rhetorick, Scaliger's Poetick, Charron's Wisdom, and Bodin's Republick, were of all Books, those that were made with most Art In 1578 Bodin publish'd his Tables of the Law, intituled, Jurus universi Distributio They were Printed at Lyons by Johr de Tournes, for James Dupuy Bookseller of Parus In the Dedication of his Milod of History, he makes mention of of his M thod of History, he makes mention of that Work in these Terms Juris universi for-Juris universi formam sic adumbravimus in Tabula quam tibi exhi-buimiu spectandam, ut ab ipsis caussis summa pene-ra, generumque partitionem ad insima diduceremus eatamen ratione, ut omnia membra inter sc apta cohererent In quo verissime a Platone dictum intellexi. "hererent In quo verissime a Platone dictum intellexi,
"nibil difficilius ac divinius, quam reste partiri Af"terwards in 1579 he publish'd his Demonmanie
"des Sorciers, which he dedicated to Christopher de
"Thou, first President of the Parliament of Pa"rus, at the end whereof, he added a Resutation
"of the Book di Lamiis of John Wierus, Physician
"on the Duke of Cleans In 1586 he had made." to the Duke of Cleves In 1576, he had made a Relation of the States of Bloss That Relation was printed, but without the Name of its Author And a little before his Death he wrote the Books, he made a Dialogue concerning Religions, which has not yet been printed, initualled Hepiaplemeron, five de Abditis rerum fublimium areans. In that Dialogue he gave the advantage of the Abditis rerum fublimium areans are the Abditis are which made areas tage to the Tewish Religion, which made many People believe, that he was a Jew In the 6th Chapter of his Method of History, he makes mention of his Book de Decretis Sed has uberius in libro de Decretis disserumus That Book is not printed He ordered by his Will (of which I have seen the Original) that his Books de Imperio, & Jurisdistione, & Legis ustionibus, & Decretis, & Judiciis, should be burnt, which has done before his Death in his presence Auger " in libre de Decretis disseruimus Ferrier of Toulouse, a Physician and Astronomer, and John de Serre of Monobler, and Peter de l'Hosail, wrote against him He answer'd them under the Name of René Herpin, who was a Man of the City of Angers" Mr Tesser (e) ascribes to him the (f) French Version of the Lasin Speech that Charles des Cars Bishop of Langres made to the Ambassadors of Poland in the City of Mesz, in the Year 1573 & consilium de principe relle instituen-do, & paradoxon quod nec virtus ulla in mediocritate, nec Jummum hominis bonum in virtutis actione consistere pos-

Jumnum hominis bonum in virtuits actione consistere possific, & historica narratio professionis & inaugarationis Alberti & Isabella Austria Archiducum, & eorum in Belgio adventus He is mistaken as to this last Book, for Bodin dy'd before that Journey of the Archiduke Albert and the Insanta Isabella Clara Eugania As for the Manuscript that Mr Menage calls Heptaplomeron, &c of which Mr Huet spoke (g) in his demonstratio Evangelica, as of an abominable Book, I refer to the News (h) from the Common-wealth of Learning, to avoid repetitions Mr Teissier is missiaken when he says, (i) that Mr Diessman published that Work of Bodin at Leipsick He ought to have said, that many particularities are to be found concerning that Book in a Schediassom inaugurale de naturalismo cum aliorum, tum maxime Jo Bodins, that Mr Diessman published at Kiel, in the Year 1683 and which was Re-printed the Year following at Leipsick in 12° and at Jena in 4° 1700

(E) Excited the Curiosity of Henry III] Thuanus relates this in a manner that is very glorious for Bodin (k) Dum hae scriberet à Rege Henrice III qui literatic discepcationibus per otium oblessabatur, ad familiar scretum cum plerisque aliis viris dostis fapius est admission, magnamque laudem ex its reportavit (i) Teist autore dostinum numerato haberet, or paratam

familiare secretum cum plerisque alies veris doctis sapius est admissus, magnamque laudem ex its reportavito (i) Teist admissus, magnamque laudem ex its reportavito (i) Teist admissus, magnamque laudem ex its reportavito (ii) Teist administration ad omnia, qua proponerenter, pulcherrimarum retum copianqua pollebat acri memoria essunderet Think is to say, according to Mr Teisser's Translation.

Whilst he was composing that Book, King Hen"ry III who at his leisure Hours, took delight in the Conversation of the Learned, Discours'd 117 pag
"Geveral times with him in the presence of some 711 "feveral times with him in the presence of some 'Learned Men, and those Conferences procured him great Honour, for having a ready Wit, and all the Treasures of his Mind ready at hand, defet forth a prodigious number of curious Things, which his excellent Memory supply'd him with Extempore" This Narrative of Thuanus contains an Anachronism that Mr Menage should have rectify'd, and which on the contrary he has adopted Thuanus pretends, that Bodin's favour with Henry III continu'd still, when that Author was about his Demonomanie He supposes also that Bodin sinding himself out of favour, apply'd himself to the Duke of Alencen, and obtain d an honourable Post in his House This is to consound the times He did not undertake (1) to write the Book initialed de la Demonomanie dei Sorciers, but in consequence of a Judgment that had been given against a Witch, and to which he had been call'd the 30th of April 1578 and he (m) was Master of the Refeveral times with him in the presence of some of April 1578 and he (m) was Master of the Requests, and Councellor of the Duke of Alengm in Remark L. the Year 1571 Hereaster (n) we shall see a

(e) Teiff. Addit P#g 249

(n) In the

"on and Honour to see his (F) Books of the Republick, which the English had "Translated into Latin, publickly read in the University of Cambridge This obliged The History of Flanders tikes " him to Translate them afterwards into Latin notice that it was he, who advis'd the Duke of Alençon to possess himself of Anti-erp Bodin seeing himself frustrated in his hopes after the Death of the Duke of Alenvon, "which happen'd a little after the Enterprize upon Antwerp, thought on his ietrcat
"He retir'd to Laon, (G) where he marry'd a Wife that was a Magistrate's
"Sister" He had an Office in the Presidual Court of (H) that City, * and * Menage it is likely, that by reason of that Office, he was deputed in the Tear 1576, by the third State ubssuppra, of Vermandois to the States of Blois though in the Relation which he made of those States, page 146 he intitles himself no otherwise than Deputy of the Third State of Vermandois He shewed himself theer very well-affected for (I) the Rights of the People, and he believed that it was the reason why he did not obtain the Office of Master of the Requestry, that was was the reason why he did not obtain the Office of Master of the Requests, that was

Passage of Theonus that will inform us, that Bodin's conduct in the States of Bloss in the Year 1576, made him lose the King's favour

(F) The Satisfaction and Honour to see his Books of the Republick read in the University of Cambridge] I have often observed, that to have a right Notion of metsi nova occasione ad id (b) maxime impulsus essem, cum Londini Olybium Gallum hominem in privatis illustrium virorum adibus, alium item apud Cantabriges in ipsa Aiademia dissicili ai molesta ratione Anglis Rempublicam interpretari comperissem. Those that know that there are private and publick Lectures in the Colleges of the Universities of England, will find that Sainte Marthe goes beyond Radin, for ha the Colleges of the Universities of England, will find that sainte Marthe goes beyond Bodin, for he says positively, that Bodin's Republick was explain'd at Cambridge in the publick Auditories Quem (Andium ducem) in Angliam secutius, cum illic ESUG-GLSTU PUBLICO sua scripta suvenibus enarrari comperisse, ex hoc inustrate gloriola proventu non mediocrem vigiliarum suarum frucsum sibi visus est collegisse (c) Mr Menage has follow'd the some Notion (G) He etir'd to Laon, where he marry'd] "(d)

"He marry'd Frances Trouslisers, the Widow of "Claudius Guyart, Comptroller of the King's De"mefines in Vermandois, and Sister of Nicolas Trousl"liart the King s Atomey in the Bayliwick, and Pre"fidial Court of Laon The Contract of his Marriage
"is dated the 25th of February 1576" That date shews, that it is necessary 1576" That date
shews, that it is necessary 1576 "That date shews, that it is necessary 1576 in Mr Menage's Narrative I have made use of it, but it was with a defign to shew the defect of it in this place Mr Menage supposes that Bodin went into England, and into the Low-Countries with the Duke of Alençon before the Year 1576, he will have it also, that the Duke of Alençon's Death happen'd before the same Year, but it is a great fallity. That Duke went into England in the Year 1579. He return'd thither in the Year 1582. He undertook to make himself Master of Antwerp in the Year 1583 and he dy'd the Year following. Menage should not therefore have said, that Bodin being frustrated in hishopes after the Death of that Prince, retir'd to Lann, and marry'd there, but that he return'd home at Laon, where he had marry'd in the Year 1576. Note, (e) that he had three Children by his Wise, two Sons, Elias and John, and one Daughter He out-liv'd Elias, and John dy'd young without having been marry'd. The Daughter fell distracted, was never marry'd, and liv'd above Menage supposes that Bedin went into England, and distracted, was never marry'd, and liv'd above distracted, was never marry u, and not a above Eighty Years

(H) He had an Office in the Prefidial Court of Laon]

(f) Thuanus says in the 117th Book of his Histo"ry, that he was Lieutenant General there Mr Me"nard says in his Illustrious Men of Anjou, that he "was the King's Attorney there Mr Joly in his "Notes upon Loysel's Dialogue concerning the Ad"vocates of Paris, and Mr de Mezeray in his History
"of Brance, say both of them that he was the King's "vocates of Paris, and Mr de Mezeray in his rilitory of France, fay both of them that he was the King's Advocate there Sainte Marthe in the Elogy of Bedin, fays in general, that he was a Magistrate there It is certain, that he was the King's Attorney there in the room of his Brother-in-law, the Sieur Trouilliart He says in his Will, that he is one of the poorest Attorneys of the King of "France" Observe, That Thuanus supposes that he had not the Lieutenant General's Place till after the Death of the Duke of Alençon

(1) Very well-affected for the Rights of the People, and he biliev'd that it was 'he reason] "(g) To (g) Id ib "make use of Mr Mezeray's Words, He remon-"strated there with the Liberty of an old Gaul, "that the Funds of the Royal Demesnes belong d to the Provinces and there she King had a like to the Provinces, and that the King had only the use of them King Henry III did not take this ill, saying, that Bodin was an honest Man See Bodin's Relation. He also remonstrated there, that the Deputies of two Bodies, could decide "that the Deputics of two Bodies, could decide "norhing to the prejudice of the third. And up"on his Remonstrance, the Deputics of the I ccle"fiastical Order and the Deputics of the Nobility,

"who had been of a contrary Opinion, changed
"their Mind. which made King Herry III fry,
"that Bod n was that Dity Master of the States.
"See the 7th Chap (g) of the 3d Book of Bodins." Republick 'See did the Latin Letter that he writ to Pibrac, prefix d to the French I dition of his Republick, and you will find there what follows. Resulting planum fecit, me in ligation ad Gallia conventus pro populi commodis advossus potentiorum opes, non sine capitis mei periculo, dimicavisse. opes, non fine capitis mei periculo, dimicavisse i pri-mumomnium ne bella civilia, popularis sund ca an ius, renovarentur, accrrime ristiisse deinde authorem suisrenovarentur, accrrime ristissic deindi authorem suisse ne quis e numero legatorum cooptai etui, qui popili i ogationibus sudicandis interesset contia quam ab omnibus ordinibus, una omnium voce decretum era, cum res ipsa popularis ac speciosa videretur, iset tamen a populi commodis valde aliena ego ad collegium pontissium patritios ire sussus, ordinis nostri decr to illos a proposita, susceptaque sententia deduxi. Cum visò piad a publica sub hasta vendere, or quidem alienatione semp ierna, ac tributa duplicare specie levanda plebis propositum esset, idque modis omnibus tentaretur, nos tanto siudio intercessimus, ut cum nihil obtineri potusset, Rix ipsi Homaro Burdegalensium Praside, Dureto Praside Miliniorum, Ripuario Aquitania sindico, ac plerisque aliis audienti-Ripuario Aquitania sindico, ac plerisque aliis audienti-Riphario Aquitania smalico, ac pierisque aliis audienti-bus dixerit, Bodinum ab esus commodis non modo disen-tire, verumetiam collegarum voluntates ac studia a se avertere consussee Si tamen procurator regius tunc suis-sem, non aliter sentirem quia necesse est si lica intu-mescat, ut caput ipsum, ac cetera membra contabescant, quid igitur sacere decuit plebis legatum? Cum autem nullis illecebris stesse potuisem, omnes pene Viromanduo-rum capitates, and me absentem. In corte venuguantim rum civitates, que me absentem, & certe repugnantim communibus suffragiis elegerant, literis quorundam pir-Suasa, procuratores ad conventus miscrunt, ut Bodinum, Suafa, procuratores ad conventus mijeruni, as succession, fi fieri posset, a suscepta legatione revocarent, quasi qui duplices in Republica religiones tucretur sed non prius procuratorias tabulas in comisto aperucrant, quam sum ma cum ignominia explosifucre Ex co tamen quantum detrimenti meis rationibus allatum sit, satis intelligunt, detriment mens rationibus allatum sit, satis intelligunt, qui sepius audicrunt libellorum in regia magistrum me designatum a Principe antea susse things, is most glorious for Bodin. He says, (b) Thuan That the Papers of the States having been presented to the King, it was proposed to the Third State to appoint Twelve Commissioners to assist at the Examination that should be made of those Papers in the King's Council. This was approved at first, but the thing having been examined again, Bodin's Opinion was, that such a thing ought not to be done, and he advised his Collegues not to nominate any Deputy, and to oppose the Deputations that the Clergy and the Nobility would make He was sent to the other two Houses, and shewed them by several Reasons how dangerous it was ed them by feveral Reasons how dangerous it was to commit the Decision of what had been ask'd by the three States of the Kingdom to a small number

(1)Thuan.

(e) Id 1b pag 147,

(a) Bodınus epist

dedicat libror de republ editionis Latinæ

(b) That zs, to tranflate his Repu-blick into

Latin (c) Sammarth

elog 1 4 p m 93

(d) Me nage ubi fupra, Pag 146

(f) Me-

& Thuan lib 63 pag 18, ad ann 1576 y See the Remark I f Ihuanus 15 guilty of a diction, and has refut d this himself of the Remark 1 Ex Thuano ib Sectle Remark I Letter f † Centur 1 cap 64 Menage 16 p 146

(1) H d (1) Neccs-lit ite qu'e tiflunum telum cft, uigente, id licere contenderet . quippe ffct, Irlutem po puli iupremam legem efle debere 10 16

(b) ld 1b

pri 188 (c) 1d 1 10/2 (d) Homines a factions 1uborn to venerunt om Bodinun condui fur inte ceififfe dicetent, quibus in confifto-110 1cg10 nihilominus pronunciatum cft.

1upia, pag 18, (f)Summa nducia interceflit Id p 188

Bodinum mhil nife ielte fecifle Id ib p17 183 (1) 1 hudefign'd for him He had the courage for strenuously to oppose those who would have all the King's Subjects to be forc'd to profess the Catholick Religion He representation. ted vigorously, that such a Request was a Violation of the Edicts, and that such a Violation would necessarily produce a War, which had been so often fatal to all the The Liberty wherewith he represented this, rais'd many Enemies against Kingdom him, wherefore perceiving that there was a Combination to make that Request pass, him, wherefore perceiving that there was a Combination to make that Request pass, and that by a fatal Inconsiderateness of the King and his Counsellors, those that might have distuaded that ill Resolution, durst not say any thin the abstain'd from proposing his Opinion, that was prejudicial to himself, and could no good to the Publick. Some Cities complain'd, that he had gone beyond his Commission, by opposing that Request, but the King's Council, who examin'd those Complaints, discharge him *.

Every body knows, that in the Ragguagh of Boccalin, † he was condemn'd to burnt, as being an Athesse, notors Athesse, for having said in his Books of the Republick as being an Atheist, notorio Atheista, for having said in his Books of the Republick, that Liberty of Conscience ought to be granted to the Sectaries " || The Abbot that Liberty of Conscience ought to be granted to the Sectaries "| The Abbot "le Laboureur, says in the 385th Page of the Second Volume of his Castelnau, that he had been Lieutenant-General of the Table of Marble It is certain, that in the time " of Charles IX he was the King's Attorney, in a Commission (K) for the Forests of ber of Persons, that tho' the Commissioners should be proof against Bribes, yet the King's presence might terrify them, and the Courtiers might seduce them. He was answer'd, he made a Reply, and at last he gain'd his Cause by the firmness wherewith he gave them to understand that the Third State would oppose the Deputations. Henry the III was vext at this, and bore an ill-will to Body for it. (1) Itague Rev. Bodinum. Guern unice Bodin for it (1) Itaque Rev Bodinum, quem unice diligebat, & obraram eruditionem ac multam variarum rerum experientiam, dum cibum caperet, libenter audiebat, ab eo tempore non tam benigno vultu dignatus est, quod ordinib prioris sententia mutanda auctor cetitiffet, quod ordinib prioris sententia mutanda austor extitiste, or in requantum ad circumagenda ordinum ingenia momenti baberet, minus grato regi experimento docuistes. I hat Prince caus'd the (a) necessity wherein he was to alienate part of his Demesnes to be represented to the States, but they rejected that Proposal, and Bodin chiesly made 'em resolve upon it, for the most considerable Deputies being corrupted with promises were already wavering (b) Pessimum de domanio affetsale necessitatis obtentu alienanda commentum, Bodino pracipue austore (nam pracipui am pronissis corrupti nutabant) evanuit, quod si locum tune babuisses, sub principe profuso misere dilapidatum suisset I he I ime Bodin did stoutly oppose the Cabals of the Party of Messieurs de Guise, who would have the War against the Huguenots to be concluded upon (c) Let us infer from this that Mezeray is mistaken (c) Let us infer from this that Mezeray is mistaken when he afferts that the King prais'd Bodin for op-poing the alienation of the Demennes He con-tounds two things which he should have distin-guish d Bod n's Conduct was approv'd by the King's Council, when some Cities complain'd (d) thit he had opposed the Proposal of not suffering two Religions in the Kingdom, this happened before the two Affairs which we have just now read in the passing of Thuanus, and which made Bodin loic King Henry IIId's favour Let us also observe a Contradiction of Thuanus He says Page 183 that Bodin perceiving that his Remonstrances against the Combinations of those, that would infringe the Idic's of Pacification, would be in vain, abstant of Combinations of those, that would infringe the I dicks of Pacification, would be in vain, abstain'd from specifing about that matter. Cum videret homo suini providus conjuratione satis et animos inclination, of satali Regis ac consiliariorum ejus cacitate effici, ut ab illis, qui prohibere poterant, prapostera prudencia in eare dissimilaretur, hujusmedi publicis sibi pernicios si or in publicum nihil profuturis admonitionibus deincips abstinuis (e). But in Pag 188 he tells us that this same Civilian did vigorously oppose the Faction of Messeure de Guise, even when the Papers of this same Civilian did vigorously oppose the Faction of Messeuri de Guise, even when the Papers of the States having been presented to the King, it seem'd that the Commission of the Deputies was expired. The Opposition concern'd the design of renewing the War against the Protestants. The Partisans of the Duke of Guise had gain'd the Clergy and the Nobility those two Bodies had several private Meetings to put off the Proposals of Peace.

Bodin, who because the Deputies of Paris were absent, was then at the head of the Third State, opposed those practices (f) with great Courage, and when they told him that the thing had been thus resolved upon in the States, and that the Assembly had no longer any Authority, he answer'd them bly had no longer any Authority, he answer'd them boldly, you are then a company of Rebels, since you acknowledge that your Deputation is ended, and yet you do not leave off meeting together But I am of another Opinion, we may yet prasent a Petition to the King, the Assemblies wherein they treated of the Peace at Rome, might not be so solemn as those wherein the beginning of the War was in agitation (g) Et com illista in comitiis conventum dicerent, & possulation that it was less oblatis nullas ordinum partes esse, quippe entitudis in mandatis, audaster respondit, in perducilionis cristan ipsos incurrere, qui cum potestatem agendi vel propria confessione non habeant, samen cottidie conventicula celebrent, verum se aliter canalism et licena adhue. Reas supplicana Name as Servicione de licena adhue. censere, & licere adhuc Regi supplicare Nam ut &c. It was necessary that I should shew Thuanus's contradiction, for he had considerately sessent Bodin's Reputation without any Reason for it

Reputation without any Reason for it

(R) The King's Attorney in a Commission for the Forests of Normandy] "(b) Master John Bodin, (b) Gré"Advocate in the Pitliament of Paris, persuaded and, de"King Charles IX that the Right of Tiers and facts pour "Danger, was a general Right over all the Formandy, and took the care of the safers qui "Inquiry upon himself, as the King's Attorney "fedent for the Reformation There was hardly any derbois en Family in the Province, but what he proceeded Normanagainst He himself says in his Writings, die, contre that he made Four-hundred Cases ready for la preten"Trials And he carried the matter so far, that son des Trials And he carried the matter fo far, that fion des there was nothing wanting for the Execution of Droits de there was nothing wanting for the Execution of his Design, but the actual Dispossession of all Tiers of those, who had some Forests All Normandy Danger, was moved at his Undertaking, and the Parliament met several times about that matter They appointed Deputies, and the Nobility supra, pag follow'd their Example At last the King was 146, 147 mov'd with their Complaints, and convinced by the Reasons that were represented to the mov'd with their Complaints, and convinc'd by the Reasons that were represented to him. And to put a stop to that Search, which had lasted several Years, he made an Edict in the Year 1571 whereby he order'd the Alienation of the Rights of Tiers and Danger that belong'd to him, on the Forests of Normandy, and he acknowledg'd by that same Edict, that those Forests were but sew, and that the Revenue which he drew from them, was inconsiderable. Bedin, who could not yield, oppos'd the Registring of it But the King set forth a Daclaration, whereby, without having any record to "gifring of it But the King fet forth a Decla"ration, whereby, without having any regard to "his Opposition and Protestations, which he des "clared void, he order'd it to be put in "cution" I thought this Passage deserved be set down at length First, Because it contained thing that is curious, and but lattle known.

Secondly, Because it serves to discover Badin's Temper, I mean, his Ardour, his Activity, language, and his Firmines.

He himself tells us some Circumstances of his Proceedings, which will confirm the thing.

He himself tells us some Circumstances of his Proceedings, which will consirm the thing. (b) And I remember, that Charles IX. having decreed his Letters Patents, in the Year M D LXX for a general Regulation of the Waters and Furest in Normandy, which drew after it the Cognizance of the study of his Demeste, the Presidents and Counsellors of the Parliament of Roan were furbidden to take any Cognizance of it. And although they used all the Bedeavours to prevent that Prohibition, yable Endeavours to prevent that Prohibition, yable Endeavours to prevent that Prohibition, yables agreed to it, after I had presented to them solvent Repeated Commands from the King, and such Sellers, and the stiff President for the Coses resulting from the Commission, and the whole City of Roan, for the Rights which they claimed against the King, and which was the Reason why I obtained the Prohibition (L) He

(b) Gré-ard, de-feufes pour les garts-catters que

381 alfo the 6th Chap of the 6th Book, p m

(L) He

(a) Menage ubi fupra pag (b) Pag

76. 6 Jeg

(c) Thu-an lib 94 pag 262 ad ann 1589

"Normandy" He had been a Protestant (L), 4 yet in 1589 he persuaded the Inhabitants 4 Menage of I aon to declare for the Duke of Maine, remonstrating to them, that the rising of so many 16 p 147 Cities, and of so many Parliaments for Messieurs de Guile, ought not to be called a Rebillion, from Laon Cities, and of so many Parliaments for Mellicurs de Guile, ought not to be called a Rebellion, from Laon but a Revolution And at that time he caus da * Letter to be printed on that Subject the 29th of He died of the Plague at Laon, in 1596 in (M) his Sirty-seventh Year, and was bu-January ried in the Church of the Cordeliers of the same City, as he had order'd by his Will † 1595. Id He had been a Carmelite in his Youth, if we may believe Thuanus, but Mr Baudry ||, † Id ib Advocate in the Great-Council, and Grand Nephew of Bodin, told Mr Menage several pag 148 times, that Thuanus had been missinform'd in that Particular It seems to me, that there is || Id ib the many has been proposed to the Printes that Galarel (N) Navida bestowed upon Roden as Page 141 as much Exaggeration in the Princes that Gabriel (N) Naude bestowed upon Bodin, as Pag 141 Injustice in the Contempt that Cujas, Scaliger, and some others express'd for him

(d) To Pre-Briffon

(e) Thu-

an ibid (f) Id lib 117

Peg 771 apud le-isser addit tom 2 Pag 247 (g) He the fault which Boam commited, by Jaying many things that were znjur:ous to King Henry III and to the King of Navarre

(b) Menage ubi supra pag 147

(1) As Mo reri, Hofman, Buin indice Chronol Paul Freherus in Theatro pag 895 &Saldenus Ot Theol p 797 not know Bodin is the Author of the Diaabditis rerum fublimium arcanis

(k) Thuan fupra

(1) Menard apud Menage ubi fupra

Apolog des • grans hommes ch 7 Pag 127 (1) In lib de strigib

(L) He had been a Protestant, yet in 1589 he per-funded the Inhabitans of Laon to dictare.] Mi Me-nage (a) lays, that he came to know that Bodin was a Protestant, by one of his Letters to John Bautru des Matras, a famous Advocate in the Parliament of Paris Mr Colomies published part of that Letter in his Gallia (b) Orientalis It is as clear as the daylight that it is a Letter from a good Huguenot It ingut that it is a Letter from a good Huguenor It is not dated, it appears only that it was written after the first Civil-War, I mean, that which was ended in the Month of March, 1563 Thuanus (c) says, that the League having tent Oiders to Laon, not to acknowlege King Henry III any more, Bodin, who had been a Protestary and who was never to the acknowledge. had been a Protestant, and who was never since an Fnemy to the Reformed Religion, praised the Conduct of the League, and Ly the Bishop's Advice, inside a Speech to the People, and remov'd the Scruples and Fens of the Inhabitants. He did not scruple to call the King a persidious Man, and an Hypocrite, he is, said he, the Sixty-third King of Fence, and he shall by the last the Climaster. of Fi mee and he shall be the last, as the Climacte Human Life In this manner he stiri'd up the City of I am to join with the Leaguers He writ a Letter on that (d) Subject, which was printed (e) I hus the Nicodemites do sometimes more harm than an open Enemy, they know that they are suspected, and therefore for fear of being undone, if they do not remove those Suipitions, they shew if they do not remove those Suspitions, they shew more Zeal for the prevailing Party, than those who have already given sufficient Proofs of the same Zeal Observe these Words of Thuanus, Videri regem huic regno Francisco fatalem, & ultimum ex ea familia fore What did Rodin mean by this Prognostication? Did he pretend that Henry III should be the last King of the Branch of Valou? He needed not be a great Prophet to foretell that, with respect to a Prince, who was the only one with respect to a Prince, who was the only one that remain'd of that Branch, and who was married with a young barren Woman Did he pretend that no Prince of the third Race should ascend to the Throne after Henry III? In that case the Event bely'd him, and yet Thuanus makes a great Account of Bodin's Prediction "(f) He" repair d that (p) Fault by an admirable Prediction. repair d that (g) Fault by an admirable Prediction of the unhoped for lifue of those Troubles, for though there was no likelyhood of a Peace, he publish d before-hand both the Year and the Month wherein it would be concluded, and the Event angiver'd what he had foresold." Event answer'd what he had foretold

"Event answer'd what he had foretold "

(M) He died in 1596 in his Sixtyfeventh Tear] He lays (h) in his Will dated the 7th of June, 1596 that he was above Sixty-fix Years of Age Which confutes those who say, (i) that he died in the Year 1585 and those who affirm, that he (k) liv'd above Seventy Years, or that he
(l) liv'd but Fifty-five Years Note, that the Epistille Dedicatory of his Universe nature theatrum, 1596
This is a little mortifying to those that place his Death in the Year 1585

in the Year 1985
(N) As much Exaggeration in the Praises that Gabriel Naudé as Injustice in the Contempt that Cujas, Scaliger, and some others] This is the Judgment that Naudé made of Bodin, in a Book briel Naudé Judgment that Naudé made of Bodin, in a Book which he publish'd in 1625 (m) This first Man of France, John Bodin after having, with a wonderful guickness of Wit, attend d with a solid judgment, treated of all Divine, Natural, and Civil Matters, would perhaps have forgot that he was a Man, and would infallibly have been taken by us for an Intelligence, if he had not left some Marks and Foot-steps of his Humanity in that Demonomanie, which was as the late most Serene King of Great-Britain well observed, (1) majors collects studio quam scripta judicio Perhaps the Reason of it is, Because that great Wit, who understood the Holy Language very well. judicio Perhaps the Reason of it is, Because that great Wit, who understood the Holy Language very well, applied himself more than was requisite, to the Dostrine of the Rabbins and Thalmudifts, quibus, as the Jesuit Possevies, (2) hoc libro tim videtui addictus, ut ad eos sæpius recurrar quam ad Evangelium In 1627 Naude publish'd his Advice how to make a Library, and observed (p) that if the Question is about Bodin's Republick, it must be inferr'd, that it ought to be taken in, because the Author was one of the most famous and renown d Men in his Age. was one of the most famous and renown d Men in his Are, and who among the Moderns treated first of that Subject, because the matter of it is very necessary, and very much minded at this present time, and because the Book is common, translated into Several Languages, and printed almost every five or six Tears Add to this, what he publish d in his B bliographia politica, (q) where he does not seem to praise Bodin in cold Blood, but to be seized with the most violent Rapture that ever It being a Book that may be easily had, and the Passage which concerns Bodin, containing many Lines, I refer my Readers to it, and shall copy

nothing out of it

Now let us ipe ik of Cujas's Contempt We are informed by a Letter from Bongars that Cujas having heard that he was centured in Bodin's Republick, and not being able to find that Book at the coffudy the contemporary is be horrowed it of (r) Bongars, and lome lick, and not being able to find that Book at the to fludy the Bookfellers, he borrow'd it of (r) Bongars, and some C v l Law Days after, he rul'd against Bodin above two Hours That Lecture of Cujas was sent to Bodin, and oblig d him to put a Latin Epistle before the Second Edition of his Republick, wherein he abus'd (s) lakin Cujas, but he left out in that I dition, all that from Bongulas had censur'd, eorum que Cujacius notaverat in gas s Lectifa altera editione nec volam reliquit nec vestigium (s) tei to ConCujas answer'd in the 38th Chapter of the 8th Book rad Ritton of his Observations, and made use of the Anagiam terssuling.

Andius sine bono, to denote his Antagonist See us, pub-Andius sine bono, to denote his Antagonist Mr Menage (t), who observes besides, that Bodin lish d by had abus'd Cujas without naming him, in these Colomess Words of the Preface to his Method of History, us in his Hostium aspectum ferre non magis possunt, quam il qui in Scholis Biturrium tanta cum gloria storebat id est in Scholis Biturrium tanta cum gloria florebat id est firentalis firabo inter cacos acutissime cernebat Cum in forum venisset, de levissima quastione consultus obmutuit non (t) Mesime acerba Riandi reprehensione Observe by the bye, that Moreri and several others, who say, that Bodin was call'd Andius sine bono, because of his Poverty, are mistaken Cujas made no Allusion to Bodin's Fortune in that Anagram, he only consider'd the Qualities of his Mind An Author gives (u) out, that Queen Elizabeth made use of that Naturalist mo pag 2 Burgoldensis for it He is mistaken in his Quotation, for Burgoldensis fays only, that that Queen call d (x) Burhim Badin (x) Homo iste sine bono, sive Badin (uti gold notifilum Elizabetha Angl Regina appellavit) licitum esse tia icrum him Badin (x) Homo iste sine bono, sive Badin (utilium Elizabetha Angl Regina appellavit) licitum esta icrum Imperii rueii in sua Methodo Histor c 4 Another Author pretends, that the Contempt Bodin express'd for Women, in the fifth Chapter of the sixth Book of the Republick, drew upon him "a very sharp page 33" self Queen Elizabeth, who had otherwise (i) Ancisme esteem for him, took delight to send for him into cillon, England, on purpose to send him back with these Melange "Words, Bodin, when you see me, learn that you critique "are but a Badin (y)" A Doctor of Louvain tom 2 p s says, that when Bodin was at London, to negotiate (z) Mr the Marriage of his Master Hercules (z) Duke of Crenius Alenson, the Queen used to call him Master John Animady Badin Pro Bodino solebat eum Regina Magistrum Joan-part 2 nem Badinum appellare (*) The Queen might have pag 93 has call'd him so, tor at that time the Court was not no reason less fond of Puns than the People, but it is falle, to sind fault

(2) In 1u-Bodini

Advis pour dreffer une Bibliothe-(q) Pag

(1) It was us, pub-

less fond of Puns than the People, but it is falle, to find fault that that Princes caus'd that Writer to come over with this on purpose to mortify him by such a Jest He Name and this Title

(*) Libert Fromondus Meteorolog lib 5 cap 1 art 4 pm 247

" See the end of the Remark O

bliogi

Vaíco

(tis 1

Sixo, mbo

L d wit arainft his

Republick

Posserin is not the only Man, who accuses him (0) of having writ many things that tre against Religion, and some Persons * suspected him of Magick, or affirm'd that was at I ondon in the Retinue of his Master the Duke of Alençon, and he was there also in the quality of Invoy from the same Duke

What scaliger said of Bodin, was very disobliging

(1) Bodinus patrem Jul Scaligerum falso ignorantia Mathificos arguit, ipst indostissimus valdeque jejunus, (c) Scale Marhifics arguit, ipfi indottissimus valdeque jejunus, cum quicqui la multis annis dottrina confequitus est, tianscriptirit ex aliorum laboribus, imo & ex meo libello in Varronem de lingua Latina, cujus paginas integras suas fecit fur impudentissimus, & in unum velut chao: congestit, plurima scribens qua ipse non intelligit. Denique librum di Methodo legenda historia inscripsit, in gerana i P 10,0,31 (a) Naud tus Bipolit pag quo nibil minus quam ca de se tractat, ut titulo suo nullo m 2,,24 modo respondent oratio, quod quidem Verrius Flaccus no-(1) Note tavit in Originibus Catonis que nibil minus inquirunt that Boquam Italia origines Porro si quis velit in illum scribere, I shall draw up the whole matter for him nedin mitte beginning que enim mihi honoris loco ducam aliquid proferre quod meo nomine circumferatur You see that he calls him of Rene Herpin's a most Ignorant Man, and that he would think it a dishonour to confute him What a great Arro-Apoloey gance is this, and how ill becoming Learned Men, tho' it is very common among all. 211071110715 not only one Offatus peal from this Judgment of Scaliger to that of Thuexist and judicious Writer, let us confeis however that he had a great Genius, a vast Knowledge, and a produgious Memory and Reading The Works nol om Memage calls a sour Peby which he got fo much Glory needed not that he should borrow any thing from a Commentary ter I Ho-Stail) but on Pano, and there is reason to believe that Scalia'lo an go and (u) would not have been able to produce what he did with so much Zeal at the States of Andie is-I mke-Llur Leigerus

(1) Naudœus ibid PAG 33

viri inditferentis, flantibus non iniqui teftimonio comparationem hanc ti infigim G Cuillelmus Roslaus de gusta Reip C' cap 4 ", p 194 eta Antwerp 1592

(Del Rio, difq Migac 11 1 619 3 n 23

(f) Lulcher de latro-C17110 172 leript.
publ pag 41 apud Dicemannum de Nituralifno pag 4

(0) Possevin is not the only Man, who accuses him of having writ many things that are against Religion | Let us in the first place quote his Panegyisft Naude, who observes, that those who have writ against Bodin's Republick, were only Pygmies setting upon Hircules, so that this Author out of fear on that fide, ought only to dread the Cenfures of the Church (a) Scio equidem, Fabium Alberga-tum hom nom Italum, & Serrium, ac Augerium Ferrerium, (sullo (b), magnis conatibus, & libris ad id confequendum editie, periculum illi ac rumam intentaffe (d) Unius fea eventus docuit cundem fuisse istius pugnæ eventum, quem Pygmæorum cum Hercule ut non jam ad miniatas alicujus Attici aut Hyperattici ceras trepidare de-& Prote- beat f ad Leclefia folius judicium, cujus cenfuris queniam vehementus urgetur, quam inimicorum argumen-tis, hine est, quod ipsiu libri evolvi minime debeaut, nisi olten a prius & hunc & quosibet auctores politicos l gen li facultate A little lower he blames him toi having too much expos d the Interests of the true I with, and in that regard, he approves of Possion's Complaints (c) Quibus (quæstionibus) corte compessionalistic dirigionalisque ad finem Religionis Christiana procepties ac instituto consentaneum, sane hand necesse ent diversas inter se Religiones committere, quimadmodum non sine dispendio vera pietatis superioribus anuis siccre, Petrus de Alliaco Cardinalis & Episcopus Cameracents, in opujculo quodam astrologico de tribus Cameracents, in opujculo quodam afirologico de tribus sellis, llicionymus Cardanus in libris suis di subtilitati, & sommus Bodinus, composito, sed nondum edito, (atque utinam nunquam edatur) de reium sublimium arianis inginti volumine, quod equidem, sesuitam Possivinum non perperam de 1950 judicium tulisse, argumento est potist validissimo certe manifesissimoque. The Author of the Book de justa Resp Christiana in reges impros & hareticos authoritate, accuses Bodin (d) of indistenency about Religion, and of being a favourer of the Protestints. The Iesuit Martin del Romannof the Protestints The Jesuit Martin del R o maintuins, that the Demonomanic of Bodin is full of Errois, and that in the very Edition of Animer that tois, and that in the very Edition of Antwerp that was publish'd as corrected, there remain'd many diagrams things, and which shew the doubtful Religion of the Author, (e) Manent multa nowas, & que an biguam authoris shem satu contestantur, nocereque lecentibus possume Wherefore, adds he, that Book was justly plac'd by the Inquisition of Rome in the Catalogue of piohibited Books. He promises to make it appear, that the Theorium universa Natura of the same Author contains some Doctrines so. of the same Author, contains some Doctrines so contrary to Divinity, that they may at least be call'd crioncous, and altogether rash. Let us observe that his Republick had the same fate at Rome, as his Demonomanie, tho' certain things had been inferted (f) in the Italian Translation, which fome officious Friends thought proper to preserve

Bodin's reputation of a good Catholick His Method Bodin's reputation of a good Catholick His Method of History, and his Theatre of Nature had no better fate with the Lambitators Here is something that is terrible (Annual of the that get into the Pulpit here, tell many Stories, something in their Sermons against Bodin, and tear him in pleces, without calling to mind that the Villain was a Leaguer, and dy'd a mathout mentioning JESUS CHRIST in him Words, which I have in Virle. This is to be found in a which I have in Virse. This is to be found in a Letter of James Gillot to Scaliger, dated from Paris the 9th of February 1607. That which Mr Diecman found in a Manuscript, and which he inserted in his Book de Naturalismo, is yet more terrible Naudeus in amosmachario Gallico ex MSEto laudati Patini mecum benevole a Viro Nob communicato, de boc opere, it is a Book well writ, inquit, but very dangerous, because he laughs at all Religions, and concludes at last, that there is none neither had he any himself He dy'd like a Dog, sine ullo sensu pieany nimiest. He dy'd like a Dog, fine ullo sensu pietatus, being neither Jew, Christian nor Turk. Alius adisonor General MSC Patini. Bodin was a strange Fellow in point of Religion. He dy'd of the Plague at Laon in 1596 being pretty old, and said not one word of JFSUS CHRIST when he dy'd (b) I cannot tell whether those that preach'd against Bodin in the Pulpits of Paru in the Year 1607 had heard any thing of the Dispositions Year 1607 had heard any thing of the Dispositions which he shew'd when he dy'd, or of the pernicious Doctrines of the Heptaplomeres Scaliger could not apprehend from whence their Fury proceeded He writ to Charles l'Abbé towards (1) the end of the Month of Lebruary 1607 the following Words Illud velim ex te scire quare Pontificii tam aceibe quotidie in Bodinum declarontificit tam accibe quotidie in Bodinum declament Certe quod mancipium ambitionis suerit, propetera odio illicesse cum non crediderim aliam substitut tam inopinati odii causam, & quare hominem substitut tam inopinati odii causam, & quare hominem substitut tam inopinati odii causam, & quare hominem substitut aussignesses cum causam, neque equi man qui escere sinant, a vobis expecto. I must not forset that as soon a second substitution of the company o get that as soon as Bodin's Republick came out, some (k) Apolo-Preachers exclaimed against him Read his Latin gie de Re-Letter of the 13th of March 1581 at the beginning né Herof Rene Herpin's Apology, and you will find that he observes two things in it, the one that de Ser-res, who had published a great deal of abusive Language against him that been severely punished for it, the other is, that tho' those that slander a Language against him, and been ieveral, lander a vin in Bibfor it, the other is, that the those that slander a vin in BibMan in the Pulpit, are as guilty as those that of- lieth, sefend him in their Writings, yet there are some less his Preachers, who stain his Reputation, and that of 16 cap 9 divers other good Men, without being punched 1,269,170 source (k) Serranus ille qui inaudito genere scribation. ac probres inustates libellum complevet, esseus principis susseus susseus dedit, quam optare potussem de tamets eodem seelere obligantur, que publices en conconibus nomen cujusquam laserunt, videmus tamen legibus solutos, non modo meam, sed etiam optimi cujusque existimationem impune violare, qui prudenter ferendum puta, quod auferri non potest

no Body among the Roman-Catholicks expressed more anger against this Civilian than the Jesust Posservin See (1) with what desire of Cen-iuring he scans the Method of History, and with what turns of Sophistry he puts an ill Construction upon the Propositions that may have a good sense great grief is, that Bodin speaks of Luther, Casuse and Metanthem in Civil Trans. and Melanchibon in civil Terms, and that he would have some bounds set to the Papal Power But above all, see the little Book (m) wherein Possevin gives his Judgment de quatuor Scriptoribus, Philippo la Nama, To Bodino, Philippo Mornaso, & Nic Machiavella, He pretended, that Bodin s Works were full of a great number of Errors, Heresies and Impiectus (n)

The Protestants have not been sleet above the page 35.

The Protestants have not been filent about that Writer's Errors, for to fay nothing of Grotius (0), who declares, that Bod.n had very much corrupted his Religion by keeping Company with the spud Discos, We may cite Meric Casaubon (p), who conected that he knows not what to think of that Man's Religion, whether he ought to reckon him pag 5 among the Catholicks, or among the Protestants The Lutheran Minister (q), who informs me of (q) Diecthis, carries his doubts much farther, and seems man soid very much disposed to believe that at last Bodin diposed to believe that at last Bodin diposed to be the second of veited himself of all sense of Christianity

(g) French Epistles writen to

(b) Diecmannus ubi fupra, pag 1 m

(1) Sec Con lomeiius's Gallia Oragntalis, $ 86.

verso

printed as Rome in 1592, and at Lyons ın 1593

(n) Teiffer ubi fupra, pag 248

ould us addit
But ad Contofeoin frum apud Colomefipag 8 (p) Mark Cafaub endeavours

he died a Jew * Note that he declar'd freely enough against those who maintain * See the that the Authority of Kings is (P) unlimited, nevertheless he displeas'd the Common-Remark O wealths-Men I believe it was among other Reasons, because he † maintain'd on one side † Bodin, that there were some Absolute Monarchs in Furope, and on the other, That it does not belong de la Re-to any Subject in particular, nor to all in general, to attempt against the Honour, or the Life of such Book Monarchs, esther by violent means, or in a juridical way, tho' they should have committed p m 302 all the Wickednesses, Impieties and Cruelties that can be named This Opinion does not

(1) Joh Henricus Urfinus miæ Virga v151-lante & olla fuccensa, p 40 ipud Th Crenium Inimady philolog & hiftor parte 2 pag 176

()Bodin in Thearæ lib 2

p m 221,

(a) This that of Germany

rig. Elloy. cap 9 p 20 774 (c) Thu-337 pag 141 (d) Bodin epist ad Vidum Republi-endeavours particularly to convince him of having reducing all to Natural Religion Another Lighten Hector (1) has observed that there are in John Lawrence & Physick, divers things which ought to be author of the Natural State Natural State St they are fet forth under the Name of Theodorus, and that another Perion under the Name of Mystagogus answers somewhat coldly, nothing ought to be raphly affirm'd on such difficult Subjects, de tam ardus nil temere esse affirmandum. And indeed I find that Bodin's Mystagogus, Page 222 of the Theatrum Natura, edition of Hnanaw 1605 makes use of this An-iwer, De rebus tam arduis & a communi sensu rewer, De rebus tam arduis & a communi sensu remotis nec temere quicquam affirmare, nec leviter cuiquam assentiri velim mini satis est certissimis argumentis & ad assentiradum necessariis demonstravisse concepta That Answer relates to a very strange Opinion that Bodin had just sessore expounded under the Name of Theodorus, we That Comets are Spirits, who having livid innumerable Ages on Farth and who having liv'd innumerable Ages on Earth, and being at last come near Death, celebrate their last Triumph, or are brought again into the Firmament as thining Stars. This is attended with Famine and Pestilence, &c because the Cities, and the People lote the Governours, who appeased the Wrath of GOD. It is necessary that I should fee down his Words. (2) Democris sententia in mentential with recurrent and explanation of should be appeared to the recurrent of the state of the sta mihi recurrit, ut existimem cometas esse illustrium virotum mentes, que posteaquam innumerabilibus seculis juguerunt in terris, tandem obsture, ut omnia que oriauguerunt in terris, tandem obsture, ut omnia que ori(a) This the up occasion minaniur, extremos peragunt triumphos, Omission is the line in casion stellatum quasi splendida sydera revocantur in the Edi- va propterea sequentur sames, morbi populares, civilia tion I make bella, quasi civitates ac populi ducibus illis optimis Euse use of, gubernatoribus qui divinos furores placabant, deserei enwhich is tur It is plain, that there is a fault in the illinitation of the sequence or that Bodin sives those Words um virorum, or that Bodin gives those Words a very particular Sense, for the common significaresponsible of the common fignification of Illustrious Men, does not agree with what follows, that is, with those innumerable Ages of Life upon Farth, that Balin ascribes to the Spirits which he mentions. He means therefore the Genit or Angels, and he supposes them subject to Death Fol 1668 or Angels, and he supposes them subject to Death Fol 1668 or relating this Passage Viguerunt in terris, yet he Cremius who responsible to the Spirits which he mentions He means therefore the Genit or Angels, and he supposes them subject to Death Fol 1668 or relating this Passage Viguerunt in terris, yet he cound an impious thing in it, ubi quod animas mori who responsible to the Spirits which he mentions He means therefore the Spirits which he mentions He means after the spirits and he means and he mean ubi supra, inform us, that it wat believ'd, that John Bodin

pag 175
with the itidem scripfit, in qua dum materiam ab aliis tantopere omission of agitatam adversus Joannis Wieri plerunque sentenam, omission of agitatam adversus Jeannis Wieri plerunque Jententiam, viguerunt enucleatius retractat, magica rei ac vetitarum ist.usmonin terris, di artium crimen minime essust (c) quotes the (P) He declar'd freely enough against those who maintedition of tain'd, that the Authority of Kings is unlimited.] He Amster- adam about the consent of the People, and that they more oblig'd to observe the Laws of GOD, (b) Vosta and the consent of the reign subjects, and that us de O- the Covenants which they make, impose the same rigidates. Obligation on them as on their subjects. He says, Obligation on them as on their Subjects He says that most Civilians had taught the contrary, and that he was the first that durst oppose the Opinion of those who wrote about the means of extending the Rights of the King These are his Words (d) Miror tamen effe qui puten unius potestati tribuere me plus aliquantum, quam deceat fortem in Republi-ca civem cum alibi sape, tum verò libro primo, capite octavo nostra Respublica, eos ego qui de jure sisci ac regalique amplisticandis scripière, sententias primus om-proposition de quidem periculossissimos temporibus refellere non activação, quide Regibus infinistam supraque divinas & pes arctions vinculo divinis ac natura legibus teners, quam qui sub mposium subjetts sunt? illos etiam pattis con seners perinde ut e'ios civos obligars? contra quam fccm tamen omnes pene juris scientia magistri docuere. If he had iaid no more, he would not have offended the Republicans, but because he maintain'd on the other side, That Subjects ought not to depose a lawful Monarch, who governs tyrannically, many Persons were offended at his Dostrine He tells us the Reason that mov'd him to maintain that Opinion, which is, that he saw almost every where, People in War against their Princes, and because a vast number of Writings were dispers'd every where, which by maintaining, that kings may be depos d, and that the Succession of Crowns may be regulated as it pleases the People, serv'd only to shake all the Foundations of Societies. He thought therefore, that his Duty oblig'd him to oppose those Maxims, which he judg'd so pernicious (e) Sed cum viderem ubique subditos in principes armari, libros etiam, velusi faces ad rerum publicarum incendia, palam proferri, quibus docemur principes divin -tus hominum generi ir butos, tyrannidis objecta specie de imperio deturbari, regis item non a stirpi, sid a populi arbitr o peti oportere e esseue disciplinas, non solum bu-jus imperii, verumitiam rerum omnium publicarum sundamenta labefactare ego boni vii aut loni civis esse negavi suum pineipem quantumvis tyrannum ulla i-tione violare hanc denique ultionem immortali Deo alisque principibus reling is oportire idque cum dia nis & humanis legibus ac testimoniis, tum etiam rationibus ad affentiendum necoffairs confirmavi Note, That being minded to fiy, that the Protestants had a hand in those fort of Wittings, he does it in a very hand in those fort of Wittings, he does it in a very moderate manner, and by clearing Luther and Calun. I here are his Words "(f) It would be (f) Bodin "time lost to answer the frivolous Objections and de la Re"Arguments of those that hold the contrary Opinion. But as he that doubts whether there is B 2 cl 5

"a GOD, deserves to feel the Punishment of the P m 3 25
"Laws, without using any Arguments, so do
"also those that have call'd so clear a thing in "question, and even publish'd in printed Books, "that Subjects may justly take up Arms against a Calvinus "Prince that is a Tyrant, and put him to Death in Joannem, & "in any manner whatsoever, although their most in Joannem, & In any manner whatsoever, although their most in Joannem, & In any manner whatsoever, although their most in Institute is never lawful to kill, nor so much as to rebel is never lawful to kill, nor fo much as to rebel in Instit against one's Sovereign Prince, unless there is a cap ult li special and undeniable Command of GOD for 4 self 31 it, as we read of (h) Jehu, who was elected by GOD, and anointed King by the Prophet, (h) 4 Reg with an express Command to destroy the Race cap 6 Go Ahab." He shews in another place from " of Ahab" He shews in another place some mo-deration towards those of Geneva, tho' he thought he had occasion of complaint against them for the Edition of his Book that was made in their City He does not come to particulars, and does not tay, dinum as Possevin, (1) That those of Geneva alter'd many reprehen-things in that Work, but keeps within general dentes in Terms If you understand Latin, you will be convinced of it (k) Alterum reprehensiones genus est eorum qui apud Genevates secundam editionem Reipublicanostra promulgarunt quam vel typis mandar, suisque civibus ad intuendum proponere minime dibuerant, que imvel authorem a calumnia vindicare si meminissent legis mutatunt illius qua a SP 2 Genevate lata est Nonis Jun Possiv MD LIX qua Santisssen vestitum est secundo capiti, B blioth in eos scriptores invehi quos interpretere Quid autem a tom me scriptum est quod vel a privati cujusquam dign'ate, pag 269 vel ab illius Respublica majestate sit alienum? atetiam laudavi qua ab illis sunt laudabiliter instituta Qua (k) Bodin vero reprehensione diena putarunt, abunde, ut nobis quievist ad vero reprehensione digna putarunt, abunde, ut nobis qui-dem videmur, & suo quisque loco & ordine resutavimus, cum ea qua decuit animi temperantia, quam in illius Fabrum civitatis scriptoribus plerique populi desiderare solent. Let us take notice, that he mikes a great distinction between the Subjects of a Tyrant, and Foreign Princes, for he does not approve that Subjects should take up Arms to deliver themselves from Tyranny, but he approves that their Neighbours should come and deliver them from it (1) There is a great difference in faying, that a Republi-Tyrant may be lawfully kill'd by a foreign Prince, ca ubi su or by a Subject And as it is very glorious, and cap ult li libris eepist ad Vidum

proper for any one, to defend by torcible means prap 30-

& Tobias Magirus Isponymol p m

3 SirTho-

Blount (n/ Authe pig

5-4 C

Prograti

301,3 -

* Wlat at abulc' and

Attain to

+ Taken

what a fine way to ſcq

ieq

fccm to agree with the Doctrine, that he had also maintain d that the Power of those Monarchs has fonce bounds, and that they are oblig'd to govern according to the Laws, but after all it ippe irs from those two Opinions that he (2) aim'dat the Publick good, the Peace and I impulity of the State. The Germans complain much of him, and abuse him See many Passages upon this in the Collections of A Magsrus, and in those of Sii Thomas Pope Blount, Consult also the Speech of Thomas Lansius against Fince Nevertheless some Germans say he had a sublime Wit and Judgment, and a very great crudition. See the same Collections He was likewise censured by the I alians, is it appears from Fabro Albergati's Political Biscourses, whose method did not please Bonifacio Vannozi See the 1st Volume of his Letters, pag 103 & see A very ingenious Answer was made to Bodin in England, whereby (R) he might have known that he had wanted Prudence in his Discourse He had so good a constitution of Body that in all his Voyages (5) he was never fick. His Opinion about Comets was somewhat strange. See the Remark O

BOI, commonly call'd IL SIRACUSANO, the Syracusan, was a very famous Player at Chels, and very much confider'd in the Court of Spain under King Philip II He receiv'd many fine Presents from that Prince He receiv'd also many tiom Pope Urban VIII and it was his fault that he did not receive a good Bishoprick of him, tor it was offer d him, but he would not be a Clergy-man. Having had , for it was offer d him, but he would not be a Clergy-man Having had the misfortune to be taken by some Corsairs, and to see himself reduc'd to Slavery, he found the means to make those Turkish and Savage Men tractable by his skill at Chess They idmit d him for it, treated him civilly, and exacted no other Ranfom from him but the I estons he gave them for some Months on that Game † We shall speak of another excellent Gamester at Chess in the Article Gioachino Greco It were to be wish d Ip scopacy! that those two great Masters had given us some regular Treatises concerning that Come, but me have only some fragments of the one, and some manners of playing by the other, Nevertueless a Collection has been that are not sufficient to make a formal Study of it

tioni a Letter in 11. Mut-Int Accult 1688 mid Deı mber 1693

(b) R1-

cheonic " the 13111

m 1 xxterorique de l'Anticoton, pm 11,

2) 14 (27) 1-7) r fle 41-ons nicon this Pal-lace of Bodin

(,) Bodin

epist id

" the Islates, Honour, and Life of those that are "the Flittes, Honour, and Life or those that are unjustly afflicted, when they are debarr'd from Justice, is Moses did, seeing one of his Brethren bus d and beaten. So it is a most noble and mignificent thing for a Prince to take up Arms, in order to Revenge a whole Nation unjustly oppress d by the Cruelty of a Tylant, as the great Hercules did, who went all over the World "great Hercules did, who went all over the World to exterminate those Monsters of Tyrants, and who was Deity d for his great Exploits So did also Dian. Timal and Agrees, and

"who was Deity d for his great Exploits So did "alto Dion, Timokon, Aratus, and other generous "Princes, who were flyld, the Chastizers and "Correctors of Lyrints' See the Margin (b) (?) It appears from those two Opinions, that he amd at the Publick good | He maintain'd the first, when he have Humy the Third's Latterers or Creatures propose such things as might create great Abuses to the oppression of the People, and he munitum d the second, when he sawe full of 1 strons, and torn by Civil Wars, that brought to light a great number of Manifestos, and other Books, which undermind the most effectial and fundamental Laws of the Government. They affected the Power of the People, in common Disfundamental Laws of the Government They afterted the Power of the People, an common Discourse, and in Print, as freely as it they had been a Democratical State, and they endeavour'd to exercise that Power, for they plotted the Translition of the Crown Nay, they approved the Athilins, who under pretence of Tyran by attempted upon the Lives of Kings This could not but produce the most dreadful Desolutions Wherefore Bodin show d limitelf very well-affected to the Pu-Bodin show d himself very well-affected to the Publick good by opposing such a Licentiousnels (c) Qui regias opis & bonores popularibus commodis posthabui, idem scriptis ac Jermonibus execratus sum 2005 qui ty; annidis specie suo principi manus afficie, deque regi-has populi suffragio creandis rogationes promulgare, & e manibus legitimorum principum septra violenter ex-toi quere conantur. He'had the misfortune to con-tindict himlelf after the Death of Henry III for he fided with the League, but the fall of a Sinner does not ipoil the good Actions that he hath done

not ipon the good Actions that he hath done

(R) A very ingenious Anjwer was made him in Fingland] Bodin being in England, when Mr de Mompenfier took a Journey thicher, made himself odious to the English, and foolish to the French by his curioity. Being at Dinner at an English 1 ord's House, he fell on the Pretentions of Princes to the Course of England and facilities. er com u :H1: - " lan l in " Princes to the (10wn of England, and faid, that a Princels was the prefumptive Heir of it, if the was not (a) excluded from it, as being born out of the (ountry, by a Law whereof he Thus"could never learn where it was to be found nus. Hf"The Enr if Lord antwer'd him, You may find it on the back of the Salic Law A Repartee, that

" filenc'd that prating Man, and made him understand, that it is not proper for Strangers to (e) That ican the Secrets of a State." This is what we read in the Secrets of a state. This is what we read in the 82d Page of Mr. Colomies & Gallia Orientalis, in 8a. he cites these Words as taken out of the 237th Page of the 2d Volume of the History of Henry IV written by Peter Matthieu. I have consulted my (e) Edition, and have not found in it and additional and being in England at the Journey of Mr. de Mompensier, but (e) a learned Man, who had follow'd the late Monsieur in his Voyage to England I Book, pa am certain, that that Learned Man is our Bodin, 527 but it would be wrong to say, that he went into but it would be wrong to fay, that he went into England with Mr de Mompensier, he went thither (f) with the Duke of Alençon, who in Peter Matthieu's nige, time might have been qualify'd feu Monsieur (the ubi supra late Monsieur) Mr Menage does not agree with that Pag 145 Historian, as to the Circumstances (f) The molate Monsteur) Mr Menage does not agree with that pag 145 Historian, as to the Circumstances (f) The motive, says he, of the Duke of Alençon's Voyage into England, was his Marriage with Queen Elizabeth (g) The e-Bodin discoursing one Day with an Englishman about ther is, that Marriage, the Englishman told him, that Marriage Voy I' would never be, Strangers being excluded by a Law from Anabassa the Royalty of England Bodin, who was well informedeur de ed of all the English Laws, as also of those of all other M Hot-Kingdoms, ask'd the Englishman bluntly, Where that Law was to be found? The Englishman answer'd as bluntly, That it was to be found on the back of the (h) The Salick Law Which has since pass among us for a Pro-same with verb I have thus particular from Mr du Puy Note, the Duke of that there are two Citations in Peter Matthieu, and Alençon that Mr Colomies alledges but one (g) Bodin inthat there are two Citations in Peter Matthieu, and that Mr Colomies alledges but one (g) Bodin informs us, That he was sent into England in the Year 1581, by his Master the Duke of (b) Anjou during the sitting of the Parliament, where it was torbidden to ipeak of the Queen's Successor, on pun of High-Treason, that he Harangu'd the Queen, and propos'd the Adoption of the King of Seotland to hei, and afterwards a (1) Marriage

(S) In all his Sea-Voyages, he was never fick He relates this himself in his Theatrum Natura. How the comes it, tays he, that the Sea excites a Vomiting and a Looiness. He answers, That this is not general, and that he was seven times on the Sea, and oratio even in a violent Storm, without finding any fuch thing (k) Id quidem insults navigars, nec tamen omnibus contingit septies mari Oceano westus, nibil tames equimods passur sum, etiams sevisima procella jastatus, ac ruptis velis extrema pericula subsertam wids tamen qui sanguinem womerent I need not mention the Physical Reason he gives, but the Personal Fact of which he informs us, seem d to me worth to be alleded It is part of his me worthy to be alledgd. It is part of his

(e) That of ration of

(1) Dein-de Lenoxiæ connubio & aftiffiris conjunctione Hæc mea reginam Bodin Rep lib 6 pm 1132

(k)Bodin Theatr maturæ 196, 197

(Z) To

c'um o le Crown of Ingmade of what was found most proper to be put in use, and it has served to make a (Z) † Mercu-

Book on that Subject †

BOISSARD (John James) born at Bezançon in the Year 1528 compos'd feweral great Collections that scree for the understanding of the Roman Antiquities 109 He himself rais'd the Plan of all the ancient Monuments that he could find in Italy, and B Taken he had an incredible Passion for that Study That which happen'd to him in (A) Cardinal Carpi's Garden shews it plainly He design'd to go into Syria, but a violent Fe-Hankius ver that seiz'd him at Methode prevented it He had already satisfy'd his Curiosity of de scri-Antiquities in the Islands of Corfu, Cephalonia, Zante, and in Morea, and after his recovery he continu'd to visit the neighbouring Places of Methone Being return'd into Romanahis Country, he was Governour to the Sons of Antony de Vienne Baron of Clervant, rum tom and travel'd with them into France, Germany and Italy He had left the Antiquities 1 c 76 which he had collected with fo much trouble, with his Sister at Mombeliard, and had the says the missfortune to lose most of them when the Lorrains ravaged the Franche Comte that he took it in He preserv'd only those that he had sent to Metz before that Invasion, but as it was part from known that he intended to give the Publick a great Collection on that sine part of two Let-Literature, many Draughts, and Sketches of Old Monuments were sent him He ters of had settled himself at Metz, where he died the 30th of October 1602 & His Works (B) Boissard are much valued by the Antiquaries, and are grown very scarce He made (C) Latin his Anti-verses. It appears from a Passage, which I shall quote γ elsewhere, that he was in quities the service of Cardinal Caraffa.

the Service of Cardinal Caraffa

BOLEYN or BULLEN (Anne) Wife of Henry VIII King of England, wis the Reof a better Family on her Mother's fide, than on her Father's, fince she was the the Atti-Daughter of Thomas Bullen, who was only a Knight, and of a Daughter s of the cle Paul Duke of Norfolk She was born in the Year 1507 and was carry'd into France at Seven Years of Age by Henry VIII's Sifter, Wife of Lewis XII She did not return History of Levis All She did not return History of I cti. into England when that Queen retir'd thither after the death of her Husband, but Llizabeth that In the Service of Queen Claudia the Wife of Francis I and after the tomipy Death of that Princess, she went to the Dutchess of Alengon? The Year of her is therefore return into England is not well known, some will have it to be in the Year 1527 That which is certain is that She was Maid of Honour part that the King full in love with her. She behard her of the days that to Queen Catherine, and that the King fell in love with her She behav'd her felf the wa he with so much Art, that by refusing to satisfy that Kings Passion, she made him think Doughter of marrying her. That Prince deceiv'd by her Artifices thought he should never enjoy her unless she was his Wife, which ingag'd him to push forward the affin of the lord. the Divorce, and to execute it at last with all the noise that every body knows That Hist of the which would be very praiseworthy on another occasion, is Anne Bullen's chief Crime I eform of Her refusing to comply with an Amorous King, unless he would Divorce his Wife, 15 Lingland, a much more enormous Crime than to have been his Concubine A Concubine would a result of the refusion of the r not have dethron'd a Queen, nor taken her Husband from her, whereas the crafty ito Anne Bullen, by pretending to be Chast and Scrupulous, aim'd only at the Usurpation of 6 Le the Throne, and defign'd to exclude Catherine of Arragon, and her Daughter from all the Honours due to them However it be Henry VIII married her a privately the divorce 14 November 1532 without waiting for a Sentence against his Marriage with Cathe-tom 2 rime of Arragon, and as foon as he perceived that his new Wife was with Child, he pag 31 made his Marriage publick, and caus'd Anne Bullen to be * declar'd Queen of Burnet, Burland on Easter-eve 1533 and to be Crown'd † the 1st of June following She is the Thomas brought to Bed † the 7th of September, and continued to be much belov'd by the † Ibid was brought to Bed † the 7th of September, and continued to be much belov'd by the † Ibid Ling, till the Charms of Joan Seymour had fir'd that Prince's Heart in the Year ‡ † of a Then his love for his Wife was changed into a violent housed. Then his love for his Wife was changed into a violent hatred, he took her to Daughter cure Galant, Au-gust 1688 and December 1693

(2) To make a Book on that Subjett] The Author (a) Letter whom I quote, speaks of it, as of a Work ready to superted in come out By joyning, says he, (a) to what has been taken from those two famous Gamesters, the knowledge that has been had from others, and the Observations that have been made, either by playing a seeing others play at it, out of the whole matters a square Body has been composed, that contains the Philipping Science of Chefs I inform you, that it is going and published as a singular piece of Work in its hind; and the Copy has been a long time in the Hands of one of the best Chefs-players of France, who path the Honour to play at it with his Royal Highness the Duke of Chartres of Chartres

(A) What happen'd to him in Cardinal Carpi's Gar That Garden was full of ancient Marbles, den] and situated on Mount Quirinal Bussard came into it one Day with his Friends, and stray'd from to it one Day with his Friends, and stray'd from them on purpose, he let them go home, and hid hamself in some Walks He spent the remainder of the Day in transcribing some Inscriptions, and sketching old Monuments, and the Gates of the Gates heing shut, he remain'd there all the Night The Cardinal shding him the next Morning busy at that Work, could not imagine how that Stranger came into his Garden at such an unseasonable time, but when he knew on what account Beisfard had been there all Night, he ordered him a good Break-tast, and permitted him to ed him a good Break-fast, and permitted him to

Copy and Sketch all the rare Pieces that were in zabeth his Palace (b),

(B) His Works] His Roman Antiquities divided into fix Parts, make up four Volumes in Folio They contain many Stamps, those of the two first Volumes were engrav'd by (c) Theodorus de Bry, and those of the other Volumes, by the two Sons of that The odorus (d) Moreover, Bossard publish'd the Lives of nus Handone hundred ninety eight Illustrious Persons, with kind de their Brass Cuts That Work is divided into four rerum

their Brass Cuts That Work is divided into four Parts in Quarto, that were Printed at Francfort; the 1st, in the Year 1597 the 2d, and the 3d, in the Year 1598 and the 4th sn the Year 1599 (e) His Treatise de Divinatione & magicis presigui, was for 1 Printed after his Death I omit his Emblems, &c (C) He made Latin Verses I I have not the Edition of Metz 1589 in Odawo, which is in the Catalogue of the Library of Oxford, I have only that of Basil 1574 in 1200 It contains three Books of Epigrams, three Books of Elegies, and three Books of Letters If those Verses do not deserve all the Praises that Borrichius bestows upon deserve all the Praises that Borrichius bestows upon fort them, they don't deserve neither the Contempt Id ibid that some have express for the Verses that James pag 259

Bessará put under the Cuts of the Illustrious

Men (f) Gruterus plac'd that Author's Poems in the Delights of the French Poets

(e) Id ib

pag 392 (f) See Baillet, Jugem fur les Poetes n 1359

(A) Caus d

Y In on of be Queen Eli-4 Burnet,

> (6) Martinus Han-

(e) Id ib

tom 2

* Ibid † Ibid be an unchast Woman, and caus'd her to be imprison'd, and (A) tried. She was condemn'd either to be burnt * or beheaded, her Mariage (B) was declar'd void †, because she confessed that she Married the King when she was ingag'd by a Contract

(a) Sec the Additions Hions of the I Par

(1) Buinets HA of the Riformat Put I b

(1) Gratianus de calibus virot il-Juftigum. pag 269

(d) Burnet, ubi Supra

(e) Ibid

been a Cordelier and 2101 / (apuchin He left his Order be-871E 28-1)) 01 1/F (r) Thevet, (ofmogratise יוון יווינונו ch 5 tol 657 verso

(1) ld ab 141 659

(1) Bui net, ubi

(A) Caus'd her to be Try'd] Sanders fays, that her Doctor Burnet had related the same thing on the credit of Dr Heylin, but he (a) retracted it in the Additions. He found the Register of the Tryal, but not the Earl of Wilishire among the Judges. That was Anne Bullen's lather's Name at that time It is remirkable, that that Queen was
(b) accust of Hob-Treason, for having lain divers income her Brother, and with four Men, for having declared to them all, that the King had never possible declard to them all, that the King had never possible dier Heart, for having told every one of them, that she loved him before any other Person, and for having dishonour dithe Royal Blood. Now this was High-Treason according to the Law made a little before, and thus they made use of the same Law, that was first made in her and her Childrens behalf, against that unfortunate Princess. I he Bishop of Amelia goes farther than Sanders, for he says, that Thomas Bullen presided at the Tiyal of his Daughter (c) Panamin strum ship fortuna patrem dedit, qui forte capitalium review suder adversus cam capitis intentiam tulit lium rerum Judex adversus eam capitis sententiam tulit What he says, that all those that were accusd of having lain with her, confess'd it on the Rack, is contradicted by Di Burnet, who observes, that but one confess dit He was a Musician whose Name was smeton He own'd (d) that he had lain three times with the Queen It is observable, that in the long Reign of Queen Elizabeth, no Endervours were used to justify her Mother. The Catholick have taken advantage of it, but they are (e) answerd, That they should rather praise mile Elizabeth's Prudence, and that of her Miniflers She would have weaken d her Right by endeavouring to defend it, and certain things ieliting to Anne Bullen must have been own'd, that would have been prejudicial

I could name an Historian, who tells us, That Thewer, a I rench Capuchin, fays in the 5th Chapter of the 16th Book of his General Cosmography, ter of the 16th Book of his General Colmography, il at divers English Gentlemen had assured him, that smeten the Musician had disowned what he had field, and repented for having undone the Queen by a fille Accusation. I had a mind to verify the thing, the I knew that the Authority of that (f) Monk is next to nothing, for he is a Man whose Books are full of Iables and Ignorance, he is a Lyar without Judgment and Wit But nevertheless, I had a mind to be an Lye-witness of what he writ upwithout Judgment and Wit But neverthelets, I had a mind to be an Lye-witness of what he writ upon this Subject. Here is what I found in his Book, (g) Many English Gentlimen have assured me, that Henry VIII being at the point of Death, repented very much of his Sins, and among other things, of the Crime he had commuted against the said Queen Anne Bullen, faisly convicted and accuse of what was imputed to her. He says nothing at all of the Repentance or Retractation of the Musician, neither that he interest had from his discourse by any conference or the subject of the Musician, neither cin it be infeir d from his discourse by any consequence, fince that Man might have perfifted in his first Deposition or Confession, and yet Henry VIII might have oppress'd that Innocent Queen by false Witnesses At the bottom, Theres's Testimony is of no force, since he does not name the Gentlemen that told him so, and if they were Queen Elizabeth's Friends, 'tis likely they were preposses'd, and advanc'd what they save credit, because the state of the control of the save credit, because the save credit the certain Reports, to which they gave credit, be-cause they found them agreeable to their desires. There is another Circumstance which enervates that Monk's Authority, which is, that he speaks of Queen Elizabeth is a Man, who hoped to receive Queen Elizabeth is a Man, who noped to receive a Prefent from her (b) A generous and liberal Princess to Men of Learning, lays he, and chaste in all her Astrons, having always had Ingenious Persons in singular Esteem, as much as any of her Predecessors. He excutes her also for having introduce declarism into her kingdom

(B) Her Marriage was declard word] (B) Her Marriage was declard void I The Author of the History of the Reformation of England informs us (1), 1/8, That the Lord Percy had told (ardinal Wolfey, That he had given his Word to Anne Bullen before Witnesses, and that his Conscience would not fusive him to call it in 2dly, That when they preis d that I ord during the Queen's Tryal, to describe the theory had been a controlled to the three clare that there had been a Contract at that time between him and Aime Bullen, he took an Oath in the presence of two Archbishops, That there never was any Centrast, or Promise of Marriage between him and that Maid, and to make that Oath more solemn, he received the Communion in the presence of divers Councellors of State, and wished, that the receiving of that Sacrament night be his Damnation, if he had been in any Ingagement of that nature 3dly, That the Queen (k) own'd nothing during her Tryal concerning her pretended by the same of t her pretended Ingagement with that Lord, but when she was condemn'd, she confession, that there had been a Contract between her and Percy, and being brought before the Ecclesiastical Court the 17th of May, she declai d, that there had been a just impediment to her Marriage with the King, and that therefore the Marriage could not be valid 4thly, That (1) upon her Contession the Sentence of Divorce was pronounc'd 5thly, That the Original of that Sentence was burnt, but what has now been faid of it, is repeated in a Law that the Parliament made a little after to regulate the Succession 6thly, That the two Sentences that were pronounced against the Queen, are so opposite to each other, that at least one of them must have been unjust For if that Princes's Marriage with the King was void from the beginning, she was no ways guilty of Adultery, since that invalidity hinder'd her from being Henry's Lawful Wife If the Marriage was Lawful, it was an unjul white 11 the Marriage was Lawjul, it was an unjul thing to make it void, and if it was not Lawful, the Queen's Condemnation is plainly contrary to Equity, and it cannot be maintain'd, that that Princess faild in her Duty to the King, since she was not then obliged to keep her Faith to him Many Remarks might be made on this, but I shall be contented with these three 1st, The I ord that deny d with an Oath, and with the Sicrament in his Hand, that there had been any Ingagement between him and Anne, was a great Impostor either at that time, or when he declared that he (m) had given her these Anne, was a great Impostor either at that time, or when he declar'd, that he (m) had given his Paith to that Maid If his Oath be prefer d before the other Declaration, it must be said, that the Queen being ready to dye Depos'd talsly, that she had been ingag'd with that Lord If she was capable of Lying in that juncture, it cannot be said for her justification, that she always protested her Innocency, even on the Scassod, for a Woman, who being ready to appear before GOD, does not scruple to tell a fallity that makes her Childien Illegitimate, may as well deny a Truth that loads her with Dishonour And we have here a choice Fact, among divers others of the same kind, which shews, that Historical Pyrrhonism may be proof against the Oaths and Protestations of dying Persons 2dly, The Art of Historians is remarkable, they make use of a Fact when they can draw some advantage from it, and they deny it when they find themselves troubled they deny it when they find themselves troubled with it It is advantageous when it is to be prov'd, that Anne Bullen did not preis Henry VIII to Divorce the Queen, to shew that she intended in good earnest to be marry'd to the Lord Percy It is then requisite to own her Ingagement But if on the other side, iome Body should tell us that by that Ingagement her Marriage with Henry VIII became void, and that therefore Queen Elements and that therefore Queen Elements are the control of the state was illegitimate, even the Catherine's Divorce had been just, then it must be said, that this Ingagement is a meer Story, and Percy's Oaths must be insisted upon 3diy, No Arbitrary Power did ever go beyond that which the Parliaments of England exercis'd in the XVIth Century All that the Nation could do in the most authentick manner to declare the Marriage of Henry VIII with the Nation could do in the most authentick manner to declare the Marriage of Henry VIII with Catherine of Arragen void, was made use of, their Daughter Mary was therefore Illegitimate, and yet she was acknowledged for Queen, as a Legitimate Child of Henry VIII All that was necessary to invalidate the Marriage of the same Prince with Anne, was also made use of, Elizabeth, their Daughter was therefore Illegitimate, and yet she was acknowledged for Queen, as a Legitimate Child of Henry The Original of the Sentence of the Divorce was burnt, because they were not willing that a piece so disadvantageous to Queen Elizabeth should be preserved. Observe well, that is Hereditary Kingdoms it is a Fundamental Law, That Bastards should be postpon'd to all the Legitimate

Bastards should be postpon'd to all the Legitimate

Relations of the Royal Family

(k) Ibid

(1) Ibid

(m) See Burnet, Book 2

with Earl Percy. She * was beheaded the 19th day of May 1536 and did not * Ibid lose her good Humour (C) in that juncture Some Catholick Historians have given themselves a prodigious liberty of lying against her, as well by reason of the Schism which she occasion'd, as because they were willing to dishonous Queen Elizabeth by that means They are some of those inconsiderate Satyrists, of whom I have already had occasion to speak, who instead of insisting only upon true matters of Fact, have engaged themselves in slanders (D) that may be very easily consuted. Their blindness is the more inexcussible, because they might

(a) Burnet, ub:

(b) Ibid (c) Out of the Licute-nant of the (d) Po-stremo genibus positis ultimos quoque pedes quo honestius prorum beret ve fte contexit Gra-tian ubi

270 (e) Id iB Pag 269 (f) San der'sSchifme d' An-I pag 17 of Maucroix's Translation, Am-sterdam edit 1683 (g) This

Jupra, pag

Narratime of Sanders bas been alter'd by some Gratiani says, that Thomas Bullen ... absent 3 Years O. * thers say, that at bu return be found bus Wifewith Child, and that the > bim, that it was bis doing See Burnet's Hift of the England, rillas's Hift de l' Herej B 9 pag (h) Burnet, ubi

Jospra

(C) And did not lose her good Humour] In the time of her Imprisonment, the acted very different parts, sometimes (a) the seem'd devout, and shed many Tears, and all on a sudden she broke out into Laughter. As soon as the (b) Judges that came to examine her were gone, she fell on her Knees, and melting in Tears, cry'd many times, Lord Jesus have mercy upon me, and at the same time she broke out into Laughter Some (c) Hours her over the beath the faid, that the Executioner was fame time she broke out into Laughter Some (e) Hours before her Death she said, that the Executioner was a very handy Man, and besides, that she had a very small Neck At the same time she felt it with her Hands, and laugh'd heartily Tho' Gratiani is not savourable to her, yet he owns that she dy d with great Resolution, and that she took care to spread her Gown about her Feet, that she might not fall (d) undecently The Poets say the same of Polyxens. The Historians observe it of Juliu Casar See na The Historians observe it of Julius Casar See the Remark G, of the Article Olympias I question much what Gratians reports, that when she was brought to the Place of Execution, she fell into a great Passion against the People that shewed her no respect, and told them, that in spite of their Teeth, she was, and dy'd their Queen Cum è carceribus in aream, qua perampla est ante Arcem, produceretur, quò omnis multitudo concurrerat ad spectandum necem ejus, quam nuper demisse adorare consueve-rant, nec transeuntem ullo honore dignarentur, illa ne tum quidem oblita superbia, contumeliosssme eos compellans convicio increpuit, esse monituramque se Reginam sorum ferens, dissumperentur omnes licet (e)

(p) Slanders that may be very easily consuted] For Example, is there any thing more easy to be consuted that the story there is many Parsons have convident

ted, than the Story that io many Persons have copy'd from Sanders? (f) viz. That Anne was Henry VIIIth's Daughter, thar her Mother brought her into the World two Years after the departure of Thomas Bullen, on his Ambasy of France, to which the King nominated him only to enjoy his Wise more freely in the abicnce of her Husband, that Thomas Bullen at his return into England, hearing of his Wife's Bullen at his return into England, hearing of his Wife's ill Conduct, Summon'd her before the Official of Canterbury for Adultery, and Su'd for a Separation, that the King order'd him to stop all his Proceedings, and to take his Wife into his favour again, that he obey'd, but it was not till she had own'd to him, that the King was the Father of the last Daughter of which she was brought to Bed (g), that at sisteen Years of Age Anne Bullen was debauch'd by her Father's Steward, and by his Albauch'd by her Father's Steward, and by his Almoner, that the was fent afterwards into France to a Lord, who educated her as a Maid of great Quality, that she behav'd herself at the Court of France with so little Modesty that she was call'd, the English Hackney-Mare, and that because Francu I had a shale in her kavour, she was call'd the King's Mule, that during the Love of Henry VIII for that Maid, Thomas Wist, one of the chief Lords of the Court, came before the Council to depose, that he had lain with her, at a time when he did that he had lain with her, at a time when he did not believe that the King thought of honouring her so far as to marry her, That Henry not believing that Deposition, Wist offer'd to make the King an Eje-witness of the favour; he should receive from that lend Woman, that W as was call'd an Impudent Man, and was turn'd out of the Court

Doctor Burnet makes use of three Arguments Doctor Burner makes use of three Arguments against this In the 1st, place Sanders reports those things only on the credit of a Piece that no Body ever saw It is the Life of Sir Thomas More by Rasial 2d, They begun too late to object them 3d, There are some impossibilities in that Account See here the second of these three Reasons in all its extent "(b) If those things have "been such as Sanders reports them, how comes it that at the Death of Anne Bullen, some Persions had not complainance enough for the King, or were not Enemies enough of that unhappy Princess, to publish her Insamy, which in other respects could not be unknown? For such a Woman as Anne Bullen's Mother's being with a Woman as Anne Bullen's Mother's being with " Child two Years after her Husband's departure, who was fent on a considerable Ambassy, her Husband's Suing for a Divorce in the Archbishop of Canterbury's Court, and causing his Wife to be Summon'd there, are such Circumstances as the World does not forget io soon On the other side, Anne Bullen's justering herself to be debauch d in her Father's House, her ill Life in France, and her being kept by two Kings, are other Circumstances that cannot be very fecret Besides, when the Registers of the Archbishop's Court were yet extant, it was offered to the Publick to make it appear, that there was nothing in those Registers like the Profecutions that Sanders speaks of Laftly, All the Writers of those Times, as well those on the Pope's as on the Emperor's side, keep a profound silence about those things, which they had never fail'd to publish, if they had been (1) Exceptive or if they had come to their knowledge. they had never fail'd to publish, if they had been (1) Exception, or if they had come to their knowledge tions ought. But eighty Years (1) after they bethink them to take telves of forging a History full of Impoplace in this fort of thus, Or, at least, it was published, because it this fort of was then more take to tell Lies, all those that Causes, might have been able to discover the truth being in tensor.

As for the third Reason, I only relate the Accuit in short Thomas Bullen could not be tent An- fation is of bassador by king H nry VIII before the Year 1509 su h a naAnne must therefore have been born in the Year ture as to Anne must therefore have been born in the Year ture as to 1511 and debauch d in her House in the Year be easily 1526. Where shall we then find the time when known, and she was with a great Lord in France, and afterwards at Court? Where shall we find that licentious Life which made her be called, The English producing Hackney-Mare? I say, Where shall we find that it have time, since she was retuined into England in the nor been Year 1526? Sanders can never be justifyed. His wanting, best Apologist, Mr le Grand, so takes him here and it is a say in the same of the s best Apologist, Mr le Grand, tostakes him here and 1. It as I do not presend to palliate his Faults, says he (k), was never I confiss plainly, that he is too passionate against Anne mention d Bullen, that no Author of my acquaintance, besides See herehim, has said that she was Daughter of Henry VIII undo 1'c or that she had lud such a disorderly Life Sanders as Rumnks firms, that she was beloved by the King in the Year 1526 Now before she was beloved by that tick BolKing, she had been debauch'd at her supposed I to see there's at sisteen Years of Aye, she had lived in fadors could have been two Years in his Ambaffy It has been found that Anne was born in the Year 1507 and therefore according to Sanders, Henry VIII must have sent Thomas Bullen in Ambassador in the Year 1505 and he must have been at that time ingag'd in an Adultery Now the 1st of these two things is falle, for Henry was not yet King, and the other is not to be believed of a Youth that was but fourteen Years of Age Add Youth that was but fourteen Years of Age Add to this, that Thomas Bullen was not fent on his Ambassy till the Year 1515 (1) And 'tis to be observed, that Dr Burnet having repeated all these Reasons in refuting Varillas, we have not seen in the Reply of the latter any Proof, or any solid Remark in Sanders's favour I ought not to pais Sanders Sanders over in filence what concerns Wiat's Deposition over in silence what concerns Wiat's Deposition Dr Barnet has spoke more amply of it in a Work of a later date than his History of the Reformation First of all he show'd (m) how much such a Deposition is contrary to all likelihood, and then he maintain'd that Wiat was never out of Favour, but was imploy din so eigh Ambassies till he dy'd He quotes (n) an Original Piece, wherein Wias's Son attests, I has ha Father was Squire of the Body to king Henry all the while that Marriage with Anne Bullen lasted, and for many Years after, and yet neisher did he in discression retire out of the Court, nor did the King seem jealow, nor the Queen offended at him That his Father was afterwards Ambassader for several

That his Father was afterwards Ambaffader for several 107, 108 Years in Charles Vth's Court Pppp lation is of

have fatisfied their flandering humour, (E) without exceeding the bounds of faithful Historians It is pity that the good fortune they have had to find a great number of obliging Transcribers and Readers should inspire so many others with the boldness to mittacthem Sanders is the only Author quoted by all the Authors that have defam'd Anne Bullen, and particularly by Mr Movers. Those who say, that the Protestants ought to blush for being so much oblig d to that Queen, who was of their Religion, would do well to declare before all things, that they are very much vex'd at the Services the Empress Irene did to the Cause of Images

Consult Mr de Larrey in the 1st Volume of his History of England, where you will find the Reasons pro and con clearly set down, and our Anne as much justify as the Laws of History can permit it.

BOLESI AUS the lit of that Name, was the first King of Poland His Father the Duke Miecessam, having imbiac'd Christianity, desir'd the Title and Dignity of King from the Pope, but did not obtain it. His Son found much more facility with the Emperor Ocho III after having receiv'd him splendidly at Gnesna, where that Emperor had been in Pilgrimage (T) to venerate the Body of St Adelbert, who had been martyr'd in Prussa * four Years before It was in the Year 1000 that Othe perform'd that Pilgiimage The Honours he receiv'd from Bolestam oblig'd him to shew him his Gratitude by conferring the Title (Z) of King upon him He dreft him in his own Guments, and gave him the Signs of the Empire, and particularly the Sword and the Golden-bill with the Crois. Boleslaus had very good Quahties, he was Liberal to the Church, and very Valiant He repuls'd the Bohemians into the Heart of their own Country, he punish'd the Moravians, and made them Tributaries, he punish'd the Idola-

(1) Fathord Orleans

Hift des rvolutions d'Angleterre, tom 2 pag

ble to me in his account of Anne Bullen I shall set down what he says of her, and at will appear, by it, that those who have Refuted Sanders, have not labout d in vain "(a) Sanders relates several "things of Anne's Birth and Behaviour before "Hem; tell in Love with her, that are not cally to be believ'd, and the proofs whereof are "not convincing He says, that she was Henry's "Daughter, that she had a Sister whom that Moment debauch'd; that she had prostituted here self-almost from her Childhood to the Steward and Almonet of Thomas Bullen. Who past for her ble to me in his account of Anne Bullen and Almones of Thomas Bullen, who past for her Father, that being gone to the Court of France, Frances I and his Courtiers dishonour'd her in "Fonces I and his Courtiers dishonour'd her in fuch a manner, that she was publickly called by infamous Names. But these are things that the Protestant Writers cay out a pon, and have some reason to deny. But that of which she cannot be clear'd is, that by countersteining Modesty, she gave Henry some hopes that she would marry him, if he could bring that monstrous Divorce about that Wossey proposed to him, and that thereby she contributed to the Injustice that Prince did to his lawful Write, and to all the Lvils that follow'd upon it. The Fragical Lind that her Incommency brought her to, which was provided by a legal Tryal, made it appear that the Catholick Writers might say, without judging without she was Ambitious. the was Ambitious

(E) They might have fatisfy'd their slandering Humour, without exceeding the bounds of faithful Historians] The Bishop of Meaux made use only of the same I acts, that the Protestants own, to defame (i) Histoire that Queen He convinces her (b) thereby of an de I via- immodest Gayety, of an indiscreet Liberty, of an irregu-tons, B 7 lar and licentions Belaviour A Modest Woman, lays the and themstone Bi which was never seen to suffer hersilf to be disrespected so far, as to have such declarations, made to her by Persons of all Conditions, and even of the meanest Nay, she was pleased with, and gave occasion for them, and she was not assend to tell one of her Gallanes, that the perceiv'd he deterr'd to marry, in hopes to have her after the Kuig's Death All these things are acknowledged by Anne, and she was so far from look ng on those bold Lovers with an evil Eye, that its certain, without diving farther into the master, she treated them the better for it At the same time (c) that she was taken, while she pray'd to GOD melting in Tears, she was seen to broak out into Laughter I ke a distracted Person The Words which the spoke in her Transport against her Lovers, who I ad learn dees, show a the disorder she was in, and the trouble of her Conscience By a shamiful comthe trouble of her Conscience By a shameful com-pliance Anne (d) acknowledged a thing which mass not true, VIZ that she had marry'd Henry in the Land Perry's Land Lord Percy's Life-time, with whom she was Contracted before, and by declaring against ber Conscience, but her Marriage with the King mas word, she involved her Daughter hiz with in her own shame. I do

The Jesurt, who publish'd three Volumes of not see that any one can reasonably complain, the Revolutions of England, seems very reasonathat the Bishop of Means, has pitch'd upon the that the Bishop of Means, has pitch'd upon the greatest Crime of Anne Bullen out of Animosity; for 'tis a great deal more likely that. Anne was not Contracted to that Lord, than that she was, and consequently, she deserves much more to be accused of a Perjury, whereby being ready to appear before GOD, she unjustly accounted the own Daughter a Bastard, than to be accused of Retractation as to a Promise of Marriage

A (c) Protestant Historian has lately published the first Letter that Anne writ to the King No. Historia thing can be seen more contrary to Modelty; the la Rein declares her Passion in it without any restraint. Elizabeted.

declares her Passion in it without any restraint, Elizabere, and offers herfulf to the King without any exception, tom 1 p for the adds that Clause to the Words, most obedient 50 Am-Servant, which she puts at the bottom of the Le- steeldam fon to those, that hinder'd him from believing what the (f) Earl of Alibury had read in some (f) Ibid Manuscripts, viz. That the King having courted that Maid twelve Mars, did not know her till after his Marriage. But I must observe by the by, that those Manuscripts seem to be very uncertain, there is no likelyhood that Henry VIII began to love that Lady in the Year 1519 It will be very well done to believe nothing of it, nor of what is to be found in the 47th Page of that the thor, viz. that Anne went into France at fitting marry'd to Lowis XII According to this, the must have been born in the Year 1499 and not as Cambdon iays, in the Year 1507 It is very strange, that we should so little know at what time she was born, and at what time she went out of Eng-That Historian should have added this Rea- idit 1694 was born, and at what time she went out of England, and return'd thather, considering that she was made a Queen in a most extraordinary manner

(1) Where Otho had been in Pilgrimage The Emperor Otho III was addicted to the kind and Devotions After having punish'd Crescensiae, and Devotions After having punished Crescentiate and his Anti-pope in the Year 908 he went to anti-bon in his return from Italy, (g) and made a top to go in Pilgrimage into Poland to the Timb of the loss to go in Pilgrimage into Poland to the Timb of the loss went to Aix with his Sifter Adelaide to visit the room of Charlemagne, and to be also at a meeting of Esisteps Being return'd into Italy, his first care (h) (h) Blanc, was to put St Adelbert's Hand in St Bartholomew's ubs supra. Charch in the Mand of the Tyber, with dearn other pag 148 Charch in the Island of the Tyber, with divers other Relicks of hely Martyrs, as also the whole Body of St Bartholomew, which he caused to be brought from Benevento. The same Tear being moved with a serious Repentance for having caused the Consul Creicentius to be put to Death against his Word, he obey dreligiously the Penance that St Romulal had injuryed him, and went to heart a Manuel Corner and want to heart to heave the consultant and the heave the hely went on Foot to Mount Gargan, and sum other holy Places

(Z) The Trile of King Barenia afcribes this to Pope Silvester II and grounds himself on this. That a little ofter Othe IIId's Pilgrimage, the Polanders sollicited the Pope for the Title of King. Doubi-

pag 148

(d) Ibid P18 304

(i) Ibid pag 303

t ons, B 7

n 20 pag

trous Prussians, who had marryr'd St. Adelbers, whose Body he redeem'd, he re-establish'd Scopolcus Duke of Russia, who had been depos'd by his own Brother far slaus, &c. from the Voyagede He marry'd Judith, the Daughter of Gessa Duke of Hungary, by whom he had la Reine Children

BOLSEC (ferome) would be a Man altogether bury'd in oblivion, if he ne, by le had not made himself famous by some Satyrical Books (AD) which the Monks and the Missionaries quote still, tho it must be acknowledged, that they do not speak so often of them as they did about the end of the XVIth Century, and in the beginning of †Paulo the XVIIth Here is what is to be found concerning that Man in the Books of the liberius Protestants Jerome Bolsec was a Carmelite of Paris, who having Preach'd somewhat freely + in St Bartholomew's Church, forsook his Order, and fled into Italy to Renata

The Protestants of France Lewis the common San August of the Common fano of France, | Dutchess of Ferrara It was the common Sanctuary of those that were concionapersecuted for the new Opinions He set up for a Physician, and marry'd quickly, the session and did I know not what, which was the reason that they turn'd him out He went in Italiam abjects and did I know not what, which was the reason that they turn'd him out He went to Geneva as a Physician, and finding that he did not distinguish himself to his satisfaction in that Profession, he set up for Divinity, and Dogmitiz'd at first in private about Predestination according to the Principles of Pelagius, and afterwards, he had the boldness to make a publick Discourse against the receiv'd Opinion. As soon as Medicum and Conversions which he had with certain Persons to insect them with they knew the Conversations which he had with certain Persons to insect them with factum his Pelagianism, Calvin went to see him, and censur'd him mildly Afterwards he sent uxorem for him to his House, and endeavour'd to reclaim him from his Error, but this did duxisse not hinder Bolsee from appearing in publick with an insulting Discourse against the Decree of Eternal Predefination It is thought that he wis so much the bolder, because he fancy'd that Calvin was not among his Auditors. He thought so, because apolog alhe did not see him in his place. The reason of it was, that Calvin not coming till tera, oper after the Seimon was begun, had hid himself behind others in the Crowd But as tom 2 p ioon as (A) Bolfee had ended, he shew'd himself, and consuted him so strongly by the Quum Scripture, by St Augustin, and by Reason, that Bolsec was the only Person that was not asham'd of being overcome in that manner That was not all One of the Magi- liam pro-ftrates, who had Power to Imprison People, was present in that Assembly, and did sugisfier, not fail to make use of his Power immediately, he call'd Bolsec a seditious Man, and quocaus'd him to be put into Prison The Cause was discussed very fully, and at last cepta serwith the (B) advice of the Swiss Churches, the Senate of Geneva, declar'd Bolsec convicted (C) of Sedition and Pelagianism, and as such banish'd him Ducissa from the Territory of the Republick, on the penalty of being Whip d is he should require thither. This was done the 2rd of December 1551. He retir'd into a Neighbor 16 in vita return thither This was done the 23d of December 1551 He retir'd into a Neigh- Calvini, bouring place, that depended on the Canton of Bern, and rais'd fo many Troubles Oper tom

(a) Le Laboureur, Relation du worage de Pologne, p 139, 140

(b) See Æ-Ìian, lib 13 var Histor CAP 22

(c) Manlius, lib 2 v 8 freaking of

Homer

(d) Aduce Mæonıden,à quo ceu fonte perenni Vatum pieriis Ora rigantur aquis Ovid . amor lib 3 eleg 9

(e) Vide epistolam 133 Cal-vini

(f) The 16th of October 1551 according to Beza in vita CalDoubtless, they did it ad majorem cautelam, and not to exasperate that Court, which did not yeild to the Emperors the Right of erecting Kingdoms But however it be, the Poles attribute the first Institution of their Royalty to Othe III (a)

(A\triangle) Which the Monks and the Miffionaries quote fill] A great number of Persons have related in their Sermons, and in their Books, that Calvin their Sermons, and in their Books, that Calvin had been mark'd with the Flower-de-luce, &c and they had no other proof for it than the Testimony of Belsec I should not wonder if some Painters had done that Writer the honour to compare him to Homer (b), I mean, to make a Picture where Belsec should have appear'd Vomiting and surrounded with a great number of Priesses. ing, and furrounded with a great number of Priests, Monks, and Lay-Controversists greedy of the Crudities that he vomited, and swallowing them with so very eager an Appetite, as to lick the Floor, for it is certain, that many have made the same use of those Ordures, as the Poets that came after Homer did of his Inventions

(c) Cujusque ex ore profusos Omnis posteritas latices in carmina dunit, Amnemque in tenues aufa est diducere rivos, Unius facunda bonis

See how bortune sports with things; some Circumstances are sufficient to make the Fate of a Scoundrel equal to that of the greatest Men, and the most brutish Follies as much respected as the sinest Productions of Human Wit What a shameful thing is this! What Ovid (d) said of Homer might have been apply'd to Belsec (A) As som as Bolsec had ended and confacted him] As Bess relates the thing, it seems that Belsec made a Sermon, but the Letter that Calvin writ to the Swiss Churches in the Name of the Church of General, clears the Bastle and shows Calvin writ to the Swiss Churches in the Name of the Church of Geneva, clears the Fast; and shew's that that Mandid only Censure and Restre a Setmon that was then Preach'd upon the Grace of the Holy Ghost (e) Tandem virus sum maper (f) aperto gutture eventus Nam cam pro more nostro unus à fratribus illum Jeannis lessus expenseres, abi pronuntial Christis ex Deo um affe, que verba Dei non audiunt, dississifique quoquet Spiress Dei renatium funt, pervicaciter usque in finom Deo resistere quia peculiare sit obedientia donum, quo Deus suos electos dignatur Surrevit nebulo ille, ac dixit falsam & impiam opinionem, cujus auctor suit Laurentius Valla, nostro sculo exortam esse, quod Dei voluntas re-rum omnium sit caussa Hoc autem modo peccata or malorum omnium culpam in Deum transcribi, & illi affings tyrannscam libidinem, qualem Poetæ veteres in suo Jove comments sunt Postea ad alterum caput defuo Jove comments junt Postea ad alterum caput descendit, non ideo salutem consequi homines, quia electi sint, sed ideo eligi, quia credant nec reprobari quenquam nudo Dei placito, sed eos tantum, qui se communi electione privant In hac quastione agitanda multis, & atrocibus convitiis in nos invectus est Prafectus urbis re audita eum duxit in carcerem, prascrtim quia tumultuose plebem hortatus suerat, ne se decipi a nobis sineret Nunc ad Senatum delata est causa cognitio ubi errorem sum non minori obstinatione quam audacia tueri perrexit

As for the manner, how Calvin Constited him As for the manner, how Calvin Confuted him, read these Words of Beza (g) Illum tot verbi divini (g) Beza testimonis, tot Augustini prasertim locis, tot denique in vita tamque gravibus argumentus consutavit, perculit, obrust, Calvini, ut omnes prater ipsummet perfrita frontus Monachum Opper

splim vehementer puderet

(B) Wish the Advice of the Swiss Churches I pag 374 have already related a long Passage of the Letter that was written to them to consult them Here is the beginning of that Letter Est hic Hieronymus quidam, qui abjetta monachi cuculla, unus ex circumforaneis medicis sattu est, qui sallendo, & frustrando, tantum sibi impudentia acquirunt, ut ad quidvii audendum prompts fint, ac parate Is jam ante octo menses in publico Ecclesia nostra cata doctrinam de gratuita Dei electione, quam ex verbo Dei acceptam vobiscum do-cemus, labefacture conatus est Ac tunc quidem qua sieri potuit moderatione sedata fuit hominis protervia Posten non defitts locis omnibus obstrepere, ut simplici-

bus hoc fidei caput excuteret

(C) Convicted of Sedition and Pelagianism Mr (b) DeDreimcourt has (b) published the Extract of a Lettense de ter that Mr Lullin Counsellor and ancient Syndic Calvin, of the Republick of Geneva writ to him It appears by that Letter, that Belfer's ill Life contributed to his Banishment Here are the Contents 1667 of that Extract: "By a Sontence given after his pag 150, "Answers and Confessions in the Prisons of this 151

Pppp 2 City

de Pologreur, pag ın Iratherc, 3 p 374

* Ex e9-

Xaintes Apolog altera, pag 345

Medici-

lipoli ad Ararım tam feliciter face-1e quam olim giam excreuit 16 I think this Calli-

+ Du Ierdier Bibl Pr anc Pag 566

polis is Belleville in Beaujo-

41 Id ab

(a) Beza in vita Cilvini pag 375

(b) Beza in Vita Cilvini

(i) See Mr Quicks Synodicon in reform 1ta, tom 1 Pag 47

(d) Bezi ubi fupra par 375,

(e) Juven

$1 I

there that they banished him (D) out of all the Territories of that Canton. He return'd into France, and applied himself to the (E) Protestages suff at Peris, and afterdem ibid wards at Otleans, and shewed a great desire of being promoted to the Ministry, and of tid ad being reconciled to the Church of Geneva; but the Persecution that arose against the Claud de Protestants made him resolve to take up his first Religion and the practice of Physick. Protestants made him reloive to take up his first Keligion and the practice of Physick. He settl'd himself at Autun, where he proved a very easy (Ea) Husband in favour of the Canons of that place, and shewed a very violent Pation against the Reformed Church. That Consort of whom he was so little the was his free second Wise. He ching'd his Habitation of often, he liv'd at Lyons in the lear 1582 as appears by the Title of a Book which he caus'd to be printed then at Paris against Beza. He died some time after, for he was not (F) living in the Year 1585. The Book Thave just now mention'd is intitled, I The History of the Life, Dostrine and Behaviour of Theodorus Beza, called the Spectable, great Minister of Geneva. It was preceded by the History of the Life. Actions. Dostrine. Constancy and Death of John Calvin, heretofore the History of the Life, Actions, Doctrine, Constancy and Death of John Calvin, heretofors Minister of Geneva, which was printed at Lyons in the Year 11 1577 Those two Histories are altogether unworthy of credit, as well because the Author wrote them being full of Resentment (G) for the affronts he had receiv'd, as because he found

"City the 22d of December 1551 and publish'd with found of Trumpet, and which I have read "in our Registers, he was condemn'd to perpetual banishment, on the penalty of whipping for his "Scandals, Impieties and his ill Life "Here are the words that Beza made use of (a) Causa multis disputationibus agitata, Senatus Helveticarum etiam Ecclesiarum sententiam percontatus illum tum ut seditio-sum, tum ut mere Pelagianum 23 Decemb publice dam-natum urbe expulit, fustuariam panam minatus, si wel in urbe w lin urbis territorio esfet deprehensus (D) That they baussid him out of all the Territories of that Canton] He was one of those who boldly accur'd Calvin of making God the Author of Sin calv n to prevent the impressions that such Complaints might make on the Gentlemen of Bern, caused himself to be deputed to them, and pleaded his cause before them. He was so fortunate that the they would not pass Judgment on his Doctrine, nor decide whether it was true or false, yet Bolsee was order'd to go out of the Country (b)

(E) Applied himself to the Protessants at Orleans It was at the National Synod that was held in that City in the Year 1562. We find Bolsee in the Acts of the National Synod that was assembled the following Year at Lyons, we find him, I say, among the deposed Ministers. He is call'd (a) there an Insamous Man, a Cheat, and an Apostate. This Calv n to prevent the impressions that such Com-

among the depoted Ministers. He is call'd (a) there an Infamous Man, a Cheat, and an Apostate. This shows that the Synod of Orleans deceived by the appearance of his false Repentance admitted him to the holy Ministry. Nevertheless it does not appear by Bera's Narratives repeated in divers places of his Works, that Bolses was ever a Minister. See his Ecclesistical History, in the Sch Rock. his Ecclesisfical Hastory, in the 6th Book, Pages 34, and 35 but correct the Word Belifer there which the Printers have put for Belifer

(E 1) He provid a very easy Husband in favour of a Canons 1 I make use of an Expression less harsh the Canons I I make use of an Expression less harin than that of Beza, but he writ in Latin. (d) Ubi contra quam Sperarat Ecclesias affugi animadvertit, repotita medicina ad hostes Evangelis manifasta defettiona (unore quoque Canonicis Augustodunensibus profituta) tranfivit Unde nanc atiam quibus petest maledictis veri-tatim profesidis. What meanness! What baseness! morally speaking a Man had better be subject to the disquiets of Jealousy, the judgment of the Publick, the never so corrupt, falls much heavier Publick, the never to corrupt, talls much heavier on voluntary Cuckoldom, than on the infirmittes of a jealous Husband. Neither Belfe's indigence, nor the Profit that he might draw from his indulgence for the Canons of dutan, would have excused him with those very Persons, that make profession to Jest upon every thing People will laugh at and Jest equally upon a Husband that gives his Wife no liberty, and upon one that lends a helping hand to the Pleasures she is minded to take; but after all, they will have as much contempt and atter all, they will have as much contempt and indignation for the latter as Juvenal had:

Cum (e) lime acceptate methy bone ft capiends

Just nullium uxori, dellus spectane lacunar,

Jus nullum unors, dellus spectane lacunar, Dodius dr. ad telicem augulants surtere naso, (F) He was not leving in 1585. "Hena in has "Aniwer to Gondrand printed at Geneva in the "Year 1585 says of Relifes in the 75th Page. Add "as many falle Stories as you please taken from "that Carmelite who forsok his Order, and who
"as an infamous Man, having been barish'd three "times, and chang'd his Religion four times, and who after having aspersed the Dand and the Liv.

"ing, died in Despair" This you may read (f) in Calvin's Desence done by Mr Drelincourt But I have read the quite contrasty in the Book of another Minister (g) Those with Bishop produces, which are Boliec and Arenius, the first of which did greatly lament and cry in a full Synod, for having so wickedly aspersed the memory of such a great Man, and faithful servant of God But this must not hinder any body from giving credit to the passage mention'd by from giving credit to the passage mention'd by Mr Drelincourt, for it is likely that the Minister of Fontenay meant only the steps that Bolsee made in the Synod of Orleans, with great humility, in the Year 1562. If he meant only that, he confutes the Objection very ill, feeing Calvin's Life publish'd by Bolfee did not come out but 15 Years after that Synod of Orleans.

(G) Full of referement for the affirmer. Let Land and the state of the

(G) Full of resentment for the affronts he had received Mr Dreincourt lays a great stress uncertained to that Argument He sets forth the Reasons when Bolsee had to hate Calvin he says (b) that Calvin having convinc'd Bolsee of his Errors in a full Assembly, excommunicated him as last with the look of the same as last with the same las fembly, excommunicated him at last with the advice of the whole Confistory he adds that Calvin was deputed with some others from Gonova, to inform the Potent Republick of Born, of the Life and Morals of this wretched Bollec Sethat Galum may be look'd the chief presented of the two Sentences this wretched Bolice Se that Galum may be look'd upon as the chief proposer of the two Sentences of Bandhment proposes bagainst Bolfee, the one at Geneva, and the office at Bern. As for what concerns Bera, he drew Bolfee's indignation upon himsfulf by the infamous things he hiad publish'd against him an very hard Words. Mr. Dreimen's gives some proofs of it "(1) In the Year "1551 stys he, a certain Person came into the "Crey, whose name was Jerome Bolfee, something before a Carmelete of Paris, who from a Divine became suddenly a Physician, or rather a Quack. became fuddenly a Phylician, or rather a Quack, (i) Id ib who to put himself forward, thinking himself ag 125. to be in his Closfter, and not an a Church of He sakes God, of which he knew nothing but by hearfay, this from begun here and there, and also in a full Congre-the Prefa begun here and there, and also in a full Congregation, to reflect upon the Doctrine of Providence and eternal Predestination. Bens calls this Beliec a Villain, an Impudent Man, and a diffusifed Wholf; and after having represented as what manner Casum convicted him of himself what manner Casum convicted him of himself answer, and had mething left but a Mentilla dense. To which he adds, Which he shall be even before the Court the and of President even before the Court the 23d of Describe when a Sentence of Banishment was promoted against him, with sound of Trampet according to the usual manner. But it is no wonder, for ever since his mapudence his made him odious to any Man that has right Notions, seeing he is condemn'd by his own judgment, as will appear by evidence under his own hand, whenever there is occasion for it. For this wretched Man, who had deserve punishment for a Sethifous act, being middly treated by the Magistrates, because it was shought that he might in time be cured of his Sophistical Ignorance, after having committed so many Scandals in the neighbouring Churches, finding himfelf three times bandhed from the Terratories of the Bords "times banashed from the Leratorius of the Covery of Born, and thing at last antelerable to every body, hat general glory to God; atknowledging his Faults, and particularly his bad Conscience, "in

(g) Peter de la Vallade Mini-I ontenai le Comte logy for the Epiftle of the Minifters of Charen-John du Plessis Bifhop of Luçon has produ ced ngamft them,chap 22 p 298

b) Drelincourt, Defente de Calvin,

(1) ld 16 the Preface that Hoza grefivi to Calvin's Johna, Printed M himself plainly convicted of (H) Calumny on the most hemous Points now hardly any Writer of Reputation but will acknowledge that this Author (1)

(b) VIZ Remarks

(e) He left

it for good and all in the Par

Dreit

de Calvin,

PM 102

court, Defense

"in a full Synod of all the French Churches
"held at Orleans in the Year 1562 So that fome"thing was hoped from him But being fince
"feiz'd again by a like every fourir, he is re"turn'd to his first Errors, and being shun'd
"by every body, he is in all the Parces that he "going of an Example of the Wrath of God a"gaing those who oppose the Truth" Mr Dralineans altes two (a) other Passages of Beza I n's shall add to all this, that Beza caus d Calvin's Letters to be Printed in the Year 1575 among which there is a (b) thundering one against Bolfee. Thus Viz all things have their use in this World. The biting Style of these two Reformers does them great ting Style of these two Reformers does them great Service here It shews that Bolsee must needs have been very angry to see such sharp Relations made of him, and therefore that what he published in the Year 1577, and 1582 is full of a Spirit of Resentment, which ought to render all his Stories suspected of falsity

fulpected of fality
(H) Plainly convicted of Calumny on the most heinous Points] He gave one that Calvin had been convicted of the Sin against Nature at Noyon, and condemned only to be branded with the Flower de luce, his Bishop having interceeded for him to moderate the Punishment Now there was never a more februlous Romance than that and Rell a more februlous Romance than that and Rell a more more fabulous Romance than that, and Bolfic must have been a Man of an unheard of Impudence to dare to produce fach Stories in the Year 1577 that is to fay 43 Years after Calvin (c) had lett Noyon Prescription, which in other cases serves only to stop proceedings, without an absolute decision, is here an invincible Proof against the Actual He lays his Asson after 43 Years are excufer cufer He lays his Action after 43 Years are experied, but it cannot be admitted, Prescription be against him, and besides convicts him of the Crime of which he action was true, they would not have stay'd in, so long to make it publick Calvin in War with all the Monks, and Churchmen, always with Sword in hand ether to attack them, or to defend himself storic was a sharp and desperate sight) I Sword in hand ether to attack them, or to defend himself, (for it was a sharp and desperate fight) I say, Calvin, who occasion'd irreparable losses to the Church of Rome, was not man in whose favour the sentence of the Flavor the lace would have been suppress for 43 Years tagether. It would have been published in the most authentick and legal Form, at the beginning of his Ministry at Geneva, it would have been triallated into all Languages and posted up at every courses of the guages, and posted up at every corner of the Streets. This is plain to any body that makes use of Streets I his is plain to any body that makes the of the light of common sense, besides, the sality of Story has been so demonstratively provid by Mr producing the perhaps a greater Evidence was neproducing in a Question relating to a matter of salt. Believ is then most evidently a Calumnistor as to the most hemous of his Accusations, and therefore he deserves no credit about the rest Semelmalus semper presumitur mains in codem genere male. I am not ignorant that he affedges an Act which he says he had seen in Bereeler's hands, but that does not clear him It was a suppositions Piece, and he that gublishes such Pieces is no less a Calumniator he that forges them It is (2) said that he to speak of it till Berelier was dead, an evicen, either that he bousted failely to have the forges there is hands, or that he knew who should be down that he will be supposed to the house of the control of the said of the sa ign, either that he boaited faitely to have at Act in Berteller's hands, or that he knew has Act in Berteller's hands, or that he knew who shew'd it durit not run the hazard of which publickly contradicted. See Berteller's Article; he and Bolfee were of the same Faction against Colour When I spoke above of Berteller's traded Commission, I omitted a reflection that comes at present into my mind. If he had been before the Year 1552 for he' was excommunicated that Year At the end of 18 Months he endeavour'd to be reinstated, but could have no success in it, he-cause Colour opposed it. He brought himself into thouble soon after upon another account, the issue whereof was that he fled, and refusing to appear before his Judges, he was condemn'd to Death the 6th of August 1555. The impossible to find a proper time for his pretended Deputation between the day that he was excommunicated; and that wherein he was condemn d to Death, and contendently he never was at Nevon with Orders to inform limitelf of John Calvin's Life, if he was not there before the Year 1552 Now this seems to me a convincing proof against his being deputed before the Year 1552. If he had been at Nayon before that Year, he would have known the Story of Calvin's Flower de Luce, when that Minister ex-communicated him, and used his utmost endeavours to leave him under that note of Infamy Would he have had fo little Wit, as not to inform the whole Town, that that great Zealor, who excommunicated others, boie the Infamy of a hot Iron on his Shoulders? Would he not have defied him in his Face to shew his Shoulders? Would he not by that means have triumph'd over his Enemy, or put a stop to his Persecution? Let any body put himself in Bertelier's place, and he must confeis that on such an occasion the discovering of Calvin's Infamy would have been unavoidable. It am body should for an occasion. dable If any body should say to me that Berte-her did not fail to discover the Mystery, but that no regard was had to his recrimination, by reason of Calvin's great credit I answer, that it would be a very incredible thing What 'is it likely that in a Democracy the Judges would not dare to make any Proceedings, when an accused Perion who his a publick Office, fome Relations and fome I riends, fummons his Accuser to shew his naked Shoulders and maintains in his Face, that the marks of the Flower de luce are to be seen there, and that he has brought the Proofs of it to the Republick in he has brought the Proofs of it to the Republick in confequence of a Commission that was delivered to him? Will the Judges so far from enquiring into the matter stifle it, and forbid speaking of it? They are not so foolish in a Democracy as to oppress one of their Subjects sa grossly But suppose the Magistrates being tender of Calvin's Reputation, threaten d those who should make any complaint against him. I am sure it will be grown complaint against him, I am sure it will be grant-ed me, that this could not suppress the memory of that incident, and prevent its coming to the Ears of Calvin's Enemies How comes it then that Blandrata, Alciatus, Gentilis, Gribaldus, and so many Calvinis-other Hereticks, whom Calvin expell d from Genime, B 4 va, and whom he persecuted without any mercy pag 3,6 wherever they sled, never said a word of these recriminations of Bertelier? This blow cannot be (f) Varil warded off I know not whether this Reason was las History ever alledged against the Promoters of the Ca- ire de l' lummy that Bolsec publish'd first Heresic, lummy that Bolsec publish'd first

(1) But will not acknowledge that this Author is not B 10 to be credited I be were sufficient to alledge Mi Mainbourg, who having mention d some reasons alledged by the Protestants to refute Bolsec's accupag 332

Children concerning Calvin's pretended Flower de luce, of the Mainbourg, who having mention d some reasons alledged by the Protestants to resute Bolse's accupated by the Protestants to result Bolse's accupated from the concerning Calvin's pretended Flower de luce, of the makes use of these words, (e) Since our Protestants will have it so, I am willing not to believe that infamy of the Author of their Soft. He had own'd before that Bolsec wrote a Satyr and an investive rather than (h) Historian History. This witness is worth a Thousand others, unus instar omnium to whom I add Varillas, who (f) gives a large account of Calvin's Life and Morals, without seeming to know that there ever was such a Mari as Bolsec in the World. He affirms nothing of the Flower de luce, but says only that (g) that there is something to be seen in the Registers of Noyon, which in all likelyhood gave occision to Conrad of Slusemburg, a Lutheran Minister, to write that Calvin had been whip'd and branded in his Country, and to the famous Jesust Leonard Leistors to compose an apology, with a design to justify Surius as Slusemburg in that Point. This is a cunning way mong other than the chiefs rather to quote a Lutheran Minister. See This is less surprizing than to see Florimond court ubit the Margin standard reases that Calvinny of Bolsec, and conthor, he chuses rather to quote a Lutheran Minifter. This is less surprizing than to see Florimond de Rimond reject that Calumny of Bolsec, and confess that he is too passionate an Author (h) I omit supposed fess that he is too passionate an Author (h) I omit supposed fess that he is too passionate an Author (h) I omit supposed fess that he is too passionate an Author (h) I omit supposed fess that he is too passionate an Author (h) I omit supposed fess that he is too passionate and supposed for Chromove than Truth, for they bave horribly disgraced for Chromove than Truth, he confesses (k) that whatever Jerome Bolsec, and James Linges a Scotchnaa have write of Calvin is supposed for on much Passion against him. In the Year 1583, Papyrius Masso writing Calvin's Lise, and speaking Very all of hith, did not currium vouchiase to mention the story of the Flower de luce, and call'd those wretched popular' Authors who reproached that Minister with lewdness Is it not

(e) Maimb Hift du Calvinif-

(f) Varil-

La Croix du Maine ascribes to him some (K) Books that were is not to be credited written by another Hand, for which he fallly alledges the Testimony of Beza Du Verdier Vau-Privas knew better than he our Bolfec's Writings Besides the two Histories that I have mention'd, he ascribes to him the Mirrour of Truth to Charles IX and to the Princes and Lords of his Council, from the judgment made by Solomon in his youth at the beginning of his Reign, from the Splendor and Reflection of which Mirrour one may know the true means to appeale the Troubles and Seditions of the Kingdom of France. It was printed in the Year 1562

BOMBASIUS (Paul) a Native of Bologna in Italy, was esteem'd by the profession of Philology, about the beginning of the XVRh Century. He taught the Latin (A) and Greek Languages at Naples, and gave such proofs of his capacity there, that Cardinal (B) Puccs would have him live with him, and made him his Secretary He found himself very well to pass at the Court of and gave him a good Salary Rome, under the protection and by the liberalities of that Cardinal, and he was in a condition to end his days in Plenty, when the City of Rome was plunder'd under Pope in Cice-roniano, Clement VII He endeavour'd to get into the Castle of St Angelo in his Master's p m 72

Retinue, but he could not run sast enough, so that he was surrounded with Soldiers, See also the who kill'd him birbirously a He had been a great Friend of Erasmus

15 Adage of the See

BOMBERG (Daniel) a famous Printer at Antwerp His Article is very curious Gentury of I shall only add two things, the one is the if in the Supplement to Moreri's Dictionary that he was the first that printed Hebrew Books at Venice, and that he began to do it Chilad

(Z) in the Year 1511. The other that he brought his Art to perfection as to the ? m 192 Hibrew Impressions, so that the Jews acknowledge that since his Death, the Hebrew (g) Me a Impression is grown worse and worse. You will find the Oritical History of his literaria I ditions of the Bible in A Mr Simon

BON-

from Pie-rius Valerum infelicitate 116 1 p m 22

y Tak n from Bartolocci's Bibliotheca Rabbinica fom I P 34 He cites Ganz

Simon. Histoire Critique du Vicux Teftament p m 512, 513

(a) Hæc publicis icriptis Calvino objectuntur Theolog Galvi-nist lib 2 fol 72

(b) In the Appendix to the Treatife de Antichristo contultatio quæ fides religio fit capeflen-

(d) Varill Preface to of the Hi-ftory of He-refy not strange that the great Cardinal de Rubelieu, in one of the best Books of Controversy that has been publish'd by the Church of Rome, should be less icrupulous, and less nice than Peter de Saint Romuald, Florimond de Remond, and Papyrius Masso, and that he should give out as a true matter of Fact, the Story of Jerome Belfee, which begun then to be laid aside by the Missionaries? See the Article

I cannot end this Remark without mentioning fome mistakes of Varillas 1st, The Lutheran Minister's Name is Conrad Schlusselburg 2dly, He mentions only what he had read in (a) printed Books 3dly, Leonard Lessius compos'd no Apology to justify that Minister, he justify'd himself (b) as well as he could, finding himself accus'd of having (c) advinc'd two Calumnies against Calvin, whereof one concern'd the Flower-de-luce I add further, that Varilies was not ignorant of what Bolfec had publish'd, but he scrupled to quote him Let us see how he speaks of him "(d) That of Jero-" me Bolsec a Physician of Lyons is written in such a passionate Style, that a Render of never so little "Moderation, will find fault with it from the first "Proceedings of the second of the s

Page It is full of many ill Actions, that are only grounded on that Physician's Authority, which I don't think to be sufficient The Calvinifis in "their Answers to him, accuse him of a very great Ingratitude, grounded on this, that Calvin had receiv'd him in his House, and kept him several Years as his Secretary, and that notwith standing all this, he became his greatest Enemy, "our of mean Inconference or our of Spice he out of meer Inconstancy, or out of Spite, be-cause Beza had insinuated himself more than he into Calvin's Friendship" I don't question, but "into Calvin's Friendship" I don't question, but that we have here a new mistake of that Author No body, that I know of, did ever reproach Bel-fee with Ingratitude on that account Such a reproach was made to the Civilian Baudouin, it was he that ierv d John Calvin as Secretary but Bolfee never had that Function nor fuch a Landlord I should be much surprized if any body should show

(K) Author of some Books that were written by another Hand] Those Books are, a Treatise of the Providence of God A Treatise of the Old and New Man, first written in Latin under the Name of Theophilus, which he intituled, Theologia Germanica A Treatise which the treatise of Marrin Polling and the Name of t which be intituled, Theologia Germanica A. Treatise under the Name of Martin Bellie, which be caused to be printed in Latin and in French, to which Beza made an Answer, and a Translation of the Bible out of Latin into I rench Beza, as La Croix du Maine lays, tells this, in his Life of Calvin (e) La Croix du Maine is guilty of two mistakes Those Books were not written by Bulsec, and Beza ascribes them to Sebastian Castalio, and not to him Many Remarks would be necessary to reach the the Account would be necessary to rectify this Account

(A) He Taught at Naples] I follow the Author that I have quoted, But I am not without fear that he mistakes, for Erasmu does not speak one Word of the Professor I shall set down he speaks only of that of Bologue I shall set down his Words, because they contain part of Bombasiu's Character (f) Equidem exosculor Paulum Bombasium prorsus aurci pettoris hominem, quo vix alius unquam vixit amico amicior, sed valetudini parcens non admo-dum indulste stilo. Mox ut erat animi minime abjetti, dum indulit stilo Mox ut erat animi minime abjetti, sordidorum competitorum improbis contentionabus offensus raque (nam Bononia publice salario Grace prostebatur) ad Reip nogotia sele contulit tandem accitus Romam augere rem maluit, quam literis insensere. These Words of Erasmus inform us, 1st, That Bombasiis was his Friend 2d, That to pieserve his Health, he compos'd but few things 3d, That having a noble and generous Soul, he grew weary of a Prosessor Life, by reason of the Quarrels that the fordid Jealousy of his Rivals expos'd him to 4th That he concern'd himself with the Affairs of his Country, when he was invited to Rome. He the That he concern'd himself with the Affairs of this Country, when he was invited to Rome He says, that (g) Chance, rather than his Will, or the offer of a better Fortune, made him leave his Prosessor at Rolegna

(b) That Naples and at Rolegna

(b) Cardinal Pucci made him his Secretary, Book of

(B) Cardinal Pucci made him his Secretary, and gave him a good Salary] Bombasius calls him the Cardinal of the four Saints He wrote to (b) Erasimal in the Year 1517 that against his Inclination he was oblig'd to deprive himself of the pleasures of Rome, to accompany that Cardinal's Niphew in his Nunciature of Swifferland He tells Erasimus in another (i) Letter, that he does not find himself very Rich, but that he has Four hundred Crowns a Year, and therefore does not fear to see himself the ever reduc'd to the necessity of taking up his first the said of the pleasure of the himself that he has Four hundred Crowns a Year, and therefore does not fear to see himself that he has Four hundred Crowns a Year, and therefore does not fear to see himself that he has Four hundred Crowns a Year, and therefore does not fear to see himself that he has Four hundred Crowns a Year, and therefore does not fear to see himself that he has Four hundred Crowns a Year, and therefore does not fear to see himself that he has Four hundred Crowns a Year, and therefore does not fear to see himself that he has Four hundred Crowns a Year, and therefore does not fear to see himself that he has Four hundred Crowns a Year, and therefore does not fear to see himself that he has Four hundred Crowns a Year. ever reduc'd to the necessity of taking up his first 17 Book Trade again Quanquam non ita mecum maligne agitur ut ad prossorium ad CCC ducates nullu sacrus Additios, nec fortuna sed industria mea acceptos ferondos auxi, quis nunquam ex literaria, the aris hamilians. dos auxi, ques nunquam ex literario illo ocio ferare ac

origine de l'Imprim (2) And that he begun to do it in the Year 1511 | Pag 267 |

(k) Afterwards he made many other impressions of it in (1) Id ib Fol in 4° and in 8° He learn d he Hebrew of Felix Pratensis an Italian, who made him undertake an Edition of the Rabbinical Rible, that is, with the Commentaries (1) Soul Pratentis an Italian, who made him undertake an Edition of the Rabbinical Bible, that us, with the Commentaries (m) Scaliafthe Rabbinic, which Bomberg printed in Folio, in 1517 and which was Dedicated to Pope Leo X but the Jews the word did not value that Edition, and Rabbin Jacob Hailing Caused another to be printed by the same Bomberg in four gus, p me Volumes in Folio, in the Year 1525 (l) It us he 34 that begun the Impression of the Talmud in the Year 1520 which he did not simplify till some Year after (n) Ibid. in Eleven Volumes in Folio (m) He printed the Talmud three times, and each of those Impressions cost him One hundred thousand Crowns (n) Primeric He printed Books to above the value of Four Millions p 121 of Gold

professione non tam mea voluntas, vel (ut tu fufpierris) fortuna melior avocavit. quam incertus ille,cui pletam mala tur. cafus

in the 23d Book of

Origine de

(1) La Croix du maine, Biblioth l rançoise par 169

(A) He

BONCIARIUS (Mark Antony) a Disciple of Muretus wrote very Politicly in ? Oldoi-Larm He was of a very mean (A) Extraction, and taught School all his Lifetime Athen at Perugia He was born? within hix Miles of that City the 9th. of February 1555 Augusto His own Father was his Scholar, who defiring to turn a Jesusta at 47 Years of Age with pag 225 oblig'd to acquire some Learning, not being willing to be only a lay Brother Boncearing lost his light s, and was very much ifflicted with the Gout * He died † the celoti da 9th of January 1616 Cardinal Ubaldin was his † Patron His Letters were printPerugia, Perugia,
House, delay to acquire some Learning, not being willing to be only a lay Brother Bons Sic I ancearing lost his light s, and was very much ifflicted with the Gout * He died † the celoti da
9th of January 1616 Cardinal Ubaldin was his † Patron His Letters were printPerugia, ed at Marpurg in the Year 1604. One may find in them the method that he made Hoggidu use of to instruct his Pather in a little time 4. There are some other Books of his part 2 composing (B) both in Verse and Prose He did not Publish all those that he (C) & Oldordesign'd to publish

(a)Nicius Erythræ-PINAC I pag 98

(b) Nicius Erythræ-us Pinac 1 pag 99 us taught all bislife-fore Perufinus Profeffor war www Per ruffnus was eaftly changed

Parisienfis It appears from hence that Faults of Impression may lead a I earned Man inte confiderable perfekter

(d) Gafiendus has put in the Margin in fine

(#) Ghili-Ill teatre lom I

Pog 70
(1) It was written to Plinio Tomacella it is to be found in fol is runge of the 2d Book of I ettere volgari printed at Venice,

BONFADIUS (James) one of the most Polite Writers of the XVIth Century, Augusto was born in Italy (A) near the Lake di Garda. He was three Years Cardinal Baris Pag 227 Secretary at Rome, after which having lost all the Fruit of his Services by the Death. Nacion of his Master, he went to Cardin il Ghinucci, and serv'd him as Secretary till a long Taythiafickness brought him off from that imployment. When he was recover d he found him-us Pur of felf fo disgusted with the Court, that he resolved to seek his I ortune by other means 1 p 98,99 He found nothing in the Kingdom of Naples, where he winder'd a pretty long time to Oldom he went afterwards to Padua, and then to Genoa where he read Publick Lectures on ubi supra Aristotle's Politicks He was ordered to make some likewise on his Rhetorick, and bearyone's Pointicks He was ordered to make some likewise on his Rhetorick, and be cause he succeeded well in it, he had a great many Scholars, who went to learn good the Literature of him. His Reputation increased daily, so that the Republick of General Stuffar, made him their Historiagrapher, and affign'd him a very good Pension for that Office continuated a grossmit and affign'd him a very good Pension for that Office continuated a grossmit and affign'd him a very good Pension for that Office continuated a grossmit and affign'd him a very good Pension for that Office continuated a grossmit and affign'd him a very good Pension for that Office continuated a grossmit and affign'd him a very good Pension for that Office continuated a grossmit and affign'd him a very good Pension for that Office continuated a grossmit and affign'd him a very good Pension for that Office continuated a grossmit and affign'd him a very good Pension for that Office continuated a grossmit and affign'd him a very good Pension for that Office continuated a grossmit and affign'd him a very good Pension for that Office continuated a grossmit and affign'd him a very good Pension for that Office continuated a grossmit and affign'd him a very good Pension for that Office continuated a grossmit and affign'd him a very good Pension for that Office continuated a grossmit and affign a pension for that Office continuated a grossmit and affign a pension for that Office continuated a grossmit and affign a pension for that Office continuated a grossmit and affign a pension for that Office continuated a grossmit and affign a pension for that Office continuated a grossmit and affign a pension for that Office continuated a grossmit and affign a pension for that Office continuated a grossmit and affign a pension for that Office continuated a grossmit a pension for that Office continuated a grossmit and affign a pension for that Office continuated a grossmit a pension for that Office continuated a grossmit a pension for that Office continuated a grossmit a published the five first Books, wherein he spoke too freely, and too suggested from Scriptor Families, whereby he provoked some Persons who resolved to undo him. They can'd Lecles him to be accused of the Sin (B) against Nature, and there being Witnesses, to Con P m 78 vict him of it, he was condemned to be burnt  Some Authors say the sentence + More He wis executed according to its Form and I onor, but others affect that by the follow- hot Polytations of his Friends the Punishment was commuted, and that he was (c) belieded his pag

(1) He was of a mean Extraction He informs the Publick himself, that he was the Son of a Shoomaker, and the Grandson of a Currier (a) the Perusis, a vulgaribus, ut ipse de se fatetur, opisisenance enter esquir, a vaugatious, at the entert popularity and place of the forms, and in adolescentia fecerat, generic obscinitatem sui litera-Parisinus rum splendore illustravit more casily

(B) Other Books of his composing, as well in Verse as still into in Prose I He made a Treatise de arte Grammatica, in Profe I fie made a I reatife de arte Grammatica, a Poem intituled, Triumphus augustus, five de fanctus Perusit translatus, that contains four Books, Seraphidos libri tres (b) I don't find that he publish'd any Greek Grammar, neither can I tell what Authority Moreri has for it He would have been more in the right to have ascrib'd to him a Treatise of Rhetorick, though Nicius Erythraus, the only Author that he has quoted, says nothing of it see the following Remark

(C) All those that he design'd to publish] He says in his Letters that he had taken upon him to write the Lives of all those who had been emininent at Perugia for Four hundred Years past (c) He says in the Catalogue of his Works at the end of his Rhetorick, that he made a Book intituled, Epicurus, five dialogus de antiqua Philosophia, wherein he shewed, that no ancient Philosopher came nearer the Truth than Epicurus, and that none went farther from it than the Stoicks Gaffendus and Naude had from it than the Stoicks Gassendus and Naudé had never seen that Book, which made Gassindus believe it was never printed M Antonius Bonciarius Parities (a) Profesor in catalogo (e) Operum successive discounties of the composuise librum testatur, cui titulum secrit Epicumi composuise librum testatur, cui titulum secrit Epicumi composuise librum testatur, cui titulum secrit Epicumi composuise di alongus de antiqua Philosophia, in quo des argumentis of doctorum virorum vessimoniis propius ad veritatum quam Epicurum, contra nulles and al librum gius recessis quam Stoicos Tamessi site quam librum namunam sortassis editus, nei nobis est visu nec amico num namunam sortassis editus, nei nobis est visu nec amico cum namunam sortassis editus, nei nobis est visu nec amico don't agree about Bonsadius's Country Some say, that he was both at (g) Salona upon that Lake, others call his Country Gazani, (h) luogo picciolo della Riviera di Broscia I believe they are in the rapht, for in a (i) Letter wherein he describes right, for in a (i) Letter wherein he describes the ine Lake, and which is dated di Gazano, you will be with these Words, libero mi stare nel mio Gazaño Kang is in the wrong to fay he was of Ver ana

(B) Of the Sin against Nature, and there being Wit- from Chinesser, & c] He was accused of having failisty d limit to that brurish Passion with one of his Scholars (L) to d huffur calumntate, the indotte das sinsurante or pazzo rinor. Omini il-the ad un tellismo groupartes sur Scalare portagio. che ad un lellissmo giovanetto suo Scolare portava, con lustri tom est le sozze e impudiche suo roglie ssogasse, sopia di 1 pag 70 questa imputazione su subito carcerato, e da tistimonii di si grave e enorme eccesso convinto, su condamnato al fuoco, nel quale fine i suoi giorme l'anno 1551 Ghilini acknowledges the justice of the Accusation The Cavalier Marini has no lefs acknowledged it See the two Madrigals of his Ritratti that Mr Menage (1) relates Paul Manucius owns it likewife in the (m) Poem that he addresses ad cos qui labora-

I apfus eras mifer in culpam Bonfadius, indir Ditulerat patribus, nec inaui teste proharat Quid facerent legum custodes? legibus uti Coguntur

But others pretend, that Benfadius was oppress'd by Calumny It is the opinion of Giovanni Matteo (m) You if Toscano (n) in his peplus Italia, where we find the Deli-

Hand minus intumuit nuper Benacus alumni Bonfadii, ac Musis, docte Catulle, tuis Bis tamen infelix, rapuit nam Roma Catullum, Bonfadium letho das [celerate I igur Historia aternum cujus fera Genua vivis, Immeritum | ava lepe necare potes? Mitius est quod te spumanti vertice marmor Tundit, & es scopulis durior ipsa tuis

Scipione Ammirato fays nothing on either fide, newertheleis he feems more inclin'd to question Bonfier, elog fading Innocency You II fee in the following from 1 Words, that the true Cause of this unfortuna c programmer Man's Persecution was, that he inclin'd the Youth and 169 to disapprove the Government that was then established (a) Trovato che egli tirava la gioventu a governo contrario di quello che allora si era indiritto, sotto colore d'impudici amori gli poser le mani addosso e pe ravventura non trovatolo senza colpa, il c ndennarolo al suoco Del catti vetto, per che fosse mo scusabile, si leggono ancor rime, loqua il par che rendan testimonianza di cotessa sua inclinazione il tis veiy likely, the sha was guitty of the enormous Crime whereof pud Methat he was guilty of the enormous Crime whereof pud Mehe was accused, and that he would not have been mage A punish'd for it, if he had not done fomething tibaillet, else that expos d him to the Hatred of certain fom I Persons

(C) And that he was Beheaded] Boccalini, Ghilimi, the Cavalier Marini, and tome others affert, that

m Athen Augusto

(1) Id ib

(/) Mcnage An-tibullet P 357

tarum Italorum

> Ghilim ubi fupre

† Thuan pag 538 But Ghilini ubi fupra Bonfadio's death

Those that blame his imprudence are (D) in the This happen'd in the Year † 1560 right, and have been the worse for imitating it. There are some Speeches, Letters, and Latin and Italian Poems of his. The day of his Execution he writ a Letter to 'feln Baptist Grimaldi, to testisse his acknowledgment to the Persons who had indea-vour'd to serve him. He promised to inform them how he (E) should find himself in the other World, if it could be done without frighting them. He is not the only one that mide such Promises. He recommended to them his Nephew Bonfadino, who is porhaps that Peter BONFADIUS of whom there are some Verses in the Gareggiamento poetico del confuso Accademico ordito It is a Collection of Verses divided into Eight Parts,

BONand Printed at Venice in the Year 1611

(1) Quecol fuoco VCdemmo terminare 1 infelice vita Id it apud cumd

(b) Ob

cendam

Genur

percuffus

Inuan ubi

1ecuri

1 pre Note that

Konig

inflad of Genua Says Gcnt chisa creat lie

(c) Menage, ubi

fupia, pag

357, 358 (d) Dal fu ico

tutto bruftolito conpuve Giacomo

Bonfadio Boccalin

Ragguarli di Parni[-Jo, centur 1 cap ,5 p m 108

(e) Che 1 Inggi virlo icuver le hi-ftorie

prudentemente h configlia-vano, allh un che unitava-no i vendemisto-11, c gl altii accoiti de cio li

that he was Burnt Scipione Ammu ato (a) fays it also But Thuanus is more to be believed when he says (b) that Bonfadius was Beheaded Read these Words of Mr Menage "(c) It is true, that he "was condemn'd to be burnt, but at the follicity. "was condemn'd to be burnt, but at the folicitation of his Triends, and particularly it young
"Grimaldi, his Punishment was chang'd, and he was only Beheaded This we learn from the "Iatin Poem of Paul Manuerus, initialed, Ad eas
"qui laborarunt pro falure Bonfadir, Printed in the "Delicie Po tarum Italorum Here is that part of the Poem, which concerns the change of that Punishment

" Exprimitur tandem hoc invito a Judice, vivus Ni combinatus crepitanti deditus igni Iim si carnificisavo Bonfadius ultre, " Mente Deum fetians, animo imperterritus offert

"Hente District propers functuring in quo,
"Herribilis rigidam sufferndit and alecurim"

(D) I'of that blame his imprudence are in the ribit, and lawe been the worse for having imitated bini. I have Boccalini in view, who supposes that bin] I have Boccalini in view, who supposes that Bonfadius's complaints (d) coming out of the I limes, were rejected by Apollo, and that that God of Parnassis declar'd to him, that tho' he had been innocent of the Crime that was imputed to him, he would have been justly punish d too having had the folly to blemish the Honour of some potent Families. It was represented to him, there a Judgeous Historian (e) imitates the Granethat a Judicious Historian (e) imitates the Grape-gatherers and Gardeners, he forbears to speak of things before time has ripen'd them, that is to flay, till the Persons who have committed an ill Action are dead, and their Children are not able to revenge themselves on him that publishes it Tacitus was alledg'd to him, who us'd such a precaution, and choic rather to offend against the Laws of Hultory, than to expose himself to danger Che le stesse gran Macstro de gl Historici Saggi In its, all hora che ne gli scritti suoi saceva mentione di quei Sona ori gi andi, che Tiberio regnante ponam vel miaminm fubiere all bora che posteri manebant lac lib 4 Ann Saggiamente alzaua la penna della cai a, più tosto elegindosi di offender le leggi historiche, che pregiudicare alla riputatione di quelle famiglie, che non di altra cofa erano conosciute far capital maggiore, che acll'honore, fimando quell huomo singolare ad un

the acti nonore, pimando quell huomo singolare ad un' historico esser cosa di troppo evidente pericolo nimis expiopinquo diversa uguere Ia I 4 An (f)

Thus a Man teaches the Maxims of Prudence better thin he can practife them, for we have seen (g) that Boscalini lost his Life for having spoken too ficely against Spain. The Counsels which he alcules to Andle are doubted to make the first parallel are doubted. iscribes to Apollo are doubtless very judicious Nothing can be finer in the Theory than the Ideas of the Legislator of the Historians, he commands them (/) 1 of to dare to lay any thing that is falle, and (1) I of to dare to say any thing that is false, and to be sold to say all that is true. But they are as improchicable Laws as those of the Decalogue in the state that Mankind is in. If it were proper to compare Human and Divine Things, it might be said that the segislator of the Historians has imitated the say giver of the Jews. He supposed a state of Innocency and not a state of Sin, he supposed the street shift is solf, and the great Strength that Min would have had, if he had persever in his Original Innocence. Let us remark a great difference between those Laws, that are so like. A frutti i Oliginal Innocence Let us remark a great dif-quali per-cio la perfett Wildom is requisite to fulfil the Deca-conoice vino, che coi poco grata hivrebbono fatto a gli huomini, fe dalle viti tagli indo l'uva immatura, e da gli alberi staccando 1 pomi acerbi gli haveflero poitati al mercato, quella necessaria patienza havevano che si conveniva anco gli historici di lasciar the il tempo conducelle i fatti e le cole pallate alla perfettione lero Id ib pag 108, 109 (f) Id ib pag 109 (g) In bis Article (i) Quis neicit primam esse historire legem nequid falli dicere i deat, deinde ne quid veri non indent? Gicero de Ora ore fol m 74 A See the Preface to this Di Tionary logue, and a Man must be foolish to the highest de-gree to sulfil the Laws of History Eternal Life is the Reward of Obesience to the Decalogue, but Temporal Death is almost an unavoidable Consequence of obeying the Law-giver of the Histo-

(E) He promis'd to inform them how he should find himself in the other World He is not the only one that has These are his Words Se da quel mande de la si nated der masseles some Come Come Come Come me that has I These are his Words Se da quel mondo di la si petrà dar qualche segna senza spavento, lo saro. They are taken out of a Note that he sent to Giovani Battista Grimaldi. You will find it in (i) the Anti-baillet Mr Menage took it out of (i) Mea Collection of Italian Letters Intituled, Lettere di nage ubi diversi Umnini illustri racolte da diversi libri, printed supra pag in 8° at Treviso appresso Fabricio Zametti, in 1603 357, 358. The Barnabite Baranzanus had made the same Promise, and did not perform it. I speak of it in The Barnabite Baranzanus had made the mise and did not perform it I speak of it in his Article It is pretended, that Marsilius Ficinus the same of the same thing, kept his Word having promisd the same thing, kept his Word Read this passage of Peter de St Romuald (k) Mar-"cilius Ficinus a Priest of Florence, a great Platonick Philosopher, and a great Divine, dy d, and im-Chronomediately his Ghost in the form of a Cavalier logique cloth d in white, mounted on a Horse of the & Histothe same colous, ran full speed to the Door of rique some Michael Mercatur, who was his intimate Friend, 3 p aw and likewife 1 great Platonick Philosopher, who was then studying by break of Day in his Closet ad ann in a Fown at a good distance from Florence, and cry'd to him, that the Di course which they had together concerning the Life to come, were true, and having faid this, he ran away towards the place from whence he came, and quickly escap'd his kriend's fight, who call'd to him to stay for him. This happen'd by reason of the Agreement made between them under the good pleafure of GOD, that he that should dye first should come and tell the survivor, whe- (1) Bare ther things past in the other Life as Plate had dius ad written in his Book of the Immortality of the ann 411 Soul Cardinal Baronius fays he had this Story n 69 from the Grandson of Mercatus" Note, That "Soul Cardinal Baronius tays he had this story n og
"from the Grandson of Mercatus" Note, That Baronius relating this in (1) the 5th Volume of his Annals, observes, that Michael Mercatus, who had always liv'd exemplarily, and like a good Phithat Apparition, for he forsook the Study of rata refePhilosophy, and was only concern'd for his Salram, sed vation The Annalist adds, that the reciprocal que comPromise that Marsilius Ficinus and Michael Mercatus plurium
made to each other relating to the state of things eruditomade to each other, relating to the state of things eruditoafter this Life, (m) was attested by divers learned rum viroPersons, and had often been related to the People rum sciby the Preachers It is pity that Michael Mercasus musasserdid not leave a juridical Attestation of it upon tione in Oath, and registred in the Archives of Florences mass in-He was much in the wrong that he did not do it mo & a His Grandson Michael Mercatus, who told this religiosis Story to Baronius, was (n) Protonotary of the viris ad Church, and recommendable for his Probity and popular

The place where Seneca relates the Tranquility of Mind wherewith Canus Julius went to his Eve- pe narracution is admirable. That good Man was condemnta Id ib ed to Death by Caligula, and was not executed till. Ten Days after his Condemnation. He pass them (n) Id ib Ten Days after his Condemnation He past them without any disquiet, and when it was told him, that he must go to the place of Execution, he lost nothing of his chearfulness Why do you afflict yourselves, said he to his Friends? You inquire, whether the Soul subsists after our Death, I shall quickly know it The Philosopher, who caccompany'd him, ask'd him, What he thought ca, de of at that Moment? I do design, answer'd Canus, tranquisto observe well, whether my Soul will perceive its going out He promis'd that if he learn'd any thing, he would come and see his Friends to declare his Condition to them

(a) Trifter erant ami-

(k) Peter de St Ro-Abregé

BONFINIUS * (Antony) a Native of Ascoli in Italy in the Marca d'Ancona, flourissid in the XVth Century He apply'd himself to the Study of Philology, and succeeded in it Matthias Corvinus King of Hungary having heard a report of his Learning, sent for him Bonssinus had the Honour to kis his Hand at Reez, a few some Days before that Prince made his Publick Entry into the City of Vienna, which he had be likely of Vienna and the had be always. Conquered † At this first Audience he presented several Books, which he had lately (A) publish'd, and which he had Dedicated to that King, or to Beatrix of Arragon his wife. The King read these Books with great pleasure in his Camp, and affished with all his Court at a Speech that Bonfinius made in Vienna the 1st day of January, and having caus'd the Books of that Author to be brought to him, he distributed them to his Dral was and Courters, and recommended to them the sanding of 'array with a way so Prelites and Courtiers, and recommended to them the reading of 'cm, and he was for far from granting Bonfinius leave to return into Italy, that he retain'd him with a good cad 4 Pension, and gave him many things to compose, and would have him also to follow lib 7 p him in his Armies || He order'd him to compole the History of the Huns Bonfinius in 463

* He calls

ci, talem amissuri wirum Quidmoesti, inquit, estis. Vos quæritis, an immortales animæ sint ego jam sciam Nec desist in ipso veritatem sine scrutari, & ex more suo quastionem habere Prosequebatur illum philosophus suus nec sam procul erat tumulus, in quo Casari Deo nostro siebat quotidianum sacrum Quid, Cafari Deo nostro siebat quatidianum sacrum Quid, inquit, Cani nunc cogitas? aut qua tibi mens est? Observare, inquit Canius, proposui illo volocissimo momento, an iensurus sit animus, exile se Promistique, si quid explorasset, circumiturum amicos, or indicaturum quis esset animarum status Seneca does not tell us whether they heard any news of Julius in consequence of his promise

Perhaps the Reader will not be displeas'd to sind here the discussion of two Questions, that naturally present themselves. The first is, Whether the Friends of this Julius had any good pretence to question the Immortality of the Soul, because they did not hear of him after his Death? The second is, Whether they would have had a good reason to believe the Immortality of the Soul, in case they had heard news of him by some Ghost?

I answer as to the 1st Point, That such a prethe Proof

SOME Confiderations on the nature of

drawn 🛰 from the Apparition of a Soul

I answer as to the 1st Point, That such a pretence for questioning the Immortality of the Soul, would be very bad, for tho a very good reason might have been given for the nullity of Julius's might have been given for the nullity of Juliui's Promifes, by supposing that his Soul did no longer exist, it does not follow from thence, that one may make use of that Hypothesis to shew the Causes of the non-performance of his Word When a Phomeography and he applicable his above When a Phenomenon may be explain'd by three or four probable Suppositions, there is none that can form a Conviction No demonstrative Proof can form a Conviction No demonitrative Proof can be given, but when the Hypotheses different from that which is made use of, are either impossible, or manifestly false Since then by suppring the Immortality of the Soul, good Reasons may be given why Julius did not return to tell his Friends in what State he was, the Hypothese of the Mortality of the Soul may be very tell his Friends in what State he was, the Hypothelis of the Mortality of the Soul may be very well rejected, tho' it be very proper to explain that Event It may with great reason be suppos'd, either that a Soul separated from its Body, remembers no more the Promise it made in this Life, or that is indoes remember it, it is ignorant of the expedients requisite to perform it, or has not the liberty to put them in practice, either because it dares not, or will not disobey some Superior Cause that forbids it to have any Commerce with Mankind Let us fay then, that Bonfadius's Friends would have argu'd very ill, if they had inferr'd the Mortality of the Soul from his not keeping his word to them

The ad Point in Table Cause that forbids it to have any Commerce keeping his word to them

The 2d Point is more nice, and first of all I make a distinction If a Ghost, calling itself the Soul of Julius, had appear'd to the Friends of that Roman, and had told them some News from the other World, they might in consequence of it, have look'd upon the Hypothesis of the Immortality of the Soul as a very probable one but if they had taken that Apparition for a demonstrative Proof that the Soul of Julius did still exist, they would not have judg'd right, for as I have already said, an Hypothesis does not afford any demonstrative Proofs, when the matter of Fact which it explains, may be explain'd by different Hypotheses A Proof cannot be said to be demonstrative, unless it be made appear that the contrary is impossible, or manifestly saise Since then some possible Causes may be given of the Apparition of a Phantom, calling itself the Soul of such a Man, and performing certain Promises which that Man had made to his Friends, fince, I say, this may be explain'd by possible Hypotheses, without supposing that the Soul of Man is Immortal, it is plain, that julius's Friends had not philosophiz'd with the utmost exactness, if they had taken such an Apparition for a demon-strative Proof that the Soul of their Friend was Itrative Proof that the Soul of their Friend was living They might have been told, it is possible, that tho' the Soul of your Friend is dead, you have feen a Phantom that told you what he had promis'd to come and acquaint you with There are many Genii in the World that know what we do, and that can act on our Organs One of them took delight in deceiving you, and made you believe that he was the Soul of fulius We cannot prove to you by natural and convincing cannot prove to you by natural and convincing Reasons that this is true, nor can you prove it to be false Don't go so fish then, don't drive a certain Conclusion from it, be contented to take it as a very probable Hypothesis Julius is I riends would reply, that the existence of those Genis is a proof of the Immortality of our Soul, for if those Genis are immortal, why should not our Soul be so too? It might be said to them, That those Genis might have the power to do many things Genu might have the power to do many things in the stead, and under the Name of the dead Soul of Julius, tho' they should be mortil. Are not all Men mortal? Do not all of them dye, some sooner, and some later? Would that hinder them from deceiving Beafts in the Supposition that I am going to make Let us suppose that the Souls of Dogs should be persuaded that they subsist after their separation from the Body Let us suppose that one Dog in particular, has promised the rest to come and tell them how he finds himself after Death Lastly, Let us suppose that a Man knows that Promise, and the manner how the Dog has agreed to perform it Is it not true, that that Man could easily do what should be necessary to deceive the other Dogs? He would shew them some Phantoms, he would make some Puppets bark, &c If from thence the Dogs should conclude that their Souls are immortal, or at least that Men are immortal, would they not be mistaken? Any one that reflects never so little upon it, may easily apprehend that the invisible Spirits of the Universe, which the Platonifis call Genii, could do all that which the Platonifts call Genis, could do all that the Art of Necromancy attributes to them, tho' they should be mortal, provided their Species was preserv'd, notwithstanding the successive Death of all the Individuals, as our Kind preserves itself tho' all Men dye To say, that the Generation of the Individuals is impossible among the Genis, is to decide rashly what is unknown, and cannot be known to us The Infinity of Nature may contain a thousand sorts of Propagation that we are tain a thousand forts of Propagation that we are ignorant of Note, That some Pagans believ'd the Mortality of the Genii

Mortality of the Genii

Let us conclude from all this, That what is call'd the Return or Apparition of Spirits, is not, firitly feaking, a (a) necessary Proof either of the immortality of our Soul, or of the immortality of the Genii I do not deny, that it is a Proof of it, in which one may prudently and reasonably acquiesce, but I speak here of demonstrative Proofs I speak of such Proofs as can only be eluded by some Cavils, the absurdity whereof may be easily made out made out

made out

(A) Several Books which he had lately publish'd | Ungaric
He himself informs us of it (b) He tells us, that three of those Books were Dedicated to King Matthias, viz The Translation of Hermogenes, and that of Hermism, and the Genealogy of the Corvinus;

Q q q q that

(a) These two Claufes ought to be minded, if Strict-ly speak-Necessary proof

fin rerum

Andrew Wechel The other ted at Bafil by Oporinus † Bonfinio nullus meptit magıs, & dum ab alus duifentire Rudiofe gestit, Siculis gerris vaniora commi nifcitur Hadrian Junius e-pift 1 where he gives his Judgment about the Cammentaries upon Horace See the Preface to his Letters prefixed to

(a) Id 1b (b) Vossius the French Translati-dé Hist Lat pag, 659

(c) Sambuc in epist de-

(d) Voffius, ubi

(e) Bon-Decad 4 lib 7 Pag 459,

(f) It is nevertheless true, of those Historians do Sharply inveigh against the Vices and Disorders of Rome

(g) Sambuc uba iupra

*Id in a began to take it in hand before the Death of that Prince *; but it was by the Orpist dedi- der of King Uladislaus that he writ all the History of Hungary. Tho' that Work cator

B He cau'd cannot be look'd upon as a most excellent Piece, yet it is certain that the Author a better E deserves a (B) place among the good Historians. He brought that History as far as deserves a (B) place among the good Historians. He brought that History as far as deserves a (B) place among the good Historians. He brought that History as far as deserves a (B) place among the good Historians. He brought that History as far as deserves a (B) place among the good Historians. He brought that History as far as deserves a (B) place among the good Historians. He brought that History as far as deserved of the Year 1495 It contains four Decads and a half, that is to say, Forty sive Books.

The Original of it was plac'd in the Library of Buda, and the Publick saw nothing of it till after the Death of the Author A Transylvanian, which same was Martin Brenner, got an impersect Copy of that Work, and publish'd This books of it in the Year 1543.

Andrew Sambucus found the other Fisteen, and Publish'd the whole Work in the Year 1568 when the Ye revis'd and examin'd from the best Copies & I cannot say when, or where Bonssius departed this Life, but I believe he did not return home, as (C) many Learned Men of Italy did, whom Matthias Corvinus had sent for into his Kingdom That Hiftorian (D) is accus'd of having been a Slanderer, and is blam'd for having us'd (E) too many heathenish Expressions in his Style. His Notes on Horace † are not good Moreri's faults (F) are more numerous than confiderable

BONGARS (fames) in Latin Bongarsius, born at Orleans, was one of the I earned Men of the XVIth Century He comply'd with the prevailing Taste of those Times, sthat is, he applied himself to Critical Learning and tho' he went not so far as Lipsius and Casaubon, yet he acquir'd a great Reputation by it, and perhaps, he would have equal'd them in that kind of Learning, if he could have spent all his time in it, as they did, but State Affairs did not permit him He was imploy'd near || Thirty Years in the most important Negotiations of King (A) Ramy IV for whom he was several times Resident with the Princes of Germany, and afterward Ambassador was several times Resident with the Princes of Germany, and afterward Ambassador

this invited all forts of Learned Men to come to him, without excepting the Magicians (b) A Ger- (b) Viros man, whose Name was Zeillerus, observes, that among quaque man, whose Name was Zeillerus, observes, that among quaque other things, People complain'd of what Benfinius arte præfaid of the unhappy Queen Gertrude, Taxatur etiam flantissia quibusdam ejus Historia Ungarica, imprimis narratio mos unde morte innocentis Regina Gertrudis Vid Brunnerus, edque dispart 3 Annal Boic pag 602 (1)

(E) Too many Heathenish Expressions in bus Style conduction. The Jesuit Raderus blam'd him for it, as the tame que Azeillerus testisses Matthaus Raderus, volum 2 Bana- strong-

Zeillerus testifies Matthaus Raderus, volum 2 Bava-

(E) Too many Heathenijh Expressors in his style i Cammanaire. The Jesuit Raderus blam'd him for it, as the same que Azeillerus testisses Mattheus Raderus, volum 2 Bavantironomia fantise pag 191 hac de costribit Bonsinus profamis numium & paganus scriptor, cum santies appellat dicos, Dees & numina, Dei matrem numen & Deam Can Mathetholica religionis disciplina man novite nec colit nysiunum. Deum & unum Numium Bonsinus dum vult Latine quod insum sincere non potest scubere, superstituse & consultos presane ne quid dicam gravius loquitur. It must be acknowledg'd, that some staliam Authors have Ne Magos made themselves includes, for scrupling when quidem & new special culous, for scrupling when quidem & new stan Authors, but I cannot approve Raderu's nice-abominativ, or rather his acception of Persons. He thinks et it strange, that Bonsinus should give the Name, of nullam Numen to the Holy Virgin, but is it not has acception of Persons. He thinks est it strange, that Bonsinus should give the Name, of nullam artem style of a great many Votaries, as Mr Drelinconn; (a) has prov'd it demonstratively?

(f) Moreri's faults are more numerous than constituted that were not in the first Edition. He ought to have said fifteen. He says, that Sambusus added sive Books suprated Hermagenes: Rheevisch has should have said ler de hermagenes: Rheevisch has should have said ler de hermagenes: Rheevisch has should have said ler de hermagenes: Recessorial has should have said ler de hermagenes: Rheevisch has should have said ler de hermagenes: Rheevisch has should have said ler de hermagenes: He cites vostible sa should have said ler de hermagenes: He cites vostible sa should have said ler de hermagenes; the should have said ler de hermagenes her said has should have said ler de hermagenes her said has should have said ler de hermagenes her said h that follows is worse Mareri takes Banfinius for a plain Man, who focks things plainly, and methods any design. There never was a faller Criticism than this Banfinius was no Simpleton. He was Cunning, Subtle, and worthy of his Country; and when he slander'd any Body, or made use of certain Terms, it was not undesignedly. If I take notice of some mistakes, that are plainly faults of Impression, 'tis for the sake of so many, People, who have bought the many Editions of Moreri's Dictionary. It may be there are five hundred Persons, who believe very honestly that Moreri has cited a History of Austria, written by Austrias Mirans.

(d) Negotiations of King Honry IV] It is true that Bongar, Negotiated in Germany under the Reign of Honry, III, but it was for the King of that two of them were Dedicated to the Queen, one of which treated of Virginity, and Conjugal Chastity, and the other was an History of Afoli That besides, he had Dedicated a small Collection of Epigrams to the young Prince John Corvinus, to which he had put a Preface that treated of the Education of a Prince He adds, that having follow'd Matthias Corvinus to the Army against his will, he translated Philostrass for his Diversion (a) Castra Sequi praceperat Scriptoribus & philosophanishus immica Quod cum ille imvitus facere cogeretur, ne ingrato in castrensi tumulcu imuitus facere cogeretur, ne ingrato in castrensi tumultu moleftsaque ocio uteretur, ne ingrato in cafrensi tumultu molestiaque ocio uteretur, oblatum sibi Philostratum tribus mensibus in Latinum transtulit. I must say something of his Book concerning Virginity and Conjugal Chastity. It is written by way of Dialogue, Sambucus got it printed in the Year 1572. It is intituled, Symposiom Beatricis. Matthiae Corvinus and his Wise Beatrix of Arragen, are very much prais'd in it. The Author takes notice in that Book of the Consideration which they had for him (b). The Congregation of the Index has condemn'd that Work.

(B) A place among the good Historians | Sambucus.

(B) A place among the good Historians] Sambucus speaks thus in praise of Bonfinus, (c) Quantum ingenio non ad hoc argumentum modo, sed ad omnem omnino Philosophiam excelluerit, Dialogi ejus de pudicitia conjugali vulgo testantur, Herodianus, Hermogenes Latini nec vino buic opus est hedera Praterire tamen nequeo paucarum esse gentium bistoriae copia & stylo pares lie adds, that Seldius was wont to lay, Nulle se in scriptore post Livium & aquales equi quam sps boc Ben-finio vacuas boras libentius ponere solitum. The Pre-face to the Dialogues does not contain a less fivourable Judgment (d) Sambuci in Dialogorum Prafatione tale de Bonfinio judicium est, ingenio ad omnes res arduas & laudabiles excellusse, Styloque uti idaneo non ad historiam minus quam Philosphiam vel

(C) At many learned Men of Italy did Benfinius tells us, that they return'd home poorer than they came (e) Invitati etiam maneribus Poèta, Rhetores & Grammatics, qui falsi opiniene sua miseriores longe musas quam aduxerint in Italiam redduxerunt (D) Of having been a Slanderer] Sambucus accuses him of it, he fancies that his Pen was often

directed by his complaifance to Matthias, whose Pensioner he was, but he observes, that that Prince was little spar'd himself Catarum at Bensini lauder non sunt obscura, it a dissimular anoque nonnihil ipfum officis fui interdum oblitum in mores privatos & vitam calumniose impotentiusque esfusum secus quam Livium, Salustium, Tacitum, Suetonium in Romanos orbis dominos gentemque togatam secisse constat
(f) idque fortasse redempto à Matthu sudicio & calamo esus, que rerum seriei nibil detrabunt. Nec Manthie tamen personet que impolarem moleculos. this tamen opereit quem impudentem, voluptuosum, thestru destrum, amitiosum, forum, in adjungendu amieis prasspitem, in relinquendis facilem, adulacoribus benignum, impermorem benissiorum ausus sit dicere (g). To this might have been added that he lays, that Maique A-

The Letters, which he (B) writ during his Imployments, are very much esteem'd But to return to his Study of Critical Learning, I ought to observe, that he published an Edition (C) of Justime that is very good, he restored many corrupted passages, and clear'd many difficulties by his Notes, and in all this he shew'd his Sagacity, his Erudition, and what pains he had taken to consult good Manuscripts. He had a vast knowledge of Manuscripts, and Printed Books, and made a great Collection of them In 1603, he bought the Manuscripts of Peter Daniel, joyntly with Paul Petau His there (D) of them fell at last to the Library of the Vatican The I ibrary of Bern there James Bongars, which he had very much increased in 1604 with the broken remains of (D\Delta) Cujas's Library He died at Paris in the Year || 1612 des Bibliotheau 58 Years of Age His death occasion'd (E) a new grief to Casaubon The Emperor's Partisans indeavour'd to prejudice France, by spreading (F) certain reports against that Agent He was of the Reform'd Religion, but there is reason to surface the rest of the rest of the Reform'd Religion, but there is reason to surface. Emperor's Partifans indeavour a to prejudice grance, by special indeavour a fulpect against that Agent He was of the Reform'd Religion, but there is reason to suspect with the from Diar Bio-

des Bibliotheques

graph

Navarre, and not for Henry III Morers has not made that distinction made that distinction

(B) The Letters, which he writ during his imployments, are very much eftern'd] Tho' he did not like Bembo and Manucius reject all the terms that are not in the best Roman Authors, yet his Style is fine, clear, polite and full of natural Charms A Translation of his Letters was made, when the Dauphin began to learn the Latin Tongue, and it appears by the Epistle Dedicatory to that young Prince, and by the Translator's Preface, that they were look'd upon as the most proper Books that a were look'd upon as the most proper Books that a Scholar of quality could read The reason of it is because by the reading of it, one may learn at the same time to express ones self in noble terms about State Affairs, and to judge well of the Conduct of an Ambassador Words and Phrases are not only to be learn'd by it, but also the course of the Affairs of those times, and many particular Facts that have yet some relation to the present time, and that may be of a greater use than what is to be found in Giorro's Letters We are more inclin'd to conco nour selves with the Affairs of our Country and of our Age, than with those of the Ancient Romans Besides, the latter were managed after a manner that is infinitely less agreeable to the present time, than that wherewith things were manag'd in the last Age, and in the beginning of this All these thoughts and many others to the praise of Bongari's Letters are very well explain'd in the Translator's Presace Morhosius (s) observes that the French Letters of Bongars were lately publish'd at Paris He is in the right, if he means a small Book intituled. The Plain Secretary or a Collection of Book intituled, The Plain Secretary, or a Collection of divers Letters of the Sieur James de Bongars, & with an instruction given him by the late Marshal de Bouillon That Collection contains 34 Letters, that have been inserted in the Edition of the Hague 1695 I ought not to forget that there is a certain Character of an honest Man in Bongars's Letters, that prepossesses the Readers very much in his favour

Note that the French Translation which I have Mote that the French Translation which I have mention'd was printed at Paris in the Year 1668 and re-printed in Holland soon after A new edition was made of it in the Year 1694 and it was said in the Title that it was corrected and inlarg d This was to declive the Reader this can be said only of the Edition of the Hague 1695 Many (b) mistakes of the Translator have been corrected in it, and many things that he had cut off out of bigottry have been restored Note also, that Mi Sambur Professor of Divinity at Levden, caused a Spanheim Professor of Divinity at Leyden, caus'd a Collection of our Bongars's Latin Letters to be printed there in 1647 to which he added a Letter that serves for a Preface, and which was inserted that lerves for a Pretace, and which was interted dicatory of a first lerves for a Pretace, and which was interted dicatory of an in the Edition of the Hague, 1695

(C) He published an Edition of Justin] I don't mind the Scaligerana, where it is said, that 'twas another James Bongars, and not he who had publish'd that Author Every body ascribes that Work to the same Bongars (c), who negotiated in Germany for Henry IV and besides, Scaliger stated to those of peaks in that place io unexactly, that one may very well believe he had but a confus'd notion of what he said. It is twenty Years ago, says he that what he faid It is twenty Years ago, fays he, that what he laid It is twenty Years ago, lays he, that the other Jacobus Bongarsius gave his Justin to Mon-sieur de l'Escale at Bordeaux. He must then have given it at the farthest in the Year (d) 1558 and the two Vassaus must have heard Scaliger say this in the Year 1578. These two things are impossible, the first Edition of James Bongar's Justin is of Paris 1581 in 80. The Vassaus were not with Scaliger till after he was settled at Leyden in the Year 1502.

(D) His share of them fell to the Library of the Vatician] The curious will be glad to find here a Passage relating to the History of Libiaries, taken from a Book of the Learned Father Mabillon Vatician] When in the Year 1562 the Protestants plundered the Abby of Fleurs, they found a great many good Manuscripts in it Peter (e) Daniel making use of the favour he had with Cardinal Chatillon Commendatary Abbot of that Abby, took many of those mendatary Abbot of that Abby, took many of those Manuscripts from the Soldiers, and among others a Servius on Virgil, which he publish'd in the Year 1600 After his death (f) his Heirs fold the Manuscripts for the Summ of 1500 Livings to Paul Perian, and to Bongars Paul Peraus share was left to tan, and to Bongars Paul Petaus share was left to his Son Alexander Petau, who sold it to the Queen of Sweden That of Bongars was carried to Strafburg, where he made his residence He left it by his Will to one (g) Granicet, who was his (b) Landlady's Son Gruterus Library Keeper to the Elector Palatine, perswaded that Prince to buy the Manuscripts which Bongars had left to Granicet, and thus they were carried to Heydilberg, and from thence to Rome (1) to Rome (1)

to Rome (1)

(DI) Much increas'd by the broken Remains of Cujas's Library] What he says upon this in a Letter of the 19th of January 1604 shews so plainly the great Passion he had for Study and Books, that I cannot forbear to place it here "(k) As long as "I have been upon this Journey, I could not write "to you, because I was altogether taken up with "my Domestick Affairs, which it was necessary for me to put into some Order before my departure
"In that very Occupation the greatest of my cares
"has been to seek some Remains of Mr Cuisi's "In that very Occupation the greatest of my cares has been to seek some Remains of Mr Gujas's Library Doubtless you will laugh very healtiful de Liturgia of People that go to the Court as to a Fair, to thrive, and to indeavour to get some Money stom the King, and that at the sime time a Man of the Court as I am, and who is not shifth of Money, should go into by-places to bestow part of his Estate upon Books and Papers half eaten by Worms By this you may see whether I am a very covetous Man When I (k) Bonam to buy Books, I value neither Pains nor Expense Would to God I was free from business ter 35 pag and at leisure to read them Then I would neither envy the Riches of Mr de Rosny, nor the Hague the golden Mountains of the Persians (E) A new grief to Casaubon, That Critick's Letters tessistic that he was extremely obliged to James Bongars, and that he esteem d him very much of Lingel-

James Bongars, and that he esteem d him very much See particularly the 698th and the 699th wherein he speaks of his death There he grieves because that good Man had not received at Paris the Funeral Honours that were due to him, and which infallibly (1) Cawould have been done him in Germany (1) Qui sin faub Germania diem ultimum obisset habuissent dosti viri rationem suneris cjus, & ornanda illius memoria pro meritu pag 882 ingentibus Tu maxaestu Mi Colomies is mistaken edit 1656
when he says (m) that Bongars died at Bern

(F) By spreading certain Reports against that Agent]
Cardinal d'Ossat & Letters infoim us of the matter
It is reported here, (this is what he writ from Rome to Mr de Villeroy the 2 of Decemb 1600 That the King keeps a Gentleman with the Protestant Princes in Germany, whof name is Bongars, who tells them and those of pag 189 ny, who name is wongars, who can seem and inoje of their Self, that the King, not with standing his Conversion, has not alter d his Opinion in his heart, but that to enjoy his Kingdom peaceably, he makes only an outward shew, complying with the times at tis his interest I cannot believe that the Said Bongars Speaks in that manner, which is contrary to the truth and the King's sincerity, which eight to be known not only to the Catholicks, but Q q q q 2

(e) An Ad-Orleans, and Bayliff of the Abby

it thould be was of Lyons, and a Jewel-Mabillon ubi infra

(1) Mabil-

of Lingel-

(m) Colo-Choifie

(a) Post mortem ejus editæ fuerunt tum hæ Lating epistolæ, tum alıæ Gallica lingua, quæ nuper admodum Parifiis lucem viderunt Mor-Morhofi-US WAS the Hague 1695

Printed in

(c) See the Bongars

(d) 'Tis that wherein Julius Cæfar Scaliger died

* That work is intitled Ge-Dei ſta per Francos Itwas rinted at Hanaw in 1611 in two Vol in Ioho from his Letters that he had some Scruples about (G) the Civil Wars of the Prote-stants The Publick is indebted to him for the Edition * of many Authors who wrote the History of the Expeditions into Palestine. I don't think that he was ever married. A French Lady whom he was to marry, died (H) the very fame day that was ap-

A French Lady whom he was to marry, died (H) the very lame day that was appointed for the Wedding, in the Year 1597

He Studied at Strasburg in the Year 1571 and had an Anabaptist for his Tutor †

He Studied under Cujas in 1576 The Answer (I) that he Publish'd in Germany to a Piece, wherein the bad Success of the Expedition of the Year 1587 was imputed to the French, who accompanied the Germans, was prais'd by Thuanus But that Answer, tho' never so glorious to the Author, is nothing, if it be compared to that which he

f Colomiés Biblioth, choisie pag 189

(a) D'Oſfat, Letter 241 B 6 P m 595

(b) Id let-

ILF 244 B 7 pag 602 dated from Rome the 2d of January 1601 even to the Protestants, who otherwise could not trust him, and would not use their interest for him but I take it to be a Savoyard or Spanish invention (a) That Cardinal had too much senie not to apprehend the prejudice this might do the King at the Court of Rome, therefore he thought it best to deny that Bongars had said any such thing. It was offer'd to be prov'd to him, let us see the consequences of those offers. Many Letters, says he, were put into my hands, written in Lasin to a German that is here, whose name is Gaspar Schoppius, some written by the said Bongars, and others by one call d Vesser who lives at Ausburg. I understood by all those Letters, that Schoppius had been a Huguenot, and that having been converted in this City, he writ to his Iriends that were Huguenots, and among others to the said Bongars, some sharp and injurious Letters, more sit to exasperate and harden them in their Opinion, than to gain and convert them, at which the said Bongars was gain and convert them, at which the faid Bongars was somewhat nettl'd, and answer'd him smartly, but not without great respect and modesty and in all those Let-ters there is not one word concerning the above said Discourse, nor that comes near it So that the production of coarse, nor that comes near it So that the production of t ofe Letters justifies him in my Opinion. But I find among the Letters of the abovementioned Velset, that those which the said Bongats writ to the said Schoppius, past through the hands of Velier, who open'd and read them, and sent them asterwards to the said Schoppius, and there is one of the said Velset to the said Schoppius, wherein he suggests to the said Schoppius, that in replying to the said Bongats he should reproach him with the Conversion of his King, and that he had said such and such things about it to the Protestant Princes of Germany. But it appears that this Velier is an Enemy of the said Bongats, and partial to the House of Austria, as the said Schoppius was maintain'd by the late Cardinal Madruccio, who was so much for the said House, that the King of Spain had trusted him with the Secret of the Conclave, rather than his own Ambassadors, or the Spanish Cardinals. So that I think mith the Secret of the Conclave, rather than his own Ambassadors, or the Spanish Cardinals so that I think that the imputation and Charge laid on the said Bongars is a meer Calumny, chiesty contrived to prejudice the King (b) As for me, I find that likely enough which Velser would have had James Bongars reproached with There was hardly any body among the Protestints, who during the first Years of Henry IV's Catholicism, was perswaded that that Prince had alter d his Opinion His Envoy in Germany was not a Man who could easily imagine that at the age of Henry IV one may begin to believe Transubstantiation and what depends on it. It is therefore probable that he might have said, without fore probable that he might have faid, without thinking to tell a lie, that his Master's Conversion was a work of meer necessity, and like the resus Sardomus that does not go beyond the Lips But let us suppose that he judg'd otherwise of it, can one believe that he would have scrupled to have recourse to an Officious Lye, to prevent the Protestants of Germany Withdrawing themselves from Henry IV? Can one believe that to keep them in the Interest of France, he would have made a difficulty to tell them confidently, tho' he believ'd nothing of st, that the King was still a good Huguenes in his Heart - 'Tis just as when du Bellay made the time Princes believe that Francis I was not averse to the Reformation Ay, will some say, but du Bel-lay was a Papist, and Bongars was a Protestant What then? A Protestant Ambassador is like another, he makes use of Political Address as well as others, and if he suffers himself to be bubbl'd, it is not out of Zeal, or out of any Scruple of Conscience Take notice, that according to the Notions of the World, Bongar, would have done mothing against the duty of a Man of Honour, in doing his Master good services by the Insimuations in question. The main thing was to take care that she Byaniards should know nothing of it

(G) About the Civil Wars of the Protestants] Mr Colomies made this Remark, and inferted it in the 115th Page of his Observationes Sacra, printed at Rochelle in the Year 1679 and in the 226th Page of Rochelle in the Year 1679 and in the 226th Page of a Collection that he printed in England in the Year 1687 Christianissime in hancerm Jacobus Bongarsias, Aurelianensis, Henrici 4 ad Germania Principis elim legatus, vir pietate ac cruditione illustris, in quadam ad Joschimum Camerarium Joschimis F Episolis Hic, clarissime & printississime Domine, effundam in sinum tuum americana & candidum, quame sepe agitant, nec turban tamen Repete & nostros Duces qui armis suis Religionem prætulerunt Videbis victos vestros à Carolo V captosque & assection contumeliis, privatos etiam bonis In & affectos contumelus, privatos etiam bonis In Galha captum primo bello Condæum, tertio occi-

Galha captum primo bello Condeum, terrio occifum Amiralium semper victum, tandem trucidatum cum magna Procerum turba In Belgio, Aurangium itidem globo prostratum Certè judicare aliud non possum, quam ingrata illorum arma Deo fuisse (c) This Passage of Bongari is in his 19th Letter to Janchim Camerarium It has been a little curtail'd in the Paris Edition. See the Advertisement of the Edition of the Hague 1695

(H) Died the very same day that was appointed for the Wedding! Her Name was Odette Spisane to Chalonge They had been near six Years in Territory with each other, and had desir'd to be married together but the Journies that he was oblig'd to make for the King's Service prevented the execution of their mutual desires during that time (d) The

for the King's Service prevented the execution of their mutual desires during that time (d) The King not permitting Bongars to come home to marry her, she was so obliging as to go with her Father to her Lover, they had agreed to marry at Bull She came to Montalised in the middle of the Winter, and through many dangers and understanding that Bongars would not come and meet her till eight days after, she went to him as far as Straiburg There it was resolved to perform the Ceremony of the Wedding, but the poor Lady fell sick eight days after, and died the fourth day of her sickness Bongars was extraordinarily afficked that, as appears by his Letters I have taken that particulars from the Letter he writ to John William it, as appears by his Letters. I have taken these particulars from the Letter he writ to John William Stuckius the 8th of February 1597 it is in the 7th Page of the Edition of Strasburg 1660 and in the 66th Page of the Edition of the Hague 1695. That Edition of Strasburg contains but a small part of James Burgari's Letters, but those that Lingelsheim writ to him were added to them. Which I should have liked better than I did have a great many Proper Names been left out, and the proper Names been left out, the Reader from understanding that those Passages were curious. I do not have that those Passages were curious. I do not have that Mr Morkof has apprehended any thing in Advertisement to the Reader, that is prefixed to Bongari's and Lingelsheim's Letters (e)

Bongari's and Lingelsheim's Letters (e)

(I) The different hat he published was praised by Thimmus. These are the Words of that great Historian, (f) Donavius anno insequential librum Germanica lingua edit, quo fasti invidiam omnom de constitution. Rule

à se amoliebatur, camque in Navarri tarditatem, Bullionsi imperitiam, & Gallerum Ducum imprudentiam, liensi imperitiam, & Gallerum Ducum imprudentiam, five in distribuendis manssenbus malignitatem qua Germanis tumultuandi eccasionem dedistot, retorquebat; idque captato tempore secerat Donavius, cum Francosurtenses propediem Nundina enitura essent, ne ad sriptum responderi posses, interea volitaret illud per manistramanorum, & nemine contradicente imponeret abus, qua haud facile posses enims posses porum astu cognito Jacob Bongarsus juvens ingenio & eruditume prastani, & Gallici deceris perquam studiosus, qui Navarri res istic procurabat, scripti enemplo ab amicis accepto, extemporaneo, sed aculeato scripto contrario, quod cepto, extemporaneo, sed aculeato scripto contrareo, quod

& eadem festinatione typis mandari curavit, antequam Nundina exirent, respondit, & emnem rei male gesta

fervat 115,116

(c) Colon mel øb-

(d) Nuprias utrinque ODTATAS peregrinationes mez & regia negotia ha-ctenus maped: refent.

(c) See Lingels

(f) Thu arrus reft tutus pa

had made to a Bull of Pope Sixtus, and which he had the courage to post up in Rome I have not read this any where but (K) in Mr Varillas, whose Words I shall set down, and I'll make some (L) Critical Notes upon them It was Bongars that publish'd Questions which the Jesuit Cotton had drawn up (M) to be ask'd of the sures de

BONONIA (John de) A Sicilian by Nation, * Arch-Deacon of Palermo, Batchelor of the Faculty of Parm, and Chaplain to the Emperor Charles V was Professor at Louyam in the XVIth Captury In the † Year 1553 he was at the Assembly of the Divines, who at the instance of that Emperor, examind whether a certain Country, which he does not name, and in favour of which a Translation of the Scripture was made, ought to enjoy the liberty of reading it They decided unanimously, that they ought not to have that liberty continued to them Bononia was one of the horsess against the translating of the Scriptures into the Vulgar Tongue, and il surthe hottest against the translating of the Scriptures into the Vulgar Tongue, and || 1u-495, 496 specked those of Heresy who approved of it. In the Year 1555 he caus'd a Book || Id pag to be printed at Louvain about the Doctrine of Predestination I shall observe what 495 Judgment (A) a Jansensst made of it

BORL

enipam primum rejicit deinde in &c Note that these words are not to be found in Thudeinde in &c enni's Editions, but they were in his Manuscript

See Thuanus resistuates, *

(K) I have not read this any where but in Varillas, whose Words I shall set down! Having related the violent Proceedings of Sintas V against the the violent Proceedings of Sintas V against the King of Navarre, and against the Prince of Conde, he adds, that the Bull of that Popo (a) remaind a long time posted ap in the Field of Flora, till James Bongars a Calvinist, and Citizen of Orleans, who was then at Rome, the at that time he was but Sepag 19 ad ann 1585 France afters of Age, resolved to revenge the Honour of Lance afters of the Blood, and acquitted himself of it in such anumanisted manner, that at delivere a place in History (b) As he was never the such as the such acquisted himself of it in such an undanated manner, that it describes a place in History (b) As he was very Learned, he composed a very biting and satyrical Answer to the Pope's Buil He transcribed it himself, and taking man apportunity of a very dark Night, assix d it near the man nither perceived, nor so much as onstructed, and it would have been anyet unknown, if he had not said so himself, and given convincing proofs of it. He appeald in the Name of the two Princes, from the Bail of Sixtus V who call d himself Pope of Rome, to the Court of the Popes of France, he gave hus Holinels the Live of the Peers of France, he gave hu Holiness the Lye as to the crime of Heresy wherewith he neems'd them, and he offer'd to prove in their build in a Council lawfully affembled, that the Pop man we more the hinder in a Council lawfully affembled, that the Pop man we more took himself. He call'd him Anticorift, if he aid wer submit to it, and declar'd a perpetual and investoncilable War against him their Name He protested, that the wrong that was to the three States of the Kingdom, would be re-toursed on the Court of Rome To that end, he implored the affifunce of all truly Christian Princes, and conjur'd all the Allies of the French Monarchy, to oppose the Pope's Tyranny, and the fatal designs of the League Varidas (s) affirms, that tho' all the Relations that Varidas (s) affirms, that the all the Relations that he had feen of that Action, suppose that Bongar, was then but Seventeen Years of Age, he cannot be persuaded that a Westing of that force, was the first Essay of Bone and of that Error a long time, had been small that Error a long time, had writ at Seventeen Years had writ at Seventeen Years the same but a gainst all the Momarchs of the World, which he Intituled lessays the same with the World, which he Intituled lessays the same with a danish of the World, which he Intituled lessays the same with a danish of the World, which he Intituled lessays the same with a danish of the World, which he Intituled lessays the same with a danish of the World, which he Intituled lessays the same with a danish of the World, which he Intituled lessays the same with th rity of its Author, that la Boiffie war Gatholick, and that the Galwinifts to fee a Man against him, that came near his State wetended that Bongars, who was of their Communion, was not older than he, when he defended the Dignity of the two first Princes of the Blood of "France in Rome, with an extream danger of his Life However it be, after Bongar; had repaired the Alps (Pope Sixtus V having not been able to difference that it was he who had treated him so ill,) the Court of France gave him eleven solemn Ambassies successively, of which he acquitted himself with great Honour I have only seen the last, which is among the Manuscripts of Limenie in the King's Library, and which concerns the Treaties of Newry the Great for the Succession of Cleves and Juliers, and I think it is in some man-ner sufficient to comfort the Publick for the loss of the rest (L) And I'll make some Critical Notes upon them]

I He is to blame for not telling us where he has found this particularity concerning Bongars He could not be ignorant that our most celebrated (c) Historians do not observe that Circumstance, it nus, Me-was therefore requisite that he should discover how zerai, Pehe had been more lucky than so many other Wri- refixe, ters II I defy any body to name any good Author, who fays that Bongars was but Seventeen Years of Age when Sixtus V fulminated his Bull against the King of Navarre in 1585 I question also whether any bad Authors have faid it before Varillas. It is certain that Bongars was then in his 3 ift Year III Varillas fould have faid stephen dela Roctic, and not Stephen de la Rossie IV The Contre-Un is ill defin'd, a famous Saiyr against all the Monarchs of the World V La Boesie was above Seventeen Years of La Bertie was above Seventeen Years of Age when he writthat Piece Thuanurobierves (f) that he made it in the Year 1548 being icarce Nineteen Years of Age, and that he dy d in the Year 1563 being not much above Thirty three Years of Age (g) VI There was never a more arry Notion, than to imagine, that the Protestants leften'd Bongars's Age, to have an occasion to boast that they had produc d as admirable a Man, as la Bostse, among the Catholicks VII There is a Germanize that the Court of Event follows Among Print Print that the Court of Event Total Print Prin baffies that the Court of France gave to Bengars according to Varillas They were most of 'em (b) meer Deputations under the Character of Envoy, or Resident, and it ought to be remember'd that the first deputations did not proceed from the Court fuam Re-of France, but from the King of Navarre

(M) The Questions that the jesust Cotton had drawn up | Benedist Turrettin, Pastor and Professor in Divinity at Geneva, examining the Reatons which that Jesuit made use of to justify his Conduct with respect to those Interrogitions, had occafion to aniwer to this Some made them amount to to answer to this some made them amount to 30, fome to 40, 50, 60, &c They did not therefore proceed fairly in it, and it was a piece of Calumny, concluded Father Cotton It may be, answered Mr Turrettin (1), That every Body did not Transcribe all the Questions, for every Body is not so but the Original Paper, from which that Swarm of Interrogation, proceeds, has the number tha is printed in Latin and in French, and it was not forgotten in the Physiognomonia Jesuitica Now the ovefaid Original was seen by a great number of Illustrious Persons yet living, who can testify it and more-over, he who caused it to be printed with that Preface, was one of the King's Officers in an honourable Post, to wit, the late Monsieur Bongars, to whom Father Cotton having complain d of the Edition of the Anti-Cotton, he made answer, That he was not the Author of it, but that he had indeed caused his Questions to the Devil to be printed

(A) What Judgment a Jansenist made of it] The Title of that Work, dedicated to Charles V was, Ittle of that Work, dedicated to Charles V was, De aterns Des Pradestinatione & Reprovatione, & The Author (k) shews some substitity of Wit in it, but an indifferent Solidity, and he forms a System concerning Grace and Predestination, peculiar to himself, which he pretends to build upon St Chrysosom, without teeming to lay any great stress on St Augustin's Doctrine, nor to understand the Opinions of those two Saints Neither can I tell whether he understood Saints Neither can I tell whether he understood his own well, for there are grois Contradictions to be found in it. He has some Expressions that seem to ascribe a Sovereign Power to Grace

* See Gery, Apolo-& de Do-

(e) Thua-

(f) Thuan Hiftor lib 5 P 105

(g) Id lib 35 circa

(b) Ab eo nix Principes creperis re-bus fæpi-us missus, gı fidem, candointegritatem omnibus prolegati munere alıquotics, legati semel & quidem prodignitate funatus Frd Spanhem epist litteris Bonearific

(1) Beneretin, Recheute du Jesuiteplagaire рад бі

(k) Gerv Apolog des cen ares,

(b) Id. ib.

Sccken-Lutheran B 1 pag 273 lit d * Id 1b pag 272 † Maimbourg, Hist du Luther 1 2 p m 120 Post in fæculo, vaga inter Academicos converfatione, Wittenberge exactum est Lucet) uxor Cochleus de act & Script Lutheri, p Bellam illam Catharinam aliquot Wittenberga varia per studiosorum ofcula volutatam, libi uxorem duxit Lindan dubit dial

1 p m 104 * Secken-dorf 1 2

pag 15

REFIF-CTIONS upon w hat iome People affect to fay, ther marry d 1 very handtome Nun (n) Id 1b pag 52 (b) Gery Apolog des censures, pag 53 (c) Hift du Lutheran 1 2 p m (d)I rasm epift 11 I 18 (c) It shou d be Boria . or à Boie (f) Twas but two 2 cars (g) Hifter 1 utheran 1 2 p 18

BORE (Catherine de) Wife of Martin Luther, was the Daughter of a Gentleman. She came out of the Monastery of Nimptschen, where she was a Nun in the Year 1523 Gentleman. One Leonard Coppe, a Senator of Torgaw, let her and eight other Nuns out of it That Action perform'd in the holy Week, having made a great noise, occasion'd a great Scandal, the Elector of Saxony did not think fit to approve it openly, he was contented to provide by private Gratifications for the maintenance of those unvailed Nuns: But Luther publish d an Apology for them, and for Leonard Coppe, who had so well affisted them in their Design of leaving the Nunnery * It has been said, that Catherine de Bore having been carry'd to Wittemberg, liv'd there † in all kind of Freedom among the young students of the University, and granted them || plenty of Kisses, till Martin Luther marry'd her two Years after, but the Lutherans * maintain, that she had a good Reputation Those who fay, that Luther who wore still the Habit of his Order, having seen the nine Nuns, who had deserted the Convent of Nimptschen, fell in Love with our Catherine, because she was (A) very Handsome, and design'd her for his Wise, have but little consulted his I etters. They would have seen there, that he resolv'd to marry her (B) all on a sudden, in the Year 1525 and that he did it with great speed to please his Father, and to (C) put a stop to Slanders It is also true, that he made

thero (6 " over the Soul of Man, and an Efficacious Displa- " Operation upon it; but a Page or two after you'll find that he airribes fo great a Power to the Will, that he believes it capable to make all the Operations of Grace useless In short, he is a Man that confounds every thing, who thinks to metimes to oppose the Opinion of "who thinks iometimes to oppose the Opinion of of the Catholicks, when he only attacks that of the Heieticks (a) He believes that the Opinion, which admits the Fore-knowledge of the good and ill use of Free-will and Grace, (for he distinguishes those two Opinions) are contrary to St Augustin, and even to Faith, being nothing else but meer Pelagianism" He acknowledges, that he had grounded his System on new Notions, (b) and so different from the common Dostrine of the Schools, that at first, he almost despair'd to bring any one Divine so his Opinion to bring any one Divine to bis Opinion to bring any one Divine to his Opinion

(A) Because she was very Handsome] Let us hear Father Mainbourg, (c) Among those Nine Libertine and unvald Nuni, who were all Maids of Quality, there was one whose Name was Catherine de Bore, whom Luther, who was yet in a Religious Habit, found VERY HANDSOME, and with whom he became very much in Love Erasmus praises that Maid's Beauty Lutherus, says he (d), duxit uxorem, puellam MIRL VENUSTAM, ex clara familia Borna (e), sed ut narrant indotatam, qua ante annos complures (f) Vestalis esse desierat Mr Seckender (e) finds a great deal of exaggeration un those dorf (g) finds a great deal of exaggeration in those Words as to Catherine de Bore's Beauty He is more to be credited than any Body else, and therefore we may very well say, that Luther's Wife was not very handlome. But let us make a Reflection on the artificial and malicious Design of those, who affect to represent that Nun as a very handsome Mud Then aim is, generally, to reflect upon I uther's choice, and to conclude from it, that he was too much given to his Pleasures, and that he did not many to repicis his Incontinency, but to intisfy Nature in the highest degree of Concupilcence They put an ill construction upon a thing that may be very innocent. No Man that defires to marry, is foilidden to make choice of a hand-fome Wife, iather than of one that is not io, nay, one may have a very good reason for it, a Man may be afraid that his Conjugal Affection may relent, which is a thing most openity to the Direction. lent, which is a thing most opposite to the Duties of a Chistian Husband, I say, he may fear such a thing, if he makes choice of a Wife that is but little pleasing If therefore in hopes of being always a good and affectionate Husband, as Reason and Religion require, he makes choice of a handsome Woman, preferably to any other, is it not true, that he goes upon an honeit Principle? And how do we know, but that if Catherine de Bore had been a beautiful Woman, Luther would have choien her among the Nine Nuns out of such a hudable Motive? I might say, that the fairer the Object was, the more Luth r was excusable for not being able to refift the Temptation, and it is very likely, that it he had marry'd a homely Maid, his Lemes would have cry'd out, that his Incontinency was to great, that it wanted no Charms to kindle it. In a word, I might fay, that those who thould head and. kindle it In a word, I might fay, that those who should break an obligatory Fast at the sight of a well-dress d Partridge, would be more pardonable, than those who should do the same thing, at the fight of a piece of very rufty Bacon truth, this Apology does not feem to be fatisfactotruth, this Apology does not feem to be fatisfactory, it has two Faces, and therefore it is better to let it alone For it might be faid, all things being otherwise equal, that of two Men, who should have the liberty to choose a very delicious Ragoo, or a piece of Beef, he that should be contented with the Beef, would do an act of Sobriety, and shew that he does only eat to live, and to fatisfy natural necessity, whereas the other, that should make choice of a Ragoo, would do an act of Gluttony and Daintiness, and shew that he only tony and Daintineis, and shew that he only thinks to satisfy his voluptuous Appetite. The application is easy. If Luther had only look'd for a remedy against Incontinency, whereby he might beget Children for the Church and his Country, beget Children for the Church and his Country, he would have imitated him, who prefers a piece of Beef before the greatest Dainties. It were therefore to no purpose to judge of those things by a Comparison with Eating But besides the reason of Fact, I mean, besides Catherine de Bere's being not very handsome, one might alledge some other Reasons in favour of Martin Luther.

other Reasons in favour of Martin Luther

(B) He resolv'd to marry her, all on a sudden, &c] Eight (b) Days before his Betrothing, he writ to Rubelius, That if his Example was necessary for the Cardinal of Brandenburg, Archbishop of Mentz, he would soon marry, tho' he had been uncertain till that time whether he was fit for Marriage, and that he intends to marry before he dyes, which perhaps, would prove an Ingagement like that of St Joseph (1) Si Elestor forte dicet, cur ego ipse non ducam unovem, qui omnes ad nubendum incito, responducam unovem, qui omnes ad nubendum incito, respondebis, me semper adhuc dubitasse an idoneus ad it sim A tamen si meo matrimonio Elector consirmari posset, propediem paratus essem ad exemplum ei prabendum Nam & alias cogito, antequam ex hac vita discedam, Nam & alias cogito, antequam ex hac vita discedam, Secken-Nam & alias cogito, antequam ex hac vita discedam, dorf, ab diet matrimenium centraham, quia id à Deo exigi puto, dorf, ab licet forte futura esset despensatio Jesephica. A Man, who speaks thus, does not seem to be (k) Epist very fond of Mariage, and therefore, Luther ad Mimust have changd his mind on a sudden. He chael Stithought that his change was a great Providence, and selium, p he says that the wise Men of his Party, who blam death as Marriage so much, were forc'd to acknowledge ted the the Hand of GOD in it (k) Vehementer irritantoth of tur sapientes inter nostros rem coguntur Dei sasari. June the Hand of GOD in it (k) Vehementer irritantur sapientes inter nostros rem toguntur Dei sagri, June sed persona larva tam mea quam puella illas dementat, 1525 aimpia cogitare & dicere sacit In another place (1) pud Seche speaks in this manner Dominus me subito aliaque kend ibid
cogitantem conject mire in conjugium cum Catherina n 3 Borensi moniali illa Observe nevertheless, that he (1) In eshews in a Letter of the 5th of May, of the same Year, that he had a design to marry his WenceCatherine Catherine

(C) To put a stop to standers] Here is what he Lincium. Writ to Ruhelius the 15th of June 1525 (m) Po- dated fulante patre mee conjugium inii, & ut linguas 20th maledicorum & impedimenta vitarem, congressium nup- June, tialem properanter institui. Had we no other Pas- apud fialem properanter infittui. Had we no other Paffage but this, we could not certainly know the nature of the Slanders that he delign'd to avoid, one might think, that he had no other aim than to put a stop to a thousand foolish Stories that are reported in Towns during the time of Courtship. At that time People will say what they know, and what they know not, and it happens but too often, that the Broachers of News himder.

(h) The 3d of June 1525 The Day that was the 11th of dorf, 1 2 p 16 n 3 140 apud dated the haste, (D) because thinking he should not live long, and being unwilling to die a Batchellor, left he should transgress a Precept, and retain something of Popery, and frustrate the desires of his Father who was very fond of being a Grandfather, he thought he ought to lose no time. Moreover he had a mind to * vex the Papists by his Mil riage. That Maid (E) refus'd the Man whom he advised her to Marry, and told Ams-Remark C dorf that such a Marriage did not please her, but that if Luther or himself would take her to Wife, she was ready to accept of either of them. There went a report that the (F) was foon brought to bed after her Marriage, but Erasmus, who had writ that News to one of his Friends, acknowledged the fallity of it a little while after I utber, tho' never so undaunted, was at first a little dush'd out of Countenance, by the Clamours (a) that his Mairiage rais'd both at home and abroad But he quickly cheer d up again, and feem d very well fatished with his Match, infomuch that his Wife hiv-

(b) Fpift ad Amidorfium 1 2 1 295 22d of

(a) Epist

pag F, apud, dated the June apud Scekend shid n 7 (c) Fortaffe eti-am rumoribus mobus Lutherus epistola fupra alleritur,quibus tamen ıple alıcafionem dedisse videtur. optime enim cupictur virguai, & fuen yo-care folebat Catharinam Seckend ubi iupra p 17 n 8 (d) Apud Seckend

26 n. 10 (e) Fpist ad Ruhelium e 3 fol 150 une ib f) Aa Imfdorf

b n 7 g) Fpift b # 2

(b) Ad spe 1525, sped Sec-kend pag 15, m, 8 Marie (V)

M Ibid

ann 1525 PAG 278 citatum à Seckendorfio, 16 Pag 18 N 11

der the conclusion of a Marriage, but when the Bufinels is concluded, it affords little occasion for talk One might therefore fay, that Luther would not give those Romancers time to spread the News of his design through the Town, and that therefore he per-form'd it as soon as he had form dit, but we know form'd it as soon as he had form dit, but we know by some other pissages of his Letters, that there was a necessity to put a stop to another fort of Reports Os obstruxi, says he to his Friend Spalatinus, instantibus me sain Catharina Borana (a) Veras est itaque sama, says the to another (b), me esse cum Catharina subito copulatum antequam ora cogerer audire tumultuosa in me, sicut solet sieri. In all likelihood they spoke ill of him and her, because without doubt he saw her samiliarly. He lov'd her, and call'd her his Catherine (c) Mr Seckendors conjectures that those pratlings were one of the conjectures that those prattings were one of the Reasons, that made her declare she would not marry Doctor Glacius, but that she was very willing to be Married to Luther, or Amidorf Let us add to all this what Melanchthon writ on that Marriage

(d) Si quid vulgo fertur aliud indecentius, id mendacium of calumniam esseperspicuum est

(D) He made hast, because thinking he should not live to be letter the Period that begins with the result of this Period that begins with the Text of this Remark Ecce, quia sic infamiant, they are Luther's words (e), he means those who exclaim'd against him on account of the War of the Boots, ita me paravi, ut ante mortem meam, in statu, quo creatus sum, a Deo inveniar, & quantum potero, nihil ex priori vita mea papistica retineam Furant itaque tanto acrius, & hac ultima & valedistoria eruni Mens enim mihi presagit, me à Dos ad gratiam sumi Mens enim mihi presagit, me à Dos ad gratiam suam evocatum il staque, possibilitate patre mos, conjugium imi sin another Letter he speaks thus, (f) Spero enim me breve tempus adhue visturum, & hoc novissimum obsequium parenti mos postulanti nolui denegare spe prosis, simul ut consirmem facta que docus. And here is what he says in another place. Alias cogito antequam er hac vita discedam ut matrimonium contraham, quia id a Dec exigi puto (g)

(E) Refuid the Man whom he advised her to marr,

We know this from a Manuscript Memorial which Abraham Scultettu has inserted in his Annals (h) The Man, whom Luther would have Catherine to The Man, whom Luther would have Catherine to marry, was a Minister of Orlamund, call'd Doctor Glacius. The Maid would not have him Veller Lutherus, all manifelorifius, so paratam cum alterutro henefus. The monium cum D Glacio nullo modo trata de control this on one side, and having the other, that if he married, he would be covered body, and the Devil himself laugh. Covery body, and the Devil himself laugh, solv'd to nearry the Nun Catherine to spite the rid and the Devil (1) Hoc whi Lutherus intelanding of the word and fleque ex D Hieronymi Schursti ere Si Modelmi is uncered duceret, risures mundum universum & diabolum issum saturumque ipsum igritas attienes sus universas ut agre faceret mundo & diabolo, ut parenti etiam hoc suadenti gratisticaretur, Catharinam shi uxenem ducendam censuit. This agrees with what he writ the 15th of May 1525 to Rubelius (k) Si domum venera ad mortem me Deo juvante praparabo, & novos isso dominos & latrones expeliabo. & noves iftes domines & latrones expectabe autem ut agre faciam, si sieri potest, Catharinam meam
(1) Apud
Scultetum
ero neque enim oi muhi obstruent, nec gaudium adiment Annal ad When I think of the Reasons that might persuade him that he would vex the Papists by his Marriage, I find none more likely than to fay, that he imagin'd they had yet fome kind of Confolation left, because they thought he had still a regard for the Doctrines of Monastical Vows (F) There went a Report that she was soon brought to sed] See here what Erasmus writ about it, (!) Lutherus, quod felix faustumque sit, diposito Philosophi pallio duxit uvorem ex clara familia Boria (m), puellam ele- (m) See a-ganti forma natam annos viginti sex, sed indotatam & bovi in the que pridem desserat est Vestalis Atque ut seias auspi- Margin of catas fusse nuptias, pauculis diebus post decantatum the Re-hymeneum nova nupta peperit Erasmus knew by the mark A event that it was an egregious fallity, and confess it afterwards The Letter wherein he makes that Confession, is dated the 13th of March 1526 He says only that Luther's Wife was with Child, and that the had not conquer'd the fierce Spirit of her Husband, feeing the Book that Luther hid compos d against him fince his Wedding, was the most furious Book that ever came from his Pen (n) De conjugio Lutheri certum est, de partu maturo spons e ornue epist 22 erat rumor, nunc tamen gravida este dicitur Si vila lib 18 est vulgi sabula Antichissum nasciturum ex monacio er monacha, quemadmodum isti jacritan , quot Ancichi -storum millia jam olim halet mundus t. A. e, o speciibam fore, ut Lutherum wear reddiret magis cicurem to um ille præter omnem expetiationem emifit librum in me fummå quidem curå claboratum, sed adeo viruienium, ut hattenus in neminem s ripserit hossilius

(G) By the Glamours that his Marriage raised | He confesses himself that his Marriage made him to despicable, that he hoped that Humiliation would rejoyce the Angels, and vex the Devils Sic (0) ne omnes demones flere speren Melanchthon (p) found num apud him so afflicted with that change of Life, that he wrote some Letters of Consolation to him Quomam vere ipsum Lutherum guodammodo tristiorem esse cerno, & perturbatum ob vita mutationem, omni studio & benevolentia consolari eum conor He adds that the prejudice, which that Marriage did to Lu her's great Reputation, would very likely produce a good of feet he meant that it would pievent the vanity of which the wifest Men are too full in the splendor of a great Glory Erit ctiam, meo quidem judicio, nec inutilis quidem casus isti ad domissionem quandam pertinens, cum alte suspensió de efferri semper su personationem, non solum sacerdotio sungentibus, sed cunitis mortalibus. Nam actionum solucitas occasionem dat pravitatis elati animi, non modo, quema imodum Orator in Supra, pag quit, dementibus, sedinterdum etiam sapientbius si was 17 n 10 not so much the Mariage as the Circumstance, of not fo much the Marriage as the Circumstances of the time, and the Precipitation wherewith the thing had been done, that occasion'd the consures past upon Luther. He Married all on a sudden, and in a time when Germany was almost desolated by the War of the Boors, a War that was imputed to Lutheranism. People could not account for that precipitation. Luther was then 42 Years of Age, and till then he had kept a chast Celibacy during the hottest transports of Youth. It cannot be said that the incapacity of containing himself obliged him to conclude his Marriage so suddenly Granting, as Melanisthom infinuates, that the remissions Granting, as Melanchthon infinuates, that the remils life that Luther led, delighting too much in company, revived Nature, which the Monastical retreat had in some manner laid asleep. In a word, Granting he was necessitated to marry by the Lust of the (a) Alor Flesh, must be therefore pass by all I coundries in the Re Could he not put off his Marriage for some Month, mark B to communicate the matter to his live ids, and to prepare the Publick for the News of his Muriage (1) Meby some preliminary Addresses. I do not wonder that for want of good Reasons to explain those difficulties (9) Inther, and others have acknow- (1) at ledged something Divine in that Mairiage, how m, april see as in certain Diseases (r) Quod autom in reintempessivum & inconsultum inch, (in quo viaxime di cira) obtressandi & accusandi studium adversavorum friet) videndum, ne nos conturbet. Isto enim sub nigotio fortale aliquid occulti, & quiddam divinius subssess, dans designed occulti, & quiddam divinius subssess.

(o) Epift Supra n 5

(p) Extat becepistola Londinent cft 24 /4) e Greco versa apud Seckendorf

(q) Alor in the Re-

Remark I

(a) Epist pag 318 apud Seckend pag 18 # 10

(b) This is related by Bavarus tom 1 pag 229 apud Seckend

l 3 pag 651 lit n

(c) His last Will is da-ing bore him a Son a little after, he said he (H) would not change his Condition for that of Crassmaller, for he found that God had given him a very good Wise. He was like to die of a Strangury in the Year 1537, and in that State a he prais'd his Wise very much. In his Will that he made in 1542. γ he expressed a great Affection, and # Id 1 3 P 165 71 4 took care to provide for her. He did not pretend s that she was without Faults, but 7 ld ib he believ'd she was less faulty than others. It has been observ'd † that she took a pag 651 little too much upon her felf, and that the was too imperious, but it was an excusable full, confidering the glory that attended her Husband. In some things she was Sec the too fiving, and in others too prodigal She was sparing in her Housekeeping, and too expensive in Buildings, which is the Character of a Woman that loves to make a shew After the Death of Luther * she maintain'd her self and her Family decently, RemarkH † Seckendorf 1 3 with the indifferent Estate of the Deceased, and the assistance she received from the Liector of Saxony, and the Counts of Mansfeld At last she went from Wittemberg to pag 651 lit n See the Re-Torgaw, and died there the 20th of December 1552 If Erasmus was not mistaken when he sud 4, that she married at 26 Years of Age, she must have been 53 Years old when she died Varillas has committed a prodigious (1) number of faults in mark K * Id let o speaking of that Woman 4 See the

Mr Mayer, whose tavour to me I must acknowledge here, since he has been pleafed to declare publickly that he honours me with his friendship, made a Differtation

(H) That he would not change his Condition for that of Councily Here is part of the Letter that he writ the 11th of August 1526 to Michael Stifelius Salutat (a) te Ketha costa mea, & gratias agit quod ear literis tuis tam suavibus dignatus es Ipsa belle ear literis uit tam Juavibus dignatus es Ipfa belle habet Dei dono, minique morigera & in omnibus obfequins est, & commoda plusquam ausus sussemblerare (Deo gratia,) ita ut paupertatem mean nollem cum Grassi divitus commutate. He was heard to say (b) that he would not exchange his Wise for the Kingdom of France, nor for the Riches of the Penetians, for three Reasons is Because, she had been given him by God, at the time that he implored the affishance of the Holy Ghost concerning his meeting with a good Wise 2 Because, the she was not without fauits, yet she had sewer than other Women 3 Because she kept the conjugal Fidelity which she ow'd him In his Will he gave her a good testimony of Probity, Fidelity and Modesty, he acknowledged that she had lov'd and serv'd him, and that she had been (c) Fruitful, & He would not have the World to think that she had privately pursed up Money, and he lest her the had privately puried up Money, and he left her of Septem-ber 1542 He had then five Children alive

Seckendorf / 3 pag 651 let n

(e) Vaullas, Hiftorre de l'Herefu, B 6 pag 6 at full liberty to marry again (d)

(1) Mr Varillas has committed a prodigious number of Faults | He fays (e) that Catherine de Bore and eight of her Companions were taken out of a Nunnery that was in a fmall Town call'd Vimigue, two Leagues from Wittemberg But I There never was a Nunnery that bore that Name, neither in the Neighbourhood of Wittemberg, nor elsewhere II The Convent that was near Wittemberg, and that was call d Niemec, was of Regular Canons of St Augustin, and ought not to be confounded, as it has been by some Authors, with the Convent of Nimptschen III The nine Nurs were taken out of Nimptschen on the Mulde near Grimma, two days Journey from Wittemberg IV Leonard Coppe who took them from thence was not, as Varillat affirms, Provost of the Scholars at Wittemberg, there is no such Character or Function known in the Universities of Germany But he was a Councellor of the City of Torgam, the place of his Nativity V It is not true that Catherine de Bore the handsomest of them all, was from that time design d to be the Wise of Doctor Luther He thought on nothing less at that time than to Marry A Letter that he writ about the end of the Year 1504 certifics, that God might alter his mind, but that whilft his Heart should be dispoted as it always had been, and full was, he would nevel Marry Not but that I feel, says he, my Flesh and my Sex, I am neither of Wood nor Stone, but I have an aversion for Marriage, because I prepare my self for the Punishment wherewith Hereticks are punished (f) See what has been said before of the Precipitation and my Sex, I am neither of Wood nor Stone, but I have an averlion for Marriage, because I prepare my self for the Particle of Whistone in the Month of June One thousand five hundred twenty five VI Varillas should not have spoken of Luther's Marriage in the Year 1526 but in the foregoing Year VII There never was any Abbess of Misina VIII However that Dig-quo nos cursose quærere non decet, neque curare nugas deridentium, & convitta facientium quorundam, a quibus neque pietas ad Deum, neque ad homines virtus excilctur.

Interval did never belong to Catherine de Bore Varillas who gives it her in the 86th Page, had faid in the 7th Page, that she was a meer Nun, and that she fled with eight others upon a Good-friday, while fled with eight others upon a Good-fridsy, while the SUPERIORS were extraordinary busis By Missish he means either a Town, or a Province, if he means a Province he is guilty of a great ab-furdity, for he supposes then that there was but one Monastery in a Country where there were Thirty If he means a Town, he names it wrong, he should have call d it Meissen IX It is salse that Catherine de Bore was of an Illustrious Family, and Catherine de Bore was of an Illustrious Family, and that some of her Relations had a great Power in the Court of Savony She had a Brother that stood in need of Luther's recommendation to the new Elector of Saxony in the Year 1542 (g) Luther begged of the Elector, that he might have an Office instead of that which was taken from him, so that his Wise's Relations had more need of his Credit, than he of theirs What protection can one expect from a Family, that is not able to give a Daughter a Portion? This was the condition of our Nun's Father, according to the account (b) of the Author we criticise X The frequent visits that Parillas says (1) Luther gave to Catherine 16 B 7 (b) of the Author we criticile X The frequent Vilits that Varillas fays (1) Luther gave to Catherine pag 86 in the Nunnery of Messia are meer Chimera's Doubtless by Misnia he means the Town of Meissen (1) Id 1 Granting him this Fassity, Viz. That Catherine was Abbeis of Meissen, yet he suppos'd very fassily, that Luther made many Visits to that Abbels, for since the Trung of National Abbels, and Page 87 Luther made many Visits to that Abbess, for since the Town of Meissen belong'd partly to the Bishop, and partly to George Duke of Saxony, a great Enemy of the Reformation, Luther would have run very great dangers in Meissen I add, that is the Abbess had receiv'd his Visits so easily, there had been no need of any address to carry away Catherine de Bore, while the Superiors could not look after her Thus we find many Contradictions between Page 7 and Page 86 of Varillas Lastly, Those frequent Visits are strongly refuted by the two days Journey that is between the Convent of Bore, and the City of Wittenberg XI is majoristy Luther's first Letters that have been published, Thus he had some thoughts of Marrying from the time that he send form the Communion of the Church Varillas affirms this, but it is a sign that he never look'd infirms this, but it is a fign that he never look'd into those Letters We plainly find there, that Lather thought on nothing less than Marriage during the first years of his Reformation, and that he rethe first years of his Retormation, and that he refolved on it all of a sudden in the Year 1525. I have shewed that he would have Married his Catherine to another Man XII The first measures he took with John Frederick, Brother and Successor to the (k) deceased Eletter, were that he should permit him to Marry the Abbest A new mistake of Varillas John Frederick was not the Brother of the deceased Elethor, and did not succeed him He that succeeded him was call'd John and was his Brother. He was

(g) See Secken-

dorf 1 3 pag 381

(b)Varill

(1) Id 1b

Frederick

(f) I pist l 2 apud Seckend 11 pag 314 n 2 that will (K) afford me a very curious Supplement. I don't think that any body will blame me for publishing in this place of my Dictionary a Letter which has never been made publick, and which was written by (L) Erasmus before he was undeceived about the falle report that was spread about Catherine de Bore's being brought to bed a little while after her Wedding madversions upon Varillas, are taken from Mr de Seckendorf, Histor Lutheran l 1 pag 273, 274

(b)Nimit-fehenie Cistercienlium Monaste-Mayer, pag 11

(c) Jd pag 14 (d) Id pag 14

(e) Ibid pag 19

(f) May er, ubi fupra, p quoter, hivariations, tom 1 p 49 (g) Ibid pag 27 (b) Ibid PAG 24 (1) Senatus Witch SHIPS nonnulla ex publico ærario et, pag 55 (n) Quis non videt. genii præ-

(a) Melt of the most eminent Persons of the Empire (a) Who can appealend that such a fanious Historian should heap up so many faults in so few Words? One could haidly fucceed in it, if one was to do it on purpose, and for Mony

(K) Mr Mayer made a Differention that will afford me a very curious Supplement 1 It is a Book of 72 Pages in Quarte, Intituled, De Catharina Luthers conjuge differentia, and Printed at Hamburg in the Year 1698 The Author forgot nothing that might serve for a full Institution concerning the might lerve for a full Instituction concerning the History of Catharine de Bore, and he gives a curious and exact account of what Children she brought to Luiber He brings always good proof for what he says, whereby the Falsities of Cochleus, Maimbourg, Varillas, and many other Writers, are solidly refuted He shews, that the Example of the eight Nuns who went with her ut of the Convent (b) of Nimpischen, was soon after follow'd by Sixteen Nuns of the Convent of Widersteten in the Coun-Nuns of the Convent of Widersteen in the County of Manifeld, and that it was the fruit of the good and found Doctrine that Luther had taught concerning the Honesty of Mairiage, and the Inquity of Monastical Vows (c), that in all this, there was no force used to carry them away (d), seeing those Maids were well persuaded that they might return into the World, and were willing to do it, that Maimburg was in the wrong to pretend that Luther durst not marry Catherine io long as the Hestor Frederick was living, for why should the Llector Frederick was living, for why should that Prince have condemn d Luther's Mairiage, after having permitted Velthichius, Carolftad, and some other Ministers to marry (e) and that some Writers have spoken hyperbolically of Catherine's Beautier Lather than the mark of the New Market Cally of Catherine's Pearling of the Catherine's Pearling of the Market Cally of Catherine's Pearling of the Catherine of the ty, Luther fell in Love with a very beautiful Nun of Quality, whom he had taken out of her Convent There are the Words of the Bishop of Meaux, which Mr are the Words of the Bilhop of Meaux, which Mr Mayer (f) alledges, and to make it appear that they are over-strain'd, he produces that Woman's Print drawn by his order from three Pictures compard together, that were made in Catherine's Life-time, by Luke Cranachius (g), an excellent Painter, and one of those that were at Martin Luther's (h) Wedding-feast, that is, at the Entertainment that was given without noise on his Weddingday, for some Weeks after a more solemn and nomnous Least was made, to the Charges of which. pompous I enst was made, to the Charges of which, the (1) Senate of Wittemberg contributed some-thing Mr Mayer refers us to the 22d Pige of the thing Mr Mayer refers us to the 22d Page of the 34th Pait of the Confile Witebergensia, and to the 6th Chapter of the Desinso Luther desins of sohn Mollerus against Charles Creussen, a Jesuit of Prussia I 113, he refers us thither to see the Resultation of the Calumny that had been spread, and the excuses for Luther & Marrying without bidding the Banes for Luther's Mariying without bidding the Banes in a (hurch His Linemies gave out (k) that he had made fo much haste to mairy, because Catherine found herself with Child His was false (l). I here are also up Mr. Mayer's Dissertation many proofs of the Love and Lsteem that I uther had for his Wise hey are taken out of his Letters, and bus farted we are fore-warn'd to give more ciedit to them than to a Letter of Pontanus written to the Elector of Saxony after the Death of Luther. This Pontanus cannot be come a great deal of Mony in Buildings, and chiefly upon a Farm that was assign'd her for her virginitation, and chiefly upon a Farm that was assign'd her for her virginitation, and great deal of Mony in Buildings, and chiefly upon a Farm that was assign'd her for her virginitation. Dowry (m) Huic staque (Luthero) postas testi cretis, pag 13 (l) See the qui in literis post mortem Lutheri ad Elestorem Sax semark for the formation and selection of the formation for tenacemque in victu domestico, etsi sumtuo-for, pag 55 sam in ædificia, imprimus in pradium Zeulsdorf, quodes in testamento detaliti nomine Lutherus assigna-vit Some pretend that Luther submitted to the government of his Wise, and they cite the Letters wherein he call'd her his Loid Mr Mayer owns to beati viri have seen such Letters, but he maintains, (n), that non ignative, how his Wise such Letters, but he maintains, (n), that non ignative, how his Wise such Luther, who had given his wife such luther his Luther, who had given his wife such luther his wife such luther his wife such luther his wife such luther h lo factum? minium. In aconomia quidem tibi concedo dominium. Ib pag-56 fakto jure meo. Mulierum enim Dominium nibil boni

unquam effect (0) He has the Original of a Let- (0) Luter (2) wherein Luther exclaim'd against the weak- ther apud ness of those Husbands, who suffer themselves to Mayer, be master'd by their Wives, and incourag'd one of pag 57 them to curb the Insolence of his Wife Here is them to curb the Insolence of his Wife Here is a thing that shews our Catherine's Conjugal Affection Luther intending to make an Exposition of be seen in the 22d Psalm, took some Bread and Salt, and Mr May-shut up himself in his Closet, and continu'd there er's Book, three Days His Wiscook'd for him every where, P 57, 58, and was much griev'd, she knock'd at the Door, the call'd him and height at last no longer she see the call'd him, and being at last no longer able or resist her Grief, she caus'd the Door to be broken open, and found him Meditating. He was vex'd that his meditations on such a Sacred Subject, and that his meditations on such a Sacred Subject, and of so great concern, should be interrupted, but at last, he could not find fault with (q) his Wises (q) Id p Care and Disquier She gave a remarkable Instance so He both of her Affection and Constancy in a Sickness quotes that he had in the Year 1527 (r) which was so Reinhard great and dangerous, that he made his Will, and Bakius ad took his leave of his Wise and his Son Our Capelockherine continued the first Year of her Widow hood at Wittemberg, the her to go essewhere. Mr. Mayer (r) unfishes her in 59 & see a her to go elsewhere Mr Mayer (1) justifies her in 59 & lea that disobedience She went from Wittem—(1) Ibid bog in the Year 1547 when the Town was pag 66 furrendred to Charles V Before her departure, she had received a Present of Fifty Crowns from Christian III King of Denmark, and as the Elector of Saxony and the Counts of Manifelt gave her good Tokens of their Liberality, she had wherewithal to maintain herself conveniently with her Family, those Assistances being added to what her Family, those Assistances being added to what Luther had left her She return d to Wittemberg when the Town was restord to the Llestor, where she liv'd prously till the Plague made her resolve to leave it in the Year 1552 She sold what she had there, and retir'd to Torgan, with a what she had there, and retir'd to Torgan, with a Resolution to end her Lise there. An unsolutionate Accident happend to her in her Journey. The Horses sell a prancing, and she leap'd out of the Waggon, and got a fill, of which she dy'd (t) Aquarat Torgan the 20th of December 1552. She was butter of a 1y'd there in the great Church, where her Tomb Tearaster and Epitaph are still to be seen. The University and some of Wittemberg, that was then (n) at Torgan, sew Days made a publick Programma concerning the Lumore See neral Pomp (n) It may be seen at length in the Fune-Mr Mayers Book, and it was Printed in the Year ral Pro1553 (x) in intimationibus Wittembergenssbus. I have gramma 1553 (1) in intimationibus Witembergensibus I have gramma road it in the 441, and 442 Leaf of a Book Piinted at Witemberg in the Year 1565 in 8 and Intituled, Scr ptorum publice propositionum a profisoribus in Academia Witebergensi, ab anno 1540 usque ad annum ged at 1553 Tomus primus
(L) And which was written by Erasmus before he was undecen'd about the false Report] It was written to an Illustrious Perion, to wit, Nicolas Eve- (w) Mayrard, President of the High Council of Holland at er, ibid the Hague I have seen the Original of it, which pag 66, is very well preserved Erasmu's Seal with the & seq Deus Terminus and the nulli cedo, remain still intire (x) Id p Mr de Wilhem (y) Councellor in the Court of 69 Brabant, has been so kind as to shew me that Ori- (y) I speak ginal Letter, and to give me a Copy of it, which ginal Letter, and to give me a Copy of it, which I have compar'd with the Original I think, the I have compar'd with the Original I think, the large in Readers will not be displeas d to find itprinted in the Rethis place of my Dictionary, since it was never mark F, o made publick

5 P Ornatissime Prafes, Solent Comics tumultus for Wilhem

re in matrinonium exire, atque line subita rerum om-nium tranquillitas Verum hane catastrophen plerum-que nune habent Principum Tragædia, non adnodum lætam populo, sed tamen bellis potiorem Malebat ille compilari quam venire Similem exitum habitura vide-tur Lutherana Tragadia Duxit uvorem monachus monacham, out scias nuptias prosperis avibus initas, dichus a decantato hymenco ferme quatuordecim enixa est nova nupta. Lutherus nunc mittor esse incipit, nec perindes sevit calamo. Nihil est tam ferum quad non cicuret uxor. Ego sedulo hortor utramque partem, ut aquis conditionibus jungant fadus, ou insana pralia dirimant. Vis scire quantum prosecamus? Quantum solons. monacham, & ut scias nuptias profeiris avibus initas,

Plague raged at Wittemberg mark F. of

* Pındar Od 4 Pythior

† Balzac, Entret 5 chap 2 pm80

nal, has guess

re read. defulto-

à auibus parenti-bus ortus fit fabula-rum in-

Ventores non tradi derunt.

m 861

(c) Id 1b

2 p 551 (d) Hefiodus in nerat

Deor ge-

378 p m 126

(e) Schol Apollonii

ın lıb ı V 211 (f) At the Word Bo-

(g) Ezech Spanhemius in Callimnchum, p

213, 214 344 366 (b) Horat

(i) Id Od

13 epot (k) Dacıer upon

Horace,

tom 5 p 260, 261

of the Dutch

Edition

Od _5

reas

quod ego legerim Natal Comes, My-thol lib 8

BOREAS, One of the four Cardinal Winds, and one of the Deities of the Heat thens, was the Son of Astrans (A) and of Aurora, and had his Seat in (B) Thrace.

Pindarus * calls him the King of Winds " + I think, I have read some where that "they gave him the Privileges of a Citizen in a City of Greece I have read also, that they built some Temples to him, and that Sacrifices were order'd for him in an-"they built some Temples to min, and that Sachnees were cited a lot min in an other City, once, for having sunk a Fleet of the Enemies, and another time, for having blown the Dust into the Eyes of a Land Army of the same Enemies. If I am not mistaken, by a publick Decree he was solemning and, the Son-in-law of the Athenians, because of his Wife Orithya, who was an Athenians." The Author of whom I borrow these Words, (I'll shew (C) in what Authors he had read this) lent 11, qui inter duos armatos ira vinoque furentes intercedunt dirempturi, & utrimque vulnerantur Opinor te legisse Apologiam meam adversus Sutorem Quis ci edidisse tam supidum animal latere inter Theologos & Cartusanos? Et tamen hoc portentum habet Theologos (a)There is begultarii in the Copy Mr de Wilapplaudentes Si venduntur isthic (a) d sultoris libri Jodoci Clithovei, quaso ut legas in Antiluthero 3 libri cap primum, num 3 nam Beda literis indicavit eum hem rold me, that locum ad me pertiner, quod si verum, quis non intelligit in illo pediculoso capite nullam esse micam sana mennone of those, who tis? Et tamen hujusmodi nebulones Luterus armavit in has read nos Nullum video finem nis si quis Deus à machina, quod aiunt, apparens, fabulam explicet Luterana fa-tio nunquam sustuit majores spritus. Et altera pars the Origibeen able adeonibil remittit, ut indies aftringat priora vincula to find out Habent novum dogma, sed simpliciter insanum, totos the meanhos tumultus exortos ex Linguis & bonis litteris Hoc jam Principibus aliquot perfuascrunt Quoniam te vi-dere alicer non licet, per literas saluto Dorpium ami-simus ante diem file longe supra centum millia rusti-coi um interfesta sunt, & quotidie sacerdotes capiuntur, ing of that Word 1 at a venture, that torquentur, suspenduntur, decollantur, exuruntur Non nego necessarium remedium, quamvu immite, sed Ger-mani magus novimus malefatta punire quam excludere it ought to Tibi, uxori tua, tuisque liberis precor omnia lata Qui has reddet est Franciscus Dilft, quondam con-(b) Boreas victor meus, juvenis bonisto loco natus, moribus mire

Datum Bas pridie Natal Domini, an 1525 ERASMUS ROT verè tuus

Extempore manu propria
Non vacabat relegere, ignosce
(A) Was the Son of Astraus and of Aurora] talis Comes confesses, (b) he never read that the Inventers of Fables have faid what Boreas's Fathe Inventers of Fables have faid what Boreas's Father and Mother were, and yet he (c) had quoted Hefiod, who fays, that the God Afraus having Jain with the Goddess Autora, begat the four Winds Here are the three Verses that he quotes

Argain (d) & Hose authus time xagring-Dunus,

Agricus, Ziquess, Buyin t authugunatusus,

Rau Notto, es gain time Sua sundaica

Aftrao vero Aurora ventos peperit magnanimos, Argesten, Zephyrum, Borcamque rapidum, Et Notum, in amore cum des des congressa. I must take notice of a Fault of Mr Hofman, inys, that the Wind Boreas was the Son of Ash aus according to some, or of Strymon according to others. He should not have express d himself so; he ought to have faid, that some Persons have maintain'd, that the Ravisher of Orithya, was not the Wind Boreas, but the Son of Strymon (e) Honρίαι υισι εξυμώι Β. φασι εχε δι τε απεμοτ Hefagoras in Megaricis Boream a quo rapta Orithya filium fuisse ait

Stiymonis, non vero ventum

(B) And had his Seat in Thrace] A great many Authors hat in (f) Lloyd's Dictionary, and in the learned Commentary of Mr Spanheim (g) on Cal-Imachus The origine of that Hypothesis, is, that the Poets, who have spoken of that Wind, liv'd in a Country with respect to which Thrace was Northward I speak of the Greek Poets The Latin Poers, who imitate the Greek Phrases and Epithetes have placed the Wind Boreas in the same Country, tho' they had not the same reason for it Read these words of Mr Dacier, they are taken out of his Note on the (b) Thrace Bacchante magis sub interlunia conto "Horace speaks after the manner of the Greek, who call Boreas or Aquilo, Thracian, because it came to them from Thrace" I beheve, it had been well to have commented this place of the same Poet, (1) nunc mare, nunc Sylva Threicie Aquilone sonant, in the same manner, without pre-tending, that "(k) Boreas or Aquilo, that is to "fay, the North-North-East, was truly a Thracian "Wind for the Romans, as well as for the Greeks,

" for Thrace extended very far" I cannot believe, that Horace had in view the large extent of that Country, nor the Subdivision of the Winds He intended only to imitate the Greek Epithet of the North-Wind, and the same Criticism might be made upon him here, as on this Passage (1) of the (1) See Ta12th Ode of the 4th Book Jam veris comites, que naquillus mare temperant, impellunt anima lintes Thracia I Faber's tnink, I ought not to omit this Passage of Balzac, 24th Epibecause it is Critical "(m) This Aquile of Thra-file of the cian origine, makes Excussions, and Travels o-2d Book ver all the World, but if we must believe our (m)Balzac "African, who speaks Stemes and Iron, his Style is so "rough and harsh, he makes his particular abode in the Euxine-Sea, I know not how many Leagues from Thrace, I shall inquire about it presently in the Map Well, Aquile shall inhabit the Euxine-Sea." for this time, Ubi dies nujquam patens, sol nun-quam liber, unus aer, nebula totus annus, hibernum, omne quod flaverit Aquilo est But, by the by, I desire you to observe, whether there is not a kind of contradiction in these Words, Nebula and Aquilo, for in my opinion, they cannot well agree together

(C) Ill show in wha (C) Ill show in what Authors, &c.] There are some Books in which it is a thing allow'd of, and even commendable, not to name the Authors from whom a Writer takes what he alledges This is very convenient for a vain Man, for these general Terms, I have read somewhere, a certain Author relates, &c give an advantageous Idea of an Author The Reader thinks, he that speaks so, would not do it, if the Book he mentions, without naming the Author of it, was not unknown to other Learned Men It is therefore believ'd, that he found that Treasure in a very rare-Manuscript In a Word, if Balzac had said, I have read in Pausanias, or in Herodotus, he would not have made himself so recommendable to his Readers. As for me, I endeavour chiefly to farisfy the Curiofity of my Readers, and therefore I always name the Authors from whom I take what I relate, nay, I endea-your to discover from whence the Moderns have taken what they alledge I have fucceeded in it as to this (*) Passage of Balzacs Entretiens

I Ælian (n) observes, that the Inhabitants of Thurium having been delivered from a great danger have the second state of the second s

by a Storm that destroy'd their (a) Enemy's Fleet, down in offered Sacrifices to the Wind Boreas, who had caus'd the Text of that Shipwrack, and confer'd the Freedom of their this ArisCity on him They provided him a House, and cle

a settled Revenue, and Celebrard every Year a (n) Ælian Day of Worship in honor of this If The Megalopolitans Conference of the this him, where they offerd Sacrifices to the tain Day of the Year, and they honour description to Trues more than that It was in acknowledgment with the Trues Assistance which they received of him, where they Dionysine Affistance which they received of him, when the Dionysius King of Lacedamon belief their City The Besset Engine bear the Wall so furiously, that doubtes the Branch would have been very great the next Day; but there make a North-Wind that over-set that Engine of this is what Paulanias (p) relates 111 Herodous informs us, That an Oracle have the set of the Common of the set of the common of the set of the

ing order'd the Athenians to call their Son-in-law to their Affistance, they invok'd Boreas, for as he was marry'd to Onethya the Daughter of Erechtheus their King, they took him for their Son-in-law Wherefore Xirxes's Fleet being come to the Coaffs of Magnesia, they implor'd the assistance of that Wind, and that of his Spoule, with Victims and Prayers, and being persuaded that the Storm that Carrer'd the Fleet was the Assistance of the Worthern fratter'd the Fleet, was the effect of that Worship, they caused a Temple to be built to Boress on the Banks of the Ilissus (q) They believed, that the same Deities had already destroy'd the Persian Fleet near Mount Ather (r) I have not been able to find yet the Author, who speaks of the great Service.

naquillus Faber's

Dionyfius (p) Pau-fan 116 8 Pag 266 259 r, *

(q) A R:thens (r) Hero-dot lib 7 cap 189

7 , 1

Remark on Orisbye's not complaining of the (D) coldness of such a Husband but that Remark is more ingenious than solid, for Boreas, tho' never so cold, was (E) very warm in his Love. He had several Children, and among others Zetes and (F) Calas, whose vice which that Wind did the Greeks in throwing vice which that Wind did the Greeks in throwing dust into the Eyes of an Army of the Persians. I have Read indeed in Xenophon that the Greeks who repassed the Euphrases after the deseate of young Cyrus, endur'd a great deal of cold because the Wind Boreas was full in their Faces, but that it was laid as soon as they had Offer'd Sacrifices to it by the advice of a Southsayer (*) Note, that Apollonius represented to the Athenians that (s) Boreas was their near Relation. Balzac might have added that the (b) Athenians swore by the Deity of Boreas, and that his Festival was celebrated by them with great solemnity. Casabon informs us of it in his great folemnity Casaubon informs us of it in his Commentary on these Words of Matron, (c) ram Bopin, passaro wirropodur, quarum dum coquerentur, five recens coactarum vel Boreas poterat affici desiderio, (d) Sensus autem est aded bonos panes illos aut placentas fuisse, ut etiam Borealia celebrantibus apponi potuerint Morus sut Athena Borea

"Lebrantibus apponi potuerint Morus sut Athena Borea 4 p m 143 (a) Philo-strat in 4.p m 167 (6) Liba-Sacra facere, demerendi illius gratia Magna solennitate is dies celebrabatur, atque in primis lautis opi-parisque epulis Bopea (ur hoc dicebant & Bopeaupor superstitionis busus ritum Hesychius Bopeassoi, Adungon of a govern to Bopea Coprac ny govern in a corol (malim a corol) riessu Enakuro di Bopeassoi Vieron apud "(malim aveci) nriasu enautiro es popuaçuel Vi"detur dicere thiasotas horum sacrorum suise apel"latos Bopuaçue Ego arbitror Bopuaçuo id esse quod
"jam diximus at qui superstitionis hujus sacra con"celebrarent, eos esse dictos Bopuaçue, ut unadicue, "respubrat, & simileis,, Castellan (e) does not mention that Festival, but Fazoldus (f) did not forget it To conclude, I shall observe that mention is made of the Altar of the God Boreas in a Dialoque (g) of Plato, it is also said there, that is pag 234 (e) In tra-ctatu de phon de Cyrı ex-pedit lib vitaApol-

lonu lib nius de-

Athenæum lib 4

pag 134 (d) Ca-faub in

Athen

lib 4 6 5

fcft18

Græco-

rologia

pag 124 (g) Plato

in Phædro

circa init

(1) Balzac, entret 5

Lyons

chap 2 p 80 81

m 1211 p m 1211 (h) in the Remark G rum (f) Fazoldus in Ie-

20 (c) Ma> is made of the Altar of the God Boress in a Dialogue (g) of Plate, it is also said there, that it was built where it was thought that Orithys, had been stoln away. We shall make a resection (b) hereafter on this folly of the Athenians.

>
> (D) Orithya's not complaining of the coldness of such a Husband. After the Words that I have set down in the body of this Article Balzas continues in this manner (s) "Whereupon a Signier Detteres, who has been some Months in my House, to whom I have communicated some of your "Observations, desires you to consider that the Observations, desires you to consider that the Women of those Times, were more modest, and more patient than those of our Time, and that more patient than those of our Time, and that if an Orithys of these Times had Marryed such a cold Husband as the North Wind, she would have accus'd him of impotency the next Day after her Wedding, and presented a Petition for a Divorce Nevertheless the Lady of Athens did not complain to the Areopagites, she had no Advocate who alledg'd the Title de frigidis, and did not live ill with Boress.

Juri Aris-(E) Boreas was very warm in his Love Balzac may be allowed to joke on the impatiency of Modern Women, but he should not take the liberty to strengthen his observations with the praises of sée de Virgile p 106 to strengthen his observations with the praises of Orithy's patience, for that Lady had no occasion to exercise that quality. None, not Jupiter himfelf, surpast the Wind Boreas in a hot constitution ferve that Poor Europa, who was carried away by force, had no sooner cally upon him for his assistance, but lation is the retractor her Prayers; she considered that she not literal hould set nothing by the change. Here is her However it complaint, (k) in the midst of the Waves, on the back estructhat Bore for Lover, as Nonnus relates it in the 1st of hu Diothone; says mysaca. O unda, blittera, muta unda, surdaque litterat Bore tra, meas andite preces, meque huic subtrabite Tauro as fell in Tu-que, Borea, pennis me subleva tum. At verò misera, love with as fell in. Tu-que, Berea, pennis me subleva tuis. At verè misera, love with quem appellas, cujus imploras auxilium, ad quem con-Erichtho-sugus? nempe ad eum qui Nympham Orithyam rapuis, mius's qui sic essum est in venerem, ut magis nemo. And cer-Maret, and tainly what Hemer (1) says, in the twentieth Book that have of his sliad, construis these last words of Europa ing assumed Erans Erichthonio Regi Dardania Equa ter mille, qua abe shape circa paludes pascebantur. Eas ut vidit Boreas, ut of a Horse, periit, ut malus eum absulist amor. Equi speciem inhe leap'd duit, salistque seminas, & en eis suscepit pullos duodethem (that cim, currere sic paruces, ut summas aristas non laderent is some of it has been said that Orithya was very well satisfied 'em) and with her Ravisher, and that she did not sind him had twelve cruel; (†) crudelem & Boream rapta Orithya nega-Coles by as fell in . love with Coles by them Casaubon in Athen pag 254 should not have said that those Mares did belong to Dardanus Mr Hosman has committed he same error. (†) Propert eleg. 26 lib. 2.

Tho' she was Married to a cold Husband, the was foon brought to Bed of two Twins

Dum (m) volat arserunt agitati fortius ignes, Nec prius aerii cursus suppressit habenae Quam Cicenum tenuit populos & mania raptor Ilic & gelidi conjun Altaa tyranni

Et genitrix fatta est, partuque enixa gemellos His bire increased by the swiftness of his flight, and therefore it is very likely that he was not long in his Passage, and Ovid do s not represent him too patient, when he supposes that the Marriage was not confummated before they came to the where the Ravisher made his abode But others assert that he did not tarry so long before he satisfied his Love They pretend that flying over the Sea he discover'd a Plain cover'd with Flowers, that seem'd fit to serve him for a Nuptial Bed, and that he made use of it for that purpose Read what follows pose Read what follows

Hic (n) misere rorem infessat crudelus, & asper At prado, & facilis, & rapta conjuge mitu Namque per aerias Ponti dum prateritoras Vota ferens, vidit procul in convalle remota Planitiem miridi late florescere campo Admonuti locus optata cum conjuge notitis

Defilit, ac molli lacrymantem amplevus in herba, Explicuitque finus, munufque implevit amantus Illa gravus oculos ab humo vix anxia tollens Flebat, eam infolito conjux folatur honore Hus ego pro lacrymis storum, gratusque memorque, Nocturnos spargam rores, ea præmia sunto Debeat hoc raptæ pontus memor Orithyiæ Subrisit tenerumque genis suffudit bonorem Lata viri dictis, & tanto munere conjux Ille novam sensit labi per pectora stammam,

Optatos repetens somnos, mollique quiete

Lenist repetent jomos, manque quiete

Lenist accensum complexu conjugis ignem

Scilicet & Boreas calido contrarius Austro, & c

Apollonius (o) pretends that the Ravisher enjoy'd Orithya on the Bank of a (p) River of Thrace, and that he cover'd her with a Cloud You must not think that the Poets have offended against probability, when they have represented the same God very amorous and cover'd with (c) Ice. Does not very amorous and cover'd with (q) Ice Does not History tell us that Love Reigns in the most Icy Climates? In this respect all the Zones of the Earth are torrid, as I have faid (r) elsewhere Why should not Boreas be in Love, seeing Neptune in the midst of all his Waves, and Pluto in the abode of the Manes, have been likewise in Love? Why should be not feel the effects of that passion, seeing Polyphemus was struck with it in his Cave?

Omnia vincit Amor

Love conquers all, nothing can resist him He sports no less with Lions than with Sparrows, and triumphs in the Euxine Sea as well as in France Properties says

Hic Deus & terras, & maria alta domat

And Guarini su the first Scene of the first Att of his Pastor side (s) The Author whom I quote relates the whole passage of Pastor Fide, I refer my Reader thither This Spark, adds he (s) speaking of Boreas, is of a good temper The he burns with Love, yet he is familiar with Cold and Snow Sit nivibus servare sidem

And as Virgil Says,

Boreæ penetrabile frigus adurit

Genfibility in poin A proof of Boreas's sensibility in point of love may be gathered from his fury, that made him daih a Mistress to pieces against a Rock because she had prefer'd Pan before him I'll quote the same had prefer'd Pan before him I'll quote the same Remark I Author again, seeing I must criticise him in some of the Arthings (u) Orithya, says he, did well not to shew any grief for having been Ravish'd, for she had to do mite with a strange Ravisher, who might have dash'd her against some Rock, as he did the Fair Pitys, according (s) Notes to Pausanias's account (x) Hear what Achilles Bocchius fays of it in his Emblems. He fets down the visited de Verses of that Bocchius at length, you will find the Virgile p Sense of them in this passage of a Commentator upon Propertius (y) Vere amica pinus Arcadio Deo, utpote quemberea amatoristem suo, tunc quum puella (t) Id ib p 110,111

(m) Ovid. Metam ! 6 v 709

(n) Jov1anus Pon-Meteoris cap de pruma & rore fol m 113 verse

(e) Apo'-lon Argon lib

(p) Call d Ergine

(q) Nunc gelidus ficea Bo-reas bacchatur ab Arcto Ovidius eleg 2 lib 1 Tristium Thracius hos Boreas scopulos immitia regna Solus h1bet, semperque rigens nunc littora atque ubi se terris glaciali fundit ab arcto Silius Ital Cum gra-VIS armatur Boreas, glacieque minaci hispidus, & Getica concretus grandine pennas . Claud: an de raptu Proferp ! I U 70

(r) In the Remark I

(u) Id 1b pag 102 (x) 'Tis not true that Paulanias mentions if (y) Douga filius in bac werba Propertie eleg 18 lib 1 v, 20 & Arcadio Pinus amata Deo Rrrr 2

Remark C n II Same Remark n Metam + See Bal-Tac, Entretien læphatus

dialog Mercurii

upon Philoftratus ın Glaucus Ponticus par 741 742 of the 1 tome in 4 Apollo nius is the first Au-thor, who mentions this

(f) See Natalis Comes Mythol lib 8 cap 11 p m 863 864 who had it from the pert eleg

ubi fupra

 See the History I shall give The Megalopolitans  Honour'd him as their chief Deity. I speak of it in the Remarks, and likewise of the Worship which the Athenians * paid him. The circumstances of Orithya's Rape are (G) variously reported. The Anonymous Author, who Published a French Translation of † Virgil's Aristeus with Notes, in the Year 1668 has collected many things concerning the History and the qualities of that Wind, and pirricularly concerning the violence that is peculiar to it, and which the German of the German of the Coasts of the North Winds, if he would express what passes in the Channel, with the Coasts of the Netherlands. It is not the North Winds, but the North West winds, that are feared there. Those are the two Authors of Shipwareks.

Metam I will a the charge of the Netherlands are feared there. Those are the two Authors of Shipwareks. Metam I make this observation to shew that the Poets, who are too servile imitators of antip 6 circle fine tiquity, give us often some descriptions little agreable to their Country BOR.

adhuc esset, longe praferret, unde Thrax elle injuria impa-tions deprehensam forte solam spatioso campo, saxo allisti, quam inselicitor moribundam exceptam intra gremium suum tellus in arborem cognominem commutavit, cujus frondibus postes tempora pracintius semper spectatus est Arcadius Deus Qua fabula exstat apud Constantinum Geoponic XI & tangitur a Nonno in Dionys If I would say with Mr Hosman that Boreas was in Love with the & Apolli- Beautiful Hyacinthus, who was also belov'd by Annis Philostrat in ing jealousie of that Ravisher of Orithya, for eve-Hyacin- ry body knows that Apollo's rival was so mad for tho I zenot having the preference, that he kill'd Hyacintzes Chil thus, by thrusting back upon his Head the Quoit, is cap in which Apollo had thrown But Mr Hosman is milb) Scho- liast A- the Wind Boreas that did it And that Writer pollon in commits another fault in calling Orithya's Father 11 v 211 Erichtonius instead of Erechtheus

pollodorus 1 3

Children of Orithya, but as others (b) fay they were Born after their Sisters Chione, Chionia, and (i., He had Cleopatra They were in the company of the Argobeen marnauta, and did their Brother-in-law (i) Phineus veried to ry great Service, they drove away the Harpies that were very troublesome to him, for they took away (d) Exvalall the Meat that was brought upon his Table, ler I facco and if they left any thing, they infected it with an horrible stench. They persued them as far as (e) Notes the Islands Strophades, and would have destroy'd fur l'Aristed de Viergile p the Son of Pileus Celebrated, and at which all the Argonauta were present, Zethus and Calsis obAuthor them, if an unknown Voice from the Gods had not forbid them (d) In the Games that Acastus took this Pelei slius, viceium Zetes Aquilonis slius dolifrom Vigenere from Hyginus Chip 273 (e) They were lostratus kill d by Hercules. Lavy the Author of those Notes. fage is taken from Hyginus Chip 273 (e) They were kill d by Hercules, iays the Author of those Notes, in the Isle of Tenos at the Funeral of King Pelias, for having taken the part of Tiphis, Captain of the Ship Argo against Telamon, who would have them wait for Hercules, who was gone from them to fick his dear Hylas The Gods being mov'd with their Death changed them into Winds, which commonly precede the rising of the Dog Star by Eight Days, hence it is that they are call d whospers, that is, forumers Newertheless Hyginus says in his Fourteenth Chapter, that they were buried, and that their Spulchre is seen to move at the blowing of their Father We find some other Reasons (f) of Hircules's anger that made him kill them, but there is no mention made of a thing that raised his Jealousy, and which perhaps provoked him more than any thing else haps provoked him more than any thing else Propertius (g) says that those two Brothers perceiving that Hylar, the favourite of Hercules, was going by himlelf to look for a Fountain, follow'd him, and carefs'd him passionately

Callimathus (h) mentions three Daughters of Boreas, who carryed some Offerings to the life of De-Scholiast los se cally en one one lings to the ne of De-Scholiast los se calls them Oupis, I ozo and Hecaerga It is said upon Apolals also that the Rape of Orithya is not the only Ast Ionius, 16 of that kind that Boreas committed, it is pre-tended that he carried away Chloris the Daughter pert eleg of Arthurus, and that he had a Daughter by her pert eleg of Arsturus, and that he had a Daughter by her 20 hb 1 (1) Memoria proditum est à Cleanthe in primo libro de (h) Callimoribus, Boream rapuisse Chlorim quoque Arcturi siliam, mach aique illam in collem Niphatem asportasse, qui p sea hymn in Thorus Borea vocatus suit, antequam diceretur Caucasus, Delum de qua siliam susceps: Hyrpacem v 202 (G) The circumstances of Orithya's Rape were various—(1) Nata-ly reported Some 124 that she was on the Bank lis Comes of the River Ilissus when the was carried away ubissure

It is the opinion (k) of Apollonius, (k) Pausanias, (l) Notes and Dionysius Persegetes "(l) Thetres follows this fur l'Arisis opinion in his Chiliades Yet Cherilus says that see de Pirit was on the Banks of the Fountain Cephissus, gile pag "and Simonides near the River Brilissus, The Autor who speaks thus, took what he says from Natalis Comes He should have observed that the Original Superior Struckers and Sup Natulis Comes. He should have observed that the Original does not say that Briliss was a River There lis Comes, are only these words in it (m) Simonides tamen up supera Poèta non ab Ilisso, sed à Brilisso raptam fusse Corthyam putavit This is takend from the Scholinss upon Apollonius These are his Words (n) who we well busin simundate was fightures while upwayatoms, and with liast Asagned when without the Sydness toughthus Orithyiam were Pollon in Simonides air raptam à Brilisso in Sarpedoniam Petram lib 1 © Thracia allatam esse It is very likely that his Brilissus is the Mountain Brilessus mention'd by (*) Thucydides, (p) Strabo, and (q) Pliny, and which was cyd. lib 2 in Attica 'Tis the same Scholiass who informs us of Charilus's opinion (r) xolydo o, says he asmalinai onch auris and aphilyman uno tat the lib 9 pag agradinal anch author dien apidynean one tat the naously wayat Charilus vero diest rapsom faiss ellem colligentem stores ad sontes Cephiss. By these last Words might be understood the Spring of the Raver Cephiss near Liles (1) in Phoese, but it is better to understand them of a particular Found is a call'd Cephiss (2) near Athens. We have yet faid all that concerns the different actual of Authors concerning the place where the Rass a tradition that Orithys was carried away from the Areopagus. "Het Apin ways Myssas ya's all is sonthe rapsom insides an un bosed nymada. Volsa Areopago Est enim of alia suma non en hoc locosed en illo rapsom fuise. He had just before touched upon the most general transform, viz that slissus was son lib so must not take for a new opinion what Mr. Gaillet says (2), that Boreas stole away Orithys in that part of Athens call'd Agra or Agrae, and that it was the sirst time that the Goddels Diana mome a Hunting. The Altar of Boreas, and the Temple of Diana Agrae stood there on the Banks of the slissus This may be inserted from two passages compared together, one of (x) Plate, and the other of (y) Plate together, one of (x) Plate, and the other of (y)

Plate owen mayne Charilus vero diest raptam faiffe ollam

There are some different Reports concerning Orithya's Love Some say in general (2) that she was diverting her self, others that the was plucking of Flowers was going over the lliffs; a dancing, others that the unfinuates the latter opinion we find the fourth in express we have the fo that (as) fhe bulat the was ies of Apollonius

B Kariñ (cc) Sonnie d'ageleche, les agu en po

Ognino. Begine d'opeque o noncominder,

1 dessu magnidande non un d'accesse

In unique sutempesta Thracia, que issam Thracia: muile rejecerat e Georgea, Thradian Mullo rejectrat a Universe,

Cam se proper lissum in chore circumagebor,

I only quote this passage to show the rashness of Philostratus He supposes that his Hose consturing (as) Apolthe Athenians told them, that is Orthyas had dane'd, led his showed not have inspired any Love That passage of fage of Philostratus is curious enough to describe that I should feet down the Larin Translation of it substitution of the same face analysis. that I should set down the Latin Translation of it up i up a (dd) Operes ventos venerari, praservam assa sees vegation, 1210 sint, & pro vebes maxime spirent, neque Borean and (cc) Avestrum, qui maxime ventrum emium massadalla vegationus faminum facere deces, neque enim tose Boreas Organization up i upra amosses, seem visisses tripudiantem arous Thomas, seem visisses tripudiantem arous tr

(dd) Philoftr in wim Apellonia lib. 4 ? # 167

(k) Panfa mias lib i PAG 17

(m) Nata-lisComes,

lib 9 pag

This may be inferr'd from two passages compared together, one of (x) Plate, and the other of (y) (w) Plate in Phedro pog (w) Guil-let, Athones ante-buvelle 10. 264 (w) Plato,

BORRHAUS (Marim) Professor in Divinity at Basil, was siest known by the "Konig, Name of Cellarius. He was born at Stutgard in the Dutchy of Wirtemberg in the Year 1499, and was a & Disciple of Capnio He took his Degree of Matter in Philosophy r at Hadelberg, and going afterwards to Wittemberg, no acquaintance at Tubingen Friendship there r, with whom he had already had some acquaintance at Tubingen Wanting neither Wit nor Learning, he found many Scholars to instruct, whereby he r at Heidelberg, and going afterwards to Wittemberg, he acquir'd Melanchibon's got a great deal of Money He was admitted to that Employment by Melanchibon's progressive endation He suffer a similar to be miserably seduc'd by Stubner, one of the Anabapt ounders of Anabaptism, and used his utmost endeavours to establish that Sect a he had a Conference with (Y) Luther in the Year 1522 wherein he shewed a great deal of Fanaticism Being gone into Prussia in the Year 1525 he was imprison'd beeck there by the Prince's Order, and did not forbear writing many Books to support his fumma Control of But when he saw that his Sect receiv'd great checks daily, and that the hopes they had given of the renewing offill things proved falle, he was converted, and rutired to Basil in the Year 1536 + He did not only leave off Anibaptism, but also the name of Cellarius, and took upon him the name of Borrhaus. He mairied, and apply'd himself sometime to a Trade for a livelihood † At last he was admitted into rar in vi-

(a) Artus Thomas Sieur d Embri in his Annoen Apollonius's Sated into I rench by Vigenere PAR BOI

(b) Q Zo-

Lav, Sahar, Emper and

Solo, Solo,

Græci pu

eri fempereftis .

obis eft

animus

Plato in

Timeo pag m, 1043

(4) Quis

Volusi

(d) Apud Gracos designu-Dio-

STORY.

Plin in

prefet P # 10 (e) Plate in Phadro

PÉGI ICE (simeir) שבר לייצמי

 \mathbf{O}

polition that is between the discourse of Apollo us the Poet, and the Discourse of Appellmius the Philosopher It had been more reputable for him to observe the Impertinences of the latter, than (a) to tell us, Ist That some make Boreas the Son of Astreus, and others say that he was a Thracian 2 That Simonides calls Brilliss a River near which Orithya was ravished There are two Faults in these Words, for to be the Son of Astreus and to be of Thrace are not two contrary things, and Simonides does not iay that Brilliffus was a River It would be to no purpose to say, that Apollonius had been to blame, if having a mind to reform the Athenians, he had refuted the Stories which they related of Bereas, I say such a Reason ought not to be alledg'd, feeing there was a Medium between refuting ridiculous Traditions, and supposing them to be true He should not have mention'd them, a Philipsopher, who was perfwaded that a Refuers, should have faid nothing of them But what a disorder is this! The Athenians so Ingenious, so polite, fo knowing, fuffer themselves to be per-iwaded that the Daughter of one of their Kings fwaded that the Daughter of one of their Kings made a Wind in love with her, that the lay with him, that the conceiv'd by him, that that Marriage occasion'd an Alliance between them and that Wind, and that this Ally prov'd very serviceable to them, when they amplor'd his assistance in the War against the Persuar They were so persuaded of all these things, that they confirm'd them by publick Decrees, by rerecting an Altar, and the celebration of an Anniversary I make this Carvation, lest any one should object to me, that crvation, left any one should object to me, that Pape of Orithya was look'd upon at Athens as a meetical Fishion, and a witry Conceit Such an Objection would be very false All that I have faud concerning the Wind Boreas, was an Article of Faith among the Athenians I am apt to believe, that at first it was only a Poetical fancy sung in the corners of the Streets, but at length it became part of the Publick Religion The same ought to part of the Publick Religion The same ought to be said of the parts of the Pagan Religion, and we may be pon this occasion a notable Mahometism and Paganism unded Mahometism, it was his volusi Bithynice, qualia
de anens

Resident their Fictions, and who invented them

Resident their Fictions, and who invented them

them, hanga feria ducent in male. Those

them, hanga feria ducent in male. Those column them were never disbelieved. It is in this respect that the Egypsians might have said to the Greeks might yet better (c) reproach them with the same

(d) Apud

Gracos

volumn was form'd out of the with them

them, hanga feria ducent in male. Those column them, hanga feria ducent in male. Those

that the Egypsians might have said to the Greeks

might yet better (c) reproach them with the same thing in that respect. And indeed we don't find any Author among them, that deserves the civility any Author among them, that deserves the civility that a Roman shewed to Diederus Siculus, of whom he faid, (d) that he was the first among the Greeks that left off fooling of Philofiratus, should have informed us of the op-not pretend that all the Athenians were so facilities as to behave rhose idle Stories. I remember answer that Plate put in the Mouth of Semiles, who was ask'd whether he believ'd that the Tradition of the Rape of Orithya was true (e) and the orie and, I Educate it of the in the particular midy dante some feel dies per Jovem Secretes, tune hanc facilities for field dies per Jovem Secretes, tune hanc facilities per field dies per forces.

bulan putas veram fuiffe? If (f) I should believe with Wise Men, answer'd he, that it is false, I should not be an absurd Man It appears by these words on the one side that the most knowing Perfons judg'd rightly of it, and on the other that they explain'd their Thoughts cautiously upon that Subject in a Publick Work However it be, a great many Athenians, Men of Parts of and great Senic in all other things, and much more capable to deceive others than to be deceived, believ'd honeftly what was told them of Boreas and Orithya This is a mitter of Wonder, and it affords a good Moral Re-flection about the weakness of Humane Understanding Let us judge of the Ancients by the Moderns In Rome where there is so much Wit, and so much Prudence, they commonly believe most of the Traditions upon which the Worship of some particular Chappels is grounded Some few thinking Men give no credit to them must argue in this manner as to ancient Greece

(7) He had a Conference with Luther] The fift fary of Anabaptism broke out at Zwiccow, where Nicolas Storch, Mark Soubner, and Thomas Munzer, iet up for Prophets, and boafted to have many Convertations with God They drew a great number of hearers after them, for they promis d the new reign of the Messiah would soon appear All this while Luther lay conceal'd, but he was inform'd of the great fir of those Fanaticks, and of the Progress they made at Wittenberg, where they had also stagger d Melanchthon (g) As for our Cellarius, they gaind him intirely, and he became as zealous as any of their (b) Non paucos in suam sententiam perducebat, (Marcus Stubarrus) nerus) quorum caput fuit Martinus Cellarius, qui istis pertinacissime diu sane adhasit, & causam hanc egit atque desendit Luther leaving his reticat came to Wittemberg in the Month of March 1522, and stop d the progress of those Men by his Sermons Nay, their Disciples heard him with great Veneration, but as foon as Stubner, who was gone from Wittemberg about fome business, came back again, they adher'd to him as before, and incourag'd him to maintain his Opinions (1) Cellarius exhorted him chiefly to it Stubner desir'd a Conference with Luther, and finally a Day was appointed for ıt He came to the Assignation accompanied with Gellarius and another, and Luther had only Melanchih n with him You shall see in the Latin Passage which I set down, that Cellarius shewed more Passion than Stubner, and how those Fanaticks left Wistemberg the fame day to retire to Chemberg, from whence they with a Letter full of Curfes to Luther (k) Audivit Lutherus placide narrantem Marcum Jua Cum dicenai finem fecisset, nihil contra illa adio abjurda & suti-lia disferendum ratus Lutherus, hoc modo monuit, viderent quid agerent Nibil coium qua commemorassent, sacris literis niti, commentaque se cogitationum curiosarum, aut etiam fallacis & fraudulente sprittus deli-ras & perniciosas subjectiones Ibi Cellarius & voce & gestibus vesan s, cum & solum pedibus & propostam mensulam manibus feriret, exclamare & indiguari, ausum esse Luterum suspicari tale aliquid de divino bomine At Marcus paulo sedatior, ut scias, inquit, Lutere, (k) Id ib me spritu Dei preditum este, ego, quid m animo suo pag 51,52 conceperis, sum indicaturus, idque est. Le incipere inclinari ad hec ut meam dostrinam veram esse credas Cum Luterus, ut spse postea divit, isem dedita opera sententiam cogitando esset complexus. Increpet te

& Frider Spanhe-

Controverf p m

Cameta Methe lunchthonispig m > dem ibid P 47, 48

* Id pag

+ Hoornbeeck, ubi lupra See alla iaiius ubi

† Victus cauf fenestrario opificio quando iddixie Hoornb 16

(f) AM es amgothy TO COL BX AP a 101 3 en lam it non Putarem ut fapientes, abfurdus non essem 1d 1bid

> ckendort Histor Lutheran lib I pag

(b) Camerarius in vita Melanchthon p m 47 omnibus maxime tissimeM Collarius Id .b p 50

(k) Id 1b the number of the Professors of the University, he taught Rhetorick first, and afterwards Divinity He wrote some (Z) Books, and died of the Plague at Basil in the

Year 1564 $\dpsi$ BORRI (Joseph Francis) in Latin Burrbus, a famous Chymist, Quack, and Heretick in the XVIIth Century, was a Milanese * He finished his Studies in the SemarkH minary (AD) of Rome, where the Jesuits admir'd him as a Prodigy for his Memory and Capacity He applied himself afterwards to the Court of Rome, which did not hinder him from making several Chymical Discoveries He plung'd himself into the worst fort of Debaucheries, and in the Year 1654. he found himself obligid to take refuge in a Church A little while after he pretended to be a Devout Man, and spread (A) some whimsical Notions clandestinely. He communicated to his Considents the Revelations which he boasted of but when he saw after the Death of Innocent X that the new Pope Alexander VII renewed the Tribunals, and ordered that more care should be taken of every thing, he did not hope to have time enough to encrease the number of his Followers, as much as his design requir'd, and therefore heleft Rome and return'd to Milan He set up there for a devout Man, by which means he was esteem'd by several People, whom he caus'd to perform some pious Exercises, which had a great appearance of a Spiritual Life He engag'd the Members of his new Congregation, to take an Oath of Secrecy to him, and when he saw them confirm'd in the belief of his extraordinary Mission, he dectated some Vows to them by the Suggestion of his Angel, as he pretended One of those Vows was that of Poverty, for the performance whereof he caused all the Money that eve-Was that of Poverty, for the periodinance whether he can be a superiodically and the Reign of the Most High, the Reign of the Kingdom of God It was to be fpario di the Reign of the Most High, the Reign of one sole Flock β, as that new Sect call'd poch and it Borri was to be the Captain General of the Troops that were to bring all the resulting the superiodical and appropriate manner by Market I was to be a sected an a particular manner by Market I was to be a sected and a particular manner by Market poch anni col suo maginario Reign of the Captain General of the Troops that were to bring an it Borrs was to be the Captain General of the Troops that were to bring an in col suo maginario Regno the Arch-Angel, he had already received a Sword from Heaven, on the Handle of dell' Al- which appear d the Image of the Seven Intelligences, and the Pope himself was to be tissimo de kill'd, if he had not the requisite mark on his Forehead. I omit the particulars > of all suo so- the Wiscons to say something of the new Doctrines of Cavalier Borrs. He taught il fuo folo Ovile lita del lo Gavagl
ly Ghost incirnate, for he said that she was born of Saint Anne as JESUS CHRIST

Borri pag was born of her He call'd her the only Daughter of God, conceiv'd by inspiration, and caus'd this to be added to the Mass when the Priests his Sectaries celebrated the fame He said that as to her Humanity she was present at the Sacrament of the Eucharist, and alledg'd certain Passages of the Scripture to maintain his Doctrine He dictated also a Treatise on his System (B) to his Followers I have said already, that he boasted of having a great share in heavenly Revelations and it was by that means he had learnt that St. Paul had communicated the same Power to him that God

y See the Remarks

Remark B at the end

(a)Præter logica &

mathematica libris aliquot commentariis in Vetus Teftamentum fe Ecclefix Dei commendavit

Deus Satana Post hac plus verborum faciendum Luterus non putavit, & minantes gloriantesque eos dimisit, ac nescio quid pollicentes de mirabilibus effectionibus, quibus probaturi sua essent, cum hoc modo dixisse Is Deus quem ego veneror & colo facile vestra numina, ne quid tale efficiatur, coërcebit, eo die oppido illi excesserunt. & Chembergo distante passibus amplius millibus quinque literas plenas maledictis & execrationibus ad Lutherum miserunt

nibus ad Lutherum miserunt

(Z) He wrote some Books] He published some Notes on Aristotle's Politicks in the Year 1545. A Commentary on the said Aristotle's Rhetorick in the Year 1551. A Commentary on the Pentateuch in the Year 1551. One upon Isaid and the Revelations in the Year 1561. One on Job and Ecclesiastes in the Year 1564. I have not seen what he writ (a) about Logick and the Mathematicks, nor his Commentary (b), on the Book of Judges, and on the Book of Kings. Konig (c) ascribes to him a Philosophical Work divided into three Books, and entitled de censura veri or fals.

and entitled de censura ver de falsi

(AA) He finished his Studies in the Seminary of Rome] The Author of his Life has omitted a Rome J The Author of his Life has omitted a Circumstance, which deserves to be related I shall give it in the Terms of a Memorial which came to my hands from Mr Bandrand the Geographer "Born being in the Seminary of the Jesuits, rais'd a Sedition against them, and shut himself up "with others for three days, so that they were forced to send for the Barigel or Grand Provoss "with his Officers to bring Born and the other "Scholars to Reason In the Year 1653 He was "Secretary to the Marquis Mirogli Resident of the "Arch-Duke of Inspruck at Rome, where I saw " Arch-Duke of Inspruck at Rome, where I saw "him then, as also in 1654 but there was no talk
"of his Heresies, and in the Year 1655 he went "to Inspruck, and afterwards to Milan" These things don't well agree with Berris Printed

Affecting to shew a great Zeal, He lamented the corruption of Manners that prevailed at Rome, faying that the Distemper was come to the height, and that the time of recovery drew near A happy time, wherein there would be but one Sheepfold on the Earth, whereof the Pope was to be the one ly Shepherd Whosoever shall refuse, said he, to on the Earth, whereof the Pope was to be the one ly Shepherd Whofoever shall refuse, said he, to enter into that Sheepfold, shall be destroy'd by the Pope's Armies, God has predestinated me to be the General of those Armies, I am sure that they shall want nothing, I shall quickly sinish my Chymical Labours by the happy Production of the Philosophers Stone, and by that means I shall have as much Gold as is necessary for the Business I am sure of the assistance of the Angels, and particularly of that of Michael the Achangel When I began to walk in the Spiritual Life, I had a Vision in the Night attended with an Angelsail Voice which assured me that I should become a life the Sign that was given me for it was a Palm that seem'd to me quite surrounded (d) with the Light of Paradise He boasted that St Michael the Archangel apparisce had taken Post in his heart, and that whole Bands una palof Angels reveal'd to him the Secrets of Heaven, ma cirand what past in the Conclave of Alexander VII only mention a small part of his Chimerical Notions, which are sufficient to make one judge of torno, daths rest. tions, which are sufficient to make one judge of torno, da

(B) He dedicated a Treatise on his System to his Fel- radisali lowers] He took it from them when he begun to Vita del understand that the Inquisition had heard some- Gavaglio thing of their Nocturnal Assemblies, and hid all his Borri pag. Papers in a Nunnery From thence they fell into 342 the hands of the Inquisition they contained very extravagant Doctrins, as, That the Sen of Ged three an Ambitious Principle, and to become equal to his Familiary. of his Heresies, and in the Year 1655 he went to Inspruck, and afterwards to Milan" These there, mov'd him to create Beings, that Luciser's fall proceeded from resulting to adore JESUS CHRIST and the Holy Virgin in idea That the Angels, who adhere (A) Spread some whimsical Notions clandestinely] her'd to Luciser, not thre' deliberation, but only out of desire,

Gavagliche

Anabapt (b) Hoornbeeck lumm Controv pag 356 makes mention of it (c) Konig, 1mBiblioth vet & no-VA PAG 126

Spanhemi-

su de orig & progr

conferr'd on that Apostle to censure St Peter's conduct He boasted that he could communicate the Gift of Illumination to others for the understanding of Mysteries, and made use of the Imposition of hands, beseeching the Trinity to receive the Novice into the * Religion of the Evangelical Nationals His design was, if he could get a sufficient number of Followers, to appear in the great place of Milan, to represent cloquently the Abuses of the Ecclesiastical and Secular Government, to incourage the rail capo People to Liberty, and to possess himself of the City and Country of Milan, and then invocando la fanpursue his Conquests as well as he could But all his designs miscarried by the imprisonmencos some of his Disciples, and as soon as he perceived that first step of the inquisition, he fied with all the haste he could, and took care not to appear at the Summides of that formidable Tribunal He was condemn d as an Heretick in 1659 and 2660 and burnt in Effigie at Rome (C) with his Writings, by the hands of the tarli nella Executioner the 3d of January 1661 He stand some time in the City of Strasburg, relig where he found some support and assistance, as being persecuted by the Inquisition, and de N also as being a great Chymist, but he wanted a larger Stage. He look'd for it in Vangeliunder the Year 1661. and found it at Amsterdam. He made great noise there, the look'd for it in Vangeliunder the Year 1661. The Year 1661 is the stage of the st People flockt to him as to the universal Physician of all Discuses, he appear'd there in 361 a stately Equipage, and took upon him the Title of Lxcellency, they talk'd of Marrying him to the greatest Fortunes, &c The chance turn'd, his Reputation began Cominto sink, either || because his Miracles sound no longer any Ciedit, or because his Ciando à Faith could work no more Miracles In short he broke, and sled one Night from Amsterdam with many Jewels and many Summs of Money that he had pissered the field alla sua support to Hamburg Where Observe Williams with the part have the field alla sua support to Hamburg Where Observe Williams with the part have the field alla sua support to Hamburg Williams with the part have the field alla sua support to Hamburg Williams with the part have the field alla sua support to the field all support to the field all support to the field all support to the field alla sua support to the field all support to the field alla support to the field alla support to the field all su went to Hamburg where Queen Christina was at that time, he put himself under her fede, d la Protection, and perswaded her to venture a great deal of Meney in order to find our fede a fuoi mithe Philosophers Stone, which came to nothing Afterwards he went to (oppenbagen, and inspired his Danish Majesty with a strong desire to search for the same Secret By that means he acquired that Prince's savour so far as to become very odious to all the great Persons of the Kingdom Immediately after that King's death, whom he had suggled displayed to the secret search for so, of being imprisond that and property of the secret search search for so, of being imprisond that and property of the secret search sea put upon great Expences in vain, he left Denmark for fe ii of being imprison d, † and notte carefolv d to go into Turkey Being come to the Frontiers at a time which the Conspirite di racy of Nadasti, Serini, and Frangipani was discoverd, he wis taken at Goldingen for one of the Accomplices, wherefore the Lord of the place invited him to Lodge at his la somma House, and secur'd his Person, and understanding that his Prisoner's Name was Joseph di più di Francis Borri, he sent that Name to his Imperial Majesty, to see if that Man was one dodeci of the Conspirators The Pope's Nuncio had audience of the Emperor at the same mila dop-time when the Count of Goldingen's Letter was brought As soon as he heard the Name of Borrs, he demanded that Prisoner to be delivered to him in the Pope's Name + Borri's The Emperor having consented to it, Ordered that Borrs should be sent to Vienna, and Journey to obtain'd a promise from the Pope that he should not be put to death, and sent him the Court to Rome, where he was condemn'd (D) to remain all his lifetime in the Prisons of the har been desire, remain in the Air That God made as e of the ministry of the rebellious Angels for the Creation of the Elements and Animals That the Souls of Beasts are a Production, or rather an emanation of the substance of the Wicked and that is the reason why they are mortal the boly Virgin proceeded condessed from the Bosom the Divine Nature, and that otherwise she could not of the Divine Nature, and that otherwise she could not nave been the Spouse of the Holy Ghost, because of the disproportion of Natures (a) I have said in the Body of this Article, that he call'd her the only Daughter or God I shall now quote my Author (b) Chiamava la Veigne, Sagratisma Dan, ad unispirata siglia dell' Altissim, e da que Sagradas said said secochi sieguaci faceva aggingnere al Canada said Masse le parole UNINSPIRATA FILLA

The same thought, which many

(2) The same thought, which many ascribed to Henry Stephens, 18 likewise to him, viz that he never was so cold as the best of the fame of t

And the was burnt at Rome It is faid that the province is muous che is sue efficie era abbruccinta, e si issaic intendere, che uon aveva mai avunta santo fredio quanto quel giorno, ali imitazione di Marci Antonio de Dominis, che disso instanzione di Marci Antonio de Dominis, che disso is sessione (D) He was Condenn'd to remain all his Lise-time in the Prisons of the Inquisition. The Reader will be glad to find here more at large, what I have zouch'd upon in general, concerning the Punishment that was inslicted on the Cavalier Borri. (d) On the last Sanday of the Month of Ostober. 2672 he was condemn'd to make an Abjuration of his Errors in the Church della Minerva, for which end, he was brought upon a Scassold that was rais'd on purpose for him, where one of his Adversaries, who was a Priest, read the Tryal aloud, with his Consession and Abjuration The Sentence was pronounc'd by the holy Office, he was upon his Knees, with a

Torch in his Hands, whilft his Abjuration was reading, which being done, he arose, and thank d the Sacred College for the Mildness wherewith he had been treated, in not inflicting a greater Punishment upon him, which he confeis'd he deserv'd This was done in the Presence of a vast Crowd of People, who were curious to see such a famous Man, and such a solution and extraordinary Action He was surjounded with a great many Archers and Officiality. lemn and extraordinary Action. He was jur-jounded with a great many Archers, and Offi-cers of the Holy Office. Many Prelates were also present these with the Sacred College, and lemn and extraordinary Action faid Borrs, seeing so many Archers, and other Men of the same Profession about him, fell twice into a Swoon The Ceremony being over, he was fent back into Prison, from whence he was carry d to Loretto, as being too pernicious a Man in Christendom, with express Orders to make him tay the Creed every Day, and the Penitential Pfalms once every Week He (b) was also order'd by his Sentence, to receive the Sacrament once every Day, when he should come to Loretto (c) Before he came out of the Prisons of the Inquisition, he was visited (f) Ibid by several Men and Women, and also by some pag 465 Princes and Princesles, Knights, and other Persons of Quality When he came out of the Prison, they made him pass through a Troop of the Pope's Lanciers, that made a Lane He mounted on the Scaffold with his Hands bound, between which, there was a burning Wax-Taper, and he continu'd kneeling all the while his Sentence was reading, by which, he was Condemn'd to a perpetual Imprionment, for having been (their are the very Words of the Sentence) an Inventer of a new Herefy, and for a Penance, to wear the Habit of the Inquisition all his Life-time, with a Red-cross on the Stomach, and one on his Back He was "aftonish-loro tutte due le do la santıffima

Inqui- forgotten in the Book. Article is extracted Acta Eruditorum 1688 pag

He (b) (e) Ibid

cure Hollandors of the Year 1672 PAG

(a) Vita Tiere Borri pag 554 & follow

(6) Ibid

PAE 351

(e) Ibid.

* Tak n Book Intituled. Breve rela-410ne del-la vita la vita del Cavagliere Gioleppe Francesco Borri Milanesc, Printed at Geneva, (the litle fays, in Colonia appo Pietro del Martello) with ano-

tise Intitu-netto del Cavaglicre Giolep-

thor of his Life Sis nothing of that, he says that

Botti was Condemned for refujing to appear, and that be fled from

Milan, as foon as he knew that he was difcovered (b) Vita del Civa-gl Bor-

ri, p 379 (c) Tl at 15,

in 1679,

(d) Stam-

tera di refitune

nd un ci-cone per mondo

Vita del

He could

Curc for 6

Lyes wery

well, see

(a)Merck linus in

Lindenio

renovito,

st h word

I rancii-

cus loic-phus Burrhus II.

the Remark I

Cro Borii, P3g 370

pe I ran-

delco Born (a)Th Au-

led, la Chiave del Gabi-Inquisition, and to make an Amende bonorable Some Years after, he obtain'd leave to come out, in order to cure the Duke d' Eftree, whom all the Physicians had given over for lost, and he cur'd him Which caus'd a faying, That an Arch-heretick had done a (1) great Miracle in Rome The Duke obtain'd that his Prison should be changed, and that he should be sent to the Castle of St Angelo There was a Report fince that time, that he was (F) permitted to go Abroad twice a Week, and to walk in the City with Guards * Some Pieces (G) were printed at Geneva, that are afcribed to him. We shall see in the Remarks what Sorbiere (H) thought of that Min. It will be a pretty curious Supplement to this Article. You'll see like-

" aftonish'd to hear of a perpetual Imprisonment,
" but the Inquisitors comforted him with this Reafon, That if that expedient had not been found, they would certainly have taken away his Life, and that they had done him that favour, because he had made an Abjuration of his Eriors thirteen Years before (a), which he ratify'd to the Inquisitors Casanasta and Pozzobonelli Where-"upon, the Pope hearing of the Confirmation of that Abjuration, was to well-pleas'd, that he gave a plenary Indulgence of all Sins to all "those that were present there, for that Cere- mony lasted above five Hours" Mr Baudrand ther Trea- " informs us, ist I hat 'tis not true that our Borri, was ient to I oretto after his Abjuration 2dly, That the Inquittion could not put him to Death, he was not a Relapse, and that he made an Abjurition of his Errors at the Minerva, before the Cuidinals of the Congregation of the Holy Office

(E) Had done a great Meracle] The Phylicians had given over a fick Person, he was therefore look d upon as a dead Min, and his recovery was accounted a kind of a Returnection (b) Sendo co-fa strana che un Erestaria abbia fato un miraclo di resussitar un morto, come veniva creduto da'

medici

(F) That he was permitted to go abroad twice a Wiek! I have it from very good Hinds, that the Queen of Swedin fent for him fometimes in a Coach, but that after the Death of that Princess he went no more abloid, and that none could speak with him without leave from the Pope I hive been affur'd, that he pretended not to be a Prisoner in the Castle of St Angelo, and to be lodg d there, as in a large Palace, to apply himself to Study, and Chymical Operations, and that he neglected some opportunities of making his

NOTE, That Mr Masclare having read what I have just now fud, intoim d nie, that (c) when he was at Rome, he law the Cavalier B rrs feveral times, and that he knows very well that that Prisoner could come no lower than a certain Door that is in the middle of the Stairs of the Dungeon of the Castle of St Angelo, so far he waited upon those who came to see him, that he had a prest, good Apartment, that consisted of three Rooms and pò la leta Laboratory, that none could be admitted to see him without a Note from Cardinal Cibo, and that he look d villo che upon that Cafti as a true Prison, from which he did not correpci aespair but that the Duke d'I free would deliver him The difference of these Relations may be reconciled by Distingue tempora, and those that know the Character of our Born, may eatily ice, that after having obtain d permission to go absord iometimes, he might perhaps boost, that he was no longer a Prifoner

(G) Some Picces that are ascribd to him] They may be all reduced to some Letters about Chymistry, and to Political Reslections The first of those Works is Intituled, La chiave del Gabinet-The first to del Cavagliere Ginjeppe Francesco Borri Milanese contains ten Letters, whereof the two first dated from Coppenhagen in the Year 1666 are only the substance of the Book Intituled, le Comte de Gaballis, which the Abbot de Villars publish'd in the Year 167. Let the Curious examine which of those two Pieces ought to pals for the Original The other I etters run upon fome Chymical Questions, except the litter, wherein the Author maintains Different's Opinion concerning the Souls of Beast's the Title of the other Treatile is, Istrazioni politiche Journal del Crongliere Geofepe Tranteste Borri Milanese date al re des Sades Savans of the With a pretty long Commentary Borri sLife informs us, that when he was at Straiburg, he publish described a Letter (d) that went all over the World The speak of these two his Letters printed at Coppenhagen in the Year 1669

and inscrib'd to Bartholinus, one of them de ortu cerebri, & usu medico, the other, de artissicio oculorum humores restituendi Konig ascribes another Piece to bumores restituends Konig ascribes another Piece to him Intituled, Notitia Gentis Burrhorum

(H) What Sorbiere thought of that Man] " (f)

I must tell you something about the famous Ca"valier Borrs, whom I have seen at Amsterdam,
"this last time that I have been there You have a mind to know how it came to pass that he made so great a noise at Paris that some Persons of Quality caus'd themselves to be carry'd into Holland in Litters to be cur'd by that Quack, and that some Ingenious Persons were there on restricts to see some fons went thither on purpole to fee so great a Man I can only say to this, Sir, that it is as true now, as it was formerly, that our poor Huminity might be defin'd by the inclination to Lying, and by Credulity, Homo est animal credulum & mendax, Man is a credulous and lying Animal, Φιλολμερι ζών I hose that can so easily believe the Stories that are told of those Workers of Miracles, such as Borri was taken to be, before the World was undeceived, did not rail without doubt in their Infancy to liften attentively to the I ales of a Tub, which denotes a good Nature, and a very tractable Wir I could make several and a very tractable Wit I could make several Resections upon this Some People (g) after they have laugh'd at Physicians, on a sudden give an intire Credit to the promises of a Quack, and suffer themselves to be bubbled by his new Method, tho' he only sells the same Wares I He, whom I am going to describe to you, is a tall black young Man, pretty well shaped, that wears good Cloaths, and spende pretty high, tho not so much as is imagin'd, for eight or ten Thousand Livres may go a great way at Amsterdam But a House of sisteen thousand Crowns bought in a good Place, sive or six soot-mes, a Suit after the French Fig. five or fix Foot-mea, a Suit after the French Fighton, fome Collations to the Ladies, the refusing of iome Mony, five or fix Rix-dollars distributed to the Poor in a proper time, some arrogant Words, and such like Arts, made some Condulors Persons for our publishment of the Condulors Persons for the Arts, and the Condulors Persons for the Arts, and the Condulors Persons for the Conduction of the Conductio Credulous Perions iay, or some who could have wish'd that it had been true, that he gave Handsuls of Diamonds, that he had found the Philolopher's Stone, and that he had an Univerfal Remedy The truth of it is, that the Sieur Borri is a cunning Blade, the Son of an able (b) Physician of Milan, who left him an Estate, but he has added to it, what he has got by the Industry that I am going to speak of As he wants no Wit, and has some Learning, he prevaild with some Princes to supply him with Mony in hopes that he would communicate to them the Philosopher's Stone which he was ready to find out He has without the same skill, or some Practice in Chymical Preparations, some knowledge in Metals, some imitation of Pearls and Jewels, and it may be, some purgative or stomachical Remedies, that are commonly very general By this Lure, he Borri is a cunning Blade, the Son of an able (b) are commonly very general By this Lure, he has infinuated himself into the Minds of those, whom he stood in need of, and some Merchants, as well as some Princes, have fallen into the Trap Witness a Promise of two hundred thousand Livreswhich he had made to one Demers, who had supply d his Expences, and for which, the Heirs of that Merchant are at Law with this Spagyrick Doctor, for the Spark has worded it in such an odd manner, that one does not know what to make of it. That Cheat to come into Credit, and to make himfelf talk'd of, "fet up at first for an Hereinarch He had heard say, that Physicians were suipected of want of Faith, wherefore he pretended to believe more than was required, and striving as it were to pay a greater Honour to the Holy Virgin, than what the Church preicribes, he began to say, That she

(f) Sorbiere, Re-Angleterre, P m 155

(g) Ibid

(b) The Author of does not Say that he was the Son of a Phyfician, mates the contrary Nacque ın Mılano, he ∫øys, figluo del Signor Branda Borri, di antica della citta di Miadds. that the Cavaher Borri boafts of being de from Burrus, Ne 10's Ge-VETROUT wife what Moncons (I) fays of him Mr Frischman, the French Relident at Strasburg, writ a Piece, (K) that deserves to be read, concerning Borrs. The Supplement (L) to Dr Burner's Travels, is not exact on this Subject. The Dutch Gazette of Utretchs of the 9th of September 1695 inform'd the Publick, that Borrs was lately dead in the Castle of St Angelo being 79 Years old BORRICHIUS (Olaus) One of the most Learned Men of his Age, was the Son of a Lutheran Minister in the Diocess of Ripen in Denmark, and was born the 7th Son of a Lutheran Minister in the Diocels of Ripen in Denmark, and was born the 7th 40f April 1626. He was sent to the University of Coppenbagen in the Year 1644, where he apply'd himself six Years to several sorts of Study, but chiefly to Physick. He taught a Class in the College of Coppenbagen, and acquitted himself very well of that Function, for he was indefatigable, and a very sober Man. He got by that means, the esteem of Gaspar Brochman, Bishop of Sealand, and that of the Chancellor of the Kingdom, and by their Recommendation, he obtain'd a Canonship at Lunden. He refus'd the Rectosship of the Illustrions School of Herlow, that was offer'd him by Mr de Rosecrantz after he had taught that Class of Coppenbagen sour Years, I say, he refus'd it, because he thought it would prove an obstacle to his design of Travelling, and Beedy'd perfecting himself in Physick. He began to practice it in the time of a dismal Plague, since Borpersecting himselt in Physick He began to practise it in the time of a dismal Plague, since Borthat destroy'd a great many People in the chief City of the Kingdom The Contagion being over, he spent a Year in teaching his Class, and then he made himself ready for his Travels But he was oblig'd to put off his Design to another time, for (f) Ibid Mi Gerstorff chief Minister of State would have him in his House to be Tutor pag 178 to his Children He was there five Years, and afterwards he satisfied his in- (g) Deck-clination to Travel, but before he set out, he had the advantage of being design'd Prosessor of Philology, Poetry, Chymistry and Botanicks in the University of Coppenbagen He set out in the Month of November 1660 and having seen 131 some same sat Hamburg, he came to Holland, where he stay d a consideration of the set ble time Mi Gerstorff's a Sons met nim there, whom he took under He flew'd them the Spanish Netherlands, and England, and carry'd them to Paris, where part 4 p he 544 Et in tractat p

Le ers

made buse-

Tear

"was a fourth Person of the Divinity The In"quisition prosecuted him for it, and he was condemnd to be burnt for not appearing. He went "to Insprack, (a) where the late Archduke became "the first of his Cullies. And by his means, he "proceeded in his way to Holland, and settled at "Amsterdam, as being a fit place to make his Persecution sound aloud, and where several People would readily supply him with Mony, in hopes to recover it by the profit they would expect from him. There he set up for a Man of Note
"At first he acquir'd some Credit among the Citi-At first he acquir'd some Credit among the Citizens, and maintain'd himself there for some time by the support of an old Burgo-Master, whom he kept up with his Cordial-waters, till every body discover'd his knavish Tricks, and laugh d at his pretended Skill It consists chiefly in the imbasing of the Coyn, without being munish'd for it, and in the alteration of some Mepunish'd for it, and in the alteration of some Metals, which is notas yet well known As for his Cures, People are not the better for them where he is, than they are in this City for the Remedies of a Quack Doctor, who has almost as great a Repiu pote- " re il pas- " putation in the Country of Liege and in Holland, as Borri has in Paris (b) Some fay, that Borri being at Naples in the time of the Plague, and having an excellent Preservative, went into the infested House, that were forsaken by reason

"the infected Houses, that were for sken by reason of the Moitality, where he thriv'd pretty well I don't know what ground there is for it (1) You'll see thewise what Monconis says of him] He saw him at the Hague in 1663 and heard him say several things about some Chimical Secrets The substance of which may be seen in the Relation (c) of his Travels Borri's Affairs were already in an ill condition, he was afraid of his Enemies, and mistrusted his most trusty Friends, (d) and soke of retiring into Turkey He said, it was indifferent to him, (e) whether they took him for a Learned or an Ignorant Man, and by the same indifferency, he did not case to justify the truth of his Belief He added, That no Body could be a good Philosopher, without being a good Body could be a good Philosopher, without being a good Christian When I told him, Continues Monconis, that he was accus'd of having said, that the Holy Ghost had Incarnated himself in the Virgin, and his Gentleman had answer'd, Why is he accus'd of a thing, of which they never had any proof, not being able to shew any of his Writings wherein there was any such thing He answered Si bene in one that the Pope had had, which was the only one that remained by chance, when he had anjwered Si bene in one that the Pope had had, which was the only one that remained by chance, when he had burnt all the rest, and as for supernatural things, no Missoriume did ever happen to him, but he was forewarned of it by a Star that appeared before him, even the he had his Ryesshut See in the 155th Page of the same Relation the Stories that Memoens was told about Borri's Cheats, and in the 178th Page an admirable Cure of an Eye The Paintel Otho told Monconis, that Borri had perfectly cur d him of (1) Had he a Cancer in his Eye, that deprived him of his fight, and been taken hinder'd him from working, which all the Doctors held and judg d incurable (f)

(K) A Piece that deserves to be read] This is the Title of it, Monumentum in laudem gentis Burrhorum Calend Jan MDC LX Francisco Josepho Burrho Medico Italo struttum The four Letters FR CR that denote the Author's Name, signishe Frischmannus Regis Christianissimi Residens He (g) that infoinis me of this, shews what are the Contents of that Piece in that he of this, hews what are the Contents of that Piece in that he this manner In quo potens artifex plantas in cineres, earumdem cineres ad eandem pristinam speciem ignis scape, and benessicio rite suppositi balneo Maria diducens, Roma ut that he was fama sed incerta est, similem suam madification, qua est summon d combustorum e cineribus resurrectio, exspellans, laudatus to appear. He refers us to Tuldenus t, who mentions the which

eff He refers us to Tuldenus †, who mentions the proceedings of the Inquisition against Borri, that is, refusing to the Proceedings of 1659, and 1660

(L) The Supplement to Dr Burnet's Travels is not condemn'd exact] Three Letters concerning the present State of [k] But he Italy, are call'd a Supplement to those Travels

Those Letters were translated out of English, and publish'd at Amsterdam in the Year 1688 We are const that told there (b) that Borriss a Gentleman of the Milaneze, who had about 8000 Growns a Year for his Patrimmy He Travel'd in his Youth, and being return'd to Milan, he held some Conferences there on the new Philosophy and Chimystry He was put Holy Ghost trimmy He Travel'd in his Youth, and being return'd to Milan, he held some Conferences there on the new Philosophy and Chimystry He was put Holy Ghost into the Inqussition, but because nothing could be prov'd against him, he was set at liberty (1) He went into Germany and into Holland The Inquisition complain'd of him to the Emperor, he was stop'd at Vienna, and afterwards sent back into Italy He (1) It was against him, the' he protests, (k) that he never thought of them, and he was oblig'd to abjure them in (1) the them, and he was oblig'd to abjure them in (1) the them, and he was oblig'd to abjure them in (1) the them, and he was oblig'd to abjure them in (1) the them, and he was oblig'd to abjure them in (1) the them of those 8000 Crowns a Year, they leave him but 3000, (m) for the good Fathers out of Charity, retain'd 5000 for themselves, and the act all likely they pass, that he does not receive 1500 yearly Borri had they pass, that he does not receive 1500 yearly Borri had the ground of Borri's Heresies, is, his speaking of large a Patengua Things in the mysterious and unintelligible Jarbon of the ground of Borri's Heresies, is, his speaking of large a Patengua Things in the mysterious and unintelligible Jarbon of the Incarnation, cree by the Principles of situal had so small a Patrimony, that he could not Livres a live upon it live upon it conis, Voyage, se-cond part, PAG 135, 137, 145, 146, 147 &c of the Lyons Edition (a) Ibid PAE 144, 145

(·) Ibid

248 147

(a) Yet the Author of bis Life Says, that left Italy, be went into Switzerland, and from thence to Strafburg, Amiterdam, Hamburg, &c averding the Countries inha-bited by Ca zholicks Il Borra. Says be, p 368 Usci-to d'Italia e passati li monti con quella fretta che ricer- " cava ıl

fuo scampo, se ne

asso nel'

ed indiad Argentina fuggendo à fare personal paer Ca-tolici However. st is true, that Borri difiill d with the

Archduke See Mon-CODIS, part 2 9 149 404

(1) Sor-biere, Ib 245 163 (c) Mon-

Elvezia,

vita abstinuit ut co philosoexpeditius, Bortich ubi ınfra † Taken from his Life, written by himprefix d to his Latin Delicia-Frederick Roftgaard and printed at Leyden ın 1693 | Taken from his Funeral Program man, made by John Mulenius Professor at Coppenhagen 4 Hiftoire de l' Aca-

pag 171 (b) Vita Borrichii deliciar Poč tarum Danorum, pag 378 demie Fi ançoi∫e,

pag 351

mics, Bi-blioth

choifie,

(c) Taken from his Life, ubi fupra, pag 379 & leq (d) Jo Mollerus hypomne matum de Scriptis Danorum PAE 36

* A con- he stay'd two Years, their Guardians call'd them home, which made him continue his Travels with more liberty He was made Doctor of Physick at Angers, and saw the chief Cities of the Kingdom, afterwards he went into Italy, and came to Rome in the Month of October 1665. He was there till the end of March 1666. After which he was oblig'd to return home. The Office which had been confer'd upon him in the University of Coppenhagen i equir'd his Residence He cross'd Germany, and arriv'd in Denmark in the Month of October 1666 His long Travels must needs have been very beneficial to him, since he made himself known to the most Learned Men in every (A) City that he came to He made it appear in the exercise of his office, that he was very worthy of it, being laborious to the highest degree, and full contents variety of Learning The Books (B) that he publish'd were an authentick proof of it He * would never marry, the better to preserve his liberty of Philosophising He was promoted to the Office of a Councellor in the Supreme Council of Justice in the Poems in Year he began to be troubled with the Stone † The Distemper increas'd daily, and knowing no other remedy than to be Cut for it, he resolv'd to run the hazard of that rigorous Operation the 13th of September 1690 It did not succeed, the Stone was rum quo- so large and so hard that it was not possible either to pull it out, or to cut it He bore that Accident, and all the Consequences of it, with great Constancy and Piety, till poetarum Danothat Accident, and an the College of the fame Year he dy'd, which happend the 3d of October of the fame Year rum, collethat he made a (C) pious Use of the Riches he had got || BOSC (John du) in Latin Boschæus, Lord of Esmendreville, President in the Court of Aids at Rouen, put to Death by the publick Executioner on account of Religion, in the Year 1962 Look for ESMENDREVILLE

BOSC (N du) A Cordelier, liv d in the XVIIth Century He was cry'd up for a Book that he Intitul'd, The Honest Woman His good Friend D'Ablancourt + added a Preface to it I have heard say, that the Translation of Father Narm's (A) Sermons, that went under the Name of Lather du Bose, is a Work of d'Ablancourt. It is  said, that this Cordelier having liv'd several Years out of the Convent by the Pope's permission, took the Hibit again. He writ several Books that are not essent'd, his Heroick Woman is one of them The most despicable of his Works, are those shat

(A) Had made himself known to the most Learned Men in every City that he came to] The account of his Life written by himself, and inserted in the 2d part of the Delights of the Danish Poets, contains the Names of several of those Learned Men, and of several Persons of Quality, who show'd their of several Persons of Quality, who shew'd their Lsteem for that Traveller The Marquis de Pianezze entertain'd him splendidly at Turin At Rome he had some Audiences of Cardinal Pallavicim, and he was often sent for by the Queen of Sweden, who lov'd Chymistry very much (b) Adhibitus & quandoque colloquiis CARDINALIS PALLAVICINI, & sape accersitus ad disferendum cum RLGINA CHRISTINA de arcanioris Chemia studio, veritate, experimentu, quibus tum sacris se Palladia virago devoverat

(C) The Books that he publish'd, were an authentick (C) The Books that he publish'd, were an authentick proof of it] His Conspectius prastantiorum Scriptorum lingua Latina, is but a small part of a great Work that he compos'd on that Subject, and which is among his Papers. We have seen his Cogitationes de varies lingua Latina atatibus & scripto G J Vossii de vitus scriptois, and his Analetta Philologica & sudicium de Lexicus Latinis Gracisque. We have also seen his Antiqua Roma imago, and his Treatise De syllabarum quantitate, which he Intituled, Parnassii nuce. Having observ'd that some Anothecaries in nuce Having observ'd that some Apothecaries, and even fome Physicians, do not pronounce right the Latin Names of Remedies, he publish'd right the Latin Names of Remedies, he publish'd a Piece Intituled, Lingua Pharmacopaorum His Differtations De Poetu Gracis & Latinis, are not the least of his Works Having seen that his Prodromius de ortu & progressu Chemia had been Criticiz'd by Conringius, he made an Apology for it, which is Intituled, De Hermetis, Ægyptiorum & Chemicorum sapiantia. He explain'd a whole Course of Chymistry twice in publick That Work is not yet printed His Latin Treatise Docimastice metallica has been translated into High-Dutch and Danish There are several Chymical and Botanick Memoirs of his translated into High-Dutch and Danish There are feveral Chymical and Botanick Memoirs of his making in the Alfa medica Haffisensia. He also published a Book, De usu indigenarum plantarum in medicina, a Treatise De somno & somniferis, another De Cabala characterali, another De causis divensitatus linguarum. I et us add to this, Oratiojubilan Evangelica, and Memoira Do Oligeri Vindis (c), and Deussing the autontimorumenos. This last Work contains some Sarvical (d) Letters against Paussing wherefome Satyrical (d) Letters against Deusingiu, where-in he gives himself the false Name of Benedistus Blots and au, which is the same thing as Benedictus Nudiversus, for blot signifies naked, in Danish, and sande signifies the truth, as Mr Placesus observes in the 105th Page of his Pfeudonymous Writers I leave the Titles of some other Books of Borrichius, which I might transcribe out of Mr Mollerus's Book (e) that I have quoted, and wherein he promises to speak of that Author at large in his Cimbria literata I shall only set down the Title of a Posthumous Book, that was printed at Coppenhagen in the Year 1697 Olas Borrichis conspectus Scriptorum Chemicorum illustriorum

Chemicorum illustriorum

(C) A very pious Use of the Riches he had gos] He consecrated a great part of 'em to the good of the Poor, and to the beautit of Students Read the particulars of it in the following Passage Institut us of sufficeres juventus: Academica necissariis destruse adminiculus prassidium aliquod in uberiora studiorum menta, of samelicis assistisque solamen obtinguis quippe domum plane lateritiam magnificentissima. quippe domum plane lateritiam magnificentissimatura reliquit, ubi omnia cernuntur splendide apparatura cubicula octo cum suis conclaviis, sedecim destinata studiosis, modestia, virtute ac doctrina conspicuis, amplum auditorium varie evornatum, ut in hac palastra commodius lacertos moveant juniores sacris Apollineis devoti, supellex libraria exquissa elegantia diverso studiorum generi inservieni, cui adharent mannscripta rariora, cernitur ibi quoque laboratorium Chemicum medicinam excolentibus profuturum, ceruitur batus storidus arboribusque consitus, oculis receivadit, impe pascendo dicatus Hoc tam sumtuosa structura dicilium macarimalust COLLEGIUM METALLEMM, ut à suo nomine appellationem haberet; nibil santa sun nomine appellationem haberet; nibil santa sun nomine appellationem sus cot voita cursu, feet ma ac felicitate sua summa usus est modestia. Un na ac felicitate sua summa usus est modestia. tum hujus Gollegii incolis, tum aliis egestate, arusult e imbecisti materadine oppressis, nec non alumnis schila si-pensis dania pecunia summam attribuit, qua res-natis pisti aum testamenti tabulis, in Collegio Consifloriali annue spatio reservatis, explevit numerum vigin-ti sex mile & trecentorum Joachimicorum (f) That one may know what his Estate amounted to, I shall say, that in the Division which he made of it among his Relations, and the Students, & he bestow'd 26300 Crowns upon the latter, and left 50000 Crowns to the former (g) GOD grant, that this may serve for an Example to those, that are able to do the same

(A) The Translation of Father Nature Sermons? I have heard the thing related thus (b) Du Bosc having no Mony, desir'd d'Ablancourt to lend him some D'Ablancourt being very torry that he had none, offer'd him a Translation that he had made of Father Name's Sermons and were here here to be the father than the had made of Father Name's Sermons and were here here to be the father than the had made of Father Name's Sermons and were here here to be the father than the had made of Father Name's Sermons and were here here to be the father than the had made of Father than the had not be the had n ther Nami's Sermons, and gave him leave to difthe same pose of it as he pleas'd Du Bosc accepted the Mamanner nufcript,

(e) Jo Mollerus, ubi fupra, & in hypomnematis, p

Funeral Programma, pag 3⁸3, 384 of the 2d Tome of the Delicie quorunparent Da-Mollerus, ubi fupra, PAE 354 (b) See Me Colomies bliothe que choi-fie, pag had heard the thing related he made against the Jansenists They did not vouchsafe (B) to Refute them, and that (C) filence, which is a kind of blemish upon that Writer, has been gloriously interpreted by some Anti-Jansenists BOSC (Peter du) A French Minister, and the greatest Preacher in his time among those of the Protestant Religion, was the Son of William du Bosc Advocate in the Parliament of Rouen, and was born at Baseux the 21st of February 1623 great a progress after having study'd Divinity eighteen Months at Montauban, and three Years at Saumur, that tho' he was but in his 23d Year, he found himself in a condition to serve the Church of Caen He was given to that Church the 15th of November, and receiv'd the imposition of Hands the 17th of December of the same Year Notwithstanding the Merit of his Collegues, especially of Mr Bochart, and the Nicety of his Hearers, he acquir'd in a little time the Reputation of one of the chief Men of his Gown He was look'd upon in his Country is a PERFECT ORATOR, and his Eloquence became so famous all over the Kingdom, that the Church of Charenton would have had him for their Minister, and sent some Deputies to his Church upon that account, in the beginning of the Year 1658 The most powerful Sollicitations were made use of, but neither the Eloquence of the * Deputies of Para, nor the Letters of the most (A) Considerable Persons in France, among those of the Reformed Religion, ches Minifitr, and Mr could persuade the Church of Caen to deprive themselves of such an excellent Pastor, de, Masneither would that Pastor leave his Flock. The Sollicitations of the Church of Paris, fanes Laythat were renew'd several times afterwards with all imaginable eagerness, did not prove Elder more successful It was impossible that such a great Merit as his, and so advantageous to his Party, should not disquiet and give umbrage to the Enemies of the Protestant Religion They shew'd it in the Year 1664, by surreptitiously obtaining a † Letter from the King, that confin'd him to Châlons till surther Order One Pommier || boasted to have been the cause of that Disgrace He Depos d falsly, that Mr du + Dated Bose bad spoken of Auricular Confession in the most offensive Terms, insomuch, that he accused the 2d of him of having compar'd the Priests Ears to a Common-shoar, a Sink, and a Chainel that receives all the Filth of the City Which was the reason why Mr du Bose, as he went through Paris, in his way to the Place of his Exile, explain d his Opinion about Confession to Mr le Tellier, and in what manner he had spoken of it Mr le Tellier seem'd ban, and some first which was the had power every and the filther death and had been a fatisfy'd with it, and even told him, that he had never question'd the filshood of the had been a Accusation Mr du Bosc obtain'd the liberty of returning to his Church the 15th of Protestant October 1664 and the Joy that appear'd among the Brethren, when he return'd to Caen the 8th of November, cannot be express'd Many Considerable Persons of the contrary Party came to wish him Joy, and there was a Catholick Gentleman, who did at that time one of the (B) strangest things that ever was seen That Disgrace of Mi du Bosc made it appear how much he (C) was belov'd and consider'd The Civilities that nuscript, and agreed with a Bookseller for the Sum of 30 or 40 Pistols, and publish'd it under his Name Few Authors would testify their Friendthip by fuch kind of Presents

(B) They did not vouchfafe to Refute them] Mr grauld gave a very disobliging reason why Father du Bosc's Books were not Answerd It is in a Passage of the 3d Volume of the Morale Prassague, where he lays down teveral Rules to make one judge, whether the not aniwering an Adversary, ought to pass for a proof of Weakness Here is his 4th Rule "(a) It cannot be said, that those, who "leave a Book unanswer'd are corable to a said. "leave a Book unanswer'd, are not able to answer it, when they follow therein the Judgment of the Publick Nor this happens when one icorns to refute force mean Authors, who to get a "Name take part in the Quarrels of the Learned It is for that reason, that at the same that care was taken to Answer Father annas "the Learned Care was taken to Answer Father annas "the Learned Care was taken to Answer Father annas "the Learned Care was taken to Answer Father annas "the Learned Care was taken to Answer Father annas "the Learned Care was taken to Answer Father annas "the Learned Care was taken to Answer Father annas "the Learned Care was taken to Answer Father annas "the Learned Care was taken to Answer Father annas the Learned Care was the

and Father Ferrier, Marandé and du Bosc were suffer'd to bark, without doing them the honour to think of them

"to think of them

(C) That Silence has been gloriously interpreted The Question about the assistance of Grace for the Free-will of Man, was debated under Pope Clement VIII and left undecided under Pope Clement VIII and left undecided under der Paul V Nevertheless, the Jansensti have lately printed it, to create a belief that that Sovereign Pontist is on their side concerning efficacious Grace, but Father du Bose, a Cordelier, struck them dumb by his Book Intituled, le pacifique and Madam de Mosan Romusld (b)

(A) The Letters of the most Considerable Persons Mr and Madam de Turmene, Mr and Madam de Roban, sent some Letters to Mr du Bose, written in their own Names, or mobitoer own Hands, whereby they earnestly sollicited him to accept the offers of the Church of Pans. Their Letters are still cle Mr. du in his Closet That which Mr de Turme will to lisose, p 7

Mr du Bosc, with two very fine Letters that Mr Pelisson writ to that Minister, whom he had formerly known at Montauban

(B) One of the strange sthings that ever was seen] (d) (d) Ibid An eminent Gentleman of the Romish Church, pag 44 whose Life was not very regular, but who openly profess'd to love the Ministers, who had particular Talents, and who seem'd altogether charm'd with Mr du Bosc's Merit, having a mind to solemnize that Day with a Drinking-bout, took two Cordeliers, whom he knew to be Good-fellows, and made them drink in much, that one of them dy'd on the Spot The next Day he went to see Mr du Bosc, and told him, that he thought it his Duty to Sacrifice a Monk to the publick Joy That this Sacrifice would have been more reasonable, if it had been a Jefuit, but that his Offering ought not to displease him, tho' it was but a Cordelier That Tragical Accident, whereof he was but the in-

Tragical Accident, whereof he was but the in"Tragical Accident, whereof he was but the in"nocent Cause, did nevertheless trouble the Joy
"he had to find himself again with his Family,
'and with his Flock He express it in the sist
"Sermon he made, having taken these Words for "his Text, Here I am, O Lord, and the Children "that thou hast given me
(C) How much he was belov'd and consider'd] Mr de Turenne desir'd Mr Boucherat, (who is (e) at (e) I write present Chancellor) to obtain a Letter from the this in Intendant of Caen, that should give a good Testiintendant of Caen, that should

(D) From Pag 41

mauld. Morale pratique,

tom 3 11 / 261

$ For ex-Observatithe Declaration of the Year 1666 Printed at dam by Times le the Obserthe Declathose that Relaps'd They are

Paris and Rouen

& Mir le Gulre ubi infra exact and particular account of his conduct and management of those Affairs

¿ Si Peiguma dextra Defendi possent, eti im hac fuillent Virgil An 12 0 -91

* Ibid pag , † laken from 1 s Lif ni t

9 In his Life, p 2 le Gendre Instatore Mar Ho x Rouen ant non at Rotter d un

1 I Ep ft thy, Chap

(a) Ibid

(1) Ibid Pag 31

he receiv'd from the Bishop (D) of Chalans, ought not to be forgotten. In the Year 1665 he begun to have the Imployments wherein he signalized his Prudence, his Gravity, and his I loquence, I mean the Actions that were entired against the Churches. He detended that of Caen, and many others of the same Province against the unjust pursuits of the Bishop of Bayeux The King having publish'd a grievous Declaration in 1666 against those of the Reformed Religion, all the Churches sent a Deputation n 1600 against those of the Kerormed Kengion, all the Churches sent a Deputation to Paris, to make a most humble remonstrance to his Majesty. The Churches of Normandy deputed Mr du Bose, who set out from Caen the ide of July 1668. As soon as he came to Paris the other Deputies chose him to draw up several a Majoratells. It being noticed abroad that the King intended to suppress some, Chambras the Edit, all the Deputies of the Provinces hastened to Mr de Ruvigns the Deputy General, to speak to him concerning such an important matter. Their design was to obtain leave to throw themselves at his Majesty's Feet. It was obtained but in such a manneral concerning such as manneral contents. to throw themselves at his Majesty's Feet It was obtain'd, but in such a manner that vations on none but Mr du Bosc was admitted to the Audience He made a Speech to the King who was alone in his Closet the 27th, of November 1668 and after he had ended his Discourse, he had the Liberty to represent several things, wherein he succeeded so well, that the whole Court spoke of his Eloquence, and Prudence After several Conferences with Mr le Tellier, and several goings and comings, something was obtain'd in the Month of April 1669 against the Declaration of the Year 1666 Since that time Mi du Bose made many Journeys for the Assairs of the Churches, and defended them before the Ministers of State, and the Intendants, with all the force and Those of ability imaginable s, till he was declared uncapable of exercising his Ministry in the aris and kingdom, by a Decice of the Parliament of Normandy the 6th of June 1685. If it hid & been possible to save the Reformed Churches of France by way of Negotiation, he was more proper to succeed in it than any other that could have been imploy d It is a certain that he kept off the evil by his Care and Prudence, and * that he knew how to manige those Affairs with so much dexterity, that they could not be in better hands. After his Interdiction he went into Holland, where he was Minister of the Church of Roster dam till he died, which happen'd the 2d of January 1692 He died tike a good Christian, and his death was inswerable to that regular and edifying Life that he always lived † No Man ever maintain d the Grivity of his Character better than he He had a majestick Presence, which did not a little contribute to the glory he acquired by his Preaching this is easy to be apprehended. He had also very I alonts to (L) preside in a Synod, and to make himself offeem'd among Persons of Quality (F) They did him Justice in Holland, where he was generally belov'd, the very Sectaries could not refule the respect which he deserved for his Wise Conduct, and they reverenced Mr du Bose, as much as they despised those violent Men, who by their turbulent and milanthropick humor, made themselves unworthy of the approbation of those that are without, which the Scripture recommends so expresly to the Ministers of JESUS CHRIST. He was twice (G) married, and lett

(D) From the Bishop of Chilons ought not to be for-otten JI shall make use of Mr leGendre's own words, who is the Author of Mr du Boses Life (a) "The "Bishop of that place, of the Family of Herse Via-"lirt, was also pleas d to contribute to his com-fort He received all manner of civility from that excellent Pielte Is he would have believed the generous Bishop, he had est at no other I able, which he did twice every Week regularly One day as this Lord shewed him his House richly furnisht, and his Apartments that were very sumptious, he asked him what he thought of it, and whether that Magnificence seem d very Apostolical to him? Mr du Bosc, who would neither disoblige his Benefactor, nor belie his own Charicter, Answer'd, That he had two Titles in the City, that he was Count and Bithop of Châlons, and that his Dignity of Count gave him quite different Rights and Privileges "from those of I piscopicy, that he saw nothing in his House that was above the Magnificence furtable to a Peer of France Such an Answer Such an Answer did not displeste the Prelite

(E) Very event l'alents to preside in a Synod] His Historian expresses this so happily that I shall use his own words He was, says he (b), one of the Pre-tente of the Synod that was held at Rouen in 1663 some intricate and difficult Matters were examined there and he acquired no less honour in t than he had wone elsewhere It is certain that he succeeded admiraliv well in those Assemblies. The readiness and eleur-nit in Wit, the force and solidity of his Judgment aip and the with great Lustre He had surprizing reaches and hin's which inabled those Affemblies to get out of the melt into ate Affairs. Add to this that he spoke so pertinently, and knew how to gree such an easier and pleafant turn to matters, that he commonly brought the Affembly to his Opinion

(I) And to make himself efteemed among Persons of Quality, I have already (c) nam'd feveral Persons (c) In the of the first Rank, who had a very particular esteem Remarks for him I add, that the Duke of Requesture with A, and C was complimented by Mr dn Buse in the Year 1674 when he was sent to command on the Coasts of Normandy, conceiv'd an affection for him, which he express all his Life in the most obliging manner Mr de Schomberg and his Lady lov'd and estrem'd him years much and when he was a series of the most obliging the series of the most obliging manner Mr de Schomberg and his Lady lov'd and estrem'd him years much and when he was a series of the most obliging the most oblighted the most obliging the most obligation that the most obliging the most obligation that the most obligation that the most obligation the most obligation that the most obliga which he express all his Life in the moit obliging manner. Mr de Schemberg and his Lady low'd and esteem'd him very much, and when he went out of the Kingdom they gave him (a) the mest obliging Letters of Recommendation to Schemble Officers and Commanders of Places, and Garrisone, who was in his Road I he Count de Roye was very multipleased to inform him, that the Queen of Dennis placed to inform him, that the Queen of Dennis placed to inform him, that the Pominions, and associated him he want a Flock, of which she being willingly be a part, and an advantageous Settlements from the Prince and Princess of Ordership Family The Prince and Princess of their Esteem on all obtains. The Textofthis Remark shall be consistent by several things in the Remark H (G) Twice marry'd, and left but two Daughters I

(G) Twice marry'd, and left but two Daughters] He marry'd his first Wife in 1650 and lost her in Daughter The Son dy'd in 1676 Lieutenant in the Regiment of Sohomoery The Daughter was marry'd in Normanay to Michaelide Niel Eff, Lord of Boullonniere, who fied into Holland wich his Williams of Bouillonniere, who fied into Holland with his Wife and Children, at the revocation of the Edict of Nances. He chose rather to forsithe great Riches than abjure his Religion. He divid be Reverdant in the Month of October 1697. Mr. do Bos's second Wife is (f) yet living. Ho many'd her about the (f) I will need of the Year 1697. The Diagnost that he had this by her was many'd in Holland to Philip le Gendra, the 1411 formerly Minister of Rough and at prefent of Rose of June 1 tendant. It is he that composite the Life of Minds 1699.

Bose, which I quotalo of this in the Manual Life of Minds 1699.

Mr du 147

(e) Il ad ₩Z 1 44

but two Daughters We speak of his (H) Writings in one of our Remarks. He is mention'd (I) in the Menagiana after such a manner as is not disadvantageous to BOSQUET (Francis) Bishop of Montpellier, was one of the most Learned Prelates of France in the XVIIth Century He was born at Nurhonne, and perform'd his chief Studies at Toulouse Before he took Orders he had been Intendent of Guienne and Languedoe, Attorney General in the Parliament of Normandy, and Councellor of State Ordinary *. John de Planterier, whose Friendship he carefully cultivated, ever since he loaded with him in the College de Foix at Toulouse, resign'd his Bishoprick of Lodeve vans of the tourishin the Year 1648 Mr Bosquer took possession of it in the Month of January 1660. Five Years after he became Bishop of Montmellier, and continued so till his August ary 1650 Five Years after he became Bishop of Montpellier, and continued so till his August Death, which happen'd the 24th of June 1676 He wis in his 63d Year, and a 1676 Year before his Death he had his Nephew the Abbot de Pradel for his Coadjutor He compos'd (A) Some Books in Latin that are esteem'd Morers out of whose Dictio-

Bosc, pag

(b) Ibid PAGAL

(c) In 1648

(d) Ibid pag 5

(H) We shall speak of his Writings in one of our Remarks.] There are two Volumes of Sermons, and a Collection of divers Pieces, that was published after his Death He had published some of those Sermons in France. The first of all, was those Sermons in France The first of all, was St Peter's Tears He Preach d it on a Fast-day, the Missionaries found comething in it to begin a Process against him, and the Duke of Longueville Process against him, and the Duke of Longueville was oblig'd to use his Authority to put a flop to that Persecution He did it earnessly, as well because he was follicited to it by the Dutchess de la Tremouille, at whose desire it had been printed, and who made it her someon, as because he always had a particular kindness (a) Viede for the Author (a) He preach'd upon the Doctrino Mr du of Grace in the Year 1661 The Jesuits pretendant ed, That he he had falfy imputed some Opinions to the Church of Rome, which oblig'd him to print his Sermon (1) Some Years after he publish'd two Sermons, Intituled, The Censure of the Lukewarm Sermons, Intituled, The Censure of the Lukewarm ThoseSermons, and most of those which had already appear d, were re-printed in Holland, with several origins that had never been printed. They make swo Volumes in 8° as I have said already Mr du Bosc the fiv'd the publication of the last Volume but sew Dyas. As for the Collection of divers Pieces, it commarks that concern the Affairs of those of the Reformed Religion, which Mr du Bosc manag'd at Paris 2dly, The Speeches he made, and the Letters which he writ, and receiv'd on divers Occasions. The first the writ, and receiv'd on divers Occasions. The first Speech is that which he made (c) to the Dutchels of Longueville, who was (a) chasm's with it 3dly Divers Letters by way of Differention upon some Passages of the Scripture, and some Points of Divinity 4thly Some Greek, Lorin and French Verses, which he compos'd at several times, and some other Poems made in his Praise The Publick is obliged this some Greek, Lown and French veries, which he compos'd at ieveral times, and some other Poems made in his Praise. The Publick is oblig d for this Collection to the same Mr. le Gendre, who compos'd the Life of that Great Man. Thoie Preces make it appear, that Mi. du Bosc was very fit for Business, a good Divine, a Polite Man, and well vers'd in good Literature. I must not torget the Letters that he writ in the Year 1660 to Mr. Breunt, Charlain to his Britannick Majesty Charles II. whether statistics has Copinion conterning Politics. The same of that Letter was inferted. The same of the Letter was inferted. The whole Letter was in the Authors Lite (e) Mr. letter and in the Authors Lite (e) Mr. letter same of the King of England, shews, in he had not a different Opinion from the establishment of the King of England, shews, in he had not a different Opinion from the composition of our Divines, who have openly condemned the Parricide of Charles I. He about look'd upon Kings as the lively Images of God, an Earth, whose Character ought to be inviolable to their People. No Body ever spoke of them with more "respect, no Body submitted humself more cheer. People No Body ever fpoke of them with more respect, no Body submitted himself more cheer-fully and freely to them than he He forget nothing to inspire his Flock with the Love and "thing to infipire his Flock with the Love and "Obedience that is due to them He chiefly apply'd himfelf to it upon extraordinary Occasions, as he did at Rosen in 1663 where Preaching, in the prefence of the Synod, on the first "Chapter of the Revelocions, the 16th Verse, he gave a Character of his Most Christian Majesty, "altogether fit to confirm his Subjects in all their Duties That Piece being now sease, it will perhaps be re-printed to consure the Calumnies of those, who represent the Majusters as knemics of Royalty" Another thing that must now be forgotten, is, that in 1665 there (c) suppose it a Sermon (b) printed at Paris in his Name, wherethe (1) Upor they had inserted several things that concern (i) the \t Mat Blessed Mother of the son of GOD, and which were so thew ill discisted, that they might create some trouble to him clap 1 to whom the Piece was falsy ascrib'd But he pur- v -3 sucd the Printer so smartly, that they could take no hold of him

The Publick will quickly fee (1) three Volumes of Mr du Boli's Sermons on the three first the falf Chapters of the Epistle to the Ephssiaus, and perhaps they'l be follow dby a fourth on several Texts latery

(1) He w mentiond in the Menagrana made by w When I was at Caen, I heard the Minister Jesust in the Bose Preach I never heard a Minister pleach the Pulpit, but then He preach'd very well, but it seem that Mr ed strange to me, to see a Preacher in the Pul. du Bose put with his Hor on his Hand Mouseaux laws had ford pit with his Hat on his Head Montagne lays, had faid that there is nothing more ridiculous than the fomething fquare Caps of our Piests We are us d to it'(1) against the Mr Menage would not have gone to hear Mr du honour of Bosa's Sermon, it he had not been told, that he was the Virgin a very good Preacher His Friends, that is to say, Mi Bothe most Learned and Ingenious Persons of that C1- chart and ry, were of Opemon, that he would not know all Mr duboic that was remarkable in it, if he had not heard the ment to the Haguesses Preacher, whom the Cashoticks themselves Intendant,

(A) He composed some Books in Latin] The first founded Work that he made publick, is an Abridgment of the Jesus the Civil Law that Psellus had composed in Greek in his pre-Work that he made publick, is an Abridgment of the Jejust the Civil Law that Pfellus had compos'd in Greek in his pre-Verse for his Disciple Michael Ducas in the XIth Jence 1b Century That Poem of Pfellus had never been (k) I write printed Mr Bosques was not contented to Translate it into Latin, he added some Notes to it, 14 of June lieuwin he shows what Authors Pfellus had made use 1699 of, and explains the most difficult passages. The Those 3 (m) second Work, is the History of the Gallican Volumes, Church, from the beginning of Christianity in and the Gaul, to the Reign of Constantine. There are two two foregotions of it. The same Author published the ing have History of the French Popes, who resided at Avignom. It is the History of eight Popes. It reaches cd at Rottom the Year 1305, till 1394. He published also several (n) Epistles of Innocent III with very learnby Reinier ed Notes. The Bishop of Montpellier and the Abbot Leers de Lacan, Nephews of Mr Bosquet, are to publish two considerable Works of that Learned Min Indiana, p. The one soncerns the Liberties of the Gallican Church, and 260 of the the other contains Notes as all the Caustin Church, and 260 of the The one concerns the Liberties of the Gallican Church, and the other contains Notes on all the Canon Law (o) Mr Douglat, who might have read this in the Journal Douglat, who might have read this in the Journal Edition des Savans of the 31st of August 1676 confess d in the Year 1688 that he had not (p) been able to find our where those Notes of Mr Bosquet are If it were postill the Authors should take cognizance of the most common Writings, and of the smallest Pieces, they would learn some things by them, the ignorance whereof does them no honour. As for what remains, the Abbot dela Roque should not have forgot (e) the Year wherein each of Mr Bosquet's lournal got (q) the Year wherein each of Mr Bosquer's Journal Books were printed I find (r) that the Synopsis des Sa-Legum of Psellus was printed at Paris in the Year vans, ubi 1632 in 8 The Catalogue of Oxford mentions in infra the same Year, the History of the Popes, who (n) That 14, 15, and 16 Books of that Pope's Register in fol Journ des Sav ubit instra (e) Taken from Mr Bosquet's Elogy inserted in the Journal des Savans of the 31st of August 1676 (p) Plura alia majorus molis opera à litteratis expetita, imprimis vero Commentaria vel Note in Decretum Grariani anondum prodierunt, nec ubi laceant discere ulla ratione adhuc potui Doujat prante Canonic pag 653 (q) In the above-quoted Journal des Sasans (r) Apad Cave Hist litterar pag 606 The Catalogue of Oxford menonom bus one Parlis Ediston of 1639 resided resided against the Ift Dutch

(g) Ibid

BOSQUET BOSSUS 690 nary I have taken the greatest part of what I have said in this Article, has very much commended that Prelate, and has not (B) committed many Faults I had almost forgot to say, that Henry de Mêmes President in the Parliament of Para was the first Pa-A Journ ubi supra tron of Francis Bosquet, and that Mr de la Chambre was very useful to him, by reason of the good Character he gave of him to the Chancellor Seguier & A passage, which that See allo Prelate left out in his Gallican History when he reprinted it; shews, that if he was cautious in representing the Abuses of his Church, he was not ignorant of them.

BOSSU (James le) in Latin Bossulus, Doctor of Divinity in the University of Dougat, Prænot Capon pag 653 Paris, and a Monk of St Denis, was one of the most passionate Preachers of the League before and after the Death of Henry III I cannot tell whether he declaim'd in the Pulpits of Paris, but I know very well that those of Nantes were the Stage on which y See the RemarkA He calls he Proclam'd his Rebellion Besides he was not contented to Preach with the greatest Tury against Henry III and Henry IV but he also Printed & some Dialogues at Nantes them Debetween a Catholick and a Politician, wherein he vented the most extravagant Maxims of the Spirit of Sedition He maintain'd in the 1st place, that Henry III was worse ? Second Devis and more Atherstical than Judas 2dly That James Clement was inspir'd s by God to stab him 3dly That no Prayers † ought to be made to God for the repose of his Soul 4thly That any body wis * permitted to kill him, considering the notorious-nois of his Tyranny, or The excesses of that surious Preacher against the Parliament of pag 80 3 Third Devis Paris fitting at Tours, and against all the Catholicks, who remain'd faithful to Henry IV. cannot be sufficiently detested He maintain'd that the Catholicks, who had any Hi Says the Same of Commerce with Hereticks, were + 1pfo facto excommunicated, and that Herefy being worfe thin Paganism, and Paganism being a true Athersm, Heresy ought to be call'd | Athersm, and the worst of all Sins, and that Hereticks ought to be shunn'd as the Plague At that time France was full of such Preachers, who remain'd unpunish'd, and Prince of Orange obtain'd what they defir'd, I mean that France should refuse to submit to it's lawful † Ibid The Triumph of those rebellious Preachers over Prince, unless he turn'd Catholick pag 8 Justice, will serve for a Model in all such like occasions, whereas if those Trumpeters of Sedition had been punish'd according to their deserts, such an example would have * Ibid pag 28 There is nothing more dangerous in a State terv d as a Curb for the time to come + Traite contre l'adhesion sux resided at Avignon We find there that the Epistles Heretiques of Innocent III were printed at Toulouse in 1635 candas, illustres eorum tisulos primum sibi dein credula of Innacent III were printed at Toulouse in 1635 The Abbot de la Reque places the History of the Gallican Church in the second Rank, and therepag 56 tore it must have appear'd in the Year 1632 at the farthest, and so, Mr Bosquer must have pub-lished most of his Books at Nineteen Years of || Ibid PAR 3 Age, and left off writing Books at Twenty-two Years of Age, which would be a very uncommon thing I am jure, the Journalist has not observed the Ranks well, for if the History of the Gallican Church, was Mr Besquer's second Work,

(a) Morin exercisat Biblic par 18 edit 10

4 1633

it is very unlikely that Father Morin should not have mention'd it, when in 1633 he bestow'd this Encomium upon that young Author (a) Nec non eruditus juvenis Franciscus Besquetus docta synopsess legum Michaelis Pfelli e Graco in Latinum versione & Historia Pontificum qui e Galliss orts in ea sederunt correcta editione, borumque eruditis notisillustratione apud omnes antiquitatis amantes merito charus & acceptus This Passage alone, would be sufficient to make me believe that the Historia Ecclesiae Gallicanae was puinted after the Year 1633 and after that of the Popes of Augmon

The second Edition of that History of the Gallican Church, is of the Year 1636 in Quarto, it is much larger than the first, which was in 8' but some Lines have been left out in it, which Archbishop Usher took care to preserve (b) They

Archbishop Usha took care to preserve (b) They are so considerable, that I will insert them in this place of my Dictionary It appears from them that Mr Resques acknowledged, that the false Test of the Monks, was the first cause of the fabulous Traducious that have (c) covarid the Original

lous Traditions that have (c) cover'd the Origine of the Gallican Church with fuch a thick obscurity

He thinks, that the heat of their Zeal, and the defire of inspiring more Devotion into the People, made

A R E-MARK-ABLL passage left out 2n 1 2d Edition

(b) See Co-Bibliotheque Choisie pag 84

em believe what they taught others afterwards, con-ceining the pretended Wonders and Antiquity of certuin Saints One can hardly have so good on Opinion of the first Inventers of Fables; but it would () Quod de Gallibe a very unjust thing not to entertain it of those who succeeded them However it be, here are the Words in question (d) Primes, si verum amamus, his proxi- hujujmodi zelotas monachos in Galliss habusmus ma l'ocle- simplici at froida ideoque minus causa & sape incon-fia notavit sulta religione percussi ad illiciendas bominum mentes, nuper & augustioni saniforum nomine ad eorum cultum revopretor Narbonensis Franciscus Bosquetus, incertam longa antiquitate & posterorum commentis originem illius extitisse, idem in nostris quoque Britannicis verissimum fuise comperimus Userius in praf Britann Ecclesiarum antiquitatum, Printed as Dublin 1639. (1) spud Ufferium ibid

candas, illustres eorum titulos primum sibi dein credula plebi persuasos proposuerunt Ex horum ossicina Marcialis Lemovicensis Apostolatus, Ursiui Bituricensis discipulatus, Dionisii Parisiensis Areopagitica, Pauli Narbonensis proconsularis dignitas, amborum Apostoli Pauli magisterium, & in aliis Ecclesiis similia prodiere Quibus quidem sano judicio & constanti animo Galli primum Episcopi resistere At ubi Ecclesia Gallicana parentibus, sanstissimis sidei praconibus, detrastis his sposiii injuriam seri mentibus ingenuis & probis persuasum est, paulatim error communi consensa consurgere, & tandem antiquitate sua contra veritatem prascribere I doubt whether it was a good piece of Policy to suppress those sine Words in the second Edition. The leaving out of that Passage, does plainly shew the Roman Catholicki are extremely cautious with fuppress those fine words in the country show the Roman Catholicks are extremely cautious with respect to Errors, and that those, whose Interest it is to maintain them, are easily offended at any discovery of that kind. They should have considered, that the suppressing of those words, would raise the Curiosity of most People, and that those, who would have read them cursorily, and with little attention, would for that very reason, look upon them as a thing of the greatest Importance. They might very well think, that the Protestants would not fail to make their Research upon it. In a word, we may say of this Passage, what an Quinchi, Historian (e) said of Bratus and Casas, whose aliaque Images did not appear in a Funeral Point The ejustem nobilitative more easily when a Man is not at a certain tis nominated. fuppressing of it, gives it a greater lustre We obferve more easily when a Man is not at a certain tis nomireast, than when he is there Here is a Passage of na sed

Sences C Casar willam in Herculanensi pulcherrimam quia mater sua aliquando in illa custodita eras, diruit, secuque ejui per hoc notabilem fortunam stantim mim traternavirahamus, nunc causa diruita quarte. tem enim praternavigabamus, nunc causa diruta quari-

tem enim praternavigacamas, name temps and re-tur (f)

(B) Moreri has not committed many faults?

I He does not ipeak exactly, when he fays, that Mr Bosquet study d in the College de Foix at Tolose, for there are neither Professors, nor any other Teachers in that College It is a House where a certain number of Students are maintain'd, who give a certain Sum at their Entrance into it There are, or there have been several such Colleges in the same City. In a certain sense it is very true, that Mr Bosques study'd in the College de Foix, for he lodg'd there during his Studies, and he was constantly in the Library of that College, but this is not what is commonly understood by Studying in a College II The Abbot de la Roque, is not more exact, when he places the puge fidei of Raimond Martini among the Works of Mr Boquet, for the he

Brutusco iplo quod effigies corum non vife bantur Annal 13 ın fine

(f) Seneca de iral 3

than such People, and it is with respect to this Evil that Sovereigns must be told of t see the the Maxim, principus obsta Mr Arnauld (Z) or one of his good Friends will not contradict me in it Father le Bossu must have had some merit, since besides his the Acts of teaching Divinity among the Benedictins, he was one of the Members of the Congregation de Auxilius under Pope Paul IV Mr Arnauld (Z_{\(\Delta\)}) prais'd him very gregation much I believe this is the same whom Mr Du Plessis Mornay mentions in these Words \(\rho\) "Le Bossus Steward of the Bishoprick of Nantes Discover'd \(\gamma\) this, Preach"ed against it, made Remonstrances to Mr de Mercaur about it, made the Agent of at Rotter"Spain protest against it, which made (1) him forbear speaking to him "Thus the dam) in

Very Hands of the League were Slaves to the Preachers very Heads of the League were Slaves to the Preachers

BOSSULUS (Matthew) * a Parissan, taught in † Boncour-College at Paris in B Memoirs e Year (A) 1583 He was a great Orator he had been Preceptor (B) of Don of Du Carlos Son of Philip II and taught Rhetorick in the University (C) of Valencia in Plessis Spain I do not find that he has appeared an Press. the Year (A) 1583

I do not find that he has appear'd in Print,

Young to Milan to learn good Literature under Francis Philelphus, and Peter Perleon, 1592 See and he improv'd there, but he had been spoyl'd as to his Morals, it he had not soon left a City so corrupted as that was in those Times, where he was at his own disposal, in the midst of Temptations, and without being affished with the good Counsels, or the pag 186. Censure of a good Tutor Being call'd back again to Verona, he lived under a better where Discipline He found sewer occasions to perveit himself, and some vigilant Directors called Theological Theological Property of the Vanities of the World He turn'd his Thoughts another way, and and gal of Nantee.

adds these Words, which he took out of the Library of the College de Foix, he leads his Readers into this Error, that Mr Bosquet publish'd the pugio fides We shall see elsewhere (a), what share he had in the Edition of that Book

(b) Quef- " ense si Mr « Arnauld «

est beretsque, pag

(c) Diffcultez proposées a Monsr Steyaert 9 part pag 251 Cologne 1692

(Z) Mr Arnauld will not contradict me in it] I have promis'd in the Article of that Doctor of Sorbonne, to set down here an important Resterior that was made on a Conventicle, wherein mond.) (4) Indeed, you Gentlemen that are in Authority and the set of th rity, you are fine Folks to fuffer fuch Undertakings Don't you perceive that if the Proceedings of that Conventicle should succeed, (for this is not a chimerical Conventicle, as those of Mr Arnauld) there is not any one honest "those of Mr Arnauld) there is not any one honest

"Man in Liege, upon whom they might not put the "like Affront, if he should displease them, or be "suspected to favour the pretended Jansensom, "whereof they made Mr Arnauld the Head? It "is always dangerous to suffer such an Audaciousness to get Strength, and it daily gathers "Strength, when no care is taken to quash it in the beginning Believe me, an Assembly of Men
"mov'd by a false Zeal of Religion, supported by "the Reputation which their Habit, their Conditi"on, and patward Austerity procure them armated with the Power that the direction of Consci"ences gives them over the Minds of the People, ences gives them over the Minds of the People, and above all animated, incourag'd and directed "and above all animated, incouraged and directed by a Rector of the Jesuits, are more to be fear'd than can be thought, and if your Politicians laugh at it, I dare say, they understand nothing in the matter Father d'Herin boasts already to have either a Commun, or a Permission from this Highness to American, or a Permission from
this Highness to American, or a Permission from this Highness to American, or a Permission from the shall find him the Diocess

Believe
the final find him the beallowed too much the Liberty For if notwithstanding the Advices Liberty For if notwithstanding the Advices Liberty For if notwithstanding the Advices wiven to the Superiors, of which they made no wiven to the Superiors, of which they made no wiven attree, so far as to be willing to take the statement of the will not not the source of the statement of they will foon lay by that leave in any statement of they will be pleas'd to undertake, as soon they see themselves strong enough, and supported by the Mob"

(Z\(D\)) Mr Arnauld prais'd him very much] A Letter, says he, that was lately shew'd me written from Rome, (c) contains an Extrast of Mr Pegna's Memoirs, who was Dean of the Rota, under Clement VIII and Paul V concerning what had past under those two Popes in the Congregation de Auxiliis Out of those Memoirs they had transcrib'd the Suffrage of Mr le Bossu, a Monk of St Denys, and Destor of Sorbonne, of the Month of October 1607 one of the most learned Consultors of that Congregation He declared by that Suffrage, that he did not approve that a certain University should be consulted about the Matters that were in agitation there; and among other Reasons he gave these two The one is, That they had not disapprov'd certain Notes on Cassian, which tended to give a pretended good sense to the erroneous Propositions of that Author, whose Works had been censured by Pope Gelasius The other is, That they had di- 2 That is vulged the Bull of Pius V and Giegory XIII These to say, that ruiged the Buil of Fius V and Giegory XIII These to Jay, that are that Learned Dostors own Words concerning this the Duke and Grievance against that University, &c of Mer(A) The Year 1583 In that Year Bossulus made a Cour had Speech in Boncour College, which lasted about an a Design to Hour and a half Du Perron remembered it so well, confer that he could have recited it word for word Herewith some that he could have recited it word for word He recited a great part of it in the presence of la Croix du Royalist Maine three I ays after That Speech was an Llogy of the Art of Oratory and of Orators Bossulus spoke of a certain Orator, who seem to come from Heaven, to hinder the two Armies of Francis I and the Emperor Charles V from fighting (a) I wish that Speech was printed, that I might know the Name of that Orator, who did a thing which Signior Julius Mazarini imitated so happily near Gazal, and which was the beginning of his Glory and Fortune Bossulus (e) writ only the Heads of his Speeches, he supply'd the rest in the Pulpit extempore fulus (e) Wit only the Heads of his speeches, he supply'd the rest in the Pulpit entempore

(B) Preceptor of Don Carlos] Brantome informs me of this (f) I have been told, says he, that a Book was made in Spain, and even printed about Don Carlos's Stubbornness, Whims and Maggots His Preceptor was Mr Bossulus a Frenchman, who has been since in France, one of the Learned and well-spoken Men of his time, and who shake also several Languages, elements. of his time, and who soke also several Languages eloquently, but he was an ill Liver, &c Here is a Main, who according to Brantome and la Croix du Maine, was very Learned and Floquent, and for who defi-all that, I am fure, he is but little known in the re to be Common-wealth of Learning, and a great many Perions lefs Learned than he, are a hundred times better known. The reason of it is, because they publish'd Books, whereas the Press was never imploy'd for his Productions It concerns Learned Men extremely that would not fall into oblivion after their Death, to set up for Authors, without which, their Name goes seldom beyond the first Generation, res erat unius atatis The ge nerality of Readers do not take notice of the (a) La Names of those Learned Men, whom they only Croix du know by the Testimony of others A Man is soon Maine, pag forgot, when the Encomium bestow'd upon him is ends thus, The Publick has seen nothing of him We (d) Id ib must except those, who like Mr de Peirese signalize themselves in a singular manner

themselves in a singular manner

(C) In the University of Valencia in Spain] I (f) Brant have found this in a Book of the Jesuit (g) Andrew Schot I believe they took Bossalais from that Post to place him with Don Carlos, or at least, trangers that his teaching Rhetorick serv'd him for a mediate Introduction, and I cannot but wonder, print that a Frenchman was chosen for such an Imployment I wonder yet more, that the French have spoken so little of a Man of their own Hispanica Nation, who was honour'd with such a Place in the Court of Spain in the XVIth Century instead of Bossutus Parisiensis, it should have been Bossulus, &c (A) Gave gal of Nantes the Duke of

† Id pag

Learned after their death. ought to instead of Mattheus of the Cauedral Church of Florence ed a master piece of work Twas he mbo had the directiınquam illo Aichitectorum coriphæo, cujus prodifuper antiquos moderniores unus tholus feu testudo majoris templi I lorentinum extollit I yeeum si tom 2 Pag 34 (a) Celsus de Rosinis in Lyceo ul: Jupra (i) Others lay he mas but 14

Lateranen si tom 2

pag 38 (1) Cellus Rofinis

(d) Id 1b

(e) Quandaverim, quintum dimicaverım,quanque ad discrimen usque favitæ contenderim, pores tu ittis meminisse Matti Boff is en ft 87 apud Celsum de Rolinis ubi Supra pag 41

(f) Id 1b

and vowed himself to the Ecclesiastical State in the Year 1451 in the Congregation of the Regular Canons of Lateran Timothy Mapheus, who was afterwards Archbishop of Ragusa, made him take that good resolution, and brought him soon after to Padua, She Vault the Regular Canons of Lateran where he taught Divinity Bossus profited much by him either in the Sciences, or in the Art of Preaching, and with a great Zeal, and Capacity he discharged the duties of the Employments that his Superiours gave him He caus'd many Houses of his Order to be repur'd, and namely the Abby of Fiefoli in Tuscany Cosmo de Medicis gave 70 Thousand Crowns for the reparation of that Abby It was an admirable Building, and the Workmanship of Philip Brunellesci, a Florentine, sand one of the most excellent Architects of that time It was in that Church that Matthew Bossus gave the (A) Ornaments of the Cardinalship to John de Medicis Laurence de Medicis would have it to, I only observe this to shew how much he consider'd Matthew Bossus Pope Sixtus IV had likewise a great esteem for him, for as soon as he was rais'd to the Pontificite, he undertook to put a stop to the irregular Life of the Nuns of Liguria, and of the Neighbouring Provinces, and intrusted him with that Imployment For a reward of his pains, which had not (B) been very vseful, he offer'd him a very good Prelacy three several times, and prest him to accept it, but Bossus excus'd himself gosum from it, and by his intreaties prevailed with the Pope to leave him in the condition ingenium he was in He stoutly opposed the Decree of Innocent VIII whereby all forts of Monks were ordered to give the Clerks of his Chamber part of their yearly Revenues He was five times Visitor of the Older, and twice their Procurator General at the Court of Rome I do not mention several Deputations wherein he display'd his Eloquence and other more necessary Qualities He compos'd (C) several Books that are worth

> (A) Gave the Ornaments of the Cardinalship to John de Medicis] John de Medicis was so young when Innocent VIII made him a Cardinal, that to falve appearances, it was thought fit to require of him, that he should be deprived of the publick Marks of the Cardinalship for three Years (a) Cum puer ad sacrum allum Senatum assumptus fuerit av Innocentio Octavo Pontifice, hac una explicita conan Innocentio Octavo Pontifice, hac una explicita conditione, ne palam infignibus uteretur, aut se ut Cardinalis haberet nisi triennio explicto ad augendam atatem. That time being expir'd, Matthew Bossus was chosen to Instal that Youth in the Dignity of a Cardinal. He perform'd that Ceremony with a great deal of Gravity in the Abby of Fiesel. Laurence de Medicis, the Father of John, chose him for that Function which was attended with a most magnificent Pomp. You will find a relation of that Ceremony in the 108th Letter of Matthew Bossus. The Author (6) whom I giver has inserted a long Ex-Monly in the 108th Letter of Matthew Bollus Ine Author (b) whom I quote, has inferted a long Extract of it in his Lyceum Lateranense. It appears there, that John de Medicis was but Fifteen Years (c) of Age, when he was nam'd to the Cardinal-ihip by Innocent VIII I need not fay that he was made Pope after the Death of Julius II by the

Name of Leo X

(B) Of his Pains, which had not been very useful]

Here is a glorious thing for the Memory of Sixtus IV One of his first thoughts after his Exaltation, was to correct the disorderly Life of the Nuns, and particularly of these of Grang (d) Kindum Sec. and particularly, of those of Genoa (d) Vixdum sa-cro diademate caput ornaverat magnus ille Pontifer Sixtus quantus de Ruere, cum homo Ligur mentem altam dingens ad sanctimonnales regionis illius, & coharentis insubna, adque Genuenses prasitim reformandas, quarum status patulas vias perditionis instraverat, tantam provinciam, tanque laboriosam, tali tempere du biann biam implicitam uni Bosso commendatam voluit Our Marthew was chosen for such a difficult Imployment, and of such a doubtful success, that he was ment, and of luch a doubtful fuccess, that he was unwilling to accept of it Nevertheless, he acquitted himself of it with great Courage and Vigilancy. He made publick and particular Exhortations as pathetically as he could, he animated the Magistrates, and shew'd them what they must do, he despis'd the Dangers to (e) which his Reputation, and even his Life were exposed, and he putation, and even his Life were expos'd, and he had already put things upon a good Foot, when the Governous of Genea, courupted with Presents, ceas'd to second him, and spoil'd what had been done (f) Que plane res Christo propitio & magistratibus luffi agantibus omnibus eo tum loci pervafit, atque iis fuit vallata & conflituta prafidiis, ut qui defidera-batur vitum piorsus foret babitura, nifi urbis tunc Prafilms alienatus magna vi munerum, quod maximum Il folet ad omne scelus incitamentum, à nobis turpiter d scisset, captaque emnia perturbasset, & qua erant 1111 atia sancisssimi, avarus ille atque insidus erant some time after, as the same Letter informs us, from which I have taken this Passage, the Magisti ites took more essecual measures to bring at last those disorderly Nuns to Reason Bessu heard that news with great fatisfaction (g) Quod ego (g) Ibid semper optavi qui Genuensem patriam istam singulari pietate atque constantia sum prosecutus, tuis literis audio feet. fier: Cives scilicet istos ardenter curare atque moliri ut tandem Monialibus suis istis minus honeste, m.fieri moliri ut tandem Monialibus Juis ifits minus honeste, minusque sobrie ac religiose versantibus modus adhibea ur, adhibereque jam caperint. The Magistrates forbad the Superiors of Nunneries to receive any Maids, they deprive them of their great Riches, which occasion'd the Luxury, and other Irregularities which they intended to reform Quad seribis modo concord, publicoque decreto quasitium, similique definitum omnibus atque propositum ne puella videlicct ea 195a in Monasteria ullo modo amplius excipi possint; videtur mini sane occumi modus, aptima ratio. definitum omnibus adque propositum ne puella vudelicet ea ipsa in Monasteria ullo modo amplius axcipi possini; videtur mishi sane optimus modus, optima ratio, addunt aque saminus istis magna opes & ingerunt somenta libidinum, ambitionis, delitiarum, & sumptium, quibus si vel en parte caruerint, in his fortasse frigescet ardens & petulea luxuries. Nota, That Bossis Care did not prove altogether useles, for tho' he made no general Reformation, yet some Nuns were affected with his Discourses, and renounced their disorderly Life (b). He had a peculiar knack to represent to the Nuns their Duty See the Letters which he writ to Ista Nogarala, a learned and devout Nun, to Violante Seraphica, to Cassandra Fidelia, to Antonia of Reggio, to Margaret of Mantus, who had a great deal of Wit, a good Memory, and great Learning, and to Paulina (i). He would have the Nuns (and he had good reason for it) to Converse but (k) seldom with Men, even with the most Virtuous, and to observe a great deal of Circumspection in that too o, what a good Advice was this?

(C) Several Books that are ments reading His Disloques Designed Selectuariants and the second of the parter
(C) Several Books that are worth reading] His tiam cui Dialogues De veris at falutaribus animi gaudiis De VIIIs Ibi inflituendo sapientia animo de tolerandis adversis, are (l) Gesul none of the least of his Works His Treatise De in Bibliot gerendo magistratu, justificaque colenda is a good one fol 505. Those four Books with another De immoderate muverso Those four Books with another De immoderate mulierum cultu, were re-printed at Straiburg in Quarte, in the Year 1509, with a Letter of Politian, wherein the Author's Life and Learning are very much prais'd (1) His Speeches, Sermons, and Letters.

are worthy of him, and have often been printed A new(m) Edition of his Works was made at Florence in the Year 1627 As forthe Commentary that he made on ione (n) Pieces of Cicero, it is not known whether it was printed, or not He mentions it in (0) one of his Letters (p) He had the pleafure to see four Editions of his Works; but because they were printed separately, he resolv'd to collect them into a Body, and to add to them some other Pieces that were still in the Dust of his Closet, or among the Papers of his Brethren

Werso

(m) Celsus
(m) Celsus
(m) Celsus
(m) Celsus
(m) Celsus
(n) his Closer, or among the Papers of his Brethren He intituled that Collection, Recuperations refulane, and dedicated it to Cardinal John de Medicis (q) de Rossais
Note, That he made a kind of Apology for Phala15 P 68 11. Tyrant of Arguigensum, and that he folidly Re16 July 18 July 19 July

(b) Celsus de Rosinis ub: supra

W. Ibid.

cauteque fanctis etiam cum VITIS Ibid (!) Gesner, ın Biblioth (m) Celsus (o) In the pifile to BartholoRéading; for they contain a very fine Morality, and are written in a pretty polite Taken Style for that Age What he writ about the (D) attire of Women and to hinder the revocation of the prohibition, which had been made them not to wear Ornaments, is very Christian He was esteem'd by the most considerable and the most Learned Persons of his time. He died at Padua in the Year 1502 being 75 Years of Age

BOTEREIUS (Rodelphus) Advocate in the great Council at Parus, who wrote Ceiena in the History of Henry IV See the Remark A of the Article BOTERO.

BOTERO, or BOTERUS (John) born at Bene † in Piedmont, flourisht 1649 in 164 about the latter end of the XVI Century He was Preceptor to the Children of fol tom Charles Emanuel Duke of Savoy, and died in the Year | 1608 He compos'd feveral 2 lib 1 pag 24 Books in Italian, which have been Translated into several Languages They are Re- & leq lations of the Government and Forces of divers States of Furope, or meet accounts + Which of Modern Events He also compos'd some $(A\triangle)$ Political Treatises, ϕ : Consider the Composition of Morers (A) with the observations that I shall place here under Thuanus he we called

luxur les

comprimeretur or crat mens, re-&ufque dolebant ornamenrorum licontinen-

Litiæque diferimine literis tam Id 16

injuria

Id 1b (c) Alu verò quo-

(a) Id 16 fult Morers (A) with the observations that I shall place here under Thuanus for, why he u call d

(b) Egistet (a) Phalaridem dudum Agrigentinum tyrannum ab oppositionibus Beneditti Calchi Concanonici tutatus est, occasione epistolarum quas ille scripsis, in quibus præter to ut publico decreto pe
(a) Phalaridem dudum Agrigentinum tyrannum ab oppositionibus Beneditti Calchi Concanonici tutatus est, occasione epistolarum quas ille scripsis, in quibus præter vice for the Instruction of Children Mr Joly who is Bau to de multa santissima & summo Philosopho & Christiano di thew Bossus, and cites several curious things catalogo

catalogo

that I shall place here under Thuanus the Remark C of the Article Pythagoras, and the Benefitus ovice for the Instruction of Children Mr Joly who is

multa santissima & summo Philosopho & Christiano di
thew Bossus, and cites several curious things catalogo

catalogo ex pulpirout publico decreto petulantior mulierum cultus, &c inpolitionibus Beneditti Calchi Comanonici tutatus est, occafione epistolarum quas ille scripsit, in quibus præter cloquentiam raram atque mirabilem, multa gravissimamulta santissima & lummo Philopoho & Christiano digna comperiantur Sacerdotium temporale Christi Dominiapocrifam cantilenam edidentissimis rationibus confutavit, scribens ad Policletum Phisum, quem tamen ineptissime Bartholomaus Cassanaus in suo Gloria mundi tus, & 1ntheatro inscruit ex libello ineptiore

(D) What he writ about the Attire of Women] vestimentorum

Timothy Mapheus preaching in Lent at Bologna shewed with so much force in his Sermons that Women should be forbid the luxuriousness of Cloaths (b) by a publick Proclamation, that such a Proclamation was publish Soon after there came out a Speech inscribed to Cardinal Bestarion Legate of Bologna, wherein it was endeavour'd to prove that Womens Ornaments ought not to be forbidden, and that it was just to revoke the Prohibition Mapheus, who was gone into Tulcany, as foon as Lent was over, did not find himself in a condition to confute the centure of the Ordinance that he to confute the centure of the Ordinance that he had obtain'd, nor to prevent the impression which the Womens Apologist might make upon People So that the Apologist's discourse was dispersed every where without any obstacle, and as it was an eloquent Piece, wherein the Author maintain'd a thing very agreeable to Worldly People, it was applauded by many but (c) wifer Heads were displeas'd that the curiousness of Cloaths so contrary to modesty, and so dangerous to chastity, should tiæ pudito modesty, and so dangerous to chastity, should find a parron who maintain'd it with all the Art of Rhetorick Wherefore our Matthew Bossus was instantly desir'd to consute him Note, that the Aılluftrapologist did not name himself, and that he suppos d that an honest Lady, whose Name was Nicolosa Sa-nuta pleaded the fair Sex's Cause He represented PAG GE her very much vext at that Prohibition, and making Heaven and Earth Eccho with her murmurs (d) Id 1b and complaints I don't know whether the Lady took it well that hei Name was made use of for a thing of that Nature, I only know that she was accounted a Woman of Honour (d) Open (e) It 16 sntituled men orna- ob turpitudinem nomen non cuderit Auttor suum, verum mentaBo- ingenuam ma ronam Mitolosam Sanutam loquentem admentaBononiensibus restituantur ad famina magu pra se serve videretui pudiciiam, honeBestaronem Cardinalem dinalem discourse massame an injuriam serve videretui pudiciiam, honesersimo, frugalitatem, antiquos mores atque animi connem Cardinalem sersimo Bessu undertook to plead the cause of the Preacher Malpheus, and wrote a very sine gatificodiscourse incribed (e) to Cardinal Bessario, to arque Legauffi cohorratio fome quote

it thus, immoderato mulierum cultu

for the Preacher Malpheus, and wrote a very fine discourse incribed (e) to Cardinal Bessario, to fome discourse incribed to Cardinal Bessario, to fome quote
to be permitted to wear again their Ornaments
That discourse had all the effect that the Author could wish, for the Decree (f) subsisted in all its force during that Cardinal's Legation When its force during that Cardinal's Legation When
its force during that Cardinal's Legation When the Business of the Preacher for the Author
to be permitted to wear again their Ornaments
That discourse had all the effect that the Author
could wish, for the Decree (f) subsisted in all its force during that Cardinal Bessario, to
to be permitted to wear again their Ornaments
That discourse had all the effect that the Author
could wish, for the Decree (f) subsisted in all its force during that Cardinal's Legation (g) Learned Man inscrib'd to Sanster Bessarios whose authority was very great in Bessarios wh whose authority was very great in Bologna. He was exhorted in that Piece to restore to Women the liberty of adorning themselves, and the Author was very angry with those that maintain'd the contrary. Bossas write very sine Letter to that Author, and handled the matter so ingeniously the brought him auto the right way.

he brought him into the right way (b) I do not wonder that he Converted his Antagonist, but I

(f) Id 1b

(g) Twas duarını of Verona

(b) Id sb

(1) In the factories That was the difficulty Hocogus, his later off I have faid (1) elsewhere that they were obliged to abolish such a Law in Rome. See also them Bossar, and cites several curious things catalogo Here is one of em (k) "One of the most difficult Geographo"things to obtain from Maids, is to take from rum adeal"them the curiosity of Cloaths and Ornaments comments." of the Body The reason of it is because Women Geographilove naturally to be fine St Jerom calls (1) the ci I eminine Sex Philocosmon (2), that is to say, that loves finer, and he adds that he knew many Wo- (k) Joly, men of great chastity who adorn'd themselves for institut their own fatisfiction, without a design to please dir enfans any Man It is therefore one of the particular im- pag 257

perfections that he reproaches Women with in 258 these Words to Eustochium (,) The affection of Women (1) In cp is very imperfect in that they place all their Glory in ad Gauthe outside, in their dresses, in their Gold, Jewels, and dentium outward Ornament: And to Dimetrias (4) When di Pacayou were in the World you loved the things of the tule inft World, as to whiten your Face, to raise your colour (_) Dike with Vermillion, to curl your Hair and adorn your wishop Head with borrowed Hair I say nothing of the richness of Diamonds, of the whiteness of Pearls fish at the bottom of the Red-sea, of the sine green of Emralds, of the lustre of Rubies, and of the Colour of the Sea that appears in Saphirs and Hyacinths, which are the object of the passion and folly of the Ladies of Luality (AD) Political Ireatises I shall mention but one, in That which is intitled, Della ragion di stato libri dicci, con tre libri delle cause della grandezza e ma-gnificenza delle città It was printed at Venice by the Gioliti in the Year 1589 in 4. The Author ob-ferves in his Epistle Dedicatory dated from Rome the 10 of May 1589 that during the latter Years he had very much travel d both on this fide and beyond the Alps to the Courts of Kings and great Princes Naudaus mentions Botero's Works in leveral Places of his Bibliographia Politica and ieems to value them

(A) More with the observations that I shall place In the bere under] Is it not a pleasant thing to See all Pied-virg mont erected into an Abbey? For we read in Moferver, Boterus Abbot of Piedmont A comma after Ab. (4) bot would be fomething, but it would not take off the carelesses of his expression. It is certain that that Author enjoy d an Abbey It was that of St Michael (1) in Clausula. He published his Works in Italian. And therefore Morers should not have faid that He publisht his Relations with this Title, Amphitheatrum sen Zelationes universales It is not true that Rodolphus Botereius from whom he must be distinguisher, calls himself indifferently BOTE-RUS or BOTEREY, nor that the History which he publish in 1610 reaches from the Reign of Henry II to the beginning of that of Lewis XIII nor that it is different from The Latin Work intitled Commentation ries in 18 Books, that we have in three Volumes in Octa-Here we many faults in few Lines I do not well know the French Name of that Advocate, who calls himself Rodolphus Botereins, in his Latin Books Father du Breul quotes him often, and calls him some times (m) Mr Raoul Boterey, iometimes (n) Boterays, Ut tacefometimes (o) Botrays, fometimes (p) Mr Boterays am de in fometimes Mr Bouterays (q) when he quotes the Poem (r) compos'd by that Author concerning the City of precis, ceum La teranense Abbatis Rofini, (.) Φίλο-(3) Imimus mulicfe&us Semperin vestibus, iemper Japidibus & ornamentis cus gloriam povirginit (4) Quan-do eras in feculo, ea quæ erant feculi diligebas polire faciem purpuriflo, & pingere, & alients capillis turritum verticem ftruere Ut taceam de in-margaritarum rubri maris profunda testantium, smaragdorum margaritarum rubri maris profunda tettantium, imaragdorum virore, cerauniorum flammis, hyacinthorum pelago, ad quæ ardent & infaniunt studia matronarum (1) Bäudrand in cataligo Geographor ad calcem lexici sui (m) Antiquitez de Paris Pag 10 14 edit. in 4 1639 (n) Pag 61 (o) Pag 426 (p) Pag 564 (q) Pag 726 (r) It is intituled Lutetia

T t t t Paris

* Thuan 116 95 PAE 280

(B) complain'd of Botero's Translator, and call'd him an Impostor. I shall set down his Words, which will make it appear that Ingraving serves no less than Printing to the falsitying of History, and that the License of Publishing the figure of a pretended publick Monument did not begin in our Days.

BOUCHER (John) a * Parisian Doctor of Sorbonne, and Rector of St Benner at Paris in the time of the League, was a Trumpeter of Sedition, and the most muture and heavy Man there was a money the Rabels.

+ Varillas Hist de Henri III Book 8 p 325 Durch Edit

at Paris in the time of the League, was a Trumpeter of Sedition, and the most mittinous, and hery Man that was among the Rebels "Their first assembly was held in the apartment that he had in Fortet College, in the Yes 1585 It was he || who giving Orders to Ring the Alarm-Bell in his Church the 2d Day of September 1500 contributed more than any body else to an Insurrection of the People, whereof the second proved so shameful to Henry III He became more insolent by the saccess that Day and the name Day has Proposed to howefully arrived the Kanada Day of the Second Research to the saccess that Day and the name Day has Proposed to have the Second Research to the saccess that Day and the name Day has Proposed to have the saccess to the saccess that of that Day, and the next Day he Preacht + brutishly against the King's Person, and against his Counsellors The Historians observe that the weakness of (A) that Prince was the chief Cause of the Boldness of the Rebels Boucher did not only prostitute his Tongue to the Leaders of the League, but also his Pen, and among other things he publisht

|| Thuan lih 87 p m 127

4 Concro-(B) a Treatife of the Lawfulness of deposing Henry III It was the most Infamous Sa-

natores us familiam ducerus ex ambone ın Regem confiliarios palam debacchari Id ib

Paris I think Mr Baillet turns Boterieus into Bouteroue in one of his Works The Catalogue of Oxford has Botereius, and besides Bosoreus and Bouthrays Among so many variations I do not find the Name Boterus, which Mr Morei places before two others The History that Botoreius publisht in 1610 begins only in the Year 1594 and ends at the Death of Henry the Great And theiresters in not true that it reaches from the Reseated tore it is not true that it reaches from the Reign of Henry II to the beginning of that of Iemis XIII It is intitul'd de rebus in Gallia & pens toto oibe gestis commentariorum lib 18 in tres tomos tribui. The sirft Volume contains 8 Books, and ends at the Year 1601 The Second Volume comprehends 9 Books and ends with the Three I irst Months of the Year 1610 The Third Volume contains only one Book of 24 Pages, which is only a relation of the Death of Henry the Great, and of what happen'd PRENO NIF of Henry IV's Avfolusion.

(a) Or the 50 according to the (b) At the making of Some Anights,

tis usual to fti ke im in the Cheeks or to Strike then Backs with ana-

ked Sword The thing

as done wery gently, but suppose

It were done several times

one after could an

Author Say

Jon that the Anight had recerved a hundred blows mith the flat fide of a Sword?

(c) Thuan

Histor L 113 Sub

fin p m 698 ad

(d) Th

ann 1597

with any Jhem of reaa few Days after

(B) Thuanus complain'd of Butero's Translator It was concerning the Abiolution of Henry IV mong other Ceremonies the Proxies of that King were to kneel near (lement VIII's Throne, and to bend down their Heads while the (a) 51st Pfalm was a Singing At each Verse the Pope touch'd them gently with his Wand, the Ritual orders it so, according to the old practice of the Ancient Romans in the Infranchising of their Slaves Henry IV was considered as a Man loaded with the Charge of Excompanisation, who was solemply ry IV was considered as a Min loaded with the Chains of Excommunication, who was solemnly set at liberty. It is certain that the Pope took too much upon himself, and that there was no reason to think it strange that the Protestants should blame him for it But a Man should have kept within the bounds of Truth, without currying the Jest too sar, otherwise it is no longer a just complaint, but a Satyr, and a malicious fillissication. This does not concern D'Aubigne, for his Confession, Catholique de Sanci being indeed a learned and ingenious Picce, but a burlesque one, all that he says is not taken in a Literal Sense. It is not the same with Botino's Relations, they are taken for grave and serious nariatives. The Latin Translator ought not then to have falfified them by supposing that the King's Proxies received a hundred blows with a Cudgel (b), and that the Pope caused a Column to be rais'd for a perpetual Monument of his I sumphoves Fance Here follows Ibuanu's compluint (i) Relationem de ea re a Joanne (d) Botero Benensi alus editis libris non obscuro vernace lo scriptam que Latine vertit, & Co-lonia cum inepia admodum & mendaci p chura typis excudendam cur voit, erga regem regnumque injuriosus fuit, quippe que in explicanda vindicta adhibita ratione fustibus casos procuracores dicit, quod maxime apud nos contumeliosum dicitur Deinde procuratores qui vestibus modestiae succedotali convenientibus induti erant cum penulis & glad is in scenam inducit, & columnam quasi insigne triumphantis de Rege & rigni calamitate Pon-rificis monumentum Roma erestam confingis. It is an uiual saying that Images are the Books of ignorant People Authorite should therefore scruple to put any fasse begins in their Books, for they deceive those who me least able to secure themselves from error. Nay, they deceive the Learned, for when a Man sees a Print that was Publisht at the time when the thing that is represented ought to have existed, he looks upon it as an Authentick Proof So that those who see that Figure of a Column whereof Thuanus complains, dare not doubt but that the Pope did actually raise that pompous Trophy And when a Man sees himself imposed upon by the Shew of those pretended Publick Monuments, he samot tell whom to trust, nor whether Medals, the Interpretions, or such other Monuments are most sincere than an Historian who is paid for writing History. This is a Confirmation of Historical Pyrrhonism. Let us remove the sadness of this Criticism with the Jests of the Seur d'Aubigné, "(f) Don't you bee, say "they, how the State submits to the Church, how "this brave King, after so many Armies deseated. this brave King, after so many Armies defeated, so many Subjects reduced, so many great Princes his Enemies prostrated at his Feet, has been forced to throw himself at the Pope's Feet and to the beginreceive some strokes with a Switch in the Person of the Converter and of Cardinal a Offat? who were laid down flat upon the Ground like two Makerels on the Gridiron, from miserary to vitulos. It is also faid that the same Game was plaid over again without noise between his Majesty's Person and the Legate

(A) The weakness of that Prince was the chiefest cause] See Thuanus (g) and (h) Mexera: This confirms what I have taid somewhere else, that connirms what I have faid somewhere else, that 3 in fol commonly it is not Tyranny that deprives Kings of Pag 644 their Scepters and Crowns, but their want of Ability to make themselves seared The Flatterers of (1) The 5th the People would fain persuade us that there is Book, the nothing to fear from them as long as a Prince governs well. This is a missake, an intriguing Man lar title does what he pleases with the People under a of which soft and gentle Government.

(B) And among ather things he Builded The Collins.

(B) And among other things he Publish a Treasista sis libroof the Lawfulness of deposing Henry III] This we rum Jo find in William Barclay's answer to that Book, which is part of (1) his Work against those, who fit de take up Arms against Kings Thuanus informs us of it more clearly still See the following Remark
The same Barclay observes that Boucher Publish a injusta, im
the same Barclay observes that Boucher Publish a injusta, im
the same Barclay observes that Boucher Publish a injusta, im
the same Barclay observes that Boucher Publish a injusta, im
the same Barclay observes that Boucher Publish a injusta, im
the same Barclay observes that Boucher Publish a injusta, im
the same Barclay observes that Boucher Publish a injusta. nother Book in French under the Name of Francis de I crone Constantin (k Quoniam turbas illas civiles prioribus tuis libris & concionibus excitatas accensaque in Reges od a, posterios: scripto quod patria lingua sub Francisci Veronensis Constantini nomine divulgasti non modo non mitigare C compescre, sid novo ar-tificio sovere & propagare de industria nisus es patere me tecum vehementius paulo, sid lenius tamen quam res indignitas flagitat, regum & regnorum omnium nomi-ne de hat injuria expossulare The French Book that he reproaches him with is yet more wicked nhan the Latin, for it is the infamous Apology for John Châtel this is the Title of it An Apology for John Châtel a Parisan Executed to Death, and for the Fathers and Scholars of the Society of Jesus banisht from the Kingdom of France, against the Decree of the Parliament made against them at Paris the 29th December nent made against them at Paris the 29th December 1594 divided into five parts. By Francis de Verone Confin 15 a convincing Proof that Barclay ascribes to Boucher that Apology of John Châtel, nevertheless I will yet make use of another reason I will quote a passage that leaves no manner of description it (1) Cur in springs alla & insami tag apologia, quam pro parricida & perduell manissage apologia, quam pro parricida & perduella manissage apologia, quam pro parricida & perduella manissage apologia per particida & perduella distribution apologia per perduella manissage apologia per perduella perduel rium perditi adolescentis conatum, facinusque omni me-moria execrandum, in Regis itidem Christianissimi & (si alium Gallia unquam habuit) clementissimi, peru-ciem meditatum, ut pulcherrimum & prope divinum at-que omni en parte heroicum commendassi? Barilay hav-

(f) Con-fess Ca-shol de Sancy B 1 ch 1 în

(a) Hifter 126 127

This (b) Tom

III abdı-Francorum reg-

(k) Gull Barclaius , 1 5 contra

(1) Id lib б сар 25

Francfort Edition 1628 which I make use of, has Bokero

* So Fe call'd Henry IV born in Bearn + Cavet Chronol Novenaare fol ad ann Mezerai, Abr Chronol ad ann 1594 PAR

(a) Thu-an Hi-

ftor leb 95 pag 280 col 1

" III

tyr that $(B\triangle)$ could be made. It is very likely that he was an accomplice in the $(B\triangle\triangle)$ Enormous Action of James Clement. He was so much the bolder after the Dearh of that Prince, because he could alledge for a pretence that the Successor was actually and notorionity a Huguenor That pretence fail'd him to his great grief, when Henry IV profest himself a Roman Catholick; nevertheless he persisted in his sirit opimon He continued to preach, that People ought not to obey him, and he publish't (C) Nine Sormons which he Dedicated to the Cardinal of Placentia, wherein he maintain'd that the Abjuration of the * Bearnois was but a Feint, and that his Absolution was void In spice of his Teeth, and notwithstanding his bermons, and Libels, the Parifians submitted to Henry IV The next day after the reducing of the City his † Sermons were burnt at la Croix du Tiroir. But he persisted in the Party of the Leaguers, and went | into the Netherlands with the Spanish Garrison, which had been in Para during the League, and which marche out the 22d of March 1594 He obtain'd a Canonship at Tournas, and died Dean of the Chapter of that City Fifty Years after, but his humour was very much (D) alter'd, being as zealous a Frenchstrain among Foreigners, as he had been a fursous

ing faid these things, praises the Apology which the Jesurs had publish't, wherein they detested Charses's Astron and confest that he was justly punisht, as a Parricide We shall see in the Remark F that Cardinal d' Offer was of Barelny's Mind, concerning the Author of the Apology for John Châtel

(Ba) It was the most affamous Sutyr that could be ade } Thuanus relates that William Rose Bishop of Foundary relates that William Roje Bishop of Senier, the little Feuillant, the Jesuit Commolet, Genebrard, Feuardent, Launos, (a Minister who turn'd Papist,) Boncher and some others defamed King Henry III with a prodigious rage both with their Tongues and in their Anonymous Libeks, and that at last they thought it an Honour to put their Names to those Satyrical Writings. He adds that Boncher was so bold as to put his Name to the Book in one them, that was Printed in sine Characters for in question, that was Printed in fine Characters for Nicelas N King He vented in that Book the most follows ble things against the King Read what follows for soft Bucherus de just He vented in that Book the most abomina-(a) Hac fiducia fectus librum scripfit Bucherus de justa Penrici III abdocatione nomen suam professis apud Ni-celaum Nivelium characteribus elegantibus expressum, neque dun, cum Ren voucre desist, consummatum, quo non alsud stagistosses toto illo estrenata licentia tempore publicatum es, eoque rabula impudentissimus innumera dictu sond es auditu berrenda per summam calumniam.
Regi assingebat, proper qua eum tanquam a communi-

(b) A Domin can Monk, who kill d Henry

Henry

Reg: affingebat, propect qua eum tanquam a communione ecclesia ipso jure - cclusm, omns regni jure excedisse, be legitime abdicatum, ac tandem justo Des judicio de impalsu intersectum esse collegebat

(B\(\Delta\Delta\)) That he was an accomplice in the Enormous Attion of (b) James Clement] "Mr Antony Loysal "left in Writing in his Journal that the same Day
"that the King was wounded, and before they had
"receiv d the News of his Wound, he heard Dr Boucher's Sermon at Saint Merry's, who said, to com-"ther Sermon at Sains nerry s, which have been a fort his hearers, that as on that Day, the First of the Month of August, in which they celebiated the Feast of St Peter in Bonds, GOD had the season of the Sain Bonds, GOD had "deliver'd that Apossile out of Hered's Hands,
"they ought to hope that he would do them the "like favour Whereupon he did not icruple to advance this damnable Proposition, that it "was an Act of great Merit to kill a King, who is "a Heretick of a favourer of Hereticks The o"ther Preachers, going Hand in Hand with him,
"Preacht at the same time with more passion and stury than ever they had done against Henry de
"Value, and the same unexceptionable Witness "says, that he gave the People, almost certain
"Ropes that G O D would soon deliver them
"from him Which made many Persons believe "that they had been accquainted with the horrible design of that Parricide (c), I take this from Mainbourg, an Author, who is not over hafrom the publishs Nine Sermons | He publish them the first time at Person He made a 2d Edition of them at Douby after he had left France A poor comfort for his vexation to see upon the Throne a Prince, when he had so much reviled in dehver'd that Apostle out of Hered's Hands, a Prince, whem he had so much reviled in his Discounses and Writings Thumus uses him as encufas, poften cum ab en exularet, Dunce in Atrebatibus

(d) Thuhe delerves. (a) Inter ess vero, says he, mus reper-turest Jeannes Bucherus & Benedictic Curso, que maledian histor tunes Jammes Bucherus S. Benedici i Curio, qui maladi-cendi rabie efeneras cum in defunctum regem contant-hofus fuiset, in hunc injuriofus esse voluit, & IX. lou-gas conciones ad Medornes fanum hobus do simulaça Hen-nico Berhanis Reventis Promepis ad exclessam reconcilia-atione, & invita absolutione, quoe amo proximo kalend Mart Cardinali Placentino inscriptus et typis in urbo / 107 pag. 558 ad ann 1593

Executioner of the Clergy from being enervated See the Mercure Josute, in the first Volume, a Work that is as cribed (f) to James Godefroy the Son of Denys

Tttt 2 (E) Is

recadendas curavit, furore nondum per secutam rerum conversionem ant locorum aut tempores intercapedinem

Here you have the whole Title of that Work according to my Edition, Some Sermons concerning the feigned Conversion and the nullity of the pretended abfolution of Henry de Bourbon, Prince of Bearn at St Dennis in France, Sunday the 2 th of July 1593 on the subject of the Cospel for the same Day, Attendite à fassis prophetis, & Math y deliver'd in St Merry s Ghurch in Paiss, from the first day of August following, to the Ninth of the said Month By JOHN BOUCHER Destor of Divinity Nonne qui or derunt te Domine oderam, & super inimicos tuos derunt te Domine oderam, & super inimicos tuos tabescebam? Psalm 138 According to the Copy Printed at Paris for G Chandiere, R Nivelle, and R Thierry, in St James's Street M D XCIIII The approbation of the Divines of Paris is to be seen on the bick of the Title Page. The Epistle Dedicatory to the Cardinal of Placentia Legate of the Holy Apostolical See in the Kingdom of France is dated from Paris the ist of March 1594 and figned I B from Paris the 1st of March 1594 and figned I B. The Advertisement to the Reader fays, that leveral things have been added to those that had been Preach'd. At the end there are formula in the second Preach'd At the end there are some Letters of Henry IV to the Canton of Bern, to the Lady de Tinteville, to the Queen of England, to the City of Rochelle, and other such Towns, and to some private Perfons, who were Huguenots

(D) But his humour was very much alter'd] The continual revilings of the Flemings against the French could not but waken by degrees a natural ten-derness for ones Country in the Soul of that mutineer People were not very well perswaded of his change at Paris in the Year 1625 for the Libel that came out at that time against France, and whereof we shall see the Title here under, was ascribed by many Persons to Boucher But he donied it in some Letters; here is what we find upon this in the Mercure Francois, (e) To prevent People from knowing that this Book was first Printed in Italy, it has been written that it was first dispersed in Flanders, be-fore it was handed about in France, and that Doctor fore it was handed about in France, and that Doctor Bouchei (who is yet living at Tournay, and who formerly wrote several Books onthose matters during the League of 1588 and the following Tears, and against the Most Christian Kings) is the Author of it But that Doctor having notice of it, protested in some Letters that he writ to his Friends at Paris, that it was falsy ascribed to him, and that upon the U ord of a Priest he had not seen that small Book Initialed Admonitio His Letter was also showed to the curious, which removed the surter was also shewed to the curious, which removed the su-spition that was entertained of him, and made it fall on the Jesust Eudemon Joannes, a Greek by Nation, who came into France with the Legate

There never was more indignation shewed in France against any Book than against that It was Intil'd G G R Theologi, ad Ludovicum decimum tertium Gallie & Navarra Regem Christianissimum, ADM O-NITIO, sidelissime, humilitanis, verissime falla & ex Gallio in Lainum translata Qua breviter & nervosèdemonstratur Galliam fæde & turpiter impium fædus intisse, & injustum bellum hoc tempore contra Catholicos movisse, salvaque Religione prosequi non posse Augusta Francorum, cum facultate Catholici Magistratus Anno M D C XXV It was condemn'd by the Sorbonne, and by the Assembly of the Clergy of France The Lieutenant Civil caus'd it to be burnt by the Common Executioner The Parliament of Paris made several Decrees to hinder the censure of the Assembly

Etiones Castanæi

curel ran-COIS tom XI pag

(f) Vide præfar Samuel ad distinHId ib

Spaniard in France || His Character may be known by the discourse which I mention in the Remarks, It is a (E) reproof that King Henry III gave him Upon the News that he was to come to Rome, Cardinal (F) d'Offat intreated the Pope to cause him to be Imprison'd, and spoke vigorously to him against that Mutineer. Can any thing be more horrible than the complaint he made to the Duke of Maienne, after the just punishment of those who had caus'd the first President Brisson to be hang'd Had he not the impiety to say that these profligate wretches were, Martyrs (G) of JESUS CHRIST'

BOUGI (The Marguss of) Lieutenant General in Armies of France in the VII Century Look for REVEREND

XVII Century

BOULAI (Cafar Egasse du) in Latin Bulaus, Register and Historiographer of the University of Paris, taught Rhetorick many Years in the College of Nevarre He Publish'd a Treatise of Rhetorick intitled Speculum Eloquentia, which was valued. His Treasure of the Roman Antiquities which he publish at Paris in the Year 1650 in Folio, is not only very useful to those who understand only French, but also to those who understand Latin Divers Cases of his Composing have been seen about the differences that arose concerning the Election of the Officers of the University, or such like things Those Pieces shew his zeal for the Faculty of Arts, and the great Knowledge he had of the Usages and Customs of that University The Work that will chiefly (A) immortalize him, is the History of the University of Para, which he publisht in Six Volumes in Folso The impression of it was stopt * for some time, but the Commissioners whom the King appointed to examine what was aday printed, and the Author's design, reported that nothing could hinder the impression from being continued

\cethe Mercure Galint 1 vvemler 1078

(a) See the ournal of Henry III on the 30 of De-cember 1587 Pag # 109

(b) The

wherein

Cardinal d Offat Ipeaks thus mas written from Rome the of December 1600

() V 17 the Pope (E) It is a reproof that King Henry III gave him]
That Prince ient (a) for the Parliament and he Faculty of Divinity to the Louvre, and severely reprimanded the Div nes for their insolent and unbrided liberty to preach against him and all his Actions and addressing himself particularly to Boucher Rector of St Bennet, he call d him a wicked Man, and told him that

tis Uncle Poisse, who had undefervedly been a Counfellor of the Court, was a wicked Man, but that he Jellor of the Court, was a wicked Man, but that he was worse still, and that his Companions were but little better He added that he directed his Speech particularly to him because he had been so impudent as to Preach that he had caus'd Burlat a Doctor of Divinity of Orleans to be drown'd in a Sack, thô the said Burlat and the said Burlat and the said Burlat and the said with the said Burlat and the said Burlat of Orleans to be drown d in a case, one of orleans to be drown d in a case, one of orleans with lat was daily cating, drinking and making merry with bim, telling them moreover, that they could not deny bim, telling them moreover, that they could not deny orderiously unhappy and damn'd for that they were notoriously unhappy and damn'd for two reasons, the one for having standered him their Na-tural and Lawful Prince in the Pulpit of Truth, and Spoken Several calumnies against his Honour, which is forbidden them in the Holy Scripure The other that coming out of the Pulpit after having flander d and told many out of the Pulpit after having flander d and told many Lics of him, they went directly to say Mass at the Altar, without reconciling thimselves and confessing the sa d Lies and slanders, the they Preacht daily that if any one has told a Lie or spoke evil of any body what sever, according to the Words of the Gospel, he must go and reconcile himself with him before heresints himself at the Altar Nothing can be more solid than this censure, but it is not for a King to make use of it, he ought to have recourse to other Arms, and it Hinry III had as well known the art of Reigning as the morality of the Gospel, he would not

it Hinry III had as well known the art of Reigning as the morality of the Gospel, he would not have been reduced to the condition of a Catechist in relation to the Preachers of Paris

(F) Cardinal d'Ossa intrested the Pope to cause him to be Imprison'd. The account he gives of it to Mr. de Villeroy will discover the Actions and the Character of that Man more and more. Wherefore I set it down at length (b) "I told (c) him "also that Doctor Boucher had left that Country. alio that Doctor Boucher had left that Country before the faid Count, to come to Rome to visit LIMINA APOSTOLORUM PETRIE PAULI, in the Name of the Bishop of Tourney who had given him a Cannon-thin in the Chiese. thip in his Church And here upon I expos'd to his Holineis the violence and rage of that Man, the Books that he had written against the late the BOOKS that he had written against the late King, and since against the Life and Conversion of the King now Reigning, maintaining (d) the particule attempted by John Châtel, and exhorting every one to finish what that Murtherer had begun, and that he had also written several things against the Authority and Particular things against the late and Conversion and Particular things against the late and Conversion and the late and Conversion of the late King, and since against the late and Conversion of the King now Reigning, maintaining (d) the particular things against the late and Conversion of the King now Reigning, maintaining (d) the particular things against the late and Conversion of the King now Reigning, maintaining (d) the particular things against the late and Conversion of the King now Reigning, maintaining (d) the particular things against the late and conversion of the lat things against the Authority and Power of the Pope and the Holy See, and was yet more obstinate and violent to this Day than ever, and that there was but too much Cause and reason to make him a Prisoner, and punish him according to be desires for his crimes and blace. " according to his deferts for his crimes and blaf-"phemies But if his Holiness's Goodness and Clemency, and the condition of the Times and other considerations did not permit him to use

" that Man fo rigorously as he deserved, that at " least his Holiness should shew him, by not admitting him to Kiss his Feet or otherwise, that fuch Persons were unaccepable to him, and ought not to expect from his Holiness the reception and favours that are due to good, peaceable and mo-derate Men The Pope answer'd me, that he re-membred he had formerly heard of that Man, and also that the Sieur Malvaisse at that time Nuncio in the Netherlands had writ to him, that he faid the "Pope could not absolve the King His Holings."

"askt me whether he was come I told him, had a state of the wear o as he, one cannot forbear faying that in this World wards all things are Sarcrificed to a Political interest, and which the National hatred They knew he was a Man, who Spaniards National hatred They knew he was a Man, who Spaniards to fatisfie the rage that transported him against bestowed the Person of Henry IV overturn'd both the cipon shose, vil and the Ecclesiastical Authority He took the Power of Absolutions from the Pope, he submitted Crowns to the coprices of Subjects, and the Life of Kings to the Knives of Assissis Those the murticular of Kings to the Knives of Assissis Those the murticular were as opposite to the Faith of the Spatherers of niards, as to that of the French Nation Nevertheless they were tolerated in that Doctor, because he hated the King of France, and as I have already faid, they gave him some Benefices Nay, They are said the life of the 1st of National hatred They knew he was a Man, who ration of Philip II I have not been able to find our vet whether he made an end of his Journey or not 1598 Cardinal d'Offst writ (f) the 20th of January 1601 that he had been told that Boucher remain'd (f)'Ti, the Sick set Cologne. He was not the only one whom the Spaniards protected and rewarded in the Netherlands ter in the Did not Mongaillard fo well known by the Name of Edition of the little Femillant, one of the Panagyrifs of the Mur Ame there of King Henry III obtain (g) an Abby? Internal works with the little femillant, one of the Panagyrifs of the Mur Ame there of King Henry III obtain (g) an Abby?

the little Feuillant, one of the Famegyrifts of the Mur Anne there of King Henry III obtain (g) an Abby? Let de la (G) Were Martyrs of JESUS CHRIST Lauffale These are Thuanus's Words Joannes Bucering Carlos S Benedicts homo vecers Catholicorum bonomia (g) That zelotarum nomine Orationem exposulatoriam ad Lyum of Orval.

colorarum nomine Orationem exposulatoriam ad issum of Orval. (Meduarum) habuit, qua publicam ultionem, carniscinam, minita supplicio sacinorosos assessos, Dei marty res insigni impudentia vocabat (h)

(A) Than will chiesty immortalize him is the History of the University) See here what Mr Baillet says of it (i) "The reasons for ceniuring that great ad ann "Work seem to lessen, by degrees, and all of em 1591 will perhaps vanish away at last, that the pub see also indeed mix'd with good and bad things, but is see also indeed mix'd with good and bad things, but is see also indeed mix'd with good and bad things, but is see also indeed mix'd with good and bad things, but is see also indeed mix'd with good and bad things, but is see also indeed mix'd with good and bad things, but is see also indeed mix'd with good and bad things, but is see also indeed mix'd with good and bad things, but is see also indeed mix'd with good and bad things, but is see also indeed mix'd with good and bad things, but is see also indeed mix'd with good and bad things, but is see also indeed mix'd with good and bad things, but is see also indeed mix'd with good and bad things, but is see also indeed mix'd with good and bad things, but is see also indeed mix'd with good and bad things, but is see also indeed mix'd with good and bad things, but is see also indeed mix'd with good and bad things, but is see also see also indeed mix'd with good and bad things, but is see also indeed mix'd with good and bad things, but is see also indeed mix'd with good and bad things, but is see also indeed mix'd with good and bad things, but is see also indeed mix'd with good and bad things, but is see also indeed mix'd with good and bad things, but is see also indeed mix'd with good and bad things, but is see also indeed mix'd with good and bad things, but is see also indeed mix'd with good and bad things, but is see also indeed mix'd with good and bad things, but is see also indeed mix'd with good and bad things is see also indeed mix'd with good and bad thin

(B) Du

(d) This heres that Cardinal d Offat believed that the pretended I rançois ne Conflantin. Will wrote the Apolo-e) for John (hatel 1 A. 710 0th r than JohnBoucher I'was alla William Barclay's opinion iec above · / Rereary B

Du Boulas (B) was not of Tours, as it has been commonly believ'd the 16th of October 1678

+ Catherinot, Calvinilme de Berri PAE 3

Meich Asum in vit exter Theolog pag 143

B That 11, in the Year

2 Notethat re, but al-So Dutchess of Rerry

Asifter of Henry II and Dutchess of Bouquin had pre-Senseabher with his Book intituled de I'homme parfait Id ivide pag 145" "Takenfrom bis Life Melchior Adam ubi fupra

(a) Id 1b

PAG 170

Bail

316

(b) Menage Anti-Baillet

BOUQUIN (Peter) a Carmelite, took his Degree of Doctor of Divinity at Bourges the 23d of April 1539 † He was Prior of the Convent of the same City, and might have come to higher dignities in his Order, if he had not rather chosen to leave it in order to go to the Protestants in Germany || He went first to Basil in the Year 1541 where he spent the Winter Afterwards he took a Journey to Wittemberg where Luther and Melanchthon received him very kindly His design was to go to a good Friend in Melanchthon made him alter his design, and engaged him to go to Stranday; where they wanted a Man to fill up the place which Calon had left vacant by his return to Geneva He read Lectures in the College of Strasburg on the Epistle of Saint Paul to the Galatians Some time after he returned to France, where he had a Brother who was Doctor of Divinity, and who did not hate the Protestants He lodged with him at Bourges, and did not return into the Monastery. Heshusius taxed him falsly with having return'd into it Bouquin being perswaded by his Brother that there was reason to hope for the Reformation of the Gallican Church, read Publick Lectures on the Hebrew Grammar, and afterwards on only Queen the Holy Scripture He did it without a Salary, but after he had waited upon (A) of Navar-Margaret de Valois, when she went by Bourges at the time of the Marriage of her Daughter Join d'Albret, he was gratified with a Pension by, that Princess's Order, who betides procured him the place of Preacher in the great Church of Bourges with the Archbishop's consent. Those employments and those gratifications continued after the Death of that Lady, for Michael de l' Hôpital Chancellor of another Margaret de Valou, who had the same inclinations as the first, brought her easily to make no altermations as the first, brought her easily to make no altermations as the first of the found have ration in Bouquin's Fortune But that protection was at last insufficient, he found himfelf expos'd to so many dangers, that seeing no likelihood to make his Labours serve (a) Melch, for the Work of the Gospel, he parted with his employment. Which did not stop the ill designs of his Enemies. They brought him into trouble, and he was obliged to Theolog plead his Cause before the Parliament of Paris, and atterwards before the Archbishop exter page. of Bourges, not without the hazard of his Life He had the good Fortune to avoid 145 all those dangers, and took care not to be any more expos'd to them He return'd (B) to Strasburg, where he exercis'd the Ministry in the French Church for some Months Otho Henry, Elector Palatin invited him to Heidelberg in the Year 1557 and made him Professor of Divinity That imployment exercis d Bouquin's Patience very much (f) Chauby reason of the disputes about Ubiquity, and the real presence They endeavour'd to suppress them at the conference of Maulbrun, at which he was present in the Year 1564 but it had no better effect than most of the Assemblies of that nature, which Printed in exalperate the Wound instead of healing it Being turn'd out of his place in the the rear Year 1577 with all the other Professors, who wou'd not adhere to Lutheranism, he was 1566 invited to Laufanne, where he taught Divinity till his Death, that is, till the Year 1582 see Colomics Gall (D) affifted (D) affifted Orient

> (B) Du Boulai was not of Tours] Mr Baillet > (a) who makes him a Native of that City, was cenfur'd for it by Mr Menage, whose Words are these > (Ab) Calar Egasse du Baula (b) Calar Egasse du Boular was born in the Village of S Ellier, in the Lower-Maine, which is the last Parish of Maine on the side of Bretagne That which led Mr Baillet into this mistake is, that du Boulai was Dean of the Tribe of Tours in the University of Parus Whereupon

"Tours in the University of Pais , Whereupon Mr Menage tells us that in that University the French Nation is divined into 5 Tribes, which bear each of them the Manne of an Archbishopick Those 5 Tribes are the Divine of Paris, that of Sens, that of Reims, that of Tours, and that of Bourges The Members of the Nations are of the Tribe that bears the Name of the Archbishopick which is their Native County, or of the Bishopick where they were been holding that Archbishopick And therefore Casar Egaling that Archbishopick And therefore Casar Egaling was of the Tribe of I ours Mr Patin is therefore mistaken when he says that du Boulai was of the Province of Anjou I shall set down the whole passage, because the Reader will find in it at what time the History of the University of Paris at what time the History of the University of Paris was begun to be Printed, and what was then faid of it "(c) The University of Paris have appointed a Learned Man, whose Name is Mr Boulas, "of Anjou, who taught for several Years Rheto-rick in the College of Navarre, to write the Hi-ftory of their Body, Studie Parificalis It will make several Volumes in Iolio, the first is going "make several volumes in Iolio, the first is going to be put in the Press, it gives an Account of the State of Learning at Paris before the University, and then it explains and proves the Foundation of it by the good King Charlemagne in the VIII Century, and the continuation thereof (A) He had waited upon Margaret de Valois] I add, that he presented her with a Book of the Ni-ceffity and Use of the Holy Scripture, and that he presented another initialed of JESUS CHRIST the Spiritual Spowse, to the Princess Joan d' Albret He was the Author of those two Pieces (d) Note, That no Professor of Divinity had a publick salary at Bourges before him, and none after him (e) Stipendium ex arario publico ei numerari justit, (Regina Stipendium ex armio publico ei numerari justif, (Regina Navarræ) quod nec ante nec post eum Theologorum concessum fuit nemini. Here is a passage of John Chau- ed in the meau Lord of Lassa (f) The Destors whom I lnew in the Noble University of Bourges are Mr Peter Bouquin, Professor of the Hebrew Tongue, &cc (B) He returned to Strasburg] Melchior Adam to Basil forgot a circumstance, that informs us of the Year for Oporiof that Journey, which is, that Bouquin left Bourges with the Civilian Francis Baudouin, and went with him into Germany Baudouin seys so himself, and that it (b) Printed

him into Germany Baudouin fays so himself, and that it was in the Year 1555 (g) Cum jam septem annis in ea Schola (Bituricensi) Balduinus magna cum laude fecisset officium suum, tandem, qui fuit annus M D LV da-re se capit quibusdam eum in Germaniam ad excitanda purioris jurifirudentia studia vocantibus Comitem & (ut loqueris) asseclam habuit Boquinum in the Year nunc vestrum Dollerem Thelogia Eum non recusamus in the Year

testem totius profectionis

(C) The List of his Books] I give it such as I find it in Melchior Adam (b) Desension ad calumnias Do-Horis cujusdam Avii in Evangelii Prosessores (i) Ex-(1) Examen libri quem D Tilemannus Helbufius inscripti de præsentia corporis Christi in coena Domini The ses de cana Domini Exegesis divina communicationis (k) Adsertio veteris ac veri Christianismi adversus novum O sistum Jesustismum (l) Brevis notatio praculavium casavam dutumnisti and praculavium dutumnisti and p puarum causarum duturnitatis controversia de cana Doimni (m) Causones quibus desenditur siciona morbis (n) Ex Christi hoc est corpus meum, & controversia de cana Domini acque similium dijudicanda certissima ratio demonstratur, item adsertio ritus frangendi & in manue sumendi panis Eucharistici (n). The Dates that I
pag 147

Histoire P# 32

> (g) Bal-duinus ubi infra.

ed at Hei-delberg 1579 in 8

1576

(m) Prin-Heidel ber 1563

(c) Patin, 2 wol Letter 218 datal the 1660 pag

6 Colo-Gall Oriental p 33 33

*Vie continuée de Made-Bourignon, pag

† Ib pag 16 17

Ib pag 20 & vie exterieure pag 148

terieure pag 150

† Ibid pag 149

Ibid pag ifi & ieq

1 Twas the Village

* fbid pag 166 (D) affifted him in the misery to which the Reformed had reduc'd him Confult the Gallia Orientalis

BOURIGNON (Antoinerte) was one of those devout Maids, who think themselves to be directed by particular Inspirations, for which reason She was call'd a Fanetick She publish a great many Books full of very Singular Doctrines, and there was something extraordinary in her Mind from her Instancy to her Old Age She was born at Liste the 13th of January 1616 so ugly, that it was debated for some Days in the Family whether She should be * stiffed as a Monster Her desormity lessen'd, and they resolved to let her live At sour Years of age She knew already that Christman did not live according to their Principles. She desir'd to t be carried that Chrishans did not live according to their Principles She desir'd to † be carried into the Country of the Christians, for She did not believe that She was amongst them whilst She observed that People did not live agreeably to the Law of JESUS them whilft She observed that People did not live agreeably to the Law of JESUS CHRIST. One of the greatest vexations She had in her Family was that they had a mind to Marry her; She did not desire it, a Numery seem'd to her a thing to be preferr'd before a Husband. She (A) perceived her Mother was too unhappy in a Married State s, not to fear the same inconveniency besides (B) She was endowed with a Surprising Chastity, and She found an extraordinary delight in weaning her self from sensuality to unite her self to her Creator in a most intimate manner. Her Father, nevertheless promis'd her in Marriage to a Frenchman. The time was already appointed for the Wedding, and to avoid the performance of it She was forced to run away on Fasterday 1636. It was not to throw herself into a Cloyster. She came to a know that the Spirit of the Gospel did not Reign in Convents. But it was to retire into some Desart. She dress herself then like an Hermit 11, and sted as fast as to retire into some Defare. She drest herself then like an Hermit ||, and sled as fast as She could; but because She was suspected in a Village of Hamault to be a Maid, She was stopt. She never run so much hazard, as to her Virginity, as at that time. She still into the Hands of a Soldier, who did not let go his hold but by a kind of a Miracle The Curate of the Place 4 deliver'd her from that danger, and observing the Spirit of GOD in her, he mention'd her to the Archbishop of Cambray, who came to examine her and advis'd her against a Hermite's Isse, and persuaded her to return to her Father's She was soon after troubled again with Proposals of Marriage, which obligid her to run away a Second time She went to the same Archbishical states. of Blacon her Father's shop, and obtain'd leave of him to form a small Commonality in the Country with some other Maids of her humour. He retricted it a little while after, which oblig'd Antomette to go into the Country of Luge, from whence She return'd to Flanders, where She spent many Years in a retired I ife, and in great simplicity, but not without infpiring a great deal of love into a Man, who pretended to Devotion that he might pag at have Access to her He propos'd to Marry her, and not finding her plyable, he try'd have plac'd an the Margin, are taken either out of the Lpitomy of Gesner's Bibliotheque, or out of the Sacramentary History of Hospinian I have found a Book in that History which Melchior Adam does not speak (a) Print- Of, viz. (a) Petri Boquini justa desensio adversus inju-ed in 1562 stam vim Hashusti & Villagatnomi de judicio Phihppi Melanchthonis ad Elettorem Palatinum miffo de cana Do-

(b) Reiponi 1d Calvin & Bezam prokiane Balduino fol 71

(D) Baudouin fays be affifted him in the misery He expresses this in a most odious manner (b) Ipse cum votes & audebit Bauguinus idoneus testic erit quem vos quin vos sugiens Gallus Germanis initio se dabue tam erudoliter persocuti estis, ut niss si subvenisset liberalis miseritordia Balduini qui miscrum aleret, vostra clementia hominem same O frigore enestium jugulasset Atque is tamen dicebutur paulo post mortuo Prinzipe Otthone Henrico abs vobis corruptus voscita spe osta nova, O mbi volus turpiter fervire capit repente, vestro indicio en ferido hireo (sisut: paulo ante loquebamini, ad bomini momen alladontes) facius entellus Melitaus qui volus esfet in delicuis. Thus lie reprosches Calvin and Beca, for having first persecuted that Man and afterwards carest him according as he proved a Friend or an Enemy to the Luckerous

(A) She perceived her Mather mas too unhappy in a Married State] If I did not bring a Proof for what I advance here, one might perhaps think that I have not well undershood the Author whom I queets, for in short this is not to reject Marriage thro's motive worthy of Mrs Bourgeon to shun it because it is troublesome. One might therefore it because it is troublesome the Life of hat Maid, has not faid what I relate Let us prevent that rash Indument by a good question "(c) That Cheid has not laid what I relate Lot us prevent that rain Judgment by a good questation "(e) That Chrid observing that her Father was harfit to her Mother, and that fametimes he fell into a pallion against her, after having indeavour'd to fosten him with her Chaldish Embraces, for which her Father had fame regard, she wou'd they aside, where considering what a miscrable thing it was to be Married to a troublesome. Husband, She address her salls to G.O.D. ty. ing, My GOD, my GOD! Grant that I may we-

which St Agustin lamented to have made before the follow-his Conversion, Lord, Give me continency and chaing Restity, but do not give it me so soon Fearing to be too soon cur'd of that Damnable and Pleasing this did not Charm Wherein it is to be believ'd he has more accomplices and Brethren, than Mrs Bourgnon, yet a Child, has imitators of her Prayer " That times, and therefore. "yet a Child, has imitators of her Prayer " That timer, and Author's reflection is very good The gift of continency is not a thing that many Perfons care for the tip and tip

(B) She was endowed with a Surprising chastisty] See here what what is faild of it in her Life "(d) pended
"GOD gave her the gift of chastisty and conti"nency from her Child-hood in such a perfect
"manner, that She has oftenessed She never had and for the
"in her Life time the loss thought, no not by
"temperation or surprize, that can be unwarrhy come temperation or furprize, that can be unworthy of the purity of the Virginal Scare St. Terris fays of her felf that GOD had formerly for your'd her such the fame Grace. But Mrs. 2018 regions possess to a further an abundant manner, that it redounded, if one may say so, on those (a) that were with her Her presence and Conversions distinct distinct an odour of Continency that made one forget the Pleasures of the Flesh, "and I have it to the experience of those who imagini"Read her Books with application to judge whe"ther they do not feel fome impressions of it,
"and some inclinations to that Vertue which is a pleasing to GOD." Have I not Reason to fay that the Chastiny of that Mand was Supprising? In School Temas it might be call'd not only Immanent, Thomas of the chasting the call of the control of the fay that the Chaftery of that Maid was Surprifing? In School Terais it might be call'd not only Immunent, Thomassum but also Transferve, since its Effects were diffused in School-ourwardly, and were not limited to her Person I thank your Mystical People rather use the Word Prosecute, than the Word Transsurve, for I remember a (f) Carebusian says that the Holy Virgin Carthusiand a PENETRATIVE VIRGINITY, whereby those who look't upon her, tho' She was so beautiful, had none but Chaste Thoughts He adds that Saire sold had the Cift that goes by the Name in 1622 that Smith of the differ that goes by the Name in 1622

(e) We shall see in not a thing

(f) Peter Garnefelt Cidamones facra an 5 libros de

(,) Vre continuèe de Mademorfelle Bourignon pag

to supply by (C) the strength of his Arms what was wanting to the efficiety of his *Viecon discourse But She implored the protection of the Magnitrates, insomuch that this timuse, false Votary was obliged to address himself to another devout Maid (D) whom he pag 128 found more tractable. Our Antoinette who had resolv'd to renounce her Patrimony & It was for ever, bethought the feet (E) and took possession of it again. She became Gothe Hosverness of an Hospital with Year 1653, And shut up her self there in a Cloyster pital of in the Year 1658 having taken the Order & and the Habit of St Angustin. By a Dame det very strange Fatality, Sovery proved so general in that Hospital that & all the little strange.

of INFRIGIDATION, which kept his Body and Soul free from all Sense of impurity It seems to me that the Talent, which GOD had granted to Mrs Bourignon, ought to be call'd by that Name That Word would admirably re-present the Effect which She produced on her Neighbours The Gift of Infrigidation ought to be that which makes those cold who come near us But fince use must determine the force of terms, I will not insist upon it. I shall only say that the Clause the' She was never so beautiful, which the Carthusian made use of, is not a botch or a needless Parenthess. It was Effectial to his Subject, the wonder lies in that a for nature might very well confer a penetrative Virginity without Grace. well confer a penetrative Virginity without Grace A certain degree of ugliness would be sufficient for it. Wherefore I wish the Author of Mis Bourienon's Life had inserted in the above quoted place by way of Parenthesis, that the Gift of continency which She diffus'd outwardly did not pioceed from any ugliness or loathsom thing that was observed in her I conclude with a reflection, which would be approved by a majority of Votes. I believe there are not many Young Nuns that pray for a Penetrative Virginity. The (a) most Vertuous are contented with the Gift of Continency, and would be very unwilling to mortise all the desires of the Men that look upon them. They would think themselves too much disgrac'd by Nawould think themselves too much disgrac'd by Nature, did they believe that they need only shew themselves to make Men Chast, such a thought would not please them I believe therefore that the most sublime and rarest degree of chastity, in a Woman, is not only to wish to be Chass, but alfo to make all those Chass that are round about her, and with whom She converses Generally speaking Women do not desire that this Gift should have a great Sphere of Activity, they are con-tented to have it confined within the space which they take up

(C) He try'd to supply by the Strength of his Irms]

That Man's Name was john de St Saulieu. He was the Son of a Peasant, and if all must be believed that is said of him in the Life of our Antoinete, the was a great Rogue. He infinuated himself in that Maids favour by a devour countenance and a most Sublime Spirituality (b) The first time that he applied himself to her he spoke like a Prophet, but like a moderate and reserved Prophet, who having made an end of his Prophecy retires softly without explaining any thing, and without injufting to make himjelf believed

(1) the Second time he spoke to her hi pretended to be a Man Illuminated, Chapitable and Familiar with GOD Having well infinusted himfelt he declai'd his Having well infimuted himself he declai'd his passion Mrs Bourignon took it heinously, and the spark seem'd to be forry for it. They sell out and more seconciled, and at last he would use force see there what the Lady says of him (a) Being space in my House, he was so importunate and insolent made me that I was oblig'd to give my Maids notice to match him, and to shut the Door of my House against him. For he came often with a Knisse in housement, which he presented to my Throat, if I would not wield to his wicked desires, insomuch that I was at last oblig d to have recourse to the Arm of Justice, because he threaten'd to break the Doors and Windows of my House, and to kill me, though he should be hang'd for it en'd to break the Doors and Windows of my House, and to kill me, though he should be hang'd for it in the Market Place of Liste The Provost gave me two Men to secure me in my House, whilst an information was making of the inselences that the said S Saulieu had committed against me. The conclusion was that the matter was made up between them, he promised never to go to the place where She should be, and retracted his (e) Slanders, he protested that he knew her to be a good and vertuous Maid. That Pious Maid, had not always had a good same, nor the Talent of inspiring Chastity. If ay nothing of the design of the Officer of Horse (f) who seized her in a Village, when she was disguised like a Hormit being about 20 Years of Age, Soldiers, especially when they are lodged in a Village, are cure pag very dangerous upon such an occasion, and but little penetrable by a penetrative Virginity Waving therefore this adventure I shall only Speak of the Nephew of the Curate of St Andrew's near pag 200 Liste Mrs Bourignon (g) had shut up herself in a solution in the Neighbourhood of that Parish The Curate's Newhor fell in Lore with her the page 100 to the Neighbourhood of the Parish Trust of the Curate's Newhor fell in Lore with her the page 100 to th Curate's Nephew fell in Love with her He was so for first that he walkt continually about the House, and did not cease to discover his passion by Words and Address's I his soliting Lady thicated to leave passion of the World from that importance Person The Uncle thrush him out of the Voice Man through the North Course Man through the his House Then the Young Min turn d b s love teneure into rage, and somet mes disclarged his Gun through the pi 216 Chamber of that Recluse, and seeing that he gund nothing by it, he gave out that he was to Miriy her The thing was notifed about all over the Town her The thing was noised about all over the Town over, the devoit Women were offended at it and threatn'd to affront Mrs Rourignon, if they found her in the Streets. The Preachers were oblig d to publish that there was nothing in that Mairiage. I don't think She was forry to let the Publick know that She had appear d to lovely to fome Men, that they pufficiently defined to Marry exteriestics. Old Maids are pleased with telling such Stource, pag

(D) To another devout Maid whom he found more trasfable] St Saulsen having made an agreement (1) Ibid with Antoinette, went to Ghent He had he will pag 194 there of a devout Maid till She was with Child, and then he return'd to Lifle Mrs Boursenon affirms it (b), and here are other circumstances of it see. (1) Et qui ing, says She (1), that he could to Marry me ledic, by love or force, He kept company with one of cum pemy devout Maids, who seem a also a mirror my per rit, neich seems, and got her with Child, after which he would Pudoi not Marry her till after many intreaties and endeavours of the faid Maid, who at last mollisted his Heart by her Agamemof the said Maid, who at last mollisted his Heart by her great humility, and he Married her a little before She mone, all was delivered of a Child. He lived very unchassive as well as She. I do not wonder at it, for the most distinct step is that of the Door is soon as a devour. Woman has once gor over that suit step by some galantry that hath made a noise, her Honour is lost Now modelty (k) once term dout of doors teldom returns again. What the Scripture says in general that the Devil transforms himself into an Angel of Light, is particularly very true of the bleed to an Angel of I ight, is particularly very true of the bl sed to Devil call d Asmodeus, who is that of lewd-reassume nets. The Bigots have invented a thousand Arts my tempoto make a great many devout Women full into the had a fincere defire to behave themielves chafily lie who let upon Mrs Bourignon made her believe (1) that he was quite dead to Nature, that he had been some Years a Soldier, and was return'd from the War a Maid though several Women had inticed him to lewdies, and had even come to bed to him with an ill design. That he had remained firm, because he converst daily in his Spirit with GOD. He told her alio that he had loft he taste of Meats and Drinks by his great abstinencies and mortifications, and that he could not difern del ghtful Meats from course ones, nor Wine from Bear or Water That all those things seem d to him to have the same taste, that he low d the one as well as the other without discerning them Hereby we may know ferue for that a Woman's Honour lies in the center of a Circle, the circumference whereof is blockt up by a thousand forts of Enemies It is a Mark the 2d) which Men tiy to hit all manner of ways, and even by the appearances of the most Mystical and discovered liluminated Theology Witness Molinos, and the Quietists of Burgundy [Double to me that?]

(E) She bethought her felf and took possession of her Patrimony again | Three (m) devotional reasons his Glory persuaded her to it, for it she had not retaken it, this is the she had left it to those, it did not belong to, who 3d) Vie would have made an ill use of it therefore to exterie-spare them the crime of possessing the estate of ure pig others, and of making an ill use of it, Sh thought

Girls leurs at exteri-

(g) [ra-

urc, pag

rit, neicit

(m) I found ral chate. have it to thofe, w hom it long to, (this is and rather than it Mould (This is

(a) I omit rare inflances of Wommy, gured their Faces, lest they should occasion a tempja-$1.000

(b) V10 continuée pag 133

(c) Ibid PAE 134

(d) Vie exterieure pag 196

(*) You must know that when he faw me rejected his propoial of a Marriage, be gave out enery where, that She had prom:sed to Marry him, and had laim with her The whole . Town talk'd of ıt, many believed it and were offended at de la pa-role de Dieu pag

(f) Vie exterieure Pag 155 & fuiv

+ Vie con- Girls who were kept there, had contracted with the Devil Ill Tongues took from then to occasion to give out † that the Governess of that House was a Sorceress: The Magnifrances pag 220 of Lifte for upon Mrs Bourgeon; they fent some Sergeants into her Cloyster, they had her before them and examined her She answered them pertinently, but believing || Ibid that her Adversaries had as much credit as passion, she did not think it proper to remain exposed to their profecutions, and therefore she fled to Ghent. This happen'd in 1662. She was no sooner at Ghent, but GOD || discover'd some great secrets to her she got a Friend at Mechlen who proved always Faithful to her. His Name was Mr de pag 226 † Ibid PAE 231 Cort it was, if one may say so, her first Spiritual Child-birth, but it gave her the same pains as a (F) Child-birth in a proper Sense That † Man being twice such B The Isle of North-strand fame pains as a (F) Child-birth in a proper Senie That † Man being twice successively divinely warned, and threatn'd if he did not obey that inspiration, had lent almost all his Estate to some Relations, who had a mind to drain an a Island of the Country of Holstein that the Sea had overslowed, and thereby he had acquir'd the (G) Tenths, and the direction and part of that Island He sold a Seat there y Ibid pag 280 to Mrs Bourignon, , who prepar'd to retire thither in the Year 1668 after She had 3 Ibid pag 265 & leq (H) published at Amsterdam her Book of the Light of the World She had written a many Treatises, and Letters in Brahant, and even on the disputes of the Jansensts and Molinists, since her Persecution at Liste Her stry at Amsterdam with her dear Proselyte Mr de Cort was longer than She thought She was visited there by all sorts & Ibid pag 284 of Persons, without excepting the a Imaginary Prophets and Prophetesses. This made her hope that the retorm which She Pieach t might take effect Nevertheless sew Persons took a firm resolution to conform to it Labadie (I) and his Disciples were willing to > that She ought to take it from them, and defign it by GOD's order to a good use. It did not leffen under her direction, on the contrary it increased, for her Expences were small and she gave no Alms So that She might convert the superfluous part of her income into stock, and She did not fail to do it Not that She was covetous, she possess her Lstate without any affection, and the poverty of Spirit did not for sake her in the midst of her Riches What was it then She would have enough to make greater expences for the Glory of GOD, when there should be occasion for it. The reason why she spent so little in Alms, was because She found no body that was in a real poverty, and She was affaid People would make an ill use of what She should give away She her self informs us of those Articles of her Morals felf informs us of those Articles of her Morals The Temporal Estate I have, says She, (a) fell to me by Succession, or increast by what I could not spend or give, because I could not sind true poor enough, or honest Persons in necessity Therefore I have been sometimes on bliged to increase my stock out of the superstumes part of my income, because sobriety requires no great expences, and the true poor are so scarce that they must be sought for in another World For the assistance that are given in this wretched age serve often to commit more sins Wherefore he who has a greater yearly income those we Sins Wherefore he who has a greater yearly income than w necissary, is obliged to increase his stock in hopes of finding necissary, is obliged to increase his stack in hopes of sinding an occassion to imploy it to the greater Glory of GOD. They who accuse her of Fanaticism, would make a wrong choice of their Proofs, if they should alledge these. There is nothing here that savours of a Visionary or of a Fanatick. Every thing in it shews a subtil Wit, and increway of arguing. See the Remark M.

>
> (F) The same pains as a Child-birth in a proper sense? It shall set down the whole passage though it be somewhat long, whereby, it will appear that

(F) The same pains as a Child-birth in a proper Sense I shall set down the whole passage though it be somewhat long, whereby it will appear that the Disciples of our Antoinette were not always upon the high strain, and that they descended sometimes from the sublimity of their devotion to the innocent jests of the Men of the World (b) When GOD gave him to Mrs Bourgnen, it was after a very particular manner, and as the first of her Spiritual Children, for whom She felt great bodily pains, and like the pressing pains of Child-birth. For it is a certain thing and known by the experience of all those who have converse with her, (the wicked and impassous scoffers may say of it what they please,) that when ever any persons received so much light and strength by her Words or Writings, as to resolve to sociale all, to give themselves to GOD, She felt, wherever She was, some pains and throws like those of a Woman in slabour, as it is said of the Woman whom St John (c) saw in the 12th of the Revelations She felt 'em more or less, as the truths which She had delivered, had more or less strongly operated in Mens Souls; which occasion'd an innoted in Mens Souls; which occasion'd an inno-cent Jest of the Archdeacon of Mr de Corr For as both of them were discoursing with Mrs Bearignen of the Christian Life and of their good and new resolution, and Mr. de Core having

" faid that She had felt more pains for him that that the other, when they refolv'd to be born again according to GOD, the Archdeacon, considering that Mr de Cort, was fat and corpulent, whereashimself was but a little Man, and seeing that he valued himself for having cost their Spiritual Mother dearer than he, told him imiling, 'tis no wonder that our Mother suf-fer'd more for you than for me, for you are a very large Child, whereas I am but a little one Which Repartee made them all Laugh "

"a very large Unite, whereas a new out a large "one Which Repartee made them all Laugh"

(G) That Man had acquir'd part of (d) Ibid that Island He was (d) one of the Fathers' of pag 230 the Oratory, and their Superior at Mecklen, and moreover the Director of a House of poor Children The expences which he had been at to refettle Narthstrand tended to prepare a retreat there for the perfecuted kriends of GOD. He thought that he had been divinely inspir'd, that such was the design of GOD. (e) and presupposing that the Jan- (e) Ibid design of GOD, (e) and presupposing that the Janfourless were those persecuted Friends of GOD, he drew many of them out of France, Flanders, and Holland, into that Island, pant of which he fold to them
He resign also all the rest than he had there, and all his rights and pretensions into the hands of the Orasory all his rights and pretentions into the names of the Orasory of Mechlen upon certain conditions, which they did not benefity aerform to him, for which he had afterward a redreft. All this was attended with great Law Suits, the Sieur de Coré (f) was Imprison d at Amsterdam, in the Month of March 1669 at the profecution of pag 330 the famous Jansenist Mr de Saintamour, who went by the Name of Lewis Gorin Before he was put by the Name of Lewis Gorin Before he was put into Prison he was severely censur'd by a Bishop (g), who call'd him a Heretick, (h) and a Man, who (g) Is was covered the Riches of this World to the prejudice of probably those whom he had deceiv'd by falling Lands in Norththe Bishop strand, a Man given to drinking and suspected of having of Castologic his Faith and chassing and who suffer'd himself to be researched by a Maid of Lille, with whom he lived to the great scandal of every body. He remained Six Months (h) Ibid. in Prison, and did not come out but by chance the went into his Island where he was Poyson'd and died the 12th of November 1669. I am but a france. died the 12th of November 1669 I am but a franf-criber, and do not warrant the Facts that I borrow from the Books which I quote from the Books which I quote

(H) After She had publishe at Amsterdam]

The first Work that She publisht is a Letter to the Dean of Liste concerning the State of the Workl and the Judgments of GOD. It was Princed at Amsterdam in the beginning of the Year 1668 and inscreed in the 2d part of the Light born in Darkness, wheneas She makes the 5th Letter (1)

(1) Labadie and his Dasables] Amsumetts would pag 282 not join with them. Understanding that Mr de Cort had a mind to carry them into Northstrand, She told him. (k) you may them on this them without me. (1) Third

She told him, (k) you may then go thisher without me , (k) Ibid She told him, (2) you may then go the town without me, (k) Ibid Because I perceive and know that we can never agree pag 290 together Their epinions and the Spirit that governs them one alongsther contrary to my light, and the Spirit that governs me? "She had already had fome in—"ward sentements about him from God, and a Di—"wine Vision, wherein he made her see in the Spi"rip a bitle Man very husy with a great Pole in

(a) Ibid PAR 140

(b) Vic continuéc. pag 235 might have been added that Sr Paul speaking of himself m relation to those I id converted, makes ufe of a Word, ml ich fignifies to be ne males filioli mei quos rur-

TIO Galat

6 4 W 19

settle with her in Noordstrandt Mr de Cort consented to it, for they offci'd great t seevic Sums of Money to buy the whole Island, but the Lady rejected their proposals She had some conserences with some (K) Cartesians, and form'd a very strange Idea of their Principles She compos'd more Books at Amsterdam, than She got Sectators Her conversations with God were very frequent there She learnt a great many | Ibid particular things by Revelation, and it was then that She had the Visions that I spoke Pag 380. of in the Remarks on Adam † Mr de Cort died the 12th of November 1669 and made her his Heiress, which exposed her for some time to more persecutions (L) pag 384 than her Doctrine Being moreover Sick and ill attended She endured many miseries She left Holland in the Year 1671 to go to Noordstrandt She stopt in several places ? Ibid of Holstein, and was obliged to dismiss some Disciples, who were come to lift themfelves under her banner | Perceiving that every body minded his own conveniencies & Ibid and ease, She conceiv'd that it was not the way to make a flock of new Christians She pag 391 provided herself with a printing House, for her Pen went as fast as the Tongue of others, I mean like a torrent She had her Books Printed in French, Dutch, and German She found herself very much defam'd by some Books that were publish't among the content of the state of the gainst her Tenets and Morals, and She vindicated her self by a Work which She intitl'd Testimony of Truth, wherein She mightily inveighed against the Clergy This was not the way to find peace Two Lutheran Ministers sounded the alarm a- * In June gainst her, and wrote some Books wherein they said, that some Persons had been 1677 buint and beheaded, whose opinions were more tolerable than those of Mis Bourignon The Labadists & wrote also against her She was forbid to make use of her Press + Ibid She retir'd ? to Flensburg in the Month of December 1673. Her Lnemies came to pag 580 know it, and stirr'd the People so violently against her calling her a Witch and Circe, that she was very fortunate to be able to retire privately Persecuted from Town to | Nouvel-Town, She was at last oblig'd to leave Holstein, and She ictir'd a to Hamburg in the Republicant 1676. She was sate there as long as they knew nothing of her arrival, but as des letfoon as they had notice of it, they endeavourd to fecure her, God knows how tres, April they would have disposed of her, if She had been taken. She hid herself for some 1685 days, and went * afterwards to East Friesland where the Baron of Lutzburg grant- art 9 ed her his protection She had the direction of an Hospital there, and She confectated her cares and industry to the good of that House, but not her (M) Purse She found the page of the She She cook in the Post of House in the Year likewise some persecutors there, so that She took + the Road of Holland in the Year 585 1680 She died | at Francker in the Province of Friesland, 4 the 30th of October of the same Year The rubs She met with in Germany did not hinder her from writing many Books It would be a very difficult thing to give an account of her System. No coherency must be expected from a Person who ascribes every thing to immediate inspirations. It cannot be denied that it is a strange crior to pretend, as

(a) Benjamin Furley, an Englishman, a Merchant at Rotterdam, s moderasi Zunker within thele few Years, and a Man of wit and learning, writ floutly against ber, and made is bu bufiness to thew that She contradiffed her-Self

(b) Thid PAE 295

(c) Ibid PAE 306

(d) Ibid P#K 295

his Hand to hinder the fall of a great Building, or of a Church that was falling, and by some conferences that She had with him, wherein "conferences that She had with him, wherein "She indeavour'd, but in vain, to dissuade him "from going to brave the Synod of Naer-"den, and to convince them of their wicked do-"Etrine of predestination She was fully persuad-"ged that he had no other light than what the "learned of these times have, Reading, Study, "some barren Speculations, and some Acts of his own Mind, and for a Motive of his conduct, "only some infatuation and the motions of coronly fome infatuation and the motions of cor-"rupt passions, without being any ways inlightined by GOD himself, nor directed by the calm motions of his Divine Inspirations" This passage will not be useless to those who have a mind to know by what Spirit our Antennette was led It was a Spirit that would not fuffer any companion or Collegue Wherefore we have seen all Sects against that Maid, and that Maid against and Sects. The very (a) Quakers have also writ against her

(K) Conferences with some Cartesians] Amongst others with Mr Heydanna and Mr Burmannus They (b) were but little latisfied with her, nor She with them The method of the Cartesians was not her busi-ness She would not have the light of reason to be ness She would not have the light of reason to be consulted, whereas their Principle is to examine all things by that Touchstone She (c) affirm'd, that "GOD had shewed and even expresly declared to her, that this error of Cartesiansim was the worse, and the most carsed of all the herefies that ever were in the World, and a formal Athersm, or a "rejection of GOD; in whose place correst reason was set up" Which agrees with what She said to the Philosophers, "That their (d) Disease pro"ceeded from their pretending to comprehend all things by the activity of humane reason, with-" things by the activity of humane reason, without giving room to the illumination of divine Faith, which requires a ceffation of our reason, mind, and weak understanding, that GOD may diffuse or revive that divine light in it Without which GOD is not only not well known, but also he and his true knowledge are

"driven out of the Soul by that activity of our corrupt reason Which is a true kind of Athein sim and rejecting of GOD." This passage is fit to shew the principles of the Bourgnonist.

They agree pretty well with those of the Quiesists (e)

(L) To more persecutions than her doctrine.] They begun many Law Suits against her to hinder her from enjoying the Succession of her Disciple, and manes if some were animated with Zeal against her errors, there were some whose Zeal for her Listate was no less daring. This latter Teal heightned of corides the first, for some of Mrs Bourgnon's Persecutors cryed out against her doctrine, that they might exclude her from Mr de Corr's Succession. This may be seen at large in her History.

clude her from Mr de Cort's Succession This may be seen at large in her History

(M) But not her Purse! I have already spoke (f) of the reasons whereon her Husbandry was grounded What I am going to say shall be a supplement to it. When She accepted the care of that Hospital, She declar'd that (g) She consented to contribute her industry as well for the building, as for the distribution of the Money and inspection of the poor But without ingaging any part of her Estate. She alleged two reasons for it, one was that she had already consecrated her Estate to GOD for those, who sincereconfecrated her Estate to GOD for those, who sincerely endeavour to become true Christians. The other was, that Mankind and all humane things are inconstant, so that it might happen that those in whose favour She should part with her Estate, would make themselves afterwards unworthy of at This was an admirable reason, never to part with any thing, and to put off all manner of gifts till She should make her last Will The Lady found by experience that She was not rashly diffident of the inconstancy of Men, She not rainly diffident of the inconstancy of Men, She was so far from finding any body in East-Friesland that deserv'd to have her Estate, (b) that She could (h) Ibid not so much as find any upon whom She might bestow pag 505 part of her revenue, meeting with none but poor, who had nothing less at heart than to think of a Christian Life, who made use of what was given them to theat, guztle, and live in idleness. Nevertheless She and one of hor Friends distributed to them for some Months certain U u u requences

Ibid pag 586 2 Ibid * Ibid PAR 590 † It concern d be extremely that be Free should not be known, by reason of her perlecutors Ib it is faid the did, that the true Church was extinguished and that the I iturgical exercises This last Tenet lies extremly (N) open to Pericof Religion ought to be laid iside cution It is fit to remember (0) that the Journalists have mention'd the Works of Antoinette Bourignon She had this in common with most Devotos, that She was of a (P) " cholerick and morose humous. Notwithstanding her pecvishness, and all the statiguess and crosses of her I see, a one would not have thought her to be much above 40 Years of Age, when She wis above 60 She, had never made use of specticles. The * most remarkable periods of her Life, as her Birth, her coming to be an Author, and her Death have been Characterized by Comets. The Author of her I ste was not aw ise that by saying this he give occition to think, according to the common Hypothesis, that this Maid was as a scourge of Providence, and not a Holy Prophetess. The vanity and the + danger She found in having her Picture di awn, hinder'd her from fuffering it to be done She had a very fingular opinion (2) concerning ANTICHRIST, which seemed to be taken from the Hypothesis (R) of many Doctors concerning the Incubus's See John Mollerus, 1 Luther in Author, in his introduction to the History of

pag 586 | Ibid

(a) Nul-

los idhi c inveni

(vere pau pirir) & tic consti tui mca bona ad hunc ufque diem

icrvare

Lum ten

part 4 p 215 apud

apolog relat pag 78 Vel-

78 Vel

occalio-nem ha-

berem ea (bona mea) idelomani Dei im-sendendi. tune ne uno qui-dem die ictine-rem 1cd t ullam

huculoue mvem multifunt QUICIALcipcient, icd non impende

rent id gloiim Dei ut

destino

Ib pag 61 apud eund

Sukindorf 16 pag 79

(l) April 1685

9 & May 11 8

ego facere

Sickend

revenues of that place, which were annexed to that Hofpital by the Founder But when She was ask't, whither She would not contribute something of her own, She answerd in Writing, that because those poor liv'd like Biasts who have no Souls to Save, and abus d the gifts of GOD instead of giving him thanks for them, She and her Friends would rather choose to throwtheir Ffates, that were conserrated to GOD, into the Sea, than to leave any part of 'em there Which She and her Friends have also carefully avoided in all their transactions, lofar as to refer ve to themselves the rest tution of the Money they should get for the day wherein they would retire from that place. Other Countries were not better provided with Persons that deserved her charity So that this Head (a) of expence did not cost her much. It seems to me that the Childien of this Age are not much more prudent in their generation, than those Children of Light We shall see in the Remark P that her humour was not to spare those who stole any thing from her She took it very ill that her I riends had not indited those Thieves

(N) Lies extreamly open to Persecution] Two vepow iful interests ingage the directors of Chuiches to oppose that Tenet the one is the interest of the whole Body, the other a personal interest Take from the Church her Publick Assemblies, her Rites, Liturgy, and Discipline, and you take the way to ruin her before the third generation So that it is a Maxim destructive of the Church It is moreover personally prejudicial to the directors, for the more that Tenet is followed, the fewer People will be found in Churches, and fo the puns that he taken all the Week to prepare a Sermon become almost fruitless, whether one designs only the convention of the heuers, or to be praifed, or both these things together

(O) Ile Journalists have mentioned the Works of Antomette Bourignon | See (b) in the Nouvelles at la Republique des Lettres a Memorial of Mr Poisset on that Maid's Lite and doctrine But in the Journal of Leipfick (c) there is an extract of her Works which has occasion'd a dispute. An anonymous Author complain d very sharply of that extract, and iccus d the Journalist of a great many falshoods A very ample, and claborate (d) Apo logy was made for that extract Those who will not take the trouble to look over all that Lady's Wittings, and yet are desirous to know many things of her, need only see that Apology

(P) Of a cholerick and morosh humour J Mr Sic-

(P) Of a cholerick and morosi humour] Mr Sickindorf tound iomic Proofs for this in that I ady s Wittings Multa vessing, says he, (e), in scriptis ejus apparent, ex quibus judicari posset faminam hanc duram, immitem, per vicacim, stomachabundam, rixosam fuisse. It happen'd at last that nobody could endure her all humour, and particularly her Mads fuisse. It happen'd at last that nobody could endure her ill humour, and particularly her Muds were oblig'd to leave her Unde fastum ut nomo equas in sodali ium aut familieum adsciverat exerce-batur nerpe in illas, ut lust Satyricus, Præsectura do-nius Sicula non mittor aula (f) The solitoring pittige will confirm this "It those who liv d nuary 1686 pig with her had not had strong Teeth to digest some " Crusts very hard to corrupt Nature, they would

(d) The Act Enuditorum of May 1687 Speak of it The Index of the 10 fish Volumes of that Journal informs us that Mr Seckendort is the Author of the Apology Mr Mollerus says so like-wise in hu lingoge ad Historiam Chersoness Cimbrica, parte 2 pag 16: 162 (e) Seckendorf in the Apology for the Journal of Leipsick pag 76 77 (f) ld ib ha e left her a thousand times for one And in-'he e left her a thousand times for one. And in"deed of so many Persons who have known and

"followed her, there were not four left that She "would have kept with her (g).' Note, that She did not pretend that her anger was a fault, She call'd it love of justice, and maintain'd that it was a true Virtue, and alledged in her vindication the rigouis that the Prophets, and Apostles us d She leverely censur'd those of her kniends, who had not find the Roots who had stolen something from not fued the Boois who had stolen something from her and when her Friends excus d themselves, saying they did not know whether she would have had them projected with rigour, she told them that this were but the excuses of corrupt na use, which will not take contipains and avoid inconvenies. Then she find nuce, page vith a strong Voice, Once for all, and I have so of 477 ten repeated it, we must prevent coil and oppole it with all our might, whereever we find it (h) How does this agree with the patience that is so much recommended to us in the Gospel."

(Q) She had a very fingular opinion concerning A NaTICHRIST | She believed he would be a Devil incarnate When She was ask d, whether it was possible that he should be born of Men and by the operation of the Devil, She answer'd, (1) Yes Not that the "Devil can do this alone without the cooperation of Man, but having power over lascivious Men, when they misuse the principle of Fecundity

the Devil carries it into his Witches, of luti offro whom he causes wicked Men to be born, who percita ne ill dedicated to him, and are true Anti- campo christs And that the Devil will incarnate himdecurrit felt in that manner." She believed that the per quem "left in that manner" She believed that the per quen Reign of Antichrist ought to be understood two magnus ways, the one Sensually, and the other Spiritual equos ly In the 1 Sense, it will be the visible Reign of Tanasa Devil incarnate, and that is a thing to compare the description and the different summus that appear in all the Christian Societies, and (k) Anter hereupon Sh. gives herself a full scope, and tails omnia that appear in all the Christian Societies, and (k) Ante hereupon Sh gives herself a full scope, and rails omnia most bitterly against all those Societies, and spares no more the Protestants than the Roman Catholicks As to the true and Sensual Antichrist, a Devil incurnate according to her Principles, She had known him so well in a Might Vision ratified, that caput, She gave a description of him, whereby one might principle what complexion, (1) fature, and Hair he pem & flould have The Verses that contain'd that description have been support. should have The Verses that contain'd that description have been supprest, I say the Verses for She pretended to make some, without the law and seem in a few words what is meant by a ratified Vision. Mrs Rourigion little (n) valued the Visions that are made the by the interposition of the imagination If She had any straight kind, She suspected them till having the communicated them to GOD in a prosound recollection, uncertained such as was distintangled from all images, She learn'd tractavit, from GOD what She ought to think of them, and GOD indeque ratified the truth of 'em to her in so pure, so intimate, and in libris ratified the truth of 'emto her in so pure, so intimate, and in libris so private a manner, in the recess of a Soul so disingag'd de Anti-and so given over to COD, that there could be no mixture christs of lumane thoughts or diabolical illusions. In that manner omains God ratified to her the truth of the Vision of Antichrist cunion (R) Hypothesis concerning the Incubus's confust The opinion that certain Persons of an extraordinary refert, linquens quod non Antichristianum & diabolicum facia! effrent & incredibili maledicentia Seckendorf ubi supra, pag 154 (1) Vie continuée, pag 267 (m) Omnia ex Deo didicerit, etiam rythmorum artem, in qua quidem ita versatur ut facile sidem inveniat se nullo magistro usam esse Seckend ubi supra, pag 154 (n) Vie continuée, pag 266 267

(z) Vie continu (lee the A. pology for the fourne of Leipfick pag

(4) Ibid ?*8 555

(k) De ipirituali Antichrifto longe plura tia-Etat & ve₌ confinihilo

tamen mi um cœtus centum nihil rethe History of the Chersonnesus Combrica, where he relates several things concerning + Pute 2. Antoenette's abode in Holstein, and concerning the Writers who attackt her +

pag 151

If She was predestinated to be the instrument of some revolution of Religion, that Lot was not affign'd to her Person, nor to the Ministry of her Voice It will rather be an effect of her Writings, for during her I see She had but a very small number of tollowers, who after her Death decreased every day in the Countries where She was most admired. They want but little of being reduced to an Unity, I mean to one fingle individual. But it is not the fame thing in certain Countries that were never honour'd with her presence Her Books have fructified beyond Sca, some Persons in Scotland, like her Doctrine, and undertake the propagation of it. They have made themselves formidable, and it was thought necessary to take Pen in Hand in order to stop their progress. They have taken the same weapons to defend themselves, that conslict of Books continues still. You shall see the (5) extract of a Memorial which a very worthy Man has communicated to me

BOURIOTE (Claudius de la) a Soldier of Fortune, who rais'd himfelf by his Valour I ool for I ABOURLOFE
BOXHORNIUS, Professor at Leyden Look for ZUERIUS

BRACIIMANS Indian Philosophers, of whom Strabo relates sever il things that * Strab are very fingular. They begun so early to take care of their Scholars, that they sent some lib 15.

I carned Men to the Mother as soon as they knew that She had conceived. Those p m 490 ex Megaf-I caned Men feem'd to go thather to give their Bleffing to the Mother and the Child, thene that She might have, a happy time, but their Chief delign was to give her good Piecepts. If the Mother was pleased with those Discourses, it was taken as a good Precepts As the Chi'dren grew up, they went through the Discipline Omen for the Child

(a) Alla de patria Hon bri p g 30 Sec what shall be quoted out f the Polyga-mia triumphatrix in the Articleof Lyferus (John) the Author of that Book

(b) Qua-

trit me fur les iciences iecretes,

Pag 240 Paris Edit

167 (c) 'Tış a

Book Printed at Amfterdam 1687 18

7 vol in

ment have been begotten by those Spirits is very Ancient, and wants no fivourers to this day Leo Allatius in his Book concerning Homer's Counwhere declaring forthat opinion hemaintains (a) that (hildren procreated in that manner are nevertheless form d of Humane Seed I he Coint de Gilalis explains that ridiculous whim "Sir, "faid I to him, our Divines take cire not to fay "that the Devil is the I athei of all those Men, that "are born without our knowing who brings them into the World They acknowledge that " the Devil is a Spirit, and therefore cannot ingender Gregorius Niffenus (replied the Count) does not say that, for he holds that the Devils multiply like Men We are not of his opinion, "multiply like Men We are not of his opinion, and I, but it happens (as our Doctors fay) that Ha! don't tell, (interrupted the Count) don't tell what they fay, for then you must fay not filthy and immodest thing as they do What in abominable evasion have they found there? Fis a wonder, I hat they should unanimously imbrace that filthy opinion, and take pleasure in placing Hobgoblings in Ambuscades, to take an advantage of the idle brutishness of picture in placing Hobgoblings in Ambuicades, to take an advantage of the idle brutifiness of folitary Perions and thereby bring those miraculous Men speedily into the World, whose illustrous memory they blacken by such a foul original. Do they call that arguing Is it worthly of GOD, to say that he has that induling gence for the Devil to favour those abominations. To grant them the favour of formalism ons, to grant them the favour of fecundity which he has refus'd to great Saints, and to reward that filthiness by creating more Heroick Souls for those embrio's of iniquity, than for those who are form'd in the chastity of a lawful Marriage? Is it worthy of Religion to say, "as your Doctors do, that by that detestable art "the Devil may get a Virgin with Child whilst "She is a Sleep without any prejudice to her Virginity? Which is as abfuld as the Story that Thomas Aguinas (otherwise a most folid Author, and who knew something of the Cabala) heed—"lessly relates in his Sixth Quodlibes, of a Daughter lying with her Father, to whom he ascribes the adventure that some heretical Rabbins relate "of the Daughter of Terminals, to whom they "of the Daughter of Jeremish, to whom they impute the conception of the great Gabalift Ben"frah by going into the Bath after the Prophet I could five a this importancy was con-Intretien " trived by some (b) " (S) You shall see the extract of a Memorial which a very worthy Man has communicated to me I have read in it that the Sectators of Ansoinette Bourignen are perhaps more numerous in Scotland than in any other part of the World Some Scotch I aymen, and Clergymen have imbrae'd that Sect, some because having been too fond of abstracted Speculations, they suffer'd themselves to be dazled by the subtilities, of Mr Power's (c) Divine Occommy, others, because not being satisfied with the present State of things, they were casely charm'd by the magnificent promises of Antoinette Bour gnon Inclin'd to novelty, greedy of a change, they too hastily believed that her system would remedy the ditorders they were displeas d with It was their defire, and therefore it was foon their hope, and thus they bestowed many pompous encomiums upon that New Prophetess, who promised them such an advantageous change, and such a noble restoration of the Church Two or three learned and Pious Persons, who relished her Writings, incouraged the thing Their authority added some weight to the frequent discourses that were held on that new System, and by often speaking of that Woman's Writings, which promised the Resonation of the Paith, and Manners, and that of the Discipline and Worship, and which contain very shirp censures against all forts of People, and particularly against the Clergy, many dispositions to Bourignonism were sowed in Peoples Minds The sirft thing that made a noise was the publishing ditorders they were displeas d with It was their first thing that made a noise wis the publishing in Linglish Finishation of one of the (d) most considerable Pieces of our Antoinette in the Year 1696 A very long Preface was added to it, wherein the A very long Pretace was added to it, wherein the Translator maintain'd that She ought at least to be look d upon as an extraordinary Prophete's (harles I essey) a Man of giest Merit and Learning, is the first who writ against the Lirors of Mrs Bourignon in Giest Britain I he Books he writ against the Quakers, have been very much esteem d, particularly his Treatife Intituled, the Snake in the Grass, and when Three Aponymous Edwards have been guis in herba Three Anonymous Editions have been made of it in two Years In the Preface of the Second Idition he took notice of the Errors of Second I dition he took notice of the Errors of Bourignonism, but he and several other Persons charged Dostor Cockburn to resute them more sully That Doston aquitted himself very well of it, he publish a Book Intitul d Bourignianism Ketested, Sive detestio Bourignianism: He proposes, and consutes the Judgment that Mr Poirtet, Mi de Cort, and the English Translator of the law words words of that Mad and shows that new lux munds, made of that Maid, and shews that nesther their authority nor their reasons are sufficient to per suade that She was inspired, nor that She had received a Commission from GOD to reform Christranity He has since publish'd a Letter, where-in he justifies himself for Writing on that Subject, and excuses himself for the delay of the new re-lations he had promis d, and unswers some difficul This was followed by a fecond narrative Printed in London, wherein having represented all the magnificent things that Mrs Bourignon attributed to herself, he shews that if they weietrue, She ought not only to be prefer d before the Prophets, and the Apostles, but also before JFSUS CHRIST He believed this might be sufficient to undeceive the Bourgnonists, and therefore he made no haste to publish the other two relations, wherein he is to shew I That the Life of Ansonesse did not anfwer the part that She pretended to act 2 That She had not the Characters peculiar to those who are raised by GOD 3 That there are good reaUuuu 2 sons which u intitled the light World of different Musters, and as for the Brachmans they kept out of the Town in a Wood; and led a (A) very rigid Life They slept on Hides, they eat no (B) Flesh, and had no Commerce (C) with Women They spent their time in fine Discourses, and communic ited their Science to those who would come and hear them But none of their hearers was allowed to Speak or to Spit Whoever did it was turn'd out for that day When a Man had been 37 Years in that Society, he was at liberty to leave it in order to live a more easy Life. He was then permitted to eat such Beasts as do not labour for Men, and to Marry many Wives, but he was not allowed (D) to Philosophise with them for if they were not good, it was fear'd they would divulge the Mysterious things among the prophane, and it they grew better by the Leffons of their Husbands, it was fear'd they would live no longer under their Subjection. The Brachmans faid our Life ought to be confider'd as the State of Conception, and Death

(a) Taken trom a Memor 1-Al impartcd to me the 2 of July 1699

(1) Still bo lib 15 PAR 491

(c) Arrian de expedit 17

lotophos corum quos Gymnofophistas vocant nb exortu ad occi-1um perfire contuentes folem immobilibis oculis ferventibus, Plin lib 7

(e) In globo igneo 1 im intes ccicta Solin cap 52

fons to accuse her of imposture, or Diabolical Illusion 4 That her particular doctrins, tho' vail'd with a pretence of a greater piety, are contrary to true piety. I he Bourignonists of Scotland thought themtelves obliged to write in defense of Antoinette, and therefore publish't her Apology, and an answer to Dr Cockburn's relations. Which obliges the latter Dr Cockburn's relations Which obliges the latter to go on in his Work, which tho' chiefly design'd to show the fanticism of Mrs Bourignon, serves nevertheless for the discovery of several Illusi-

(A) A very rigid Life] It appears by a passage of Strabo that they hardened themselves to toil, for he (h) speaks of two Brachmans, one of which made i tird of patience by lying on the ground, exposed to the Sun and Run. The other who was younger mide his tryd, by flanding a whole day fometimes on his right, and sometimes on his left I eg, holding up a great piece of Timber with both Hands. They were at Alexander's Court, the youngest return'd home, but the other thought it better to follow that Prince, and to comply with the Greek Customs This was in some manner to foilake his Order Arrianus (c) says, that ner to forlike his Order Arrianus (c) fays, that Alexander admir d the conftancy of those Indian Philosophers It would doubtlets have been very wonderful, if they had done what Phny ascribes to them (d I hey look upon the Sun, fays he, from its right to its serting with a facility. from its rifing to its fetting with a stedfast and unmovable Lye, and stind all day long fometimes on one I oot, and iometimes on another in the hot burning Sands Solinus adds (e) that they fought prest fecrets in the Sun He feems to fig that it leiv d them for a Looking-glass to foretel things to come 'listo no puipose after this to extol and cry up tuch Saints as Simcon Stylites , they don't come up to those Indian Philosophers But the thing is doubtful on both sides. It looks altogether like a doubtful on both fides arenis to- fible with respect to those Philosophers, and if to die il- there was but this reason to question it, which is, terms pe- that most of the Authors, who speak of them, do dibus in- not mention that uneally posture, and that per-fishere perual contemplation, it would be sufficient not perual contemplation, it would be fufficient not to believe it. It feems to me that standing always on one Foot, and having one's Lyes turn'd directly to the hottest Sun without the least winking, are such singular things, that no body will ever pais them over in sleinee, that has a mind to let any one know what fort of Life those live, who probles they be expropreductive they be expropreductive. who practife such extraordinary things. And consequently all those who ask'd any News of those Indian. Philosophers, would immediately have been informed of such wonderful things. They must needs be notorious in the Country, and therefore every Body may and ought to acquaint Strangers with 'em. So that it is impossible that an Historian, who looks for information, should not come to the knowlege of such things, and if he knows them, he ought to make things, and if he knows them, he ought to make em the chief Article of his Nariative He must have lost his with if he thinks they do not de-serve to be mention'd. How comes it then that there are so many Writers, who do not say one Word of it? Doubtless it is because they never head of it, or because observing that all those who should have mention'd it, did not do it, they concluded that it was all Romance and Imposture One may apprehend the reason why an Author iclates some Fabulous Stories, but one cannot apprehend why he should suppress such Truths as these. There are some cases then wherein a Negative Argument may take place, not only when it is grounded on the silence of all the Contemporary Authors, but also when it is only sounded on the silence of the great of New transport to the silence of the great of New transport to the silence of the great of New transport to the silence of the great of New transport to the silence of the great of New transport to the silence of the great of New transport to the silence of the great of New transport to the silence of the great of New transport to the silence of the great of the g the filence of the greatest Number, which is our preient Cafe Strabe who had Read many Relations, and who also cites some Occular Witnesses, says, indeed that those Philosophers suffer'd the excessive heat of the Sun all the day long, fome standing, some sitting, and others lying down, and that they did not move out of their places till they return d to the Town at Night But he does not speak of their conti-nual standing on one Foot, nor of the perpetual contemplation of the Sun Neither does Stephn-nus Byzantinus (f) speak of it, though he says that the Brachmans were chiefly consecrated to the Sun I must observe that one of the Austerities of some Indian Philosophers was to continue a whole day in the same posture, (g) so soos x matter a xintum os attains an the man ear oam It would be a hard pennance for many Persons See the Remark D of the Article Gymnosophists

(B) They eat no Flesh] Porphyry represents them very rigid on that Point the Carthusians do not come near them They did not only ext nothing thought themselves guilty of the greatest Impietry, had they toucht any Food that had Life They were moreover very devout, and spent the greatest part of the Day and Night in Singing Hymns and Praying to the Gods Each had his Cell and they could not abide to Live in Common, (1) Korsi yas Berxuans minus un antenne. They are true Carethusans among the Pagans, and I don't true Carthusians among the Pagans, and I dont know whether they ought rather to be compar'd with Cenobites, than with Anachorets Bardesanes (k) represents them as Men free from malice, and who thought only of GOD They drank neither Benguine Wine nor Malt-drink, they eat nothing that had See also Life, they Worship d no Images That which Philostra-is most wonderful is that there was not a small sus in vita

Number of such great Saints, for these were everal I housands of them Credat Judaus apella

(C) No Commerce with Women] Suidas speaks quite otherwise of them, what he says of them deserves to be taken notice of for its singularity.
He says, that the Brachmans inhabit an Island He fays, that the Brachmans inhabit an Illund of the Ocean, where the Air is to pure that they Live 150 Years They don't live there upon Bread and Water, but upon Water and Apples They do nothing but pray to GOD In the Months of July and August the Fruits, being then very plentiful, heat them with the Fire of Love, to that they go to their Wives beyond the River Ganges, and remain 40 Days with thems and then return to their Island When a Woman has had two Children, her Husband goes no more to see her, and she on her side comes no more near any Man and see and she on her side comes no more near any Man and see the Husband makes no further attempt upon her goes no more over the Sea with the rest there was it very well Peopled, as Suides observes; but he found not have forgot to say that these are more strories and Romances forged by idle Writers. It may be they design d to make the Neighbouring Nations asham'd by indeavouring to make them believe that there is a Country in the World. where People are far from being such glutmake them believe that there is a Country in the World, where People are far from being such gluttons as they However it be, I don't think that vang in all the sincere relations of Travellers there is any Country mention'd, where the Inhabitants are so chast as the Brachmans spoken of by Suidas There fo chast as the Brachmans spoken of by Suidas There are some Sects, and some Fraternities every where, that make profession of renouncing Venereal pleafures, but the rest of the Inhabitants Laughat that Morality, and scarce confine themselves within any bounds. The most Savage Countries of Africa and America, the most Icy parts of Lapland, abound with great gluttons in that respect

(D) To Philosophise with them 3 Some would have made use of this passage to adorn the common Topick

(f) Bearby or and Brois plant Mara de μάλισα nadwer. MITON Biachmanas vilere homines philotophiæ deditos & dus charos, Soli vere præ-cipüè dedicatos Hierocles in Philiftoricis apud num de Ur-bibus in Apoll 1 3

(g) Strab

(k) Apud Luieb

Death as a Birth to a true and happy I ite for those who have Philosophis'd * Strat They added that the accidents of Humane I ife are neither good nor evil, 1b pag fince the same things please some, and displease others, and even are agreeable for and disagreeable to one and the same Person, it different times. Thus much for register that Same and the same agreeable to Physicks, they taught several things that savoured of tolly, then main skill did not lie in that their Actions were better than their Words, may work and they built a good part of their System on Fables, but otherwise they had the same opinion as the Greeks in several things. They believed that the World had a Beginning, while we and would have an Find what it was round, and that GOD who made and govern'd it, penetrated it every where, that the First Principles of the Universe differ'd Mortem from each other, but that Water was the Principle of the World, and that there was autem a Quintessence out of which the Heavens and the Stars were form'd They had also contemsome Fables like Plato, concerning the Immortality of the Soul, the Tribun ils of Hell, nunt & and such like things, says Strabo, who speaks in that manner of the greatest Truths wivere minds of Religion Apuleius (F), the was taken for a Magician, his not so qualified unt, crethose Doctrines of the Brachmans They did very much cultivate * Physicks and A-dunt ftronomy Clemens Alexandrinus testifies that they diank no Wine, and cat nothing that hid Life, and that because they were persuaded of a New + Birth, they did not regenerationem. that hid Life, and that because they were persuaded of them of the two forts of $G_{jmno/o}$ tionem value this I see He looks upon them (F) is one || of the two forts of $G_{jmno/o}$ clemens phists, but it is a very difficult thing to determine among so many (G) contrary Alexandr relations whether the Brachmans went naked or not I ucian || calls the same strong Indian Philosopher indifferently Brachmans and Gymnosophists. We must take case | 1 3 pm | 451 not to be deceived by his expressions, when he says in an indefinite minner that | 11 lb r wenerers they burnt themselves, (H) not leaping into the Wood pile, 3s Peregrinus did, but gotes strabe ing into it with a grave pace and worthy of their Character of Philosophers 11 some H Luci1 15 pag did it, it does not follow from thence that it was one of their Customs He observes gittivis. also that they lived a long time by reason of their sobriety 1. The Treatise of Palm 790 tom

(a) Zuµexion x Zuralixas 4 #1X0H1rac & au-THE MP -diams Cum horum etinullis mulieres philosophari a 49 I Jee also pag 494

(b) Tamely 5 m) sic 70. λυ] εχι έαν Quanti plurimar ducere multiplicandæ prolis gra tia. Id PAB 490

(c) Nearchus apud Strabon pag 493

(c) Apud Strab pag 489 1

(f) Toplas er THE PC

(e) Clem Alexand Strom I r pag 305

(h) Per-

abitin t. . . Marides the GVmnoso, hists into two Seds. VIZ 2016Brachmemes and Samane-ans

(1) Lud Vives in August de civit De1 / 14 6 17

ori TAME , the observer of the strate had not prevented it by observing that the Brachmans were only is aid of the indiscretion of ill Women. As for good Women, they fear d only that being grown Philosophers, they would free themselves from the conjugal servicude But as all, that is said of the Indian Philosophers, swarms with contradictions, we read in the (a) tollowing Page that some Philosophis'd with Women, and in such a manner that they went not beyond Speculations, they begun and ended with the Spirit, there was nothing to and ended with the Spirit, there was nothing to do for the Flesh The Brachman; went quite another way to work, They did not Philotophise with their Wives, but (b) indeavour'd to get many Children by them If Strabs's passage was not so mangled as it is, we might see all the reasons that he had given of their conduct Another Historian (c) says that they Philosophis'd also with them. them

(d) Apul & (E) Apuleius has not so qualified] These Floride this Words (d), Brachmana pleraque Philosophia (Pythagoræ) contulerunt, qua mentium documenta, vices vita, qua Diis manibus pro merito suo cuique tormenta vel pramia

(F) One of the two forts of Gymnosophists | Miga-schenes divides the Indian Philosophers into Brachthan the latter Those that were more esteem'd than the latter Those that were most esteem d among the Germaner were call'd Hylobians The reason of that National tasks taken from their Living (f) in Woods First fed only on Leaves and Wild I ruits, their Gaiments were made of Barks of Trees, they influend from Wing and from the of Trees, they abstain d from Wine and from the factories of Love Clemens Alexandrinus (g) folthere's of Love Glemens Alexanarinus (g) solution the Gymnosophifs, only historis the last fort Sarmanes, and Subdivides into Allobians, Orc I cannot tell whether Gamanes ought to be prefer'd (b) before Sarmanes, but it is certain that the Word AMSCOOL is corrupted and the continuation of the read Tablool is corrupted. ed, and that it must be read Thoses, at in Strabo Now to know whether that division is exact, this question, whether the Brachmans wore any Cloaths, must first be decided, for it must not be doubted, that by the Word G, mnosophists the Greeks understood all the Indian Philosophers who did not cover their nakedness. See the following Remark, and the Article Gymnolophists. Lewis Vives had not examin'd the search that the were two forts of Philosophers, in India, the their made their abode in the I owns, and on the I owns on the I owns on the I owns on the I owns. there in the Woods, that the first were call'd Civil, and were cover'd with Shirts, and Skins, those were the Brachmans, and that the last were naked, and were sometimes cover'd w th Leaves and Banks of Trees, they were call'd Hermanes and Gymnosophiss, and from them proceeded the Gymnosophists of Æthiopia This account is far from being exact. In the first place when Strabot peaks of certain Philosophies who were called court he many the first place when strabot peaks of certain Philosophies who were called court he many the first place with the second place of the second place pheis who were call'd (wil, he means Sect opposite to the Brachmans, who did nothing but cavil In the 2d place he does not say that that Soft was divided into two Clisses, but into three, that of the Mountaineers, that of the Niked, and that of the Givel Lastly, he says that he latter dwelt indissethe description and a star (overset black and rently in the I owns and in the Country How come then Vives to find out that the symnolophists of Ethiopia were issued from such or such an Indian Sect, rather than from another?

(a) Among so many contrary Relations] We have seen some of the contradictions, that are to be found in Books concerning the Indian Philosophers Without doubt they had not all the same Customs By what right should they have have been such as the super section. are to be num de Without doubt they had not all the tame Customs. Without doubt they had not all the tame Customs. By what right should they have been uniform? (0) See what right should they have been uniform? (0) See what Plithis does not fully justifie the Authors, who tell inconsistent things of them, for they have not denoted eich Seet by their Proper Name Those, who ascribe such or inch a thing to them, make use of the same General Names, as those who do the same General Names, as those who do to incribe it to them. Nay, did not Nearchus (k) I use that Calanus was a Brachman? Did not Onesserting (9) Thusture (1) say that he had discourst with Calanus, and Seed the Research tus (1) fry that he had discourst with Calanus, and this he found him stark naked? One might therefore conclude from those two Witnesses, that the Brachmans went naked, and confirm it by Megasthenes, who (m) reckon'd among the Prerogatives of totam those, who left the Brachmans at the end of 37 Years, attatem the liberty of wearing a Shirt Yet an Author, degunt whose Name is Hierocles, (n) says the Brachmans Hierocles wore a very singular Garment. It was made of the suppression of the Stone and did not have up the Line (a) Cloth of Stone, and did not burn in the line (a) Philofratus in the Life of Apollomus says they were Plaxen Cloth According to Migasthenes the Philosophers, that were most esteem'd in the Section of the County of the Section of the County of the Section of the of the Germanes, wore Cloaths made of the Barks of morte Trees Gicero (p) tays in general that the Indian Phi- Peregrine lotophers go naked Hierocles fays (7) that the Brach- pag 772 mans lay always in the open Fields, but One ficitus, 773 tom 2 who had feen them, iffirms that they came every quotes Night into the Town Arrianus tells us that they Oneficrispent the Summer under great Trees, and the Winter fub dio Others say that each of them had his had feen Cell It may be they did not follow the same in-Calanus stitute in all (1) Ages, and that with a distingue in the tempora, one might reconcile some of the variati Flames See ons of the Authors, who have spoke of them

(H) Not leaping I If we believe that jester, (s) they built the Wood-pile, and remain'd unmoveable fugitivis, by it whilst the Fire rousted them Afterwards they pag 790 stept Gravely and Majestically into the Flames, in the and stir'd no more than a Statue, after they had fame nı bl ‡

(k) Apud pag 497 (m) Ibid pag 490 (n) Apud att xegior Bioleckou Sub dio (r) Siethe Remark R (s) Lucian de laid Tome

* Suidas

ladius de gentibus India & Bragmanibus, (Ha) that was Publish d at London in the Year 1665 deserves to be consulted. It we had the Book that the Brachman King had written * in his I inguise concerning the I aws and Government of the Brachmans, it is likely we niight fee fome very Romintick things in it

The Brachmans ne yet lubhfting in the Last + The Third Sect that is in vogue a† (harles le Gobien a lifrite, in his Preface to the de l'Imp de la Chi ne en fiveur de la Religion Chreticnnc

mong the Chincie may be call'd the Religion of the Brachmans or Bramins, and they call it so themeselves They are Priests who chiefly reverence three things, the God Fo, his Law, and the Books that contain their particular Statutes They have very odd Opinions about Nothingness, and a Morality (I) that has a great affinity with the Visions of our Quietists The Relation of I ather Tuchard || shows that the Brachmans or Bramins of Bengal lead a very inflore I ite, that they go bare-headed and bare-footed in burning Sand, and that they live only upon Herbs. + The Brachmans of the Indostan have very ancient Books which they call Sacred, and which they pretend GOD gave to the great Prophet Brahma They preserve the I anguage wherein those Books are written, and (g) La use no other in their Divine and Philosophical explications. By that means they keep Brayere them from the knowledge of the vulgar. They believe the Transmigration of Souls, dialogue and cit no I less. They fray that the production of the World consisted in this, That all things come from the Bosom of GOD, and that the World shall perish by the repag 33 turn of those francishings to their first Original. A Spider serves them for an Em-

|| Inchard, Vorige de Sim, Book 4 ful fin Dutch1 d 1

IT Buinetius in appen Archao-loc Phifoph

Ind themselves down in the Inc. He opposes that viv of burning one sell to that of Perceimus, who Jud themselves down in the Life threw himfelf into the Hanies, and pictends that the method of the Brackmans is much more Glo-It Pergranus had imitated those Indian Philoso-Hers, Lucian would have iccus'd him of irefolution, he would have sud, he hestates, he has a mind to fort he i mself by decrees, he would show more couract if he threw himself disperately into the Itre Let a Man turn himself all imaginable ways, he'll never would the Sayne il Stockes of such Bantereis and the sayne and stockes of such Bantereis. as Lucian, nor Slunders in general Read Mi de la lontaine (1)

(1) h tle Lableofile Miller Lis the 1/1 of the 3d Book

(c) I ques & titulo Cluencii icx umo-

(d) The fine nio mo o tl Historia Lautine at who 1 camtle Hib Cartury

() (0 - ' 11 Nucup i mwww.I Ireak i ic Article Sommon3 (ndem

(H△) The Treatife of Palladius de gentibus Indiæ (H\times) The Treatise of Palladius de gentibus Indiae discress to be consulted \ Edward Bisseus (c)
Publish dit in Greek and Latin at London in the Year 1665 as the Catalogue of Oxford has it, but I find the Year 1668 in the Title of my Copy, without any observation of its being a 2d Edition. It is likely that this difference in the date comes from the Booksellers, who are wont from time to time to renew the Titles of their Books.

Public while divide (d) other Treatises to that Treating the state of the s Bfficus idded two (d) other Treatifes to that Treatric of I alladius, one of St Ambrose de moribus

Bracl manorum, and the other of an Anonymous Author de Lisamanious

The first and the last had never been Printed

Those three Pieces are pree ts have find concerning the Brachmans the Le-firmomes of the Greeks are fet down in their Lanunge and decreated in I atm
(1) I read Open we about Nothingness, and a Mo-only that is a most affinity with the V fious of our Out of the Country of the Bramans affect that the World is but in Illuften, a Dierm, a Deceit and " that the Bodies to exist truly, ought to cease to that the Bodies to exist truly, ought to cease to the interview of the inthemselves, and be confounded with Nothing the Cobien in "Perfection of all Beings I heir Morality I Profess as yet more overstrained than that of our Stoicks of the confounded with Nothing the Color of the confounded with Nothing the Color of the confounded with Nothing the Color of the Color o floire de "cy to which they refer ill Holinets, that a Man I I dit de "must become a Stone of a Statue to acquire the I I mp de "Perfection of it They do not only teach that Ia Chine "a Wise Man ought to have no Passions, but " also that he ought not to have any defire that he ought continually to apply himself to " defire nothing to think on nothing, to feel no-thing, and to remove all thoughts of Vitue und Smetity to fir from his mind, that there remains nothing in him that is contrary to the perfect quiet or the Soul It is, fry they, that prefound drow lines of the Mind, that quiet of ill the Powers, that continual infpension of the Se ite which mikes the happiness of Man (f) in that flate he is no more subject to change, there "Vicifitude, my Lear of things to come, because properly speaking, he is nothing, or if he is any thing he is Wife, Perfect, Happy In a word, he is God, and perfectly like the God Fo which "I think to me forms he are to be like the ce tamly comes somewhat near to Iolly It is a-

" a Monster in Morality, and as the overturning of spirit the Civil Society " I leave the solid and short Book 3

Refutation that follows in Father Gobien But I defire you to observe that this Monster of apud La indifferency is the darling Doctrine of the Quie-Bruyere tiffs, and that according to them the true Felicity ubi supra consists in Nothingness (g) Then in the threefold p 35,36 filence of Words, Thoughts, and Desires, finding himself in a Spiritual Sleep, in a Mystical Drunkenness, or (1) Mada-tather in a Mystical Death, all the suspended Powers me Guy-are recalled from the Circumference to the Center GOD, on, moien who is that Center, makes the Soul siel him by divine court, a-Touches, by a Tast, by Illapses, by unspeakable Suavi- pud eun-ties Its affections being thus moved, it lets that rest dem dial quictly and finds a delicious Repose that sets it $ 171 above all Delights and Extastes, above the finest Maniabove all Delights and Extasses, above the sneet Manifestations, and Divine Notions, and Speculations one (k) Regle cannot tell what he feels, nor what he is Do not des Assoimagine that Mr de la Bruyere made use of Am-ciez à l'enplistications. You will see his Book furnish d with sance de Proofs. You will find this Passage of Molinos in Jesus, it (b) "It is then that the Divine Spouse suipending its Faculties lulls it in a sweet and calm in p. 172
"Sleep. It is in that Drowsiness that it injoys
"with an inconceivable Calm, without knowing so "Sleep It is in that Drowsiness that it injoys with an unconceivable Calm, without knowing (!) Mada-wherein its injoyment consists. You will find meGuyon, in there (i) That a Spiritual Soul ought to be indifferent in the Book in all things, either for the Body or the Soul, or for of Tortemporal or eternal Goods, and leave what is past in rents apud forgetfulness, and things to come to the Providence of sund in GOD, and not enjoy the present, and that the abandoning of the Soul ought to go (k) so far as to let without any Knowledge, like one that ceases to be That theme ib (1) the Soul feels, sees and knows it self no more it sees, apud (!) the Soul feels, sees and knows it self no more it sees, apud (!) the Soul feels, sees and knows it jets no more ... jets, comprehends, and distinguishes nothing in GOD, there ... we make Light or Knowledge That (m) that is no more Love, Light or Knowledge Soul not feeling it felf is not at the trouble of feeking, or doing any thing it remains as it is, which is sufficient But what does it! Nothing, nothing, and always (n) The nothing That (n) the indifferency of that Souliss of same exgreat that it cannot incline towards enjoyment, nor to-plicat di great that it cannot incline towards enjoyment, nor towards privation. Death and Life are equal to it, and though its love is incomparably stronger than ever it was, yet it cannot desire Paradisa, because it remains in the hands of its Spouse as things that are not This ought to be the effect of the most profound annihilation That (o) the persist Prayer of Contemplation puts Man besides himself, delivers him from all Greatures, makes him die and enter into the Rest of GOD, he is in admibesides himself, delivers him from all Creatures, makes (o) La him die and enter into the Rest of GOD, he is in admi-combo, ration that he is united to GOD, without doubting that he analyse de is distinguish d from GOD. He is reduced to nothing, and l'oraison knows himself no more he lives and lives no more he o- mentale, perates and operates no more he is and is no more

They do not fail in Europe, no more than in eund dial China, to confute those foolish Visions eloquently, 7 p 281, but to the shame of our Age, and of our Climates, fome undertake to write Apologies for them, and (p) Madamake themselves formidable Note that the Doctrine meGuyon, of the Brachmans is less dreadful in some respects explicat than that of our Mystical Men, for the latter place du Cant indifferency, and the perfect quietness in a Transdess Cant formation of the Soul into GOD, which they explain by the notions of the Consummation of apad Marriage (p) The effential Union, say they, 15 the Spiri- eund dial tual Marriage, where there is a communication of Sub- 7 p 239 Philosophers driplay all the strength of their Eloquence They look upon a perfect indifferency, as flance, where GOD takes the Soul for his Spouse, and unites

(b) Molinos Guid

eund dial 6

analyse de

7 2 239

blem (K) to explain that Opinion * The Brachmans of Stam believe that the first + Tachard Men were bigger than those of this present time, and that they lived many Ages without may Sickness, and that our Earth shall be destroyed one day by Fire, and better will come out of its Ashes, wherein there shall be no Sea, nor any character of Seasons, but an eternal Spring | The Brackmans of the Country of Corollary, there are many Worlds at one time in many parts of the Universe, and that the same World is destroyed and renewed in certain Periods of Time, that our Earth begun with the Golden Age, and will be destroyed by line. Earth begun with the Golden Age, and will be destroyed by 1 no

BRANDOLINUS (Aurelius) born at Florence in the XVth Century, was $\preceq$ surnamed Lippus, because of the Humours that ran down from his Lyes. That inconve- || Id 16 mency fo contrary to Men of Letters did not hinder him from becoming a very Learned Man He was a great Orstor, a great Musician, and a good Poet His reputation being spread every where, he was invited into Hungary by King Matthias Corvinus to teach the Art of Oratory, which he did many Years at Buda, and at Gran does no orwith great Success Being retuin'd to Florence he took the Religious Illibit of Sunt Augustin, and sometime after he was made a Priest He apply d himself to Preaching, and had every where a great crowd of Auditors He died of the Plague at Reme in the Year 1498 He writ fome Books (1) that we effected | Moreres I wilts I'm under are not to confiderable (Z) as his Omitions BRLAUTE

(a) Ibid pag 145 & feq apud einnd ib

(6) La Bruyere

ubi fupra

pag 261

(c) I kati i d Estivat, confer#

myshq apud eund dial 2

pag 35

dial 7

(f) Id

pag 285

(g) Ibid

(d) Mad

tt to himfilf, not perfonally, wor by any all or means, but immediately, reducing all to an Unity (a) The Soul ought not and can no more make any distinction between GOD and it self GOD is the Soul, and the Soul is GOD, fince by the Consummation of the Marriage it is returned into GOD, and finds it self loss in him without being able to distinguish or find it self again. The true Consummation of the Marriage makes the inixture of the Soul with its GOD The marriage is made of the Soul with its GOD The marriage is made when the Soul finds it self dead and expired in the Arms of the Spouse, who see ng it more disposed, receives it to his Union, but the Consummation of the Marriage is only made, when the Soul is so melted, anishilated and disappropriated, that it can altogether run into its GOD without any reserve Then that admirable mixture is made of the Creature with its Cicator, who reduces them to Unity

If any Saints or any Authors have established this Divine Marriage in a less advanced state than this that I describe, tis because they took the betrothing for the Marriage, and the Marriage to the Consummation The Alfurdity of this Doctrine as to Metaphysicks is monstrous, for if there is any thing certain in the clearest Ideas, it is absorbed. any thing certain in the clearest Ideas, it is absolutely impossible that a real change should be made either of GOD into a Creature, or of a Creature into GOD ovid and the other Pagan Poets were not so ienseleis as to mention such a Metamorphoss. What might not one say against this Cant of the Quietists? (b) That a soul is no more in it self, nor by it self, that it is relapsed and smallowed up in GOD by a fundamental and central Presence, that it admires GOD (c) in his abyssal and supereminent bottom. Can any body forgive them that (d) state of desistant on wherein all is GOD without knowing that it is so (e) that state of essential Union wherein the Soul becomes immutable, and has lost all means that Union not only essential has lost all means that Union not only essential Union wherein the Soul becomes immutable, and has lost all means that Union not only essential but immediate and without means, more substantial than the hypostatick Union tha central Union with GOD, that has no need of the Mediator JESUS CHRIST That kind of Eutychianism multipliable in infinitum would appear horrible to Eutyches himself But is one would forgive them all these Guvon. 12 the Book of apud eund things, can any body forgive them the obscene things, can any body torgive them the oblicene images they make use of, which are so proper to expose Religion, and which outdo in some massive all the Licence of the ancient Heathenish over the control of the contro debauch themselves, which appears a great impurity to the Soul And yet the thing is seasonable, and to do otherwise is purific ones self in another manner than GOD commands, and to sully ones self (g) Some faults are committed in that extroversion, but the confulion, that the Soul receives by it, and the care of making use of it make the Muck wherein it rots the sooner, and lasses it death. Can any thing be more dangerous to good Manners? It is likely I shall have some occasion to shew that the presented es-(b) T Bur- sential union of those Persons may very well be netius, in eall'd Seneca's Paradise

(K) A Spider serves them for an Emblem] See here how Dr Burnet expresses it (b) Hoc autem more Cabal stico wel Mythologico exprimunt Fingunt enim sminensam quandam Arancam effe primam rerum cau-

Sam Que marcia e fuir viscribus e lusta, l'ujusce universi telam contexuit, C mira arti ordinavit Sedit illa interia in arti sui operis, & cujusque partis motum fentit, regit, & moderatur Tandem cum fates luft in fua tela adornands & cortemplinda, retrab t, que evolverat, fila, a que ita on un resorbet in supsim, totaque rerum crett num natura in numlim evanifet. Hot mode Mundi ortim, ordinem & in critiun, repræfentant hodierni Pradrims I hat compatition of the Author of the World with a Spider who having diverted her felf with making her Web, draws are good designers the form Theory designed in and devours the same Threads that come out of her own Bowels, (1) plainly repre-fents the Loctime of the Stoicks. The extravagancy of that Idea cannot be sufficiently won-der'd at Physicks, Metaphysicks and Morals af-ford us an hundred Solid Arguments to confute Doubtless I shall have some occasion to touch upon this matter. I shall only observe that i Man is very excusable, when the consideration of the Follies, which the Enfern Nations have believed for fo many Ages about the Original of the World, moves him to afcribe them to the Wrath of Henven, and railes his aftonishment (k) Miserce me Edt Amquidem Terrarum Orientalium, prima sapientum se- stel 1694 dis, storentissimi olim bonarum literarum Emporii, a multis retro seculis in fodam barbaricm conversarum

Tantane inimis cu lestibus ira

Faxit Deus, ut easdem non subcamus vices, neque re- ma trahat IRATUS id luminis quo gaudemus in Occi-

(2) He writ some Books that are esteem'd] He put the Histories contained in the Old and New 1cstament into Heroick Verse He writ a Commentary on St Paul's Episses, a Treitise de lege, two Books of Christian Paradoxes, a Dialogue de humanæ vitæ condit on. Or tollenda corporum ægritudine ad Matthiam Corvinum Regin, three Books de ratione scribendi. This last Work was very much prais'd by Sebastien Corradus (1) Quamvis pene cæus, certe lippus, ex ea (Rhetolica) præcepta collegit, & a ratione dicendi ad rationem scribendi tam docte transtulit, & tam diligenter accommodavit, ut verissime de eo scripserit Seb Corradus, nihil neque majorum suorum memoria, neque sua dostius aut eligantius in ea scriptum videri Mr Konig from whom I have these Words, had not done amiss if he had told us where Corradius speaks fo, for it could not be conjectured that those Words pientia ac are prefixed to Brandolinus's three Books de ratione Scribends, Re-printed at Bahl in the Year 1565, fince Mr Konig speaks of that I dition immediately atter, without faying any thing that she B2 It was bastian Corradus was concern'd in it I shill there-tore add a passage that will serve for a Supplement to the other (m) Hoc patto fere Lippus Brandolinus, the Y ar vir Jua atatis doctissimus, si non cacus cirte insigniter lippus, libros de ratione scrivendi concinnaverat, Rhetoricen a clar simo Ping voium Reve Matthia Corvino evocatus, in Pannon a professive, teste Schastiano (n) Corrado, prastantes erudet ones viro. I take this from a Piece wherein mention is made of several Learned blind Men It is Intitul d, Differtatiuncula de cacis sapientia ac eruditione claris, mirisque cacorum quorundam actionibus You'll iee the Author's Name and the Year of the Impression, in the Margin (2) Moreri's faults are not so considerable I find no excusis but two in the Edition of Lyons 1688 the one præmissa

† Burnet

Biblioth right, for he places Lippus Bi indolinus Aurelius tt Taken tom Michacll'occiantio de Horent 110 01 Chilini tom 1 pag Paraphales l'occiantius

(1) See T Aichaol lib 1 c 7 P , 16, , 27 Ed t Am

(4) Id ab par ulti-

(/) Konig, Biblioth vet & no-V1, p 131

(m) Georgius Trinkhufius Ohr-7 hur Gymn Con-Rector in differtatiuncula de crecis faeruditione claris &c fol printed at Gera in 1672 in 4to la ad S P Q Rhegieniem Brandolıni libris

appendice Archæol Philof

† Thuan lib 124 His Name Grobbendonc two or three Horle kill dunder

(1) Paradoxa Christiana nunc. primum cxcuir. 54, in 8 Baliler apud Rob Winter Gesner Biol fol 483

in lib

1 + pag

(c) D' Audiguici ufige du duel clap O P 343 Botereius or Bouteroue / 7 pag 19 Civet, Chionol Septen fol 119 Sec after the puffage of d' Aubigne in mark I (d) 1) Aubilibus ac Lier iiis militibus Leckertenant of a licutenant

Iroop of

diguier (e) Igno-

101 (f) Gerindus & Abrahami I eckerbeetken. that is, dain y bit, or as Grotius expresses it, Gupediari-

BREAUTE (Charles de) a Gentleman of the Country of Caux in Normandy, made himself I amons by a Duel, wherein he died He was extremely brave, and after the Peace of Vervins finding no occasion in France to shew his Valour, he went into Holl and with some French Troopers +, where he obtain'd a Troop of Horse ny Schetz His I icutemant had the misfortune to suffer himself to be beat by a party of the Gar-lord of rison of Bosleduc, which was inferiour to that which he commanded He was taken and conducted to Bosseduc, from whence he writ to his Captain to desire him to procure him his Liberty, but his Captain sent him an (A) answer that he would not acknowledge such Persons for his Troopers that suffer'd themselves to be deseated by a lesser number of Flemings, instead of beating them tho' they had been but 20 to 40, as he offer'd to do in any Rencounter. That Letter having been Read by the Governour || of that Place according to Custom, before it was deliver'd to the Prisoner, seem'd so offensive, that the Commander of the Party of Bosteduc writ immediately to Breaut, to offer him to fight him with an equal number His proposal was very acceptable, but the Superiors on both fides could hardly be perfuaded (B) to confent to it Nevertheless it list they appointed the Day, and the Place, and agreed upon other conditions It was refolved that they should fight on Horse-back (C) 22 against on the 5th of February 1600 Breaute would have had the Governour of Bostedue to put himself at the Heid of his Flemings, but the Arch-duke Albert would not suffer it. I near Chief was the Lieutenant of the Governour's Troop, that Gerard Abraham who hid beat the Party. He sent Word by a Trumpeter that his Men had Swore not to give any Quarter, for as much as they undertook that Combat much more to defend their Prince's Ciule, and (D) that of the Catholick Religion, than for then own Honour He and his Brother and four more began the fight with Breaute and five more, the rest ingig d each his Man Breaute kil'd Gerard, the Brother of the latter, and two others were also kill'd. The fifth was so Wounded that he died some Days after of his Wounds But this was all the loss of the Flemings, that of the other Party was much more daimal, for (E) Breaute's Valour * could not hinder his Men from being betten with the utmost shame. Fourteen of them were kill'd on is that Lipus has been put instead of Lippus the other is that descript Ang is put for de scriptor Augustima-nis Those two faults are worse in the Dutch Editions, for instead of Lipus they have put Lupus and instead of Ang they have put Angl This last mistike may persuade the Readers that Elssus and Pamphilius hive Compos d some Books concerning the Linglish Writers I very much suspect two other faults of Morers I believe he is mistaken when he lays Miraus, that the Treatises de bumana conditione, de ratione scribendi, and de paradoxis Christianis were Ledicated to Matthias Corvinus King of Hungary, and Printed lince at Bafil in the Year 1498 The first of those two things seems to me to be false as to the two last I reatises. Neither do I believe that the Paragonar were Printed at Basil in the Year 1498 for I see in Gesner's Bibilotheque that the first Impres-

from (a) is of the Year 1543

(A) His Captain fint him an Answer] Thuanus

(b) lays that the Writers on the Dutch fide do not alcribe the cause of the quarrel to Breaute's Letter written to his Lieutenant, but to some false reports. They will have it that it was Grobbenbeetken down himself who offer d the combat, having he na a Soulant lighted the Flemish Troops Several French tune, Writers (c) say that Breaute did not make a but h n is chillenge till he heard (d) fome flighting Words a that spoken by l ekerbitkem Both of himself and of his time I cur. Nation I ekerbitkem was he who had defeated his

(E) The Superiors could hardly be persuaded to conjent to it] According to Thuania Prince Maurice advis'd Breaute against that Duel as much as he could He represented to him, that it was an unbecoming thing for a Gentleman of his Quality, who might Signalize himfelf in more Glorious fratiesl c- Occasions, to expose himself with (e) common Sol-keibitkem diers, or perhaps with some persidious Men, who vulgo di-had been the Authors of betraying Certrudenberg He meant Gerard Abraham and his Biother Antony (f), but Prince Maurice had done better to have interpos'd his Authority, and not his Remonstran-ces The Arch-duke Albert was very much to be commended for not luffering Grobbendone to per-toim that part of a Gladiatoi

(C) 22 Against 22] I have followed Father Gallucci, the I have read no Author that makes the number of the Combatants to be above 20 us, was a We find in a History (g) of the Arch-duke Al-Nick-bert Printed at Cologue in 1693 the Names of those that went out of Boseduc against Breaute, they are (g) Page but 20 The Author informs us that he saw those 331 332 Names in a Picture of that fight This should be an Authentick Proof, and yet he contradicts himfef, for he says Page 334 that Breaute's Trumpeter being come to tell the Belgians at Bosleduc that his Master staid for them with Twenty more, Grobendonck commanded one l'Epine to take a Horseout of his Stable, and to joyn the other Twenty that were ready to get on Horse-back So that here are One and Twenty Men He had said, Page 331 That it was agreed to sight Nimeteen against Nimeteen, but that the Frenchmen on the lives he designed. on the Dutch side broke the agreement, and came into the forthe 1 of Field of Battle to the number of Twenty, that Groben the Sixdonck's Lieutenant being in presence with his 18 Chambers teenth pions complained of that crick, and that after the ex- Gentury, cuies made for it, he fent to l' Epine to come and joyn him, that l' Epine came, and that it was he who took Breaute Here they are but Twenty That two faults. Author is little exact, for he declares Page 128

That is was concluded to fight Nineteen against Nines. teen, and that Breauté at the Head of Nineteen Troopers met Grobendonc's Lieutenant at the Head of Nineteen Belgians What I am going to mention is yet less exact He says Page 126 That the Joy the Duich had for the taking of Fort St Andrew the Elements of May 1600 mes abated by an the Eleventh of May 1600 was abated by an it was adventure that deserves to be mentioned in the beginning first, it (h) of the Sixteenth Century, viz. by the combate of would be Breaute the Fish of February One Thousand Six

(D) That of the Catholick Religion] Thus Religion comes in every where What had it to do with the Fits or Rodomondades of a private Man? Is was in truth a quarrel of Duellists for a vain reputation of bravery, and yet they had the dexterity at Bosleduc to Interest the Church in it Breaute was Metamorphos'd there into a New Goliath, who infulted it is ed it he People of GOD, those that should conquer chiduchim were to be accounted, like David, the anointed Albert the LORD Care was taken to supply them pag 330 with the Bread of the Strong (1) They were not 333 sent to the Field of Battle before they had confest their Sins and communicated The Dominicans (k) Ibid made use of all their devices to increase their courage The Council of (k) Conscience approved that the Arch-duke should consent to that Duel ed that the Arch-duke should consent to that bue.
But who would not admire the reason, that made (1) D'Au the Champions of Bostelic ingage themselves by diguier Oath not to give any Quarter? It was because ubi supra they pretended to fight for Religion, but that very pag 345 thing should have left them some Remains of 346 Botelius page 186. Humanity

(E) Braute's Valour I shall set down the lates the Words of an Author, who has writ concerning the thing much use of Duelling (1) The two Chiefs had distinguishe in the same themselves to know each other Breauté put on a large manner White question but took the Year 1600 and so be Year +600. not the first tury 2 If would be the XVII

fitH (i) de l' An chiduc

(/) D'Auubi fupra tereius rethe spec; and of the Eight that fled, (F) Three died of their Wounds Breauté and "Gallucci came of his Relations (G) Mortally Wounded aks'd for Quarter with a promise of a good Ransom; (H) but no Quarter was given. His Body Wounded in 36 places was carried to Dore and drawn to the Life to have that Picture sent into his Country, Itexasperated the Briends and Relations of the Deceased to such a degree, that * one of them by a fault went knimediately into the Netberlands to revenge his Death For that purpose he challend the Governour of Bolledge to fight a Duel with him but the sume reason that went immediately into the Netberlands to revenge his Death Foi that purpose he challon for for for fin for Hocquinlength the Governour of Bostedue to fight a Duel with him, but the same reason that the fact that Governour from being in the first fight, dispens'd him again with this curtius.

The Victors to the Number of Eighteen, among, whom Four were Wounded, were received in Bostedue with the Acclamations of the whole Town Thus the thing is rebrave Fa brave Fa
whom I cite lated by the Historians of the Spanish Party, among whom the Author whom I cite mily cught to be reckon'd, but all the Parts (1) of their Narration are not allowed to be † I x Antrue. It has always been the fate of such Duels, their success and circumstances are success and circumstances are success and circumstances are success and circumstances are success as always. Related several ways Branté had Married the Daughter of Nicolas de bello Belg Harlas-Sancy by whom he left a Son She was a Woman equally beautiful and virtuous, and not above Twenty Years of Age 'Tho' She was counted by fe- 557 & weral People, yet She renounced the pleasures of the World, and made herself a Num fee enterprise of the World, and made herself a Num fee enterprise of the World, and made herself a Num fee enterprise of the World, and made herself a Num fee enterprise of the World, and made herself a Num fee enterprise of the World, and made herself a Num fee enterprise of the World, and made herself a Num fee enterprise of the World, and made herself a Num fee enterprise of the World, and made herself a Num fee enterprise of the World, and made herself a Num fee enterprise of the World, and made herself a Num fee enterprise of the World, and made herself a Num fee enterprise of the World, and made herself a Num fee enterprise of the World, and made herself a Num fee enterprise of the World, and made herself a Num fee enterprise of the World, and made herself a Num fee enterprise of the World, and made herself a Num fee enterprise of the World, and made herself a Num fee enterprise of the World and the Number of the N of Saint Therefa, † whose Order was but newly settld in Para It is said that || Normaberg their || Ex Thu-

White Feather, and Lekerbitkem a Red one Braute advances to encounter his Ememy, Fires a Pistel at him, hills him, and breaks thro' his Men with Juch fury that Bive of them were kill'd on the Spot, whereof Lekerbitkem's Brother was one But Breaute was ill Semended For in the place two of the Five that were kill'd at the first ouset died by his own Hand, which shows that if his Friends had done like him, the Enemics had been entirely deseated Secondly most of them sted at the second ouset, and left him with Three more in the midst of Fisteen, who besides the advantage of number had also that of Wespons We shall see the sequel of this passage in the Remark I

(F) Three died of their Wounds.] The anonymous Author who Publish'd an History of the Archduke Albert says, (a) that all the Fichich were kill'd except three, who sted and were hang'd in Holland What Variations?

(G) Mortally Wounded.] This consutes the filly

(G) Mortally Wounded] This confutes the filly thing that was Publish'd by that Anonymous Au-Albert thing that was Publish'd by that Anonymous Author, (b) that Swords could not hurt Brauté because he had a Charm Which was the reason why they knock'd (c) Pepi- him on the Héad with the Stocks of their Pisols on the Draw-bridge of the Gate of Bosleduc That Autam Galli thor contradicts himself, for he says Page 129 that Breaute was shot in the Head before he set his Foot in the Town

(H) But no Quarter was given Most Historians that are not in the Spanish Interest say, that the ranfom which Breaute offer d was accepted, and that he dictum ne for which Bresute offer'd was accepted, and that he was brought alive to Befledue, but that the Governour rour vext at the Death of the two Brothers fnub'd their Comrades to severely, because they had not reveng'd their Death by that of the Priforent Certer part they kill'd him immediately in his prefence. Thus Thusnus tells us that the Writers of the Dutch Party related the thing D' Audiguser and Cayes go yet further, they say that Grobendone had no sooner censured them, but they stab destroye goes further still, he says the Governour order'd expressly that the four Prisoners that were brought, and whereof saltem ar-Grotius (c) says only as a certain thing that Grotius (c) fays only as a certain thing that Breause had already gone a good way, when fome Men from Bostidue kill'd him with 30 blows Winch does irrefragably confute what is said by some that he was kill'd by Leckerbeetken's Seconds, who had ingag'd to do it by an Oath See the Remark P. mark D

(1) All the parts of their Narration] This appears by the foregoing Remarks But here is an Omission for which they cannot be excusid, and which would very much alter the nature of the Success, if it were true that they are guilty of it. In this Case there would remain but little Honour to the Victors It is pretended that the Fight was not with equal Arms, since the French came only with Swords and Piffols and the other Party brought their Carabines besides Here is the sequel of the passage of D'Audiguier (d) Besides the advantage of number they had moreover, that of Weapons, and that was it that deceived the French, who had no other ubi si pra offensive Arms but Pistols and Swords, when they See also Ca- Saw the Enemies with great Carabines which they fir d as a confiderable distance at the beginning of the Fight, and then advanced with their Pistols against these who had nothing left but their Sword. He had faid already that they Charg'd each other, Breaute and his (e) D'Au-Men with Pistols, and his Enemies with Pistols and Cabignit 3 rabines There might be more imprudence on the P 7-2 French fide than fiaud on the other fide Perhaps (f) He they had only faid in their agreement that each fpeaks of Party should come Arm'd as usual, and therefore if the Sugar it had been the Custom of the Flemings to wear of & An-Swords, Pistols and Carabines, and if it had been the Custom of the French to wear only Pistols and Fort in Swords, the Flemings would not have Acted kmvishly the French only would have been to blame, they would have been to heedless as not to specify bu b is the number and quality of the Weapons that were m flak ne to be us'd But suppose the honesty of the Flem- as to the ings was untainted, it would at least be certain that time He their Victory would be no ways Glorious However owns that it be, let us see how d' Aubigne, a much more cre- this Siepe dible Writer than D' Audignier, speaks of this Du- was underel (e) When that (f) Siege was over, there hapnen da taken in Duel between Breaute and I wenty more, with the Lieute- May, but nant of Grobbendonck, call'd Lekerbitken, on Account the Duel of some injurious Words and Challenges sent by some Pri-soners Being agreed on the time and Place, Breauti not finding his Enemies, went to look for them very near Bolleduc, and there the two Chiefs distinguished with White and Red Feathers made choice of each other before their Troops Brenutí kill de his Enemy at the first Charge, as also his Biother, who having dispatched his Advirsance what all the West Adversary, came to his assistance, but all the Wal- fault, he loons having other Fire Arms besides Pistols, made a se- places the cond discharge, at which the Irench having only their Duel after Swords were overthrown, and Breaute being for aken by part of hu Men was taken Prisoner, and Grobbendonck, hearing of the Death of the two Brothers, caus d him to be kill'd in coldBlood The Death of that Gentleman was la-mented by Prince Maurice, who had us dhisindeavour to dissuade him from that Combat by reason of the inequality Grotius (g) gives the advantage of the Arms to the Flemings, and that of the place to the others, Grobbendociani armis validioribus Breautaus, loco potior But how shall we reconcile this advantage of the place (b) with what d' Aubigné, Bouteroue, Cayet, D Audiguier, &c Say that Breauté not finding the Linemies in the place agreed upon, went faither till he place, where met them half a League from Bosteduc? And how Breaute shall we reconcile this with Father Gallucci, who fays (b) that Leckerbeetken coming to the place of Battle, and not finding his Enemy there, fent a Trumpeter to tell him that he stand for him, and that Braute dispatched another to let him know that he was come within a quarter of a League from thence, and that he would either die or overcome there? An Historian, who is very partial (1) for the Spanish Netherlands, owns that Breauce's Martial heat, which made him advance faither han he should this obserhave done, was the reason why the Duel was not vation fought in the place design d for it They kept, without says he, to that Field of Battle where they happen'd Swerving to meet That Author is fir from acknowledging from his that the Flemings had more Fire Aims than the o- Laconick thers, for he lays of the latter that they had all flyle their Pistols in their Hands, and that the Belgians (1) De had only their Swords in their Hands He adds one bell Belg thing that ought not to be omitted (k) The Bel-

(k) Hift de l Archid Albert pag 330 (1) Ibid 248 332 X x x x gians

Fort in the Bornel, was fought I ebruary Bouretoue has the taking of St Andrew's nal 1 9 (h) Those things might be reconciled by saying that the met the Enemies, proved ada to him by chance might p --- 180.

(o) Pag 334 %

(1) Haft de l' Archid Albert rant. conera Brabantı præ dictum ne té jam multum faltem armato & tanguam liceret, triginta vulneribus conficiùnt. Aigno probrofis nomiubus Acinore Gret An-

VITO OC-

cumbere

(4)D'Audiguier ubi si pra yet ubi tupra.

their Son intending to revenge his Father's Death, sent a Challenge to the new Laci-

* Histoire de l Archiduc Albert Printed at Cologne 1693 pag 334

+ At Nuremberg

|| Taken Acta Eruditorum July 1682 PAE 205

their Son intending to revenge his Father's Death, leng a Challenge to the new Identenant of the Governour of Bosledue during the Siege of Breda, and that he was ladded in that Duel I cannot tell whether a Marquis de Breauté, that was kill'd at the father of Arras in the Year 1640 was descended from the Duellist

BRENZIUS (Samuel Frederick) a German Jew, was Converted, the Motives of his Conversion, and forgot nothing that might render his first the hopes of persuading that his Conversion was since a Inspir'd him with the state mostly which he shewed in his Book, but it is well known (A) that he state things He made a horrid description of the malice of the Jews, of their fraudices, Impiety and Blasphemies against JESUS CHRIST, and against the Holyston gin, he exhorted every Body to have a care of them, and to look upon them as Sweet gin, he exhorted every Body to have a care of them, and to look upon them as Sweet I nemies to the Christian Name, whose only design is to hate, dishonour and destates the sollowers of the Gospel. Salman Zebi who was a pretty Learned Few tookinger him speedily to resute him in a Book, which he Intil'd Judaical Treacle He selliment Inother extremity, I mean that he extenuated too much (B) the faults of his Party This is a faithful Representation of most Controversists. The Work of the Proselyte and the Jew's Answer were Translated out of the German Tongue into Latin in the Year 1681 as shall be shewed here under †

BRFZL (Peter de) I ord de la Varenne and Great Senechal of Nomeandy was in great favour in the Reign of Charles VII which made him less acceptable to Lewis XI the Son and Successor of Charles VII Therefore it was believ'd that soon after Lewis XI came to the Crown, he made choice of him to command the Succours which he grant

(a) Dispar fociorum cum Bel gis congreffus fuit in quo plu-res Galli cecidere, equis fere occifis Thuan 116 124 pag 900

(b) Hoc exitu animadverso

(c) Hist d' Albert, pag 330

(d) Of the word Abrahamı

(a) That Geusius. a Divine and a Phyfician of I riesland, publish'd at Groningen in 1675 A Book inti-Etimæ humanæ

(f) Token from the Acta I ruditor fuly 1682 PAR 205 206

Bren-ius, ita viciffim multa negat, vel certe emolist, aut aliter interpretatur Zebi, quorum tamen Judai jure opti-gians had the forecast to fasten little Chains behind their Bridles, for fear if the Enemies should happen to cut them, they should not be able to govern their Horses. The French on the Dutch side had not that forecast, which contributed much their deseat. We may which contributed much to their defeat We may inter from thence that the Flemings fought cunningly, they fell first upon their Enemies Harses, the Bridles being cut it was not easy for the Troopers to save their Horses from being kill'd Tather Gallucci observes that at the first Onset there were above 26 Horses kill'd Thuanus (a) informs us that almost all the Horses of the French were lost there. We find the reason of it in the were lost there We find the reason of it in the New History of the Arch-duke I cannot pass over in silence the confusion of Father Galluci Having described the whole Issue of the Fight, he adds that a little Boy who had look'd on at a distance of the Fight, he adds that a little Boy who had look'd on at a distance of the Fight. france, and had feen the whole (b) Event, got upon a Horfe that he found without a Master, and gallop'd to bring the News of the Victory to Boston gallop'd to bring the News of the Victory to Boffledux Piesently a Citizen sir'd two great Guns on the Ramparts That noise made both Parties sear an Ambush and oblig'd the French to run away How could they have staid till then before they sled, since the Boy did not gallop away till after he had seen the whole Fvent of the Fight? To mend the Narration, it should be said that the two Guns were fired before the Victory had fully declar'd for the Fleming: Now the latter being so near home, (s) almost in sight of Bosseduc, 'tis no wonder if the Cannon of that Town alarm'd the French who defended themselves still The Supplement to Moreris (d) Distinary affords me but one fault, to Morers (d) Distinary affords me but one fault, viz that the fight was in the fight of both Armies (A) It is well known that he strained things A Christian Author owns it, viz Mr john Wulfer

See the Notes which he added to the Latin Tranflation of the two Books I speak of, for he was not contented to Translate the Book of Brenzius, and that of Salman Zebi into Latin, but he has also interpos'd his Judgment about the Acculation of the one, and the defence of the other He finds that Brenzius is a meer Calumniator in some things See the following Remark His Translation and his Notes were Printed at Nuremberg in the Year 1681 He added a little Book to them which Ifaacliva had formerly Publish'd at Amsterdam with this Title, winder sanguinis, hoc est, vindicia secundum veritatem quibus Judai ab insancicidiis & wittima bumana contra Jacobum (c) Geusium vindicantur I he Apology of Salman Zebi was Printed at Hanam, and the Jews annimated with envy against the Author supprest it with so much care, that no Copics were found of it (f)

(B) He extenuated too much the faults of his Party line is a faithful representation.] I shall set down a passage of the Asta Eruditorum (g) Caterum ut Jutais multa sola criminandi libidine falso objects. mo postulantur Uterque interdum commende locutus, a-

liquando & mentitus est, qued in animadversionibus su si diligenter excussit Jo Wulferus That Behaviour o Brenzius may make one suspect his Conversion I seems to signifie that he only forsook Judaism to revenge himself of some injury he had received Thos who forside the result of some of some of the second menu. who forfake their Religion out of fuch a Motiv are in great numbers, and commonly they Publif a Hundred Lies against the Party they forfake The Personal resentment of some affront, or a menormous injustice animates them to revenge an enormous injustice animates them to revenge and they find no better way to revenge them selves than Calumny All the new Converts in general are almost forced to speak ill (b) of their Old Religion, for if they did it not, they would give occasion to believe that they love it still Besides, the Stories which they tell or publish concerning the domestick discorders of the Party thick they for she place the New Perethers and which they forsake, please the New Biethien, and dispose them to give the Proselyte a better reception. Thus you see how contagious the impersections of the Heart are, Many Persons are obliged to be dishonest, because their honesty would be different from the taken wrong, and would give offence. But to Confession. taken wrong, and would give offence But to make an end of our Commentary Most Controvertists aggravate the evil of the other Party as much as they can, and extenuate the evil of their own Cause as well as they can When they attack, they excuse nothing, they take nothing in a favourable Sense, they give a malitious turn to every thing, they ascribe the irregularities of some particular Persons to the whole Communion But particular Persons to the whole Communion Bur when they make Apologies, they put a favourable construction upon every thing, they set aside what is most odious and shew only their fair side, and they think it very strange that their Adversare should be so unjust as to observe their weak side, and take advantage of the faults of for Authors If the first Part of a Book is defined for an accusation, and if the 2d is designed for an Apology, in the first you see all the cumning of a Plantist Advocate, and in the Second that of a Defendant The principles upon which the Author builds in the First are refuted in the Second Author builds in the First are refuted in the Second, as for example, if in the first he gives am odious turn to a thing that might be favourably construed, he gives in the Second a favourable turn to a thing that is susceptible of an ill construction. This shews that honesty is not the Soul of those disputes, it is Sacrific d to the defire of getting the Victory Sometimes some Authors are ask'd, why have you said such a thing? They answer, because it is true But replies the Querist, you should have known that 'twas not fit to make it publick Do not those, who speak in this manner, create just supicions, that a Zealous Historian suppresses whatever may be presideal? Historian suppresses whatever may be prejudicial? How then can one trust an Historiographer, who, out of Zeal for his Religion acts continually the part of an Apologist, or of an accuser, and who properly speaking, turns an History into a Book of Controversy of a new method?

(b) That 25, 20126 respect to Morals like things Confession of Fauth

(AA) Br

bid 106 | Belvarius

July 1465 according to Comi-1165

*SecFather Anfelm Hilt Gensalor dels it Maijon de Irmit, P 1., motes Joh Chartier, Mcn-ftielet + Fuher Anfelme (a) Belca-(b) Revolut of Eng 16 p 29! (c) Apud PierreMatthies, Hist of Lewis XI 1 2 p m 96

ed to Margaret of Anjou Queen of England, only to be rid of him, because $(A\triangle)$ that Succours was very inconsiderable Brezé was fortunate in the beginning, and made a confiderable Progress against the contrary party, but it came to nothing, the French were besieg'd in the Towns they had taken, and obtain'd no other Capitulation than their Lives, upon condition that they should return into France | An Historian says, That their Commander and the Queen fell among (A) Highwaymen It does not appear that this Expedition of England did any prejudice to the Fortune of the Senechal of Normandy, for in the year 1465 he made a very fine Figure in the Court of France. The War for the Publick Good, supported by the Count de Charoloss, who advanc'd into the very heart of the Kingdom, was a very troublesom business for Lewis XI He advis'd, among others, with Peter de Brezé what he was to do He suspected him of keeping, Intelligence with the Enemy, and having a mind to be fatisfied in it, he ask'd him what there was of it? Breze, who (B) turn'd every thing into a Jest, came off that way. He had the Command of the Vanguard at the Battle † of Montlehers, which had been the Subject of the Deliberation, and, whether he was exasperated (C) by some Reproach, or because he was naturally Brave, he charged the Lucmy with so little caution, that he was one of the first that was kill'd He left a Son, who (D) proved more furthful to the King than his Mother, and is the same James de *BREZE, (E) Count de Maulevrier, Great Senechal of Normandy, who married one of the Natural Daughters of Charles VII and of Agnes Sorel, and who caus'd her to be kill d (F) at Romiers near Dourdan, the night between Saturday and Sunday of the 14th of June, in the year He paid dear for it From that Marriage came + Lewis de BRLZE, Count de Mauleurier, Great Senechal of Normandy, who marry d the famous Diana of Poissers, Mistress of Francis I and afterwirds of Henry II

(A \triangle) Because that Succour was we y inconsiderable] It consisted only of I we thousand Men, and some Historians make it much lets (a) Ludovicus Mar-gareta Andegavensi auxiliarem militem duce Petro Brezeo (Varennium nonnulli a Varennio fundo appellarunt) Normania Senesichallo misit Hunc Carolo patri 1462 tesque eidem bis mille duntexat attribut (b) Father d'Orleans fays, that the Queen of England obtain'd but about 500 Men of Arms under the Conduct of Breze

(A) Fell among Highwaymen] Monstrelet (c) says, "That Queen Margaret, her Son, and la Varenne met "fome Highwaymen, that she fled into a Wood, "and told one of 'em, Friend, save thy King's "Son, and that she went to Slays, and from thence "to Burger and the Duke of Burger de had her con-"to Bruges, and the Duke of Burgundy had her con-ducted to her Father" Thes Adventure of the Queen is very well describ'd by Father d'Or-

Queen is very well describ'd by Father dorleans (d)

(e) Revo
(f) Revo
(g) Breze, who turn'd every thing into a Jest, came off that way | Philip de Comines had this from

Lemis XI Let us ice that great Historian's words

(e) Comin

(e) The King consulted the faid Count du Maine, the great Senechal of Normandy, whose Name was de Breze, the Admiral of France, who was of the House of Montauban, and some others He suspected the great Senechal of Normandy, and desir d him to tell him whether he had given his Seal to the Princes that were against him, or not? The said great Senechal an swered he had, and that it would remain with them, but that his Body would remain with the King This he said Swered he had, and that is women that his Body would remain with the King This he Said that his custom The King was in a merry way, according to his custom. The King was satisfied, and charged him to lead his Vanguard and the Jatisfied, and charged him to lead his Vanguard and the Guides, because he was willing to avoid the Battle, as has been said. The great Senechal told then one of his most trush Friends, I'll put em to day so near one another, that twill be a hard matter to discern them. And so he did, and the first man who lost hus Life there was He, and his Men. The King himself told me this, for I was then with the Count de Charolois. I remember a good selt of that Great Senechal Lawis XI did every thing of his own head. Breed to coach'd him every thing of his own head, Brezereproach'd him with it in a pleasant manner one day as they were hunting. The King was mounted on a little Pad Sir, said he to him, I think there cannot be a stronger Hersethan that Pad. Hom so? said the King Because, reply'd the Senechal, be carries your Majesty and all

(C) He was exasperated by some Repreach] Some say that the King was at lait of the opinion of those who would have him give Battle Nay, some say that he himself resolval on it first of all, and that he call'd the Great Senechal a rimorous man for being of another opinion That Reproach was so nettling, that it brought Peter de Breze into Despair (f) Cater: Regem quaque in priorem de pugna inquida sententia concessa jumpa vero ejus authorem fuise, & Brizcum quad in contraria fententia effet timiditatis arguiffe tradunt Hinc accensum ira Brizeum se inconsultius in medies bestium acces pracipitasse. Or quadam veluti despe-rations in morton irruiss. This way of ridding him-ielt of the Great Senechal was yet more ture than the first, I mean than that which that Prince made use of when he sent him to the assistance of the Queen of England with a handful of Men For what will not a brave Man do atter fuch Reproaches? I am apt to believe that Varillas has a little too much embellish'd the Paraphrase that he made upon Belcarius's (g) words, which we have feen in the Remark A But he might very well say that Breze was a famous Commander Oliver de la Marche, tho' was a famous Commander Oliver de la Marche, tho he was in the Party of Burgundy, ipoke in praise of the end that Lord (b) My Lord de Charolois, says he, kept that day the Field of Battle The next day he encamp'd at Montleheri, where James de Montmartin ch 35 p and sow self had been sent to view the ground, and there m 316 and my self had been sent to view the ground, and there we found the dead Body of the Senechal de la Varenne laid on Straw (which was great pity) and also the Bodies of several other French Noblemen

(D) Prov d more faithful to the King than his Mother] Whilst they were endeavouring to end the War by way of Negotiation, the Confederated Princes made themselves Masters of Rosen The most considerable of the Inhabitants were more willing to live under a Duke of Normandy than under the King of France, for which reason they persuaded the Widow of Peter de Breze to receive the Duke of Bourbon into the Castle, and most of them took an Oath of Fidelity to the Duke of Berry Hi Brize: pugna Lethe-rica nuper casi persuasa uxore vidua, qua veluti urbi praerat cuique Rex plurimum confidebat, Joannem Borbonium in arcem admiserunt, & paucis exceptis in Biturigis verba jurarunt Quo comperto Brizei filius non secus ac pater pursunt Quo comperto Brizei filius non secus ac pater Normania Seneschallus sacramento se Biturigi obligare recusavit, & protinus invita matre ad Regem se contulit. The Son of that Lady, Great Senechal of Normandy, would not imitate them, and in spight of his Mother went to King Lewis XI (1) n 37 ad (E) The same James de BREZE] A modern Author calls him Lewis (k) Agnes Sorel, says he, shad two Daughters by the King, Charlote, marry'd to Lewis de Brezé, Senechal of Normandy, who having surprix'd her in Adultery, stabb'd her in several places with a Dagger, and Mary, sho marry d Oliver de (1) Costini, Lord of Rochesott James de Brezé, Son-in-law of Agnes Sorel, and Son of Peter de Brezé, who is the Subject of this Article, punish'd the unfaithfulness of his Wise too cruelly, and out of a nice-ness to much the more blamable, because he should have been prepar'd to see his Wise a Sportress by descent We shall see that his Revenge brought him into trouble, and cost him dear into trouble, and cost him dear

(F) Caused her to be kill'd at Romiers

He paid dear for it] He caused her to be strangi'd for Adultery

Lewis XI took it very ill, and design'd to indict him for it The Great Senechal redeem'd himself for a Fine of an hundred thousand Crowns, ... for which he gave, among other Lands, the County

X x x x 2 of $X \times X \times 2$

(g) Hift of LewisXI 1 2 towards

This Lewes de Brezesdy'd the a3d of July, 1521. Fiss Wissow caus a stately mountment to be credted for him an the Church of our Lady at Rosses; but the caus'd a (G) faife Prediction to be inferted in the Epitaph Nove, That Father Anfalm did not how the year wherein the great Senechal James de Brezes caused his Wife to be him of he had consulted the Scandalous Chronicle of Lewis XI. he would have found it was done in the year 1476. That Adventure deserves so be (H) related it

words of that Chronicle

BREZE (The Marechal de) acquir'd a great Glory (XVII Century. His Manie was Urban de MAILLE BREZE'. He was of a vary ancient (A) Nobiley, but it is likely that neither this, nor his Courage did so much contribute to his For his Marriage with Nicole du Plessis, Cardinal Richelsen's Sufter That Match, which would have been much more advantageous to him, if he had been less haughty to his Brother-in-law, procur'd him nevertheless some Noble Imployments. The Cardinal of Mauleurier He had also caused the Lover of his Wife to be put to death, who was a Gentleman of Picardy call'd Lavergne Lewis de Breze, his Son, marrying Dians of Putters for his third Wife, receive from The King did him that favour in consideration of (a) This is covered the Lands that had been given for the Fine taken from The King did him that favour in confideration of a Mimorial that Marriage (a) Messieurs de Ste Marthe do not agree to thus in all the circumstances. They say, that by Letters of the month of Oslober, 1481. King great Merical gave to Lewis de Breze, eldest Son of the County of Mauleurier, the Lordships of Beccrepin, (b) She was of Mauleurier, the Lordships of Beccrepin, Queres It was in favour of the Marriage of that of the fa-Lewis de Breze with Joland de la Haye. Daughter of Lewis de Breze with Joland de la Haye, Daughter of Lewis de la Haye, and of Mary (b) d' Orleans The Letters of King Lewis XI import, 1 That those Lands had been made over to the King by James de of the famous Baflard d' Orleans, Orleans, Count de

Dunois

(c) Sainte Marthe Centalog of the House France, pag 525

(G) A false Production

(G) A following for the position of the House

(G) A following count of the Marthe having the following count of the House

(G) A following

(G) A false Production

(d) Youwill

Lands shad been made over to the King by James de hundred house for his wife to be put to death a those for his wife to be put to death a form to death a form to falso John de Brozé, and after him to Gaston de Broze his other Brother (c)

(d) Touwill

Lands shad been made over to the King by James de Broze in hundred thouse four Wife to be put to death and been condemn deformed without Sons, those for house for his Brother John de Brozé, and after him to Gaston de Broze his other Brother (c)

(d) Touwill

Lands shad been made over to the King by James de hundred thouse four Wife to be put to death a finished without Sons, those for house four him with the four having the hundred thouse four without Sons, those for her wife to be put to death a finished without Sons, those for hundred thouse four him with the hundred thouse four Wife to be put to death a finished without Sons, those for hundred thouse four without Sons, those for hundred thouse four without Sons, those for hundred thouse four Wife to be put to death a finished without Sons, those for hundred thouse four Wife to be put to death a finished without Sons, those four Wife to be put to death a finished without Sons, those for hundred thouse for hundred thouse for hundred thouse four Wife to be put to death a finished without Sons, those four Wife to be put to death a finished with the hundred thouse four Wife to be put to death a finished without Sons, those four Wife to be put to death a finished with the hundred thouse four Wife to be put to death a finished with the hundred thouse four Wife to be put to death a finished with the hundred thouse four Wife to be put to death a finished with the hundred thouse fou

Hoc Ledosce sibs posuis Brosae sepulcrum Pictoris amisso masta Diana viro (d) You will find them Indivulsa tibi quendam & fidisima conjun m the ficond Vo

Ut fust in thalame, fic erit in tumule lume of an It promises that Diana shall be buried in our Lady's

If flory of Church at Rough, which did not come to pais, for the Cuty of her Tomb is at Anet

Rouen,

(H) Related in the very words of that Chronicle]
These are the words of John de Troye, for so the Author of the icandalous Chronicle was call'd (e) if we 1668 believe Naude (f) Upon a Saturday, the 13th of June; (e) Naude 1476 the Count de Maulevrier Senechal of Normandy, Le) Naude 1476 the Count de Maulevrier Senechal of Normandy, addit to Son to Meffire Peter de Brezé, who was killed at the the History Fight of Montlehery, being a hunting near a Village of Lewis called Romers les Dourdan, which belonged to him, XI p 29 and having with him Madam Charlotte of France hu (f) Stan-Wife, and natural Daughter to the late King Charles dalous and Mrs Agnes Sorel, it happened after hunting that Chronicle they returned to sup and lie at Romiers, and there the of lewis said Senechal went alone into a Chamber to take hu Rest the 14th that night. and his said Wife went likewise alone reor 1 cwis faid Senechal went alone into a Chamber to take hu Rest the 11th that night, and his said Wise went likewise alone into p m 3-9, another She, as her said Huband reported, full of disagrams of See orderly Lust, brought in with her a Gentleman of Poitou, also Rob called Peters de la Vergne, who was Huntsman to the Gaguin, said Senechal, and made him lie with her, which one Peter l'Apoticaire, Steward to the Senechal, told him, which Senechal immediately took his Sword, and brake open the door of the Chamber where the Said Lady and Huntsman were, which Huntsman be found in his Shirt, and fruck him with his Sword, and thrust is into his Body, so that he killed him and then, he went into a Chamber, where he found his soid Wife hid under a Bed wherein his Children were, and toke her down, Aim and threw her down, and as he threw her down, is struck her with the said Sword over the Shoulders, and she being down and on her Knees, he thrust the said Sword into her Pate and Stomach, and sent her into Sword into her Paps and Stomach, and fent her into the otler 15 oild, and had her bury d with the Service of the Chuich in the Abbey of Coulons differ the Huntman, he had him bury din a Garden joining to the House where he had killed bim

In the time of the Romans such a Punishment would have been permitted, but our Laws do not fuffer a Husband to revenge the unfaithfulness of his Wife in that manner Nevertheless it is done sometimes, and those sew Examples are but seldom useful Here is what I find in some Manuscript Notes which were fent me by Mr Brandrana
"Tis not true that this was transacted at Romiers "near Dourdan, Lewis de Wiszé stabb'd his Wife in "the Village of Romina, and half a league
"Vegre, two leagues from dendan, and half a league from Anet It was in his House, joining to the Parionage, where there are yet fome marks of her Blood, together with her Busto, as I have seen it several times, it being in a Seat that belongs to me And assert watcher and the Woman to be buried in the Abbey of Conlens, near Nogent

"le Roy

(A) He was of a very ancient Nobility] Mr le Laboureur has not very neatly clear'd that Genealogy, fince Father Anjelme, who epitomiz'd him, has almost comprehended nothing of it, and yet thus good Father apply'd himself very much to that Study I confess ingenuously, that I have been oblig'd to read that place of Mr le Laboureur more than once to apprehend it well, and 'tis true, generally speaking, that Figures are but little less necessary in matters of Geometry than in matters of Genealogy Here is the Idea I have of the Extraction of the Marechal de Brend, after having read what the Marechal de Brend, after having read what Mr le Laboureur lays of it with great attention (g). This Marechal descended from the House of Maille, I his Marechal descended from the House of Maille, which possessed the Landship of (b) Maille in Touraine, and which was so ancient, that there are twenty Degrees of Program to be found in it. A Lord of that Family, whose Name was Pean de Maille, who liv'd about (i) three hundred years ago, marry'd Joan, Heirels of the eldest Branch of the House of Paralle of the Marriage the Control of the House of the Marriage the Control of the House of the Joan, Heirels of the eldest Branch of the House of the Breze in Anjon By that Marriage the Seat of Board (b) As precame into one of the Branches of the House of the seat of Branch whereof Pean de Maiste Maillé, (viz) into the Branch whereof Pean de Maillé a was the Head It remain'd there till the Death of Dutchy & the Marechal de Breze, descended from that Pean de Peerdom Maille in the tenth Degree Lewis de BREZE, by the Coulint de Mauleurier, Great Senechal of Normandy, Luines Husband of Diana of Poissars, Dutchess of Valenti-LeLabou nois, to well known by the Amours of Henry II descended from a younger thanh of the House of Breze, so that he was only related to the Ancestors of the Marechal by the Mother's side We must of the Marechal by the Mother's side We must conjecture this in reading Mr le Laboureur, for he does not say so in express words, but rather institute another thought (k) Pean de Maillé, says has more ry'd Joan Heires of the eldest Branch of the major of Brezé in Anjou, the Name whereof continued till Lewis de Brezé Great Senechal of Normandy, who had the two Daughters by Diana of Posters, Dutchest of Valentinois The first sense, and the most natural that presents it self to any one that reads these words, is, That the Senechal of Normandy descended from that Pean de Maille yet it is not what that Author means, his meaning is (if I can what that Author means, his meaning is (if I can apprehend any thing in it) that the the eldest Branch of the House of Breze ended by Marriage in the House of Maille, nevertheless the House of Breze continu'd from Male to Male till the Ga Senechal of Normandy, forung from the young Branch of the House of Breze We shall feel little (1) time, that a famous Historian could little (1) See the disentangle himself out of this Chaos I have find Remark E disentangle himself out of this Union I nave raise Remark E that Pean de Maille, who married the Heiress of the of the Arseat of Brend, was not of the eldest Branch of his sicle Brend House I must say now, that the eldest Branch ended with Promess de Maille, who less but two Daughters, whereof one was married to Giles de Laval, Sieur

(g) Addissons to the Memoirs of Castelnau, sem 2 p 298 and follow LeLabou reur 16 (1) Mr Le Laboureur faid this in 1660 date of his Book. (k)

had some reasons for revenging himself but impersed by (B) of the bluntness of the Mare- B. Earther chal de Brend, and he was so far from punishing the Futher's Insults upon the Children, Anselme char his reference mov'd him to take a special care of them. He caused the Marechal's only Son to be made Admiral of France, and to have the Dignity of Duke of p 256

France, and he marry'd the said Marechal's Daughter to a Prince of the Blood, to that Duke of Angusen who was so much talk'd of under that Name, and more stell under all ib that of Prince of Condé. We shall see the Fate of that Son and of that Daughter of Auberi, the Marechal de Brezé in Sollowing Articles As for himself, he received a the Life of Manufal's Staff, with the Government of Colors, the 28th of Ottober, 1632 a little Cardinal Richelieu and the year following he was made a Kright of the Holy Chaft He compand After the dignalized himself in the Battle of Casteinauaars Fig. was captured a commandtom 2

The year following he was made a Knight of the Holy Ghost He commandtom 2

The next year, m 262 Army of the Netherlands jointly with the Marechal de Chatillon The first Exploit of Memories of the Secretary of the Netherlands jointly with the Marechal de Chatillon The first Exploit of Memories of the Secretary of the Secre that War, which was Great and Glorious to the utmost, I mean the Battle of Avein, the Sieur which they won the 20th of May, and which might have been attended with great consequences if a good use had been made of it, prov'd almost insignificant, either because Remark I of the || great milunderstandings that arose between the two Chiefs, or for other Rea- of the Arof the || great missinderstandings that arose between the two Chiefs, of tol other float of fons which it would be hard to give Some French Writers lay the fault upon the Prince rule of of Orange, who, say they, was vex'd † that those, who were design'd to serve under Lewis the him, should have obtain'd such a signal yietory without his participation. They so lost the standard Affairs in the Netherlands, that the next Auberi one of the fairest oppositunities to ruin the Spanish Affairs in the Netherlands, that the next year the Spanishs came and ravaged Picardy, insomuch that the Marechal de Breze was not bed in the Spanish B. State of the Spanish before his face. Not able to hinder them * from forcing the Passages of the Somme before his face Not- rom withstanding this misfortune, he cb ain'd the Government of Anjon, and that of the 548 Castle of Angers that same year He was made Viceroy of Catalonia in the year 1642 tothus, wa the Wife of William Viscount de Joieuse, Marechal of France, and so Ma-demosselle de Montpensier, the Dukes of Guife, of Joieule, descended : from ber. Le Lao boureur PAE 299 (b) Page

200

(a) Mary Sieur de Louis, and the other (a) to Francis de Batarde Batarnai, Sieur de Bouchage The Mother of those two nai, Grand Daughters was Margaret de Roban Mr le Laboureur informs us, tho in an indirect manner, that the Father of those two Daughters was the Son of Hardoun de Mulle and of Antometre of Chawvegm, and Hardeiin de Maillé and Or Antoinette Or Chanvigm, and that this Hardeiin was the Son of another Hardeiin and of Petronelle d'Amboife, and Brother of Juhen de Maille, who marry disabellade Chateashrens (b) Hordeiin de Maillé, lays he, younger Brocher of Francis (he had just before spoken of that Proneis de Maillé, who left but two Daughters, and with whom the ald of Branch and all Son of Hardeiin Son of Maillé. who lete but two Daughters, and with whom the eldest Branch ended) son of Hardouin Sound Maillé, and of Antoinette de Chauvigni Lody of Chatchuroux, Viscountes of Brosse, the married krances Heires of la Tour-lander, span condession that he and his Posterity should bear the Name and Arms of it, and from him is descended the Marquis de la Tour-lander and Jaleines, who is the Head of it, and whose younger Brossers are the Marquis a de Carmen in Bretagne, and the Marries de Chedruc, de la Gueritaude, and du Flotté, descended from the Marriese of Juhez de Maillé Sieur descended from the Marriese of Juhez de Maillé Sieur disconded from the Marriage of Juhez de Maille Sieur de Ville Romain with Itabella de Chasteaubriant, which Juhez was Son of Hardouin Sieur de Maille, the Huband of Perronelle d'Amboise, whose Brother rne Husband of Perronelle d'Amboile, whose Brother was the before-mentioned Hardouin, married to Antoinette de Chauvigni. To bring this to bear with the less attentive Readers, we must say, I That Hardouin de Mossile, the Husband of Perronelle d'Amboise, had two Sons, Hardouin and Juhen 2 That the eldest of those two Sons married Antoinette de Chauvigni, and had two Sons by her, Francis, who has hou two Daughters, and Hardouin who mar-Chauvigni, and had two Sons by her, Francis, who left but two Daughters, and Hardoum, who martial the Heiress of la Teur-landri 3 That Juhez de Martie Martie 1 Jabella de Chateanbriant 4 That The Branch of the House of Maillé Subsists at martie 1 Jabella de Chateanbriant 4 That Martie 1 In the Family of the Marquis de la Tour-landri; and that the Descendants of Juhez, Uncle of this same Hardoum, from whom the Marquis de la Tour-Landri is issued, form the younger Branch of the House of Maillé As to the Branch of Maillé-Brezé, it was divided into some others there iemain'd no Male in the eldest Branch after the death of Marechal de Brezé, but there are yet some in the Branch of the Lords of Benehart and bleuri (c) fome in the manner of the first of large light than Mr le Laboureur whom he epitomizes. He speaks of two Hardonns de Maillé, whereof one was the Father of the other, the Father married Anionette de Chawvigm, the Son married the Heiress of la Tour-Landri. A little after he observes that the Descendent de Maillé, the Husband of Isabella de dants of Juhez de Maille, the Husband of Isabella de Erest of the Chateaubriant, are the younger Brothers of the Mar-Families of Quas de la Tear-Landri Juhen de Maille, continues he, Tears, p jeunger Brocher of Hardouin, was married to Joan, Hesrest of the elder Branch of the House of Breze in Anjou, whose Name continued till Lewis de Brezé, Great Senechal of Normandy, who married Diana of Poitiers, Dutchess of Valentinos, Pean de Maillé, Lord of Breze, contracted Marriage with Joan Heiress of Breze, who brougho that Seat into the House of Maillé, wherein it continued till the death of Marechal de Brezé What Naulings and whose a Chaosi Is not Jahr de Maillé. Negligence! what a Chaos' Is not Juhez de Maille younger Brother of Hardouin, a true individuum vagum? Must People be thus characteris'd? Father Anselme had montioned two Hardouins, he should therefore have observed of which of the two that Juhez was have observed of which of the two that Juhen was the goinger. It is not true that this Juhen married (f) Ubi the theirest of Brene; and he is the same Juhen, of supra pag whom Father Ansalme had said that he was married to Isabella of Chalesabriant. That which deceived himas, that in these words of Mr. le Laboureur, He married Joan Heirest the eldest Branch of the House of Brene, he believed that by He he ought to underfund fland Juhen de Maille, but it is certain that he should cording to the Noureur is somewhat the cause of this mistake, for, according to the Rules of Grammar, his He ought. according to the Rules of Grammar, his He ought according to the Kules of Grammar, his He ought rather to relate to Juhez de Maille than to any other Juhez prevails in all the foregoing Period, the other persons are only inserted in that Period as Dependenties and Accessories of Juhez but this consuston in the words of Mr le Laboureur does not excuse Father Anselme, a Man must use his Reason when Grammar does not remove ambiguity. Now if this, good Father had made use of his Reason, would be bave given us Juhez de Maille and Pean would he have given us Jakez de Maille and Pean de Maille both married to Jean Heirels of the House of Breze? would he have understood by He two difof Brene? Would he have understood by He two different persons? would he not have six'd on Jubez, understanding his Author wrong, or on Pean, understanding him right? One can scarce believe how obscure the French Language is, when an Author does not place his words right, and when his it, his le, and his yes, have not their relation well mark'd. The Genealogists are commonly very careless of that part of our Grammar. We shall (c) see whether there was any reason to say that the Prince of Good. under-match'd his Son by marrying him to Marchal de Brese's Daughter. Marechal de Breze's Daughter

(B) Of the bluntness of Marechal de Brezé] Mr le to which Laboureur (f) relates that the Marechal had not al- the first re-Labourour (f) relates that the Marechal had not always that regard, which the Authority and haughty humour of his Brether-in-law Cardinal de Richelieu required from these shat being' d to him, and that his want of Camplaisance went so far as to tell him to his face that he had marry'd his Sister only for her Beauty, and that being wer'd to see himself subraided with the Governmens of Calais, he resign'd it, and it was given to the County de Charrots Nevertheless, adds the Author he (e) were him other involvements, but (h) he thor, be (g) gave him other imployments, but (h) he always acquitted himself of them in such an independent manner, that the Cardinal made it his chief bufinef's to

(e) In the Article Brezé Clemen-

Gramma. rians, for st does not relate to the person whichis the Nomithe whole Period, but to another

(h) Here's tical faults this Second he relater different from that

See Le Laboureur pag 300

(d) Of the Original and Progress of the

A He was of Saumur SeeRemark

γ Father Anselme ubi fupra S The year 1635 in the quality of AmbasSador Extraordinary, Aniel

* History of great Offi-cers of the Grown,pag 326

† They are inscried in the Peinlales of that Jefuit

See his choice I etters, Book 3 Lett 37 Article Peyrarede Remark B

1 See the Remark B

(a) Another (trammatical fault, does not relate to Cardinal, sher person

(b) Taken of FrederickSpanheim, en-Swedish Soldier, pag 200 & seq

(c) Costar Defence of Voiture's Works, p m 67

(d) In the I ife of Cardinal Richelieu book 6 c 63 pag 238 and died in his Castle of Milly near Saumur a the 13th of February, 1650. It was the 53d year of his age, He was twice Ambassador, first to (C) Gustavus, and afterwards in Holland They were Embassies of Honour, and not of Negotiation, tho' they were not altogether without some business

BREZE' (Armand de MAILLE'-) only Son of the Marechal of that Name, was born in the year 1619 He was early raised to great Imployments, for he commanded the Naval Forces of France on the Ocean (D) in the year 1640 He obtain'd a (E) signal Victory over the Spaniards near Cadse He was call'd at that time Marquis de Breze. Some time after he took upon him the Title of Duke of Fronfac I do not relate the particulars of his Actions, they may be seen in Morers, who took them word for word out of Father *Anselme 'Tis pity that young Lord dy'd so soon, for he was but little above 26 years of age when he was kill'd by a Cannon-Ball on board his Ship near Orbitello, in the year 1646 Father le Mome, a Jesuit, who had been his Preceptor, made sonte. Verses † on his Death, and several other Poets signalized themselves on the same Sub-Balzac || admir'd the Latin Verses that the Sieur de Peyrarede made upon it

BREZE' (Clara-Clementia de MAII LE') Daughter of the Marcchal of that Name, was marry'd in the year 1641 to Lewis de Bourbon, Duke of Enguien, and afterwards Prince of Condé It was thought strange that a Prince of the Blood had consented to that Marinige, but the Duke of Enguien was (A) not so much blam'd for it, as his Father the Prince of Cond. Many excus'd him by reason of the trouble he might have brought upon himself by offending Cardinal Richelsen, Uncle of Mademoiselle The truth is, that the hatred People had for that Cardinal was the chief de Breze cause of the Murmurs, for several Marriages have been made between Princes of the Blood and French I adies, where the under-matching was at least 4 as schible is in this, and yet it does not appear that those Marriages have been criticis'd. The Prince of Cond. (B) inquir'd into the Nobility of the House of Maill -Brez, and found it very made Duke of Froniac and Admiral of France, and Clara Clementia de Maillé, his Daughter, whom he married to Lewis de Bourbon, as that time Duke of

Enguyen, now Prince of Condé

(C) First to Gustavus] In the beginning of the car 1632 when the Affairs of the Sweder were in yea1 1632 great prosperity, several Catholick Princes of Germany sent Deputies to Lema XIII to recommend to him the Interests of their Religion, and to desire him not to favour the Protestant Religion, which was be-come so formidable Lews XIII exhorted them to forfake the Emperor's Party, and promised them, that in such a case he would reconcile them with the King of Sweden but to shew them his Religious Zeal, he sent the Marquis de Breze Ambassador Extraordinary to the King of Sweden and charg'd him to mediate an Accomodation favourable to the Princes of the Catholick League Gustavus was then at Meniz, where he received that Ambassador honourably The Marquis's Proposals and Instances, and the King's Replies, took up almost a whole Afternoon The King acquainted him with the Artifices of the Confederate Princes, yet upon certain Conditions he granted him a Truce for fifteen days, on the affurances that the Ambassador gave him, that the King his Master would dispose the Duke of Bavaria and the other States of the Confederacy to a reasonable Agreement, and that in default thereof, he would not concern himself any more with their Affairs (b) If Brez negotiated with that great Conquerour, he If Brez- negotiated with that great Conquerour, he play'd also wanton Tricks with him. I have read a thing in a (c) Frenth Writer, which I am going to relate the Reader may believe it if he pleases." The great Gustavus spent all his life in forcing. Towns and winning Battles, yet, to divert him"felf, he play'd every evening at Blindman's-Buss" with his Colonels and Captains, and Marechal de. Briez- said often, that he had play'd several Farces. "with him, and that commonly, laying aside all." his Majesty, he asted the Part of a Cheat, or a "Pickpocket, who was surprized and beaten as the "Pickpocket, who was furpriz'd and beaten at the end of the Play

(D) In the year 1640] Father Anselme, whom Morers follows, affirms that the Marquis de Brezé commanded the Gallies of France in the year 1639 I believe he is mistaken, for he says himself eliewhere, that the Marquis de Pont-de-Conrlai was General of the Gallies from the year 1635 to the year 1643

(E) He obtained a signal Victory] Here is what (d) Aubers says of it The Naval Forces of the Western Ocean, commanded by the Marquis de Breze, attack d and defeated the Spanish Fleet bound for the Indies near Cadis, fo that the General, who was the Marquis de Castignola, was forced to return again into the Harbour with more speed and fewer Galleons than be ment out with which & fabl d the Spaniards from fen-

raise (a) his only Son Armand de Maille, whom he ding to the West-Indies that year, and consequently from drawing any affifunce of Money from thence, as they had promifed themselves. When one thinks on the Naval Victories that the French obtain'd over the Spaniards in the time of Philip IV and on the rich Fleets which the Dutch did often take from the Spaniards. nierds, one cannot but be furprized at two things one is, how that Nation could lose so much, the other is, that the French, who are now much stronger without any comparison than they were in those times, either in Number of Ships, or in Maritime Experience, have not hitherto (e) been able to un-Experience, have not hitherto (e) been able to undertake or execute any thing confiderable against that Nation by Sea during this last War Philip II must needs have put his Kingdom into a very powerful condition, since it subsists still after the great and innumerable Losses at has sustained for the space of May, 1694

and innumerable Losses thas sustained for the space of near a hundred years

(A) The Duke of Enguien was not so much blam'd for it, as his Father the Prince of Condé | (f) An (if) Theti-tile fays at History of the Prince of Conde was printed at Ampleedam in the year 1693 wherein it is said, that the Cologne Father of the Duke of Enguien being at Cardinal Richelieu's some days after he had somewhat coldly hearkned to the Proposal of the Marriage, came to fancy that there was a design to arrest him, and that, to prevent that digrace, he shew'd himself altogether disposd to give his consent. The Auprinted in that, to prevent that disgrace, he show a himself It was realtogether disposed to give his consent. The Auprinted in thor adds, (g) Every body blamd the (h) Prince of the year Condé, because it was found out by the great Advantages that he obtain don account estate Match, that he bad assed managing of Interest than out of Evan tages that he obtain don account of that Match, that he bad acted more out of Interest than out of Fear

(B) Inquir'd into the Nobility] (i) "The late augmented Prince had not so much regard to the Power of by the Author the Uncle, as not to desire to be inform'd of the Author the Nobility of the Niece before he made that "Match, and he was well pleased to hear, single (g) Pag 15 necessitated to secure himself against a he was Man. whose resentation to secure names against a Man. whose resentment was very much very much to be dreaded, that the House of Masik had all the qualifications that he could desire to slight the Centure of the Vulgar, who generally judge rashly of the Conduct of Princes, and who, when our of Ignorance or Malicia, would have a either our of Ignorance or Malice, would have it that there was a disproportion between this Marriage and those of the other Princes of the Blood This is what I thought fit to refute here, and because I should not be allowed to make a long Digression in order to give swenty Degrees of Generation, I will content my felf with a very fingular Observation, of which no Example 18 to be found, I do not say in any House of France, but of all Europe, which shall serve to skew the Antiquity and hereditary Valour of the House of (k) Ibid Maille. This singular Observation will be seen in pag 300 to Remark D. Mr. La Labourary gives a short Acthe Remark D Mr Le Laboureur gives a short Account of the Genealogy of that Family, and then concludes with these words, "(k) Thus have I

(b)That is the Father (1) Le La-boureur

Memoirs de Castelnau,tom 2 . Pag 298

" Bewn

A modern Satyrist does not know what (C) he says, Illustrious and very Ancient when he relates the thing otherwise We find an extraordinary passage concerning (D) a Knight of that Family some (E) Historians have confounded it with that of Brezé But laying afide all those things, I shall only say, that the Heroe who married the

" shewn in a few words the condition of the House of Maile, and I shall not scruple to say, that it is "not inferior to that of Beauvau, which was the House of the fifth Grandmother of our King, "Hand Wife of John de Beurbon Count "Beauvau, Wife of John de Beurbon Count "Beauvau, Wife of John de Beurbon Count "Beauvau, Wife of John de Bourbon Count "Beauvau, Wife of House of Illustrious than that of Montespedon, which "The House of Philippa de Montespedon, Wife of Charles de Bourbon, Prince of la Roche-sur-Yon, a very proud Princess, tho descended from one "Wast de Montespedon a Fleming, Valet de Chambre "Of John of France Duke of Berry, and than many of John of France Duke of Berry, and than many others which it would be needlessto name

others which it would be needlels to name (C) A modern Satyrift does not know what he fays, when he relates the thing otherwife I I mean the anonymous Author (a) who publish'd fome Memoirs in the year 1687 (b) The Duke of Anguien, fays he, eldest Son of the Prince of Condé, had married Mademoifelle de Brezé, the Gardinal's Niece, and his Father had been obliged to performation Marriage to secure his Life, or at least his Liberty His Son, who knew the violence that was done him, tank'd upon his Marriage as Fetters that were given him, and took occasion from thence to slight his Wife He had already upbraided her with a thousand faults, that were but too plain She had a Noble Birth, and doubtless she was of an ancient Family, but the Duke of Anguien having sent for a man skill dear Generalizate to beam the Course of the state of the same of the out the Duke of Milguish having jont for a man skill a in Genealogies, to know the Origin of it, this man found himself turn'd so many ways, that, whether it was true or not, he told him that the House of Maille, of which she was, came from a Bastard of an Archbishop of Tours This was enough for the Duke not only to insult his Wife, but also so make nipping Jests upon the Cardinal, and as nothing pass'd but he was told of it, he was so ver'd at it, that he waited only for an occasion to show his Resentment An occasion soon presented it self Bouteville Sentment An occasion soon presented it self Bouteville having sought a Duel, contrary to the Ordinances, and even to the particular Prohibitions that were made him, was so closely pursued, that he was arrested before he could escape into Lorrain The Count Des-Chapelles, his Coulin, who had been his Second, and who fled with him, was likewise taken, and as it was a spight to the House of Cond to make them die by the hand of the common Executioner, the Cardinal did it under pretence of Justice, but in effect to revenge himself. I have already said it several times, and I may perhaps have a hundred occasions to repeat it, the boldness of these Libel-makers cannot be sufficiently wondred a heave effort the fellost things in the world for at, they affert the falfest things in the world for truth, tho' a great many persons may convince them of Ignorance It is a notorious thing, that Rome or ignorance. It is a notorious thing, that Bouteville and the Count Des-Chapelles were beheaded in the month of June 1627 and that the Duke of Enguien did not marry Clara-Clementia de Maill till the year 1641. And yet they dare suppose that the Cardinal caused those Duellers to be put to death to be revenged for the Injuries the Duke of Enguien did to his Wife (c)They are did to his Wife

(D) An extraordinary passage concerning a Knight | Here is what I promised in the Remark B (c) "Above "four hundred years ago, in a Battle of Girard de Bidessort, Great Master of the Templars, against the (d) Saracens, a young Knight of that Order, "Jokelon de Maille, a Tourangeau, (they are (e) his town words) in a white Armour, persorm'd so many wonders at the head of a Troop which he commanded, that those Insidels besieving there was something Divine in his Valoui, took him "for St George, honoured by the Christians, and were touch'd with so much Respect, as to desire
"him to yield himself, promising to tend him back him to yield himself, promising to send him back again, but tho' he was left alone of all his Troop, and could not long result the fatigue of so long a Fight, in the midst of so many dead Bodies that " lay every where round about him, it was impolif fible for them to daunt his Courage, fo that the the Author "fame Historian says, that having raised some quoted by "Dust in a Field, the Corn whereof had been new-" ly cut, he was at last over-power'd by the Mul-titude that fell upon him, whom the admiration "of his Valour made fo superstitious, that they gathered the Dust that was sprinkled with his Blood, to rub their Bodies with, thinking by m the Ge- " "that means to get part of his Valour Lastly,

"there was one among the rest, who through a great defire of having an Hein of that Merit, cut that part of his which might ruse one in his Wife. This cannot be explain'd more modestly, but on the other hand I could not forget such a strange Testimony of Fsteem

When one confiders that the geffa Dei per Frances is a compilation of several Authors in two Volumes in Tolio, the first whereof contains 1206 pages and the second 361 without any Table of the Matters contained in it, one cannot sufficiently wonder at the negligence of a Writer, who being contented to quote the Title of the Book, alledges out of it one of the most surprizing things in the world. He might very well think that all the Readers would be desirous to know the truth of it by consulting the Original, he should therefore have made that Finquiry easie to them. Must a Reader be obliged to turn over every page of two great Volumes? which is just as if one was to look for a Needle in a Bottle of Hay. I will not be guilty of Mr Le Laboureur's carelesness, the more I have felt the ill essets of it, the more I find my self-dispos'd to spare my Readers the same trouble, and I shall not is a compilation of feveral Authors in two Volumes spare my Readers the same trouble, and I shall not only quote the page of Gista Der per Frances, but also set down many words of the Original (f) Salahadinus

Palestinam violenter aggressies Admiral um Edessa Manataradinum cum septem millibus Turcorum qui Terram Sacram depopularen'ui, pramisit Hic au- élorisin-tem, cum in partes Tyberiadis processisses [casus] sibi ob- certi, in vios magistrum Militia Templi Cectardum de Bidef- pag 1151 fordia, & magistrum Hospitalis Rogerum de Molen-Oper seus dinis, illum quidem fugatum issum vero interfectum titulus inopino Marte confect In quo constictu, cum nostrorum Gesta Dei paucissimi ab immenso concluder entur exercicu, insigni per Itanquidam & memoria dignum contigit nani quidam Cos Templarius, Officio Miles, Natione Turonius, Nomine) (-kelinus de Mailliaco, quadam virtutis in se ornium provocabat insultus cateris autem commilitonibus suis, qui quingenti aftimabar u, vel captis, vel interfectis belli totius impetum solus suftinuit & pro lege DE I sui athleta gloriosus effulst Et quia in equo nitido & armis albicantibus tunc casu pugnator incesse-rat, Gentiles qui Sanstum Georgium in hujusmodi habitu militare noverant, se militem nitentis armatura, Christianorum propugnatorem interfecisse jactabant Erans in loco ubi pugnabat, ftipulæ, quas messor, post grana paulo ante decussa, reliquerat inconvulsas Turcorum autem multitudo tanta irruerat, & vix unus contra tot acies tam diu conflixit, ut campus in quo stabant totus resolveretur in pulverem, nec ulla prorsus messis vestigia comparerent Fuere, ut dicebatur, nonnulli qui corpus viri jam exanimum pulvere superjetto consperserunt, & spsum pulverem suis imponentes verticibus, virtutem ex contactu haussisse credebant. Quidam werd, ut fama sire-bat, ardentius cæteris movebatur, & abscissis wiri geni-talibus, ea tanquam in usum gignendi riservare dispo-suit, ut wel mortua membi a, si sieri posset, virtutis tanta suscitarent hæredem. This happen'd in the year 1177

(E) Some Historians have confounded it with that of Breze] When Varillas (g) speaks of the Cardinal of Lorrasa's Design to make his elder Brother marry one of the Daughters of the Dutchess of Valentinois he adds this Reflection "That Match was only unequal, supposing the Custom of the Princes Edition of Lorrain, who married none but Princesses, for the House of Maille, whereof that of Bieze was a Branch, was accounted without any contradiction one of the noblest and most ancient Houses of France, and it was well known, that be-fides the famous Jaquelin de Maill, fo much celebrated in the History of the Levant, it had af-forded fome Governours of Provinces from the time of St Lewis" The Author of the Life (h) of Admiral de Coligni has taken notice of that fault (1) Mademoiselle de Brezé (lays he) was the Daughter (i) Mademoiselle de Brezé (lays he) was the Daughter & of Mr de Breze Mauleviier, Senechal of Normandy, is and of Diana of Poitiers. She was of an Illustrious Family among the Nobility, and tho' she was not of that (which Mr de Varillas mentions, yet she had some 8 Persons among her Ancestors who had been Governours of Provinces for above three hundred years. Her Coat of Arms was also very different from that of the other Brezes, whose Sirname is Maille, whereas here was also were the sirname of Maille, whereas here was also were the sirname of Maille, whereas here was also were the sirname of Maille, whereas here was also were the sirname of Maille, whereas here was also were the sirname of Maille, whereas here were the sirname of the sirname was also were the sirname of the sirname was also were the sirname of the sirname whereas here were the sirname was also were the sirname whereas here were the sirname was also were the sirname was al

(f) Hiltor A H: crololo-

> (g) Histoire de Hen 11 book 1 pag 45 Dutch

(b) Printed at the Hague in 1686

(1) Pag

moirs of Mr L C DR (b) Page

(a) Me-of Mr Le Laboureur, ubi Supra, pag 298 Says he has this Story from a contemporary rethor printed in the Book intituled, Gesta Des per Francos (d) He fire d have faid Turks (e) That is quoted by Mr Le La

boureur,

& printed sta Dei per Fran-

the words

$ Priolus 15 6 14 > Nihil promif-fum deviri liberatione quam tam ardenter ge nibus advolutaRe gis & Reginæ po-ftulavit, fed data copia evellet & recedendi Repente, relicta au la,perAndegavenfes & Turones Montem-Rotundum petiit ubi mariti in liasserti inculpata vitæ norma mandata expe-Cavit S It was a Fortress in Bourbonnois, which bas been difmantled 1 1d lib 6 ¢ 36 || Condæa cum Fnguiano in Belgium nd maritum, Mc-Manfio furt feminæ princi Pi Id lib 9 c 6 Eustathius & Scholiaftes Homerin Iliad l I Diff Cretenf 1 2 † That is, formed out of the Fathersname Brifeis's Father ss'called Brifeus by Homer Il 11 v 392 19 v 132 & 134 and Brifes by Dictys Cietenfis, (a) In the Preface to Hen 11 s History (b) Ubi ſupra,

Lady Bieze used her well (F) enough. She on her side took part in her Husband's Mistortunes Whilst he was in Prison, she sted with the little Duke their Son to Bourdeaux, whither the Duke of Rousson brought her safely &. At her going out of that City, she was brought to the Court by the Marechal de la Meilleraye, and earnestly > beg City, she was brought to the Court by the Marechai de la Meinerage, and earnestly p begged her Husband's Liberty Her Conduct (G) on that occasion was prais'd by an Historian who is no Flatterer. That Princess obtain'd nothing, she was only permitted to go where she pleas'd, and she returned to I Montrond, as she had done before she went to Bourdeaux. She returned to that City when she heard † that the Prince of Conde was there, and she stand there till the Inhabitants submitted, and the Prince retir'd into the Spanish Netherlands. She went to him thither ||, and brought the Duke of Enguien with her, and did not return into France but with him after the Peace of the Paraness. She died in the month of April. 1694. at Chategu-Roux in Berry, whither she Pyrenees She died in the month of April, 1694 at Chateau-Roux in Berry, whither the had retired after a very strange Accident that happen'd to her about the latter-ent of the year 1670 One of her Domesticks was so mad as to draw his Sword upon her, and to give her a thrust with it He made his escape, but was taken up a little while after It is said, That that Princess, so far from desiring that he should be put to death, begg'd his Life, out of a sense of Humanity and Meekness This Adventure (H) occasioned many Resections, which was unavoidable in a City so full of Novelists as Paris is, I mean such Novelists as know how to reason, and who pretend to guess right.

BRISEIS, a Concubine of Achilles, was (A) accidentally the cause of a thou-fand Disorders in the Greek Army at the Siege of Troy Her right Name was * Hippodama, that of Brises is one of those Names which the Grammarians call † Patronymical She fell into the power of Achilles when that Heroe had taken Lirnessus, and kill'd her Husband Mynes who was King of it This is (B) Homer's Opinion, which some Authors do not follow. Achilles had that Prince's Widow for his share of the Booty, Breze But that which deceiv'd Mr de Varillas is, Here are Priolo's words (e) Condana ad Regis & (e) Lib 5. that there is none left of that Family; and he thought, Regina confectum admissa since all on livatis sufficience c 27 as well as Mezerai, who says the same thing, that it innocentiam suam tacita exprehentione suggestion nullius that there is none left of that Family; and he thought, as well as Mezerai, who says the same thing, that it was the same as that of the Maille Brezés Varillas made a publick contession of his fault, wherein he has committed three or four other mistakes. These are his words (a) "I ingenuously confess, that I "believ d, on the credit of a Genealogy which I believed, on the credit of a Genealogy which I faw thirty years ago in the house of Garman, that Peter de Breze, great Senechal of Normandy, came from the House of Maille, but I have found out since, that this Breze, Husband of Diana of Poiliers, who was afterwards Dutcheis of Valentinois, was of the ancient House of Breze in Normands, and that at was only for whom of Mala mandy, and that it was only for want of Male lifue from him that the Heiress of that Family of Brenc brought the Name of it into the fecond House of Breze, a younger Branch of that of Maille, which subsists no more but in the Person of the Princess-Dowager of Conde." I The Husband of Diana of Poitiers was called Lewis de Breze, and not Peter de Breze II The House of Breze was and not Peter de Breze 11 The House of Breze was not of Normandy, but of Anjou III It was not for want of Male lifue from the Husband of Diana of Poisters, that the Heiress of that House brought the Name of it into the second House of Breze, a younger Branch of that of Maille Mr Le Laboureur (b) says, That Pean de Maille, who live above three hundred years ago, married the Heiress of the eldest Branch of the House of Breze in Anjou Varillas (c) himself tells in that all the Succession of the Wife of the Second tells us, that all the Succession of the Wife of the Senechal of Normandy was shar'd between her two Sonsin-law, who were the Duke of Bouillon and the Duke of Aumale IV Lastly, The Branch of Maille-Breze was not reduc'd to the only Dowager of Conde, for (d) Mr Le Laboureur speaks of the Marquis de Benehart, who had two Brothers and two Sisters, and who descended from that Branch

(F) Us'd her well enough] I have read a thing in Marigni's Letters that may do Honour to the Prince of Conde's Memory The Title of that Letter is, A New-Years-Gift to the Duke of Enguien, it was written from Francfort in 1658 Marigns relates, That in a dangerous fit of Sickness which the Prince of Conde had lately had, "he had express d his Zeal for Re"ligion, his Submission to Providence, and his Sa-" tisfaction to have the Internuncio for a Witness " of his Respect for the Head of the Church, and of "the Humility wherewith he adored the Mysteincs of it, and that he had given sincere Marks

"of CONJUGAL LOVE, of Fatherly Ten"it is a constant for his France and of "derness, of Cordiality for his Friends, and of kindness to all his Servants and Domesticks, which were as many Christian and Moral Battles, | Kindness to all more which were as many Christian and Moral Battles, which were as many Christian and Moral Battles, wherein he had triumph'd over the blackest Calumny of his Finemies." Hen 1. 1 1 2 37 (d) 1 2 37 was praised by an Historian]

tamen demissionis verba protulit, sed suppliciter trissis tanta modestia sermonem commendavis, & tam concinnè marens visa, ut in cosdem cum illa affestus, sentirent se omnes mutari. See the Quotation y

(H) This Adventure occasion'd many Restessions] I have just now read some circumstances of that Action, and of its confequences in Dr Patin Three (f) weeks ago (says he) a man (g) who had been one of the Prince's Footmen, came into the Palace of Conde, Letter is and drew his Sword upon the Princess, whom he found dated the at his advantage, and run it into her Body, but the blow 14th of Jais not mortal. It is thought he had a mind to rob her, nuary is not mortal. It is thought he had a mind to rob her, nuary and taken. All the Devils are not in 1671 'Tis is not mortal It is thought he had a mind to rob her, nuary; but he fied, and is not taken All the Devils are not in 1671 'Tis Hell, nor all the Madmen in Bedlam, many people are the 531 weary of their Life At last he is taken, and his Name (g) Tom 3 is du Val, he ask'd her some Money which he pretended pag 583 was due to him He is going to be tried This matter is variously whisher d in the ear (h) The Footman (h) Patin, div Val who mounded the Drivers of the state of the last the last of the last of the state of the last of the du Val, who wounded the Princess, is condemned to the 1b Letter Gallies, and chained with the rest, but they are not yet 532 paggone, for he is still at Paris As for her, it is said she 585 will soon be carried to Chateau-roux in Berri, by the will soon be carried to Chateau-roux in Berri, by the King's Command, and her Husband's Order The Secret of it is not known The Prince of Conde a little while before he died "wrote (1) a whole Page with his (1) Histoire "own hand, and having caus'd the Dutchess of du Prince "Enguien, and Gourville to read it, he ordered it to de Condé, be seal'd, and given to the Duke his Son after book 5 pag. "his death The Prince spoke in that Writing of his Wife the Princess of Condé, and even desir'd the King to take care of that Princess, and to pre"feribe her the manner how she ought to behave." scribe her the manner how she ought to behave, her felf

"her self

(A) Was accidentally the cause of a thousand Disorders] Here is the Chain of all those Events In a Council of War Achilles was of opinion that Chrysess, the Concubine of Agamemnon, should be return'd to her Father After a great deal of abusive Language on both sides, Agamemnon was forced to yield to that Advice, but to make himself amends he seiz'd on Brises (k) Achilles being provoked (k) Homewith this affront, laid down his Arms, and since II his i that time the Trojans obtain'd several Advantages, which put the Army of the Greeks in an ill condition (1)

(B) It is Homer's Opinion, which some Authors do

dition (1)

(B) It is Homer's Opinion, which some Authors do not follow] He says in the 2d and in the 19th Book of the Iliads, that Achilles took Brises in the City of (m) In 2 Lyrnessus, and it is easie to conclude from those two passages, that Mynes, who reign'd and was killed there, was Brises's Husband The Scholiast upon (n) Debell Homer (m) and Eustathius say so in express words Troy & 2 Distys Cretensis (n) is of another opinion, he says p. m 172. that Fallion was King of Lynessus, and Husband of Asynome

See the Remarks L and F

and lov'd her wery affectionately She hoped (C) he would take her with him into Thessay to marry her When Agamemnon and Achilles were reconciled, the first made many Presents to the other, and return'd him Bresen, and swore (D) solemnly that he had not touch'd her It it be not false that he soriwore himself, it is at least a very likely thing I do not know what became of that Woman after Achilles was kill'd Horace argu'd wrong, when he alledg'd Achilles's Example, to prove that a Man ought not to be asham'd of loving his Servant-Mud Mi Minage's Cutticism (E) upon this

Asynome, the Daughter of Chryses, when Ashilles tooks that Town He adds, that after that Conquest Mchilles went speedily to Attack Pedasus, a Town of the Leseges, the Royal Seat of Brises, while Daughter Hippodamia was taken Cedrenus of follows the Opinion of Distys Cretensis: We must remember, that Brises and Hippodamia are one and the same Person here However it be, Morers is greatly mistaken in saying, that Brises was a Trojan Lady corrects Ce-

(C) She hoped he would take her with him to marry her I It was Patroclus who inspir'd her with such hopes, and perhaps he did it only to soften her Grief for the death of her Husband and of her Brothers, and for the Ruin of her Country However it be, the Remembrance of those hopes melted Briseis into Tears (c) when at her Return to Achilles she saw the deal Body of Patroclus

W 295

b) See how

Meziriac

drenus's

Oude mus as source, or wing smous armie armies armies, where source armies of which white of the control of the Minime tamen, minime sinebas me, cum virum velor Achilles Interfecit, evertitque urbem divini Mynetis Flere, sed me dicebas Achillis divini Charam uxorem to facturum elle, dufturumque in navibus

Ad Phthiam, celebraturumque nuptias inter Myrmidones.

Ideo te insatiabiliter defleo mortuum, suavem semper

(D) And swere folemnly, that he had not touch d her] I Swear, said he, by the great God supiter, by the Earth, by the Sun, and by the Infernal Furies, who punish Perjusies, that I never laid my Hands on her, either to enjoy her, or for any other

(d) Homer 16 v 261

Mi (d) par 630 xuph Belonid zag emerenge Out eine wegeaur ungenpas Etr tiu anu, An epa awestippe de ni nitunt epant Me non puelle Briseid manum intulisse, Neque concubitus causa egentem, neque alicujus alterius TC1, Sed mansiffe intactam in tentoriis meis

Owld brings in Brifels swearing, that she liv'd like a chaste Widow in Agamemnon's Tent, whilst A. hilles comforted his feels in the Arms of another Mistrils for the loss of Brifess

(e)Ovidius in Epift Bri∫ ad Achill

Nulla (e) Mycenaum sociasse cubilia mecum juro fallentem deseruisse velis Si tibi nunc dicam, Fortissime, tu quoque jura Nulla tibi fine me gaudia facta, neges

Ovid did not believe that Oath of Brises, for he alledges Agamemnon as an Example of one of his Remedies for Love That Remedy consists in driving away one Passion by an applying one's self to Brises as Agammemnon did, in order to forget Chrises. When would it among the arms. forget Chryses: What would it avail me to be a King, if I did not lie with this Woman? I had as good yield my Royalty to the wilest Fellow

(f) Ovid de remed AMAY

(g) Figme-reon Philofiratus in the Pisture of Ajax, the Lacri-Ex Plutarcho, de ratiocinio besturum

Nam (f) si ren ego sum, nec mecum dormiet illa, In mea Therster regna licebit eat Dinit, & hanc habuit solatia magna prioris, Es prior est cura cura repulsa nova

This is what Ovid makes Agamemnon say, after which he affirms, That Brifets succeeded with that Prince in the Function of Chryses Agamemnon's Temper renders the thing very likely He was very Lassivous Man; for whilst the Fleet lay at Anchor for a fair Wind, "He (g) ran all over "Bestis after a young Youth whose Name was Armses, whom he pursu'd immodestly, till at last " symme, whom he pursu'd immodestly, till at last

"not being able to pievail, he bath d himself in "the Lake Copais to cool his Heat" With what Passion and Fury did he fall in Love (b) with Cassandra the Daughter of Priamus, in the Temple of Minerva? His Oath did not persuade Achilles See one of Libanius's Speeches, wherein Achilles says to Ulysses, He swears that he has not touch'd Briteis, be it so But will any body believe it? The Shame of it will therefore stick to mein every body's Opinion, and to tell you in one Word what I think, I give no Credit to Ausmempoor's Octhoria. Agamemnon's Oaths (1), gamemon's Oaths (1),

(E) Mr Menage's Criticism upon this is very well me anomaled I There are his Words, "(k) I had understaken to make an Ode on William Collectes usualization of Horace who made one upon one of his Friends, who who made one upon one of his Friends, who had the same Passion, but I have not done it (k) Menage I found it was all given Lxamining that of Horace, I found it was all giana, pag wrong He peaifes his I riend for imitating the 258 of the Ancients, who had also lov'd and married their 1st Edit of Servant-maids He quotes Achilles for an Example, who married Brifess, but Brifess was no Servant, she was a Slave who was a Queen, and who had been taken by the right of Arms." This Thought of Horace (1) is very odd, and contains a pitiful Argument Achilles was not asham'd to love a Queen, whom the chance of Arms put into his Hands, Agamenmon did not blush in the midst of his Triumph to Love the Daughter of King Priamus, therefore you need not blush to love a Slave you have bought I own that he endeavours to mend the Matter a little, by supposing it was likely his I riend's Maid might be of a good Family, considering the good Qualities wherewith she was endowed, but this do's not repair the fault We should now-a-days call a Man fool and extravagant, if he encouraged his Friend to love a Servantmaid, under pretence that some Generals of Armies gant, if he encouraged his Friend to love a Servant-maid, under pretence that some Generals of Armies who should take a Count, or a Prince of the Empire Prisoner with his Wife and Daughters, would make no Difficulty to entertain their she Prisoners with amourous Addresses, and to marry them I know very well, that Men do not judge of the same Things alike in all Ages, and that I ought not to insist upon my Parallel without any Restriction, but Horace's Argument will never be justified, and but Horace's Argument will never be justified, and at the worst it will appear, that in Homee's Time the Ideas of Reason were still very much confused, since Achilles expresses misself thus in the Iliad (m) Ilov'd Brileis with all my Heart, the' the force of Arms made her fall into my Hands If Alexando had argued thus in Relation to Darius's Wife and Daughters, had it not been faid, that he did not know what he faid? Perhaps I venture a little too much, fince we read in Quintus Curtius, that this Conqueror justified his Marriage with Roxana, by this Reason that Achilles did not fcorn to lie with (n) a Prisoner Ovid makes use of the same Argument as Horace, to justifie the Trade he drove with the Maid of his Corinna He was not contented with the Mistress's Favours, he went as heartily to work with the Chamber-maid, protesting nevertheless when Corinna complain'd to him about it, that a Man must have lost his Judgment, to mind Servant-maids

Quid (0) quod in ancilla si quis del nquere posser, Illum ego contendi mente carere bona? Theffalus ancilla facie Briscidos arfit Serva Mycenae Phœbas amata duci Non ego Tantalide major, nec major Achille Qued decuit reges cur mihi turpe putem?

Pheroras, Herod's Brother, was so passionately in so edit 2 love with a Servant-maid, that he chose rather to (q) Menapersist in it, than to Marry Herod's Daughter (p) giana pag If ever any Body makes the Catalogue mention'd 253 of the by (q) Mr Menage, he will do well to inlarge it with those who have imitated Pheroras

I must say something by the bye of Mr Dacier's (r) Horas Remark on these Words of Horace, (r) Hunc amor, Epist 2

It's quidem communiter with utrunque Here is a lib it we find that the same of the sa

(b) Id 16

(1) Ken 10'r our tel ply No appropri me akudür uA1z pure: A TO THE ELIZABLE ONO. A. אשב מון אל א operoti (k) Mena-Holland (/) Ne sit ancille tibi amor Horat Od (m) a: 19 еды тич Ек Эпрей TH Y erxula mis U₁ & ego hanc ex animo tam licet existentem Il ! (n) Achillem quo que a quo genus ipse deduceret cum cap tiva colfic Q Curtius 1 8 c 4 n 15 (0) Ovid eleg 8 (p) Pheroras impuros ancillæ complexus Herodis filize impolluto cubili prætulit Jo∫eph Antiq Jud 1 16 c 11 pag 564 apud Drelincurt. indic Achill pag 62 edit 2

16-0 1218

8 Orus 1 1 6'at co-

11

7 M 32 1 MS La ely no

I Ilu er-

tock Tries

Dates Phrygius represented Brises (F) as a charming 15 very well grounded Woman He fiv, her Tye-brows joined each other, which would not pass in our spring Age for a Beauty Du Soubait in his B Translation of the Iliads is very pleasant to call at Parisin Brises (G) i Virgin, when she was taken from Achilles's Tent, and brought to that of Agamemnon

BRISSOT (Peter), one of the most able Physicians of the XVI Century, was the Son of a much esteem'd Advocate, and was born at Fortenas-le-Comte in Postou in the Year 1478 About the Year 1495, he was sent to Farm, where he went thro' a Course of Philosophy under Villemor, one of the most farmers Professors of those Times It was by the Advice of that Professor, that he resolved to be a Physician He Regled Paris Having done it for the space of Ten Years, he less it off to prepare himself. the Lyaminations, that he was to undergo at Paris before he could be Doctor of fick He began to prepare himself for it in 1512, and took his Doctor's Degree the 27th of May 1514 Being one of those Men, that are not contented with Custom and Iridition, but will examine Matters carefully, he made an exact Comparison between the Practice of those Times, and the Doctrine of Hippocrates and Galen, and he tound that the Arabi ins had introduc'd many Things into the Practice of Physick, that were contrary to the ancient and true Method of curing Difeases, and to the Doctrine of those two great Misters, as also to the Knowledge that Reason and Experience could supply He therefore went about to reform Physick, I mean to re-establish the Precepts of Hippocrates and Galen, and to drive away the Doctrine of the Arabians. It was almost impossible at that Time, to imagine another Reformation. First of all, he (e) The Laundertook publickly to explain Galen's Books, instead of those of Arabiana, Rhasis, and im Word Malue, that were commonly explain'd in the Schools of Physick. He caused one of of may significant which is works to be Printed at his own Charges, according to the Edution and Tianfluron of Leonscenus, and explain'd it to learnedly, that he made it appear, that the (f) see Arabian Physicians had understood nothing of it. Then he proceeded to the Explication of another Piece of Galen*, and to that † of John Mesue. He mistrusted this last of Eye-Ixplication, either because he was ignorant of Botanicks, or by Reason of that Physi-brows the Then he proceeded to the Explica-concerning He resolv'd therefore to trivel in order to acquire the Knowledge of Authors cian's obfcurity plained it Plants, and put himself in a Capacity of reforming Pharmacy But before he lest the City quoted in in 1) vie, of Paris, he mide the Publick lensible of an inveter ite Errour The constant Practice of velles de Phylicians in the Pleuresie, was not to bleed on the Side where the Distemper was, but la Repuon the oppointe Side, I mean, that if the Pleurine was on the left Side, they let Blood blieque in the right Arm, and vice versa Brissot had a Disputation about it in the Schools of des Let Phytick, confuted that Practice, and shewed that it was falfly pretended to be Consonant to the Doctrine of Hippocrates, and Galen Moreover, he made vie of a quite contrary Practice, the Succeis whereof proved wonderful, and by that means he sup- tic 8 prest that Abuse Brisson being fully resolved to travel, and even as far as the new World, if there was occasion, left Paris in the Year 1518 and went into Portugal (g) Homer He stopt there in the City of Ebora, where he practised Physick His new way of w 337 Bleeding in the Pleuresy did not please every Body, but he justified it by a learned Apology (b) Home

Remarks PAR 147 Edit of Holland

Judgement of Horace that is very remarkable, fays
(n) In the Mr Dac er (a) "Speaking of Achilles and Agamen8 tol of his "non, he fays, that Love burns the latter, and that Remarks "both me equally inflamed with anger Achilles on Horace" is not therefore in Love, which is true Ho-"men who was thoroughly acquainted with Passions, did very well see that Love could not possess a Man of Achiller's Character" Mr Dacier cires two Passages of Homer, which make him conclude, That Achilles 21 only Sensible of the Assart Out was him to be the Assart Out was him to be the seed of the Affront put upon bem, by taking a prize from him, whremath his Valour had been honour'd, Love has no fbare in his Complaints It is not fo with Agamemon, he lov'd Briters, he expresses his Passion thus Mr Dacier quotes here some Verses of the Iliads which concern Chryseis, and not Briseis, and then he adds "It was very important to dis" stinguish those two Characters of Ashilles and "Agamenum For many have been mistaken about it thinking that Homer had made Ashilles
"in Love with Brises Horace took care not to
"commut that fault" It would be a difficult Thing to reconcile this with the Verses of the 9th Book of the Iliads, which I have quoted above See also Plutarch (b) who affirms that Ashillas was in Love with Binfest, and therefore it must be faid, that when Proposition observed that Ashillas suffered in Interest that when Proposition observed that Ashillas suffered in Interest that when Proposition observed that Ashillas suffered in Interest that when Proposition of the Cause of all in the wind upon the Notion of Home, who grounds Ashillas's August on the taking away from him an Object that was dear to him. (d) All the other Poets went upon the same Notions for the Indea Achillas Article 144, 185 Thing to reconcile this with the Verses of the 9th

(g. 1844, 1855 (P) Beisen as a charming Woman.]; He lays tha was very handsom, fair, of a middle Size, and of a suppression of the state of the had fine Eyes, the state of the state of the had fine Eyes, the state of the state of the had fine Eyes, the state of the state of the had fine Eyes, the state of the st Translator could not be ignorant, that Brifes had (b) lost her Husband at the taking of Lyrnesses, and that she had lain a long time with dehiller. The Lasing were as free as the Graeks in the use of the same words to signific a Maid, and a Woman, they call d those Puells: & Virgines who had had Children, and a Husband. Dr. Dressnesses has produced a great many Examples of that use of the Second Edition of his index schillent. He has account to with the Mastake of the Sieur de Sauteur. He does not mention it in his Book, as the mentions, (i) that of Designation.

(A) If

Name hat

to the King of Portu-

VIXIT COM-

His

logy, which he writ in answer to a long and disobliging Letter he had received || from a Physician. He would have publish'd that Apology, it Death had not prevented it (A) Rame in the Year 1622. His Friend Antony Luceus † caus'd it to be printed three Years after at Denys, Paris It was Re-printed at Basil in the Year 1529 Renatus Moreau procur'd a new Edition of it at Paris in the Year 1622, with a Treatile of his own, De missione sanguines in pleuritide, and the Life of Brissot, out of which I have taken this Article. The Endeavours that were us'd to suppress the Practice which this French Physician had a gal mind to introduce in Portugal, deserve (B) a Reflection Brissot compos'd some other to Books, but they are lost He would never marry s, being of opinion, that Marriage tive of did not well agree with the Mules He cared so little for Gain, that it is said, That Ebora being call'd to any fick Person he look'd into his Purse, and if he found but two Te-stooms in it, he refus'd that Practice He lov d his, Study so well, that it was difficult & Cælebs totake him from it

BRITANNICUS (John) an Italian, was one of the best Philologers of the diavitans, XVth Century He was born of Palazzolo near Brescia He publish d Notes on some Classical Authors, on Perfius, Tirence, Statius, Ovid and Juvenal, some Rules of Grammar, several little Tracts, and Letters, and a Panegylick upon Bartholomew Caperan, a brave and learned Man * Britannicus taught with great Industry He did it lidium in long enough at Bresca to acquire the Method and Practice of Teaching well He dy deterested in (A) in that City in the Year 1510 When he dedicated his Commentary on Juvenal to the Senate and City of Bresca, he gave a Resson for it, which was, That the Commentaries he had already dedicated to them, had been worth (B) a considerable Present to him Was it not asking for another. Those who have said, that he was the first who Commented (C) upon that Poet are very much mistaken. He took the Name of Britannicas because his Anis stores to Were of Great Britannicas he cause his Anis stores to Were of Great Britannicas. Name of Britannicus because his Ancestors † were of Great Britain

(a) Merklinus in Linden renov ex Justo in Mcdico-Tum

Religion

into the

Disputes

of the Learned, to alarm the People and upon only for its great Reputation,

yet no University in forms me, that this

Fault of

C2 NEVER

(A) If Death had not prevented it in the Year 1522] Merklinus is therefore in the wrong to fay (a) that he flourish'd under Clement VII for that Pope was not elected before 1523 The fame Author has forgot the first Edition of Brisses's Apology It is that of Paris printed for Simon Colines in 1525 Inflead of which he produces one of the Year 1538, printed for the same, and or the Game. printed for the same, and at the same Place, and altogether unknown to the curious Renatus Moreau which might in iome manner make it suspected of

AN IN- falfity STANCE (B) Describe a Restlettion | The Dispute between of the ill Denys and Brissor rais d a kind of Civil War among custom of the Portuguese Physicians. The business was brought before the Tribunal of the University of (b) Salabringing manca, where it was thoroughly discuss by the Faculty of Physick, but whilst they were examining the Reasons pro and con, the Partisans of Denys had the Magi-recourse to an Expedient which seldom fails those that are the strongest they oppress the others by the Authority of the Secular Power, and obtain'd a Decree forbidding Physicians to Bleed in the same Side that the Pleuresy should be in At last the University of Salamanca gave their Judgment, imthe Magifirates.

porting that the Opinion afcribed to Brisso was the true Doctrine of Hippocrates and Galen The Fol(b) Morelowers of Denys appeal'd to Casar about the Year au Jays, That Town Authority and Number, so that the matter was belonged brought before Charles V They were not conto the Portented to call the Doctrine of their Adversaries to the Portented to call the Doctrine of their Advertaries tuguese at false, but they said moreover that it was impious that time and mortal, and as pernicious to the Body as Luther's Schism to the Soul They did not only missaken, and I be attempting accuse them of Iglieve that norance and Raihness, of attempting on Religion. University and of being downright Lutherans in Physick It was pitch'd feld out unluckily for them that Charles III Duke of Savey, happen'd to die of a Pleurely, having been bled according to the Practice which Briffis had oppos'd Had it not been for this, the Emperor, as 'tis putation, thought, would have granted every thing that Brif-there being fot's Antagomists desir'd of him But the that accident should have made the good Cause triumph, no other Good resulted from it, but that the thing remain's undecided It is true that from that time Mr Bau-drand snfeveral Books were publish'd all over Europe on that Question, wherein the Practice of the Arabians was highly condemn'd (c) Renatus Morean gives a very curious List of those Books, and of those wherein that Practice was approv'd, in the Work that I have Moreau # cited But who would not admire on the one fide, wery gross, the Infatuation of Men, with respect to the Opi-and that nions commonly received, tho' they be never so Salaman ill grounded, and on the other side the Complibelonged to the Kings of Portugal, having been always of the Kingdom of Leon, ever since the expulsion of the Moors from those parts (c) Ex vita Briffers per Renatum Moreau.

ance of the Magistrates in declaring for or against libris tancertain Remedies for fince it happens but too often that they condemn fome which in time are generally approved for very good Reasons grounded upon Experience, it may be said that they judged without Knowledge, being led away by the most noisy and violent Cabal? Antimony is a proof of what I say See (*) Furctione's Dictionary

(A) He d ed in the Year 1510] Who would

(A) He ded in the Year 1510] Who would believe this, when he reads in a Work (d) printed in the Year 1545 Joannes Britannicus claret in civitate Brixiana, & varia componit opuscula? Honest Gesner, will some say, had found these Words in some Book wherein they were true, and without thinking that times were alter'd, transcribed them word for word It were better to write fewer Books, and to take the pains to accommodate what our Predecessors said to the present Time I answer that he had this from Trithemius, and that his Preface may hinder any body from being deceiv'd in it Ghilims Mistake is more gross he beliv'd that Paul Manurius flourish'd at the same (e) time as Britannicus did

(B) Had been worth a confiderable Present to him] These are his words, (f) Quod autem lucubrationes meas vobis amplissimi Patres dicandas essi censuerim, illud me maxime impulit quod meminiram superioribus annis quum in Achilleida Statii, & Satyras Persii commentarios edidissem, vobisque nuncapassem alteros,ita placitos fuisse, ut me non mediocris solum laus & gratulatio Gesneri, vestra secuta sit, sed insuper AMPLISSIMUM fol 393 MIHI MUNUS publico totius Senatus-consulto decretum fueris

(C) Those who have faid that he was the first wh commented upon Juvenal, are very much mistaken] Calius Secundus Curso publish'd some Notes on that Poet in the Year 1551 He declares (g) that he found it a very laborious Piece of work, because none but Britannicus had yet explain'd that Author Unum modo Joannem Britannicum habuit explicatorem, qui quamvis illa atate eruditissimus fuerit, non tamen Poeta sensum est assecutus neque mirum, fuit primus, neminem babut quem sequeretur It is a greater Fault than is commonly believed, not to read the Prefaces and the Epistles Dedicatory But especially those that write Books are very much in the wrong not to read them if Curio had read the Epistle Dedicatory of Britannicus, he would not have given teatre parte out such an unexcusable falsity Britannicus (b) ac- 1 2 78. knowledges that fome learned Interpreters had commented upon Juvenal, Satyras etfi temporibus nostris a nonnullis alist egregie li-teratis commentatoribus vel cum magna ipsorum laude (f) Bri= enarrata fucrant, aggressi sumus, quod omnino animad-verteremus in toto opere multa ab iis sive incaria quadam, five consulta opera praterita esse

(g) In epifiela nuncupatoria

(b) Ub. Supra.

epiftol dedicat

tam pa-tiens, studu tam avidus, ut xis Polypus adhæresceret Leoardo Corzando,della Libraria Brefuana, p 155 † Ghilim,

(*) At the Word Ans timoine

teatr

parte 1

PAG 78

(d) Bibliot.

(e) Non li fu difficil cofa non folo d'agguagliare il valore di Paolo Manucca dı fuperarlo ancora Ghilini,

Juvenal

(A) 16°

Чуууа

de l'Antecheift 1 part ch 22 Thuanus nus; and Sponda-Pedemontanus

He was afterwards Profiffer at † Voetius.

D Sput tr pag 1075 mbo quotes the Da id Dine iu s Comm nta-Man Pro-

In the 7car 1583

plats

+ See the Rımark B

BROCARDUS (fames) an Apocalyptical Author, and one of the Visionarie Vignier the XVIth Century, was || a Venetian He embraced the Protestant Religion, and expenses the the XVIth Century and expenses the English And the pressed a great Zeal against Popery. He published several (A) Books in Holland, wherein he muntain'd that the particular Events of the XVI Century had been foretold by the Prophets Having apply'd the Oracles of the Scripture according to his Fancy to things already happen'd, he took the liberty to apply them to future Events, and by virtue of such and such Passages, he foretold that such and such a thing would happen to the Prince of Orange, Philip II Queen Elizabeth, the Emperor, & The Synods of the United Provinces were afraid, not without reason, that People would thank they approv'd those extrav igant Notions, if they were wholly filent about 'em Where-fore the National Synod of Middleburg condemn'd in 1581, that Method of Explaining the Scripture, and enjoyn'd Lambert Daneau, Professor of Divinity at Leyden, and tin Lydius, * Minister of the Church of Amsterdam, to speak to Brocard about his The Author, from whom I have this, thinks he remembers that Brocard not being able to answer the Objections raised against his System, promised to leave off meddling with such Prophecies † That Visionary had so (B) inveigled a French meddling with such Prophecies † That Visionary had 10 (B) inveigled a French Gentleman, who was a good Protestant, as to persuade him by I know not how many Passages of the Scripture, which he explain'd in his way, that a Protestant Prince would quickly overthrow the Pope's Throne, and make himself, the Head of all the United Christians. That Gentleman, who was a faithful Service to the King of Navarre, thought Heaven design d the King his Master for such a glorious Enterprise, and proposed to him to send an Embassy to the Protestant Princes, offering to be his Ambassador. There being nothing in his Proposat and what suited with the necessities of the Time, it was approved of, and he was a setually deputed to those Prince. He was laughed it when it came to be known by what Motive he ad ann in the suite of the second and so the case of Printing the Book. was influenced, and for what Reason he had been at the charges of Printing the Book 1583 n 9 of his Prophet 4 Here is an Instance of what such People can do they will occation the attempting of a Thousand things, which no body would think of, they are refuser, perfect Incendiaries Doubtless many of 'cm are no Impostors, they are infatuated fays Thuwith their Notions, they believe what they foretel but some of 'em design only to super they have more Wat they Hopesty, and are the plague super have more Wat they Hopesty, and are the plague cause Wars and Infurrections, they have more Wit than Honesty, and are the plague of Minkind I don't think that Brocard was a Man of that Stamp The Catholick the (C) Writers abuse him at a strange rate, the Protestants (D) are tender of his Reputation

(A) He publish d several Books in Holland] His Commentary on St John's Revelation, and his My-flicil and Prophetical Explication of Levisieus came out at I et den in the Year 1580 Two other Books, alter ad Christianos de Prophetia qua nunc compleatur in his qua sunt secundi adventus Domini, alter ad Hebraot de primo & secundo ejusdem adventu, (a) were Printed at Leyden about the same time. We shall see hereaster (b) at whose Charges those Books came out of the Press. If the Author had not writ in Irim, it niight be thought strange, that no Booksteller would venture to be at the charges of Printing them, for such Works in the Vulgar I ongue sell well enough in troublesome Times, or when great Changes are desir'd. His Treatise D. Antihaptismo jurantium in Papam & in Ecclesian alter ad Christianos de Prophetia que nunc compleatur Antibaptismo jurantium in Papam & in Ecclesiam Romanam, deque corum idolo zeli, was Printed at Ley-din in the Year 1580 and contains 77 Pages in Olfaro I shall speak hereafter of his Commen-tary on Genefis See the Titles of some other Trea-tiles in the Remark C (B) So invergled a I rench Gentleman] His Name was (c) Segur-Pardaillan 'Tis a very Illustrious I amily in Guienne Thuanus Speaks of him thus (d) Segurius homo probo & vivaci nec inerudito ingenio, ceterum credulo, ante aliquot annos, dum in Belgio effet, artiam familiaritatem cum jacobo Brocardo Subalpino coluerat, vaticinationum argutias ad infaniam sectante, cujus & scripta hujusmodi vanitatis plena ille postea sump it is sublicanda curavit. Ab eo cum accepisset, locis scriptura, ut dictis fidem faceret, ad id detortis, fore, ut non it a multos post annes Pontifex a principe Pretestante de sede deturbaretur, sque princeps caput concordia Christiana suturus esset, eum principem insito erga herumsuum assetu protinus Navarrum sore sibi persuase-rat, eogue majore studio & ardere pro auttoritate, qua ın aula Navarrı pollebat, legationem eam, cui 💸 obeundæ in auta Navarri politoat, legationem eam, cui & ebeunaa se cobiulis, premovit, qua alioqui absque hoc secreto ridiculo, quod tandem emanavit, & ab adversariis postea in Germania illi improperatum est, tanquam in speciem ut lis & necessaria multis probatur. Surely, says Davii (e), Men of low degree are Vanity, and Men of high degree are a Lye

(C) The Catholick Writers abuse him at a strange rate Martin del Rio maintain'd, That James Brocard was the Devil's Tool, and that his Revelations were Diabolical (f) Quid quafo aliud est liber ille manuscriptus jacobi Brocardi Calvinista revelationum ad Elizabetham Anglia Reginam, & Prafatio in Conesson, aliaque nonnulla ejustem opuscula, nisi farrago

quadam damoniacarum revelationum, quarum pracipuam de anno 1580 jam tempus mendacis convicit? We learn from this Passage, that some Manuscript Copies of the Revelations, which this Man in-feribed to Queen Elizabeth, were handed about, and that his chief Prediction concern'd the Year 1580, and prov'd false I would fain know what it was We have seen that Thuanus does not spare that Mystical Commentator Spondanus, who gives the substance of what Thuanus says concerning Pardaillan's Embassy, is no less Satyrical (g) Qui (Segurius) cum ante aliquot annes in Belgio à Jacobo Brocardo Pedemontano imepto & fatuo hariolo (cujus & Cripta inanium vaticinationum plena edita fuere) accepisses fore non ita multos post annos ut Romanus Pontifex a principe quodam Calvinistarum de sede deturba-retur, sque Caput concoredia Christiana futurus esfet, & c He laughs at Pardaillans Credulity, and fays, that a Piece initialed (b) Incendium Calvinianum was publish'd at Ingolfiad against his Deputation He is so Ingenuous as to confess that there are some Fanaticks in his Communion, who put upon great Designs, and fill with vain Hopes those that trust to their Promises, and he gives a fresh Instance of it He names no body, but if I am not very much mistaken, he means Charles Emanuals Duke of Savoy All this is to be found in a long Parenthese for long Parenthese are him to the same than the sa Parenthesis, for long Parentheses are but too common with him Id etiam testimonius Sacra Scriptura firmans, (1) he speaks of James Brocard, (quales sure sure fingular faculis qui ejusmodi sua deliria apertissima sibi, at manut, sed occultissima alia scriptura auctore tatibus successe non dubitarunt. Fut non ita pridem vir apud nos proba ac religiosa vita magnique apud cos qui elus abuna utahantur habitus aus similihus fanaticus our apud nos proba ac religiosa vita magnique apud eos qui ejus opera utebantur habitus, qui similibus fanaticus persuasionibus, ex Joannis Apocalypsi somniatis, nobilem principem in grandes impensas vana spe cujusdam impensi conjecit, qui tamen nec parvum summ statum desendere potuic, & fere omniuniverum inops mortuus est. Florimond de Remond insults poor James Brocard vary rudely See the following Remark

(D) The Protestants are tender of bus Republication am Rom. Noticus rejects the Opinion of Brocard, who beliand that the Holy Ghost denotes all sorts of Events by one sole literal Sense, which may be a thousand times mystically apply'd to particular Occurrences, but he adds, that he was otherwise (k) a good Man, very Orthodox and Pious Nicolas Vignier goes farther, for he grants, That in some things he had farther, for he grants, That in some things he had Pag 1075

They Supomnia Navarro ab Araufionenfi hujus telæ quo cla quam rebus fuis pertimefcebat, excitato in Gullia & Germania motu à se

> (1) Spend ubi Supra

> averteret

(k) Fuit hic Brocardus cætera var probus, orthodoxiæ pietatse ftud uti viden eft ex libello ip. De Ansia baptifma & Ecclefiam Roma nam, deque corune idea Voctaus

(a) I ide Loctium D/putom p 1075

(h) In the

(c) lacob Serurius Padallani is, c præcipur Aquitania 110bilitate, homo Calviniflice fa-dictus Thuan 1 79 ad ann 1583 Pag 500

(d) Id 1b

(i) Ifal 6. 9

(f) Mut del Rio, તાં વિષ્યા દિક Magicar l 4 cap t queft 3 feetas pag

tation . but the National Synod (E) of Rochelle in 1581, gave him no quarter find in Bongars's Letters, that our James Brocard retired to (F) Nuremberg, where he met with some charitable Patrons, who did him very good Offices He had not yet He was still living in 1594 The Writers of the League took advantage of his Pie-Remark F. dictions, but they (G) committed two Faults, of Which M du Plesses Mornay quickinformed the Publick.

BRODEUS (John), born at Tours, was a learned Critick He flourish d in the XVIth Century His chief Works are a Commentary upon the Anthologia, Ten Books of Miscellanies, his Notes upon Oppian, Euripides, &c Consult Moreris Dictionery; but mind (1) the faults he has committed, which I shall take notice of Liabrift I part ch 22 p m 339

(b) See Mr Quick's Synodicon on Gallin

Reforma-

(c) Bon-

gars Let-ter 6 to

Camerar

PAE 129

the Hague

epift 83

PAE 335

14. 100 14. 100

1695 (d) Id

the Gift of Prophecy These are his Words (a) er, These I must say something of James Brocard a Venetian, de l'Ante-who u very much abus'd by Remond It were to be wish'd, that thu Man, who was no Ecclesiastick, had not been so forward to publish his Thoughts upon the Holy Scripture For the he does not depart from the purity of Scripture For the he does not depart from the purity of the Gospel Dostrine, yet be too frequently lays aside the true meaning of the Words and the literal sense, to run into mystical Interpretation. Nevertheles, forasmuch as God's Power is Infinite, and the imparts his Gifts to whom he pleases, those who have be samiliarly acquainted with the said Brocard, witness that he had wonderful Revelations of particular things, the truth whereof was confirmed by the Evint, as the Venetians, among others, experienced by the loss of Cyprus, and of their Arlenal, as he had forecold 'em as he had foretold 'em

(E) The National Synod of Rochelle in 1581 gave him no quarter] That Assembly drew up an Act importing, That having item and examin'd a Latin Book upon Genesis, written by James Brocard a Psedmonteze, and Printed at Rochelle, they have deand declare, that it is full of Impiety horrid Profanations of the Holy Scripture, and pernicious Lirors, especially about Revelations and Prophecies And that therefore they exhort all the Faithful to beware of being deceived by such a Book (b) Here is a Synod much more frout than that which was held at Middleburg in the fame Year What might be the Reason of such a difference? Are the French less moderate than the Dutch? Reason cannot be alledg'd, for I could instance upon some Synods, wherein the French Spirit prevail'd, that shew'd a greater Moderation than that of Middleburg Perhaps some will say, that Bi ocard was in Holland, when these two Synods condemn'd him, which was the Reason why he had some Friends at Middleburg, and none at Rochelle, but I would advise no body to rest satisfy'd with such a Solution

(F) James Brocard retird to Nuremberg, where met with charitable Patrons] Bongars profes their Charity, and the Person to whom they were so kind I hear, fays he (c) in a Letter to Camerarius, that your Republick has kindly received the good Old Man J Brocard, who in his Youth appear'd among Old Man J Brocard, who in his Touth appear'd among the most Polite and Learned Men I have been lately well pleased to see him in your sown, and an obliged to Mr Baugar for it By this means you heap up a Treasure in Heaven. This he will the 3d of February 1591. He express'd the same Affection for Brocard in a Letter of the 16th of November 1594. (d) Non possure quin & tibi gratius agam ob missrum, bonum tamen, senem Brocardum tam benigne & liberalitir habitant. "I am mightily pleas'd (says he in another the state of the great Affection you express for Misseward. He does certainly deserve that some "Persons of such a Probity as yours is, should "take care of him. As for me, I am hardly in a "Capacity to oblige him. I leave no Stone unturn'd to procure him the payment of Three hundred Gold Crowns, that Mr Segur left him by his Will."

(G) The Writers of the League committed two Faults, of which Mr du Plessis Mornay. They mention'd Segur's Embassy among the Expedients which the King of Novarre made use of after the Death of the Duke of Anjou, to secure his Succession to the Crown of France. He has seen soult they (f). Segur. Printed at Sure in Heaven

Duke of Anjou, to secure his Succession to the Crown of France He has sent, faid they (f), Segur-Pardaillan, one of his Gentlemen, into Germany, Sweden, Denmark and England, to renew the ancient Confederacies he has contrasted with all the Hereticks, and to make new ones, and set all his Friends against you, that being assisted with their Forces he may usurp a Grown, from which he is lawfully excluded. To this he has been infligated by the Minifter Brooard, a Trumper of Satan, who being out of his Wits, is fully persuaded, and made him believe, that he is spoken of in the Revelation, and that he is to be King of France, and to expel the Pope from his See M du Plessis Mornay answered, that Segur was sent Ambassador a Year before the Duke of Anjou dy'd, and that his Highness was then in very good Health Note, (du Plessis Mornay goes on (g)) that Brocard, is an old Italian, who neither is, nor ever was, a Minister, who was condemned by their Synods, who never saw the King of Navarce, and never set his Foot in France He does not deny Segur's Credulity, nor Brocard's Prophetical I ancies, he answers nothing upon that Head One may conclude from his Silence, and from a Paslage of d' Aubigne, that those things were true matter of Fact D' Aubigne sWords are these "(h) Some body proposed the Opinion of the late Segur, who said, That Mad-men are accounted Prophets in Turke, and that every thing went on chap 22 prosperously in that Country, so that France p m 179 would be in a happy State, if Brocard's Prophetes were more credited'

(7) The Faults of Morers, which I shall take notice I I for Brodeus dy'd in 1563, being 63 Years of of I If Brodeus dy'd in 1563, being 63 Years of Age, as Moreri affirms, after Scavola de Sainte Marthe, he did not live in the XVth Century, and yet Morers says he did II He did not well understand the Latin Words of Sainte Marthe, concerning the Learned Men with whom Brodeus contracted a Friendship in Italy Brodeus went twice into that Country with the French Ambassadors He went to Venice in the Retinue of George de Selve, and to Rome in that of George d Armagnac, and during those two Journies, he grew intimately acquainted with Sadolet, Egnatius, Bembus, Flaminius, and other Men eminent for their Learning (1) Hos Brodeus omnes PARTIM Venetiis PARTIM Rome & vidit familiariter, & propter fludiorum conjunctionem facile sibi conciliavit Mr Moreis, instead of mentioning Brodeus's stay at Venice and at Rome, as Sainte Marthe does, ascribes all to his stay at Rome It was in the Capital City of the Christian World, says he, that Brodwus got the Priendship of Sadolet and Bembo, both Cardinals, and of Baptist Egnatus, and many Learned Men Those who know that Egnatus was Professor at Venice, and never stirr'd out of his House at that time, must needs own, that it had been better for Moreri to transcribe Sainte Marthe taithfully III It was not by the Advice of those Il-lustrious Friends, that he apply'd himself to the study of Mathematicks, and the Hebrew and Chaldaick I an-guages What was Moreri the deaming of, when he found that pretended Advice in (k) the Words of Sainte Marthe, which fignify only that Prodeus exceeded thoie Gentlemen, because, besides Polite Learning, he understood also Mathematicks, Hebrew and Chaldaick IV Moreri should have said, not that he died in the beginning of the Civil Wars of Religious have the heady'd about the end of the first Civil on, but that he dy'd about the end of the first Civil War of that kind Sub exitum prime civiles ob religionembelli capit levi tentari febricula, sed ad extremum exitiali. They are Sainte Marthe's Words, which tho' never so easy, were not understood by Moreri V He grew old at Tours in St Martins, which he call da College. So these Words of Thuanus, (1) Apud B Martinum cui Collegio nomen dederat conse-nuit, have been translated 'Tis certain, that if a p m 715 School-Boy could not translate better, he would be laugh'd at by his School-fellows, and might well deserve Correction, This Blunder has not (m) Elog been committed by Moreri, but by du Rier of the French Academy Morer: took it only from M Teiffer (m) Thusnus means, that Brodeus grew old in St Martin's Church, where he was a Canon

(e) Du p 631

(/1) B4102 de Fan At Rook 3

(1) Sam-

(k) Hoc eriam ali-Quanto fuperior. quod ad cas quibus pariter incumbebant ele gintiores literas,illo & Mithematicas Hebixam Chaldaamque infuper adhibeiet

(!) Thuan lib 35

(m) Elog Mr de Thou t 1 pag 22"

(f) Averdes Catha Liques Anglois aux François Catholiques pag N 33

(") Lip-me, apud le I abou-

7 Le LAbour cur, Addit to Caftelnau 10m 2 P 97 1161 Sup a Ł Concern-ne the aff , nie of thole tuo Per-

n nds mth Remusk A

3 Buc/ 11non re-2 17/1 5 0-1. 1.16

1 1 58,

See

111 In-

All ount de the the Maitigues who

411 t/

1/1 c forme

LA) UIIS CIT-

cun hances

in the Remark D

(L) Colomil Gall

Ortent

Sec

reur ubi unfra B Id 16

pfins fillly believed (Z) that Brodens was a young Man he had more reason to be sor-1) that he was not celebrated in proportion to his Merit

BROSSE (Fames de la), a great Warrior in the XVIth Century, was (A) born in Bourbonnois Is said that he was Thirty Years of Age, when he began to bear Arms He quickly got a great Skill in the art of War, and the Esteem of Francis de Lorraine of Duke Guise, whose Lieuten int Colonel he was He was made Governour of a Duke of Longueville, and then he was appointed together with Sansac to watch over the conduct of Francis II and teach him fine Maxims, Brantome & lays, that he was the mildest and the most courteous Man of War that ever was seen, and that he gave his Advice in such gentle and obliging Words that he was the more esteem'd for it, whereas E Sintic was on the contrary a hectoring and churlish Man in the War and at Hunting La Broffe being intirely devoted to Messieurs de Guise, was chosen to command Two thousand Men, that were sent a into Scotland to the Queen Regent their Sister in 1532. He departed from his Character, which was Mildness and Clemency, and comply de (B) with the Humour of Cardinal de Larraine, or rather he was obliged to act as he was directed by him Which proved very prejudicial to France, because the Scotch, in concert with the English, made it their business to get themselves rid of his Troops. The French were besieged in the little Leith, and shewed as much Courage and Conduct is could be expected from Troops consummate in the Art of War. but it last they were obligd to capitulate, and to leave that Country for ever La Brosse (C) performed his Duty very well during the Siege, tho' he was 75 Years old He was kill d | at the Buttle of Dreux with his Son in the Year 1562. He was Knight of the Order, and it he had not been kill'd in that Battle, he would have been made (D) Mirshil of France, for he received the Pension of a Marshal of France from the Brintome

(1) Lipfus falfly believed, that Brodwus was a roung Man | Colomelius mide this Observation betime nie (b) Nestwit Lipfus Brodwum obsisse sexuanio majorem Juvenis etiam vocatur a Claverio in Claud 1602 p 9 Here are Lipfus's Words (c) Joh Brodwus hac de Ulyssis errore in Miscellaneis seite coargu Brodwus, vir, sive adolescens potius, acris ingenie probi judicii, settionis dissus, quem non magis in oresima essemir, imo indignor The most Learned Citicks, Scaliger, Grotius, and many others, bestow'd gient Encomiums (d) upon Brodwus, nevertheless it may be said, That some Writers inferior to him in Learning, have been much more talk d of, which, perhaps, proceeded from his great Modesty See how Baptist Sapin (e) Counsellor to the King praises him for his Modesty commin in icd

(A) Born in Bourbonnois] Le Laboureur. knew so many Families, and was so good a Genealogist, owns, (f) That he knows nothing of the Birth of it is M de la Brosse, because, there is nothing extant about 1, and because his family was extinct by the Death of his Son at the Battle of Dreux I have found by chance in Belearies's History, what Province he was of (g) Franciscus, Rex preclare indolis, cujus adolescentia moderanda Jacobus Broffianus BOIUS ac Sanfacus attributi erant, ille vir prudentissimus & noum bel'icarum pertissimus, iste ingenio turbido, sed non malo, id (h) non permissiset, nam supra atatem sa pere sam capeiat, ut mibi idem Brossanus sapius con-simavit, eramus enim VICINI ac persamiliares Mezera, was not ignorant that la Broffe was a Native of that Country The Earl of Lenox, Says he (1), brought some Troops of I rancis into Scotland in the Year 1543 but that Young Man having loft their Muster-Mony at play, went into the Service of the King of Lngland, who marry'd lim to his Niece La Brosse a Gentlenan of Bourbonnois was sent in his room, and then Lorges Count de Montgomery Thus he speaks under the Year 1545 He says under the Year 1559 That a Succour of 3000 Men was sent to the Queen Regent of Scotland, Commanded by la Brosle, a Bourbonnois I think, he is in the wrong to believe, that this Gentleman was sent thither before the Year 1545

(B) Comply'd with the Humour of Cardinal de Lorrun | Here follows a Passage out of le Laboureur Henry Cluten, commonly call'd, d'Oyfel, who was fent to her as her Lieutenant, and afterwards la Biofic, tho' he was naturally inclin'd to Mildness, and Nicolas de Pelva, Bishop of Amiens, who were likewise sent thither, exasperated the People by their Maxims and bold Undertakings, being nor sufficiently supported by France, from whence they received more Counsels and Orders, than Mony and Troops Cardinal de Lorraine, was particularly blam'd. 'Tis faid, he was resolt d to carry things to the last Extremity with the same Boldness and Considence he shew-

" ed in the Administration of Affairs in France (k)" One of la Broffe's Maxims was, (1) That in order to fecure Scotland, it was necessary to settle in it a Colony of a Thousand French Gentlemen, who should have the Estates of those, that were to be Out lawed on account of Religion, bestowed upon them The Scotch being in (1) Meze form'd that he had given such an Advice, conceiv'd a great Aversion for the French They came to know it by some intercepted Letters, says Buchanan (m) Labrossius equestri loco natus, sed (n) qui magnum in re militari usum habebat censebat, emnem, sinc in re militari usum habebat discrimine, Scotorum Nobilitatem esse extinguendam eorum autem pradiis mille Catafractos equites, Gallos, collocari posse reliquam multitudinem servorum loco habendam Id consilium, literis ejus ad Gallum interceptis, divulgatum, mirum, quantum Gallorum edium, jam aliis de causis natum auxit Belcarius does not deny that Pelleve and la Broffe advis'd to conficate the Estates of the Calvinist Gentlemen, and to give em to a Thousand French Gentlemen, and to lay a

Tax, as in France, upon all other Families (a)

(C) La Brosse perform'd his Duty very well during that Siege] "(a) M de la Brosse, a venerable Old "Man, and a great Captain of 75 Years of Age, "was in it, and his Valour, wise Conduct and Inf." trendtry were of great use in the Siege?" Is "trepidity were of great use in that Siege" If Men of a he was then 75 Years old, he could not be 80 note Exwhen he was kill'd at the Battle of Dreux, for traffion a there are but 2 or 3 Years between that Siege and commonly that Battle However, I will not be too critical apply upon Brantome, for he uses a restriction That Old themselves Man, says he, dy'd being 80 Years old, or thereabouts (p) (D) He would have been made Marshal of France]

At that time such a Dignity was only bestow'd upon a Vacancy. There was one after the Battle of rius 1 28 Dreux, where the Marshal de St Andre lost his n 51 Life Brancome (q) says, that the Duke of Guisse would have procur'd that Dignity to M de la Brosse, (p) Branch or he had a great Affestion and Esteem for him, and he tome, in description to having heen a Man of Hamour and methods his Enterdeserved it, having been a Man of Honour, and without blemish Tho' the Duke of Guise was a very great Captain, he always consulted that good and honourable Old Man I remember (Brantome goes on) That very early in the Morning on the Day that the Battle of Dreux was fought, it being very cold Weather, as they were Drawing up the Army in Order of Battle, that good Man went by M Beaulieu, Captain of the Guards, and me We put off our Hats to him very respectfully 3 he did the Same to us, and said, How Gentlemen, do you pull off your Hats this cold Weather? We answer'd him, Sir, who deserves it better than you, who are eme of the world hamaurable and Ancient Captained the Arma? the most benourable and Ancient Captains of this Army? Gentlemen, reply doe, I am one of the most inconsiderable, and then be added, I dan't know what will be the success of this Battle, but I fancy I shall be kill d. And indeed I have lived too long, and it is a shame for me to be sear a Lance and imbrue it in Blood, when I should be at Home beging of GOD, they be moved for your weeks. at Home begging of GOD, that he would forgive me the Sinc of my Touth : And thus be left us, because the Duke

(k) Le Lau

:

rai, Vie de François II p,16 of of the edia tion in fol chan. rerum Scott car lib 16.

(n) This but does not seem worthy of Bucha nan , for Men of a

(e) Belcamium up Mr de Martigues pag. m 246.

(q) In his Encomium upon the Marshal deVicille-Ville spud le Labou-2 2 97.

1 1 3 () 1 1/1 in Gumaman la-(4) M (olomics ilid U

> Sir Thomas Pope Blount centur Author pag 464 have colliEled them (c) Prefa in Brodes motas ad Luripidem 1561 apud Colomilium 16 p. 30

Ú

t ons to naus Me-MIGHT ES SORM r 96 (g) Belcar bi 28 n 6-51 (1) To mit 110 Cathermede Medicis Should goa cru the Kingdom (.) Meze-121, Abr

4 120 6.3

have that he and Sansac were appointed to keep with King Trancis II. † None but he and Sansac took care of the King's burial

BROSSIER (Martha) a Woman, who pretended to be possessed by the De-None lut lie † Bimto-

was like to occasion great Disorders in France towards the latter end of the XVIt's to ramble about with his three Daughters, one of which had the Art of making thousand Distortions, than to stay at home and mind his Trade He therefor went up and down thro' the neighbouring Towns, showing his Daughter Martha as a Woman possess'd by the Devil, who very much stood in need of being exorused by the Church A prodigious Multitude of People resorted to that Spectace The Chert was found out at Orleans, (AD) and accordingly in the Year 1598, all the Priests of the Diocese were forbidden to proceed to Exorcisms upon pain of Excommunication. The Bp * of Angers was not imposed upon neither. He quickly since cut Cheat, for having invited Martha to Dinner, he caused some Holy Water (A) water martha was trapp'd, she was not at all affected when she drank the Holy Water, but she made a Thousand Contorsions when the common Water was piciented to her. Where won that Prelate calls for the Book of Exercisms, and reads the Whereupon that Prelate calls for the Book of Exorcisms, and reads the beginning of the Eneids Martha was trapp'd a second time, for thinking those Latin Verses of Virgil were the beginning of the Exorcism, she made many violent Postures as if she had been tormented by the Devil This was sufficient to convince the Bishop of Angers that she was an Impostor however he was contented to reprove her Father in private This cunning Fellow took care not to go back to Romorantin with his Daughter, as the Prelate had advised him, on the contrary he carried her to the great Stage of the Kingdom, I mean to Paris, where he hoped to be supported by credulous and ill-affected People, and by those whom the Edict of Nantes had lately exasperated against the King He pitch'd upon St Genevieve's Church to act his Farce The Capuchins, who immediately took up the Business, lost no time, and quickly exorcised the wicked Spirit of Martha, without a previous Enquiry, as 'tis order'd by the Church, into the Life and Health of that Woman The Postures she made, whilst the Exorcists performed their Function, made the common People believe that she was a Demoniack, and the thing was quickly noised about all over the The Bishop † being willing to proceed orderly in the matter, appointed five † Henri de nost famous Physicians to examin the thing They unanimously reported, Gondi Town of the most famous Physicians to examin the thing

spon the

of Guise Sent for h.m, being always desirous to consult

(A^) The Cheat was found out at Orleans The Bp of Angers was not impos'd upon neither] The Í don t thing is related by Thuanus in this order know whether he did narrowly consider the Mat know whether he did narrowly confider the Matter, for the other Historians tell us, That the Cheat was found out first at Angers, and then at Orleans, nay, they say, (a) That the Theologal of Orleans promoted this Imposture by his too great Credulity, before Martha had been examined by the Bishop of Angers (b) This Trick being found out, that Present was contented to deceive the Devil, who had a Preserve was contented to deceive the Devil, who had a minaturdeceive the World (c), and fint her away threat-ning to punish her, if she return'd into his Diocese. She was carry'd to Ordenis, where two cunning Devices were thought of, in order to try her (1) They presented to her Desponentials's Grammar with an old binding Martha tooking upon it as the Scourge of the Devil, trembles as the fight of the Cover and the two Copper-class (2) They open'd that Book, and hid her read in it. She lights by themse upon some Verses made up of hard Words without any signification, which she takes to be the most violent Exercisms, and having impussessy pronounced them, throws herself upon the Ground making a thousand Motions (3) Asterwards, it being takes to be the most violent Exercisms, and having impussed prospected pronounced them, throws herself upon the Ground making a thousand Motions (3) Afterwards, it being that the Dovids are pleased with Perfumes, and the first with Vapours, they presided to her a Perfume lum pinders of Drugs and Herbs so finking, that as soon as similar id chooks, the signore Whereupon the Official of Urbanis discover d the Impossure, and forband the Clerky of his Descele to Exercise her upon pain of being Suspended (A) The Impossure cave d some Whereupon the Official of Urbanis discover d the Impossure, and forband the Clerky of his Descele to Exercise her upon pain of being Suspended (A) The Impossure cave d some Molyman to be brought to her I don't know what to think of a Story of d subject concerning that same Prelate (d) The Bushop order'd the Demoniack to be brought to ham, and ask'd several entities of the Protocoles answer'd hear. That the Violence of her Tormines was known by two Things, and when some Text'off the Gospel was read to her. for them the roar'd and made strange Control.

fions The Bishop had about his Neck one of those Crosses, whereof I shall speak in the Chapter concerning Relicks, for his Father, who informed me of the most secret Passages of the late King's Life, had receiv'd the same Jewels with others, and cleverly cur'd them of their Cincers, (this by the bye) The Leader of the Demoniack, who saw that Cross about the Bishop's Neck, turn'd up her Petry-toats, as she lay on the Ground, to her Knees, and made a fign to the Prelate to touch her with the Cross gently That wicked Man pull d the Cross from his Neck, but with his other Hand he cunningly took a Key out of his Pocket, and the Jade did no fooner feel it, but the frighted the Affistants with her Gambols. In order to a second Tryal, the Gospel was to be read in her presence. The Bishop took a Resumment of her Rocket, which he are took a Petromus out of his l'ocket, which he carry'd inflead of a Breviary, and began to read Mairona quadam Ephefi, &c Then she fretted and fum'd, and when the Bishop came to these Words, placitone estam pugnabls amore, the fell into a Swoon That Prelate, who is half Lutheran, fays he cannot countenance those Impostures. He has been severely Reprimanded for it, and therefore he prov'd more favourable to the second Demoniack, call d Mariba, who was lately brought to him by a Capuchin She has two Devils, the one call'd Belzebab, and the other Astaroth, &cc."

"tareth, &c"

I must needs say, that I suspect the Truth of this Story, and when I compare what Thuanus says of that Bishop with A subsent's Nasrative, I find of that Bishop with a Aubigne's Narrative, I find nothing in it but what pets me in mind of the Custom and Method of Saryrical Writers. One would think, that the Rules of their Art lay upon 'em the necessity of Alexing such Circumstances as me not diverting enough, or so disadvantageous as they would have 'em, and to put in the room of 'em, such that are more ridiculous, or more dasobliging. To say that a Prelate recired a Verse out of Pingis, instead of the Formulary us'd in Enorcisms, is not a Saryrical Seroak; but so say that he took a Paramies out of his Pocket, which he carried about him instead of a Breviary, and that he patch'd upon the Story of the Ephosian Matron, is a sharp Raillery upon a Brelate. The weekled Rules of Satyr required therefore, that instead of keeping rug"

(1) Impo-fturam passus est D GAL-LIENI

(a) Cayet,

Septensire Book 2 fol

89 verso Matthieu

Hist de la paix B 2

p m 335

(b) Mat-thieu ibid

pag 337 See also

Cayet,

ubi Supra fol 90

fecit &

TRE-

BELL

Pollio

(2) Martha lights upon thefe ords of Despau-terius Nexo xui, xum vu't, Texo xuit, indeque textum (3) Malı dæmones gaudent Irbamine

& nidore

II Unanimi ab iis onfenfu. Lpifcopo rogante, reiponfum eft, nihil à fpiritu. multa fieta, piuca à morbo effe Thuanus, l 123 pag 880

BHs Name was Duret

y Call d Hautin, Altınus The Author of the notes upo: the on Citholique de 1693 calls bim Aubin, and ascribes to him a Roak Against the judgment of the Monks He Says he fol-lows Thuanus, but I find no Such thing in that Historian

(a) In the Baron de Fæneste Chap 5th of the 2d Book p m Aubigné Supposes that the Bp read an Epigram of Marti-

& Observe that she alway an Swered in French

(b) 'Tis to be feared Some con-Sequences will be drawn from it an gainft bis other ftories, and # hat 15 101 [] be Said, Accipe nunc Danaum incrimine ab uno Disce omnes Virgil En l 2 v 65 (e) Has and to the Matthies shid pag 335 (d) ld pag 336 (e) Id

P46 335, 336

that ince it did not appear that Martha had any Skill (B) in Greek or Latin, The Devil bad | no hand in the matter, but that there was a great deal of Imposture, and some Distemper in it Two days after, Two of those Physicians seem'd to waver, and before they answer'd the Bishop they desired the Three others should be sent for, and that a Delay should be granted them till the next Day Thus on the 1st of April, Thus on the 1st of April, 1599, a critical Day for the Cause, Father Seraphin on the one side renewed his Exorcisms, and Martha re-iterated her Convulsions on the other. She roll'd her Eyes, pull d out her Tongue, quak'd all over her Body, and when the Father came to these Words, & homo fattus est, she fell down, and skip'd and caper'd from the Altar to the Door of the Chappel. Whereupon the Exorcist cry'd out, That is any one persisted still in his Incredulity, he needed only sight that Devil, and try to conquer him, is he durst venture his Life. Marescat, one of the sive Physicians, answer'd, that he accepted the Challenge, and symmetric reach. Marescale Marchallenge, answer'd, that he accepted the Challenge. durst venture his Life Marescot, one of the five Physicians, answer'd, that he accepted the Challenge, and immediately took Martha by the Throat, and bid her stop. She obey'd, and illedg'd for her excuse, that the Evil Spirit had left her, which was confirm'd by Father Seraphin Marescot inser'd from it, that he had frighted the Devil away The Bishop order'd, that the Exorcisins should be carry'd on At first Martha was not mov d with 'em; only when she saw that Marescot was ready to struggle with her, she said, that he, Riolan and Hautin, would do better to mind their Physick But when she knew they were gone, she threw herself upon the Ground, and began again her mad Tricks They return'd, and quickly made her quiet, and maintain'd to Faher mad Tricks ther Seraphin, that there was nothing Super-natural in the Case, exhorted the Maid to deceive the People no longer, and threatned her to put her to the Rack They consulted again about it, and laying great Stress on Martha's confessing, when ask'd several Questions in Greek and Latin, that she was ignorant of those two Languages, they all concluded, except a one, that she was not possess'd by the Devil "Tis true, there was not possess and properties he acknowledged." Sancy, they all concluded, except & one, that the was not positive he acknowledged, the edition gave his Opinion, that she should be observed three Months longer. Two Days after the edition gave his Opinion, that she should be observed three Months longer. Two Days after the edition gave his Opinion, that she should be observed three Months longer. gave his Opinion, that she should be observed three Months longer Two Days after some other Physicians were sent for, the first being dismiss defeather Seraphin attended by one of his Fraternity, who was an English Man, repeated his Exorcisms, and then Martha, besides her usual Postures, answer'd some Cuestions (C) that were ask'd her in Greek and English & Whereupon, the Physicians afferted, hat she Wis truly possess'd by the Devil Marescot constituted all the Arguments they illedg'd for it Peoples'd by the Devil Marescot constituted all the Arguments they illedg'd for it Peoples and English & Whereupon and the Arguments they illedg'd for it Peoples and English & Whereupon and the Arguments they illedg'd for it Peoples and English & Whereupon and the Arguments they illedg'd for it Peoples and English & Whereupon and the Arguments they illedg'd for it Peoples and English & Whereupon and the English & Whereupon a ple being divided in their Opinions about it, and there being Reason to sear that some Answers would be suggested to that Maid, that might raise a Sedition, under pretence of the Edict granted to the Protostants, Henry IV was advis'd not to neglect the Matter He was sensible of the Importance of it, and injoyn'd the Parliament of Paris to use their Authority about it The Parliament order'd Martha to be put into the Hands of the Lieutenant-Criminal and the King's Attorney in the Chatelet They kept her Forty Days, during which time, they shew'd her to the best Physicians, who asferted, That they observ'd nothing in her that was beyond Nature In the mean ing to Thuanu's Account, Petronius (a) should be pur it the room of Virgil, &c But because it was well known that Petroniss had not been made use well known that Petroniss had not been made use of upon Martha Brofier, there was a necessity to mention another Woman possess by the Devil instead of her And because Thuanus observes, that this Passage of the Exorcism, Et home fattus est, struck the greatest Blow, there was a necessity to suppose a like Circumstance in the pretended Exorcism of Petroniss, and in order to it, to pitch upon these Words, Placitone etiam pugnabu amori A Satyrical Writer ought to be mistrusted, for he does not relate Things such as they are, but such as does not relate Things such as they are, but such as he wishes they were, that he might be a Slanderer, without being a Liar The Liberty d'Aubigne took, contrary to the Accounts of all Historians, can ne ver be excus'd, if it be feriously consider'd He charges the Bishop of Angers with a fraudulent Conduct towards Marths, from which one may draw iome Considering Greek and Latin] See the Remark Parks Angels Conduct Conduct to Remark Parks Angels Conduct Third Conduct Considering Co

mark B in the Article Grandier
'Tis to be observ'd, That the People had been Tis to be observed, That the People had been made to believe, that Martha Bresser understood and spoke many learned Languages. Being at Cleri (c) she was asked in Greek, How the Devil got into her Body? and She answered, That it was for the Glory of God This was a wrong Answer Being asked (d) the Manner how the Thing was done, She answered, why it was done. "Nevertheless (e) from that ve"ry time it was said, That she understood and "spoke Greek, and because upon such Occasions a "common Report increases daily, it was further faid, that she spoke Hebrew, Arabick, and Chaldasek, "so that it was impossible to bring off the People " so that it was impossible to bring off the People " from theirBelief that Martha was truly poffess'd by fwer'd them, it was a meer Trick, she being taught to give a certain Answer to some Greek and English Words, that had been agreed upon For, said he, if she understands Greek, why did she say, that she understood not Lasin, when she was asked Martha fome Questions in that Language, which is so common amongst us? And why, being afterwards Interrogated in Greek, did she make no answer? What rerrogated in Greek, did she make no answer? What Montagne says somewhere, was never better practised than upon this Occasion. The Exorcists perceiving that Martha's Ignorance of the learned Languages, was objected to them as a great Difficulty, help'd the matter as well as they could, by suggesting to Martha an Answer to some Questions in Greek; and having an English Monk at their disposal, 'twas an easy thing to add the English Tongue to the Greek But let us hear Montagne: I have seen, says he. (a) eafy thing to add the English Tongue to the Greek But lot us hear Mentagne: I have seen, says he, (g), the rise of manyhuracles in my time. The they are still a c sted in their birth, yet we fore-see what course they would see they had lived their time; for tis but 438 beginning, and then the thing will be carry'd on as say as enepleases, and there is greater distance from nothing to the least thing, than there is from the least thing to the least thing, then there is from the least thing to the greatest. Now these, who first begin to sty up a Miracle, do partly perceive from the Opposition they meet with.

" the Devil ' This is a remarkable Instance, which shews how easily the Bulk of Mankind suffer themfelves to be impos'd upon, and what a vaft Difference there is between the Judgment of the Vulgar, and that of the Learned, who examine Things with an unprejudiced Mind The latter found that the pretended Demoniack understood neither Greek nor Latin, and alledg'd this Ignorance as a Proof of the Latin, and alledged this ignorance as a riour of the Cheat, but (e) the greatest part of the People believed, that Martha Brossier spoke High-Dutch, English, Latin, Hebrew, and all sorts of Languages (C) Answered some Questions] Marescot was in the right (f) to say, I That it was not certain that Martha had answer'd the Questions put to her in Greek and English 2 That if she had answer'd them, it was a meer Trick. She being ubi supra fel 90 (g) In the confutation of the Writing of the Physicians,

(f) Cayes

Martha was posig

(b) Effait l 3 c 11-

* Non propterea plebis iam commotæ fremitus aut concionatorum ex ambone licentio-Tæ voces cessarunt, libertatem eccle fiasticam a magistratu regio cripi " Quiritantium Thuanus shid pag 882

:

† Taken from the 123 Book of Thuanus's Hiftory

I Du Chesne, Antiq des Villes de France p m 269

1 In the Article of Rocha-foucaud (Alexander de la)

a Taken from bis Funeral Oration pronounc'd by M Grævius the 5 of Novembre 1675

& Wicquefort, de l Ambassa deur, tom 2 pag 427,423

y James Richard King at Arms of the King of Spain, and his Conful at Amsterdam, De-Scription of Franche Comté in Blaew's Atlas

(a) See the Article Rochefoucaud (Alexander de la)

(b) John XVIII 36

time the (D) Preachers gave themselves a prodigious Liberty * They cry'd out, that the Privileges of the Church were incroach'd upon, and that such a proceeding was fuggested by the Hereticks Andrew du Val a Doctor of the Sorbonne, and Archangel Du-Puy a Capuchin, were the most passionate among those Seditious Preachers The Parliament had much ado to filence the latter, but at last they made him feel their Power, and on the 24th of May 1599 the Provost was order'd to carry James Brosser and his three Daughters to Romoranian, forbidding the Father to let his Daughter Martha go abroad without leave from the Judge, upon pain of Corporal Punishment † Thus the Devil was condemn'd by an Arrest || We shall see ‡ in another place what became of her.

BRUYN (John de) Professor of Natural Philosophy and Mathematicks at Utrecht, was born at Gorcum the 25th of August 1620 He went through a Course of Philosophy at Leyden, under the Professor Heerboord, and then pursu'd his Studies at Bossleduc, where he was very much esteem d by Samuel Maresius, who taught there Philosophy and Di-From thence he remov'd to Utrecht, and apply'd himself mightily to the Mathematicks, under the Professor Ravensberg, who had a particular Affection for him He went afterwards to Leyden, where he obtain'd leave to Teach Mathematicks vensherg perceiving he could not live long, did so earnestly recommend him to the Magistrates and Curators of the University, as a very sit Man to fill up his Place, that they made him Professor of Natural Philosophy and Mathematicks, and because the Professors of Philosophy had agreed among themselves, That every one of em might teach at home such a part of Philosophy as he should think sit, de Bruyn not contented to teach what his publick Professorship requir'd, made also Dissections, and explain'd Gro-He had a great Skill in diffecting Animals, he was a tsus's Book De jure bells & pacus great Lover of Experiments, and made also Astronomical Observations The Differtations he publish'd, De vi altrice, de corporum gravitate & levitate, de cognitione Dei naturali, de lucu caussis (Z) & origine, & arc speaking Proofs of his Worth In the Year 1652, he mairy'd the Daughter of a Merchant of Utrecht, Sister to the Wise of Daniel Elzevier, the famous Bookseller of Amsterdam, by whom he had two Daughters, who dy'd in a few Days He departed this Life the 21st of October 1675, after he had been a Professor for the space of 23 Years

BRUN (Antony le) Ambaifador of Spain at the Conferences held at Munster, He was a Native of Franche Comté, and discharg'd the Office an excellent Negotiator of Attorney-General in the Parliament of Dole, when he was sent Ambassador to Mun-ster All the Plenipotentiaries of Spain took Place of him, but he exceeded them all in Capacity He knew better than they the Affairs of the Low-Countries, and being a Man of a more (A) complying Humour, and of a more pleasant Conversation, be was better qualify'd for a Negotiation. The King of Spain was much beholden to him for the Peace which the Dutch made at Munster exclusively of France. As a Reward for that Service, he was appointed Ambassador to the States of the United Provinces, and then a considerable Office was befrow d upon him in the Finances at Brussels He was very well below'd at the Hague, where he would have been very useful to his Master, had not his Imployment ended with his En 16 Life, when he began to be well known, and esteem'd on account of his Merit a He left be- v 164 hind him , four Sons, I don't know what was their Fate. He was an Intriguing Man, and made himself (B) dreaded by the French Ambassadors, not without reason, since (d) Inge-with, wherein the Difficulty of believing it lies, and accordingly, they take care to mend the matter with a

(D) The Preachers took a prodigious liberty] When I think that the wretched Daughter of a Weaver, carry'd from Town to Town like a Bear, and at last rarry'd from I own to I own like a Bear, and at last ingross'd by two or three Monks, who pretended that she was a Demoaiack, made Henry IV the Parliament of Paris, and all the honest French Men, very uneasy, when I think that such a Creature gave occasion to fear that a large Kingdom would fall again into a great Combinion, when I think that upon the News of her going to Rome, the Agence (a) of the French Court were order'd the Agents (a) of the French Court were order'd to omit nothing with the Pope in order to waid off such a Blow I say, when I consider all these things. I cannot but nothing the France Court were considered to the same of t things, I cannot but pity the Fate of Sovereigns, things, I cannot but pity the Fate of Sovereigns, and their unavoidable dependance upon the Clergy Whether they be devout Men or not, they will be always oblig'd to have a regard for them, and to fear 'em, 'tis a true Imperium in imperio' 'Tis true, the Kingdom of JESUS CHRIST is not of this World, he fays (b) fo himself but those, who pretend to represent him, are frequently Masters of the Kings of the Earth, and will give, or take away Crowns And those, who talk so much of the Church Militant. are more in the right than of the Church Militant, are more in the right than they think This Title of hers cannot be call'd into question, she is too much concern'd in Wars, her Arms are too formidable to contend with her about it 'Tis true, she pretends to be unarm'd, but whatdoes this fignify to those who are afraid of her, since she has a thousand ways of Arming the World and share a feet of the world and share a feet o World, and shewing the falsity of the Maxim, neme dat qued non habet? How many Men has she, of each of whom one may fay what the Poet fays of bifaciun-M:∫enus }

(c) Quo non Prestantior alter Ere ciere viros, martemque accendere cantu

(Z) De lucis coussis & origine] He had a Dispute upon this Subject with Isase Vossius, to whom he writ a Letter of 68 Pages in 4to, Printed at Amsterdam in 1663 wherein he Criticizes Vossius's Book, De natura & proprietate lucis, and strenuously maintains Cartesius's Hypothesis He wrote also an Apology for the Cartesian Philosophy against a Di-pology for the Cartesian Philosophy against a Divine, whose Name was Vogelsang

(A) And being a Man of a more complying Humour]

Others say, That he was a very popular Man, and consequently, very fit to impose upon People (d), and that Servien, who affected a kind of Stateliness in every thing, was not for that very reason so well qualify'd to succeed in Holland as le Brun, who had a Consequently way.

had a Citizen-like way (e)
(B) And made himself dreaded by the French Ambassadors] Which was the Reason why Mr Servien would not consent that M le Brun should be permitted to go to the Hague in his Return from the Low-Countries to the Conferences of Munfter "When the 70 Articles had been fign'd the 8th of January 1647, between the Plenipotentiaries of Spain and those of the United Provinces, Antony le Bran one of the Plenipotentiaries of Spain, set out from Munster the very next Day, to carry the News of it to Brussell. Whilst he was there, he sent to the States desiring a Pass-port to go to the Hague His Design was to observe and thwart Z222 Service's.

he nio popuları aptı C fimoque fuco pledo Labardaus de rebus Gallicis, 15 pag 252

> (e) Huic (Serviano) omnia nobilia. magnifi ca,excelia fuere Bruno vero vulgaris & popularis omnis ratio eo factum fimilior his cum quibus agebat,ita & apud

(a) Wic-

quefort, de l' Ambasa-

deur, tom

1 pag 413,

(1) Labardaus, 15 pag 252 (c) Idem, pag 253 (d) Ibid

pag 259 (e) See a piece printed 111 1648

2ntituled fion de l'imprimeui

(f) Labardæus pag 259 (g) Hic

(Knutius) Zelandia

publicè Legatus,

privitim

erat qui tum ob perditam valetudinem, ficu-homines

talı fuo tempore.

in uxoris

fuit potefate quæ quoniin ab Mazz-

rino haud arbitraba-

tur,cò no

bis infefta erat.atque omni ope

nitchitur, uti pak Hifpanos inter, & So-

CIAS CIVItates post habito fadere nostro fancire-

Satis 1c

cultım

Solmit

Araufii

chens

la Confes-

he overcame the Difficulties which kept back the Treaty of (C) Peace between Spain (b) Wieand the United Provinces He received an Affront for concerning himself (D) with the Domestick Differences that arose in Holland in the Year 1650. but because he was Sadeur, not easily discouraged, he countenanced those, who desired (E) that the Dignity of tage, a Statbolder should be suppress'd. He made use not only (F) of Libels, but also of false (G)? o of falle (G) 2 347 54 Suppositions, (i) solar days ub " Servier's Negotiation, who was about a Treaty of Guaranty, but Servien oppos'd the granting the Pasport, and so contriv'd the Matter, that "the Paiport, and to Contrive the Matter, that "the States having consulted the Prince of Orange, "refus'd M le Brun (a)" M de la Barde expresses with greater force M Serviens Uncasiness, upon hearing that M le Brun was to come to the Hague M Servien declared, says he (b), that if the Passport was granted, he would immediately retire. He adds, That the Princes of Orange faretire He aids, I hat the Princels of Orange favour'd le Brun upon that occasion, but the Prince was of Opinion, that Servien should be satisfy'd, and so le Brun was oblig'd to negotiate by way of Letters He wrote to the States, Servien resuted (c) his Letter, le Brun made a reply (a) M de la Barde observes, that there was a personal Hatred between these two Ambassadors between these two Ambassadors

(C) The Difficulties that kept back the Treaty of Peace between Spain and the United Provinces] Those Difficulties were Foreign and Domestick The for mer were started by the French Ambassadors, and were not the most considerable. If M le Brun had not been stoutly and dexterously seconded by M. Paum and M Knuit, the Dutch Plenipotentiaries, and had nevertheless concluded the Treaty of Peace, he would much more deserve to be praised for it than he does, for it must be confessed, That those two Plenipotentiaries did very much clear and fmooth the Difficulties Every thing was made nie of even Contradictions, to oppose those who use of, even Contradictions, to oppose those who were tor continuing the War The Misery, and Power of France were both alledg'd to that end (s Sometimes she was represented so exhausted that she could no longer support her Allies, and sometimes fo powerful, that 'twas to be fear d the Continuation of the War would make her Formidable to her Neighbours M Servien did one Day fo strangely inveigh against M Pauw and M Knuit in the Assembly of the States General, that he had bold to say. That they were the shameful Parts of the Rappyblock. La Rappy than de the shame to the respective to the states. the Republick Le Brun tuin'd the thing to their Advantage, he call'd 'em the manly Parts of the State, which Servien design'd to cut off, that the Republick might lose that manly Vigor, without which she could not maintain herself (f) Quandoque decende fludeo cum apud Faderacos Ordenes de repullica d flereret, claims to evafit, ut ambos pudenda res-pullica appellare quod est ab Bruno haud illepide correctum, ubi Serviuni Ser pto postea respondit, eosdem rei Sociarum Civitatum publica virilia appellando, qua Servianus exfecure velles, ut huic minus masculæ virtutis inesset quo tutari se aut adversam hostes possent, aut adversum socios aque prope aamnosos, qui videlicet omnem societat frudium sibi habere studerent, de sociorum com-modum hilsoliciti But it what M de la Barde says were true, there would be less reason to wonder, that the Intrigues of two Dutch Ambassadors, seconded by le Brun, should have overcome the Obfracles to the Peace He will have it that the Princess of Orange being offended at Cardinal Mazarin, who had not paid her all the Honour she expected, endeavour'd to make a particular Peace during the Sickness of her Confort (g)

(D) For concerning himself with the Domestick Differences | M de Wicquesor gives the following Account of it "In the Year 1650 there arose some "Differences between the Property of the Prope Differences between the Prince of Orange and the "States of Holland Some of their Deputies were comin'd to the Castle of Lovestein, and the Prince brought the Army of the State before the "Prince brought the Army of the State before the "City of Amferdam Amony le Brun, Ambasilador of Spain, otherwise a dexterous, and very wise "Munister, thinking to please the Prince, oster'd "him the Arms of the King his Master to reduce that I own, but the Prince answerd him, That "the King of Spain needed not concern himself with the "Description of the Constant and that reather Domefick Affairs of his Country, and that neither he nor the States wanted his Affistance. That if the King should cause his Troops to advance, those small Differences would be quickly laid a-fide, and all the Forces of the States would immediately be Re-united to oppose the Foreign Troops And indeed, those differences were quickfy over; and the same Ambassador, thinking to mend his first Fink, committed a second, by asking Audience of the States, to compliment 'em about the Reconciliation It was granted him, but when they came to know the Subject of it, they fent him word, tho' he was already at the Foot of the Stairs, where their Deputies were to receive him, That they were obligid to defire him not to take it ill that he should be put off till another time. So that he went home with a kind of an Affront, for having had a mind to speak of a Domestick Affair, which he should have taken no notice of (h)

(L) Countenanc'd those, who desir'd that the Dignity of Statholder should be suppressed. M de la Barde gives us the substance of the States of the Province of Holland What he said was very disonness. bliging to the most Serene House of Orange, and he spoke in that manner after he had been at Brusfels to confer with the Ministers of his Catholick Majesty Or the contrary, the Court of France libellos fent an Ambassador Extraordinary to the States in fapius a-

favour of that House (1)

(F) Not only of Libels] He publish'd many of nasterium 'em during the Conferences of Munster, wherein he Vestfalo-abus'd France Those Pieces were written in a jum edepleasant Style, and with a great deal of sprightlibet, haud neis, but his Satyrs were too Comical, and too illepidos much like Burlesk, if we believe the Author (k) I hos qui-have quoted

(G) But also of false Suppositions] M de Wicque-fort, speaking of some Ambassauors, who spread false News, does not forget to say, That some do not scruple to publish some Letters, pretending they have been intercepted, to cry down the Conduct of those, whose Prosperity makes 'em uneasy He says, That during the War of the Barberini, the Spanish Ambassador dispersed a Letter at Venice, wherein Cardinal Mararin exhorted Cardinal Bichi to do nothing too haftsly, &c That those Letters were fent to all the Courts of Europe, but that the Cheat was quickly found out Le Brun (he goes on) Ambassacr of Spain at Mun-Act, went more cunningly about it, but with no better success. He knew the Ptenipotentiaries of France were not well pleas'd with those of Sweden, and that they would express their Discontent in their first Dispatches to the Court, wherefore he found a means to get a Letter wherein the Humour and the Proceedings of Oxenstern and his Father, the Chancellor, were sharply reflected upon Le Brun, who thought it nicessary to go beyond the Letter, altered some Passages in it in such a manner as was not only very offensive to those two Ministers, but might have occasion d a Rupture between the two Confederated gotto ra Crowns He went too far in the Matter, and thereby gave tionem an advantage to the French, who being able to discover the fallity, found it no difficult thing to render every ret Id I sthing else superious, and to cash a bolief that it was all pag 252 a Cheat (1) One may argue upon this Occasion, (1) Wicaquite contrary to Virgil If Servants, said he, (m) quef ubsare so bold, what will not Masters do? Quid Domifupra tom in faciant audent cum talia fures? But we may it a 2 138, it the Ambassadors of the greates Kings don't superious themselves, what may not one expect from the eclogical themselves, what may not one expect from the eclogical men, who wathout a Name, and without being own d, take upon themselves to write about the superious detracting Humour Is it a Wonder, that such fatheries People should venture to publish the most absurd in another have occasion d a Rupture between the two Confederated People should venture to publish the most absurd in another Fistions, and give out as Matter of Fact, the Falsi-place See ties which they invent to indulge their Passions, the En-and comply with the publick Distemper? They tietrens meet with some Casuifts, who flatter that siftion, fur la Cafor I make no doubt, that there are several Es aban s bale chiand Bauni's, who absolve private and publick Peifons, that forge Calumnies for the Good of their pag 86
Country, and I know that a Protestant Minister, & seg the same who by so many Pastoral Letters set up, (a) Probaas it were, for an Occumenical Pastor, or an Unibly rba versal Bishop, has declar'd, That every thing (n) is Bare lawful against an open Enemy Wiequefort, who Lisola was a Statesman, and not a Divine, had a better Sense of Morality, as it appears from the following Words Having said, that a Minister (0) of the

Supra, 1 9 pag 623 (k) Hick Rrunns tori rerum in quibus ætaten cest pruneque alia-rum ignarus eff. cæterum ingenio populari, aptifficac. que fuce plebi fa ciundo Là gratià hos quidem, fed qui fapereat-Atelquibus pleberá planè lafcivià ipsi ab natura infita maledicta in Legatos, cæterosque Gallos jaceret, omnemque tam in bello gereado, quam in pacis ne gotio ra

tur, de quâ re Knutium contimod, ficut: & Batavorum Civi PavifatiSuppositions for the Service of his Master The (H) French Writers took delight in reflecting upon him

This Article was Re-printed, when I receiv'd a Memorial, which enables me to give a clearer and more certain Account of M le Brun Messire Antony de Brun, born at Dole in the Year 1600, was a Considerable Man, not only for his Parts and Imployments, but also for his noble (1) Extraction, and his Father's Merit He was Attorney-General in the Parliament of Dole, and discharg'd the Duties of that Office with great Ability, during which time he was imploy'd in all the State Negotiations that concern'd the Province See the History of the Siege of Dole, written by President Bowin He was fent afterwards by Philip IV to the Diet of Ratisbonne, and from thence to the Court of the Emperor Ferdinand III He was then made Counsellor of the Council of State for the Affairs of Flanders and Burgundy I have said before, that he was one of the Plenipotentiaries of his Catholick Majesty at the Conferences of Munster, that he remain'd there alone, being intrusted with that important Negotiation for a confiderable time, and that after he had concluded the Treaty of Peace between Spain and the Memorial United Provinces, he was fent Ambassador to the Hague The Services he did there to Philip IV were so acceptable to that Prince, that he made him Counsellor in the Supreme Council, and in the Council of State, and then the Head of his Tinances in the Low-Countries This last Office was always fill'd up by Persons of Quality, and often by Knights dinis Benof the Golden Fleece The Count d Isemburg, associated to M de Brun in that Office, twoglio, was one of those Knights M de Brun was honoured at that time with the Dignity

Printed

much the * Baron for him, and his Male Issue 11c dy'd at the Hague, during his Ambasty, and was bury dan the Church of the Carmelite Nuns at Mechlen † I shall speak of Chretien, (K) his Children These Words of Balfac ought not to be forgotten " || 1 refer it p m 47. to the French and Burgunders, to M de Brun, the Demosthenes of Dole, and to M le

 Meistre, the Cicero of Paris"

BRUN (Charles le) Chief Painter of the French King, Director of the (A) Manutactures, &c wis one of the greatest Men that ever France produced for Printing mes illustrates. His being elected Prince of the Academy of Painters at Rome, where they pretend to have exceeded, for so many Ages, ill other Nations in the Knowledge of the Liberal that he Arts, is a sufficient Proof of his Ability. He was born in the Year 1618, with so Brun bemany Dispositions to become a great Painter, that at three Years of Age, he took ing but to Coals out of the I iie, and Sketch'd upon the Hearth and against the Chimney, having or 12 years no light but that of the Fire Being fourteen Years old, he drew the Picture of his frage for the France more his counted every good Piece At that time there was no Painter in France more his Grand-Lsteem d thin (B) M Vouet M le Brun, who liv'd in his House, and distinguish of father, who Cout of Vienna, forg'd a very scandalous Piece in the Year 1672, as it it had been a Discourse made by the Commander de Gremonville, a Minister of France, to the Imperor's Council against the United Provinces, he adds, A Publick Minister ought to abhor thoje impostures and wicked (ontrivances, he ought to be above those mean Tricks, which are only the Produration du 🌢

(c) Pag

dit, guam dimidia pars totis Cortus Produs de as Gal-

bás, l 10

* 3 PAS m 344

Auril

(a) Wic-

quef, ibid pag 140, 141 (b) Intituled, Jugement de sout ce qui

CEC 1711primé contre le Cardinal Ma-

2251n depais le 6 Januier

jusques à la decla-

1649

587 (d) Ab Hıfpanıæ rege Coneranda cm additus Antonuus Brunus à Sequanıs, qui duo-bus fer-vulis fceffile vefte & rheda femilacera plus ponderis rebus addi-

Etions of a weak Muds (a) (H) The I rench Writers took delicht in abusing him] The tollowing Passage is to be found in a Book (b) written by Naude His Design is to shew, I hat the Spaniar ds prevented the Conclusion of the Peace at Munster "(c) I he particular Agreement of the Du ch was no soones concluded have B " wis no fooner concluded, but Pegneranda made " it his whole Bufiness to break with us, and to raise Difficulties, not only about the Articles, not yet agreed upon, but also about those wherein there was no longer any difficulty, infomuch that he went away from Munster where he only left le Brnn without any Power, which the whole Affembly was the more offended at, because tho " he had been provided with a full Power, no body could believe that the king of Spain would trust his most important Interests to a Burgundian, or have that great Work concluded by a Man of so inconsiderable a Quality, at the very same time when he recall d his Chief Plenipotentia-" ry, whom le Brun was us'd to obey, as a Servant
" obeys his Master' Lvery body will perceive that Naudé knew not how great a Trust the Court of Spain repos'd in M le Brun Another French Writer (d) who could not deny it, and who acknowledges the Credit of that Minister, finds fault with him only about the meannels of his Equipage

(1) For his noble Extraction, and his Father's Merit] It has been a Noble I amily ever fince the time of Philip the Good, Duke of Burgundy It appears by lome Acts Registred in the Court of Accompts at Dole, that John BRUN was an Elquire, and possess's of some Lordships which Held of that Duke, and for which he paid him Homage in the Year 1447. The Act of that Homage is Sign'd by the same Duke The Arms of that Family may be seen in the Map of the County of Burgundy in Black's Atlas The Father of our Antony de Brun, was Charles BRUN He was Countellor in the Parliament of las Dole in the Year 1595 I he king of Spain fent him twice to the Court of France, when Marshal de Bion Governor of the Dutchy of Burgundy occasion'd tome Troubles, and when the Neutrality of the two Burgundies was senewd lie was likewise fent to the Duke of Savoy, the Duke of Lorrain and the Duke of Wirtempere for some Important Assuits from a of the House of Austria He was also deputed by mr tien his Parliament and his Province to pay the Homerumage of Indelity to the Archduke Albert and the Infanta Isabella Clava Eupenia when the king of Spain yielded to them Iranche Comte and the Low-Countries He acquitted himself of those Imployments to the Satisfaction of the Publick and of his Prince His other Son John BRUN, was Coun-fellor in the Pailiament of Dole (e)

(k) I shall speak of h r Children He marry'd

Donna Magdalens de Accosta 1 Noble and Ancient (g) Taken I amily of Spain, by whom he had many Children from the of both Sexes Don Lorenzo de BRUN, one of em, Same M. Baron d'Aspresmons, &c. was Captain of Cuirassiers mor al Baron d'Afresmont, &c was Captain of Cuirassers mor al in the Service of the King of Spain against the Portugueze, when he was kill'd at the Battle of Villationicios. Two of his Brothers dy'd in the same Service, without being marry'd. There remains a fourth, who marry'd in Languedoc, and has a Family. He resides in (f) Burgundy, and is Knight of Honour in the Parliament of that Province. A Seat of his has been erected into a Marquisate (g).

(1) Director of the Manufactures, &c | I o fill up.

(A) Director of the Manufactures, &c] Io fill up this & catera, I observe, That M le Brun was Director of the Royal Manufactures of the Household Book inti-

Coods of the Crown, Director, Chancellor and Rector of the Royal Academy of Painting and Sculpture, and Prince of St. Luke's Academy at Rome

(B) More Efteend than M (h) Vouet] He had a les plus of the Louvre 'Twashe, who Painted the Vault of the Chapel of St. Germain en Laye, and the most excellent Painters in France, as Microard Boundar Tailing the Icar lent Painters in France, as Mignard, Bourdon, Tenlin the Icar and le Sueur, were his Schollars He was a Native 1679 peg of Paris, and dy'd in the Year 1649 (C).The ind among of Baron d Apresmont in Atlas in the Map of Conte de dicated to from a Manuscript

ZLLL2

Discours 6

himfelt was a Sculptor at Pa-

(f) 1 think 1 ranche Comte is

(h) I mean that mere Painters See the Noms des Printed at Decemb 1662

+ The Text and Remarks of this Article

Abridg-ment of what is to be found concerning re Galant

Mr le Brun in theMercu

for the month

1690 ten in

1592 to Baron Forgats, who

at Padua

Acidalius asks him whether it according that Jordanus

Brunus taugh at Padua

| See the

himself from his other Scholars, got the Affection and Esteem of Chancellor Segurer, who gave him a good Pension, and afterwards sent him to Rome, where he maintain'd him for some Years His easy way of Drawing, and the Correction of his Works surprized the most samuely Painters, and the best Sculptors of Italy. He saw there the finest Pieces that could be seen, both Ancient and Modern, and persected his good Taste, which was so much admir'd since Healways preserved a deep sense of Gratitude for Chancellor Seguier, and gave an admirable Instance of it after the Death of his Patron by the I uneral Solemnity that was made for him in the Charch of the Fathers of the Oratory, and by i Mausoleum erected there according to the Draught he had made of and under his Direction At his Return from Rome he very much diftinguish'd himself from the best Painters of Paris, and the first President de Bellieure prov da new Patron to him He painted so well Madam du Plessis-Belliere, Mother to Marshal de Crequi's Lady, that her Picture was, and is still accounted a Master-piece. Cardinal Mazarin came to know him by some other Pictures he made for the same Lady, and " Dated in as he was a good Judge of Painting, he express'd a great Esteem for Mr le Brun's Percell. and made him famous every where After the Peace of the Pyrenees, the King being refolv'd to make the Liberal Arts flourish, found no body better qualified than Mr le Brun for the several Imployments he bestow'd upon him, which per him in a capacity of discovering the whole Extent of his Noble Talents He was not only an excellent Painter, but also a Man of a vast and inventive Genius, and set for every thing are but an Hc knew the History and Manners of all Nations In an Hour's time he cut out work enough for many different Artists He supply'd the King's Sculptors and Goldsmiths with Sketches, and gave many of 'em to paint whole Appartments, and to make Cabinots and Hangings When he was about the large Picture of Darsus's Family, from which one of the five Pieces of Tapestry of Alexander's History was made, and which 15 now in the King's great Appartment at Versailles, His Majesty spent near two hours every day at Fontainebleau to see him paint, and some time after sent him his Picture, an I then * Letters of Nobility and a Coat of Arms The Great Duke of Tuscany conceiv d fo great an Liteem for him, that he did him the Honour to ask him his Picture, and to inform him that he would willingly keep Correspondence with him. The great Istcem he was in at the French (C) Court appear d during the Sickness of which he dy'd on the 12th of February, 1690 He was bury'd in the Chappel he had built for himself in fecond Les- the Church of St Nicolas du Chardonneret, his Parish, where he founded two Mass ter of Aci- to be ind every day for ever He also left a Fund to marry three poor Maids every dalus it year He dy'd without Islue, and therefore Mr le Brun his Nephew, Auditor of the Accompts, will be his only Heir ifter his Wife's decease †

Since the first Ldition of this Dictionary, we have seen an Encomium upon Mr le Brun, written by Mi Perrault in his Hommes Illustres I could take many particulars out of that Book, but I rather chuse to refer the Reader to it. The Widow of that excellent

Painter dy d in the year 1699

BRUNUS (Leonard) Look for ARETIN (Leonard)
BRUNUS (Jordanus) 1 Native of Nola in the Kingdom of Naples, was a Man of g cit Pirts, but he mide in ill use of his Knowledge, for he wrote not only against (1) Austotle's Philosophy, it a time when such a thing could not be done without octo the com- c thorning great Diforders, and exposing one's felf to many Persecutions, but also against monReport, the (B) most important Truths of Religion Being expell'd from Italy ||, he retir'd into a Country less dangerous for such Philosophers as he was He run over Germany, France, Or and it had been well for him to go on, for being return'd into Italy, he was burnt there, say some, as an impious Man in the year 1600. I shall set down the (C) Ti-

(C) The great Efteem he was in at the Trench Court] The King and the greatest Lords did often send to know how he did Mr de Lowois sent him the most samous Physicians He was visited by the Prince of Conde, and many Lords of the first Rank

(A) He wrote against Aristotle's Philosophy] See the Book intituled, Jordani Bruni Nolani Camaracensis Acrotismus, seu rationes articulorum Physicorum adversus Peripatetics Parisis propositorum, &c It was printed at Wittemberg in the year 1588 in 8° You'll find in it a Letter which Branus wrote to Henry III one that he wrote to the Rector of the University of Paris, and one he wrote to the Friends of good Philosophy Parisiensibus & aliu e geneross Galliarum regno philosophis sensatioris philosophia dognatum amicu & desensoribus You'll find in it, Excubitor, seu Jo Henniquini Apologetica declamatio habita in auditorio regio Parisiensis Academia in festo Pentecost anno 1586 pro Nolani articulis, and at the end of the Articles these words are to be found, Articuli de Natura & munthese words are to be found, Articuli de Natura O munadditione all Bieliaus Jo Humequinu nobilu Parifiensis sub ejus dem feliticil s auspiciis contra vulgarus O cujus cunque adversapocitat ra Philosophia Prosesser triduo Pentecostes in UniverBook was for e Parifiorum desendendos evulgavit brevibus adprincid at jestis ra ionibus (a) It appears from these Words, Napius au that Bruniu asted the part of a Knight-Errancin point she parific and that was willing to enter the Lists with him

(B) The most important Truths of Religion] 'Tisfaid that he wrote some Books wherein he maintained that there are a great many Worlds, all Eternal, that the Jows only descended from Adam and Eve, and that all other men were sprung from a Race created by God long before, that all the Miracles of Moses were an effect of Magick, and exceeded the Wonders performed by the other Magicians only because he had made a greater progress in Magick: because he had made a greater progress in Magick; that he himself forged the Laws he delivered to the on, Ora July Henry Ursinus, who informs me of it, adds (b) that Brunus was burnt at Rome for those impious Doctrines, on the 9th of February, 1600. Henry Ursinus, who informs me of it, adds (b) that Brunus was burnt at Rome for those impious Doctrines, on the 9th of February, 1600. Henry Ursinus in the Scioppius, who had given a full Account of 'em in prafatione a Letter. New Arms in his Additions to the Public Trafficus. a Letter Nico demo, in his Additions to the Biblio- Tractatus theca Napoletana, fays, that 'tis not certainly known de Zoroge whether every thing related by Urfinus be true 'I's fire somewhat strange that one should not know at eighty years end whether a (c) Dominican was burnt (c) at Rome in a publick Place for his Blasphemers. When Facts of this nature are uncertain, they are very like to be false

(G) The Titles of some of hu Works] He fell into Raymund Lullim's Notions, and refin'd them, and invented several Methods of Artificial Memory 'Tis said that those things discover a great Genius, but there is so much of obscurity in 'em, that they

(s) Ursithat Brunus was ne Dominicanus.

(a) Taken fim NIcode no, tles of some of his Works, and mention some things (CA) relating to some or five of his other Books. He wrote some that were not Philosophical,

365 0 sequent (b) Toppi Biblioteca Wapolet #na, pag (c) Nicodemo, ub: fupra (d) Duffi dier in fupcan be of no use See Morhofine's (a) Polyhistor Here are some Titles Do specierum scratinio & Lampado combinatoria Raymundi Lullii, Prague, 1588 in 8°. That Book was put into the language at Inquisition (b) It has been reprinted the sum at times with a Tract of the same Author, de propositio logica venationa, among Lullius Works Fordamia Brunia de mu, among Lucius Volks Jeramus Bruns de monade, numero & figura stem de innumerabili, immenso, &cc brancfort, 1591 in 8° Jordans Bruns Nolani de imaginum, fignorum, & idearum compositione, adomnia inventionum, dispositionum, & memoria gelibri tres (d), Francfort, 1591 in 8° De umbris Meurum, Paris, 1582 Cantus Circaus ad memoria pradier in sup.

plem Bibl

kim ordinatus quam ipse judiciariam appellat, Paris,

1583 De compendiosa Architectura & complemento artis Lullis, Ibid 1580 (e) Artificium perorandi Al fledius publish'd it av Francfort (f) in 1612 Voctius

Polyh pag

355

Disputations, quotes fordanus Brunus de Harcticus, but he should have said Conradus Brunus (C △) And mention forme things relating to four or five of his other Books] I have feen none of Brunus's Books mentioned in the foregoing Remarks, but I have feen fome that are not to be found (g) in the Cara-logues I have consulted I have seen a Book intituled Giordano Bruno Nolano, De la causa, principio, & Uno It was Printed at Venice in the Year 1984, in 12' and dedicated by the Author to Michael de Caftelnau, Seigneur de Mauvissiere, Ambassadoi of France to Queen Elizabeth I find in the Lpiftle De-

(f) I speak as Icin remember. 5 1 except la cena de le Cine 11, for tes a Book, the Title of mbich is to be found in duer WW Supra

(g)Spento

a fatto il terioi va ne & paremorte fi conotro

cit i che noilia

Contemplatione, iecondo 1 tonda-menti de la nostra

philoso-phee: at-ple che

les rouse il fosco

uelo del

luatumen.

paz/o

to gerca

J'Oreo &

più dolce

de la nostra vita ne fi rape & aueleavaro Caronte, onde il una parte de la feli-apporta la

against the Malice of his Enemies Miriduce a mente come mi sette sussection of his Enemies Miriduce a mente come mi sete sussection of his Enemies Miriduce a mente come mi sete sussection of his his observation of his his heroical I irmness prevented his falling into Definite for his ill Fortune was attended with a characteristic of his ill Fortune was attended with a characteristic of his ill Fortune was attended with a characteristic of his ill Fortune was attended with a characteristic of his ill Fortune was attended with a characteristic of his ill Fortune was attended with a characteristic of his ill Fortune was attended with a characteristic of his ill Fortune was attended with a characteristic of his ill Fortune was attended with a characteristic of his ill fortune was attended with a characteristic of his illustration of his i spair, for his ill Fortune was attended with a thoufand Disgraces nothing was wanting to his mis-fortunes but the melicious slight of a Mistress Done bisogvana che fusse un animo veramente heroico per non dismitter le braccia, desperarsi, & darsi vinto a si rapido torrente di criminali imposture con quali à tutta possa m'have satto empeto l'invidia d'ignoi anti, la pre-juntion di sophisti, la detrattion di malevoli, la murmu-Junition di soppisti, la detrattion di malevoli, la murmuration di servitori, gli Jusurri di mercenarii, le contradittion i di domestici, le suspitioni di stupidi, gli scrupoli di riporratori, gli zeli dypomodid, gli odii di barbari, le furie di plebii, surori di popolori, lamenti di riperiossi, to voci di castigati. Oni altivo non manchava chi un discortese, pazzo, traditioso soligno seminile, di cui li talla lecharia logiosi si pu potenti i he quantosicolori. li false lachrime soglon esser più potenti, che quantosivogla tumide ondi, & rigide tempeste di presuntioni, invidie, Merattioni, mormorii, tradimenti, iie, sdegne, odii, & furori The saine Lpistle Dedicatory contains the Substance of the five Dialogues which make up that Work The first is an Apology for la Cena de la Cineri, which is the Title of a Book I shall speak of hereafter The second treats of the first Cause or Principle, and shews how the efficient and tormal Caute are remarted in one Subject, which is the Soul of the World, and how the formal and general Caute, which as but One, differs from the formal and particular Causes, which is infinitely multiplied. The Author declares, among other things, that his System removes the fear of Hell, which, fays he (g), ipoils the iweetest Pleasures of Life He shews in the third Dialogue, that David He shews in the third Dialogue, that David Divine Thing He maintains that the Substantial form is never destroy'd, and that Matter and Form affer only as Power and Act from whence he concludes, that the whole Universe is but one Being He shews in the following Dialogue, that the Matter of Bodies is not different from that of Spirits, and lastly, he concludes in the fifth Dialogue, that the Being which really exists is One, and Infinite, and Immovable Senza differenza di tutto & parte, principes & principlate, that an infinite Ex-tension is necessarily reduced to an Individuam, as an infinite Number is reduced to the Unity This is a general Notion of what he explains more par-ticularly in his Summaries, and more at large in his Dialogues, from whence it appears that his Hypotheris is in the main altogether like Spinozism There is at the end of the first Dialogue a Digreifion to the Praise of Queen Elexabeth

no De l'infiito universo & Mondi Stampato in Icnetia Anno M D LYYA IV in 12 It is made up of five Dialogues, where i he alledges many Reforms to shew that the Unive se is infinite, and that there is an infinite number of Worlds He declares for Copernicus's Opinion concerning the Motion of the Earth round the Sun I have also seen his Spaccio de la bestia trionfante, proposto da Giove I stet-tuato dal conseglo, Revelato da Mercurio, Ricitato da Sophia, Wdito da Saulino, Registrato dal Nolano da Sophia, White da Saulino, Registrato dai Noiano Diviso in tre Dialogi, subdivise in tre parti Stampato in Pariti M D YCIV in 12° He dedicated it to Sir Philip Sidney, who had done him many good Services in England 'Tis a Moral Treatise, oddly compos'd, for the Author represents the Nature of Vices and Virtues under the Limblems of the Celestial Constellations turn'd out of the Sky to make room for new Afterisms, which represent Truth, Goodness, &c Du Verdier Vau-privas (h) (h) treckons among the Works of our fordano, la Gena supra de le Cineri descritta in cinque dialoghi, per quattro interlocatori contre considerationi circa doi Sogetti Stampatanell' anno 1580 The Copy I have seen 1511 12 and was printed in 1584. I hat Book was dedicated by the Author to Mr de Castelnau, unico resugio de le Muse, during his Embassy in Fingland The reason of the Title is, that those Conversations are supposed to have been a Table-talk the first day in I ent. The Opinion of Copernicis is maintain d in that Work, and 'tis added, that there is an infinite number of Worlds like this, and that they are all intellectual Animals, which have Veget tive and Rational India laums is there are upon to the control of The contrary Opinion is call d a childish ca one (1) La quarta afferma esser conformi in materia questo mondo nostro che e detto globo della terra, con gli monds che songli corpi de gl. altri affri & che e col's da sanciulli haver creduto & credire altrimente. Li (L) That the quei fon tanti animali intellettuali & che non is Iollowmeno inquelli vegetano & intendono molti & innumerabili ind vidui semplici, & composti, che veggiamo vivere & vegetar nel dorso di questo Lastly, I have sem li heroici furori ot that Writer They contain two Parts, each of which is divided into sive Ditalogues The Author made 'em during his staney in England, and dedicated them to Sir Philip Sidney Che e in There are many Italian Verses in that Work, and many Cabalistical Notions, for, under some Iigures, which seem to represent the Fransports and Disorders of Love, he pietends to raise the Soul to the contemplation of the most sublime Truths, and cure it of its Impersections There are some and cure it of its Impertections There are some Poems at the end, wherein he sings the Beauty of the London Women

I wo general Observations may be made upon the Notions of that Author One is, That his chief Doctrines are a thousand times more obscure than the most incomprehensible things that have been advanced by the Followers (k) of Thomas Aquinas and Scores, For can any thing he most Aquinas dine coand Scotus For can my thing be more contrary to the Notions of our Minds, than to maintain (1) that incide an Infinite Extension is wholly in each point of dividuo, differ from the Unity? The other Observation is, That he rediculously fancies that whatever he fays is repugnant to the System of the Peripateticks, which is the Sophism call'd Ignorantia Elenchi. There is but a Dispute about Words between Him and non-esset in the property of the property Them as to what concerns the immutability or defiructibility of Things They never pretended that Matter, as it is a Substance, and the common Subject of Generation and Corruption, is capable of any alteration. But they maintain that the Production and Destruction of Forms supposes that the Subject which acquires and loses them fucceffively, is not immutable and unalterable Brunum cannot deny it, but by taking the Words in a particular fenie, and therefore 'tis only a missing de la cauunderstanding It appears from the following fa, principassage, that he acknowledges a mutability in his pro 6 only Being Per il che, says he (m), non vi sonarà no mai nel orecchio la sentenza di Heraclito, che disse tutte le cose essere uno, il quale per la MUTABI.

LITA ha in se tutte le cose, & perche tutte (m) disse forme sono in esso, conseguentemente tutte le diffiniti one gli convegnono, & per tanto le contradittorie stattato enunciazione son vere. Et quello che fà la moltitu- Pag 117

Cona de le

lo ente & l istezzo U B I-Q U F cossi la infinita dimenzione dine coinfinita dine, per numero con la unita Giordana Bruno epist dedi-

Here follows another Book, which he dedicated to the same Mr de Castelnau Gordane Brune Nolanor of a more easy and natural Strain than his Lasin Verses. He began early to publish some of 'em on several kinds of Subjects. He got a Reputation by 'em, and attain'd to the Poetical Crown, to the Dignity of Poet Laureat, and thither, and hop'd he might go on there conveniently with a great Work that he had

B Du Ver- for in the Year 1581, he publish'd an Italian Comedy in Paris intitul'd Candelais. divinsup- He gave himself the Title there of Academico de nulla Academia, detto il Fastiditi

plem Bibl
Gesn png,

Some Ingenious Persons pretend that Mr Descartes (D) has botrow'd some of his Noplem Bibl Gefn pug, tions from him very great Number & ex tempore that

y Bruschius in Poematisp m 336

Adam in of Count Palatin he receiv'd that Honour at Vienna from ? Ferdinand of Austria, King himself

2 Brusch ubi Jupra pag 320 Gultima * Id .h

PAG 314 1 Id 1b pag 338, 366 n Ibid pae 318 A Ibid

pag 316 M Ibid

315 * Melch Adam ubi supra

dine ne le cose non e lo ente, non e la cosa ma quel che appare, che si rapresenta al senso & e nella su-perficie della cosa A Peripatetick would grant him the greatest part of what he says here, if the Equi-vocations were once removed. Take notice of the vocations were once remov d Absurdity He tells us, That Being is not the Cause of the existence of many Things, but that this multitude conlists in what appears on the surface of the Substance In answer to which, I ask, Whether those Appearances, which strike our Senies, exist or do not exist? If they exist, they are a Being, and therefore Beings are the Cause of the existence of Things If they do not exist, it will follow that Nothingness acts upon us, and becomes sensible, which is absurd and impossible. There is no getting out of this Difficulty, but by the help of an Ambiguity Spinozifm is liable to the help of an Ambiguity

the fame Inconveniencies

(a) Sorel ubi infra pag 278

(b) Sorel de la perfettion de I bomme PAE 241

() Iria 145 242

Sorel mentions(s) and confutes some of our Bruno's Opinions, and even endeavours to excuse him, out he does not go the right way about it if the does not go the right way about it if if the following the state in an Elior as well as some others, yet we ought to consider the Nature of his Work, which is a Poem, and that fince Authors have been allow'd at all times to make use of lables and Lictions in tuch 4 ooks, tis no wonder he did it His Performance feems to be the more diverting, because he has ingeniously describ d an Infinity of "Worlds, and informs us, how Metrodorus, Leucippus, Epicurus and iome other Philosophers underfrood it He always affirms, That GOD is "every where, and fills up all I hings afcribing to the supreme Essence whatever is due to it, and because he does not meddle with any Articles of the Christian I aith, he might have come off, notwithstanding some few Words in his Commentaries, that feem to be a little too free, giving out all thoie things as meer Hypotheses and Suppositions, which he did not approve, and had writ in Germany, where he had been for fometime, and where those Opinions were acceptable, and there was more Liberty than in " Italy' It may be answered, I That since Sorel acknowledges (1), as he was oblig'd to it, That Brune's Poem is like that of Lucretius, he should not have faid, that the Author might very well insert several I ictions in it, for there is a great difference between that fort of Poems, and those of Taffe and Ariosto, those are Dogmatical Books, but these are full of Fictions A Man is no leis answerable for an Impious Thing which he doginatically advances in a System written in Verie, then when he teaches it in a System written in Prose 2 It ought to be known, that Brune wrote some Books an Prose, wherein he advances the same Opinions as in his Poems Sorel was not (d) altogether ig- pag 238 norant of it 3 GOD's Immensity, &c are not Doctrines less impious in Jordanus Brunus than in (e) Id ib Spinoza Those two Writers are downright Unita- 208 242 Spinoza Those two Writers are downright Unita-rians, they acknowlege but one Substance in Nature Sorel cannot be excus'd for not knowing (f) Id 1b this 4 'Tis not true, that the Opinions concerning an infinite World, and innumerable Earths and Seas, were acceptable to the Germans at that time 'Tis a fad thing, (thus he concludes (e)) nes Bruno nes Bruno that a Man who wrote very fine Books, should meet with such an unfortunate Death These Words depend up-Such an unfortunate Death on what he had been faying in the foregoing Page (f) Father Mersenne mentions some of Brunus of Opinions in his Book against the Deists, wherein he represents that Author as an Atheist and a Teacher of Impiety, who was burnt at Rome by a Sentence of the Inquisition Perhaps it was

were not bad Nothing was more fluent,

"for something elie than what is containd in his special lib" Books De Minimo, & de immenso"

We are told (g) of one Brunus, who wrote a pag 1647 Panegyrick upon the Devil I don't doubt but that its the same Brunus of Nola, who makes the oper edit Subject of this Article

(D) That Mr Descartes borrow'd some of his Notions from him | Mr Leibniz cites a learned Mathematician, who observes, that Mi Descartes suppresses the Names of the Authors whom he pirates, and that he is indebted to fordanus Brunus and to Kepler for his Vortex See the Journal of Leipsick 1682 Pag 187 The Learned Mr Hues, Bishop of Auranches, gave a long List of the Hints that this Brunus might have furnish'd Descartes Extitit inter novitios Philosophos Jordanus quidam Brunus Nolanus, quem Cartesiane dectrina antesignanum jure dicas adeo accurate omnem propemodum ejus compositionem prasignavit in ealibro quem de immenso & innumerabilibus inscripsit (h)

(A) Of the Corruption of Manners which he had Carteflage observ'd on Vienna, and of the Ravages that which Troops] 28 p 215
I shall transcribe tome of his Verses, they'll serve edit Paris to two Purposes, to comment my Text, and to give a Specimen of that Author's Mule

Luxuriat (1) tanquam tuta omni parte Vienna Luxuriat miris Austria tota medu Et cum copia nunc sit Bacchi, ita vivitur illic Ac si Turca serox nullus in orbe foret Aut procul ad Tanaim a nostris dissitus oris Non nostras raperet barbarus bostis opes Tantum indulgetur genio, mercantur ut omnes Austriaci recte hoc nomen agreste viri Quo Paschaleri populo dicuntur ab omui Quam late nomen Rhenus, & ifter habent , Paschata dum semper celebrant, jejunia nunquam Dum Semper Bacebo, dum Cererique vacant Nullu ibi aut rarus timer cf Deminique Deique Rarus honos legum, rara pudicitia

BRUSCHIUS (Gaspar) was born at Egra in Bohemia, the 19th of August 1518

He had a great Inclination and a greater Facility to make Verses He could make a (d) Bruschen Robert Machine Western Robert R nus made fom Poems an of the Romans, in the Year 1552 His Business thither was to present a Work to wrote a Maximilian, King of Hungary, which he had dedicated to him It was the first tary in Century of the German Monasteries In his return from Vienna, he stop'd at Passaus Prose Commenwhere he found a Protector and Benefactor in the Perion of Wolfgang of Salms, Bishop The first of that Place He resolv'd to settle there, and to remove his a Library and Family Minimal Poem is de Minimo undertaken. It was the History of all the Bishopricks and Bishops of Germany He had comes his travell d much, and look'd into feveral Records and Libraries, to gather Materials for Poem de travell d * much, and look d into leveral Records and Libraries, to gather Materials for his Purpose I cannot tell whether this new Settlement continu'd long, for I find that Bruschius was it Basil x in the Month of June 1553, and had regain'd the Cittadel of Oporin, Arcem Oporinianam, so u they call'd that Famous Painter's House which, stood on a rising Ground There it was that he publish'd some Writings he had finish d at Passau, some in Prose, and others in Verse He spake very freely in mensor with the Corruption of Manneis that he had observed (A) in Vienna, and of the Rivages the Troops of Manneis Elector of Saxons, that were sont to the Assistance. Rivages the Troops of Maurice, Elector of Saxony, that were fent to the Assistance rabilibus of Hungary against the Turks, had committed on the very Lands of the King of the seu de unij erfo & Mundis Id 16 nes Bruno Italus laudavit diabolum Witembergæ publice. Keckerm Sift Rhet Genev 1614 1n fel If I fal mustaken the word Johannes crept in instead of 3 ordanus

(b) Cen-Sura Philosophia 1680

(1) Bru-Schius in POCHIATING CHIN STACtatu de Laureaco & Paterule Germanico ımpressis , pag 358

Romans. He was & marry'd, but had no Children, when, in the Month of January & Brusch 1553, he recommended his Nephew * Gaspar Bruschius to the Principal of the College and pag of Paussau He was far from being rich, and would have had much ado to maintain 366 himself, if he had not been affished by those for whom he made Verses He received Presents also from the Abbots and Abbesses, whose Monasteries he described He Pag 181 was very well recev'd † by the Abbess of the Convent of the Caeza, he sup'd and † Milleh dane'd with her, and obtain'd || some Presents from her, a Gold Crown, a Handker-Adam. chei, &c The Liberalities of some Abbots while he was with Operin it Basil, enabled ibid him to buy a new Suit of Clothes But when he found that appearing well-dress'd | Descriin the Streets, procur'd him many marks of Respect from the Vulgar, he tore his new (B) Finery to pieces, as a Slave who usurp'd his Master's Honour Some say, that (Canobi Canobi Canob his Treatises of the Ecclesiastical History (C) of Germany sevous too much of Lu- (Caexien fis) annitheranism, which he had already approved This will be seen in one of 4 my Requitatimarks, and fomething also (D) concerning his Writings He was kill'd in a buy Wood cef

Et quia vulgus ibi variis ex partibus orbis Collectum est discort aus nest colluvies Nunc Hispanorum succepusations onse Croata Nunc Germans etcam Pannonsique viri Vidi Germano stillantes sanguine Savos Hispanorum enses non equidem ipse semel Imo impune etiam fieri hoc, nec rursus ad ullum Supplicium hac adeo noxia monstra rapi Thus much for what Concerns the Corruption of Manners at Vienna, and the Indulgence that the Audaciousness of the Spaniards found there Here follows the Description of the good Discipline of the Auxiliary Troops

(a) Id 1b pag 363

(a) nuper dun auniliaribus armis Saxonicus, secum millia multa trahens Ingentes equidem peditumque equitumque cohortes Instructos animis militiaque viros Sed quos absimiles Turcisque Getisque profetto Si recto inspiciae, diveris esse parum Qui quamvis Christo sint per baptisma renati Insertique Deo, & turba prosissa Deum Quem scelerum ultorem norunt, quem sumere poenas A raptoribus, à furibus atque sciunt, Per sas perque nesas nibilominus obvia quaque Sunt aus bostils diripuisse manu Vidi egomet, quantam furtu cladem atque rapinis Intulerint Boiis, Austriacisque casis Imo casis non tantum & haris sed & omnibus aris Divorum templis, muneribusque sacris Nil fuit intra etiam divilm penetralia tutum, Nec puerile genus, nec muliebre genus An tales homines evertert Turcica regna? Barbarico qui ipfi sunt magis hoste mali? Si corvus corvum, lupus aut laniabit avaro Dante lupum, nostro milite Turca cadet

One of the Calamities of War is that the Soldiers defign'd to repulse the Enemy are always as much to be fear'd by the poor People, as the Enemy

(B) He tore his new finery to pieces, as a Slave, Let us fet down the relation of Melchier Adam in this Place (b) Basileæ in arce Oporiniana (sie enim do-mum Oporini ob situm excelsum vocabant) tenui re fa-miliari vivens, à vicinis abbatibus stipe corrogata, novis vestibus ornatus in publicum aliquando prodiit Ibi plebecula splendorem orefreus more sue admirata, exurgen-do caputque aperiendo honorem homini exhibit Tunc weldus ille honorem non sibi, sed vestibus deserri animadvertens, tem i Medemum revertitur, & vestimenta partim concidit, partropel animadvertens tanquam improba mancipia sui demini lishurg fel gioriam praripientia accusan:

Isburg fol gleriam praripientia accusans improba mancipia jui admini lisburg fol gleriam praripientia accusans

436 apud That his Treatises of the Ecclesiaftical History of Zeiller

Zeiller Sewoldus (c) Levissimam quamque eccasionium arripit perquam avide, Roma & Romano pontisses obsequenti fed jam tum in Lutheri haressin, Cereris Bacchique mancipium, Bruschius totus propendebat He acknowledges moreover that the Work which that Writer compos'd on the Monasteries of Germany is not despi-cable (d) The Jesuit Greefer shall be my second cable (d) The Jefuit Greefer shall be my second Witness Bonam operam navavit Gaspar Bruschius Egranus, tameti jam quinti Evangelii genio affiatus, cum Catalogos Episcopatuum, O qui ees administrarunt Episcoporum, Oc collegit, cajus vestigia alii postea secuti, accuratius quarundam diacesen, O prasulum indees texuerunt (e) Note that Nicholas Servarius, and Christopher Brower have spoken of our Author with much contempt, the first in his History of Westphalia, and the last in his Antiquities of Fulda See Zeillerus at the place I have cited It will ap-See Zeillerus at the place I have cited It will appear in the following Remark by the Title only of some of Braschius's Books that he rellish'd Luther's Opinions pretty early

(D) And something concerning his Writings] The Catalogue of them is to be seen at the end of Book of the Abbot (f) Engelbert, which he himic's publish'd, as also in the Epitome of Gesner's Libitry, to which I refer my Reader Nevertheless I shall mark some Titles In 1537 Bruschius publish d at Tubinge Tabula Philosophia partitionem continens So that he was an Author at the age of 19 Years The Title of one of his Books is, Capita distrine Christiana versu elegiaco comprehensa another is in titul'd, Narratio tumultus cujussa am Magdeburgi a Monacho quodam Carmelita excitati, heroico carmine scripta He translated M lanchihon's Catechism and his Passiles into German. as also a Letter of his to his Posiilles into German, as also a Letter of his to the Count de Weda, and the Treatise of George Major authoritate verbi Dei He translated a German Book into Latin, wherein Luther had explain d the Dominicals, and his Treatile of Confolation, and wrote a Preface to some Cantieles of the same Luther These Labours are proofs of Lutheranism Here we other Titles De omnibus totius Girmania episcopatibus epitomes tomus primus, Achiepiscopatum Moguntinum cum aliis 12 episcopatibus qui Moguntino su'sunt comcomprehendens, at Nuremberg 1549 Monasteriorum Germania pracipuorum ac maxime illustrium centuria prima, at Ingolstad 1551 These two Books are not or the Fubiciberg, and on that of the (g) four Rivers which have their Source in that Mountain

He made a Map of it, with a Treatile wherein he gave a very large Description of the City of Egra, and the adjacent Countries That Treatile was inferted in the Cosmography of Munster, and was (b) re-printed at Wittemberg in 1540, in 4to His Treatise de Laurcaco, vetera admodumque celebri olim in No rico civitate, & de Patavio Girmanico, ac utriusque loci Archiepiscopu as Episcopis omnibus, was Printed at La-fil by Oporin in 1553, in 8vo with a Collection of the Latin Poems he made in Bavaria The City which he calls Laureacum, was formerly an Archbishop's See It was situated (1) at the Place where the River of Ent discharges itself into the l'anube three Miles below Linez As for the Pata-Winm Germanicum, it is the City now call'd Passau, pag 20 He declares in the Epistle Dedicatory of this Treatile, That if he relates things contrary to the common Tradition, and if he speaks disadvantageously of some Prelates, it must be imputed to the obligation he was under of following the Laws of Hiftory

(k) Multa bic feripta legentur, Diefa videbuntur que nec clementer in ipsos Pontifices quosdam Latios, neque sat reverenter De summu aliquet vostra Pastoribus urbu Invenietu & hic non pauca inserta, quibus cum Pugnabunt vestri Annales fortassis Ad ista, Qued res est, breviter respondes plurima summis Esse a prasulibus Romana facta cathedra, Que laudare bonus (nisi quis vel tartara calum, Cuneta vel atra velst candentem dicere lucem) Nemo potest que qui laudaverit, haud bonus ille Effe potest veluti qui non reprenderit, idem Nec bonus effe potest, verum en Acheronte profestus Est Damon Sive est igitur de Patribus urbu Romulca, seu de vestru Primatibus istic Distam aliquid durum se distam credite, vero

Ut fervandus honos fueris funs, & mini leges Historie quoque non violanda, aut transgrediunde
The Principles he fets forth in these Verses, ie the justest in the World, and it's very strange that an Historian, who should follow them religiously t m co m a ibic plurima

Remark C

Engelbertus Abbas Admontensis

> (g) Manus, Egra, Niva,

(h) See the Bibt otheque Germanique of Hertzius 11 9

(1) Brufchius de Laureaco, epift dedi-crt

de Mifres tom 2 Metrop fol 594. Mud Ball. wid

(b) Melch

Adam ın nitis Phi-losoph pag

(c) Chri-Stoph

Ge-

(c) Gretf Catal 000 tt 1 1100 Epilcop Eyftette init præ fat apud Leiller sb

Mr. de Thou relates this, where he mentions a Prophecy (F) Wood in the Year 1559. that Bruschius had published.

* See Remark D

† Dionys Halicarnass l 4 Livius ! 3 Plut in Valerio

BRUTUS (Lucius Junius) Son of one of Tarquin's * Sisters, was oblig'd to feight himself Stupid, to be thought incapable of Revenging the Death of his Father and Brother, for if Tarquin, who order'd em to be put to Death, had found him a Man of Parts and Courage, he would not have let him live † This feign'd Stupidity got him the Sirname of Brutus || Under this false Appearance of Brutishness, he impatiently waited for an Opportunity to expel Tarquin The Opportunity pre-fented he wish'd for, when Lucretia kill'd herself after the Indignity offer'd her by the Tyrant's Eldest Son, and he made so good use of it, that in a little time the City of Rome was chang'd from a Monarchy to a Commonwealth This Revolution happen'd in the 245th Year of Rome, and upon it, the Dignity of Conful was inflituted to be enjoy d by Two persons for one Year He and Collatinus the Husbind of Lucretia were the first on whom it was confer'd He did not long survive his. Work, I mean the Establishing of Liberty, for before the Year (A) of his Consulship was expir'd, he was kill'd in a Battle, engaging (B) in so sharp a Combat, hand to hand, with one of Tarquin's Sons, that they kill'd each other on the Spot He liv'd long enough to shew by a vigorous Action, that he prefer'd the Safety (C) of his Country to that of his own Sons a The Roman Ladies mourned for him a whole Vica heavile he had so gallantly Reveng'd violated Chastity I censure but one Year a, because he had so gallantly Reveng'd violated Chastity (D) Passage in Morers

Among

" Diony Halicarn l 4 & 5 Livius l 162 Supra B Matronæ annum ut parentem eum luxcrunt, quod tam acer ultor violatæ pudicitie fuiflet Liviuslia p m 41 (a) That's to fay Churchm cn should be reputed a Satyrist The Corruption of Manners has been fo great, as well among those who have liv'd in the World, as among those who have (a) liv d out of it, that the more a Person endeavours to give faithful and true Relations, the more he runs rhe hazard of compoling defamatory Libels Doubtless there is a great difference be-tween History and Satyr, but a small matter suffices to metamorphose the one into the other, If on the one hand, you take from Satyr that Spirit of Sharpness, that Air of Anger which discovers Sharpneis, that Air of Anger which discovers that Passion has a greater share in the Scandals reported, than a love of Vertue, and if you add the Obligation one is under of relating indifferently the good and the bad, it's no longer reputed Saryr, but History Let a Historian on the other hand, faithfully relate all the Crimes, Weaknesses and Disorders of Mankind, his Work shall be reputed rather a Satyr, than an History, if he discover but ever so little Emotion in himself at the thoughts of so many condemnable Tasks which the thoughts of so many condemnable Iacts which he exposes to publick View I do not believe that that Coolness of Temper with which a Judge ought to pronounce Sentence against Robbers and Murtin and Coolness of Temper with which a Judge ought to pronounce Sentence against Robbers and Murtin and Coolness and Coolness and Murtin and Coolness and Murtin and Coolness and Cool derers, is always to be exacted from an Historian Some pointed Reflections do not become him ill

(E) Mr de Thou relates this in mentioning a Prophecy | He fays 1 That Regiomontanus, the ablest Astronomer since Piolomy, had predicted that the Year 1588, should be memorable for great Revolutions 2 That that Prophecy contain'd in four German Veiles was publish'd in the Year 1553 That Gafpar Bruschius, who inserted it in a small Book of the Abbot (b) Engelbert, de ortu & fine Reman Imperii, put it into Latin, and alter'd the Sense of it, tho' he understood the German Tongue very well 4 That his bad Translation was a new Prophecy more surprizing than that of Regionantanus, for he noted that those great things should happen under one Sentus Thuanus adds, That he had often admir'd that conduct of Bruschius, and thereupon observes, that he was kill'd in the Year 1559, a long time before Sixtus the 5th, who was Pope in 1888, attain'd to the Papacy Here are his Words (c) Toannes Regiomontanus diu ante id pramonuerat, quatuor versibus seu rhythmus vernacula lingua emaratis, qui in Castellensi superioru Norici canobio hodie leguntur, aute XXXV annos a Gaspare Bruschio Egrano, cum Engelberis Abbatu Admontensis, qui sub Rodulfo Habspurgio storuit, libello de ortu & fine R Imperis publicati, quos cum ille interpretaretur, quod mihi mirari fapius subist, quanquam minime lingua sua ignarus, ta-men dum verba Germanica aliter, quam scripta erant, latine reddit, vaticinium Regiomontani longe also majore cumulavit Si quidem id, qued ab ille prædittum erat, Jub Sexte quedam eventurum tradit, atqui diu eft, ex quo Bruschus fatis concessis, anno videlicet hugus seculi IIX a sicariis junta Rotenburgum ad Duberam interse Eus, multo antequam Sixus V summum magistratum in acticia inniret, & verba Regiomoutani, sunti dini, id matini, significant Note, That it was believ'd, that some fornitemen against whom Bruschus was wri-ting something, caus'd him to be Assalinated He was murder'd in the Forest of Schlingenbach between Retemberg on the Tauber, and Winsheim See Crussus in his Annals (d) of Swabia If they had given (d) Parte our Poet the Advice that Horace received (e) to for- 3 lib 10 bear Slandering, or else expect to lose his Life, cap 7 a'twould at leasthave been as Prophetical as the four pud Zeiller

Verses mention'd by Thuanus who supported as expired pag 27

Livy and Dionysius Halicarnasseus tay it expressly Flo(e) O puer rus committed a great Fault then, which I do not ut sis Vifind censur'd in the variorum of Holland He pretails metends that the Death of Brutus follow'd the Peace two: & which Porsenna made with Rome (f) Et rex quidem tot tantisque virtutum terrotus monstris valere liberosque esse justit Tarquini: tamdiu dimicaverunt donec Arun-tem filium regis manu sua Brutus occidit, superque insum mutuo vulnere expiravit, plane quaft adulterum ad inferos usque sequeretur

(B) Engaging in fingle Combat) The Passage 1 lib 2 of Florus which we have just now cited, might in- (f) Flor duce us to take these Words litterally, yet it's bet- lib 1 c ter not to take them fo, for 'tis certain that Brutm and Aruni fought on Horseback, and that they run at each other with their Lances Thus Livy and Dionysus Halicarnasseus relate it, notwithstand- also Dioning all the Violence which animated Brutus against sus Haly the Tarquins, yet it was not he was the Challenger, carnassensis but Aruns, who having singl'd out Brutus, run to 15 & wards him, insulted, revised, and provok'd him to Plutarque a single Fight But Brutus, who accepted the inwaler Challenge, met the Aggressor with equal Fury p 101 Each thought only on Killing his knemy, without defending himself (g) Ados insessing animis concurreture, neuter dum bestem vulnerares sur protegensis corners, neuter dum bestem vulnerares sur protegensis corners, neuter sur contrario is to per parmam uterque trans-

runt, neuter dum hostem vulneraret sui protegendi cerperis memor, ut contrario ictu per parmam uterque transfixus duabus harentes hastis meribundi ex equis lapsi sint
(C) That he preser'd the Sasety of his Country hefore that of his own Sons I He had married a Wise of the Family (h) Vitellia, by whom he had two Sons, who had not yet (i) attain'd to Man's Estate They suffer d themselves to be engaged by two of their Uncles on the Mother's side, and by some others who lov'd the Kingly Government herror of their Uncles on the Mother's fide, and by some others who lov'd the Kingly Government better than a Common-wealth, in a Plot to recall Tarquing. The Conspiracy was discover'd, and Brutus himself Condemn'd his Children to Death, and had them Executed in his Presence Consules in Sedem presesses fusion missingue listeres and summendum supplicium processer sum missique listores ad jumendum jupplicium Dienys nudatos virgis cadunt, securique feriunt cum inter omme Halicarn tempus pater, vulsusque & os esus spettaculo esset, emitied & nente animo patrio inter publica pana ministerium (k) Plutarch (D) I censure only one Passage in Moreri] He says in Valer that Brutus; was Son of a Daughter of Tarquinus pag 99-e Priscus, King of Rome I own this is the Opinion of Dienyssus Halicarnassensis Brutus, says he (i), was (i) Lob 4 the Son of Marcus Junius, descended from one of Eness's Companions, and his Mother was Tarqui- (m) Lob 1 nia, Daughter to the First Tarquin This does not pag m 34 hinder my saving that Mr Moreri asserts a Falsity, hinder my faying that Mr Morer afferts a Falfity, and that he ought to fay with Livy (m) That Torquins the Mother of Brutus, was Sifter of the Last Discorp.

Tarquin My Reason is this It's certain Brutus Holicorn. was very Young (s) when his Father was killed;

majorum ne quis amicus te feriat Horat Sat 1 116 2 (f) Florus, (g) Livius l 2 See also Diony

(b) Livius ibid Plut in Val Public p 98 (i) Dien Halic I <
(k) Livius ibid with quoque

(n) 1d ib

lived under Rodolphus of Habs-bourg

(b) be

(1) Thean lib 90 in'i pag m 176

. Among all the Attempts that ever have been form'd to change the Civil Government, and dethrone Kings, there is hardly any so reasonable as this, for in short, this King of Rome whom our Brutus endeavour'd with fo much Success to expel, was doubly a (F) Tyrant; his Reign was unjust and violent, and he had besides usurp'd the Sovereign Power, and Dethron'd his Father in-law who was the Rightful Possessor, he took care to have him Murder'd, and in this he acted against the Peoples Intention; nor did he ever get his Usurpation approv'd by Law, but maintain'd himfelt in it by all kinds of Violence "Twas happy for Rome that she had never had a Tyrant King before, or a Citizen so great a Lover of Liberty as Brutus, for had it been reduc'd to a Democracy under the preceding Reigns before it had been brought to a due Confistence, it could never have subsisted, but must have been destroy'd (G) by the Factions and Discords which the Tribunes of the People raised at every turn, under the specious Pretence of Liberty Nothing is finer in all the Romances that have appeared under the Name of Mr de Souderi, than what concerns Brutus in the "Romance of Clelsa

BRUTUS (Marcus Junius) the Son of Marcus Junius Brutus, and of Servilia the Sister of Cato, was one of the Murtherers of Julius Casar He was the greatest Republican that ever was known He did not believe that any body was obliged to keep (AD) Faith, or the sacredest Oaths to those who usurp'd an Arbitrary Power in Rome He was so sull of the great and noble Idea's of Liberty, and that Love of his Country, which the Greek and Roman Authors have describ'd so pompously I say he was so bewitched to these, that neither the Obligations he had to Julius Casar, nor the certain Prospect he had of aggrandizing himself as much as he pleased under that new Master of Rome, cou'd ballance the Ambition he had of restoring things to their first State by the Murther of the Tyrant He conspir'd against him with seve-

(a) Id lb (b) Dion Halicarn stud

he was much about the Age of Tarquin's Sons, and was educated with them It's true 'twas rather to was editicated with them It's true twas rather to ferve them for a Buffoon, than for any thing elle (a) It is moreover certain, that his Father was not put to Death 'till (b) after Tarquin's Usurpation, it may therefore reasonably be supposed, that Brutus was not above 15 Years of Age when Tarquin usurp'd the Crown His Mother must needs then have been very Old when she was brought to Bed of him, if she had been the Daughter of Tanquinus Priscus She must have been the Daughter of Tanaquil, for Tarquinius Priscus had no other Wife but Tanaquil That Tarquinius came to Rome by the Advice of his Wife, in the Reign to Rome by the Advice of his Wife, in the Reign to Rome by the Advice of his Wife, in the Reign of Ancis Marcius. He had attempted in vain to have a Share in the Government of his own Country Confidering the manner in which she argued with her Husband (c) to engage him in that Journey to Rome, she could not be a Girl of 15, she must be at least about 25 Years of Age, her Ability in explaining Auguries, confirms my Supposition They must have been Married a considerable time, since they hop'd for nothing in their own Country One is not disheartened till after divers Attempts They liv'd several Years at Rome, and made themselves so considerable there, that Tarquin being chosen Tutor to the King's Children, secured to himself the Succession of Ancis Marcius, It is not too much to allow Ten Years to an Abode which had Consequences so very important. Say then that they came to Rome Ten Years before Ancis Martius died By this means Tanaquis must have been 15 Years of Age, when her Husband became King of Rome. Nor can her last Lying in, be later than the 15th Year of her Husband's Reign Let's suppose then that the pretended Mother of Brusse, the Daughter of Tarquinus Prises, was born in the Arbs Year of her Father's Reign. Thus she must He had attempted in vain to of Ancus Marcius than the 15th Year of her Husband's Reign Let's impose then that the pretended Mother of Bruins the Daughter of Torgonnius Prises, was born in the Ath Year of her Rather's Reign Thus she must have been 24 Years of Age when her Father (a) died, to which, if we add the 44 Years that Servius Tullius 10 the Taiquis the Proud seized on the Throne, when Tarquis the Dron when his Mother was 51 Years of Age, he must then be born when his Mother was 51 Years old If that be not impossible, it is at least very improbable. Now a Judicious Histo-11 Colored the Marriage of Daughters at 12 or vius on the 15, to adopt the Marriage of Daughters at 12 or vius on the 15, to adopt the Accompt, and make them fruitful till 50 See Laurentius Valla, who reckons, That if the Mother of Bruins had been the Daughter, of Tarquin superbus mas the (F) Was doubly a Tribus I We must not therefore alledge this Conduct of the Romans, as an Example of the Rights of the People exercised against a nius Prise I lawful Severeign who abuses his Power Tarquin the Proud, was not only a Tyrant in his Administration, but was also a Tyrant by Usurpation Read these Words of Livy (f) Conseins deinde male quarends regns ab se ipso adversus se exemplum caps (f) Tits posse, armatis corpus circumsepst Neque enim ad jus Livias regni quicquam prater vim babebat, ut qui neque popudet i sussu, neque authoribus patribus regnarer Ed acce- i pag n debat, ut in charitate civium nihil spei reponenti metu 30, 21, regnum tutandum esse quem ut pluribus incuteret, constitutores capitalium rerum sine consiliis per se solus exercebat. perane cam causam occidere, in exilium apere, hognitiones capitalium rerum sine consiliis per se solus exercepat, perque eam causam occidere, in enilium agere, bonis multtare poterat, non suspectos modò aut invisoi, sed unde mibil aliud quem pradam sperare posset sea patrum pracipue numere imminuto, sistuit nulles in patres legere, quo contemptior paucitate ipsa ordo esse minusque per se nibil agi indignarentur. Hic enim regum primus traditum disprincibus morem de omnibus Senatum consulendi solvit, domesticis consiliis Rempublicam admistravit; bellum, pacem, sadera, societates per se ipse cum quibus volait, injusu populi ac Senatus secit, direvidue. This is a very elegant Description of Tyranny Tyranny cum quibus voient, injusu populi ac Senatus fecit, direvitque This is a very elegant Description of Tyranny

(G) But must have been destroy'd by the Fastiens which the Tribunes of the People I This Reflection is not mine, it is Livy's, and serves to show that Author's Judgment and good Sense Neque ambigitar, says he (g), quin Brutus idem, qui tanium gloria superbe exacto rege meruit, pessind publics id saturus fuerit, si libertatis immatura cupidine priorum
regum alicus reguum exterssis ematura cupidine priorum
regum alicus reguum exterssis ematura cupidine priorum fuit, si illa passorum convenarumque plebs transsuga ex aut certe impunibatem adesta, soluta regie metu, agitari cepta assertibus serve adesta, soluta regie metu, agitari cepta assertibus serve contemna, prius quam pognora conjugum ac libertatis serve contemna, prius soli, cui busso tempera alibertur, animas corum consociasses disposa tempera
alibertur, animas corum consociasses disposa tempera
dum adulna discriptia sorum; quas soviet et anguilla moderatio amperii, soqua nutricude perduxit, ut banam frugem libertatis maturii sam vuribus serve possens. The sixth sixth habitants of Rome had need of a Monarch Their new City would soon have sunk, is it had been expos'd in its sinfancy to the continual Contests of the Patrigian; and Pebesans stis next to a Miracle that they suffer'd it to maintain and aggrandize itsself (A) He did not believe that any one was oblig'd to keep Fasth (b) in one of his Speeches to the Roman People in the Capitol he told 'em God's moss est sundan units sides, austa juripurand religio. This Maarm semi d'um cassonable to Gratius. See how he has refuted io in the 15th Paragraph of the 13th Chapter of the Second Book of Pastes se pastes And yet this Maxim of Pagan Rome is succe excusable than that which Chapter of confiance, That Faith is not to be kept with Flereticks A a a a a

(A)

flance, That Falth is not to be kept with Hereticks

datoque M Bruto

um Romanorum ultımum dixiffet

Tacit an-nall 4 c 34 (b) Sueton in Tiber c

(c) Plut ın Bruto,

pag 1005 (d) Ava-Cunous

to fewer of

ral others, and their Plet was so well concerted and carried on, that Julius Gafar was flabb'd at the Senate, the 15th of March 790. The People applicated that Action at first, but all on a sudden, like a Sea aguated by contrary Wands, they animated themselves against the Murtherers. These were forced to sake their Sasety by singht.

The Life of the Provinces abroad; they made a stand in Macedonia at the head of some very good Brutus. Brutus
(a) Posture
(b) Posture
(c) Posture

does not name, is undoubtedly Crematius Cerdus. The Elogy he gives these two Republicans, was given to Cassis by his Companion Bratus, when the News of his Death was brought him (r)

(B) the last Dying words in Decrying Pertut Un-happy Vertue, cried he, how have I sten decividen the Service I believe dishou were a real Being, and devoted misclf to thee on this Opinion, but thou art only a wain Name, a Chimera, the Prey and Slave of Fortune He was not the first that made the of these Words service 1 believe she were a real Bong, and beweed mylelf to these on this Opinion, but those art only a vacual mylelf to these on this Opinion, but those art only a vacual mylelf to these on this Opinion, but those art only a vacual mylelf to these on this Opinion, but those of Persons. He was not the first that made the of these Words are to the order. Agreed Poet had put them in Hercules Mount of the mylelf of a Traight Poet. It's in a Translation of the of a Traight Poet. It's in a Translation of the of a Traight Poet. It's in a Translation of the of a Traight Poet. It's in a Translation of the of a Traight Poet. It's in a Translation of the of a Traight Poet. It's in a Translation of the of papers. Similar Poet and Ray, but which is a hattent consequent of the original Ray, but which is a hattent consequent of which the fills. According to Fusions, he who middle the Boll. According to Fusions with the Fusions of Planslation of P

(A) Who are call'd the last of the Romans] Totique the Reality of Vertue It belongs to Christians along fays (a) That Cremutius Cordus faid this of Cassus to argue upon it aright, and if those good things it only, but Suctemus affirms, he faid it of both Objection & Historice hard Brutish Cassus which the Scripture Promises the Faithful were not joyn'd to the Exercise of Vertue, that and Innocessey might be plac'd in the Number of those does not place to realize the Romans Innocessey might be plac'd in the Number of those were not joyn'd to the Exercise of Vertue, that and were not joyn'd to the Exercise of Vertue, that and Innocency might be plac'd in the Number of those things on which Salomon pronounc'd his definitive Decree, Vanity of Vanities, all is Vanity To trust to one's Innocency, would be so trust to a broken Reed, which peitces the Hand of the that lears upon it God, as being the Editable of Events, and the Distributer of good and Bad Successes on Earth, has submitted Vertue and Innocency to general Laws, no less than Health and Riches One of the most considerable States of Europe lost and gain'd by turns, as long as it made only unjust the most considerable states of Europe lost and gain'd by turns, as long as it made only unjust Wars, nay, it gain'd more than it lost. Ever since it has been engaged only in just Wars, it loses. How happens this? It was Powerful at that time, and now is not so. To conclude, whoever shall go upon Britiar's System, and look upon Vériue as the Fountain of good temporal Successes, may happen out the complain as he did of having the rhe Fountain of good temporal Successes, may happen one Day to complain as he did of having taken that for a Reality which is only an empty Name

But let's beware of the heady Reslexions of those extravagant Sourits who pretend that to have an ill Cause, is the readiest way to succeed Say we on the contrary, that all things being in other respects equal, Reason and Justice on one's Side is a good Step towards the Victory How great solution of the Disorders of Human kind are, they are not yet come to such a Height, that it can with truth be said, that Right averts of retards the Viasion of Prosecution of Prosecutio foever the Diforders of Human kind are, they are not yet come to fuch a Height, that it can wish truth be faid, that Right averts of retards the Victory I was not long ago in Company where two Princes were the fulped of the Difcourfe, who had been sam'd for a very high Dignity Opinions were little divided, and almost all agreed, that fuch an one would bassie the Presidence of his Concurrent They grounded themselves of the Verifications which were reduced into Heads, is the Interest of all Europe to favour one of the two Pretenders, the Samition of the Countries from whence each were expect Assistance, the overgrown Power of the Promoter of him whose ill Success was forested and an stundred other Considerations besides And now you think you have said all, said a brisk Frenchman that was by, and who had not spoken a Word before, buit it's a Mistake, I'll give you one Readon thronger than all Such an one has Right of his side, his Election is regular, and therefore he must link. The Election of the other mail positive Descent, it's contraint when man all Laws of the Nation, that alone were enough to seture him the Superiority and the Tribusian This Assistance in a feel, is since to present the active was laughed at, but famile who were willing to give themselves the trouble and a set of the superiority and that it a say by accident that I for the superiority and that it a say by accident that I for the superiority and that it a say by accident that they Advertaries. They sixter themselves, in the Burner, that Heaven will declare for them they will all saying a superiority will declare for them they imagin that Right sixten will repose, that they some they like the success, they sixter themselves, and it interests they some they like any the high of the proper, the superior they imagin that Right sixten who were enough in bad countered their own Work, of retard the Frogrees of the states of work of the frogrees of the states of work of the frogrees of the states of the states of the superior the states of the super

See in the Remark DA the Words of Tacitus + Gravitatem Bruti D Quintil 112 6 10. p m 580 4 See Cicero 171 Bruto, in Philippicus O alibi

> (a) Hinc exitum M Biuti

paraum

Septimum & trigefi-

mum mnuns 1gentis fortuna est volu-1t CO1-rupto animo estas in diem quæ illi omnes

Virtutes

unius te-meritate

facti ab-ftulit Paterculus l

de Benef 1

2 6 .0

:

pity he should blacken by (D) the Murther of his Benefactor, a Combination of the greatest Quilities in his Person that a Man can possess. His Action was condemn d by * several Romans of those times, and one can hardly disagree but it was at least inauspicious in the Circumstances, I mean (Da) that it was unseasonably committed. You will find the Proof of this in Dion Cassius. He followed the Sect of the Stoicks He lov'd Books (E) and had wrote some He was a good Orator, and as he had for his own part always made choice of a concile and † grave Style, no wonder if he thought (F) Cicero's Eloquence void of Neives He had an excellent Panegyrist in the Perion of that Orator, by whom he had been infinirely esteemed from his Youth. He was older than (G) Paterculus supposes. No one ought to affirm that he He was older than (G) Paterculus supposes. No one ought to affirm that he was descended from that (H) Brutus who expelled Tarquin, or that he had been adopted

Principles, the latter are much more Active However it be, there is no arguing from the Justice, or the Injustice of a Cause, to its good or ill Success, and except in Cases where God works by Miracle, which happen but feldom, the Fate of a Bufinets depends on the Circumstances, and the Concurrence of the means that are used, whereby it sometimes happens that Injustice miscarrys and that one may say, tandem bona causa triumphat

(D) That he blackned by the Murther of his Benefactor a Combination | The most extravagant Flatterers of the Descendants of Casar found only that one Exthe Descendants of Cajar found only that one Exception (a) to Brusus I confess, he whom he kill'd, deserv'd Death, an hundred thousand Lives, if he had had then, would not have suffic'd for the Expiration of his Crime, but it did not become 3 or 4 private Persons to undertake to punish him Let us then apply the Maxim priso justa actio injustified. Resides the Attempt was against the Infiffins Besides, the Attempt was against the Interest of the Country, the Lvent shewed it, and it was not hard to foresee it See Seners who proves folidly that as things then stood, they were not to hope for a Return of the Republican Government. The Manners of the Romans were corrupted, the prize of Ambition was too great, the Post from whence they would make the Conqueror of Great Pompey fall, was so coveted, that it was easie to foresee that as they thrust one Person out of it, several others would present to fill it up again (b) Cum vir magnus fuerit (M Brutus) in alus, in hac re videtur vehementer erralle, ibi speravit libertatem futuram, ubi tam magnum præmium erat & imperandi, & scrviendi, aut existimavit civitatem in priorem formam posse revocari, amissis pristinis moribus, futuramque ibi aqualitatem civilis juris, & staturas suo 2 c 72 (b) Sencia loco leges, ubi viderat tot millia hominum pugnantia, non an fervirent, fed utri Quanta vero illum aut rerum natura, aut urbis sua tenuit blivio, qui uno interempto, defuturum credidit alium, qui idem vellet, cum Tarquinius esfet inventus post tot reges ferro ac fulminibus

(DA) That it was unseasonably committed find the Proof of this in Dion Cashus | That Historian observes Two things I That a wicked Fundamental Comments of the Comment ly feir'd fome who envied Julius Cafar, and hurried 'em on to kill him unjustly a That tho' they alledged the fair Pretence of Re-establishand threw back the State into Seditions, when it began to taffe the Advantages of a good Administration. He afterwards declares, That Monarchy is to be preferr'd before Democratical Government and that both Cartaged Report Lifetimes. ment, and that both Greek and Roman History shew that Cities and private Perions have enjoy'd greater Bleffings, and felt less Adversity under the Authority of a fingle Perion, than under a popular Government; that if there have been States which have flourish d under such a Government, it lasted no longer than till they had attain'd a certain point of Greatness and Power, beyond which nothing but Discord had been seen, the Fruits of Envy and Ambition, and therefore since the City of Rome saw it self at that time Mistress of a great many Nations, and glutted with Riches and Plenty, it was impossible but the Inhabitants should give a loofe to the P. Markey and P. Markey a loofe to their Passions in the midst of the Repub lican Liberty, and yet more impossible, that while none of them restrain'd their Desires, they shou'd agiee among themselves (c) A δυνανο μέν το διμοκομπικ συκερο ποικι, αθυγανότερο δι μια συφαριώζαι μονούζαι In populari respublica statu impossibile erat cives animis suis moderare, atque continentia sublata ut concordes per-manerent, id adhue minus fieri poterat. That if Brutus and Cassius had well consider'd these things, they would never have kill'd the Head of the Republick, nor thereby plung'd themselves and the whole

Roman Empire into endless Calamities (d) Note that Xiphilin (e) has disapprov'd Dion Cassius in this, but I don't believe any Person can reasonably deny that at that point of Greatness to which the Romans had attaind, which had accustomed em to Luxury and Ambition, they could have injoy'd any Tranquillity either in the Provinces or Capital City under a Democratical Government Capital City under a Democratical Government Rome had already been a pretty long time a Republick only in Name. The Alteration of Government will always be infentible in Popular States which amuse themselves with Conquests. If they wintend to preserve their Liberty, they must avoid all offensive Wars as the Plague, and be statisfied with a small Event of Land, they must aggrange with a small Extent of I and, they must aggrandize and fortifie themselves intensive, and not extensive, if I may be permitted to make use of the School Distinction

I have faid in the Body of this Article, that fe-veral Romans disapprov d Brusus's Action, I'm to produce a Witness (f) Die funeris (Augusti) milites velut presidio sictore, multum inridentibus qui ipsi orderant, quique a parentibus acceptrant diem illum crudi adhus servitii, & libertatis improspere repetite, cum occisus Dictator Casar, aliis PLSSIMUM aliis pulcherrimum facinus viderctur Consult sorstnerus on this Passage of Tacitus, and Boeclirus on the 56th chap of the 2d Book of Paterculus

(E) He lov'd Books, and he bad wrote some | Plutarch (g) relates that in the greatest Heat of the Civil Wars, Brutus imploy'd some part of the night in Study He Abridged the Roman History of (h) Fannus, and that of (1) Antipater He wrote and he Charles and he Pool to Charles a Book de Officiis, cited by Charifus and by Prifcian
Doubtless it is that which Screea (k) calls mer 1889u1807 — Cicero (l) and Seneca (m) ipeak of that de Virtute Diomedes makes mention of that de Patientia There are still extant some of Brutus's Letters, either in Greek that were piinted apait, or in Latin among those of Cicero He had made Catos Latin among those of Cicero He had made Catos Elogy, and Cafar did not like that Piece Bruti Catone letto se sibi visum discreum (n) The Oration he made in the Capitol upon Cesar's Murther, pleas'd Cicero very well, though they had not the same Taste in Oratory

See the 1st Letter of the tame Taste in Oratory

See the 1st Letter of the 1sth Book to Atticus

I cannot tell whether he sinish d the Abridgment of the History of Polybius, on which he was at work (o) in his Camp the very Night that preceded the Battle of Pharsalia (F) Cicero's Eloquence void of Nerves The Author of the Dialogue de causis corrupta eloquentia informs us of this Ciceronem, says he, male audivisse a Bruto, ut spsius verbis utar tanquam frattum atque elumbem Cicero was even with him Fie thought Brutus's Style negligent and loofe Ciceroni (p) vi-Sum Brutum otiosum atque disjunetum Brutus's Style Jum Brutum ottojum atque aisjunctum Brutus Style p 985 E had another Desect, which is that it was full of (p) Dial Verses, Versus shi fere excidunt, quos Brutus 19so componendi ductus studio sapissme facit (q) Cicero confesses that Brutus touch fault freely enough with his Taste, in point of Lloquence See the 20th Let-

Talte, in point of Lioquence See the 20th Letter of the 14th Book to Aitieus

(G) He was older than Paterculus supposes He was born ten Years (r) after Hortensius began to plead, which was (s) under the Consulfing of Iucias Crassus, and Quintus Scavola That Consulfing falls in with the Year (s) of Rome 658 Brutus than much have been born in the Year 668 So this falls in with the Year (t) of Rome on the falls in with the Year (t) of Rome on the falls in with the Year fold So pag 343 that having died in the Year 711, he liv'd 43 Years (i) Significant therefore be (u) in the wrong, to usin falls that naving died in the year 711, he lived 43 Years (t) Sigons Paterculus must therefore be (u) in the wrong, to give him but 37 years of Age

(H) That he was descended from that Brutus who expelled Tarquin] Dionysius Halicarnassins (w) maintains that our Marcus Brutus was not descended from him. He says it's the Opinion of the Historians who had examined this Matter with the greatest Azziz c

(d) Taken from Dion Callius lib. 44 init (e) A phil epit Dion lib 44 init pag

(f) Tacit annal lib

(g) Plut in Bruto, PAG 1000 (b) Cicero ad Attic l 12 epift (1) Id 1b l 13 ep 8 (k) Seneca epist 95 (!) Cicero Tuscul I & de finib (m) Seneca consol ad Helviam (n) Apud Cicer 46 ad At (o) Plut in Bruto p 985 E (p) Dial iil l g c 4 pag m 448 (r) Cicero in Bruto, P m 447 (s) Id 16

* Plut in Bruto pag 985 See him also in Pompeio, pag 653

† 11 in

Bruto 16

| Id 1b Pag 986

Yet Moreri decides it. I say nothing of his Sins of adopted (i) by Julius Cefar

I cannot pals over in Silence the Proof that our Brutus gave of his love of Justice in the beginning of the War between Cafar and Pompey He was the Son of a Man whom Pompey had order d to be put to Death, so that he had the greatest Reason in the World to hate Pompey he had not diffembled his Hatred, he never vouchfafed to falute or speak to him, this caus'd a Belief that he would take Julius Cafar's part, nevertheless he embark'd in Pompey's Cause, which he took to be the (K) best, and justest, and the most for the Interest of the Country which he judged another to be preferr'd before any personal Considerations * I shall not mention the Tenderness Casar express'd for him before the Battle of Pharsalia, by the Orders he gave his Commanders to give him good Quarter, or even to let him escape if they could not prevail with him to yield † Nor will I mention the kind Reception he gave him after the Riehim to yield † Nor will I mention the kind Reception he gave him after the Battle, but I shall say a word or two of the private Conversation he had with him concerning the Road that Pompey might have taken Brutus spoke his Opinion after fuch a manner as made Cafar judge that Pompey had bent his course towards Egypt and in that he was right Some pretend that Bruius was much to blame in giving such a hint to the (L) Conqueror.

BRUTUS

(a) 'Ot of Papalon menterela gEnlanore Ut qui fagaciùs res Romanas investigafiripto tradiderunt (b) D10 lib 44 (c) AAAо Вуйт ... о Вуйт ... о ку тай... Jus ef au-78 € 77× 670-Sorarem (Fitelliorum IhabebatBrutus in matrimonio, &

ex ea nu-merofam prolem Plut in

Valerio pag 98 D (d) Dio mbi supra (e) Cicero Rhilipp 1 Philipp 2 what will bc said in the Article Cassius (b) Plut VITA Brutiinitio pag 984 () Sueto-

Aius in the I ife of Augustus gives the Offavian Esquily as on Expri-greatest exactness (a) whereof they bring divers proofs, and among others this following. The Junius's and the Brutus's of later times were of a Plebeian Family, as appears by the Tribuneships of the People which they had held Now it's certain that the Junius's of Tarquis's time were of a Patrician Family The Historian, I have cited, thinks this a very strong Reason Texasient Avantables. Signum cus facile contradics non possis Dion plainly declares, that the first Brusus caus'd the two only Children he had to be put to Death, who were yet but Youths (b) This, without doubt, is of greater weight than Plutarch's Authority, who says, that Brutus had several Children (c) Cicere having spoken in his Philipichs as an Orator, and not as an Historian, is not sufficient to weaken the Testian Historian, is not sufficient to weaken the Testimony of Dienyssus Hallicarnessens; and of Dieny However, he is a good Authority to shew that the Brutus s of his time pretended they were issued from him, who deliver'd Rome from the Tyranny of Tarquin, and Dien (d) does not depy but they made use of the Conformity of Names at Roma, to incite Brutus to conspire against Casar, as the ancient Brutus, of whom he was descended, say they, had conspir'd against Tarquinithe Proval Some may be pleas'd to sind Cicero's Words here Fuerit ille L. Brutus qui Cripse regio dominatus Rempublicam libera-Bruttus qui & ipse regio dominatu Rempublicam libera-vit, & ad similem virtutem & simile sactum sirpem jam prope in quingentesimum annum propagavit (e) Si auctores ad liberandam patriam desiderarentur illu autioribiu, Brutos ego impellerem, quorum uterque L Bruts imaginem quotidie videret, alter etiam Ahala. Hi igitur his majoribus ab alienis petsus consilium peterena quam à suis, & foris potius quam domi (f) No great stress is to be laid on these Words (g), because an Orator is not so much concern'd whether such Facts be true or no, he is fatisfy'd if only a part of the People believe them But here's an Historian, the People believe them But here's an randoman, who appears of Cicero's side, and alledges Proots Platarch affirms, that Marcus Brutus was descended from him who expell'd Tarquin, and that none but Julius Casar's Friends, in harred to the Murderer, maintain'd that the first Brutus left no Posterity, and that the other Brutus's were descended from the Steward of the first (b) He adds, That the Philosopher Posidonius affirm'd in one of his Books, that Lucius Brutus had three Sons, the last of whom was the Stock of the Family of the other Brutus, and that there were Illustrious Men of that Family in his own time, whose countenance resembled the Statue of Lucius Brutus Add to this that the reason which seems so strong to Dionysius Halicarnassens, is not unaniwerable, seeing there are examples of Ratrician Families which became Plabetans (1). A Learned Man fets forth that, according to Plutarch, the Enemies that Brutus had made himfelf by the Murther of Julius Cofar, maintain'd that this had happened to the Family Junia, Sed & first potule at Junia gens a patricis ad plebem transferrit, or Cribit. Plutarchy. foreing at Junia gens a patricus as piecem transports, & Gribit Plutarchus id ab its que eb Cafaris agent. Brutes erant infenst jusses, justing (L). Had Plutarch faid this he must lave classed directly, with common Sense What's to be done in this constitot of Arguments and Witnesses Quite the constrary to what Mr Abores has done, that is to remain Neuters but if one would be declive, he ought to present the Authority of Directions Halcompositions and Directions. the Authority of Dionysius Halicarnassensis and Dion, that of Cicero and Plutarch

(1) That he was adopted by Julius Cæsar] I do not think any credible Author ever said this It might indeed have been said that Cæsar call'd him his Son, and that he also believed himself to be his Father, because of his Galantries with Serviles the Father, because of his Galantries with Servilia the Mother of Brusus. See that Lady's Article

(K) Which he took to be the best and the justes? He was not one of those who hate the Tyrant, but not the Tyranny, or of those that love not Liberty, but the Person of him who declares for it. He hated Pompey, and yet he sided with him he had all the reason in the World to love Casar, and yet he conspired against him, it was because he believ'd that Pompey maintain'd the Cause of the Country, and that Casar was a Tyrant That Integrity of Heart in him was never contested, People judg'd otherwise of his Collegue Cassius, and most were perswaded that he labour'd more for his private Interest, than for the Advantage of bellum gerere & circumcursitare, & discrimina subire bellum gerere & circumcurstare, & discrimina subre potius ad quarendam sibi potentiam, quam civibus liberta tem. This may be confirmed by the other place of Plutarch (m) Anna Rassay, and the publicate, ny panta-idra propulation in north pure to appen to superior, ny nasharu-ten highland Bottom pure appen to appendix, Rassigno to appendix purely propulation. Ferans ferocis vir animi Cassus, maniference arisination Cassay. Quam publica turanno information contains. 3 we appear more. Ferram feroces wer anime Cassius, magisque prevatem Casare, quam publice tyranno infessus, incendit & simulavit Brutum Dicetur Brutus regnum non tulisse, Cassius odise regem It's thought that Pompey would not have made a good use of a Victory in case he had obtained it, but that he would have maintained in an Absolute Bours and the Title of properties. Power under the Title of perpetual Dictaror of Consul, or some other less invidous Name Cinna, Marius, and Carbon took up Arms only to become Tyrants the conquest of their Country was the prise they proposed themselves (n) but People (n) Id ib had quite another thought of our Brutus, his very knemies acquitted him in this Bours. Several had heard Mark Anthony say, that he may the only Man among the Conspirators who was carry'd away by the seeming Beauty of that Action Plutarch's Words have much force (a) Byeru 3 hiyuru unst the seeming Beauty of that Action Plutarch's Words have much force (b) Byeru 3 hiyuru unst the seeming Beauty of that Action Plutarch's Words have much force (a) Byeru 3 hiyuru unst the seeming was an animal than a market animal than the seeming was an animal to see expanying a seeming was an animal to see expanying and the pentilent no hoses quidem come objectass will be seen and animal than seeming which obliged Mark Anthony (p) to do so much honour to the dead Body of (q) Idib. Brutus, and Ossavius to leave (q) the Statue of that pag 1011-4 Hustrious Conspirator intire at Milan

(L) These Brutus, was much to blama in giving such Conful, or some other less invidious Name Cimie,

(L) That Brutus, was much to blame in giving such a Hint to the Conqueror I cannot approve the Annual logy which Dan Francisco de Quevado indeavours to commentate make for that Action He pretends that as things of the Life then, stood Brutus was permitted to revenge his of the Life Father's Death, by discovering to Cafar the Road of Brutus by which he was to pursue the conquered If by Pluthere were no better thoughts than this in (r) that

(m) Id 16 ['ag 987 D

BRUTUS (John Michael) a Learned Man in the XVIth Oentury, was a Namve of (A) Penice, and there happen'd something, I know not what, which oblig'd him to leave it, and which might make him be look'd on as an Exile. Fie Studied at Padoua, and happly'd himself chiefly to hear the Discourses, and the Lectures of Lazarus Bonamicus is the source. He travel'd (B) much, but that ambulatory Life did not hinder his becoming a Learned Man and an Author. He writ politely, though he a condemn'd the Scruples of the Ciceronian Sect, and he might have past for a very good Humanist. His Notes on (C) Horace, Castro, &c are very good Proofs of it. We shall see what he answer'd those with accused him of Plagiarism. He was not content with only writing of Books, but he took care also to search for (D) Manuscripts, and bid is publish them. He pass'd some Years at Lyons, from whence he went in all like-pass 509 yhood to Basel. He there a met with great Civilines from the Learned Theodore Zupland, Author of the Theatrum with humana. He came to Transslvania y about the pass 515. Examining of the Year 1574. He was invited thisher by (E) Prince Stephen Battors in order.

paniard sWriting they'd never have been so much steem'd as they justly are I should rather alledge n Brutus's Justinostian, I That he was not intuited with Pamping Secret concerning the choice n Brutus's Justification, I That he was not introfted with Pompre's Secret concerning the choice of a Place of Retreat 1 That he did not see how by communicating his Conjectures to Caser, he ould make the unhappy Fate of the Fugitive worse, for perhaps he imagin'd, that Egypt would be thought so good a Retreat, that they would not hink sit to Attack Pompey there. However it be, et's here admire the Sagacity of his Judgment, he sues'd very right what Way the conquer'd Chief and chosen. He was no worse a Prophet in another Conjuncture, which was, when he condemn'd wark Anthony's Imprudence, who, having had it in his power to be nam'd among the Brutus's, the Cassius's, and the Cases, had joyn'd himself as a Second to Ottavius. If they are not beaten together, said the Cases, had joyn'd himself as a Second to Ottavius. If they are not beaten together, faid he, they will soon be seen in Arms against each other (a)

(A) Was of Venice, and there happen'd semething, I know not what, which oblig'd him to leave it] The Words I am going to Copy, and which are taken from the 1007th Page of the new Edition of his Letters, testify, that he did not leave his Country willingly, and that neverthesels, he left it without any blemish to his Honour. Nam quod illa (patria) hoc tempore caree, neque ulla illus culps hoc, mone dedecare ulla mea accidit. (ed fortune interior

What he answer'd those who accus'd him of Plagiarism,] His Observations on the four Books of the Odes of Hornee, and on the Epodon, were printed at Venice, by Paulus Manutius, with those of Lambinus, in the Year 1566, in 410. His Scholia on Julius Casar, were printed by the same Manutius in the Year 1564, in 800. They are inserted in the Ldition of Jungerman at Franckfort, in the Year 1606, as the Journalists of Utrechs observe (g), who observe also that he caus'd the Works of Gicero with Notes, to be printed in Twelves, by Anthony Gryphius, in the Year 1571. They tell us, what I have to say on the other Point of my Text. He had been accus'd of having made tie of Lambin's Observations on Gicero, he writ to Lambin, That he might go to the I oun-

1698 pag

(e) In Tuly

(a) Plut en Bruto P#g *997

having made use of Lambin's Observations on Giero, he writ to Lambin, That he might go to the I ountain-head as well as he, and when he made use of another Writer's Thoughts, he cited him punctually, whereby he secur'd himself from all Reproach (b) Journot Plagiarism, for this was borrowing, and not nald Urobbing "(b) Palsam hanc opinionem Lambino eritecht ubi per conatar, his inter also verbis atens (i) Quin-supra pag quits is est, qui me in his, que icripta edidi, 565, 566 surripuisse ab uso affirmet, que transferrem in mea, is neque plane me novit, & facit ipse ut seque plane me novit, & facit ipse ut seque plane me novit, & facit ipse ut seque plane me ut enim qui aqua (i) Brutus indigent, ubi facultas sit, è sonte sumere, quam pag 599 è rivo malunt, egentes, divitum adire, quam epissol ins è literis & ab ingenio paratus, cum mihi citae ibid iidem fontes pateant, è quibus tu haussist, soniidem fontes pateant, è quibus tu haussis, (non-dum enim exaruerunt) æque pateant eorum pe-nerialia, &c stulte faciam, si de tuo surripiam, non minus quam tu, fi inducas animum furripere de meo Postes addit, se sampsife quidem ab

alis, non vero sarripuise Sumere enim eum, qui, a quo mutuctur, indicet, & laudet, quem auttorem habest Surripere vero qui taceat, qui ex alterius industris stuttum quarat, quad quidem a se omino alienum esse dicit" Fhele Gentlemen cannot tella supharhar hie Book de insurarian italia vica una un probabla proposition de la vica una supharhar hie Book de insurarian italia vica una una us, whether his Book de inftauratione Italia was ever publish d I know nothing of it He mentions it out any blemish to his Honour Nam quod illa (patria) hoc tempore careo, neque ulta ilius culpa hoc, neque dedecore ullo meo accidit, sed fortana injuria Ejus enim mibi iniquitate creptus eff inter meos locus Ejus enim mihi iniquitate crestus est inter mois locus quem Majores mei per CCC dinas retinuerunt honestissimum. This, you'll say, dipes not prove that he was of Venice, but you'll not doubt it if you confuit the fequel of that Patiage. Que quidem, continued he, speaking to a Vene ian, who exhorted him to write the History of the Republick of Venice, to write the History of the Republick of Venice, sum adjum, non posum aquo animo carere, fore ut alignate sum adjum, non posum aquo animo carere, fore ut alignate sum adjum, non posum aquo animo carere, fore ut alignate program aquo animo carere, fore ut alignate program and the parties to positive the patria nostra hadeen, qui has illi partes to deai esse to positive presente presente sum and positive moritus, fumini hominis, & quorum est apua positive merito futurum femper illustra nomen, simul etiam cum iis est lumen cloquentia in ciralina eximistum

What he answer'd those who accus'd him of Plagiarism.]

n the 629, 1007 and 1071 Pages of his Fpiftles, and cites Fragments of it By the way, what he composed on Casar, did not confift wholly in Scholia and in varial lettiones He gives a more advantageous Idea of it in the Passage I am going to tianiciibe (k) Habeo in manibus Cafaris commentarior, multis à me animadversionibus emendatos, quibus 220 justum volumen accedet, in quo, certo ordine, polit si-mi scriptoris voces phrasesque omnes, tum, quod permagni faciendum est, revum omuium descriptiones in locos com-munes redatta habentur, ut si cui sit scribenda historia

& lauta supeller, & luculenta ex tanti scriptor is monumentis ad ea ornanda atque dustranda que velit, sup-peditentur Eum librum Bastlea excusum animus est in-

for itere Transstvania principi (D) To search for Manuscripts and to print them] He was the first that published the ten Books of Birtholomen Facius de rebus ab Alphonso I rege Neapolitano gestis He got em Printed at Lyons by Gryphius in the Year 1560, in 4to Iwo Years after he publist of the least 1505, in 410 Inshire the least 1505, in the fame place Francisci Contarent libros tres de rebus in Hetruria a Senensibus gestis A Work that was reprinted at Vinice in the Year 1623, in 410 In the (1) Year 1582, he published in Poland the (1) Brut three Books of Callimachus Experiens de ribus gestis 16 p 366

Uladifiai Ungarorum & Polonorum Rezis

(E) Invited thither by Prince Stephen Battori]

Simon Forgats who had a design to write a History of Hungary, desir'd to have (m) John Michael Brutus with him, to be issisted in that Labour, and to that pag 2-2

Pag 2-2

Only 100 Pag 2-1 end propos'd fuch honourable and advantagiou.

sus epistol gag 1064 See also

(f) Qui mores hominum multarum vidit & urbes Horat de arte poet

10 116s. P#8 432

fire co perveniendi, quo contendo, non ingenio confido magis, cujus haud me pænitet tamen, quam diligentia & fludio, usu quidem rerum tanto, quantum esse in eo homine aquum est, qui magnam Europa partem, aulai sere Regumomnium maximorum per summum otium lustravit Itaque si que misi incommoda (id quod necesse suit) tot terras obeunti obtigerunt, sit quidem seusti, quem ex sis catica, maximo quidem ac userrimo, cerum etiam ut mish sit jucumda recordatio. He is right in maintaining is very useful to those who compose a History. They ought all to deserve that what was said of They ought all to deserve that what was said of

(f) Uliffes, might be apply'd to them
(C) His Notes on Horace, Cæsar, Cicero

F Id ib pag 294 sem p69 E Id ib Pag 511 See also PAS 293 · ld sb Pag 330 × Ibid.pag 328, 329 A Ibid p 898 1 Ibid pag 901 · Ibid pag 900 " 16 d pag 355 I lbid Pag 510 * Ibid Pag 283 † 1 Speak of him in theRemark C of the Article Gretferus He had been preceptor to the Prince

Electoral

of Brandenbourg

1 This does not agree with what has been

Francis Lucinus, to the Author, shid pag 1145

(a) Ibid

pag 225

(b) Ibid

(c) Ibid pag 216

(d) Ilid

pag 86

(e) Ibid

Pag 222

(f) Ibid

(g) Ibid

PAE 294 (b) Ibid

P 74, 75

(i) Ibid pag 80

(k) Ibid

207

(1) Ibid PAS 207 (m) Ib d

pag 219 (n) lbid pag 206 (o) Ibid pag 230 (p) Ibid

compose * a History of that Country, and values himself mightly ? on the Reception he met there One of his Letters dated from Cracow the 23d of November 1577, informs us that he had followed that Prince then King of Poland to the Expedition of Proffia He had a convenient Appartment assign'd him in the Castle of Cracow , that he might apply himself with more freedom to his (F) Functions of Historiographer He lest Poland after the Death of that Monarch, and lived with William of St Clement Ambassadour from the King of Spain to the Imperial Court He was honoured " with the Title of his Imperial Majesty's, Historiographer. He was at Prague on the first of January 1590. which is • the Dates of a Book that he dedicated to the Spanish Ambassador whom I have mention'd. He must have been at that time 73, fince in a Letter dated the 19th of August 1582, he takes notice that he had a attain'd to his 65th Year He makes mention of his || Daughter's Mariage in a Letter dated from Clausemburgh the 23d of January 1574 He had a great share in the Friendship of Dudithius, and in that of Crato The latter had persuaded the *Emperor Maximilian to retain him in his service I cannot tell what became of John Michael Brutus after the Year 1590, nor where nor when he died His Writings which were become very scarce were so earnestly sought after by the best Judges, that the hearing that † Mr Cramer had undertaken to procure a new Edition of them, caused an exceeding Joy in the Republick of Learning. The first Part of that Defign (G) is already accomplished, and the rost is promised in a little time. It's said, that the History of Florence composed by our Brutus, and printed at Lyons in 1562, is not favourable 4 to the House of Medicis, and that it displeased the Duke of Florence very Among the Letters of this Author, I have not found that which he had promiled to add to them, and in which he delign'd (H) to treat of an ill Custom intro-

Conditions to him, as he thought might draw him into Transylvania Brutus (a) was then at Venice, and did not ieem very fond of that Journey, for (b) nothing was concluded eight Years after, at last the Butiness was brought about, he sent word (c) ty a Letter dated from Basis the 1st of June 1572, that he would speedily set forward, and yet he took a Journey into France before he began the other I find that he writ a (d) Letter to the Prince of Transylvania, dated from Lions the 1st of June 1573, and that he departed from Lions (c) the 17th of Osober of the same Year He arriv'd at Vienna in Aussira (f) the 24th of November following

(F) To his Functions of Histographer] He was to begin where Bonshius had ended, and to carry on the History of that Country to his own time (g) It appears by a Letter he writ to the King of Poland the 1st of December 1579, that he apply d himself diligently to that Function, and that of (b) the twelve Books into which the Work was to be divided, four which reach'd to the Year 1542, were Conditions to him, as he thought might draw him

written by divided, four which reach'd to the Year 1542, were finish'd He owns that he makes use of Paulus fo-Places where that Author is mistaken, or wanted ample and exact Instructions He proposed (1) after he should have finish d these twelve Books, to write the History of Steehen Batteri in particular A Letter he writ the 15th of January 1578, testifies the extream Passion he had to perform all the Duties of an Historian well, for he desir'd very earnessly (k) that he might be permitted to consult the Records, and to send for the Library that he had lest in Transjournia Heobserves, that it is not large but considered to choose Books, and of the large, but confifts of choice Books, and of the best Lditions, (1) ut numero non ita copiosa est, at libris optimis, atque ex elegantissimis editionibus est instructa He had put the Charges of the Carringe of his Books in the Articles of Agreement, and he de-clar'd that he could not live without his Library clar'd that he could not live without his Library (m) Pramissis, cum alies impedimentis, bibliotheca, qua quidem carere, at divi, nist with simul mini carendum sit, baud facile possum. He observes also (n), that the Bookiellers of Basil were inquiring already for his History of Hungary. He informs us by a Letter written from Cracow the 7th of February. bruary 1580, that as to the bulk, his Labours equal'd the (o) three first Books of Casar, and reach d to the taking of Lippa He adds, that he had made very good use of the Work (p) of Ascanius Centorius, and that they who would examine after what manner he were recorded as the latest was the latest after what manner he writ, would not think it ftrange that his Book was so small (q) Multum inquis imo tum videbitur multum, ubi leges non quantum scripferim solum, sed quid & quemadmodum id adeo scripserim

(G) The first part of that Design is already accom-plish d | See the Book intituled Joh Michaelis Bruti opera varia feletta, nimirum epistolarum libri V de hi-floria laudibus, sive de ratione legendi scriptores historicos liber praceptorum conjugalium liber, epistolis & orati-ouibus compluribus editione Racoviensi austiora. It was Printed at Berlin in the Year 1698, in 8ve, and contains 1155 Pages That Second Edition is more ample than the first which is that of Cracow 1582 for two Letters are added to it, that Gravius had obtain'd from the Library of Br flaw, and the Letters of our Brutus, which were inferted in the Collection epistolarum clarorum virorum, that he had caus d to be printed at Lions in the Year 1561

(H) In which he design d to speak of anill Custom of giving the same lofty Titles This I found in a Letter he writ to Crato in the Year 1582 (r) Credo te miraturum, cum mihi summi homines multi, im his sint maximi reges appellandi, parcum me esse his, titulis honestandis, cum nullo meo incommodo liceat in hoceancre officii essus cise De quibus titulis adeo mihi parum opportunis animus est epistolam scribere, quam aliis attexam. He afterwards exclaims against the reigning Vanity among the meanest newscap are riteram He afterwards exclaims against the reigning Vanity among the meanest private Persons of expecting in the Addresses of Letters, and in publick Acts, the Title of magnifici, clarissimi, atque amplissimi, and the necessity of having recourse to the Substantives, Majesty, Highness, &c in speaking to Kings and Princes He adds, That upon pretence, that the Title of Excellency was abased by having been bestow'd on Physicians and Lanuage. having been bestow'd on Physicians and Lawyers, the Lord of a small State had us'd so many Arguments and Intreaties with the Pope, that at last he had granted him the Title of Highness See here his Words at length (1) Tanta autem hominum levitas in hat nescio qua gloriola titillatione, ut nullus sis hoc tempore in Europa regulus, quin se altum, Sublimem, Excelsum appellari velit nullus tam tenuis census privatus, quin sibi clamet insignem fieri injuriam, nisi illi magnifici, clarissimi, atque amplissimi nomen in litera-rum inscriptionibus, publicis actis, regum diplomatis extet, quasi tituli viros pariant, non titulos viri quod cum est nobis cum regibus & viris principibus loquen-dum, cogimur ab iis recedentes per abstracta nomina qui-bus vulgo utuntur in Philosophorum scholis, cum corunt majestatibus loqui, altitudines affari, & quas vos Ger-mani invexistis celsitudines, nostris Sublimitates invidentes Nihil verius est quam tenuis ditionis principem hoc tempore, cum Excellentia contempta, quast obsolevis-Set inter medicos & legulejos, ac minorum gentium regu-los, majora ambiret, diu egisse apud pontisicem maximum, ut se altitudinis titulo honestaret, cum minus illo aquo utcretur, non prius orare, fatigare precibus, contendere desisse, quam exoratum in sententiam traduxerit. Quod frustra contendisse N civitas dicitur, cum Serenitatis titulum Venetorum principi, propter civitatis amplitudinem concession, pontifex negaret se passurum vilescere per minores potestates ovulgatum. The last part of this Passinge informs us that the Pope was inexorable with regard to a small Republick which desir'd the Title of Serenity Things are strangely alter'd for the worse, since the Death of John Michael Brutus Such a Title as would have fatisfy'd the most exceffive Vanity in the Year 1582, is at present an in-tollerable burden of which People indeavour to be deliver'd by the Acquisition of some more

(s) Id eb.

pompous

PAZ 228 (4) Ibid pag 230

duc'd a long time ago, of giving the same lossy titles to Persons whom we write to in $ 111.d Latin, as are given in the vulgar Tongue. Ancient Rome had no such utage in the pag 312 time of its greatest Glory, and of its most accomplishe Politeness. Brutus would problem. not conform to the new Style, though he (I) writ to some Polish Lords Let's not pag 520 forget that he indured much vexation in Poland, he had Enemies there who did him Pland page feveral ill Offices, and blafted his Reputation his Salary 2 was foill paid, that 302 he was afraid he fracilit be obliged to contract new Debts, and that Fear could not but Adam in be most uneasy to a Man like him who had more than once felt the rigour of Cre- nit Theoditors He had reduced handle of a long time to a small Expense, the better to main- log pag tain (K) his Credit without troubling any Body, and by that Frugality had laid up to something out of his first Year's Salary which serv'd to pay the most pressing Debts then trateglus He proposed to fave as much out of his fecond Year's Salary, and full with the same in elemgood Design
the pag
BRUTUS (Stephen Junius) a disguis'd Author of a Book of Politicks, Intitul'd, Scientife
Timeleouse contra tyrannos
See Languer.

BUCER (Martin) a Protestant Divine, was horn * at Schlestadt in 1491, and died Chronog at Cambridge in 1551† He was one of the Abiest Munisters of his Century He pag 756 could not only penach and compose Books and Lectures, but was also very fit to manage Businesse and there were but sew Ecclesialized Negociations in which he was more employed. The labour'd with great Zeul, and with much Dexterity to pacifie the him a Nature of the compose of the labour'd with great Zeul, and with much Dexterity to pacifie the him a Nature of the compose of the labour'd with great Zeul, and with much Dexterity to pacifie the him a Nature of the compose of the labour'd with great Zeul, and with much Dexterity to pacifie the him a Nature of the compose of the labour'd with great Zeul, and with much Dexterity to pacifie the him a Nature of the compose of the labour description of the Differences between the Lutherans and the Euonghams, but could not compais it the with'd that both Parties had been less rigid; and if all the Heads had been Persons fourged a Reconciling Temper like him, that great Affair might have succeeded happily the did not triffe his time in England, in running down (A) the Hierarchy, he did Adam is nothing less than follow Calvin's Judgment in this Point. The Bishop of Meaux Pag 220 her his for a Kinne and alledges (B) Calvin's Testimony for the history of the history o Differences between the Lutherans and the Zuenglians, but could not compass it He tive of endeavours to make him pass for a Knave, and alledges (B) Calvin's Testimony for see his if volume of it, but it's better to believe that for the sake of Unity, and out of an ardent and sinless have a favourable occasion of giving forme of less have a favourable occasion of giving some of my Collections on this Subject

(1) Would not conform to the now Style, the be verit to fome Poirsh Lords] There are but few Countries in which they are more mee on this point than in Poland, and yet our Brutus dispens'd with all Ceremonies that might make him deviate from the Parity of the ancient Language of Rome This was his only Motive Pride had no part in his Conduct, he confidend no other Interests than those of a good Latin Writer. He mee sunt litters ad to prime, they she, (a) in a Letter to John Ponetowiki, quist ut sites ad regem etiam, Romano more. Also possible a me omnia imperare, to colore, observare, serve in ocalis, sei quod compons and sublime Expression I shall doubtless have a favourable occasion of giving some of my Collections on this Subject

(1) Would not conform to the now Style, the be verit to ime Polish Lords. There are but sew Countries in which they are more nice on this point than in Poless that might make him deviate from the Perity of the ancient Language of Rome. This was his only Motive Pride had no other interests than those of a good Lalim Writer. He mee Junt litera ad to prime, they he,
(a) in a Letter to John Ponetowiki, quint at me omine

To Calvinism: & fatebastur Calvinismum, Buccerismam effe magis tolerabilem, quam Calvinismum, si ad Buccmam effe magis tolerabilem, quam Calvinismum, si ad Buccmand obrussam dere mangis tolerabilem, quam Calvinismum, si ad Buccmam effe magis tolerabilem.

Toution dere magis tolerabilem, quam Calvinismum, si ad Buccmam effe magis tolerabilem.

Toution dere magis tolerabilem exige or exige and a Buccmand obrussam carvinismum admiterative si ad Buccmam effe magis tolerabilem exige or exi "nefmus, &c" Hero's another Passage in which mecum Calvin exhiorts Bucer to order matters so, that reputo, the Reformation of England may be well purg'd quantum of all Remains of Popery He lets him know in unius that if he does not take pains, he'll never be hominis able to wipe out the all Suspicions which fee morte juveral had conceived of his inclining to both fide. Sturam veral had conceived of his inclining to both fides theram

(e) Dominum Protestorem, at volebas, constus sum horfari, ut flagitabat present rerum status vutum quoque erit modis sonnibus inflare, si modo detur audientia (quod te facere sum persuasus) presertim voro, ut vitus qui superstissons aliquid reablent, sellansur e medio. Hoc esperstissons apud multes non ignoras nam medius tonsillis pri autiorem, vel approbatorem semper inscribunt Scio hanc quorundam animis suspicionem altius infunt Scio hanc quorundam animis suspicionem altius inbunt Scio hanc quorundam animis suspicionem altius infunt est sum qui te maligne insulo errore industi collumniantur. Denique fatale quodammodo hoc tibi endumniantur. Denique fatale quodammodo endumniantur.

"He Colorin (f) tellifice that he expected

"measure his Disciple, when he would express a re electron"blameable-Observey, in a Passession of Faith, reason,
"faid that (1) There was nothing so purplexed, liv 4
"fo obscure, so ambiguous, so winding in Bucer n 25 par
"himself" "Here use Calvin's own Words, Tu 167 ct.

Bucers obscurratem videoperate & merito altothibil est de Holl in Bucers obscurratem videoperate & merito altothibil est de Holl in Bucers obscurratem, obscurum, sext bequam, atque, (1) Ep Calur sic lequar, corrassum (b) I do not rely on the vin p 50 disalvantageous Judgment that a Divide of Saxony (b) Calvin made of Bucer after the Confedences of Marpour in spif 44 the P m 94 rin epiff 44 the P m 94 cere des Varia-

(a) Id ib dib 4 pag

449, 450 See also

245 256

cere Delire of Peace, Buctr invented Expressions that were likely to please both Parties It is very probable that he always believ'd good Works (C) meritorious There has been much talk of a Letter (D) he writ to Calvin. He had relatione de conven tu Marpurgensi a-pudSeckendorf Histor Lutheran lib 2 pag 140 (b) Befuet Bishop of Meann Histoire des variations liv 3 # 42. 43 PAE 124, 125 (1) Disp Lips an 1539

(2) Resp

(a) Justus the Year 1529 In Zuinglie, fays he (a) agreste quod-Jonas in dam est & arrogantulum in Occolampadio mira boni-relatione tai natura & clementia en Hodione non minor humani-de conven-tas ac liberalitas ingenti in BUCERO calliditas vulpina, perverse instata acumen & prudentiam

(C) That he always believed good Works meritories? "

(b) While we are on this Matter, it will (continue to the second not be useless to consider what this Doctor according to his Works, it must not be denied, thus good Works perform'd thre' the Grace of Jefus Christ, and which he operates himself in his Servants, do mirit eternal Life, not indeed by their own Dignity, but by the Acceptation and the Promise of God, and thre' the Covenant made with him For 'tis to fach thro the Covenant made with him. For the to such Works the Scripture promofes the Reward of eternal Life, which therefore is not less a Grace in another respect, for a smuch as those good Works to which so great Reward is given, are themselves the Gifts of God. This is what Bucer writes in 1539, in the Dispute of Leipsich, that it may not be thought that these these there things wenter in the Regionism.

that these were things wratten in the Beginning of the Reformation, and before People had time to look about em Upon the same Principle the same Bucer (2) decides in another place, That it must not be denied that one may be justified by Works, as St James says, seeing God will render to every one according to his Works. And, continues he, the Question is not concerning their Merit. We do not reject in any mise, and we acknowledge that eternal Life is merited according to that Word of our Lord He who forskes all for my take, shall receive an hundred Fold, and inherit everlasting Life One cannot possibly acknowledge more clearly the

Merats which every one may treasure up himself, even with regard to Life eternal Bucer goes yet farther And as the Church was accused of ascribing Merits to the Saints, not only for themselves, but also for others, he justifies it in these Words As for what concerns the

"Rifies it in these Words As for what concerns the Publick Prayers of the Church, which are called Collects, wherein mention is made of Prayers, and of the Merits of the Saints; seing that in those same Prayers whatever is ask'd of that kind, is ask'd of God, and not of the Saints, and also that it is ask'd for Jesus Christ's sake, it follows, that all they who offer up their Prayers, acknowledge that all the Merits of the Saints are Gifts of God freely granted And a little after For we confess also, and preach with Joy, that God do s not only reward the good Works of his Servants in themselves, but also in those for whom they pray, seing he has promised that he will do good to those who love him anto a thousand, Generations. Thus Bucer disputed for the Catholick Church in 1546, in the Conference at Ratisbon," To these allages may be added that which Vostius mentions Passages may be added that which Vossius mentions in the Letter I have cited: (c) Non possium non samus judicium optare quibusdam, qui boc nostro saculo plurimes admedum turbarunt hec paradox, sola nos side servari. Cum viderent tamen hoc eo rapi, ac si justitiam Sola animi existimatione finirent, & bona opera Secludo-rent Qua jam illa Charitai, qua buic male, une ver-bule mederi dedignatur? ut diseret fide formata juftificamur, ant per fidem benerum Operum, voluntatem, at ita justitiam consequimur, aut fides est fundamentum, se radice est, susta vita, ut Augustinus dinit. Negue-veris enim quiquam est estemadus, &c. Vassius observes that these Words are taken from the Edition of that these Words are taken from the Edition of Serasburgh 1529, and that they have been corrupted in the Edition of Geneva 1554. He observes in general, that to know that Minister's Moderation, his Writings must be consulted as printed in Germany, and not in the Editions of Geneva, (d) Gensulteda funt ediciones the quas nois Germania products, non qua en sententia Galvini castrata products Geneva Cum vera omnia fere Bucere sint moderatissima, tum interioris prafatio in commentarias super quatum Even-cum vere omnia fere Bucere sint moderatissima, tum imprimis prafatio in commentarios super quature Evengelisas in editione Argentorasensi anni cio 10 xxx, qua & 19sa praterita in editione Rob Staphani cio 10 liii (D) There has been much talk of a Letter he writ to Calvin] It is said that he written him, Tui sudge uccording as you love, or according as you hate; or you love and hate from meer Fancy Visine who was a good Arminion in his Heart takes this up a fittle too hardly, and tells what Colom aniwer'd to to injurious a Reproach (e) Calvinus sic à magne vire incropitus respondure hac (f) esse genis potius sui, quam ibid judicis; & (us Calvini iossus verba, ad Bucerum retineam) sic serbera, Ut verum tretar, nulla missi cum to say, to maximis, & plurimis vitiis meis, difficultor est lube transmaximis, & plurimis vitiis meis, difficilior est lube transcta, quam cum ista impatientia, neque certe nihil ported an proficio, sed nondum id sum consecutus, ut bellugainst am plane domuerim Hac sane satis modeste, si id those who postes tensecutus. Illud vere concoquere non potust, quad were not of idem Bucerus, qui eum vel noras, vel nosse puisabut, mon his Opiniveritus estes saribere, Judicas prout amas, vel odisti, en amas autern, vel odisti prout luber. Quod cum legiste, literas scripsis, quarum hoc initium. Cum literæ tuæ mihi sub cænam allatæ estent, tanto gaudio perstusis sui, ut non memberim tribus totis mensibus, lætiorem mihi horam assulssis estentis. At cum-eas super cænam, utcumque percurrissem, lectione in thought of it, who was one of the Heads of the second Party of the new Reformation, in a solemn Conference where he spoke in these terms (1) Seeing God will judge every one fuper conam, utcumque percurrissem, lectione 1fuper comam, utcumque percurriiem, lectione ipla, fic fui flagellatus, ut proxima nocte irrequietus semper astuarim, nec toto post triduo suerim apud meipsiim, &c In all probability we should never have known of this Letter, if Mencis Baudenin who lodged with Colum had not been so dishonest as to reveal the Secret He did it by degrees. First he only said, that in Buce's Judgment Colum kent no measure either in his Inventor. ment, Calvin kept no measure either in his Love or Hatred, or that he either rais'd People above the Heavens, or funk them down to Hell Calvin protested with an Oath, that Bucer had never cen-fur'd him so (g) Quin etiam Buceri judicium reci-tat (Balduinus) qued ab 1950 improbissime confittum esse Deum & Angelos ejus testor Bucerus, inquit, aliquando spons ad tibi dinit, nullum te servare odis vel amoris modum, sed Balduses te esse vehementia, ut vel supra calos attolleres, vel num pag ad inferos usque desiceres. Its vero mini propitius sit 367 cel Deus, si quid unquam tale audierim. Quin potius vir ille, quem laco patris reverebar, tanta comitate visissima tuum The fraternam mecum amicitiam coluit, ut agerrime passus logicorum sum Argentina me avells. Certe adextremum usque con-tendit, quibuscunque fieret modis me retinendum. Ex-tant etiam ejus ad Senatum nestrum litera, quibus conqueritur cum maxima Ecclesia totius jactura me huc retrahi ac demum eo usque provenitur, ut aten me en estana decirina ministros nemini esse secundum, paucos vero habere pares Baudonin (h) confesses in his Answer, (h) Franthat he had not seen what Bucer had writ to Calvin, esseus al duinus Answer to Bucer He duinus al fays that Answer was of Calvin's own Hand, and responsione that he shewed it to several who knew the Au- altera ad thor's Hand-writing, and he maintains that the Letter testifies that Bucer had tax'd Calvin with thor's Hand-writing, and he maintains that that Jo Calvi-Letter testifies that Bucer had tax'd Calvin with num gag judging according to his Passion, judicas prout amas, 56, edit amas autem prout libes It appears by that Answer of Coloniensis Baudoun, that his Adverlary had complain'd that by and Jo what Bucer had said in general, and without exclud-Bathen-ing himself, was apply'd to him personally (1) judi-camus prout amamus, &c But Baudoum maintains that Cabvin had made the Application of it to himself (1) See The only'thing that sticks in this Process, is Calvin's Theodore Oath, yet it is easie to ward that Blow, by main-taining that Baudoum had express thimself in such spoons at a manner as to make People judge that Bucer had Francisa manner as to make People judge that Bucer had made use of that hard Centure in Conversation. Now it is certain, that Calvum had never received this Reproach in so publick a manner, so that he might safely swear what he did Read what fellows a safe has been made for the fellows. lows, it's the Apology that Beza made for him in this point: (k) At enim, inquis, impressure of fibi (k) Betta Calvinus fi quid unquam tale en Bucero audiffet Vo- ubi supra rum sur su emittis quad ad rem manime faus, spenian-ta? Nam has sunt Calvini uerha, Buccrum inquit Balduinus aliquando mihi dixisse, nullum me fer-vare odij vel amoris modum sed ea me esse vehevare odij vel amoris modum sed ea me este vehementia, ut vel supra cœlos attollerem, vel ad inferos usque dejicerem sta verò mihi propitsus sit Dous, si quid unquam tale audierim vides manifeste, sycophanta, etiamsi iracundia & odio catul ni-hil vides, quà de Bucci objungatione obscure seripseres, Calvinum ut de quopiam colloques accepiste, ac proinde memorem esui suavisme, d'nunquam interiupta conmentente que interse de Eucèrniu fusses, non temere in vocam illam erupise. Nibil bac igistà ad literar, anas iblas etiam carrumpis. Reque anim seripseras Buquas plas ettam corrumpts Reque anim fripferat Bu-cerus, cujus a universor habemus Ita judicas ut amas, sed, Ita judicamus ut amamus se mimirum ut sese

ibid
(f) That's

(E) Calvia nus in re-2 Traffetuum Thean

Jo Calvi-

Francisdusinum pag m

PAE

I have corrested the Faultsthat are creps into this

(r) Bucerus commentar ın Psalm

2 apud

Fossium c-pist 457 pag 403 col 2

Paffage of Voffius (d) Vof-

(a) See the Remarks ricleWida

(E) several Children, but I cannot well tell what became of them. What several Writers affirm that he died a Jew, and what Sanders (F) reports of a certain Conver- Teiffer fation ought to be look d upon as notorious Calumnys. You find in Mr. Teiffer * Addit ou the Elogies which the Learned Historian of the Reformation of England has given some this I pag 30.

(6) In matrimonio tredecies puerpera, pudicitia, oc in omni actione modestia multis bono exemplo fue lanchthon parte 2 oper apud Scekendorf Hift Lutheran l 3 pag 440 Intera w

> (c) Tandem peste quam, nıli Statione fua non discedentr, adefie maluisset effugere potuerit. obierit venerabile Capitulum Ecclesia Coloniensis de vocatione Martini Bucers fel 161

(e) Historie des variations livre n 3 p

(f) See the Critique generale de l'Histoire du Calvinisme de Maimbourg lettre 9 pag 155 de la

(g) Sande-Tus du schisme d Angleterre, liv 2 pag m 253

(h) Ant Poffevinus de Atheifmis here-$1 COTUM m 23

m hot et sam numero comprehenderet, & commune bominum wittum deploraret Beza remarks among other things, that those two great Men foon after'd their Style in Writing to each other, and that there are Letters of Bucer to Calum of a later date, and full of Mild-of Bucer to Calum of a later date, and full of Mildness

(E) He had had several Children I Herman de Wida, Archbishop of Cologne, having a mind to settle the Reformation in his Diocess, (a) sent for Marin Bucer in the Year 1542, most of the Canons oppos'd the Enterprize, and publish'd a Work wherein they mix'd a great many Investives against Bucer. They tax'd him, among other things, with Bigamy Melansthon in confuting that Writing, did not forget this Article He maintain'd, that the Nun whom Bucer had marry'd for his first Wise, did well in forshing the Chuich of Rome, after she had discover'd the Idolatry of its Worship He added, (b) that she had led a very exemplary Lise, as to her Chastity, Modesty and Piety, that she had been brough to Bed thirteen times, and (c) that she dy'd of the Plague, which she might have escap'd if she would have less ther Husband Pity so fruitful a Maid should remain in a Nunnery And as there may be many others, as sit to People the World, who are hinder'd by Monasteries, one may easily judgewhat a prejudice these Monastical Vows do to the temporal good of the State Bucer marry'd a second time to a Widow, which gave the Canons of Cologne occasion to reproach him with another Irregularity, because according to St Pasul, a Bishop ought only to be the Husband of one Wise, that is. gularity, because according to St Psul, a Bishop ought only to be the Husband of one Wife, that is, objectit ought only to be the Husband of one Wife, that is, as they pretended, that he ought not to marry again, or ought not to marry a Widdow (d) Verbum Dei docet adscissendum Ministerio, operater esse via delettosia delettosia delettostrum per tellexerunt, at secundar nuptuis copulatus, aut qui viducontact and the secundary and sur ministerio tellexerunt, ut secundis nuptiis copulatus, aut qui viduam accepit non possit esse ex numero corum qui ministerio sacro describint. Melanchihon consutes this Objection cassiy. Mr de Meaux says, that Bucer marry'd a third time, he says, (e) That Bucer was a Man Learned enough, of a stexible Spirit, and more fertile in Distinctions than the most resin'd Scholassicks, a sine Preacher, somewhat heavy in his Style, but commanded by his Stature, and by the sound of his Voice. He had been a lacobur, and marry describers did, and as one ed by his Stature, and by the found of his Voice He had been a Jacobin, and marry d as others did, and as one may fay, more than others, feeing that his Wife dying, he marry'd a second and a third time The holy Fathers and mot receive those into the Priciphood, who had been twice marry'd while I aware This Man Laws had been twice marry'd while Laymen This Man being a Priestand a Monk, marry'd three times during his new Ministry, witha Monk, marry a three times during his new Ministry, without scruple. It was a recommendation to him in the Party and by those bold Examples they affected to consound the superstitutes Observances of the ancient Church What Mr de Meaux observes, that in these Times Marriage was a Recommendation in the Party, is not altogether false, for it's certain, that if a converted Clergyman did not marry, he would have coursed a superstance has been preserved. caus'd a supicion that he had not renounc'd the Doctrine of Celibacy I believe Bucer insinuated this Reason (f) to Calvin when he press d him to marry Sanders reports, That the Visitors who marry Sanders reports, That the Vilitors were establish d in England under Edward VI horted the Clergy to marriage, as a certain Token that they had abjur'd Popery "(g) They made first enquiry about the Continency of the Pa"ftors, and had the Impudence to ask them pub-" lickly, How, being in Health and Youth, they could possibly live chaste? Whether they had the Gift of Chastiry, and what assurance they had it should be always vouchssed to 'em? They advis'd 'em therefore to marry rather than have on fall and Sing the Year the standard of the standard "They advis'd 'em therefore to marry rather than burn, or fall into such Sins the very thought of which gives a Detestation Lastly, they told "em plainly, That they took all those for Papists, and the King's Enemies, who prefer'd a dangerous Celibacy before a chaste and honest Marriage; especially, having before their Eyes the holy Examples of two famous Archbishops, who had made no scruple of marrying (F) That he dy'd a Jew, and what Sanders reports] The Jesuit Possewin speaking of Bucer, made use of the following Parentheses (b) At were Bucerus quem morientem scribunt esse prosission mondam natura effe Meffisch) Settarus latterem viam firavit. In another Part of the same Book, he relates this as certher Part of the same Book, he relates this as certain Fact (1) Bucerus cum animam ageret fassus est verum Messam adhue non venise, venturum tamen Take (1) Posse notice that according to this Jesuit, this was Bucer's Confession of Faith on his Death-bod But to result this Fable, we only need alledge Sanders, who accuses this Divine of no more than a private Inclination towards Judaism, and of making One who had no Religion his Consident in a Point of Libertinism See his Words, you'll find by them that Bucer dy'd in the Profession of Luther ranism, "(k) As for Bucer, he was inclin'd to Julise "daism, and he was also descended from a Jewish rus Hissoire "Family It's certain, that some time after his du schisme" Death, and in the Reign of Q Mary, the Baron d'Angle-Family It's certain, that some time after his du schisme Death, and in the Reign of Q Mary, the Baron d'Angle-Paget, Counsellor to the Catholick King, did say, terre sivue That he had serv'd him one Day for an Interpre-2 pag 237 ter to Dudley, Duke of Northumberland, and that that Duke having ask'd him, What he thought of distinct the Presence of the Body of JESUS CHRIST Mr Manin the Holy Sacrament? He answer'd, That unless croix distinct the Truth of the Gospels was question'd, none could doubt de Holl of the Real Presence, but, added he, I do not believe all that the New Testament tells us of JESUS CHRIST and of his Assions, although hitherto I have not been permitted to deny it He spoke in this manner before a Man, who he knew had not much Religion However, in his Discourses and Writings, he always to his Death made Profession of Lutheranism, accommodated to the new "nor much Religion However, in his Discourses and Writings, he always to his Death made Pro"fession of Luthersnism, accommodated to the new

"Opinions of England" They wiso know this Author, need not be told, that he may be rely'd on in things which serve for the Justification (I) Lindau of Protestants, but is unworthy of all Credit in miss in diamatters to their disadvantage. But let us not forget to note, that Possion is only the Copier of Lindaus, a very bad Author. This Lindaus having publicantis danus, a very bad Author. This Lindaus having publicantis in excuses Buser, concludes thus (I) Sane ut in Christianismo fuit inconstantismus it in paterno Judaismo constantissimus. Praeru suras enim desensas licutas, etiam Christis adventum sub mortem narrnt oculatis testes revocasse in dubium. Some Pages after, he repeats the same thing. Alii, says he (m), Christiam (n) Praetestam resquisse expetsandum, uti Buserum muribundum tessiatum resquisse narrant side digni, adeoque quidam clarissimi viri, se ab ejus discipulis in Anglia accepist (n) Praeteslus and divers others have not fail'd to copy this. But they have not copy'd what Surius reports, and what he dares not affirm, which is, I hat that Minister caus'd his Son to be Circumctied. The reason why Surius does not affirm it, the grave and most learned Person. cifed The reason why Surius does not assist it, commentally, because the grave and most learned Person from whom he had it, knew it only by Hear-say and orbe surface of the first page of the surface of The reason why Surius does not affirm it,

Discourses in which he might have declard, that Rabbins the Messias is not yet come, but that He will come under the chief Characters which the Prophets attribute to him, and under which the Property of the Jews are as a Conqueror, who shall establish Piety and Peace dam as a Conqueror, who shall establish Piety and Peace dam as a Conqueror, who shall establish Piety and Peace dam as a Conqueror, who shall establish Piety and Peace dam as a Conqueror, who shall establish Piety and Peace dam as a Conqueror, who has been suspected of Jurieu, favouring Judaissm, because he published such as a Conqueror, and if it has been supposed, that the Sypanorum of suspected while him (a) a very grate-pagnol Opinion, and if it has been supposed, that the Synagogue of Amsterdam, writh him (p) a very grateful Letter upon it, the Controversits might very well in Bucer's time have built that wicked Romance on a like Doctrine, in case Bucer had maintain'd it It's certain, that in those Times the Spirit of Lying, and the boldness of grossy exaggerating Calumnies, was at the height Had Mr Juricu liv'd in the XVIth Century, he would have found himself accus'd of Judaism by many a Writer, and of receiving a yearly Pension from the Synagogue Bbbbb (G) 1.

commen-

Synagotraduite pagnol iuivant is this Minister. Moreri's Dictionary hath glanc'd at the chief Actions of his Life, which is the reason why I do not give all the extent that I might have done to this Article. I shall mention (G) Mr Moreri's mistakes, which will give me occasion to speak of Some Tacts But I ought not to forget that our Bucer in some cases shew'd that he did not disapprove (H) pious Frauds BUCHANAN (George) was a very able Man, and one of the greatest Latin Pocts of the XVIth Century, He was born in a Village of Scotland in the Year 1506. His Family which was far from Rich, had like to have then into extreme Poverty by the Douth of his Father, and by the breaking of his Grand-father. His Mother who was left a Widow with Light Children educated them as well as she could, but the had a Brother that took some care of this Having found him sit enough for I carning, he sent him to Paris The young Man lived these two Years, and afterwards was oblig'd to return to Scotland, by reason of his Poverty and want of Health When he found himself recover'd, he would try his Hand in the Wars among the French Trops which were Landed in his Country, but he soon fell sick again After his recovery he went to St Andrews, where he studied Logick under the good old Man

(a) Melch Adam. 121 vita Buicrı, par 212

(1) Talen from Milthior Adam ubi Supra dusf, H flos Luther 1 1 P 24) where be fase, that Bucer pasi d for a Lutherm, an 1522

() All fine on

of the Mo

Holland

(1) Affe-11" nullum eff peccatum mortale mit meredi litatem Pateol ubi Jups : Le Pere Gaultier copie cela de Prateolus

(1) Sec ahove the Remark C msere 'lis Heron, this b taught ti e Meret of Goodmorks

(f) Surius, EN HOTE

(G) I shall mention Mr Moreri's Mistakes] I Bucer's pretended Apostacy is wrong plac'd in the Year 1530, for he was thoroughly confirm'd in Luther's Opinions after the Conferences he had with him at Worms in the Year 1521, and ever after made open Protession of it (a) Paulo post, anno mullessimo quingentissimo vicessimo primo, cum ad comitia Worinatiam Vangionum Lutherus evecatus effet Bucerus codem venit, cumque Luthero complusculos dies familiari-ter transmissit sententiamque ejusamplexus, apperte ean-dem postea est prosessus i wo Years after, he was ad-mitted into the number of the Reformed Preachers in Strasburg, and he subscrib'd a Book with them, which they publish'd in the Year 1524, set-ting forth the Reasons which had induc'd them to renounce Popery He affisted in 1529, as Deputy of the Church of Straiburg in the Conferences of Marpourg, where they endeavour'd to pacify the Difference between the Lutherans and the Zwinglians (b) II It is false, that he begun by being a Sacramentarian He follow'd Lather as his Converter from the beginning III It is false, that he made a separat Scal He continued always united with one of the two Protestant Communications. tho' the flucter fort of each Party, did not ap-prove his remainers IV There is nothing more ibluid, than to impute to him is particular Errois, (c) That the Body of JESUS CHRISTIS prefent in the Eucharist, only in the Act of Receiving, Trat Biptism does not procure Salvation to Children not obe g d to Celbacy The 1st of these four Propositions, is the common Doctime of the Luthetime The 2d and the 4th are the common Do-terns of all Protestints The ,d is not imputed to Buer by those who have made the Catalogue of Herefies On the contrary, Pratcolus imputes to him, the maintaining, (d) That Incredulity is the only Mortal Sin that can be committed A flanderous Accusation, if ever there were any such Nec, That the Jeiust Gaultier, citing Sanders, fays, That Bucer taught, That even Children who have received Baptism me not iav'd It is perhaps what A me would say, but knew not how to express himself Hereupon I observe, That seeing the Protestants teach, that the Children of the Faithful are fav d, tho they dye before Baptism, their Opithen Salvation to that Sacrament, so that the pretended Leror which Morers imputes to Bucer, is a seneral Protestant Doctrine As to Father Gaulsier's Proposition, I am sure that it is fally imputed to our Eucer, unless it be explain'd in this sence, which is, I hat GOD not having grounded the Decree of Reprobation upon the Actual Sins of the Children ot Adam, He might have reprov'd Children as well as the Adult, and in this Case it might happen, that some Children who dy'd after Baptism, would be damn d Let us say, to the Shame of those Makers of Catalogues of Herefies, as Lindanus, Sandanus Caulting & C. That for the particular ders, Prateelus, Gaultier, &c that for the particular Herefies of Bucer, they give us the most general Doctrine of the Protestants Note, That Prateelus imputes to him to have taught the Uselesness of Good-works Compare this with (e) the Author of the History of Variations, and you will be strangely surprised Note also, that Surius says (f), 1 hat at the Conference of Ratubon, Malvenda reting per duc'd Bue r to such I xtiemities, that he forc'd him

27. Area isy, t That all Sins are Sins of Inciedulity

That there are none of the and of Ignorance, that they are all the only committed, and against the dictates of conscience. As to the 1st Proposition, Mr Sectionary (g) maintains, either the that they did not by the or that they are all the constant and the cons ift Proposition, Mr Seckendorf (g) maintains, the there that Bucer did not say so, or that it was only faid according to the Orthodox Sense that Luther I utheran gives it, and which comes to this, That the Sins lib 3 pages to have hearthful never exclude from Paradice, the 626 See Sins of Unbelievers alone are Damnable As to the the fame 2d, he believes, (b) that it is fallly imputed to Bucer Let us add, That this Minister, (if we believe (i) Surius) found himself oblig'd to affert, That a Man who sins mortally, ceases from believing the Trinity, the Birth and Death of JESUS CHRIST, &c Mr Seckendorf (k) seems to own, that the Dostring was advanced and after the that this Doctrine was advanced, and after the manner that he relates how Bucer defended himself, it feem'd he was in some Confusion In the main, can any thing be more monitrous than maintaining, I hat all those who fall into the Sin of Fornication, look on every thing that's found in the Goipel

(H) That he did not disapprove Pious Frauds] He (1) had a great Quarrel with Pomeranus for having (1) had a great Quarrel with Pomeranus for having caus'd Martin Luther's Commentary on the Pfalms dorf, lib 2 to be printed with Alterations He likewise foisted p 82 x 3 fome things into Luther's Possible, which favour'd the Zwinglians, and oblig'd that Reformer to complain severely, that the best of his Works was confirmed Mi Sickander observes, that the Reproaches Luther mails him upon it, were suppress'd in the Edition of Wittemberg, and that Bucer alledg'd some Excuses (m) Offinderat etiam Bucerus (m) Id 10 alledg'd some Excuses (m) Ossenderat etiam Bucerus (m) Id ib Lutherum, qued in editam ejus Postillam, quam vocant, ecclesiasticam, quedam infarsisset, que pro Hilviticas sene tentia de sana facerent, ideo in libello illo de verbis sa flitutionis, vehementer de Bucero queritur, quod librum Suum homiliarum, quim optimum ix omnibus, quos unquamscripserit, vocat, quique etiam Pontificiis placeat, corruperit Ista exprobiatio in editione Tomorum Witten-bergensi expunita fuit, indignante & publica apologia culpam a se amolicite Georgio Roranio, ut d Fom III Alt fol 740 legt potest Eandem vero querelam in epistola ad Johannem Secertum Bastleensem Typograin episota ad Johannem Secerium Bajueenjem typographum prolive post repetiit, Id ib (id est, 13) Sept bujus anni, vide Epistolar Lib II pag 348 b Non defuit tamen Bucero excusatio I cannot tell whether he alledg'd the Maxim Erasmus imputes to him, That a Deceit which hurts no body and is unserted to many, is an Action of Piety Erasmus Reserved him in this on occasion of a Work that Bucer tod dedicated to the Dannium under a sale. Title (a) to dedicated to the Dauphin under a false Title (n) is (n) Eroffive titulo scripfit libium ad primogenitum Regis Galmus epollix, admixtis aliquot verbis Gallicis, que videretur à 59 lbs. 3 Gallo scriptus ad Gallum, Pius, inquis, dolus est, pag assa qui nocet, nemini, prodest multis Primum, nulli nocet haresis? Hoc protinus audiret ab also, nam boc de istu pronunciatum est. Non leditur contus Princeps ac de iftu pronunciatum est Non læditur tantus Princeps ac natio religiosis ma que gravatur invidia? Quod autem simile exemplum ab Apostolis, aut probatis Ecclesia docto-ribus profectum est? Si lise fueus nulli nocet, cur Luthe-rus tam indigne tulis suos libros per bune suisse corruptos? Car Pomeranus de simili temeritate illius questus es a Qued ab aliis & ab ipsis ades legibus fassi gravistate prince paramine notatur, buic lepido Evangelista pius dolus do not alledge the fassi. Name he gave hintelf in the Title Page of one of his Books, for it's a very innocent thing, and was the cause that his Book was read by Adversaries, who would not have dar'd to touch it had they known the Author Read these

(g) Secker ibid pag 195 (b) Ibid pag 626.

(1) Suring. ubi Suprus

(k) Sechen dorf ited

(1) Secken-

Man John Major. He followed him in France that same Year, and after having pass'd two Years at Paris strugling with his ill-fortune, he was call'd to teach Grammar in the College of St Barbara This he did for three Years He was brought back into Scotland by a $ young Count, who had kept him five Years with him in Parts He would have return'd into France again, but the King of Scotland stopt his Journey by making him his Bastard Son's Preceptor He had wrote a Poem which displeas d Buchan the Cordeliers These good Fathers instead of putting on that Spirit of Patience which whi instra so well becomes Churchmen, were incensed at it, and to revenge themselves the † Dum more effectually, they cry'd out, that Buchanan was an impious Man, and an Heretick These Clamors † were the occasion of his inclining a little more than ever he indulgent design'd to Lutheranssm. About this time the King return'd from France, and made the Church-men uneasy, for they were assume that Queen Magdalen whom he brought along with him, had imbibed the new Opinions from her Aunt the Queen of Navarre The Death of Queen Magdalen soon dispell'd their Fears Sometime of Navarre after a Plot was discover'd against the King, upon which this Prince found some Reasons to believe, that the Cordeliers had not discharg'd their Duty to him He commanded Buchanan to write some Verses against 'em The Poet obey'd without any Reluctance, but kept within Bounds, and made use of Expressions which might be taken in a double Sense The King not thoroughly strisfy'd with those Verses sommanded him to write sharper, and was obey'd according to his desire Bucha-iniquum nan presented nim the Lamous Silva which is call d Franciscanus Sometime after leddant he was inform'd, that Cardinal Beton plotted his Ruin, whereupon he (A) field into England, But Matters being in such a Consussion there that one Day the Lutherans were burnt and next day the Papists, he past again into France And for to say in sear Cardinal 4 Beton should play him a Trick there, he retird privately from Paris, and went to Burdeaux, whether Andrew Goveanus is learned Portuguese invited him. He taught for three (B) Years in this Place, not without some dread of the Cordeliers and of Cardinal Beton * whose Threats he was inform'd of After this Scotland in I rance. nan presented him the Lamous Silva which is call d Franciscanus Sometime after reddunt

zn judicio de Augustino Nipho pag 19 Conferez ce qui est a la remarque D de Lar¹¹cle d Era∫mc

(b) The inquisition of Spain Supposes, that Bucers Book Adversus merita bonorum operum, was pub-listed as a Work of Rochester de milericordia

(c) History of the Reformation of Fngland i part 1 3 p m 725 Note, that Buchanan ın bis Hiftory of Scotland l 14 p m 509 says, shat he esaped by in his Chamber while the Guards sept

(d) Rex Buchananum FORTE tum in aula agen-tem ad fe advocat.

these Words of Naudaus (a) Martinus Bucerus, cum sues in librum Psalmorum commentarios, a Catho licis legi vehementer cuperet, cosdem sub Aretii, qua Graca vox est Martino respondens, & Felini quod verbum Germanicum Buceri significationem Latine reprasen-tat, publici juris sieri voluit, ne si proprium suum nomen illis affixiffet, quod pridem antea cuculla i Sacerdotes diris devoverant, statim eorundem lettione Catholicis omnibus interdiceretur See the Margin (b)

(A) He fled into England] I cannot tell why he suppresses his having been cast into Prison, foi it's suppresses his having been cast into Prison, 201 it's suppressing it to say only in an indessinte manner that he deceiv'd his guards Brevi post per amicos ex aula certior fastas se peti, & Gardinalem Betonium a Rege pecunia vitam ejus mercau, ELUSIS CUSTODIBUS in Angliam contendit He was Preceptor to the King's Bastard it may easily be be liev'd then, that the Guards whom he deceiv'd were not laylors of publick Prisons but only cerwere not Jaylors of publick Prisons, but only cer-tain Persons who had Orders to observe him, as a suspected Person So that he has not explain'd himself clearly enough The History of the Renimiest clearly enough. The History of the Reformation of England is more particular upon it we there find the very time that he was imprison'd, which is a Circumstance, that Buchanan ought at least to have set down in the Margin, if he was afraid that the date of the Years would make his Periods less smooth. We have it then from Bp Burnet (c), that in the Year 1539, The Clergy being inconsed by the Satyri that Buchanan had written against them cans'd him to be imprison'd, and as the King incensed by the Satyrs that Buchanan had written against them cans'd him to be imprison'd, and as the King left all things to them, that great Man would doubtless have been condemn'd to death, if he had not had the Ingenuity to make his escape out of Prison. I had faid that Buchanan was Preceptor to the King's Natural Son, and I had reason to suppose it for seeing he himfiels had said that the King bestowed that place upon him, it is to be presum'd he would have it believ'd that he was invested with it, since he neither liev'd that he was invested with it, since he neither expressly, nor by any incompatible Fact notes that he had it not Now this he has not done, I may therefore suppose that he enjoy'd it Now to dissemble nothing in this matter, I must own he makes use of an Expression, from whence it might be concluded that he had not that Imploy He says (d) that being by chance at Court, he was sent for by the Prince Has not the Preceptor of a King's Natural Son his ordinary Residence at Court? Is it ever said of such a one, that he was by chance at Court on such a time? I answer, I That chance at Court on fuch a time? I answer, I That it is at least very possible that he is not there sometimes, that suffices me 2. That it does not behave a good Writer to relate matters so, that recourse must be had to conjectures to know that they have chang d Faces. This is the chief aim of my Criticism Buchanan writ his History politely, fays much in few words, but skips over things that he ought not to forget. It is more difficult than People think, not to fall into this defect

(B) He taught three years there] Here I shall denx, the place the impertinent Story that I have read in the softh Page of The Destrine Curieuse of Father Garrasse. "It is said that George Buchanan Regent of the first Class in the College of Guyenne in Burbonably he ought to have done, the Class Bell soing rung, he took a turn as far as England in his Morning Gown and Slippers, having mate for in the Harbour of the Carthusians." A sine walk continues the same Author to be taken fine walk continues the same Author to be taken in a drunken fit. This Lie is too ridiculous to be confuted Buchanan left France at that time to go confuted Buchanan left France at that time to go into Portugal I shall occasionally examine a place of the Anti-Baillet that does not seem to me very exact Moreri has writ in his Distinary, its Mr Menage (d) speaks, That Turnebus, Buchanan and Muiet taught at the same time in the College of Caidinal le Moine, Turnebus the First, Buchanan the Second, and Muiet the Third Class I have heard Father Bourbon say the same thing, who was a good Register of things of this kind. If Buchanan taught in the College of Cardinal le Moine at the same time that Muiet taught there, as I am in some manner push a Muset raught there, as I am in some manner persa ded he did, because Father Bourbon says so t must have been between 1544, (which is the date of its Elegy to Tastaus and to Tevius) and 1545, for he taught be-fore in the College of Guyenne in Buideaux, where he fore in the College of Guyenne in Buideaux, where he pass three Years as he himself tells us in h s. List and in 1539, the first of December, he made a Speech here to the Emperor Charles the V as he was going from Spain to Flanders. And is Muret had taught before that time in the College of Cardinal le Moine with Buchanan, he must at least have taught there in 1538, and at that time he was but fourteen Years of Age. My Observations on this long Passage are these. It deseroes appear by Buchanan's List that he taught in does not appear by Buchanan's Life that he taught in any College of Paris after his return thither upon having escaped out of the Prisons of Scotland in 1539 So that the time when he taught in Paris, if we believe his Life, precedes the Voyage that he made into Scotland with the Scotch Count Now Soon after that Voyage he had a mind so return the Scotch Count Now made into Scotland with the Scotch Count Now foon after that Voyage he had a mind to return to Paris but was hinder'd by the King his Master, who made him Tutor to his Natural Son. That Prince return'd from France with Queen Magdalen, whom he had marry'd in the beginning of 1537 It's plain then that Buchanan must have left Paris to return into Scotland in the Year 1536, and confequently tus Kennedus Gassilisse Lomes ıllum sponte sua Sacerdoacrius in-Tanæ cau-

* This Cardinal wrote to the Arch Bp ubi infra

> (e) Menage, Ant Baillet, tom I 328 place in Moreri It sin the Article of Moret > > chanan raught in. what time.

Ibid

confures Bucha-

Pecms

he follow'd Andrew Goveanus into Portugal, I say Goveanus, who had Orders from † Crimini dabatur 1 losophy, and Literature in the University he had newly founded at Commbrica All well as long as Goveanus liv'd, but after his Death which hapned not long after, carnium quadrage the learned Men who followed him, and particularly Buchanan were vext all manner time, a forways They reproach'd him with his Poem against the Cordeliers, they found † fault with his eating Meat in Lent, wherein he only conform'd to the custom of the Country 'Twas pretended, that in his Discourse he had discover'd some Indisference to the Catholick Church They teaz'd him for above a Year together, and after ill for scar of discovering, that they had unjustly harded a Man of Reputation, they qua nemo in tota Hilpania est qui abstineat condemn'd him to remain some Months in a Monastery in order to be better instructed It was there he undertook his Paraphrase of the Psalms, an excellent Work in its kind, notwithstanding all the Criticisms of Lewis * de la Croix Having ob-* A Portugues Jesust Author of tran'd his Liberty, he past into Fngland, but made no Stay there He chose to rea Version of turn into France He arriv'd there at the time of the || railing of the Siege of Mets the Pfalms Some Years after he entred into the Service of the Marescil de Brissac, and was made Preceptor to his Son That Marescil Commanded then in Piedmont Buchanan in Latin Verle inthe Preface to continued five Years in that Employ, sometimes in Italy, and sometimes in France II. quitted it in 1560 Returning into Scotland, after the Troubles that Mellieurs de Guise caus'd there had been supprest, he went over openly to the communion of the Reformed Church He wis made Preceptor to James the VI King of Scotland in This is all that he has thought fit to inform us concerning his Life | That's to the Year 1565 Jay 1553 4 I cannot tell why he hath affected to fay nothing of his great Prosperity lence might appear mysterious to those who are inclind to give things a wrong Turn. 4 Taken Such as might be capable of believing that Buchanan full of Confusion in his old Days, and from his of Remorfe for his having given himfelf up to the l'action which forced Queen Mary Lit wite out of her Kingdom, from whom he had iecciv'd so many Benefits, and whom he praised to highly, durst not shew himself in the light of those Times, nor awaken in the tin by bim-Jeff in

158> It's

printed
before his Mind of his Readers, the remembrance of some Books he had written to the Taste (C) of those who were then in Power These Books have render'd him odious to the Roman Catholicks, and the horrible Slaunders publish'd by em against him may justly be inputed to them. He has been defamed as the most (D) profane and impious Drunk-

(a) Mr Menage, ib p 330

Jays that Muret mas boin in 1526 (b) Cateraque ut cellent, Gelidæ prì cura fodales It paties & patrix fustinet uique vicen

(c) That is $0 1545

(a) See the Buchanan

(e) And not ten as Varillas affirms, Hist de Pherefie. 1 28 pm 143

(f) Vari!-las, Hijsoire de l'berefie 1 28 pag # 170,

(g) Preface to the 4th Tome of the fequently it's falle that he taught at that time with Muret in a College of Paris, for in that case Muret must have been a Schoolmaster (a) before I en Years of Age II Mr Menage ought not to have consider d as a possible thing that Muret and Buchanin tiught at Paris in the Year 1538, seeing it is certain that Buchanan was then in Scotland III Since he has plac'd the Birth of Murer in 1576, he ought not as he does in the same same Page make him 14 in the Year 1538 IV He same Page make him 14 in the Year 1538 IV He ought to have faid expresly that Buchanan was at Pari in the Year 1544. This is plain from his Elegy to Tastems and Tevius mention'd by Mr Menage V He ought to have faid that Buchanan spake (b) of Gelids in that Elegy as of a Collegue, and to draw a Proof from thence that Buchanan taught at that time in a College of Cardinal le Moine, for it is certain that Gelids taught in that College VI Is notwithstanding Buchanan's Life, I should say, that he taught at Paris in the Year 1539 I would rather take (c) Mr Menage's Year, than the time which elapsed between his return to Paris at the saising the Seige of Mess, and that of his being raising the Seige of Mets, and that of his being made Tutor to Timoleon de Cosse the Marshal de Brissa's Son That Interval comprehends three Years, for he was (d) Preceptor during (e) five Years and he quitted that Imploy in the Year 1560

۶

(C) To the tafte of these who were then in Power] We shall speak hereafter of his Dialogue concerning the Right of Kings He writ two other Books which were still more agreeable to the interests of his laction than that The one is the History of Scotland, in which he fays a great many ill things of the Queen's Manners and Conduct, the other is that which he Intitul'd Eclastifement (f) See how Mr Varillas speaks of it I ought to advertife the Curious, says he (g), That Buchanan's History of Scotland is not the worst of his Works against that Princess, and that there is another to which he durft not set his Name, more Satyrical beyond all compa-rion than the other It was not to be found in the King's Library in my time, but Mr Clement Councellor in the Library in my time, but Mr Clement Councellor in the Court of Aids lent is me out of his own Study It is written in French, and Printed at Rochel in the Year One thousand five hundred seventy two For filth and soul Language no Book I ever saw comes near it, and the single Passage of the pretended Lewdness of Queen Mary Stewart, countenanced and imitated by her Maid of Hannary Madamackilla da Barna Celle in nathing south of Honour Madamoscille de Reres, falls in nothing foot of those of the Anc ent and Modern Authors, who have than she greatest liberty in desting their Readets into gination It's needless saying that nothing could be more useful to the interests of that Queens Enemies than Buchanan's Satyrs, for one of these two must have been the Case, either that they who forced her out of her Kingdom were the greatest Villains in nature, or that she was the most infamous of Women These are two Scales of a Ballance equally Women poized, you cannot load the one without lightening poized, you cannot load the one without lightening the other precisely to the same degree just so whatever serves to acquit the Queen, aggravates her Enemies Guilt is the same proportion, and whatever serves to load the Queen extenuates their Crimes in a like degree It's certain then that Buchanan's Satyrs were an Apology for his Faction, and the bitterer they were, the more they justify'd those who had turn'd out Mary Stemars. To judge of it from common prejudice, one would be apt to suspect, that a Satyr of such important and necessary use, is a Fiction which the interest of the cause inuse, is a Fiction which the interest of the cause invented But as there are most real Tyrannies and Infamies which make Subjects revolt, it is not always true that the Manifesto's of those who do rebell are meer Calumnies, and therefore without liftening to our picjudices, we ought impartially to examin Bu. hanan's Case Note, That to the end the Companison of the Scales in spatistics be right, we must enter into that Writers Principles, and suppose like him, that the King of Scotland and they who represent the Nation are two collateral Power ers, for the Comparison would not be just in a Monarchy properly fo call'd, The injustice of Sovereign does not justifie Revolts

(D) As the most Profant Drankard I have already cited an Author (b) who reproaches him already cited an Author (b) who reproaches him with a ridiculous Voyage in a Drunken-fit, but here is much a worfe Story, he reproaches him with having had the Glass and Death between his Lips at the fame inflant, and with fooffing at the Ministers who exhorted him to say his prayers to God I shart cut off a tittle of the Story It's useful to let the Readers see by sensible examples, how far the boldness of publick lying may go, when once the impudence grows so great as to get when once the impudence grows fo great as to get when once the impluence grows to great as to get all the Stories printed that run alout the Streets. See then what Father Garaffe fays "(1) I will "tell our new Atheifts the wretched end of a "Man of their Belief and Humour, as to eating and drinking. It was Garge Bachman, a perfect, "Epicure during his Life, and a perfect Atheift at his Death, This Libertine having from this delibertine having from the delibertine during from the during from the during the duri ard that ever liv'd, as a Traytor, a Conspirator, a (DA) Slave of Impurity and Satyr,

He dv'd at Edenburgh the 28th * of September 1582 14is Thuan Dialogue de jure Regni apud Scotos, so often laid in the Protestants Dish, was the reason 1 76 pag why some of 'em mention him as a Min (E) without Name or Consequence. For a m 445 is ground to doubt his (F) Repent ince which the Annalist of Queen Elizabeth speak fant is out bauched Youth in Paris, and in Burdeaux, more follicitous after Bagpipes, Tayerus, and Tayern-Buethii no bi mendae bung call'd back to Scotland towards his latter days to inftruct the young Prince, who is at present the Serene King of Great Britain, contiming his gluttonous courses, fell into a Dropfy triaque and by drinking, tho' it was said of him by way of banter, that he was disordered, wino intercute, corruptor of banter, that he was disordered, wino intercute, not aqua intercute. As sick as he was, he abnot aquâ intercute. As fick as he was, he ab-fiain'd from Drinking no more than when he was in health, and his Wine was as pure as he formerly drank it, at Burdeaux The Physicians, who visited him from the King their Master, seeing their Patient's Excess, told him plainly and angrily, that he did what he could to deand angrily, that he did what he could to de-firoy himself, and that in his way of living, he "could not hold out above fourteen Days or three Weeks at longest He desir'd them to call a consultation to know how long he might live, "a consultation to know how long he might live,

"in case he abstain'd from Wine, they did so,
"and the result was, that he might live five or six "Years longer, if he could command himself so "long, upon which he made an answer very agreeable to his humour Get you gone, said he, with "your Prescriptions, and your course of Dict, and know, "that I would rather live three Weeks and be drunk
"every day, than Six years without drinking Wine, and having discharg'd his Physicians like a desuperate Man, he order d a Hogshead of Graves
"Wine to be set at his Bed's-head, resolving to see "the bottom of it before he dy d, and carryed himself so valiantly, that he empty'd it to the "Lees, fulfilling in the Letter the Contents of that "pretty Epigram of Epigonus concerning a brogg, " pretty Epigram of Epigonus concerning a brogg, "which being fallen into a Hogshead of Wine " cry'd out,

" Den Abet nagna

" Having Death and the Glass between his Lips, " the Ministers made him a Visit to settle his Mind "the Ministers made him a Visit to settle his Mind, "and prepare him to dye with some Sentiments of "Religion One of them exhorted him to repeat "the Lord's Prayer, and "looking sternly at the Manister, What is it, said he, you call the Lord's Prayer? The Assistant answer'd, That it was the Pater noster, and that if he could not say that Prayer, they defind him at least to say some other Christian Prayer, "that he might go out of the World like a good Man As for me, said he, in his undistuib'd and perfect Senses, I never knew any other Prayer than this than this Cinthia prima sui miserum me cepit occilis "Contactum nullu ante cupidinibus

" And scarce had he repeated ten or twelve Verses "of that Elegy of Perspersius, when he expir'd among the Glasses and Plants; so that it may truly be faid of him, that simpuream vomit ille animam, and such is the End of all Epicures" We find the fame Account in the (a) Grammaticus profanus the Jesuit Sanders, who (b) brings for all his Authority, a Work which appeard in the Year that attributed to Father Garasse, as we shall see kereafter (c) hereafter (c)

(DA) And as a Traytor, a Conforator and a falfifier of History] These are the Slanders which his Countryman Barclay made use of to paint him out to us (d) As Buchananum quidem non solum depravatis desperatisque moribus ex libero Liberi Venerisque mancipium factum sciunt omnes, quotquot eum probe noverunt, sed & hareticum insignem, & mendacem historicum sara suxta ac prosana audaci conatu temerantem osendat illud esus opus, cui, Rerum Scoticarum historium stitulum dedit. Quod cum ita sit, ecqui mirum quadant oppist, in egregium nequista artiscem evassis eum, quadam primis juventa annu, sceleri omnium maximo stagistica vita rudimintum posuit? Jam vero historium reliquam ea side scripsit, quam in meo me pudot populari roperine probissimos quosque lancinat maledictis, pios per calumniam opprimit quò autem quisque sceleratior, & gromptior ad malum manu, eò pluribus ille laudobus ce-

Quid multis? in illa ejus historia, que ultra Boethis nobilis historiographi epitomen se profert, tos mi-hi mendacia occurrunt, ut cum veia indiam vie vera est, nisi cunstanter, credam Id ipsum O alis mecum queruntur gnari temporum qua res e stas postremis ab co libris mandatas continent (1) Sid erit spero vers, pa-triaque aman ior aliquis, qui veninatum esus styli mucronem retundet, & paudem fide folida patefaciens incorruptos eorum ten porum annales evulgant Hoc igitur homine relieto qui ut viri adhuc vivintes clariss mi no-runt, ventri & Veneri obediens, multarum in principes conjurationum fautor, quarundum etiam auti or herescos qua domi, qua foris, qua privatim, qua publice portinax pro-pugnator extitito ad St phanum Junium Brutum venio

(L) As a Man without Name or Conjequence | See the Words here of Mr Daillon, a French Mini-fler, who fled into England (c) Let 'em not do us the injustice to reckon among our Doctors a scoth Poet without any Character, who had a mind to divert himself with fetting forth his Dreams on Politicks Another French Minister did not speak of Buchanan with that Difdain, yet he condemn d him, and thought it very unjust, that that Author's Republican Maxims should be imputed to thote of the Protestant Religion Trife Maximis of Buchanan, says he, (f) and of l'artes are not our Maxims, we have renounced them over and o er nor are they to be found in any of our hichertiek Writings
They (g) are assuredly false in the extent of hich he authors give them. He had but a very those inspited Prospect of Languages (h) as to be one lighted

Prospect of Luturity (h) as to his own Little did he imagine, that five Years should not come about be fore he himself would write Passage. Letters fill d with the Maxims of these two Authors Ho vevel it be, that Dialogue of Buchanan made i great noise One Adam Blackwood, of the same Country as Buclanan, and Counfellor in the Prefided Court of Poissers, Refuted his Countryman is well is he A German, whose Name is Ninianus Vinzetus did the fame Barclay, another scot and much an abler Man than they came to the Charge and had the Malice to fay, I hit Boucler, a Douor of Sorbonne had borrow'd his Weapons of Buchinan and fome other Hereticks (1) The Protestants of Scotland made a much more Decitive Answer, for the Parliament of the Kingdom damn d that Dialogue of Buchanan, his History and his Deretto and forbad the Sale of 'em See in the Remark 1, the Citations from Cambden

(F) Of his Repentance, which Cambden Speaks of] I et us fiist fet down this I mous Historian & Words (L) und Georgius Ruchananus hac de re cum in historia, tum in libello, cui detectio titulum f cit, prodidit, exhibris impission no nonnovit. Cum autem ille partium studio & Moravii mun secontia abreptus ita scripfit, ut libri isti falfitates damnati sint al ordin bus
(1) Regni Scotia, quorum sidii plus tribuindim ipseingemiseens coram Reve, cui fuit Pedarorus sub nde se reprehenderit (ut accipi) quod tam virusentum cafe reprehenderit (ut accipi) quod tam virulentum ca-lamum in Reginam bene meritam strinxisset, morionsque optaverit ut tantisper superisset, donce maculai, qui-maledicentia salso asperserat, revocata vertate vel sanguine elucret, nist (quod ipse dixit) so vanum ssit, cum pra actate delivare videre ur lhe tame listoii-an elsewhere assures of those who would have bed gard to the De'tres of those who would have had him a little before his Death to write for the Rebels Cause, and that he seem d troubled at having formerly devoted his Pen to them (m) Who would not look upon this Testimony of Cambden (1) The as solid? Yet great abatements must be made for same Author and Reasons. One is That it is reported, his thor ad two Reasons, one is, That it is reported, his thor ad

Da fant er out n plic ng this Dea h of April > (1) Nempe feptem pofliemis induftija in matris Regum ne em & ignomiman malitia mala compo-

(c) Dail-24for mez, Pas 11

Report as du (1101-Mainbour, tom

(g) Ibid PAR 288

(h) Nescia mens homuum que fituit Irfeine modom rebus tablata fecun-Æn 1 10 v 501

(1) Guil Barc'i us, Adv is mach last

1584 pag m 410 speaks thus, Probrosa in Regem, ejus matrem, & Consistarios icripto, nominatim vero Georgii Buchanini Historia & de jure regni apud Scottu Dialogus, interdicta ut que multa culpanda & delenda contineant (m) Buchananum tamen inducere non poterant ut hoc eorum factum vel scripto libello, vel persuasione per nuntium approbaret, qui se sactiosemme causam contra principes jam antea suscepsifie, dolenter ingemuit, & paulo post obiit id ann. 1582 m 410 speaks thus, Probrosa in Regem, ejus map m 374 Manuforing,

(a) In the If Tome, PAG 164. (b) Ibid pag 181

Distant S of the Article Scioppius

(d) Guill Barclas, 1 3 cap 1 p m 310 of Be that how it will, we cannot refuse him the Elogy (G) of a fine Wit, and a fine Writer. He has succeeded wondefully in all kinds of Law Variance. well Prose I cannot tell whether (H) we ought to believe that he was a Fryar. He himself says nothing of it, others affirm it, and his Silence is not a decisive Proof against them. But one may be very well assured, that he did not die an Atherst,

(b) Varillas, preface du 5 wol de THistoire de l'hereste

(c) Id liv 28 pag m 17)

(d) See P d Orleans Revolut :ons d'Anglet tom 2 PAR 490, 491 (e) Varillas, repon-Se a la Crisique de Rurnet 78 110/-78 Hoi-Le Docteur Burnet de-Fense la owns the Reproach

(f) I have heard a Scotch Lord fay. that when Buchanan was ask'd on his Deathbed Whether be did not repent of what he had written against the Autho-Kings, and in particular aga nft the Honour of Mary Queen of Scots, he unswer'd, I am going to a Place where there are no Kings (g) Thusn bistor !

76 pag

445, 446 See

elfe Bur-

net e Hift of the Re-formation of Eng-

sars L 3

)

Manuscript was Corrected to King James's Mind Manuscript was Corrected to King James's Mind and Fancy, as we shall say in a proper place. The other is taken from a Marginal Note which Mr Varillas had read Let's hear him speak (b) "There " are in the King's Library the five Volumes of the "President de Thuanus's History, in the Margins " whereof the youngest of Messieurs du Pay had " wretten with his own Hand the most curious written with his own Hand the most curious Facts that his Brother and he had judg'd fit to be retrench'd from it when it was printed I have read in the Additions to the fourth Volume, that Buchanan being ready to expire, James VI King of Scotland, whose Preceptor he had bin, gave him a Visit, and advis'd him for the distance of his Conference of the Confer charge of his Conscience, to retract what he had writ to the disadvantage of his Mother, Queen Mary Stuart, and that Buchanan plainly refus dit" Thus Mr Varillas speaks in his Preface He touches the same Fact in the Body of the Book, but reports it otherwise In the Dody of the Book, but leposts it otherwise In the Original, says he (c), of Mr de Thuanus's History in the place where the Death of Buchanan is spoken of, there is written with that illustrious President's own Hand, That James the Sixth King of Scotland, whose Preceptor Buchanan had been, hoonus'd him with a Visit when he was at the Foresaction nour'd him with a Visit when he was at the Extremity, and presi'd him to retract what he had said against the Queen his Mother That Buchanan answer'd, that his Conscience did not repressed him on that Head, and that he had written the Truth Between such contradicting Testimonies, as that of Camden, and that in Mr de Thuanus's Margents, Can any one have a reasonable Certainty of Ruchanan's last Dispositions? Not in the least Each of these Testimons are necessarily and the such as th mon es weakens the other, but we must allow that the first is without Comparison stronger than the last That is printed, the other is but a Manuscript The last, according to the Presace of Mr Varillas, is only an Exemplary of Mr de Thuanus, put according to the Body of the Book, it is in the Original of Mr de Thuanus According to the Preface, it is of Mr de Puy the Younger's Hand, according to the Body of the Book, it is of Mr de Thuanus's own Hand These Variations, and these Shufflings, maintain the Preference that Camden deferves Add to this, That if Mr de Thuanus ap prov'd that Messieurs du Puy should retrench that Part of his History, it is a Sign that he gave no full Credit to it, for his 7eal for the Memory of Mary Stuart, did not hinder his letting a hundred Things be printed which he had copied from Buchanan (d) King James reproach'd Mr de Thuanus Son io sharply with it, that he threw him into a Fit of Sickness of three Months (e) See the Margin(f)(G) The Elogy of a fine Wit, and a fine Writer] The way that Mr de Thuanus has taken to praise George Buchanan is admirable Nothing could better give a gicat Idea of this Scothman's Mind His History of Scotland, fays he, does not feem to be the Work of a Man who taught a School, but that of a Person employ d all his Life-time in the most impor-tant Affairs of State The Meanness of his Contant Affairs of State The Meanness of his Condition and Fortune, did not hinder Buchanan from dition and Fortune, did not hinder Buchanan from judging well of the greatest matters, and writing of them with much Prudence. He was one of those extraordinary Men, who have the Happiness not to become Pedants among the Occupations of the School. The Latin of Mr de Thon expresses this more nobly and amply (g) In sensil otto patriam Historiam scribere aggresses of Quam tanta puritate, prudentia, & acumine scripsis (quamvis interdam libertate gensi innată contra Regium tastigium acerbin) ut ea scriptia non hominem in vulvere literario acerbior) ut ea scriptio non hominem in pulvere literario versatum, sed in media hominum luce & in tractandis Respublica negoties tota with exercitatum redoleat. Ades ingenii felicitas & animi magnitudo omnia obscura & humilis forsuna impedimenta ab co removerant, ut pro-pierea non minus rette de maximis rebus judicare & feri-bere prudenter posset. Et sand memini P. Ronsardum wirmm accrimi judicis (qui licet in dispari fortund con-stitutus, tota vită scholastico otio oblettatus sucras) cùm de Buchanano, Hadr. Turnebo, Ant. Goveano, M. Ant. Muradin quibuscum artis amicitia conjunctus sucras)

verba faceret, diccre solitum, ellos Homines nibil Padagogica prater togam & pilcum habuisse, & tamen de vulgo Padagogorum sic censere, nunquam incorrigibilis

vulgo Padagogorum jic cenjere, nunquam incorrigibilis ineptia ex Padagogica contratta charafterem vel longifimi avi curriculo delori posse (H) I cannot tell who her we ought to believe that he was a Friar] Mr le Laboureur affirms it in so positive a manner, that to question it, is to follow the Lartesian Maxim Never to subscribe to any thing without an exact Examination He fays (b) George Buchanan a Scothman, first a Cordelier in France, afterwards Preceptor of the Count de Brissac, and a passionate Huguenot, known as well by his Vices as esteem'd for his fine Wit, if he had not devoted it to Linear of the fact of the bertinism, and for hu Science if he had not abus'd it, was the most cruel Enemy of the Person and Reputation of that Princess who had screen'd him in that Kingdom from the Rigour of theEdies, and Inatch'd him as it were, out of the Fire, and the Hands of the Executioner
He was upon the point of being condemn'd as an Heretick and Renegado Fryar, and she sav'd him Brantome says
(1) indeed, that she sav'd his Life, but not as a Renegado Fryar I much question Mr le Labourcur's Relation For the sirst piece of Poetry by which
(k) Buchanan provok'd the Cordeliers, is a Dream (1), wherein he supposes that St Francis appeared to him to exhort him to take the Habit of his Or der Durst he have sugned this Answer, I will not, if he had actually been a Cordelier? The Persecutions which that first Satyr diew upon him from the Cordeliers, did not blunt his Pen as to them, and chiefly when his Master the King of Scotland order'd him to lash them How comes it that they did not claim him as a Deserter, when they saw him Preceptor to the King's natural Son? How happens it that they accus'd him only of Lutheranism? How comes it that they could only threaten him, while he taught at Bourdeaux in the Sight, and to the Knowledge of all France? Could a Renegado Fryar, and one suspected of Lutheranism, scape in France in those times from Cordeliers Stung with Satyr How comes it if he was a Cordelier in France, that he durst live in Paris, and teach in the College of St Barbe? But lastly, how comes it that Buchanan in the Hands of Portugueze Inquifitors, who us'd their utmost Endeavour for above a Year together, to Convict him of Herefie, did not discover that he was at least charg'd with having wickedly violated his Vows, and basely deserted the Religion of St Francis? If such a thing had been true, it could not have been kept fecret, nor been difficult to prove How comes it once again that he came fafe and found out of the Hands of these barbarous Inquisitors? When these Demands are fatisfied, I may believe he was a Condelier Neither can I apprehend how the Queen of Scotland could have prefer d him in France from the Rigor of the Edicts Did he not live with the Marelcal de Briffac till the Year 1560? Did he not dissemble his Sentiments on the Head of Religion? Did he not forbear discovering them openly till he came into Scorland? What's most probable is, that that Queen annuil'd the Sentence that had been spass Queen annuil'd the Sentence that had been past upon him in the Year 1539 after he had escaped out of Prison. This was certainly the only Favour that Brancome meant. Mr. Varillas (m) says force de that Buchanan was a Cordelier in 1539, when he was imprison'd on the Score of Heresie, that coming very young into France, he took the Habit of Senting there, that from thence he want to Park. Francis there, that from thence he went to Portugal, and there discover d the first Signs of his being a Lutheran, that he was 18 Months in Prison there, and got off by Abjuring Lutheranism, that he return'd into his own Country, that upon his Relapse he was put into the King's Prison, that he would have been condemn d to be burnt, if he had not had the Ingenuity to make his Escape out of a Window, and that he relates (n) the Particulars pleasantly. This is a continual Series of Lies. It pleasantly This is a continual Series or Lies was almost ten Years before he escaped out of the Prisons of Scotland, that he went to Portugal I leave the Care of correcting the other Faults to the Reader

(b) Addı-Memorres de Caftel HAR tom T

Pag 546

(1) Brantome éloge de Marie Stuart

(k) Bucha-พสม ใส ชะta fua

(l) It's 110 the Colle-Etion of Pigear entres Fra-

(n) He Says Words #P ON IT. BRA It that with out any kind of

BUCHHNAN BUDEUS

or in the manner (1) that Mr Morers represents This is not the only Fallity (K) in his Dictionary concerning Buchanan Mr Varillas hid not (L) all the necessary Lacetness in speaking of this ingenious Man Mr de Thuanus informs us of dear-ticular which my Readers will be glad (M) to find in this Place BUD # US (William) born it Paris (A) in the Year 1467, and descended form an ancient and illustrious Family in France, was one of the most Learned Met of his Time It may be faid that he began to Study somewhat late, for although he was sent early enough to Schools to le irn Latin, and afterwards to the University of Orleans, to study the Law, the he hardly knew any thing at his Return from Orleans

(a) Thus I the Author entitles, Histoure nera le de tous les Gecles de la nou-velle lor Thus Work 11 m 6 Tumes in ramo, prosted at Paris.

(b) Under the 25 of April 200

1683

(c) See my Reasons in the Remark H

(A) Quod cum alus quibus-dam ag-num Paschalem more & ritu Judaico temporeQua dragesmæ comedere repertus fuiffet. Spondon. ad ## 1439 # 7 Il cite Dovid del Bor, (f) Preface

A so the 5th Two. of the Differe de Therefie

(g) Join to this what ss faid in the Remark H groß Fault Budaus's Birth is there pluc'd in the year

(1) He did not die an Atheist in the manner as Mr Moreri tells it? Here's what he says, "The King fent his Physicians to him, whom he refus'd to see, and he did not treat a Minister better, who found him busie a leading Pliny's Natural Hiftory. The Minister would hive given him the Bible, but Buchanan rejecting it with great Indignation, Go, said, he, shewing him Pliny's Hidignation, Go, faid he, shewing him Pliny's Hi-ftory, I find more Trust on thu Book than in all your Scriptures Thus that Atherst ended his Days, and all Scotland has witnessed this I act." Some Lies cannot be read without Indignation but as for this, it is more fit to excite Laughter than Anger All Scotland has witnessed this Fact Can any Min cite only one grave Author supported by any tolerable Proof. I should not think I risk d very much, if I defy'd all Mr Moreri's Friends to do this And indeed, if that fine Story had the least ground, Mr de Sponde who is not himfelt when he speaks of Buchanan, would not have fa l'd mentioning it I find something like it in the (a) Calendar of Fither I Enfant, a Jacobin Iryai, who quotes the Chronological Freafure of Dom Peter of St Romuald, but he does not is, that all Scotland has te-fify'd that Fall, but that (b) all Scotland can at-test it. This last Expression is more tolerable than the former

(K) It is not the only Falsity in his Dictionary] Mr.
Moreri affirms: I shall Buchanan took the Habit of St.
Francis I don't believe any thing of it (c) 2 that he was convicted of a Design to eat the Paschall Lamb, after the manner of the Jews, and condemn at the house. be burnt Mr de Sponde reports the same thing, but in stronger Terms, for he affirms (d) that Buchanan was taken in the last, eating the Paschal Lamb, after the manner of the fews, with some others in the time of Lent If this had been true, they would not have let him live three Years in Bourdears, not come out of the Prilons of the Inquisideair, not come out of the Prilons of the Inquistion in Portugal 3 That having escap'd the Punishment of Lire by Hight, he came into France, where he taught a considerable time at Paris, in the College of Circlinal le Moine, and ellewhere It is certain, that having cscap dout of the Prisons of Scotland, he durst not stay in Paris for feir of Cardinal Beton, and that he went to Boundeax UT (e) Lute iam went Cardinalem Betonium pessime erga se acimatum ibi legatione singi comperit Itaque tius va se la substra it. Budgrasian invitante Andrea Gocous or a se subtra it, Bus degalam in orante Andrea Governo prosettus See the Remark B, you will there find, that if he ever taught in the College of Cardinal la Manage of the college of the c dinal le Moine, it was not till after he had tiught three Years at Bourdeaux, and thus Morrei's Nairative is defective

tive is defective

(L) Mr Varillas (f) had not all the necessary Exactines:

(L) Mr Varillas (f) had not all the necessary Exactines:

(L) Mr Varillas (f) had not all the necessary Exactines:

(L) Mr Varillas (f) had not all the necessary Exactines:

(L) Mr Varillas (f) had not all the necessary Exactines:

(L) Mr Varillas (f) had not all the necessary Exactines:

(L) Mr Varillas (f) had not all the necessary Exactines:

(L) Mr Varillas (f) had not all the necessary Exactines:

(R) Professor (L) Mr Varillas (f) had not all the necessary Exactines:

(L) Mr Varillas (f) had not all the necessary Exactines:

(L) Mr Varillas (f) had not all the necessary Exactines:

(L) Mr Varillas (f) had not all the necessary Exactines:

(L) Mr Varillas (f) had not all the necessary Exactines:

(L) Mr Varillas (f) had not all the necessary Exactines:

(L) Mr Varillas (f) had not all the necessary Exactines:

(L) Mr Varillas (f) had not all the necessary Exactines:

(L) Mr Varillas (f) had not all the necessary Exactines:

(L) Mr Varillas (f) had not all the necessary Exactines:

(Exactines:

(L) Mr Varillas (f) had not all the necessary Exactines:

(Exactines:

(L) Mr Varillas (f) had not all the necessary Exactines:

(I) Archiver Exactines:

(Exactines:

(L) Mr Varillas (f) had not all the necessary Exactines:

(I) Archiver Exactines:

(I) Ar depending, had continued to persecute her after she was beheaded, set this is a Crime which they who are most partial in favour of Buchanan, must own he was guilty of Mr Varillas sinds some Singularities in the most ordinary Conduct Never was any Prince judicially dethroned or beheaded by a People who have Authors among 'em, without the r having sirst publish'd a thousand scurrilous things against him Reason will have it so, for they who proceed to such Extremities, ought at least to testify to the World, that they desire it may be thought they had Reason to act so. And how could they do this, if they scrupled to publish that Princesses ill Life? So that Buchanan did no more than go on in the beaten Road He must not be censured for printing Mirry's History after her Death, for if he was in the right in other Respects, that is, if he advanc'd nothing but the Truth, he would have been very much to blame in suppressing it. This would have been facrifiin suppressing it. This would have been facrifi-cing (b) living Innocency to a Crime punish'd with Death, it would have been ipining the Memory of a guilty Queen at the I spence of two Nations Mr Varillas is deceived then, both as to the Tact and as to the Right As to the Fact, fince he says, that never any Example of Buchanan's Conduct was seen. As to the Right, seeing he condemns a Conduct which in case of Fidelity in the Historian, is intirely agreeable to Order and right Reason. But his strangest Mistake of all, is his pretending that Buchanan who died five Years betore the Queen of Scotland was beheaded, continued to persecute her after she was beheaded, and that this is a Crime, his greatest I riends dare (1) Ibide not deny (1) No Scotchman, says he, was more devoted to Queen Mary Stuart than he, until she ceas d to be fortunate. In me it feems that Mi Larillio stretches a little too much, and yet it is true, that Buchanan did at first follow that Queen's Party, and prais'd her highly at the Head of his Tran-flation of the Pfalms Mr 1 rellas fays, (L), That the Earl of Murray offer'd him one of the b ft Places in Scotland which was that of keeper of the Privy Scal, (1) Spe on Condition he would affif him to destroy Succe Mily stuart. This I once thought an Hyperbole, as well as the Primacy (1) which others say was promised Buchanan, but I now know that he was Keeper of the Privy Seal, a very considerable Place in Scotland In the Preface of Francis I Mi Varillas obtained in Pa land In the Preface of Francis I Mi Varillas oblicines, That they had berribly calumniated Miry of triarchim Loirain, Queen of Scotland, and that all Authors who allimenfoake of her, had let them lives loofe against her, on the land Deposition of an ungrateful Person (m) to whom the had given his Life. He adds, that he hid vindicated the Reputation of that Princess. Here he at decad 2 least two laults, for it is no where said of that Queen that she fav'd the Historian Buchanan's Life, and a Princess is not justified against the Calumnies of an Historian, when it's declined that it Peaustonthing shall be said in her Justification which that Historian does not agree to Now this is the same what Mr Varillas declares with reference to Burn his boly what Mr Varillas declares with reference to Buchanan (n)

(M) Which my Reader will be glad to find here] Mr de Thuauus relates, That Elias Vinet receiv'd Letters who came to load Wine it Bourdeaux Finet shewed these I etters to Mr de Thuanus, who observed a preat deal of Courage in the last, though it was writ with a trembling Hand Buchanan did not complain to Francois much of the Inconveniencies of Old-age in it, as of the Weariness of his Long-life (o) De sinestu- m 118, tis incommodis non tam querebatur, quam de vita longioris tadio. He find that he had left the Court, and was retir d to Sterling, where he endeavour'd only one thing, which was to shake off the Compa(0) ny of those who were not like himself, with as little Noise as possible. He meant the Living and sualis 2. look d upon himself as dead (p) Interes hoc unum Pag m latage at quan minima cum streniu ex maqualum 1183 ad fatago, ut quam minimo cum frepisu ex inaqualium 1180 ad meerum, hoc est mortuus e vivorum contubernio demi- ann 1582 grem His greatest I nemies cannot deny but that (p) Id ib he was in his Life, once at least, a Philosopher, for such Sentiments as these would not be disown'd either by the Stoicks or by the Brachman's, unless perhaps in regard of iome small Accessories

(A) Born at Paris in the Nar 1467, and descended from an ancient and illustrious samily Lewis le Roi, the only Author whom I have follow'd, does not fet down the Year of his Birth , but iceing he fays, that Budaus died the 23d of August 1540, in his 73d Year, he gives me a Right to make him be born in the Year 1467 Morer's Dictionary contains a very

(b) See the at the end

(L) Ibid.

inductus vio fi hic regno poin his boly Court

> (m) Buchanan

Ti ancois 1 liviip

(o) Thuan

(a) 1476

740 *Quo in Gymnaio trienni um verfi tus ope ram pen omnem perdidit Neque eguæ & ab alus dıscıplınis, impatem illam r-conditam & cem lubtilemque cui sele dediderat, cognitione & ferentia poterat comprehen dere Lu-ส์อาวเดนร Regius in with Budai init † That's to Say on the 24 first Books of the

Pandects

so the Chancellor

Joannes

s dated

she 4th of

November 1508 Baudius

J# 1530

gave an

Edition

corrected

and augn entea

He printed

A Continu-

this Work

ation of ın 1528

(a) This

Fault is originally a

Fault of

the Press

The Transposition of a single Cypher has changed 1467 Inte

1476 (b) Gaic-chen hift de Bresse 3 pt p 251 (c) Ibid

P 252 (d) See the Enfans co-lebres pars

pag 427 (e) Lud

9 # 50,51 (1) Id ib

(a) 1476, and his Death on the 26th of August 1540 Yet he is made to live 73 Years. We find this concerning his Genealogy, in the Work of Mr Guichenen (b) John Budaus Lord of Verace, who signalized himself at the Battle of Pontcharra, was a Lieutenant of a Company of Gendarmes, belonging to the Lord Priquemaut, in the Tear 1591 (c) was iffue of that ancient Family of the Budee's Lords of Jerre, Villiers on the Marne, Marly, Troite la Motte and Soup, and other places, which takes place among the best Families of the Isle of France, and of Paris, for he was the Son of another John Budzus Lord of Verace, and of Mary de Jouan, Daughter of Regerine de Jouan Esq, Lord of Jouvillers in Breausile. The said John Budzus was Son of William Budzus Knight, Lord of Marly and Villeneusve, Councellour and Master of the Requests to the great King Francis and of Roberta le Lyeur, Daughter of Roger The Epifele Dedicatory of France, Deganius from Paris Francis and of Roberta le Lyeur, Daughter of Roger le Lyeur Lord of Brois-benard, in Alemain and Ha-beau de Lailly This William was Son of John Budwus Lord of Jerre, de Villiers on the Marne, and Budwus Lord of Jerre, de Villiers on the Marne, and of Marly, and of Catherine le Buart, Daughter of John Picart Lord of Platte ville, Sivrey, and la Broifieliere, and Catherine de Poucher Daughter of I rancis de Poucher, Knight and Chamberlaine to the Kings, John, Charles V and Charles VI Bailiff of Touraine, and of Margeret de Dormans And the said John Budwus I ord of Jerre, was som of Dreux Budwus, Lord of the same Places, and the said Dreux Budwus, Son of another Druex Budwus, Lord of Villiers on the Marne, and of Jerre, and thu Dreux Budwus Son of John Budwus, who live dunder Charles Budæus Son of John Budæus, who liv d under Charles

the V

(B) That he would impair his Health] Very ingenious Persons pretend that the Event shewed the Vanity of those Threats, and that he knew how to preserve his Health (d) But others (e) say, that he fell into a long and painful Sickness, and that a continual Head-ach obliged the Physicians to order him a kind of Trepanning The Operation was very painful, but very successful (f) In gravem & duturnum morbum of prolapsis, que annos plus viginti ita afficiatui of, ut omnis propè bilaritae è fronte, alacritae en animo, sestivitas in occursu, urbanitas & comitae in convictu eximeretur, ingraviscens quoque indici literarum amor infringeretur, ne vestigium quidem dies literarum amer infringeretur, ne vestigium quidem ejus nec simulachrum, sed quadam effigiet spirantis mertui appareret. It's no wonder that such long and stubborn Inconveniencies shou'd make him melancholly, and produce so many Alterations in his Body and Mind leurs ésudes (C) He found no Body whose Disciple he could be] Some Limitation must be given to these general Terms, for it is certain that George Hermonymus a Native of Lacedemon, John Lascaris, and James Taber of Etaples, had taught our William something. As Regius in Men Budai where he had pass'd Three Years The Barbarism which reign'd at that time in the Schools, was the Cause of his going to Orleans without understanding the Larin Authors, and the want of understanding them, hinder'd his making any Progress in the Civil *Law Being return'd to his Father's House he lost much more Time; he spent his Days in Hunting, and in the Pleasures of Youth, but quitted them after fome Years, and found such an Inclination for Learning, that the Ardour wherewith he apply'd himself to Study, is not to be express'd. He denied himself all kind of Diversions, and grudg'd even the necessary Hours for his Meals and Sleep. On the num ignatus Lati- very Day of his Wedding, he withdrew at least three Hours from the Company, to ne lin- spend them with his Books "Twas in vain to tell him that he would impair (B) his Health, and slip Opportunities of making his Fortune. Nothing was able to abate his Ardour. The vast Learning he acquir'd by addicting himself so closely to Study, would be no such Wonder, had he had good Masters who might at least have served for Guides, or if he had had Concurrents whose Parts had given him, together with a great Emulation, an instructive Parallel But he (C) found none whose Disciple he could be, nor any one to keep up with him in that Career So that it may be said, he studied (D) only under himself One of the Things he studied with the greatest Application, was the Greek Tongue, and he begun with it when he had a Mind to give publick Marks of the Progress he had made in Learning For the first Work he Budaus publish'd, is a Translation of some of Plutarch's Treatises He afterwards publish'd his nactus Notes † on the Pandetts, and then his Treatise de Asse, &c The Glory of being the magna first (E) who clear'd the nice Matter concerning the Coins and Measures of the An-mercede cients, had been contested with him, but he shewed that they should not easily wrest stum ad that Crown from him. How great soever the Services are that he did the Republick fe accersion the Learned by his Wrirings, we may affirm that it is not on this side that it is vit, & anmost obliged to him He behaved himself in such a Manner, that his great Learn-dimitte-ing did not render him odious to the Inquisitors, so that his Reputation remaining found found > foon as he heard of Hermonymus's coming (g) to

>
> Paris, he fecured him to himself, at a great Sallary,
>
> Hermonymus read Homer, and other chief Authors to > him, but as he did not understand them thoroughnim, but as he did not understand them thoroughly, so he was not able to explain them (b) Huic (h) Ibid Graco cum aliquot annos operam dedisset, & eo pralegente audivisset Homerum authoresque alies insignes, n.hilo dottior est fastius Neque enim praceptor ille plura docere quam sciret poterat John Lascaris came to Paris a little after He conceiv d a great Lsteem for Budaus, seeing him inclin'd to the Greek Tongue, but he gave him only 20 Lessons in all (1) James but he gave him only 20 Lessons in all (1) James Fabers taught him the Mathematicks, but the Scholar apprehended with so much Ease all that the Master proposed, that he quickly drain'd him of all his Knowledge. The latter, tho' he was largely paid for his Lessons, was sooner wearied of Teaching, than the other of being taught (k) Marke-maticas disciplinas a Jacobo Fabro nobili Philosopho didicit ad quas tantum ingenis & alacritatis initio (l) It is to a statistic at any large and a statistic at a superior and a statistic at any large and a statistic at a superior and a statistic and a superior a Itaque dumo (1) It s the attulit, ut evolare non excurrere viderctur. Itaque dumo Faber multa proponit, Rudaus omnia asseguitur, co res venit, ut prius ille docendo desatigaretur, etsi magnam mercedem accipiebat, quam hic discendo. Neminem praterea Audivit

(D) That he studied only under himself] He repre-fented the two notable Circumstances of his Studies in Greek Words, the one that he begun them late, the other, that he had no Masters, I say he represented them, by the Tengas of authority, and which was shewed to Cuthert Tonstal. He afterwards writ a Letter to the latter, wherein he made him a pretty long Description of his manner of Studying. He owns, that after his Return from the Literacture of Columns. Studying He owns, that after his Return from the University of Orleans, he past some Years in doing nothing but what young Folks do who know (m) nothing He says in another place, that besides those two Things, there was a Third which oblig'd him to apply himself extraordinarily to Study, to wit, that he had not much Penetration of Mind (n) Omnia majorem in modum facere atquetiam maximum mishi necesse erat homini nec ingenio felici pradito, & qui in adolescentia clausula non dico discipulu, sed tantum trunculus busus studii esse capissem, & verò gentisis illius Aristippi qui metrodidactus adpellustus est deneque qui a memet ipso omnia mu arrie pagretu, si quidem undus eras unde rogare possem retu, si quidem mustus erat unde regarc possemum musta progressiones, si quidem mustus erat unde regarc possemum 155 (E) Of being the first who clear d] An Italian call'd (n) Bi delemardus Persus, pretended to have the only right.

Leonardus Persus, pretended to have the only right.

Italian call'd (n) Bi delegate to the progression of the left off all Raillery He was down-right of the progression and the progression of the pro angry, and declared, he was indebted to no li- tom i ving Person for what he had publish'd on that mat- pag 35 ter, and that Portius had pirated him (o) Quod cum (o) Lud off ad Budaum allatum, graviter warfs, quad nihit Regius is

gentis

Bud eus's it sthe 3 those of L. Regius ib 11th of the 1 Book Domum ieverius lalutem dixi literis,ftudiis utique indulgens tis illite. ratæ, quoid

tam pag Gi

,

found and entire, was a powerful Protection to I iterature, which many endeavour'd (F) to stiffle in the Birth, as the Mother and Nurse of Opinions which did not please the Court of Rome. He was mightily admired by (G) the Court of France, alloon as his Learning was once known, but he forbore going to Court is much as possible, till he discover'd Frances I's Inclination for Learning "Twas when the Court we at Ardres at the Time of the Interview between that Prince and the King of Englands," that Francis I order'd our William Budæus first to attend him (H) From that Jime forward, he took a Pleasure in hearing him discourse, he committed his Library to him, and gave him a Place of Master of Requests. At the same time, the Town-House of the City of Paris, Elected him Provost of the Merchants. He was one of the chief Promoters of the Defign, which Francis I afterwards executed, of founding Professorships at Paris, for the Languages and Sciences He had a Difference with Anthony du Prat, Chancellor of France, which was the Reason why he appear d no officer at Court than his Place requir'd, but the Time came when he was soldon any where else, for his good I riend Poyer was promoted to the Office of Chanceller, and would have Budæus almost constantly with him The excessive He its of the Yeir 1540, cbliged Francis I to take a Progress to the Coasts of Normandy, in Hopes of finding a cooler Air there Budeus went that Progress, and fell into a Fever, which made cam prater opinionem accidiffet quam ut depelleretur de sum præter opinionem acciaijet quam ut aepeueretur de ejus laudis possessione, quam caducam & vacuam primus bona fide occupasset, & sine cujusquam injuria quasi usu-cepisset. Igitur vehementissima animi, ingenii, virium, contentione jus suum desendit, atque hoc ipsum palam testatus est, a nullo se unquam homine duntaxat qui viverct, his de rebus quas tradidiset, quicquam didicisse vel fando vel legendo tantumque abisse ne quid a Portio acceperit, ut omnia qua sub nomine Portii ad eam prodierant, illa uno codem continuato perpetuoque furto ef-fent ex suo Asse translata Ac æmulo illi sempiternam sent ex suo Asse translata. Ac amulo illi simpiternam notam ac ignominiam inussiss, mis intercissione amici sohn Lascaris, who was a briend to both, hinder d that Quarrel from going any further, and by dint of Intreaty obtain d that Budaus should not insert in the 2d Edition the sharp Discourse that he had made against Portius. The Author confess'd when the heat of his Anger was over, that he had been too passionate, and this made him resolve never to be mov'd more by the Attacks which had been too passionate, and this made him resolve never to be mov'd more by the Attacks which should be made upon him. He let People say what they pleas'd, and peaceably suffer'd Agicola to assume what share he pleas'd in that Honour (a). At the time that he writ his Book of The Institution of a Prince, he had only receiv'd some Applauses on his Work de Asse. He glory'd in it, but without exceeding the bounds of Modesty. As he express'd himself in a manner that may serve for a Pattern to other great Persons, I shall make no difficulty to set down his own Words, tho' his Style is somewhat harsh. He addresses himself to Francis I (b) A vostre tresdessir & treshcureux advencment a la (b) Budæ(b) A vostre tresdess of treshcureux advencment a la us of Theo tresmolic Coronne de I rance, (he addresses himiels to Institution

Francis I) qui fut le jour des Calendes de Janvier Je parachevay & mu en avant & evidence, le livre des poix & mesures, nombres monoyes, & toute la maniere de compter des anciens tant Grees, que Latins, auquel j'ay monstre des anciens tant Grecs, que Latins, auquel j'ay monstre de csimé les r ch sis des grands Royaulmes, Principaulies, dominations, de Empires, dont les Histoires font mention. Et le tout reduits a la monoye de present Et en ce faisant, ay esclarey de interprete grand nombre de lieux de pussaignes sans rien obmettre a mon pouvoir de sçavoir tant es histoires, que es aultres Autheurs Grees de l'atine. Les que en paraisme chamaches. Grees & Latins Lesquelz au paravant effoient mal entendux, combien que pluscurs gens scavants s'en feusp sent mu en esset & pense qu'il me sera permu, d'en dire ce petit mot, sans aulcune arrogance, pun que ausmire ce pesis mot, jans autoune arrogance, puis que aul-cums plus sçavants que moy oftrangers, & autres le con-sessent, ainsy que autouns de lours Livres le tesmoignent, qui par eulx ont est depuis publi s par impresson. Et en cela sculement je me vouldroye maintenir avoir mieulx faict, ou par adventure mieulx remonstre en cest endroitt, que les autres. Car d'au ast sout sou apparent de acconque les aultres Car j'ay est tout seul opinant de ceste matiere contre touts ceulx, qui paravant moy ont escript, & mesmes depuis cent ans, ou au moins tout aultrement qu'ilz n'ont faict Qui a esté la cause & le moyen du qu'ilz n'ont faitt. Qui a esté la cause & le moyen du grand labeur, & du temps de quinze moys que j'as occupe à entendre & escripre ceste matiere, & la mener jusques a resolution sinale, & conclusion du Livre (c) Nul ne s'est encore depuu apparu, qui en ce m'ayt ouvertement contredit. Mau y en a (comme dist est) qui l'ent expressement approue combien que au reste des choses concernentes le faist des bonnes lettres, je me repute moundre que les austres, ainsy que la raison le voult, & ma congnoissance le juge. Et mesmement que ceuix mesmes, contre lesquelz j'ay esté d'apinion contraire en ceste matière. Car je consesse avoir beaucoup apprins d'enin en autres choles, comme de gens de souveraine se ence & industrie Dont la plus part sont all s de vie, a trespas Mau un homme moyen en intelligence de squois, et moindre que mediocre, comme 11 suis, peult bien surmonter un grand & excellent homme en une intention en laquelle ils'est fort addonn, jajoit ce que aultres choses il ni soit

egal a luy

(I) Which many endeavour'd to flift in the Birth, as the Mother and Nurse of Opinion: It is better explain this in Lewis le Rois Words than my own (d)

(d) Cam in maximus, siys he, opinionum procellis & kee turbulentissimus tempissatibus ingins Greca lingui confurm onlie esset invoidia, quod harum slips, & semin malos, rum omnium videretur, cum oni faces undique ab important preferenture cum in perturbationi veterus discip probis praferren ur, cum in perturbatione veteris difeiplina frem haberent inimici ad elegantiam literarum non dignitatem modo extinguendam, sed etiam gloriam per principes viros infringendam, cum in his asperitatibus rerum eruditi plerique de religione suspetti habitentur nec fatus effent inter imperitorum greges tuts hie solus non modò integra mente, verùm etiam existimatione permansit Nihil in ejus vita aut in oratione guisquam po-tuit invenire, quod jure reprehenderet Quod labenti rei literaria certissimum prassidium attulit Nisi enim u contigifet orba politioni doctrina quasi legitimus tutor, qui eam apud Principem, in senatu, in concionibus exagitatam tueretur, ac tantisper dum invidia consideret, domi septam teneret liberali custodia, atque a sceliratorum hominium impetu prohiberet, haud dui e n stris finibus concta effet excedere

(G) He was much admir'd by the Court of France] He (i) Budieus was known there before the Death of Charles VIII at philolo-That Prince having heard fay, that Budens was a very Learned Man, would fain fee him, and order'd him to come to Court, but did not live long enough to advance him He informs us of this himself (e) A Carolo ego commodum in aulam accersitiu fueram, cum ille repentino caju sublatus est exierat jam rumusculus quidam studiorum incorum qui ad eum permanavirat nihil minus me agente Guy of Rochefort, Chancellor of France, piocur'd that Honour
tor out Budem, as is observed in the 87th page of his Life Lewn XII Successor of Charles VIII imploy'd Budew (f) twice on Ambassies into Italy, and afterwards made him one of his Secretaries He'd have been made Counfellor in the Parliament of Paris, had he not chose to hu-band his time for his Study, rather than ingage in an Office that would have occasion d too great a diversion (H) Order'd him to attend him the first time] not think mysels in the wrong, in generally sollowing this Rule, That an Author who writes the Life of a Man, is more to be relyed on than they who only mention him occasionally let this does not hinder me from believing, that in certain Cases we ought to prefer what we read in other Books, before that which we find in a written Life: I give an Example to my Purpose in this Remark Lewis le Ros does not only not say, that Francis I fent William Budaus to Rome to negotiate with Pope I o X but expressy remarks that Budaus was not sent for to the Court of Francis I before that Prince was at Ardres to confer with the King of England PRIMUM evocatus Ardeam quem in locum ren quoque Britannorum Henricus convenerat, Regius, ubi cum tanti conventus splendore excitatus, tum admirabili 86 fama incredibilium virtutum sui principis incensus, sane

Jupra, pag

rebus legatum in Italiam aliquot proceri-bus fuis quibus in legationibus fic fidem tu am, dilipentiam. ingenium regi probavit, ut magnam gratiam ab eo ipío miret, paulo mox in runi regioruth nuretur Lud Regius, ubs

pag 187

Inflitution of a Prince,

chap 45 pag 186

trake tim earnestly wish himself at Home. He had his Wish, but it did not recover him; from the only had the Satisfaction of dying amidst his own Family (I) which was numeroust.

Life continued the Satisfaction of dying amidst his own Family (I) which was numeroust.

Life continued the Satisfaction of dying amidst his own Family (I) which was numeroust.

The Date of his Death has been falsified by (IA) several Writers, which is very strange, possed by the Glory that distinguish'd his Reputation. The manner in which he delewis le Roi to be buried, produc'd (K) some Suspicions about his Religion, which were much increast

(a) Ibid. qued v riutis, & literarum ergo se intelligebat accersiri (a) The Interview of Ardres happen'd in the Year (b) Varillas, Hiftoi-1520 It wou'd therefore be false according to Lewis re de Franle Rei, that our William negotiated for Francis I, with Leo X in the Year 1515 Yet I dare not dispute the Ambassy which Mr Varillas mentions under the Year 1515 "(b) Budaus was not unskilful "in Negotiations, although he had liv'd at Paris" unprawised in any other Conversion has the fois I l 1 p m 32 He cites in the Margin, In the Negotiaunpractifed in any other Conversation but that of his Books The Academy of Rome, which had never been so polite since the Age of Au-"had never been 10 polite lince the Age of Au"gustus, as it was at that time, gave him an ex"traordinary Reception, and he quickly acquir'd
"the Pope's Familiarity, because he excell'd chiefly "in the Knowledge of the Greek Antiquities, which
"the Pope himself pretended to "The same Author adds, that the Objections which the Pope made, supply d Budwus with a large Field enough to shew his profound Learning, and that the Pope, who defired nothing mere than to prolong the Negociation, and conclude nothing, took Care not to interrupt him, or make Master of Requests, Keeper to with Leo conclude nothing, took Care not to interrupt him, or make Marthe 13 him perceive the Digressions in which he engaged himhis Elogies felf insensibly, but on the contrary, his Holines's created from time to time new Occasions for thom Add to this, what he says in his Preface, "Budans's Exam-6 Speaksthus Vir tanta this, what he says in his Preface, "Budaus's Exam" ple serves admirably to shew that a Person is not the more fit to negotiate nice Affairs, be-cause he is one of the most learned of his Age tione Mu-And I ought to receive Thanks for having remark d this, if it were only for the Rarity of the Matter "But how cou'd Mr Varillas fay, fis operatus à ci-That Budaus had liv'd in Paris without any other Conversation than that of his Books, if the two Ambassies under Lewis XII be true? Does not he make negociis & Reiit plainly appear, that he was not only ignorant of what Lewis le Roi faid, but also of what Budens inpubl cura non absinuates? Budaus represents to Cuthert Tonfial, how fuit Nam he had managed himself in his Studies, he owns he had seen divers learned Persons in Italy, cisco priand adds that he had no lessure to be acquainted mo in auwith them, because he was charg'd with publick Affairs (c) Interim bis Romam adii, urbesque insignes lam fæpe accerfitus Italia, doctos ubi homines per transonnam vida potius quam audivi, & literarum meliorum Prosissores tan-quam a limine salutavi, quantum scilicet homini licuit mam de belli foci-Italiam raptim peragranti nec libera legatione Lastly, I observe that he was become a Courtier of Francis etate cum I's Court, before that Prince's Interview with Henry VIII This appears from a Letter (d) of Erasmus, dated in February 1519, wherein he writes to Budeus, Quomodo tibi successerie expeditio quemadme-Pontifice adversus Cæfarem dum vocas aulica partim ex tuis ad Ludovicum Vi-& Helvevem literis intellexi It appears yet more plainly from a Letter of Budeus, wherein he speaks of a Journey he was to take with Stephen Poncher, newtios contrahenda unà cum ly promoted to the Archbishoprick of Sens piscopus Parisiensis jam Senonensis Archiepiscopus factus est liberalistate regia, etsi nondum res peratta est. Totus jam est aula, nec nobis licet cum eo loqui. Quodam ta-men die, cum in interiori cubiculo Principis esset, dinit regni proab eodem principe legatus mihi se ad te scribere statuise - Iturus est propediem in legationem Narbonem versus cum aulicerum dispensato-rum decurione cum quo etiam ire me Rez jussit, ut nueft He merus sim potius quam ut aliquam operam certam navem in ea provincia sic enim interpreter He does not note the Year in the Date of that Letter, but Emba/fies it's plain, he writ it while the Court was in a Ferment on Occasion of the Death of the Emperor That Emperor died the 12th of Ja-Maximilian (c) Epiftol

(1) His Family which was numerous.] He left 7 Sons and 4 Daughters, there's nothing more faid of them in his History, but I have read in other Books, that because he had a great Number of Sons and Grand-sons, he desired he might be burned by Night forestering that if they haved him ried by Night, foreseeing, that if they buried him by Night, foiefeeing, that it they buried him by Day, there would have been too much crying of little Children, and of those of his Family The Author who informs me of this, notes that the Wise of Budeus was so far from hindring her Husband from Studying, that she serv'd him for a Helpmate as well in the Closet as in the Bed, and look'd out the Passages and the necessary Books for him.

I do not translate literally, which will soon be perceived, but I think I do not change my Author's Thought Nec Budown a literis uner avocavit, sed magis in its confirmavit, quam sibi in Musarum sacrario semper assidentem, & aliquid librorum in manibus habentem, non tantum vita, sed studierum queque sociam & commilitonem nominabat nec eundem magnus liberorum nepotumque numerus in fludiis interpellavit, qui quidem dicitur fuiffe tantus, ut antequam moreretur, noctu suum funus efferri, tumularique mandaret, ut alsquo modo compesceret stetum ejula umque puerorum, quem futurum non obscure providebat (f) I have read one of (g) Budaus s Letters, wherein he only says, that the Caresses of his Wife were not able to divorce him from his Books He does not fay, that he found in her a Help as to his Studies He reprefound in her a Help as to his Studies He repre-fents himself as married to two Wives, one who brought him Sons and Daughters, the other Ph-lology which produc'd him Books He had been married 12 Years when he writ that Letter, and he had had (h) fix Sons and one Daughter by that Philology was not fo fruitful, Budeus had c'd fewer Books than Children He had laproduc'd fewer Books than Children He had laboured more with the Body than the Soul, but he hoped that ar the long-run he should leave more Books than Children He said the Fertility of the Soul should have its turn, it will raise it's felf on the Ruins of that of the Body The prolifick Vertue is not given all at once to the natural Organs, or to the Pen (1) Sic enim statuebam min esse faciendum, ut conjugem quidem legitimam haberem libero- Pag 150 rum parentem, ex Philologia autem libros, id est, nominis mei æternam memoriam, prolemque immortalem gignerem Liberos jam plures aliquanto quam libros ge-nus, plus corpori fortaffe quam animo indulgens Posthac (ut Spero) marcescente corpore, animus indies vegetior Or vividior fiet, utrumque autem simul ex aquo prolisi-cum esse nequit, sed cum emerita facultates corporis esse caperint, tum demum viribus animi stipendia plene pro-cedent. We shall speak below (k) of the Alterations of Religion in that Family (IA) The Date of his Death has been falsified by several Writers] La Croix du Maine makes him die the 25th of August, 1540. Spendanus (1) the 20th of August, and Peter de Re Romuald (m) the 3d of August of the same Year, Father Garasse (n) in 1539 Mr de Launes (o) the 1st of September 1573 The Truth is, that he died the 23d of August, 1540 He who shought to correct Reusners by Mr de He who thought to correct Reusnerus by Mr de Launoi is deceiv'd (p) Launoius dicit Budamm obiisse A 1573 Calend Septembr ut falli necesse sit Mo-colaum Reusnerum qui in Iconibus ejus obitum refert and

(K) The manner in which he defired to be buries duc'd some Suspicions] He declared by his Will a Year before he died, that he would be buried without any Ceremonies These are his Words (q) I desire to be carried to the Grove by Math, and without Invitation, only with one Torch or same most, nor will have it proclaim'd in the Church of in the City, that I am to be buried this or that Day For I never approv'd mouraful Ceremonies and sureal Pomps I forbid and the made some as well for this, as for other mournful Geremonies and funeral Pomps I forbid any to be made for me, as well for this, as for other things that cannot be done without Scandal Nor will & have any Funeral Geremony, or other Representation on bout the Place where I shall be buried for the Year after my Decease, because they seem to me Imitations of the Cenotaphes which the Gentiles anciently made use of A Jesuit who was in other respects impatient, and very easie to be frighted at the least Innovations, condemn'd those who did not put a good Construction upon this Conduct He will have it, that this learned Man acted thus from a Principle of Humility only, and by an Effect of that studious Humour which had made him live so much in Private He fays (r) That good Soul having lived among the Dead, ing to that be might live for over among the Living, and having intirely separated himself from all Company to add the limself to Solitude in his Life-time, retains the St Ni same Humour at he Death, for he ordered by his time scholas's Will, that his Body should be carry'd by Night, mishour Flambeaux, or Funeral Pomp, from Sainte Avoye Street, where he died, to the (r) Celestines, which is he was bupretty long way, and would be bury'd without Geremony, without with.

increast myma in differtatione de literatimatrimonio p 367 It's printed with the Amours of Baudius

> (g) 15's the 30 of the 2 Book among those of Eralmus

(b' Mores staken then when he Says Budæ-Sons and 2 Daugh-

30 Eraf. mi lib 2

(k) In she Rembra L

(1) Spondan ad ann 1540 N IO

(m) Journal Chronolog tom 2 pag 137

(n)Garasse ubs infra

PAE 182

(p) Fob Albertus cade decad fol V wer-

(q) Mr de Lomo: Higure de Gollege de Navar re, pag

(r) Garaf. Se, Dollrine curieuse. PAE 920

(s) Accorde

262 (e) Epift Erasm: 59 1 3.50g 245

24g 90

tion of

Budans

and Library-

Sainte

pag m enimi

vilibus interim

& Ro-

Leone

fummo

aliquot thing of under

XII

Lewis

Erasmi 30

(d) The 70 of the 3

Book pag

1 2 pag 156

increast by his Widow's (L) making open profession of Protestantism at Geneva with fome of her Children It is nevertheless certain that in his Writings he seems very opposite to the (M) Reformers, though he had sometimes spoken very chemently * against the Court of Rome, and against the Corruptions of the Clergy It is said of The that he never would (N) suffer his Picture to be drawn, and that going to raske a Speech (O) to Charles V he was at a stand His Latin and French (P) Style were of the

He miwas in 1540

(b) Maimbourg, Hift du Calvinifme, pag upon mbuh fee the Cri 3d Ldit

(c) Ogier sugement O censure du livre de La doctrine curuuse, pag 190, 191

(d) Launot pag 877 |hews this Pal-Sage makes nothing against the Cati olicity of Buuzus ..

(e) Mclancht cpift p 585 edition Bafil 1505 apud Colo-Gallia Orient p 16 ter of Melancthon to Camerarius, daii 1549 a at p 908 a of the Lon- a ďon (dit ın 164. are found thele Words Hac narratio fi era est. admirationem magnam• res pariet Budæi conjugem anum cum filiabus agraffe Genevam ad Calvini Eccletiam,in qua & alii multi nobiles ho-mines in

Gallia ex-

ulare di-

without Attendance, and without Invitation or ringing of Bells It's true, that this Northly gave occasion to different Discourses, the Preachers of those Times taking the matter in the worst sense, because of the Times which began to smell of the Faggot, and were already imbuid with certain suspicious Opinions, for it was in the Year (a) MD XXXIX when Luther had set almost all Gertique Gene- many on five, but Budæus's former Life, the Integrirale, lettre ty and Innocency of his Manners, the publick Opinion, 16 pag and his heroick Aftions at Venice and Paris, for the 274, of the Howour of Religion, and the Advancement of Learning, were faithful Witnesses of the contrary, insomuch, that the wiscst remain'd edify'd by his Humility, whereas others were offended at the Novelty And indeed it is true, that Budwus might do what he did from a sentiment of Humility, as we have seen divers Saints do, who have desir d that their Bodies should be deny'd Christian Burial, or without Honour A little after, he continues thus Melin of Saint Gelais, knowing that Budaus s Intention was good and agreeable to his Humour, which had been always folitary, and an enemy to the hurry of Company, wrote an excellent Epigram in Honour of the deceas d, whereby he made it appear, that Bud eus in humbling himself, had acquir'd more Glory, than others do by the most pompous Obsequies Qui est celui que tout le monde suit?

Las c off Bud au cercueil estendu Pourquoi n ont faict les cloches plus grand bruit? Son nom Sans cloche est affiz espandu Que n'a t-on plus en torches despendu, Survant la mode accouste mee & saintée? Afin quil fust par l'obscur entendu, Que des Irançois la lumière est estimte.

The Prior Ogier, was not as indulgent as Garasse, he blames him tor hiving defended the Conduct of Budaus. It may be, he would have blam dhis Criticizing him, if Garaffe had done what one of his (b) own Internity did in speaking of the Chancellor de l'Hopital, for commonly they who turn Criticks, take every thing in the wrong Sense Let us see the Words of the Censurer of the Destrine Curinse "(c) Pag 919 He would fain justify Willlam Budeus against the Accusations of the Down tors and Pieachers of lys Time, who had conceiv d some Sulpicions of him after his Death, because of the Novelty of his I uneral They had because of the Novelty of his Luneral They had certainly some Ground to make a sinister Judgment of him Ioi, besides the bad Impressions which the Novelty of his I uneral made, it a time when all our I orces ought to be bent against the growing Herefy, and nothing relax d of the ordinary Ceremonies of the Church, he was of the Opinion of that good Grammarian, of whom Gareffi speaks in the 7th Section of the third Book, who supposed that disputing on any material Questions of Divinity, was so much time ill imployed. See how he speaks in one of his Fpistles to Erasmus Reddidirat epistolam juvenis, is quem mibi commendafi. Soilone nunc agentim μαιλον δε οι συρβοντιοί λιμαν διατεμβοντικ, κτω γ εικατως διτοκλοινιμοί την τη συρεισών διατεμβον lt Garaffe had known this Patrage (d), I believe he esteem'd the sorbonne so much that he would have refer'd Budens to the Joys of the Romans, as lightly as he packs off that good Grammarian to the Country of the Impertments, among the Trifles of the Athenians

(L) His Widow's making open Profession of Protestantism] The Passage of Milanchthon's Letters which I am going to cite, testifys, that the Lxample of that Woman, was of great weight, because it was be-liev'd, that her Husband's good Discourses had much affisted her to know the Truth Venit buc quissiam ex Gallia nobilis vir ac doctus, qui narrat ho-nestissimam matronam viduam Budai, una cum siliabuc Lutetia migraffe ad alvini Ecclesiam, ut ibi & vocem Lvangelii audiat, & longius absit a savitia qua in regno Gallico adversus Evangelis studiosos exercetur Hoc exemplomatrona valde movers mutios homines in Gallia exemplomations value movers multos nomines in Galla sdem affirmat, propteres quod mortus mariti sui dottissimi & gravissimi viri judicio existimatur hanc dottrinam ampletti, de qua ipsum multa piè disersisse ante mutem constat (e) The Daughters of the great Bu-

daus, were not the only Persons of the Family that retird to Geneva Lewis Budeus their Brother, went thither also where he was Professor of the Hebrew Tongue He publish'd a Latin I millation of the Plalms with Notes See the Gallia Orientalis of Golomis, page 15 and 16 We have tooken before of John Budeus, who was one of the three Deputies that were fent into Cermany about the Affairs Scealfo the of the Church Matthew Buten then Biother, Remark D is prais'd by Henry Stephene (1) as a Man who understood the Hebrew Tongue thoso ghly The Potre le Julifterity of Budens subsites still in Geneva, and makes us II a confiderable Figure there

(M) Very opposite to the Reformers | See his Work (f) In pra-intituled, De Transitus Heliculus and Christianismum in Disci-and which he dedicated to Francis I in the Year archi a-1535, a little after Calvin had dedicated his Chripud Cole-firm Inflitutions to that Monarch Budgus recom-mends the ancient Lath to him, and prairies him (ail 1) for the famous (g) Procession that was made to ex prate the Attempt of the Hereticks, this was the Language of those Times Mr de Lauror (h) or of this Passage, and adds another to it, which discovers our Budaus S Zeal against those who were (1) See call d Innovitors

(N) That he would never suffer his Picture to he drawn I I can give you no other Proof of this, than these tour Veries

Nec voluit vivus fingi p ngive Budeus, N c vatum moriens que, it clos a Hunc qui tanta sue mentis monumenta reliquit Externa puduit vivere vell manu

The Author (1) whom I quote in the Margent, fiys, that this is Budaus's Epitaph, composed by Stephen Paquier

(0) To make a Speech to Charles V he was at a fland] I have read this no where but in the first Volume of lather Abram on Cicero's O ations (1) Perius Mellius libro ; variarum lectionum cap 8 multa magno-rum Oratorum exempla corradit, quos initio decendi per-turbatos repente memoria defect. Ut Demosthenem coram Philippo, Theophrafium coram Ar opag tie, Herodem Atteim coram M Antonino, Heraclidem Iye im coram Severo Augusto, Bartholom eum Socinum coram Alexandro Six o Addi potuisset & marnus ille Budeus, gui Carolum V Casarem Parissos ven entem oratione excepturus repente obmutust liench Style was somewhat harsh] () St Ro-Most have found fault with his expression in the Book of The Institution of a Prince, address'd to fournal Irancu I where he calls his manner of writing Chronologic "Irancu I where he calls his manner of writing "in the Epistie to the king, a Style of a high strain "and glittering Besides, he was obtenie and unpolithed, witness these Words of the same Epists of the Je wous requires de recevoir mon offre avec grand liesse & alacrite, offre d exigue estimation compare a wostre hau cur (1)." I require you to receive my Offer with great joy and alacrity, an Offer of exiguous Esteem compared with your Highness. See what Genebrard and Daniel Augustius saw See what Genebrard and Daniel Augentius lay of him in du Verd er's Bibliothique

Having confulted the Epistle Deutcatory of the Inflitution of a Prince, I find nothing at all in it of what Saint Romund alledges here My Edition is that which Messiere John de Luxembourg, Abbot of that which Melliere John de Luxembourg, Addot of Ivry, of Rivou and Salmoify had printed in his Abbey of Rivou, in the Year 1546, in Folio Note, by the way, a Fault of Mr Joli (m), who fays, That that Work was not printed till the Reign of Himy II in 1547, in Folio and in 8vo It is besides very evident from the Fpistle Dedicatory, and from all the rest of the Book, that the Author knew himself when he owns, That he (k) Nicol Author knew himself when he owns, That he (k) Nicol neither could, nor (n) would praise himself For Abramiu knowing the Purity of the I rench Disting in Cicer that he was very little verid in the I rench Orat com

(i) St Romuald, ub: Supra (m) Jol: Codicille d'or, p 36 (n) Budæus ub: Supra in the Epistle Dedicatory both Witnesses of the Truth, p m 1934 and the follow ni fetracts of the Book de Affe

* See inthe

nume, /y A 10 houis, pa 33 Lis lande

(h) Hiftor Gymnafu NTLATTE p 878 &

the 3d of August

I par

BUDEUS. BULGARUS.

4 Epist Erasmi 15

Ludov Vives in lib 2 c 17 Augustini de civitate Des de clar legum interpret 1 2 c 15 p m 127

Law in the University of Bologna * Id 1b cap 14 pag 124 † Ob 1nfignem quam o-ftendit dostrinam pro eo (Fiderico Ænobar-6a) Bono-

nia ad jus dicendum Vıcarius cre itus fuerit Id 1bid c 15 pag 127

(b) Iud Regius in vita Budes PAS 77

(A) St Ro-

Supra

nuald, ubi

(c) Lud Regius 16 pag 76

(d) In the oth somewhat harsh. His Father as I have already said was of a considerable ancient Family; and yet I have read that our Budeus got it (2) ennobled. This Man being family; and yet I have read that our Budeus got it (2) ennobled. This Man being family; and yet I have read that our Budeus got it (2) ennobled. This Man being family; and yet I have read that our Budeus got it (2) ennobled. This Man being family and the standard of the the into Hatred They t who have faid that notwithstanding their Dif-Budeus brought it so about that Erasmus was sent for to Paris, know nothing of the Mitter, for the Quarrel between em was not begun when Budeus acquitting himself of the Commission that was given him to make offers to Erasmus in the Name of Francis the 1st, advis'd him to accept them Edition of all his Works was Printed at Basil in the Year 1557, in 4 Volumes in 160, with an ample Preface by Celius Secundus Curio

A finer Llogie cannot be feen than that which | Lodovicus Vives made on our Budaus, for in few Words he represents him as a Prodigy of Learning, and ascribes such moral Vertues to him as deserve the Admiration of all the World I think it may justly enough be said of this great Man, that he made himself more fear'd than belov'd in the Common-wealth of Learning, and this does not seem to me a Mark of Perfection, but rather a shrewd Sign of Fierceness and Impatience and of his arming Cap-apee against those who criticis'd him The Concern that a Prosessor of (S) Venice express'd when some Body had advertis'd the Publick, that he did not follow the Opinion would alone be a sufficient Demonstration that he had made of the learned Budæus, r In Givil himfelf very formidable BULGARUS, one of the most famous Civilians of the 12th Century, was surnamed Golden-mouth on account of the Charms of his Speech & He was one of the four Professors , whom Frederick Barbarossa consulted in the Year 1158, to know how far the Liperor's Rights ought to extend in Italy, * and he showed himself so able a Lawyer in this Consultation, that the Prince conferr'd a † Judges place upon him He behaved himself in it with a great deal of Integrity, insomuch that his Judgments served for a Rule in all the Tribunals of Italy, in Cales that were doubtful He perfectly that I may not that I may not that I may not the had suaded the Inhabitants of Bologna to yield themselves up to that Emperor He had taught that when a married Woman dies before her Father, the Husband is oblig'd to The Case happen'd to himself, and he conform'd (A) generousrestore her Dowry

above, Remark A

(R) Would never quote Erasmus] They came to defending and proving which had no very good effect. See the I etters which they writ to each other among those of Erasmus. To me it always the Erasmus was more moderate and civil quote Erasmus] They came feem d that Erasmus was more moderate and civil to Budaus than he was to Erasmus Was it not very unlocable, not to grant the favour of one Ciration ? (b) Id parum amica voluntatis argumentum crediderunt, quod ' Budao in tot numero libris mentio nufquam falta sit Erasmi, quamquam ut sieret multis precibus ab Erasmo ambirciur Praterea putant id quoque ad ista qua dixi accidire, quod Budaus dissimulanter Eralmum in suis libric nonnunquam perstringere videtur, velut in Commentaries, quando redet illos, que de singu-lorum ingenio, & eloquentia sententiam ferre audent, que Laurentio inferiores prascribunt loquendi formulae, qui leviora quedam scripta in vulgus edunt, que nec se-lem nec etatem firant. See above the Nosse that was rais'd upon Erasmus because 'twas pretended, that he compai'd Budeus to Badius I shall quote another Passage which shews what are commonly the confequences of the Emulation of Great Men (c) Et difficillimum inter illos nullam intercedere obtrettationem, inter quos tanta laudis est amulatio, quantum fuit inci-dere necesse, inter Erasmum atque Budaum, cum se uterque in literis esse principem cuperet. Nam quicquid oft esusmodi in quo excellere praclarum exstimant, in co plerumque sit tanta contentio, ut vix possis benevolentia servari (S) The Concern that a Profiffer of Venice ex-pressed when some body had informed the Publick] We have seen (d) that there arose a Dispute between Will am Budans and Leonard Portius about Coyns and Measures Now it happend that Egnatim follow'd in fome part of his Commentaty on Suctionism the Calculations of Portism, and that Erasmus adding a Preface to that same Commentary an a new Edition, that of Basil apud Johannem Frobemium 1518, in Folio, says expressly, that Egnatius was not of Budaw's Opinion It happen'd that Egnatius was much vex d at that Remark of Erasmus He fear'd the Confequences of it, immediately came upon his Justification, and had recourse to the Intercession of an eminent Man, whom he earnestly

(2) That our Budæus got it ennobled] "(a) His intreated to pacify Budæus, I say, he earnestly "Heirs were declar d Noble by a Decree of the "Court of Aids, in the Year 1578, on the score of his Personal Merits' I believe, the Monk who relates this, had none of the exactest Memoirs See happen Remark A support excusas annotationes, & in the score of the exactest Memoirs and the support excusas annotationes, where the support excusas annotationes, where the support excusas annotationes and the support excusas annotationes. mo nostro de nummes friptum leg som, ubi dissentire me a Budeo doctus alioqui v r & amicissimus al rebat, dum Portium sequor animadvert aliquanto altius vulnus descend se, quam eso ab initio suspicatiu essem, ast citaejerna jie, quam ego av initio tupicatia ejjem, aff cit-que me vis minime expectata, uti folet, non admiratione folum, verum et am molestia. Que enim miti cum Bu-deo studiorum desse noto este passit, ubi tanta sit an morum conjunctii aut que tissisticatio mea honestior aut am-pl or essi potuit tum benevolentie erga Budeum mee, tun jud cii qiam ea, qua a me in eisannotamentis adhibio ta est ? Uti facile declararim me tantum in hoc studion rum genere Budeo tribucre, quantum mihi ipsi vix op-tarem ut si aliter vel Budeus vel Erasmus sentit, ne ambo cum summo animi mei marore id sentiant Quare ego te Grolieric per cam animi propensionem, quam in dottos præ te feri, oro , per humanitatem & d vinam doctos præ te fers, oro, per humanitatem & d vinam istam tuam beneficentiam ob ester, per eam pietatem, quam tibi reliquæque genti debeo, adjuro, uti hunc Budeo scrupulum per literas etiam tuag esimas, meque illi ita concilies, ut intelligat vir dostinam, esse in terrus hodic neminem, cujus ego doctrinam with admirer, de cujus ingenio libentius prædicem, quemque ego plurus faciam He says several other things as strong, which shews his Assection, Veneration and Admiration for Budeus, and assertived turns all his August and for Budeus, and afterwards turns all his Anger against Erasmus. This place is very insulting.

(f) Quare non possum non vehementer admirari, quid (f) M. tandem Erasmo in mentem venerit, ut etiam aliud agens de studiorum d sensione nostrorum, prasertim salsa, publicandum sibi censuerit, cum Budæi vest gia me sequi prositear, cum doctrinam hominis tantopere laudem, & ejus prasertim libros quinque de Asse Sed homo alioqui doctus cum numerorum rationem non probe calleat, & scriptione multa sese oblectet, & sibi plus aquo placeat, dum modo aliquid edat, quid tandem dicat non satis pensi habust Ita sit ut dum verborum copia studet, minus res observet Quod si maturare sibi pateretur diutius ea qua par urit, pareret ille sasse eos liberos, qui & vitales essent nec vitiosi illi & morbosi sape in lucem prodi-

(A) He conform'd generously to his Dostrine One of his Schollars] His Colleague Martin Gosia, had maintain'd the opposite Opinion, and therefore they chose to ask his Advice after the Death of Bulgarus's Wife Her Father would fain know

Baptifta Egnatius epist ad Jo Grolierium, its dated from Venice the 5th of January 1518 its the 35th of the Contuly to his own Moctrine. One of his Scholars did not shew the same Inductiality; for being summon'd to put that Doctrine in Practice, he said he had her'd his Opinion Bulgarus had several Children who all died before him. He was much afflicted at it, and to repair the Loss as much as possible, he married a second wite, but instead of marrying a Maid as he thought, he unhappily made choice of a Wise that had past for a Woman The Day after his wedding he read a Lecture, and explain'd that Law which begins We undertake a Business that is not new His Aildrois applyed (B) these Words to the Condition in which they supposed he had found. Things on the Wedding-night which set them all a lingling. It is not known in what Year he died, nor where he is buried. There is no Reason to say as some have done, that he translated into Latin the Greek Laws that are in the Pandects, for he was absolutely ignorant of the Greek Tongue He publish'd some Glosses, on the Civil Law, and an excellent Commentary in regular Juris *

BULLINGER (Henry) one of the Reformers of the Church in the 16th Centurious, 2110lus, was born at Bremgarten † the 18th of July 1504. At 12 Years of Age he was fent us supprated Emmersek in the Country of Cleves, to study Humane Learning. It was a good School at that time, and Mosellanus was one of those who taught these. Bulling reontinued there three Years, and maintained himself by singing from Door to Doer. His Front or of Hather was rich enough to allow him a Pension, but he only gave him a Sun of Clor is in Can-when he fent him to Emmerick, and some small Matter wherewich to pay his travel- ten of Zuling Chaiges, for any thing farther he left him to the Charity of his Neighbour. The rich who be put his Son to those Streights that he might make him one Day more finible of the he eight Prayers of the Needy. Our young Scholar bore this Mortification so patiently. and Swing. Our young Scholar bore this Mortification to patiently, and Swiffe Submitted so freely to the Discipline of the School which was severe enough, that he Canrons even desir d to try another kind of Life which was more rigid. He would have been simler in a Carthusian Frier, but his elder Brother advis'd him against it. At 15 Years of Age vita Bush he was tent to Calogra. The Barbarisms made use of the try hong Phyletanny tory done. he was fent to Gologne The Barbarisms made use of in teaching Philosophy served only to make him apply himself the more earnestry to humane Literature. He write (A) also something in the Year 1520, against the School-Divines. He lived at Celen til from that Professor, Whether he might legally demand Restitution of his Daughter's Dowry? He was aniwer'd, That his Son-in-law was condemn'd from his own Mouth, and if he resus'd, might be shamefully convinced of being a bad Interpreter of the Law Hereupon, the Father-in-law brought his Action, but the Son-in-law did not stand it out long This shews he had some conslict in his Mind between the Desire of keeping the Dowry, and the Fear of being reproach d with denying his own Doctrine 'Tis plain, he did not make too own Doctrine 'Tis plain, he did not make too much haste to put in practice what he had taught, for his Father-in-law was forc'd to begin a Suit against him 'Tis very likely, he repented the maintaining a Doctrine so contrast to his Interest, and that if he had foreseen the Prejudice it would do him, he would have dogratiz'd after another manner However, let's not refuse him his due Praise At last, he chose rather to part with his Mony, than expose himself to the Shame of contrast ling his own Theory, and so stop'd his Anatonist's Mouth, who was preparing to insult cracing his own Theory, and to nopulation of infult bith (a) Mart nus Gosia equitatis ratione subnikus patrimonium, (1) posterieam (dotem) velut matru patrimonium, (1) posteri-tate acquiri tenebat, qui ex hoc faito à Bulgari soccro consultus Si mihi, respondit, qui contra te sentio, hic casus contiguset, jure fuissem absolvendus, sed Gener tius, qui diversium docuit, sua se jam fententia condemnavit de nisi ut fassus interpres à me turpiter reprehends maluerit, petitam dotem reddere cogetur Italimssus um Generum interpellass sus Bulgarus, ne vel sordide avaritie, aut fasse de Essus notari posses, ad confirmandam, quam tenurapro virgine duxit, pofridieque cum interpretaturus le-

(b) Panzir

(b) Panzir

(b) Panzir

(c) Panzir

(b) Panzir

(c) Panzir

(d) Panzir

(e) Panzir

(e) Panzir

(f) Panzir

(h) Panzir

gem cujus initium eft, Rem non novam, neque insol am aggred mur dum ea v rbarect aret, audientibus i fin aggred mur dum ea v rba rect aret, audientibus o fun movet, qui bec ad conjugem, juam corrup am n enerat, retulerum: It ique universil brus quos tum fecum g c-bant, piaudentee frepitum excitarunt (3) A v , () good Ar iwer might be alledy d in favour of Bulgarus. But what would it have lignify d against in long garus. But what would it have lignify d against in long of Scholars resolved to divert themselves at the Calejua c expense of that great Civilian. They would only have laugh'd souder at any One who should have represented to them, That the Words of the Law apply d to the Marriage of the Professor muches. apply d to the Marriage of the Professor might bear a good Sense, though it should be f ppos J, that he found his Wife such as he had wish d her to be, for even in that Cale, he might say, that the Buliness he undertook was no new thing, and that he was us'd to it It was his second Marriage, and he was used to it It was his second Mirriage, and he had had Children by his first Wife But some may say, he spoke in the Plural (c) We undertake a Business, that has not the Charms of Novelty I reply (1) Rem. That it is permitted in all Languages to speak of noncone's felf in the plural Number, and that there was necessary could not be personaled, that Pulsarya technology. fore it could not be pretended, that Bulgarus tooke 9 componently of himself and his Wife So that he might have been justify d by folid Remarks Bur gredimus, once more, I his would not have served his turn, the Scoffer would still have laughed on The Fault was committed, and twas irreparable. He had read some Lest nes to his Wife which had taught her nothing that was new to her. This is an inexhaustible Source of Lestine.

Note, That Franc's Duarenus supposes, that this Professor did not expose himself to Laughter by marrying a Wife, who had soft her Virginity criminally, but for marrying a Wife, who had soft it in the Bed of Honour He supposes, that Bulgaria had marry'd a Widow, and upon this he exclaims against tose who marry Widows It is in the Chapter where he shews, Thir they who in the Chapter where he shews, Thir they who marry a second time, are excluded from the Priesthood by the Canons, and that he who mar- (d) Franries a Widow, is reputed a Bigamite (d) Lege cifcui DusMosaica praceptum fuit ut pontifex virginem tantum remus de unorem ducere posset Levit 21 Adde si lubet quod ridicula vulgo res est. O cavillu hominum obnoxia uxorem cl'a mividuam ducere, quod vel tritum apud juru civilu dello- nisteries ac res dictereum Bulgari Jurisconsulti discipulorum in pra-ceptorem satu ostendit gl l rem non novam C de lb 4 c 8

(A) He wrote also something against the School-part 2 openiumes.] It consisted in five Dialogues The two rum edit first attack'd those Divines directly, the two following was an Apology for Reuchlin against Piperi-

pag 387

(a) Pan$ zirol de claris legum interprit 1 b 2 c 15 pag 128

(1) In leg 3 & Sed u rum f de minor

(2) Oder. 2n l. der.

" In the of the Year

TICH

tle which the Porteof Ottober 1531

He had been the principal Antagonist of 7 umklius

1522, and the nature of his Studies there dispos'd him to forfake the Romish Communior as foca as occasion offer'd Having pas'd some Months at his Father's Hour, he was * invited by the Abbot de la † Chapelle to teach in his Convent He discharg'd his Duty with much Reputation till 1527 The Reformation of Zwenglius was receiv'd in the Abby de la Chapelle in the Year 1526, in which Bullinger was the chief Instrument He heard Zuinglius's Lectures at Zurieb during five Months to Abby in the Year 1527 He took to the Study of the Greek Language again, and began near Zu-that of the Hebrew, and preach'd publickly by a Mission from the Sunaid began that of the Hebrew, and preach'd publickly by a Mission from the Synod He accompany'd Zuinglius in the Year 1528, at the famous Dispute that was held at Bern. The Year following he was made Pastor of the Reformed of Bremgarten, and married Anne Adlischuster That Marriage produced Six (B) Sons and five Daughters, and ceast not till the Year 1564 His Wife dy'd of the Plague about that time He never would (C) marry a second, for which he was blam'd. He was scarce settled quietly in his Church with Regard to those of the Romish Communion, when he was been kill'd engaged in Wrangles with the Archaecta, he defined in the little in the lit engagd in Wrangles with the Anabaptifts, he disputed publickly against them, and wrote Books in which he consuted their erroneous Opinions The Victory which the Catholick Cantons obtain'd over the Reformed in the Year 1531, oblig'd Bullinger to forsake his Country together with his Father, Brother, and Colleague He retir'd to Zurich, and there fill'd the Place which the Death of Zuinglius || had made vacant He edified that Church by his Preaching and Writings He was obliged in the first place to resute the Impertinencies and Boasts of John Faber + he shewed him that the Goodness of a Religion was not to be judged by the good or bad Success of a Battle From that time he was employ'd in several Ecclesistical Negotiations, by which Bucer ordered Matters so that he reconciled the Zuinglians to the Lutherans Bullinger carry'd himself in such a manner, that the Suspicions which had been entertain'd of him did not last long he shewed that the Love of Concord should never bring him to promote a Formulary, that was captious and contrary to sound Words He wrote Books every Year, which I shall not particularly mention, yet will not omit that which he publish d against Luther in the Year 1545 The Swiß Churches had kept a long Silence, tho' Luther wrote in a very passionate manner against their Doctrine concerning the Sacrament, at last it was thought fit to inswer him in his Life-time, for fear if it were deferr'd till after his Death, Occasion might be given to some disadvantagious Surmises, besides it's being judg'd that a very vigorous (D) Answer would make Luther more moderate for the luther, and prevent his abusing the Respect that was had for him Bullinger who advis'd silence, was the Man charg'd with the Business of answering him, and he acquitted himself worthily Luther dying a little after, there were doubtless some with Spirits (for the Year 1569, the three last dy d Children of his Daughters were marry d to Ministers of Zurich, to Hultic Zuinglius, to Lewis Lavator, and to folias Simle, they dy'd all three of the Plague, the Found in the Year 1564, the other two in the

(b) Id 1b fel 12

Year 1565 (b)
(C) Would never marry a second, and was blam d for it I hote captious Spirits are retuted, in his Hi-It hole captious Spirits are refuted, in his History, who censur'd him for not marrying a second Wife. They tell us first of his Orthodoxy; they declaie, that he did not doubt, but GOD permitted the Ministers of the Gospel to marry a second time, and then add, that he answer'd those who advis'd him to marry a second Wife, That the first was still living in his Heart, and in the Children she had brought him, and that he had a Daughter that govern'd his Family very prudently, and after all, the burthen of Sixty Years that he bore, stissed all such thoughts. The Censurers grounded their Exceptions chiefly on Reasons of grounded their Exceptions chiefly on Reasons of Health They believed, if he had marry'd again, that he would nor have been troubled, as he with a pain in his Reins This was confuted by this Reason, That marry'd Men are no less subject to this Inconvenience, than they who lead a fingle Life And besides can it be thought, that a Man of Bulinger's Age and Prudence cannot tell what agrees best with his Constitution, or that he should neglect any Means of Health? In short, the hould neglect any Means of Health In Hort, they had recourse to secret Reasons, which might perhaps be the Cause that he continu'd a Widower, tho' to the prejudice of his Health As it's probable several Readers may imagine, that what I have said is mostly a Gloss of my own framing, I shall fit down the Latin of Simler (c) Post bujus obstum quamvis annes fere XI superfies suerit, nunquam tames addition parties at all and proposed descripts. tamen adduct potust ut alsam uxorem duceret. Non quad secundas nupstae Christiano homini atque ettam ec-

(a) Simili rus in vita

(b) Product d six Sons, and five Daughters 1

The Bullingeri

fol 6

corne, a converted Jew, the Title of the fifth, was clesse Ministris non concesses essentially under animo suo auduc vivere d cebat, que tot sus under in animo suo auduc vivere d cebat, que tot sus classifima pionora rel quisses, c quia filiam haberet que familiam optime administraret, se hac etate (erat authorise of the Service of the Landgrave of Hesse, and dy'd in France in the Troops of the Prince of Orange, in the Year 1569, the three last dy d Children Three uxorem in animo suo auhuc vivore deceta, jea primam uxorem in animo suo auhuc vivore decetat, que tot sui clarissima pionora rel quisset, e quia siliam haberet que familiam opionora rel quisseret, se hac etate (erat au-tem sexagenarius) nolla de nuptiis & conjugio solicitum esse Equidem non desunt qui hoc ejus faitum & constilesse Equidem non desunt qui noc eque jaccion.
um damnant, hoc maxime nomine quod cum melius conful'urum fuisse sue valetudini existimant, si alteram uxorem duxisset homines ridiculi, quasi in conjugio viventes non equi nephriticis & dysurie doloribusobmox i fint atque calibes. An vero exist mant cum nullam sua valetudinis rationem habuiss. O tanta atatis atque prudentia hominem ignorass, quidnam sua natura conveniens sit? Aique ut maximò vera sit eorum ra'io, tas tamen ille forte habust consilis sus rationes vulgo incognitae, ut etsam cum damno valetudinis id sibs persequendum sta-tueris. The best of all, is the Seriousness wherewith this is set forth

(D) Avery vigorous Answe, would have made Luther more moderate for the future] I declare beforehand, that I do not apply what I am going to say to any particular Person, especially, that I by no to any particular revion, especially, that I by no means glance at Luther in it, but it is certain, that one can hardly tell what course to take with certain fiery and impetuous Tempers Turn which side you please you find yourfelf uneasy with them Answers them, (a) and you raise their Choler and Answers them, (a) and you raise their Choler and they become tentold more fierce and insolent, they insult you, and attack all others with much greater Boldness. The experience of Impunity greater Boldneis 'The experience of Impunity, makes them hope that all will give way to them, and that they may be as wicked as they please So that there are Difficulties on both sides, whether you do, or do not resist them However, I do believe, es Plant that according to Human Prudence, it is better to reinst them by answering in their own way and phitr att style, than by silence I hose violent Spirits are 2 fc 2 not all equally untractable, some of them may kept within bounds, if they are put upon the de-fensive What I am going to copy deserves to be weigh'd, the Ministers of Zurich experienc'd the importance of it (a) Alis vere emnine respondendum cenfebant & quidem acriter, qued nec privatim nec pu-

es Plaut in Amv 79

(e) Ibid verso

(e) Simle rus ubi Supra foli

there are but too many such in all Communions) who said among that things, a Docens that the Vexation of sinding himself uncapable of answering Bullinger's Apply had broke his Heart. The Landgrave of Hesse knowing that People complaint of the Church of Zurich on the account of these Insults, advertis'd our Bullinger of who is more conditionally. writ an apologetick Letter to him in the Name of his Colleagues In the Year 1549, deconduhe and Calvin, who was come to Zurich for that purpose, drew up a Formulary of the Conformity of Faith between the Church of Zurich and that of Geneva Calvin under the Church of Zurich and that of Geneva Calvin under fundendertook that Journey, because he was suspected of an Opinion which favour'd that dum iauof Luther on the Eucharist the same Year Bullinger alledged so many Reasons against the Renewing the Alliance to which King Henry the 2d courted the Swiffers, that that the Renewing the Alliance to which King Henry the 2d courted the Swiffers, that that
The same and the Parloss was that the same and that of the same is a same and that of the same is a same and that of the same is a same is a same in the same in the same is a same in the same in the same is a same in the same in the same is a same in the same in the same is a same in the same in Proposition was rejected One of his Reasons was that it was not a lawful, to hire pler imone's self for Mony (E) to kill those who have not wrong'd us He wrote a Book in the Year 1551, to shew that the Council of Trent had no other Design than the opprating centum the Cause of Truth, and that therefore no Regard should be had to the Pope, Bchominum haviour to the Cantons, in inviting them to find Deputies to the Council That nulls up to Book never appear'd but in Italian, and Paul Verger put it into that Linguage with informe Additions. The Dispute between Bullinger and Brentius about the Doctrine of impuria affectusity began in the Year 1561. Bullinger publish'd a Book wherein he showed, that JESUSCHRIST according to his Humane Nature is no where but in Heaven at the Right Hand of GOD. Brentius a zealous Ubiquitarian refuted that y in 1562. Book Bullinger v answer'd him Brentius made another work against which Bullinger did not tail to draw his Pen Brentius return'd n to the Charge, and * so did Bullinger ginning of He writ a Book in 1571, against the last Will and Lestament of Brentius, which 1563 William Bidenback a Divine of Wittembergh had publish'd, by which Testament Bientius Inche beforewirn'd ill States + not to allow the Zuinglians a Toleration The National Syguning of nod of Rochel having in 1571, condemn'd those who should reject the Words of 1564.

Substance and Substantially when the Question is about the Eucharist the Ministers *The same of Zurich thought, that that Canon condemn'd them They writ to Beza about it, who answer'd that the Synod did not point it them. However B. " who answer'd that the Synod did not point at them However Bullinger represented † Classic to Beza, (F\Delta) that the Expressions of the Decree ought to be so altered that no body summed that there was any Difference of Opposite between the Churches. That I can dimmodo might think there was my Difference of Opinion between the Churches That Letter of Bullinger was effectual, for in the Year 1572, the Synod of Nismes give ill omnes the Explications that the Church of Zinich could desire An Answer was to be exhortans under the Lorent for the Tolerans of The Lorent for the Analysis for the Tolerans of The Lorent for the Analysis for the Tolerans of The Lorent for the Lorent for the Tolerans of The Lorent for the Lorent f anade in 1575, to the Apology for the Testament of Brentius compos'd by James

Andrews The Ministers of Zurich took upon them what concern'd the Fundamentals of Doctrine, and left Bullinger only the Trouble of aniwering what related bis in Leto himself. This was his last Work, and it's observable, that he never exceeded the cless Bounds of Modesty so much as at this time. He treated his Adversary hardly, he railed at him and slaved him to some purpose. He deed lake a good shape himself. rail'd at him, and flav'd him to fome purpose He died like a good Christian the linquint similar of the form of the form of the similar of th 17th of September 1575 || He is Author of a great many Books, for besides 16 fol 43 those which have been printed and which amount to Ten Volumes, he wrote several others that are preserved in Manuscript 4. John (F) Stuckius made his Fune- Taken Those of from his ral Oration Most of (G) Mr. Moreris Faults are not material Mr Teiffier ten by Jo-blice laste tanta petulantia vivis & defunctis insulta-ret Etst enim Lutherus bene meritus sit de Ecclesia, non ret Eise enim Litherus bene meritus sit de Ecclesia, non summer cantum illi tribuendum ut unus plus reliquis omnibus possit, & ut ob unius offensionem camendam weritas turpi silentio prodatur. At fore utilem hususmodi responsionem cum quoad ipsum Lutherum, qui dum omnes relli indulgent atque omnia permittunt magis in illa sua mimia webenentia confirmatur, quod si fortiter se illi wiri hori destinologicas vene del accessive expensum. En mones

nimia vehementia confirmatur, quod si fortiter se illi viri boni & dosti opponani, rem di ligentius evpensurum, & moderatius acturum, tum ad alios commovendos ne tyrannidim in renascentem acclesiam inducant in hane sententiam contestimut Tigurini

(E) Hire one's self the Many to kill] I do not pretend to set up for a Joege or a Censurer of the stass Cantons, who sacrifice the Lives of their Substantia in other Peoples Quarrels, and when they can no doubt but the Quarrel is unjust, for Extended to the Enemies of France, and yet one of the two Parties must certainly have an unjust Cause But be that how it will, I shall not examine whether Bullinger was in the wrong or no, as mine whether Ballinger was in the wrong or no, as to the Swife Republick, I shall only say, that I do not see what Answer can be made him, as to the particular Persons, who List themselves voluntarily to kill the Allies of their Country A princes Person may have A protarily to kill the Allies of their Country. A private Person may bear Arms against the Enemies of his Country, whether his Sovereign requires him so to do, or whether he leaves every one to his liberty to List or not; but when a Person has that liberty, and hirs himself to kill those with the Friends and Allies to his Soveraign, I complete see but he hires himself to commit Murates the Galdierors who so divers the Feople of Rome, hu'd themselves to the first Chap-man to kill one another One of our Newsmongers has made a Remark lately upon this Conduct of and imitates the Galdiators, who to divert the

the Canton: I believe it is in the Historical Let-ters of September 1694. You will fee in a Work of Hottinger (b) that Zuinglin and the other Refor-mers of that Country, had the fame Scruples as our Bullinger

(E \) That the Expressions of the Decree ought to be so rin, pag alter d] It will not be uteless to place the Words here that Josiah Simler made use of (c) Videri decretum werbis paulo inconsideratius conceptum & prons ciatum effe, Damnamus cos qui non recipiunt substantiæ vocabulum. Quis enim ignorat nos ex eorum numero esse qui hoc non recipimus, neque unquam re-cipere voluimus? (uamobrem consultissimum sore ut cum iterum in Synodum coverint hac de rescrinones & de cum iterum in Synodum coierint bac de re sements & de creta sus sie temperent, ut omnibus ubique maniscsum sie legendi neque de nobis, neque de nostri similibus ubicunque locorum fucrint canonem locutum esse Atque ita quidem postea contigit. The Answer that Beza made by order of the Synod to the Church of Zuri b, is in the 56th of his Letters, and the 279th Page of the 3d Tome of his Works

(F) John Stuckius made his Funeral Oration Mr de Thuanus, is not well translated They will have him (d) say, that Josiah Simler compos'd the Funeral Oration of Bullinger Whereas, he says no more than that Simler prais'd Bullinger (e) Senio elog taken gravia decessit 15 Kalend Octob a Josiah Simlero from Mr de laudatus, & variis variorum carminibus epitaphiis celebratus. This is very true, tho''twas Stuckius, and not Simler that made the Funeral Oration, for Simler with Bullinger's Life, wherein he prais'd him ler writ Bullinger's Life, wherein he prais'd him highly

(G) Mr Moreri's Faults are but flight] River which runs by Bremgarten, is not call'd Ruffi, m 139 but (f) Rufs II It does not appear from Bullinger's Life, the Simler has described it amply and (f) is ker exactly, that he was a Clergyman in the Commu-tin Uffi

1 Sec Hot-

(b) Hotting

I The 116 61 P

(a) This 25 wrote in

Mr. Teisser (H) are likewise inconsiderable, and not so numerous.

BUNE L (William) Professor of Physick in the University of Toulouse, towards the Beginning of the XVI Century. He Writ a Piece not mention'd by Gesner, nor by Varder Linden, nor by their Continuators Da Verdier Vau-Privas has given us the Title of it, and some (Z) Extracts

BUNEL (Peter) a Native of Toulouse, was one of the politest Latin (A) Writers (1) Quambhat lived in the XVI Century He studied at Paris in Coqueret-College, where he gloriously distinguished himself by his noble Genius Being returned to Toulouse, constitu-

(a) Simler ubi supra fol 7 (b) Zuinglio porro Tiguri in Cathedra pestilentiæ fuffe-Etus eft Henticus Bullingerus itidem Helvetius ex Presbytero apostata uxoratus Spondan Annal Eccles ad ann 1531 (c) Simler ubi Jupra fol 42
verfo
(d) Affihortatorem habe-8 annis natu majorem Jonomine gui tum ın e idem Schola (Embrica) literis operam dabat, & privitim eius stumabar Idem 16 ful 6 (1) 11 fol 6 v. fo, ofol 4 verso (f) Simler and Melchior Adim Jay thole Diawere written in the Y ar 1520 following nion of Rome It is expresly noted that he perform'd no manner of Roman Catholick Function form'd no manner of Roman Catholick Function in the Abby of la Chapelle (a) Religioilli manebat integra, neque quicquam negotii habebat cum votis monafices, monachatu, cuculla, cantu, choio, ALIISQUE superstitionibus papisticis. It is likely that Mr Moreri was missed by Spondanus, who says, that Henry Rullinger, (b) an Apostate and a married Priest, succeeded Zuinglius. It is true indeed that John Bullinger the Brother of Henry, died (c) in the Year 1570, but it is false that he was 80 Years of Age. He was 8 Years (d) older than his Brother, therefore he was boin in the Year 1496, so that he muss have been only 74 Years of Age when he died. What did Melchior Adam dream of when he gave him 86 Years, he who notes the 8 Years difference between the two Brothers, and who places the between the two Brothers, and who places the Death of the Lidest in the Year 1570? That John Bull nger had been fomerime Curate of a Village in the Canton of Uri 11e lov d War and Hunting, and followed fomerimes the Inhabitants of his Canton, when they went to fight He was stripp'd and very much wounded in a Battle which they lost From that time, he renounc'd the War and the Priesthood He turn'd Protestant, betook himself again to his Study, and being made a Minister, he faithfully discharged the Duties of his Ministry, till he died (e) This Phrase of Morers, He brought him over fince to the Party of the Protestants, and he died in 1570, being Four score Years old, is so ill contrived, that the most knowing Readers may be deceived by it The first he reters to Henry Bullinger, and the second to John Bullinger But according to the Rules of writing well, they ought both to refer to the same Man, and every Reader will understand 'em so at the first Reading They have been taken in that Sense in the Amsterdam Edition, and therefore the I diter thought that the last Member of the Period contained two Falfiries The Period was therefore rectified in this manner He brought lim over fine to the Party of the Protestants, and died in 1575, being 71 7 ars old It is certain that Moreri does not speak of Henry Bullinger's Death in that Place, helonly mentions the Death of John IV Morers should have faid, not that Bullinger writ two Diashould have faid, not that Bullinger writ two Dialogues, being but no Tears of Age, against a few n favour of (ipnio, but that he wiit 'em at 16 Years (f) of Age against a Jew converted to Christianity I he Reason why he should have added this, is, that the Monks, who persecuted Capnio, alledg'd for a Pretence, that he opposed the Destroying of Jewish Books, and favour d Judaism It is certain, that the Jews were not his Adversaries V 'Tis not true that at 20 Years of Age he had a Mind to turn Carthusian (g) VI The two Attempts mention d by Morers would not have been omitted in Bullinger's I ife, if they were true Morers says, That the first time that Minister undertook to preach at Bremgarten, he met with such an Opposipreach at Bremgarten, he met with fuch an Oppolition, that he was oblig'd to retire into the Country He confounds the Father with the Son It was Bull ngers I ather who was expell'd from his native Country, when he had declar'd against the Mass, but the Son went thither only once to perform the Functions of a Minister in that Place VII 'Tis not true that the Calvinists wrote against him VIII His Steadiness in the Dispute he had with Brent us, was not at all an Effect of a Promise he had made to Zuingliu, for their Dispute did run upon the Dostrine of Ubiquity, which started up after Zuingliu's Death Would any one be so unreasonable as to say that Bullinger made a general Promise to oppose the Iutherans, whatever Do-thrine they should invent for the future? I pass by three other small Mistakes which I have rectified in my first Edition

(H) Those of Mr Teisser are likewise inconsiderable.

He iavs, I That when (h) Bullinger had made an end of his Studies, he resolved to turn Carthusan.

That he established the Reformation at Cappel a

Town in Swisserland 3 That he retired to Zurich, and after Zuinglius's Death, was chosen to fill his Place 4 That he exercised the Ministry for the space of Fifty Years Bullinger had a Mind to turn Carthusian, being but 12 Years (1) of Age, but he had no more such Thoughts at the (k) Age of 17 Cappel is not a Town, but an Abby Bullinger did not go to Zurich (1) till after Zuinglius had been kill'd He was not a Minister for the space of 50 Years One may infer from the History of his Life, that he was admitted into the Ministry only in 1527, or 1528 Thuanus is in the right to say, in 1527, or 1528 Thuanus is in the right to fay, that he exercised his Ministry during 43 Years, but that Historian should not have said, that he ferved all that Time the Church of Zurich, he should have taken off three Years

(Z) Has given the Title of it, and some Ex ratts I Id fol 7, Here is that Title (m) An excellent Work and very ad ann useful to those who are desirous to present themselves from the Plague, containing Remedies to preserve one's self from, and to cure pistilential Diseases. Written by William Bunel a Physician, Dostor of the University of Toulouse, who has presented those Remedies both in Latin and Irench Verses. With several Letters to some summent Persons in Communication of tables. ters to some eminent Persons in Commendation of fusice and in Praise of the Common-wealth That Book was printed at Toulouse in the Year 1513 in 400 I shall let down the first Veises of the Extiacts that are to be found in Du Verdier

En (n) apres il se fault garder De faire prou ni peu exc. Dequoy lon se puisse eschauffer Car il en vient des maux als s Les femmes a part delaissez Sans toucher aux bas instrumens Plusieurs en ont soussert tourmens Je ne dy pas qu'en avoir du fruics Vous ne faciez aucun ouvrage De tard in tard ainsi qui duit

Mais ce soit apres la minuité Parfaite la digestion Pour faire generation Aussi grands inconveniens Vienent pour trop manger & boire On a veu de grands accidens

Desquels devons avon memoire Et pource si me voulez croire Mangez peu, net & bon il foit

Fol est qui soi-mesmes deçoit

(A) One of the politest Latin Writers] He served Peter for a Model to Paulus Manutius, which is a great Elogy Catel could not well forget it (0) Stephen Bunel, says he (p), who taught the said Sieur de Pybrac good Learning, and whose Latin Lpistles are extant, which were printed in Italy, and in other Places, was the first who in his Time taught the Romans and Italians to Scend Latin math. Beauty and in Civero's Italians to speak Latin with Purity, and in Cicero's p 122

Style, whereas before they were missed by the Style of Politian, Hermolaus Barbarus, and others, as Pau- (q) Taken lus Manutius, a very elegant Roman, and a very com-petent Judge, acknowledges as to himself in his E-pisties Henry Stephens had before taken Advan-tage of Paul Manusius's Acknowledgment Here's a short Account of what he did Discoursing one Day with Henry III, he told him that an Italian had made bold to say in a printed Book, That Italy had produc'd many Ciceronians, and France had produc d none The King was very much furprised at it, and desir'd to know whether it was Peter Butrue He was answer'd that it was false Wherenellus, upon he desired that a Parallel should be drawn or 15816 between the Italian and French Ciceronians In order to obey him, Henry Stephens published the Letters of our Bunel, and some choice ones of Longolius, to which he added in the same Volume the choice Letters of Paul Manutius and Sadoles, with some of Peter Bembe He named indeed Peter Bunel to Henry III, but he forgot to tell the King that fuch a Man was as good as many (r) Min cum alies sum Petrum Bunellum suggessit quidem erat se Carthusianorum instituto addicere Simler ubi Supra fol 5 ad 1516 (k) Propositum de Caramplectenda ,

> (1) Tiguıum venit anno cio 12 XXX1 Kalend Decemb erso Zuinglius was kill d the rith of Octob 1531 (m) Du Verdier Vau-Privas Biblioth fransoise pag 472

(n) Id 1b (o) He

Should have Said

(p) Catel Memoirs of Languedoc, from the Epifile Dedicatory of Henry Stephens III prefix-

(r) Henr Stepha-

Remark

and not knowing how to maintain himself in his Family, he sought Fortune elsewhere. He went to Padua, and was maintain'd there by Amilius Perrotus. Afterwards he had a good Place procur'd him in the House of Lazarus de Baif, Ambassador of Frances I at Venice, where he spent three Years with great Satisfaction and Profit, and even the Ambassador his Master, was pleased to help him in his Study of the Greek Tongue Having made a considerable Progress in that I anguage, he ftudied the Hebrew Tongue George de Selve Bishop of Lavaur, who was made Ambassador of Francis I at Venice, after Lazarus de Bass took Bunel into his Service. They "He died were so pleased with one another, that when the Bishop repass d the Alpes, and re-18 1541 solv'd to reside in his Bishoprick, according to the Duty of a good Piclate, he sound Bunel altogether dispos'd to live in a Retreat at Lavaur That learned Man sound there what suited best with his Humour, a great Tranquillity, a great deal of Time to study, and the Satisfaction of not having before his Eyes the great Examples of the Corruption of the Age After the Death of his *Prelate, he return'd to Toulouse, † Taken where he would have (B) been in a poor and miserable Condition, if Messeurs du from Mi Faur Protectors of Virtue and Learning, had not of their own Accord excited their followers One of em put his Sons under his Care, to instruct em und role pre-Liberality towards him Bunel did not make an end of his Journey, for he died of + go with them into Italy Bunel did not make an end of his Journey, for he died of a lateral Fever at Turin He liv'd but 47 Years He was a Man more commendable find trim the Tourney for his regular Life than for the Beauty of his Style | He was never feen to hunt Toulouse Estition after Riches and Preferments (C) being contented with Necessaries, he made it his chief Business to cultivate his Soul This Conduct is almost as rice in the Common-

(a) Id 1b

(b) Id :b (c) Id in prafat memoria sed, vel unum hunc esset multorum posse, id verò addere, in mentem non venit. He thinks that those, who don't envy the Glory of France, will judge of Peter Bunel as he does (a) Quod apud te tacui de Bunello publicò ita dico, ut mihi, quicunque Gallice laudi non unicidebunt, assensiva consideration con la consideration of the second consideration. Gallica laudi non invidebunt, assensiros, persuasum pro-pemodum habcam He not only represents him as a Ciceronian, (b) but even as the Master of the Italian Ciceronians, for which he alledges Manutius's own Confession (c) Is enim quum summum Ciceronianitatu attigisse gradum existimetur, ad cam tamen se nonniss ductu, & auspicies komines Galle pervenisse fatetur Ita enim hic in quadam ad Vidum Fabrum epistola (que est libro ejus epistolarum primo) de nostro Petro Bunello, Ego ab illo maximum habebam be-nesicium, quod me cum Politianis & Erasmis nescio quibus misere errantem, in hanc reste scri-bendi viam primus induxerat Sed in posterioribus Editionibus cum Philelphis & Campanis pro illis cum Politianis & Eraimis, scriptum est Utrocunque tamen scribatur modo, primum Ciceroniane scribendi nostro Bunello laus constat non parva illa quidem, vel ipsius Manutii judicio Is enim Politianos & Erasmos (in quorum postea locum Philelphi & Campani substituti fueruni) quod eam quam ipsi Buncllus ostendit scribendi viam non tenuerint, misera errasse arbitratur

(B) He mould haue been in a poor and miserable

(B) He would have been in a poor and miserable Condition] Here I must observe, that some Perfons exasperated the Bishop's Brothers against him They made 'em believe he had inspir'd him with They made 'em believe he had inspir'd him with the Desire of leaving the Court, and minding only the Duties of Episcopacy, and even of leading an austere and contemplative Life. They represented to them, that such an Advice had been attended with fatal Consequences, since that Prelate had not only stop'd the Course of his Fortune, but also died in the Flower of his Age, for having been a rigid Follower of a spiritual Life. Bunel being told, that those Gentlemen gave Credit to such Reports, and were angry with him, durst not write to them in his own Justification, but he writ to Peter Danet and to du Ferrier upon that he writ to Peter Danet and to du Ferrier upon that Subject He represented to them, that two sorts of Men did him such an ill Office Some had been displeas'd to see George de Selve consine himself to his Bishoprick, others disorderly Lives All of 'em hated Bunel, the former, because they look'd on him as the Cause of that Residence, whereby they had been deprived of the Preferments which they expected, and the latter, because they look'd on him as the Instrument of the Penalties which the Pre-late had made use of to restrain their ill Lives Bunel does in some manner excuse the Ambition of the former, and despises the Resentment of the latter He does not think it strange, that Men infaquated with humane Grandeurs, who had scarce seen any Example of a noble Contempt of worldleen any Example of a noble Contempt of worldly Things, should have been displeas d with the Bishop's Retreat But he is so charm'd with his Resolution to reside in his Bishopiick, that he dares not ascribe to himself the Glory of having advised him to it I shall set down his own Words (d) Duo sunt hominum genera, ques mihi Epist 5, succensere minime miror, & non ita moleste fero unum 9 m 18 fuccensere minime miror, & non ita molisse firo unum p m 18.

est eorum, qui Vaurensim Ant stitum Vaurum suddere moleste ferebant quod periode est, atque si ducem exercitus in castra venire, in acie versari, cum hoste, si res ferat, consigere nunquam patiare lerum it auop st 48 niam rerum humanarum splendore capti, serpunt lumi, 165, 166
neque in calum suspicere queun, ferendi sunt, &, see also cursabit aliquando in nos corum dolor, non sunt aspecius repellendi. Oppressi sunt opinionibus, magnos sequintur duces, ut iam quod exemplo multorum saciant, sure repellendi Oppressi sunt opinionibus, magnos sequentur p 186 duces, ut sam quod exemplo multorum faciant, sure quodammodo facere videantur. Sed interim quid missi vitio vertant, satis intelligere non possum. Georgius (f) ld Esceva Vaurensis Antistes religionem Christianam sus, or f st. 5, surum commodis, divina humanis, eterna caducis pre st. 8 pg. 187, tulit. Quid ad me? si hoc missi tribuunt, rerum pulcherimarum authorem me landant quod ego neque agnosco, neque sane missi tribui possulo sunt nonnulli qui ad secundum distribution s. m. e. genus pertinent, quorum ego rationibus cum una vivelamus. pertinent, quorum ego rationibus cum una viveliamus optime quidem consultum simper volui sid quiu justu parroni illorum cupiditatibus adversabar oil si me pessime nunquam destiterunt horum ego t stimonium, quo-niam nullius ponderis cst, refeller, non constitui, neque scelera & stigitia acceptus insestari. Esco & illos pri ores minime miror, & istos sacile contemno. He is to far from owning, that he urged his Master to an over rigid Life, that on the contrary, he maintains he often exhorted him to use some Moderation, and to consider that a Man by neglecting his Body, may lofe his Health and even his Life. latque cum ad res divinas accerrime contemplandas ivolare, neque solum divitias, & honores contemnere, sed parum etiam valetudini parcere animadverti quid pratermisi, quo eum a nimia illa animi contentione revocarem? Quoties illud usurpavi, curandum ise, urque libenter, ca etiam diutius facerei? Egi interdum liberius, & eamquain nunc video rerum commutationem, & pene genus ipsum mortis pradixi Cum en m corpus, meo judicio, neque fatis ali, neque exerceri, animum autim ad calefi um rerum cogitationem continenter sevocari animadverterem non fuit difficile colligere, hoc diuturnum esse non posse non fut difficile colligere, hoc diuturnum esse con possi.

(C) Being contented with Necessaria, he made it his chief Business to cultivate his Soul. He writt to du Ferrier the following Words (f) Quanquam possulare videbatur fortunarum mearum tenuitas, ut longe mihi in posterum prospicirem, tamen ut verum sa ear, ego mei dissimilis esse non possum. Post Deum, in studiis esse utilization prospinitation operam, ut sa eum insum referantur. Diees hominem egestate oppressum, praestii, nihil essere posse. Verum id quidim esse Sce ego, cum parvo contentus sim, nunquam existimavi id mihi deesse posse qua spis adhue me (g) non sefellit. What he writt to Reynold Chandon, deleives to be duly consider'd Chandon was an honest Man, who lov'd him much, and who had procur'd him a handsome and very (h) necessary Place in the House of the French (1) Ambassador. Some Years after, he endeavoured to serve him, and to put him in the Way of making his Fortune. him in the Way of making his Fortune But Buncl made Answer, That he had no Ambition, and should not much care to get considerable Prefer ments, tho' Things were well regulated, and that Ddddd

B inellus,

+ lition 687 me fetelli Tis a fruit of the which Senje lia cum ex magna termin odifficultate liborarem, tu princeps Ipon tun ad me dum omues co-& impetus contulifti Bunck epift 21 Sec also Letter 27

wealth of sarning as elsewhere would rione, knowing they are the Reward of victor Practices, and that he had not the ill

Qualities that are requisite to raise one's self in the World (a) Si rempublicam retta ratione geri viderem,

& ad summos honores acquirendos mihi facillima effent omnia, ascendere tamen altius non magnopere laborarem

There are fome Latin Letters of this good Man

(a) Id 1b p 76, 77 (ompare this with Remark T of the Ar-

(b) Id p

77, 78

omnia, ascendere tamen alitus non magnopere laborarem Nunc vero cum insignia ista dignitatum, non virtuti, industriaque, sed improbitati inertiaque tribui videam, neque hususcemodi pramia, si mei similis esse volo, optare debeo, neque cum ab iis artibus, quibus hac parantur, pessimè instructus sim, sperare possum He adds, that it his Friends will do something for him that suits with his Inclination, they must know, that he is only for a quiet Life, and that he has chosen a Closet-retirement, as a Harbour wherein he may shelter himself from the Storms of Ambition and Lnvy, that Men want things only in proportion Lnvy, that Men want things only in proportion to their Defires, that as for him, he has confin'd his Desires within narrow Bounds, and therefore nis Delires within narrow Bounds, and therefore does not think himself poor for not having what he does not wish for, that those who despise his Resolution, may run as fast as they please, whither their blind Cupidity drives em, that he does not care for it, provided they suffer him to live a quiet Life in the Bosom of the Christian Philosophy. phy (b) Ego animi tranquillitatem mini proposui, ad quam meas actiones & cogitationes omnes referri volo quiequid ab hac abducit, averfor & abominor Ego ne maximas ambitionis & invidia procellas subire cogerer, in portum hunc literatum me abdidi tu me egredi, &

turbulentissima tempestate vela facere jubes magnum est id quidem, quod me consecuturum speras, sed non satis ad id quod volo, accommodatum Perexiguum ess, mi Reynolde, quod mibi deest, quoniam in rebus humanis tantum cuique opus est, quantum quisque cupit cui cu-piditati angustos cancellos circundedi, cisdem terminis inopiam, guibus desider ium rerum desinio Hanc sententiam si quis non laudat, aut si etiam mium hoc consili-um contemnit, nihil me movet, modò ne mihi molessus fit ruat quò caca cupiditates eum constrictum trabunt, me in bac philosophia Christiana liberuri acquiescere pa-tiatur There is no doubt, but he gives a faithful

Account of his Heart there, He was a good Man then, and such an one as Diogenes look'd for Thus all Men ought indeed to tune their Mind, especialall Men ought indeed to tune their Mind, especially Christians, and yet this is what they will not do, hardly one in Six hundred thousand. The Protestants have a small Catechism, in which the first Question is, Wherefore has GOD sent us into the World! The Catechumen answers, To know, and to serve Him. This in general, is the Principle of all Christians, but it is a Principle only in Theory, a mere Speculation. If their Answer were to be suited to their Moral Practice, most Christians would answer, That GOD sent them into the World to inrich themselves, and rise to good Offices, for this is actually all they aim at, this is their whole Care Some indeed think at first on nothing more than obtaining a competent Maintenance, but as foon as they get possess d of this competent Listate, they immediately aim at aggrandizing them closes and propose by degrees to mount to the highest Dignities. This Spirit governs a Father, both with regard to himself and to his Children, and he communicates it to them, as soon as their Age will permit. No one is statisfy'd (c) with their Age will permit No one is fatisfy'd (c) with the Condition he is born in, but endeavours to make a better Figure than his Father. The Son of a mean Artift, uses his utmost Endeavour to Lecome a rich Citizen. If his covetous and instable Industry brings him in great Riches, he toon lanches out in hopes of attaining to Offices, and getting a share in the Government. No I xpences uppear too great, provided they are but useful towards procuring him the good Offices of the mediate, or immediate. Distributers of Magical the mediate or immediate Distributers of Magiflutures They, who by then Character are most oblig d to practite the Precepts of JLSUS (11RIST concerning the Despiting of this World, forget this Obligation but too too often, and take opportunities of getting great Estates, to advance their I amilies, and to raise their Dependents. This puts me in mind of what a good Man told me one Day He happend to make a Visit to Mr  where there were nine or ten Persons.

mote who discours'd on divers Things At last, the Conversition fell on the Qualities of a certain Minister One of those Gentlemen blam'd him excely enough for iome Things Another answer d, and without justifying the Minister altogether on these Points, alledg'd other Things in his Favour, and insisted chiefly on the Article of Friendship and infifted chiefly on the Article of Friendship Never, said he, was a better Friend seen than this Minister, nor a Persan of more Zeal to do good to those who especially sinterests. He procur'd Pensions for successfully sinterests. He procur'd Pensions for successfully since the said one obtain'd a Place of Two thousand Livress Year, and are in a Way to make their Fortune. Others been their Coaches her their Fortune Others keep their Coaches by means of the private Hints he had given them to buy Goods that would become scarce in a little time Others defiring passionately to attain to the Magistracy, have by his good Offices, over-come the Difficulties which lay in their way Having gone thro' several Art am much scandalized at the Discourse, saying, I am much scandalized at the Discourse, saying, I am much scandalis's at the manner of your praising as Successor of the Apostles I should not think at strange, if you prais'd a Pagan, or a Layman of our Religion at this rate, but I cannot bear your palming these things upon us, as very sine Qualities in a Minister of JESUS CHRIST Is at his Business to know (a) whether such or such Merchandizes will rife or fall about fuch a time. Does it become him to (d) 'Tie give his Friends notice of it, and to smooth them with rea way to Riches and Honours? Is not this gard to pouring of Oyl into the line of Covetousnels and Things of Ambition a Fire which he is obliged to quench this kind. in the Soul of all his People, as much as possible? that one Does he not know, that the Riches and Honours of may say this World are the nourishment of Vanity, are so many Clogs, and Stumbling-blocks in the way of Salvation, He would be just so much the more to be prais'd if he exhorted his I riends to give to the Poor what they expend in endeavouring to ad-vance themselves, as he is to be blam'd in favourrance themselves, as he is to be blam'd in favouring their Ambition. If he periuaded a Friend of his to put down his Coach, and walk about on Foot, and sell his Equipage to Endow Hospitals, I should look upon this as a true Friendly-Office in him. And this, Sir, is the Duty of your Hero.

These are double of m And this, Sir, is the Duty of your Hero These are doubtless very Christian Thoughts, but in the corrrupt State in which we live, they are meer Platonick Ideas That despising of Riches and Dignities, which made up the Chara fter of our Bunel, is feldom found at prefent in the Laity or Clergy, and what shews the height of Corruption, is, that there's hardly any one but defipiles those who present that Indifferency So time is it, that the Truths of the Gospel which are daily read anothered among us, make but little impression on our Hearts! A Learned Man is high-live nearly who knows how to spread him felt and ly prais'd, who knows how to inrich himfelf, and to climb from Office to Office, and who, to make his Fortune, divides his whole time into two parts, the one for his Books, and the other to court the favour of great Persons, and to infinuate him self-every where himself every where Such a Person being really most despicable, in the mair, is not despis d Bunel, and such as he, being in the main, most worthy of Esteem, are looked upon with Contempt what an allotment of Appolation is here! Bunel is according to Rule, and the others not I say, Bunel, who prefers the quiet of his Studies, before all the Splendour of worldly Honours (e) Recuperate animi trunquillitate mini in animo est, in description of mam solitudinem secedere, ibique cum libris mais, or man fortasse studies annos aliquot solution or vacant a terra spectare frances or vacant and second and terra spectare frances or vacant and second and terra spectare frances or vacant and second mo Neptunum procul a terra spectare furentem

meum consilium rci familiaris angustia impedire posse
meum consilium rci familiaris angustia impedire posse airentur, nist Fabri huic malo liberalitate sua mederi velle consirma int Quod si res ex sententia succedent, equidem neque Regibus potentiam & voluptates, neque Ducibus vistorias o triumphos, neque faneratoribus divi-tias, neque tibi o Montauro nostro Reipub gerende lau-dem invidibo If he had itood fair to attain in his Turn to the Academical Dignities or Ho-nours, and had not been promoted to 'em, because he was not in the Interests of a more powerful Taction, do you think it would have vex'd him, or that to retrieve this pretended Difgrace, he would have gone over to the more powerful ty For my part, I don't think he would would have been more a Philosopher than a their fand others are The disappointing their of their Rayand excellers are they followed a roughly some of the research to the res Reward troubles em, they fink under the pref-fure foon or late I mean, they put themselves into the Road to Favour I heir Inconstancy might

(c) All would a F like Ilorice Me libertino natum prtre & in tenui re Mijores pennas indo cxtenditle loqueris H if ep / , L 1

ilefiajtick, nefcire quædam

Man (D), written with the greatest Purity, and which contain (E) some curious Facts & Graverel Some a believe that he was the Son of that William Bunel, whom I mention'd in the ibid foregoing Article, but this is not probable, fince no Hints of it are to be found either , catal, in his Letters, or in the Authors who speak of him Would Ste Marthe, who ob- Sainte serves that the Father of Peter Bunel was a & Norman, have forgot such an honourable Marthe, Character as that of Doctor Regent in a famous University? The chief Magistrates of Etienne, Toulouse, caus'd a Marble Statue to be made in Honour of Peter Bunel, and set it up in Etienne, the Town-house ?

† He is call d Anin the editions of Pliny See the Article Anther

* Plinius

1 36 6 5

* He is said An. BUPALUS was a famous Sculptor, * born in the Island of Chio, Son, Grand- ix Northermus fon, and great Grandson of a Sculptor He had a (A) Brother whose Name was mano pa-Athens + of the same Profession, and it is likely they work'd together, since Pliny tre naspeaks joinly of them and their Works They stourish'd in the 60th Olympiad at the fame time with Hipponax, who was a Poet of a despicable Figure, ill-tavour'd, and marthanus cross-shap'd as could be They diverted their Fancies upon him, and represented him p m 41 in a ridiculous Form, but they were mistaken in their Man, he let fly so violent a might be excusid, af the Exclusion were a Sign of their small Merit, but when it's notorious, that 'tis only the Weakness of their Party, it does not wrong the true Glory of a Person, but may rather contribute to make it more splendid for the present, as well as for the future. What has been said of Martyrs, (a) that it is the Cause, and not the Suffering, which makes them such, is true in this, and in the contrary Sense, for it is not the missing of Dignities, which dishonours, but the Cause of our missing. They therefore, who do not rise, only because they stand firm in the Cause of Justice, tho' inferior in Credit, ought not to look upon it as a Disgrace, but rather as a claim (a) Causa non pœ-na facit martyrem

(b)Epstome Biblioth look upon it as a Laborator de la composition of the state of the stat Gesneri p

(c) Jacobus Graverol in prafat

(d) Epit Biblioth Gesner: 16

(e) Bunellus epift 54 Pag 190

(f) Id PAE 197

(g) Buncl-lus epift 56 p 197 (b) Nonnullos ha CUM TErum pror-fus prio-lenges fua organie re Vilus est ld ib PAE 198

> (1) Id 1b PAR 199

Notes which the late Mr Gravers, Advotate or Nismes added to them, but it is inferior to that of Henry Stephens, as to the Correctness of the Impression Some Faults there are in it, which quite spoil the Sense I have given one Example of this already, and here's mother (e) Cum ille in omni genere destrination merità tantum tribuat, quantity agreement account alle te commendari audient. Sur emni genere accirination merico rantum triouat, quantum nemini, nec quem abs te commendari audicuit, suis beneficiu dignum judicat. Thus we read in the Edition of Toulouse, instead of suis beneficiis indignum judicet, as it is found in that of Henry Stephens Here is another (f) Illud me in eo sene imprimis delettabat, qued institutum corum vehementer reprehenderet, qui philosophia ftudiss plusquam necesse Christianis effet, diti, literas aut nunquam, aut sere admedum attinge-rent This is what the Edition of Toulouse con-This is what the Lutton of Toulouse contains. The Word secret, is not found there after the Word literas, as in that of Henry Stephens, and that Omission makes a very troublesome Enigma.

(E) Which centain some Curious Fasts! I shall give an Example of this We there find (g) that a Professor of Padua censur'd in his Lectures those who applyed themselves more to the Study of Physics. a Professor of Padua censur'd in his Lectures those who apply'd themselves more to the Study of Philosophy than is necessary to a Christian, and neglected Holy Writ all their Life-time, or examin'd it but very late. That Professor's Reasons were so strong, that they (b) touch d some of those who deserved his Censure, but one of Sadoles's Letters cool'd their good Resolutions, they were just upon renouncing their Concubine, I mean, Philosophy, to addict themselves to Divinity as their Chaste Spouse, when Sadoles's Letter reconcil'd them anew to Concubinage (1) Cusus (Sadoles) authorizations. Chafte Spouse, when Sadeler's Letter reconcil'd them and to Concubinage (1) Cujus (Sadoleti) authoritate & elequentia, quenism nonnulles is a commoveri audio, ut in equad facere statuerant, non passional, veluii cassissim repudiata Theologia, quam passionate, veluii cassissim conjugem sibi despenderant, ad veterem pellicem, quam à se dimittere cogisabant, & sins blandismat illecebras revolvantur places in prasenta, & Charles Stephens says in one place who represented Hipponax were Pather Laxarus Bonamicus might apply himself to the Holy Scriptures, or at least quit his Rhetorick, and addict himself to the Study of Philosophy Poel washin hopes, that that Study would not long detain D & d d d 2 might be excus'd Aif the Exclusion were a Sign of look upon it as a Difgrace, but rather as a claim to Glory This, our Bunel would have done

Henry Stephens publish'd Bunel's Epistles a-new in the Year 1581 They were re-printed at Toulouse in the Year 1687 That last Edition is to be prefer'd before all the rest, on the account of the

Notes which the late Mr Graverel, Advocate of Bonamicus, but would lead him much farther He undum thought that Bonamicus would perceive that the eft Capitholoophical Lights could lead a Man no farther tolinos than to make him at last contess, That he only Tolosaknows that he knows nothing, which is the nos, no neeplus ultra of Philosophy, from whence it ought quid glonecessarily to be concluded, that the Spirit of that tam Man has need of another Light to diffipate the Illustris Clouds of his Ignorance Now where is this other viri deef-Light to be found but in Revelation? (L) Petierat iet, mar-Polus, ut est religionis amplificanda cupidismus, a Sadoleto per epistolam, ut Lazarum Bonamicum, suum condoleto per epistolani, ut Lazarum Bonamicum, juum con-tubernalem ad studia literarum sacrarum impelleret velletad Antistitem non dubitabat valere plurimum apud Bonamicum authoritatem ejus sciebat Quòd si id si ri posse desperaret, saltem ab eloquentia studiis ad graviora illa philosophia moralis pracepta traducert se sperare, ut cum ed pervenisset, non consistendum sibi in ca disci-plina putaret, qua altius evehere hominem certe non potest, quam ut tandem sateatur, se hoc unum scire, quod nihil sciat majore quadam lice opus esse ad tam crassas ignorantia tenebras discutiendas Sadolet antwer d That (1) he thought it strange that Philosophy floud be so much despis'd, since Divinity could Urbis not subsist without it, whereupon, he amply sets syndic forth the Advantages of Philosophy Bunel clears amico this matter, and shews, that badolet's true Sentiments are not those which appear at first View in that Letter However, I find that the Judgment of Pool, is the most Rational that can be made of Philosophy and Lam slid that says an Appear for the product of the says and pro losophy, and I am glad that such an Author supplies me with a Confirmation of what I have faid in divers Places, That our Reason is only fit to imbene nie-broil all, and call every thing in question, it has rito, cui-no sooner rear'd a Fabrick, but it suggests the quium means to destroy it It is an airant Penciopa, who unravels all in the Night, that she had spun by Day So that the best Use that can be made of the Study of Philosophy, is, the knowing that it leads us out of the true way, and that we ought to feek another Guide, to wit, the Reveald

Light
(A) A Brother call'd Athenis] Mr Morers has faid The Diftright, that Bupalus liv'd with Anthormus, (So he ionary fpeaks according to the old Iditions of Pling) but criticiz'd not that they were two Brothers, now every one fees that this was not a Circumstance which ought (k) 1d ib to have been omitted, and that without it, it is pag 199, almost ridiculous to note that these two Men lived 20 at the fame time On the other-hand, he feigns a Bubalus different from our Bupalus, and who is only a (1) Cui re Chimera It is plain, that he makes two Men of is ondet them, for under the Word Bubalus, he refers us to Sadole-Anthermus, where he has faid, that Anthermus and tus, se also Bubalus were Brorhers, I say, he refers us, with quantum out referring us to Bupalus, and in the Article of tagre ferthe latter, he does not say, that Bupalus was the re, quod Brother of Anthermus All this denotes, that Bu-videre vibalus and Bupalus past in his Mind for two Men deatur Lassy, He varies as to the Profession of these two hac ornaPersons, they are two Painters in the Article of menta ab (m) Hipponax, and two Sculptors, or Statuaries every co conwhere else He is not the first who has varied thus temni, Charles Stephens says in one place (n), That they quæ tanta who represented Hipponex were Painters; in ano-funt, ut ther, (s) That Bubalus was a Painter who made a fine his comical Picture of Hipponex, and in another, That Illa quæ præfert, confire nor pont ld ib pag 200, 201 (m) He cites in this Article the 26th Book of Pliny, instead of the 36th (n) Institute. (a) Antheroue

Satyr lentio moream cjus statuam in Capitolio aliquot abhinc annis collocasse, clariffimo VITO D Germano Lafaille, Syndico, nominibus venerando, de Republica literaria posteritas ciffim repeder Graver ubi supra omnibus

Article Hipponax † Paulan 1.6 4 pag 9 PAS 309 || Taken from the Epifile Dedicatory rome Bagolin bas wrote before the Transla-tion of Ariftotle's Analıticks. composed by Bura-

Taken ther Labbe, tabl genealog:ques p 121 0 Suiv

Pere An-Seime, Hifore genealog pag 205

(a) In Ano ın Bupalus (b) Calepin Carel Stephanus, Lloyd, Hofman ın Hipponax

(c) Carol Stephanus in Auther-931 M F

(d) Adrian funius A-nimadu l

(e) vącui Mr 34 Mg -970г, жофа Витаки то г OP BELLES Auferte vestem Bupalı exfcindam oculum

An Exa mination of fome of Hadrian Junius

(f) ovn१८ स सम्ब 4 719 FK Auma Actor Mr suy (G). nis etiam num in odium Bupal thel !

Satyr against them, that, as some Authors report, they hang'd (B) themselves out of meer Spite * and Vexation Plany does not agree in this; but fays, That after Hipponax had revenged himself, they made fine Statues in several Places. He speaks of a Diana of their making that was to be feen at Jasus in Carse, and which was not so admirable as that which they made at Chio The last was set up very high, and look'd with a fullen Countenance on those who enter'd, and of a cheerful Countenance to those who went out Several Statues of their making were to be seen at Rome work'd in white Parsan Marble, and no other Paulansas makes mention of Bupalus but says nothing of Athenss He observes that Bupalus as a good Architect Sculptor It seems to me, that it may be inferred from a Passage of Aristophia. That the Revenge taken on Bupalus did not always confift in Satyr, but (C) for times ended in Blows

BURANA (John Francs) born at Verona, flourssh'd in the 16th Century. He was a Disciple of Bagolinus who explain'd Aristotle's Logick, in the Academy of Bologna, and shew'd much Subtilty in Disputing This was the Reason of the Scholars logna, and shew'd much Subulty in Disputing expressing a great Desire that he wou'd read some publick Lectures on that Part of Philosophy They had this Satisfaction, and if they understood that Master of Philosophy They had this Satisfaction, and if they understood that Master of theirs, its certain they were no mean Scholars, for he took a Pleasant in leading em Philosophy a Dance thro' the Country of the Greek and Arabian Interpreters He had studied the Hebrew Tongue with much Success Having quitted his Professorship, he apply'd himself to the Practice of Physick He work'd also on the Translations of some Treatises of Aristotle and Averroes, and added Commentaires to them Death wou'd not fuffer him to put the finishing Hand to this Work, nevertheless he had a Mind it shou'd be printed, and injoin'd his Heirs to procure an Edition of it after his Manuscript shou'd be corrected by some able Hand Bagolinus (Z) took that Care || upon him

BURGUNDY, a Family There have been two Houses of this Name. I shall say but little of the First It began under Robert King of France the Son of (g) Junius Hugh Capet The third Son of that Robert, and of Constancia of Provence was call'd attributes Robert, and was Duke of Burgundy, and died in the Year 1075 His Descendants at to Leonidas My were in Possession of that Dutchy until Philip the first of that Name, who died without Issue the 21 of November 1345. Afterwards John King of France gave Burgundy say: that to Philip the Hardy, his fourth Son a. This was the Beginning of that second House the decided of Burgundy, which had been extreamly flourishing under four Princes successively, of

whom I am going to speak

BURGUNDY (Philip Duke of) fourth Son of John de Valois King of France, (h) Ad was born at Pontoise the 15th of January (A) 1341. He was wounded and taken Alignum

(a) Anthermus and Bubalus were two famous Sculptors, who made a ridiculous Figure of Hipponan Messieurs Lloyd and Hosman have copied part of these Variations See the Remarks of the Article Hip-Variations ponan Bupalus is a great Limner in Calepin Confult the learned Adrian Junius in the 16th Chapter of the 1st Book of his Observations

(B) They bong'd themselves for meer spite] I shall say something upon this in the Article of Hipponan, and content my self here with observing, that our Dictionaries sophisticate Pliny's Narrative They (b) represent the Matter as if several Painters had a Share in the Infult offer'd to Hippeness, and as if the Revenge which that Poet took, had driven some of them to make away with themselves. This supposes that others of them did not kill themselves. Now this is not what Pliny tells us; he speaks only of Bupalus and Athensis. One (c) of those Authors blunders fill more in another. Place for having made Mention of only another. nother Place, for having made Mention of only two Statuaries, he says nevertheless that 'twas thought the Satyrs of Hippeness had made some of them hang themselves Aliques en its ad laqueum compulific

(C) But sometimes came to Blows] Let us set down the Words of Aristophanes

Et và Aus The race gradue colony die à reac inche

O'emp foundat, quint un 2017 1700.

That is no fire parties of the colony of the colony for the colo

That is to fay, By God, if any one had given them two or three good Bexes on the Ear as Bupalus had given him, they would have learn'd to be filent. A learned (d) Critick was of Opinion, that that Poet alluded to a Verse, wherein Hipponan (e) desires to be help'd with his Cloaths that he might pull out Bupalus's Eyes, but perhaps there were some other Verses of Hipponan which made Mention of the Blows that he or some Body else had given Bupalus's that he or fome Body else had given Bupalus, the Allusion to those would be much more likely. The same Critick has discover'd a Proverb of the Hatred of Bupalus, where it is certain there is no such thing as a Proverb It is in an Epigram of the Anthology which tells the Paffengers, (f) That the Anthology which tells the Paffengers, (f) That the Anthology which tells the Paffengers, (f) That the Anthology which the Paffengers, (f) That the Anthology which the Paffengers and Paf Bupalus So that this relates only to a personal, and as one may say, an individual Hatred of that Poet, and is not a general Epithete of a great Hatred, nor can the Odium Vatinianum be compar'd with the Odism Bupalium, by virtue of this Passage with a salur life of the Salur life of grounded, since it is taken from a Letter of justile appears the Apostate (b), wherein, speaking of some Jambicks that he had received from his Brother, he qualifies them in this manner. Ou mayor deliberate gundlers are surface to make the parties of bishours with superdier metals, and out it not out to be partied of bishours with superdier and one fing the Rusarrel against Bupalus, to make use of the Empression of Callinnachus, they are such as the fair Sappho requirer and judged sit for Hymms

(2) Bagolinus took that Care them] See the Epistle Dedicatory that he wrote before the Book, (m) Anselmentialed, Aristotelis priora resolutoris Latino sermone genealing donata, or commentaris: illustrata à Joanne Francisco genealing de la Martinana, adjets Averrois expessione in costam libros de la Martinana, adjets Averrois expessione in costam libros de la Martinana.

count seems to me more certain than that of Pintus Heuterus. He (k) places the Birth of Philip the Hardy in the Year 1334. It is no Fault of the Press, for he places (l) his Death on the 26th of April 1404, and makes him live 70 Years. He may be consured by this good Reason. That King John was born the (m) 26th of April 1319, and was married (n) to Bimin of Laurembergh in the Year 1332. So that it is impessible Philip the Hardy his fourth Son, should be born in the Year 1334, and seeing his eldest Son Charles the Vth (e) was born the 25th of January 1337, judge whether Poetss Hist des Heutens can be right in his Chronology. His Experience was followed by Lewis (p) Gellus, and Mr (q) Faber. The latter has committed another Fault which he copied from Mezers, for he placed the which he copied from Mezerai, for he plac'd the

Prisoner Casarem Vide Tuns-

Prisoner * in the Battle of Postsers in the Year 1356, after having given a thousand * See the Proofs of an undaunted Courage, in fighting near his Father's Person Some say that Remark B.

Proofs of his (B) become fire and the HARDY He received the Inthis was the Reason of his (B) being sirnam'd the HARDY He receiv'd the Inthis was the Reason of his (B) being strain'd the HARDY He received the Inwestiture of the Dutchy of Burgandy in 1363, and married Margaret of Flanders, the only Daughter of the Earl of Flanders and Artoss, || in the Year 1369 He inherited that fair Succession by the Death of his Father in-law, in the Year 1384. The Year following, he put an End to a Civil War which had lasted a seven Years in Flanders, and wherein those of Grandard chiefly shewed their Spirit of Sedition He 2 and the Duke of Bourbon were chiefly with the Education of Charles the Vith King of the Duke of Bourbon were chiefly with the Education of Charles the Vith King of West of Bourbon were chiefly with the Education of Charles the Vith King of West of Bourbon were chiefly with the Education of Charles the Vith King of West of Bourbon were chiefly with the Education of Charles the Vith King of West of Bourbon were chiefly with the Education of Charles the Vith King of West of Bourbon were chiefly with the Education of Charles the Vith King of West of Bourbon were chiefly with the Education of Charles the Vith King of West of Regency was were the Vith William of Regency was were the Hardy of the William of Rule This Passion broke forth much ore fatal Manner, when Charles the Vith having attain'd to the were the Consequence of a mortal Enmity with the Hardy of discontented, and this was the Source of a mortal Enmity between the Hours of Orleans and that of Burgundy Margaret of Flanders, the Wise of Philip the Hardy and Valentina of Milan, the Wise of the Duke of Orleans (C) fomented the Dissenting of Having a Tutor, gave Occasion to the Consequences of that satal Emulation The Estates of the Kingdom, assembly at Paris in the Year 1391,

(c) Margaret of Flanders and Valentina of Milan, fomented the Divisions by their Vanity]

"(e) The frequent Punctillio's between their "All abroad" Wives, exasperated them more than their real "Interests; the Duke of Burgundy's, as being the "chronol "eldest, and Heirest to great Estates, and is to great interests; the Duke of Burgundy's, as being the "other, who would indeed have been much beden other, who would indeed have been much beden to the King's only Brother" The Partisans of the House of Burgundy spake very ill of Valentina Dutchess of Orleans Here are some Touches of theirs "(f) Wherein (g) the Dutchess of Burgundy lent a Helping-hand, not only in favour of her Cousin the Duke of Brittany, and Son of the Sister of Low of Malain her Father, but also for the great Hatred she bore to the Milaneze (g) That's to say, in ordering is start of Low of Malain her Father, but also for the great Hatred she bore to the Milaneze (g) that ways some Quarrel: Seeing that Stranger so presumptions as not to allow great Princesses (s) better made on Extraction than her self) to walk in their Ranks, the Duke of Brittany shall stall Lady was piqued, that the Dutchess of Brittany that Italian Lady was piqued, that the Dutchess of Brittany that the Dutchess of Honour to Queen Stabella, and that by that means, the Burgundian should have the this by that means, the Burgundian should have the triff Place, the Queen's Hand and Ear Which Distain of the Dutchess of Orleans, was well sustained and out-brav'd by the Dutchess of Burgundy, who was a generous Princess, and for suffering no Affrons, who know her Husband's Reputa-Death of Philip on the 27th of April 1403 This Error is however more pardonable than that into which he falls two Pages after, when he says, that the Dutchess survived her Husband but eleven Months, dying in August 1405. If a Body did not see these things with his own Eyes, he could scarce believe that an Author's Want of Attention could be so great. Note that Pontus Heuterus without being deceived himself, was the Cause of this Error Undecimo post Audacis mortem mense, says he (4), Margareta apoplexia Atrebati tatta maritum deci-mo sexto Cal Septembres anno 1405, vita excedens se-quitur. The Meaning of which is, That eleven Months after her Husband's Death, she was struck with an Apoplexy, whereof the died in the Month of August 1405 According to Heuterus's Calculation, the Apoplexy must have begun in the Month of Morch, and so the Lady surviv'd her Husband 16 Months

(B) That was the Reason of his being sirnam'd the HARDY] In the Deed of Investiture, King John testified his Son's Valour Ad memoriam reducentes, faid he (b), grata & laude digna servitia qua charissi-mus Philippus filius noster quare genisus qui sponte ex-positus mortis periculo, nobisema imperterritus & impa-vidus statit in acia prope Pillavos vulneratus captus & vidus stetit in acis prope Pillapuos vulneratus captus or detentus in hostium patestate, ibi or post liberationem nogram hastenus enhibnit. It's said, that this young trince being wounded "(c) did not cease sighting, tho' his Father commanded him to lay down this Arms. This Vigour so extraordinary in a see also

"young Prince astonish of the English, one of whom not willing to nip so fair a Rose in the Bud, said to him aloud, Neld thy self hardy Philip. That

"not willing to nip so fair a Rose in the Bud, said "to him aloud, Reid thy self hardy Philip That "Word was applauded by all who heard it, and "the Name of Hardy stuck to that young Warrior "ever after" Other Reasons are given for this Sirname, Some relaxatest that he gave a Box on the Ear to one of the interest that he gave a Box on the Ear to one of the interest that he gave and England, who, in serving the Kings of France and England, presented a Plate to the lattice before the former adding as he gave him the Box on the Ear, What? How the fit thou serve the King of England sirst, when the gave of England (who admir'd a generous Action as much or more than any Body) magnified greatly, and said to him cheerfully, and in a joyous Voice, Thou art indeed Philip the Hardy, which was the Original of a very fine Sirname to him There is yet another Reason given for that Sirname, to wit, That as Original of a very fine Sirname to him There is yet another Reason given for that Sirname, to wit, That at the Coronation of King Charles VI, he sate (as being first Pew of France) among the secular Princes, because of his Dutchy of Burgundy; by which means the first and highest Seat belongs to him in all Royal Solemnities. But his Brether Lewis Duke of Anjon, grounding himfulf pom his being the Elder, and on being the King's remour would prevent him, and seated himfelf according to mean to the King. Which Duke Philip perceiving, full of him away with one Hand, and seated himfelf between the King and Anjon, taking the highest Place, which he maintain'd did belong to him. At which all the assignment were wonderfully assould him the Hardy for this Assignment, done in the Presence of the great King of France. commanaing sim to carry it to the Laupuin of France; which the Child did not do, but without Ceremony, but it himself, and suck'd out of it what kill d him had shut her up in the Castle of Neufchatel on the Loice, forgetting for a while, the Love he had for her, caus'd by

"tion, Valour and Merit, and who had moreover per"ceiv'd that that Stranger bore a Grudge to the Chil"dren of France, to the King, and allo to her Huband,
"not being able to command herself so far as to dissemble
"with her Tho' she knew, and was often warn'd that "that Lady Valentina could do much against Peoples
"Lives by Sorceries and Poisons, so that Care shou'd "be had of her But either the Indignation of the "Dutchese of Burgundy, or her Nature truly French "(which cannot dissemble, unless the Danger is always in sight) made her little regard it, only she endea"voured to make her Husband Duke Philip, understand
"the Truth, that he might have a watchful Eye over Afsairs as to his own Security, and that of the King's Per"son" The same Author says, That the Dutchess of Orleans was suspected of having caus'd King Charles the VI's Indisposition, and that she would have possoned the Dasphin Let us give it in his own bad Style (b) Others laid the King's Indisposition to the Dutchess of Orleans's Charge, who had a Mind to open a Way for her Husband to obtain the pag Goi.
Grown To which so much the more Credit was given, because that Lady's Ambition, and the Shill she had in mixing and tempering Poisons, was known to all infomuch that her Husband, having again perceived as after the Death of his eldes Son (posson d with on Apple which that Lady had prepar'd, in hopes the Dauphin would eas it and die, having for shot End given it to her own Son, commanding him to carry it to the Dauphin of France;

Burgundy, who was a generous Princess, and for suf-fering no Affront, who knew her Husband's Reputa-tion, Valour and Merit, and who had moreover per-ceived that that Stranger bore a Grudge to the Chilit and die, having for shot Endgiven it to her own Son, commanding him to corry it to the Dauphin of France;

(a) Pontus Heutefüs. nb. supra pag 63

(b) See Gollut ub: Supra pag

ub: Supra pag 19 (d) Gollus ubs Supra 1391, * put the Regency into the Hands of the Duke of Burgundy, tho' the Duke of

* Id 1b.

PAE 141. † 1d 1b P#g 157from Maze-157, 158 & Pontus Heuterus ubi supra y Id ib Pal 63.

$ Pontus Heuterus rerum Burgund lib 3 pag 65 1 Id ib

A Id 1b

Id ib

PAG 69

Orleans demanded it, and grounded his Pretention on being the King's Brother These two Concurrents † thrust one another twice by Turns, out of that advantageous Post The Duke of Orleans had the Upper-hand in the Year 1401 He of Burgundy could not The Duke of Orleans had the Opper-hand in the Year 1401 He of Burginay could not resign his Pretensions, each call d together an Assembly of their Friends, but afterwards agreed to a Reconciliation, at least in appearance Some time after, the Duke of Orleans prevail'd with the King to give him the Administration of the State during His Majesty's Indisposition. The Duke of Burgindy returning to Court, found his Party in the Council strong enough to get the Government restored into his Hands. The King being recovered from another Fit, order'd that they should have the Government jointly, but the Council, the Queen, and the other Princes and Lords, desir'd them to decline it || Philip dy'd at Hall the other decline it || Philip dy'd at Hall the other decline it || Philip dy'd at Hall the other decline it || Philip dy'd at Hall the other decline it || Philip dy'd at Hall the other decline it || Philip dy'd at Hall the other decline it || Philip dy'd at Hall the other decline it || Philip dy'd at Hall the other decline it || Philip dy'd at Hall the other decline it || Philip dy'd at Hall the other decline it || Philip dy'd at Hall the other decline it || Philip dy'd at Hall the other decline it || Philip dy'd at Hall the other decline it || Philip dy'd at Hall the other decline it || Philip dy'd at Hall the other decline it || Philip dy'd at Hall the other decline it || Philip dy'd at Hall the other decline it || Philip dy'd at Hall the other decline it || Philip dy'd at Hall the other decline it || Philip dy'd at Hall the other decline it || Philip dy'd at Hall the other decline it || Philip dy'd at Hall the other decline it || Philip dy'd at Hall the other decline it || Philip dy'd at Hall the other decline it || Philip dy'd at Hall the other decline it || Philip dy'd at Hall the other decline it || Philip dy'd at Hall the other decline it || Philip dy'd at Hall the other decline it || Philip dy'd at Hall the other decline it || Philip dy'd at Hall the other decline it || Philip dy'd at Hall the other decline it | and the other Princes and Lords, defir'd them to decline it | Philip dy'd at Hall the tech April 1424 B He left so many Debts, that his Widow was oblig'd (D) to disappoint the Creditors She was an (E) imperious revengeful Woman, and one that had given her Husband much Trouble She had Three Sons by him, and Four Daughters, and died the 17th of August 1405. He was given neither to Gaming not to Wine, (F) nor to Women, we do not find that he had ever had any Mistresses, or Bastards, but he was most ingenious in sleecing the People, and somented the Schim of the Antipopes BURGUNDY (John Duke of) Son of the foregoing, was born at Dijon the 29th of May 1371 He was immediately call'd Count of Nevers, and very early give Proofs of his being a Warlike Prince, and descrying the Sirname of without Fear which was given him. At twelve Years of Age, he followed his Father to the Expedition of Flanders, against the rebellious Subjects of his Grandsather, by the Mother-side. He was mainted two Years after to Margaret of Bavaria, Daughter ther-fide He was a mairied two Years after to Margaret of Bavaria, Daughter of Albert E irl of Holland He passionately desir d he might go into Hungary in the Year 139, with the Troops that the King of France sent the Emperor Sigismund against Bajazer He was not only "Captain of the Volunteers, but even commanded the

(a) Pontus Heuterus ubi supra 1 2 p 60

(b) History of Charles VI, tran-

Sated by Mr le La-

boureur !

24 ch 2

(c) Mexe-

rai ubi su-prap 159

(d) Pontus

Heuterus

ubi ∫upra

p 62,63

1404

PAE 484

her Allurements, and by the Greatness of her Dowry, she having brought him the County of Vertu and 50000 Crowns, by means of which he bought the County of Blois in the Tear 1392 for 20000, that of Soissons, and the Lordship of Coussy (a) Pontus Heuterus says almost the same things. Had we all the Particulars of these two Ladies Discourses and Intragues we must surply out private Memoirs. Intreagues, we might furnish out private Memoirs, fuch as would do but little Honour to the Sex, generally the primum mobile of all Civil Wars, and more deserving than Bereas of the Epithete of Shipwrack-wright

(D) So many Debts that the Widow was oblig'd to disappoint the Creditors] The Monk of St Dennu, who compos'd an History of Charles VI, praises Philip the Hardy, on several Accounts, as having been very faithful to his Wise, having educated his Nephew the King well, having taken Care to have excellent Musick for Divine Service, having been so clear-fighted in Politicks, that nothing bap pen'd which he had not foreseen long before-hand, having been very cloquent, but, adds he, (b) One thing tarnish'd the Glory of a Name which he had made so recommendable, to wit that he did not care for paying his Debts, and that his Stewards and Controllers never did his Creditors Justice, no not for what concern'd the ordinary Eupences of his Houshold, the Payment whereof could not be refus'd without a Crime Neither was his personal Estate, the of an inestimable Value, sufficient to discharge the Debts, and this made his Widow do what the wretchedest Women do not do without Regret, and without Curses; that is, make use of the Privilege of Renunciation to free her self from his Debts She observed the usual Geremonies in that Renunciation, for she (c) untyed her Gerdle and laid it with her Keys and Parfe upon her Husband's Coffin Pontus Heuterus informs us, I hat that Action stops all Interest, and takes away all Right from the Cieditors on the Immoveables, and obliges them to compound (d) Uxer Margareta liberique cadaver expettantes infigni exequiarum pompa jufta folvunt cumque rei familiaris flatum magno are alieno gravatum Margareta reperiffet, ne a credisoribus vexaretur, matronalis feretro claves, cingulum, marfuprumque, fecandum regionis leges imposuit. Hoc enim fatto creditoribus praterquam in supelletilem, ac ea qua lona rocant mobilia sui non crat, usurarum cursus siste-latur ac de sorte debitisque in losc tempus usuris, certis joint one at joint acoustique in one tempus ujuris, terms joint tonis en pacto conventoque dutis terminis conventre tore, hantur Properly confessing it is a Bankruptcy I he Agreement made with the Creditors, was (c) partly executed by the Widow, and partly by his Children

(b) She was an imperious revenueful Woman, and one that had given her Husband much Teruble. The Witness I am going to quote, it free from Suspiceori, its Pontus Heuteria (f) Pasrem, says he, non inimas terperis lineamentis, ac hamerum semperamente, quam animi affettibus referebas (Margareta) enim in ea animus excellus, ferox, ambitiosus, windicta in eum a quo se lasam existimabat, percupidus, ac quo nunquam sincere cum inimico in gratiam redire poterat, nullaque ratione ferens quos dignitatis amulatione secum certare existimabat quas animi affectiones Audan in ordinem coasturus, non parum summa adhibita prude orainem costiurus, non parum jumma adiibita pruden-tia simulationeque per omnem vitam laborarat, coastus nomunquam aliquid de jure suo cedere, quòd prater am-plissimarum Provinciarum dotem, eum pairem septem pra-fiantissimorum liberorum effecisset. Here was a Prince who hardly found any thing in the Kingdom that he did not make truckle to his Will, no, not his Sovereign's own Brother, and who at the same time is not Master at home, he is oblig'd to strike Sail to his Wife, naturally proud of her Fecundity and great Patrimony The Ancients said, that to receive a Benefit (g) sis to lose one's Liberty This is true, especially as to Downes

(F) He was given neither to Gaming, nor to Wine, nor to Women but ingenious at fleecing the

(F) He was given neither to Gaming, nor to wrine, nor to Women but ingenious at fleecing the est Publication.

People] His Chastity seems with Reason admirable to Historians, seeing he was of a robust Constitution, and that the Affluence of all Things, with the Conveniency of Occasions, has much Power over the Senses (b) Nec aleasor, nec mulierofus, nec ebriofus fuit, unde rarisfimé ejus in aula comitatuque, ubi supra camentianat, sureia, rixa, buena, comessationes, sutema pag 64. contentiones, jurgia, rixa, pugna, comessationes, intempessive vigilia, nec somnus cerebantur, animus verò in eo perturbatus iracundusque perraro De concubinis, illegitimis liberit, aut ullo incontinentia libidinis squaren pere nere nil plane reberio, qua tamen streus inter Principes sintentia antique de la concentia valents corpore praditos perrara effo consuevit, quod li-bertas, rerumque omnium affluentia facile sensus vehe-mentissimi voluptatis illecebris ac titillatione deceptos inficiant, animum emolliant, effeminentque ob caufae à scriptoribus aliquet proscinditur Prime qued immensis continuisque pecuniarum exactionibus populara exhauserit, as in excogitandis novis tributis ingeniosur fuerit, inexorabilisque in exigendo Altera proseindendi causa est, quòd universo vita tempore dississme in Christiana Republica duorum summorum Pontisseum creatione ortum omnibus artibus aluerit, sovens partes Antipapa Heuterus excuses him as to his Exactions, on account of the extraordinary Expences he was oblig'd to be at to entertain Troops, and fortific Towns But why did he not pay his Debts at leaft? A firange thing! Princes make it no Cafe of Conscience to run their Creditors, while they enrich other Persons Road this Passage of Mena(1) There Queen Margaret kept her little Court they was abrogs rest of her Days, fantastically mixing Voluptuousness with Chronol.
Devotion, the Love of Learning with that of Vanity, com 6 Christian Charity with Injustice 'For as she low'd to be pag 316.
oftenseen at Church, to entertain thurned Men, and so gree ad ann the Monks the Tenth of her Revenues, so she look a Pride in having always some Gallaners upon her Hands in invent-having always some Gallantry upon her Hands in inventing new Diversions, and never paying her Debts

(g) Bene-ficium acvendere est Publi-

(b) Pentus ub: fupra pag 64.

(e) Id 1b

Body of the Army This Expedition (A) prov'd unfortunate, all his Troops were cut to pieces in the Battle of Nicopolis He was taken Priloner himself, and some fay he would have been put to Death, * if a Turkish Physiognomist had not assured * See the Bajazet, that the Life of that Captive would be fatal to Christendom . That young Remark A Prince having paid his Ransom, return'd into France in the Year 1397 He too! so-lemn Possession + of the Dutchy and County of Burgundy, Artois, and Ilinlers, in the lemn Possession † of the Dutchy and County of Burgundy, Artoss, and Il in lers, in the Month of April 1405, and from that time thought on nothing but the Quarrel that his deceased Father had had with the Duke of Orleans. He resolved to push it to the pag 72 utmost, and fortisted his Party by the Marriage of his Son with Michaella de Valois, Daughter of King Charles VIth, and by the Marriage of his Daughter Margative with I the Dauphin. He gain'd the Affection of the City of Paris, by opposing going to be levy'd, and he made use of the Scandal, that the too ence between the Duke of Orleans and the Queen, had occasion described by the Peoples Murmurings, who were over-builthen'd with redoubl'd effect in all kind of Prodigalities, while the King and his Children abreg appear'd in a polymentage. He retir'd from Court with the Duke of Brittany. The Sing being information in a lucid Interval of the Cause of their Retreat, cill'd igner Assistant fembly, and summer that the Duke of Burgundy to it, who appeared there so well guirded by an arm'd Force, that the Queen and the Duke of Orleans thought fit to retrie to Assistant having lest Orders to bring the Dauphin after them. The Duke of Burgundy dispatch'd page 165 as lawn. away after him, over-took the young Prince, and by his own Confent, brought him pat 165 back to Paris This Rupture which kept Paris in a continual Alarm, was followed by a feering Reconciliation, after which it was referred to a wall the lower than by a feeming Reconciliation, after which, it was refolved to attack the lowns that belong'd to the English The Duke of Burgundy undertook the Conquest et Calais, and was so unfortunate in that Enterprize, that he durst not even appreach the Place, He imputed his Disgrace to the Duke of Orleans, and resort to have him murther'd The Thing was executed in Paris the Night between the 23 and 24th of November, 1407 He put the best Fice upon it at first, and even come to the Burial of the Deceas'd, but at last confess'd to the Duke of Pomben, that he was of November, 1407 the Author of that Murther, and retir'd with the Muitherers into Flanders It was believ'd that Ambition alone had not hurry'd him on to that Excess, but that (B) matrimonial Reasons concurr'd The Dutchess of Orleans, accompanied with her three Sons, demanded Justice of the King They durft not promise her any thing, so much were they afraid of the Duke of Burgundy, who fent Word that he wou'd come and justify

(a) Mexera: ub: ∫upra tom 3 PAE 151

(b) Pontus

Id 1b

(A) This Expedition was unfortunate] What Mezeras faid of it, will supply me with a good Commentary "(a) At first they perform'd Actions of incredible Valour, but their Follies and Disfolutions made them ridiculous to the very "Turks Moreover their Prefemption swell'd with fome Successes, engag'd the Hungarians in the Siege of Nicopolus, and Africa and Battle on the 28th of September, where the Hungarians ta-* king no Care to iecond them, they were all kill'd

* made Prifoners Bajazer caus'd above fix hundred of them to be cut in Pieces before the Count

* de Never's Face. and after having made him die de Never's Face, and after having made him die fo often over with Fear and Grief, he fav'd him together with fifteen other great Lords, for whose Ransom he oblig'd himself to pay two hundred thousand Ducats That Sum being paid five Months after, they were all fet at Liberty The Count de Nevers return'd into France about the End of March following It is faid, that Bajananawas fo far from taking an Oath from him, that he would never serve against the Truck more than he explored him to take his "Turks more, that he exhorted him to take his Revenge, and affur'd him that he should always find him ready in the Field to give him Satisfa-Heuterus "fina in the subi supra Ction" You will find in Pontus Heuterus (b) the prend Language with which it is supposed the sales treated that Count He likewise relates the Saying of a Physiognomist (c) Sunt qui scripscre Joanni Intrepido vitam concessam, quod Turca quidam, qui se ex hominum vultu, corporisque lineamentis, prosperam adversamque fortunam, ac fatum prædicere posse profiterctur Bajatzetho dixisset Vivat nobilis ille, ejis enim opera causaque plus Christiani Sanguinis profundetur, crudelieraque inter se bella gerent, quam credi au. Sperari posses Bajazet would have done an inesti-mable Piece of Service to France, if he had not spar'd the Life of the Count de Nevers It was for the Sins of France that that barbarous Sultan li-the Sins of France that that barbarous Sultan li-then'd rather to the Counfels of Covetousness, than the shole of Cruelty But if it be true that a For-tusse-teller made him resolve to put that Pri-soner to Ransom, he acted more like a cruel than a covetous Man In a Word, the Death of that Count would have been the Life of a great Number of French; it would have prevented the most dreadful Desolation to which a kingdom can be reduc'd

(B) And that Mutrimonial Reasons concurr d] I mean, that he design'd by it to revenge the Difhonour he had receiv'd by a Commerce of Gallantiy with his Wife Let us hear Brantome fipeak "(d) The Duke of Orlean having "mblightly headed on a time and the latest and the statest and the having (d) Branpublickly boasted on a time at a public Dinner, tome, Darwhere his Cousin Duke John of Burgundy allo was,
That he had the Pictures of the truck Ladies he test tor had lain with, in his Closet It happen d that Duke John coming one Day accidentally into his Closer, the first Lady whose Picture presented to his Eyes, was his own noble Lady and Spoule, tome is who was thought very handiom at that time, miled ex her Name was Margaret, Daughter of Albert of Bavaria, Count of Haynault, Holland, and Zealand The good Husband was affonsh'd You may imagin that he said in good earnest Hall have it and taking no farther notice of the Health bit him, he diffembl'd the Matter, and concealing the true Cause of his Resentment, quarrell d with him about the Regency and the Admini-firstion of the Kingdom, and under that Cloak, and not on the Account of his Wife, caus d him to be murther'd at the Gate of Bauder at Parishis Wife (e) dying before as wis thought of Poison, after the Cow was dead, he married a fecond Wife, who was the Daughter of Lewis III, Duke of Bourbon, and it may be he had no better Bargain of her; for those Persons who are fubject to weat Horns, may change their Lodg-ings and Appartments as often as they please, they always find them standing in their Light That Duke did very wifely to revenge the A-dultery, without scandalizing himself or his Wife, 'twas a very wife Piece of Dissimulation in him (f) For those Regions this Duke John did very piudently to dissemble and hide his Horns, and yet revenge himself on his Cousin who had done that Injury to him, and of the part afterwards fcost'd at, and divulg d it, and no doubt is to be made, but that such Derision and Scandal touch'd him as much to the Heart as 1 is Ambition, and made him give thet Blow like a very ingenious and wife Worldling. Do not

p m ,52

mifal en This Dule of Burhad b one It if and he See P Anselme, Pag 2 9 Henterus s bi Supra P 93 conwho give / m two Wives

(f) Bi an-

4 1d 1b pag 168 + Call'd lein Petit Sie bis Ar cle

1 11 1b par 169 B 1d 1b Pag 170 21/17 bid t fell d flop, Broto to the Dillof Bergun-Du chess

& The 4th of Decem-60 1408 $ In 1410

& N' crai ubi Jupia pag 178 ad ann 1411

(a) louis Co'lut. Mnanes de Bourgogne liv Ic ch pag 626

()lieu rint a Monito el s vol 1 1 2 73

himself * provided the Gates of Paris were not guarded He made his Entry into Paris again in the Month of Fibruary 1408, and openly confest, that he was Author of the Muither, and got a Cordelier to maintain that the Action was just Letters of Abolition were granted him, || and in outward Appearance, he was reconciled to the Queen. He withdrew for some time into Arrow. In his Absence, the Widow renewed her Process, he g was declard an Lnemy to the State, and Troops were fent for from all Pins, to hunt him down But when it was known, that after having obtain'd a finicus Victory against those of Liege, he was preparing to return to Paris, the Orleanors did not think themselves secure, the Queen herself fled with her Husband Orleanors did not think themselves secure, the Queen herself sted with her Husband to Iours. He enter'd Paris with six thousand Men, a new Reconciliation was proposed, which made the Widow of the Duke of Orleans, a haughty and revengeful Princess, die s of Grief and Vexation. Her Children were constrain'd to be seconciled with their Father's Murtherer. This was done with much Solemany in Chartres, about the I nd of March 1409. The King return'd to Paris, and the Duke to the Netherlands, from whence he past again into France, in the Month of July, and seiz'd the Government intirely. The Dukes of Berrs and Bourhon, and divers others, enter d into a Consederacy? against him, with the House of Orleans, and rais'd Troops, which they posted near Paris. He call'd together the Arrier-ban; a War was begun between 'em and afterwards they were forced to consent to an Agreement. He between 'em, and afterwards they were forced to consent to an Agreement He quitted the Capital according to the Articles of Agreement, but the other Party would not be quiet. The Duke of Orleans & with Sword in Hand, demanded Justice against his Father's Murtherer, and fent a very (C) outragious Challenge to the Burgundian, who answer d him in the like Language Thus the Kingdom was divided into two Factions, the one was that of the Burgundians, and the other that of the Orleanois, commonly think that this is one of those Stories which are had by Indition, it has been inferted in authentick Histories You will find it in Lewis Golluts

(a) Memoirs It is true that that Author suppoles that Duke John of Burgundy did not believe that his Wife was fille to him, but thought that the Duke of Orlians boasted wrongfully, that he had been favour'd by her That Boasting was nevertheless such an Offence as he would be reveng'd Gollut tells us, that the Dutchels of Burgui had complain'd that the Duke of Orleans would have dishonour'd her Let us set down his own Words, they will inform us, that that nice Affair was debated in the Council of Burgundy, and fair was debated in the Council of Burgundy, and that it was there resolved, not to take that Pre(b) Id ib tence to be revenged of Orleans (b) Meyerus says indeed, upon the Authority of some good Author, (whose very Latin Words he sits down) That the Dutches had formerly complained to the Duke her Husband, that the Duke of Orleans had found her alone, and had solicited her, and would have fored her in her Honour To which she desired him to have regard Which the Duke received in such manner as such Cases are taken and interpreted by Husbands, who have any Courage and the Sense of a good Reputation at Courage and the Sense of a good Reputation at Heart However, he would not revenge himself then, but only resolved on the Execution in due time, and on punishing the Crime by the Murther of the Duke of Or-leans, whatever might happen He adds, That the Duke having assembled his Council, he asked the great Persons to whom he communicated it upon Oath, how he should execute the Revenge of so great an Injury, in the way of Chastiscoment and Assassination letting them understand, that he did not ask their Opinions whether he should do st or no, lut only how and in what Way and with what Security Whereupon, after divers Excuses, and three Days Deliberations, the Council answer'd That the best way wou'd be to order Matters io, that the Duke of Orleans's Actions should be deservedly censur'd That Care shou'd be taken to gain the good Opinion of the People, and even of the Paristans, and that for that End, it would be proper to plant People here and there, who should aggravate the Failings of the Duke of Orleans, and fir up the People against him These last Words of Gallus are very remarkable

() Sent a very outrag ous Challenge to the Burgundian who answer d lim in the like Language] Revier will not be displeas'd to see the Contents of those Challenges in this Place, that of the Duke of Orl ans was conceived in the following Terms (1) (bail s Duke of Orleans, and of Valois, Count ot Plos and of B sumons, Lord of Conchy, Philip
"Count de Fertus, and sohn Count of Angoulesme,
"brothers To thee sohn who calls thy self Duke " of Burrandy, on account of the most horrible "Murtler by thee wilfully committed in great Treaton by hired Murtherers in the Person of our most dear and redoubted Loid and I ather, " My Lord Lines Duke of Orleans, only Brother

" of My Lord the King, our Sovereign Lord and "thine, notwithstanding divers Oaths, Alliances and Companies of Arms that thou hadst of him, and Companies of Arms that thou hadft of him, and on account of the great Treasons, Disloyalties, Dishonour, and Mischiess perpetrated by thee against our Sovereign Lord, My Lord the King, and against us in divers Manners. We let thee know, that from this Day following, we shall annoy thee with all our Forces, and by all Means we can, calling God and Justice, and all Means we can, calling God and Justice, and all the discreet Men of this World to our Aid, against thee and thy Disloyalty and Treason. In Witness whereof we have caus'd these present Letters to be Seal'd with the Seal of me Charles above-nam'd. Given at January the Eighteenth "above-nam'd Given at Jarieau the Eighteenth Day of July, in the Year of Grace One Thoufand Four Hundred and Eleven" Here follows the Burgundian's Answer (d) John Duke of Burgundy, Palatin, Lord of Salines, and of Mecklin To thee Charles who calls thy felf Duke of Orleans, To thee Philip who calls thy felf Count de Vertus, and to thee John who calls thy felf Count of Angoulesme, who not long since have sent us your Letters of Desiance; We declare, and would have all Persons to know, that to destroy the most horrible Treasons, and the very great Mischiess and premeditated Treasons feloniously conspir'd, machin'd, and enterpriz'd against My Lord the King, our most reabove-nam'd Given at Jarieau the Eighteenth and premeditated Treasons feloniously conspired, machined, and enterprized against My Lord the King, our most redubted Sovereign Lord and yours, and against his most noble Progeny, by the late Lewis your Father, a false and distoyal Traytor, to attain to a final detestable Execution for which he has contended against our most redubted Lord and his and also against his said Progeny, so falsy and notoriously, that no honest Man ought to suffer him to live, much less ought me who are Cousin-Germain to my said Lord, Dean of the Peers, and twice a Peer, and more oblied to him and to his Progeny, than Pecr, and more oblig'd to him and to his Progeny, than any other of his Generation, let such a false, distoyal, cruel, and selonious Traytor live any longer on the Earth, unless we afted to our own very great Prejudice, have, to acquit our felf Loyal, and to do our Duty towards dur most Great and Sovereign Lord and his said Progeny, put to Death as he ought to be, the said false and distoyal Traytor, and therefore have done Pleasure to God, and loyal Service to our faid most redoubted and Sovereign Lord by that reasonable Execution And because thou and thy said Brothers, follow the false, distoyal, and felonious Steps of your said deceased Father, thinking to attain to the damuable and distoyal Ends at which he am'd We have with Gladness of Heart received the Said Challenges, but what is moreover and above con tain d in the same, thou and thy said Brothers have ly'd, and do lye falfly, wickedly, and distoyally, like Traytors as you are, and therefore by the Help of God who sees and knows the most intire and perfect Loyalty, Love and good Intentions that we always have had and shall have as long as we live for our Lord and his faid Progeny, for the Good of his people, and of his whole Kingdom, we will bring you by force to such an End and Punishment as such falle and disloyal Traytors, Rebels and disobedient Felons

(d) Id 16. chap 73

* Armagnacs From thence proceeded a great many (D) Murthers, Phynderings, and Because Proferiptions The Orleanoss blockaded Paris, fully refolv'd to pillage it. The Duke of Armag of Burgundy, with the Assistance of some English, oblig'd them to retire †, and was received into the City as the Deliverer of France He loaded 'em with all the Disgraces one of the that a routed Party usually suffers, he got them excommunicated, he put their Goods and Estates to Sale, and gave 'em Chase every where. This constrain'd them to enter Chiefs into an Allrance with the English, upon Conditions very fatal to France The King to being informed of it, swore their Destruction, and went in Person to besiege Bourges, ad ann and made his Generals attack them elsewhere, but weighty Reasons oblig'd him to grant them Peace After a thousand Confusions in the City of Paris, the Duke of 11 to 15 But and not finding himself the strongest Party, retuind into the Netherlands in the Year 1413 Phis Creatures were deposed, and he detested || as an execrable Murtherer pag 186 He returned with an Army, and presented himself before Parts, a notwithstanding the year 187 Keep had forthed him to an arms of the land to t King had forbid him to approach it, upon pass of High-treason Not one stirr'd in his Favour, he retir'd in Confusion, after the thundering out a Declaration against him by Charles the VIth. That Prince pursued him as an Enemy to the State, and afterwards granted him a Peace but on very hard Conditions The other Party continued 2 1614 Superiour, 'till the Year 1418, when the Friends of the Faction of Burgundy & introduc'd Phillsp Villiers l'Iste-Adam into Paris. It was at that Time that Tannegus du Chatel sav'd the Dauphin, as I have said elsewhere. The Cruekies exercised on the Armagnacs were terrible. The Queen, whom the King had discarded, united with the Duke of Burgundy, and made her Entry into Paris along with him They had from Me the King in their Power, and abus'd his Name, while the Dauphin did what he could against the Duke Endeavours were used to pacify these Troubles, the Dauphin and Supra page the Duke had a Conference in the open Field, and appointed mother Rendezvous the followat Montereau-faut-yonne, to regulate all the Articles of their Treaty The Duke came ing to the Place appointed the 10th of September 1419, and was there affaffinated by the Assethe Dauphin's Friends . He had one legitimate Son and tix Daughters, and tome (L) Ba- Remark A flards His Death was revenged in a quite different Manner from that of the Duke howing A of Orleans, So much Unevenness and Caprice there is in the human Mind BURGUNDY (Philip Duke of) sirnam'd the Good the only Son of the foregoing, was born at Dyon the 30th of June 1396, and educated by his Mother till the Death of his Grandfather by the Father's Side He was atterwards brought to Ghent, where he liv'd feveral Years, for it was not thought fit to hazzard him in the Combustions of the Court of France, where his Lather and the House of Orleans as then and thy Brothers are, have most reasonably de-ferv'd. In Witness whereof, we have caus'd these Les-ters to be scal'd with our Seal, given in our City of Dougy, the 14th Day of August, in the Year of Grace, One Thousand Four Hundred and Eleven

(D) From thence proceeded a great many Murthers and Proscriptions] This Diffention may be comand Professions] This Differtion may be compared to that of Marius and Sylla, and to the unhappy Triumvirat of Mark Anthony, Offavius, and Lepidus Let us fee how an Historian of the Burnal and Party expresses himself upon it "(a) While gundian Party expresses himself upon it "these things were transacting Messire Peter des Essards, enter'd privately into Paris, and found Means to gain the Butchers, Slaughterers, and such like Mob, who he knew lov'd the Duke of Burgundy, and perswaded them to search about for the Orleansis Whereupon the poor and unfortunate Orlessess were beaten, huated, massa-cred without Justice, and lastly, treated worse than Enemies Which was the first Beginning of the Discontent which the King, the Dauphin, the Queen, and all good People conceived a gainft the Duke of Burgundy Confidering these france Actions, and rather worthy some Syllans, Marians, Triumviss, and other barbarous Heathens, than Christian Princes educated in the Church of Jesus Church of Jesus and of Jesus Each and Santa Church of Jesus Church of "Ghrift, the Father of Peace and of Love And fore"feeing, that the Otleanois would, in their Turn, find an Opportunity in the City of Paris, or somewhere else, an Opportunity in the City of Paris, or somewhere elle, of doing the like to any Subject, Servant, or Pariszan of the Faction of Burgundy, whom they should discover, which would cause an unbeard of and unusual Buschery in all the Towns of France, with the Ruin and Death of many imposent People. To such a Point did those Discord and unhappy Givil War bring the unfortunate People of France, and the Citimens of all the Towns in it. Thus the Folles, Passons, Dissonsies of Princes, distule themselves to and underwe Spirit of Princes, diffuse themselves to the Rum of the poor innesent People"

(E) And fome Baffards \ Let us make use of the fame Author's Empression (b) He was but once the fame Author's Empression (c) He was but once the fame of the fam tweet Author's impression (v) he was one once theoried, but he was not contented, nor chaft in his Morriage. For he induly'd homeless firing Amours; fomestimes favouring Misroffes, whereof the last and most belov'd, was the Last of Girc, who was privy to the Conspiracy that was form'd against him; by whom he L-d had nevertheless no Children, for the two Bastards John Bishop of Cambray, and Guy (who was a valuant Cap-tain) were by others I wonder that Gollut says nothing of that same Duke's Bastard Daughter She was call'd Philippa, and was marry'd to Antoine de Ro-chebaren Sieur de Breze-le Chartel (c) Nor does a (d) modern Historian of the Dukes of Burgundy, mention a Word of this Bastard Daughter, but ob-ferves, (e) That shey spoke ill of Duke John, and of the Queen of France, who, fince her Deliverance from Tours, favour'd him very much, she who before breathed nothing but the Rage of the Orleanois He does not torget the (f) Treason of a second Dalila, the Lady of Giac (g) who lesing all at the taking of Montereau, the Capitulation excluding the Duke of Burgundy s Domesticks, suffer'd the Punishment of her Lascoviousness, and of her insamous Treachery Pontus Heuterus had (h) mention'd the same Things, and particularly, what relates to the bad Reports about the Queen That Princess did not make her self honour'd for her Chastry It was believ'd that she had behav'd her sulf all (1) with the Duke of Orleans, and that afterwards, this Duke's Murtherer was too well with her Add to this, these Words of Mezera: (k) As they live d with much Liberty in that Princeses House, it was easie for the Constable of Armagnac to make the King jealous of her Insomuch that he order'd one whose Name was Bouredon, who was privy to that Intreague, to drown'd, and afterwards remov'd the Queen his Wife, and sent her Prisoner to Yours And from that time, she never could pardon him that Injury, nor her Son the Dauphin, because it was done by his Approbation, the be was then but fixteen Tears of Age After the Duke of Bargundy had let her at liberty, it was no hard matter to put her upon violent Proceedings against the Armagnace, by whom she had been injur'd (1) in so many willainess Ways, they having been so passionate and outragious as to accuse her to the King and the Douphin her son, of a Crime committed against her (k) Id 11 Marrage Vow, and of housing entertoin'd more familiar 200 108 Acquaintance and Privacy, with a certain Gentleman, ad ann then become the Honour and Faith of a married Lady, and the Grandeur of such an illustration to the contract of the and the Grandeur of such an illustrieus Princes who was a Queen and the Wife of a King of France To which they added another did of supplice, to mis, the firipping chap 42 ber of all the Riches she had spare and laid up in some pag 690

E e e e e

of Armagpag 188 In September " laken

(a) Gollut ubs su-pra lsb 10 l'ap 22 pag

(b) Id 1b

chap 49 pag 701

(c) See Pere Labbe neal pag 257 O Perc An-Selme Hist geneal pag 210 (d) Faber Hift des Rourg pag 68 (1) Id 16 The 111 REPU TATI-ON of Charles VII (f) 1d 1b pag 64 (g) 1d 1b pag 68 (b) Pontus Heuterus pag 92 rai ubi lu-

ubi Supra lib 4 init p m 97

† Anselme ub: Suprd pag 211

Pontus Heuterus ub: Supra

pag 98 2 She was then at & 1d 1b

& Mezeras ubi Supra pag 209 ad ann

1420

* Ex Pmio disputed the Ground with the utmost Fury * He married Michaella the Daughter of Charles the VIth, in the Year 1409, and lost her in the Year 1422, without having had any Children by her † He had the Government of Artoss and Flanders given him in any Children by her † He had the Government of Artoss and Flanders given him in the Year 1405, but under the Direction of some Lords whom his Father had appointed him They wou'd not suffer him to go to the War, which has been been upon it, and lost his Stomach to his Victuals; he comforted himself when he heard of the bad Success of the Battle of Assamples, and own'd his Father was in the Right, in not suffering him to be present at the stay'd at Ghent with his Mother and Wife, to see how the Quarrel between his Father and the House of Orleans would end, and what Party the Dauphin would take But as soon as he heard of the tragical Action committed on the Bridge of Montereau-form par'd to do Justice, and set all Engines at work to obtain a significant found all the Means for this End, that he could have wish'd for; a great Number of Erench offer'd him their Service, the Queen who govern'd the King's weak Mind, was French offer'd him their Service, the Queen who govern'd the King's weak Mind, was a together in his Interests, he brought the King of England over to his Side, who accompanied him to the Court of France, where a Treaty was made, importing that Charles the VIth should give his Daughter Catherine in Marriage to the King of England. gland, and acknowledge him for Heir to the Crown. These two Kings having made their Entry into Paris, the Duke of Burgundy set forth his Complaint before them and their Councils, the Dauphin was called to the Marble-Table, with the usual Formalities, and ifterwards declared (A) unworthy of any Succession, and particularly of that to the Crown of Irance, and for ever banish'd the Kingdom The Dauphin appeal'd to God and Crown of Irance, and for ever banish'd the Kingdom

(a) Mezeını ubi fupra pag 253 ad ann 1435

Churches, to make use of them in case of Need, in the Times of the Civil Wars. The English to whom she was so much obligd, were not silent on the Chapter of her Immodesty See what one of our gravest Historians relates "(a) The last of Se" ptember 1435, died the Queen Mother Isabella of Bavaria, in the Palace of St Pol at Paris, where Bavaria, in the Palace of St Pol at Paris, where the liv'd in a poor Condition after the Death of the King her Husband, justly hated by the French, and ungratefully despis'd by the English Some have writ, that to save her Funeral Charges, they carry'd her Corps in a little Boat to St Dennu, accompany d only by four Persons Some impute her Death to an Oppression at her Heart, caus d by their outragious Railleries, for they took Delight in telling her to her Face. Thar took Delight in telling her to her Face, That King Gharles was none of her Husband's Son "

(A) He was declar'd unworthy of the Crown of Irance, and for ever banish'd the Kingdom The King of France, and his Son in-law, the King of England, made their Entry into Paru in the Beginning of December 1420 Some Days after the Duke ning of December 1420 Some Days after the Duke of Burgundy's Complaint was heard concerning his I ather's Murther The two Kings were seated on the same Throne, the Chancellor of France, the Chief President of the Parliament of Paris, and many other Lords and Perions of the Council, assisted at the Assembly The Duke appear'd there with divers Perions of Quality (b) And then Messive Williams there for the Plantiffs, and having there of the Plantiffs, and having there of the Kings, let sure the ving obtain'd Audience of the two Kings, fet forth the cruel Homicide committed in the Person of the late Duke John of Burgundy, by Charles, calling himself Dauphin of Vienne, the Viscount of Narbonne, the Sieur de Barbasan, Tanneguy du Chastel contluding that they ought to be taken, put in a Dang-cart, and led three Saturdays, or Festivals, bare-headed thro' all the great Streets of Patis, and of them with a wax Taper burning in his Hand, and confessing with a loud Voice. that they had wickedly, perfidiously, damnably, and en-viously kill d the Duke of Liurgundy, without any reafonable Canfo what focuer afterwards they should be led to the Place where they perpetrated the faid Homicide, and there lay and repeat the same Words Furthermore, that a Church should be built at the Place where they kill'd him, that twelve Canons should be settled there at the Expence of the said Dauphin and his Accom plices, and that the Cause for which the Said Church should be built, should be written and engrav'd in large Letters on the Stone of the Portal of the Same, and like-wife in each of the Sullowing Cities, viz Paris, Rome, Ghent, Dijon, St James in Compostella, and Jeruislem Purjuant to this Proposition, Master Peter de Marigny, the King's Advocate in Parliament, drew up also some criminal Accusations against the abovesaid And moreover, Master John l'Archer Doctor of Divinity, deputed thereunto by the Rector of the University of l'aris, exhorted the two Kings to do Justice, and to punish Such Criminals, liftening courteously to the Request of the Complainants, and to their Allegations? Whereupon the King of France made Answer by the Mouth of bu Chan--Her, Thus by the Grace of God, and the good Affiftance and Advice of the King of England, Regent and Heir of France, he would do so good Justice on the guilty of Such an Homicide, that there should be Reason to be satisfied with it According to which Answer, Charles Duke of Touraine, Dauphin, was call d to the Marble-Table of Touraine, Dauphin, was call d to the Marble-Table at Patis, where all Solemnities being observed against him and his Accomplices, for the Murther of the late Duke of Burgundy, he was by a Senience publickly affixed basished and sail d from the Kingdom of France, and declared unworthy to succeed to any Lord-ships, present or to come, and also to the Succession and Expessation that he had to the Crown of France I say nothing on the (c) Nullity of this Decree, I shall be satisfied with making a Ressection on the unequal Conduct of Courts and People John Duke of Burgundy caus'd the King's only Brother to be of Burgundy caus'd the King's only Brother to be murther d in the Streets of Paris The Widow and the Children of the deceased, demanded Justice for it, and could never obtain any The Murtherer gloried openly in his Action, neither would be disown it at the king's Request He constrain'd the Complainants to comment to a Reconciliation, and was to far from incurring the publick Hatred that he became the Idol of the Parifians, he lorded it almost over all the Kingdom, he destroy d much People in Paris and elsewhere, he endeavour'd to have carry'd the Dauphin away, he joyn'd with the English the chief Enemies of the Nation At last he was us'd as he had serv'd the King's only Brohe was us'd as he had ferv'd the King's only Brother, and was murther d on the Bridge of Montereau. His Son and Widow complain'd of it to the King's Council, and obtain'd what they would against the Dauphin, they got him condemn'd to a perpetual Banishment, their Cause was supported by the People, and particularly by the University of Paris. Can a Body conceive too great an Indignation against such a Caprachio? If you except the Circumstance of the Word given, and of the Faith of a Treaty that was to be concluded, all the rest is much more odious and wicked in the Murther of the Duke of Orleans, than in that of the Burgundians. the Duke of Orleans, than in that of the Burgund The Duke of Orleans was superior in Dignity the Duke of Orizans was tuperior in Dignity to the Duke of Burgundy, for he was the King's Browther, the Dauphin was fuperior to the Duke of Burgundy The Sovereign Authority was in some manner devolv'd upon him, during the Crazmess of Charles the VIth, the Right of using the Sword belong'd to him before any Body elle, and it is certain that the Murtherer of the Duke of Orleans did not only deserve Death, on account of these did not only deserve Death, on account of that infamous Murther, but also on the score of a great many other Violences, Murthers, Plunders, and Proscriptions Nevertheless the Widow of the Duke of Orleans and her three Sons, could obe tain no Justice, the Murtherer had no Punishment inflicted upon him, but on the contrary insulted, he triumph'd for 12 Years together, and at last was murther'd. The Widow and his Son demanded luftice, and obtain'd the most thundering Decree that ever was heard of, against the adverse Party The same Frenchmen who had sufadverse Party The same Frenchmen who had suf-fer d so patiently the Complaints against a Murther

commutted

(c) See de Tillet in his Recuest des trastez France & l'Angleterre in his Chapter of Charles

(b) Continuation de la Chronique de Flandres extraite de plusieur s Auteurs par Denis Sauvage chap 96 PAE 334

to his Sword *, and got himself declar'd King after the Death of his Father, in the *1d.1b Year 1422 This was King Charles the VIIth The Duke of Brittany join'd with Pag 210 the English and the Burgundians, insomuch than there is more Reason to wonder that Tid 16 pag 235 Charles the VIIth did not lose his whole Kingdom, than that he lost a good Part of it ad ann He was oblig'd to † dismis those who had had any Hand in the Murder of the Duke 1425 of Burgundy. The Son of the latter found Employment enough in the Netherlands (B) in the Pursuit of Jaquelina of Bavaria, which somewhat eas'd the King of France's Party. He had the Glory to be earnestly requested by the Pope and the Council of Basil to moderate his just Resentment, and pity the Calamities of his Country Pesides this, he had the Glory to see Charles the VIIth submit to Conditions of Agreement so rigorous that it may without a Hyperbole be faid (C) that he committed by John of Burgundy, to be rejected, of-Murtherer The Duke of Orlean's Sons, infead of having their Revenge, fell under an Oppression which did not end but by the Interpolition of the Son of him who had murther'd their Father According to natural Order, he should have had Recourse to their Clemency, and yet they had need of his Compassion The Fate of the Murtherer of this Murtherer, was very different; he found the Crown rent from him, and himself banish'd for That partial Sentence wanted but little of being actually executed, for he was beaten in an hundred Places, and disposses'd of divers Provinces. The Son of him whom he had caus'd to be murder'd, was the chief Cause of those Missfortunes, and after having fatiated his Revenge, constiain'd his own King to make him Satisfactions so unworthy of Royal Majesty, as shall be seen below, that never any Fault was expiated in fuch a manner What Violence! what Tyranny! to exact the revenging the Murther of a Person to the Rigor, who had laughed at the Prosecutions of the Widow and Children of him whom he had murther'd, but what Disorder to see 'em seconded so well in their Demand Here we must exclaim (a) Multi

(a) Juven Sat 13 v 104 The WLAK-SIDE of Monarchical Government

(b) Astel-

pag 117 (c) Mcz -

ann 1421

(d) Id 1b PAE 237 an ann

🛊 🗛 z ubi Supra pag 212 84 me, Aift genekl

Committunt eadem diverso crimina fato Ite crucem sceleris pretium tulit, hic diadema

Let us make another Reflection The Reign of Charles the VIth represents to us the Weak-side of the monarchical Government The other kinds of Government have each their Weak-side, yet they are not subject to Infancy, nor Craziness, as Kings The monarchical Constitution in hereditary Kingdoms, ordains that he who is in the Courie of Succession, shall fill the Throne, though a Child, or by some Indisposition fallen into Childhood again. By which many the need foreign and hood again By which many the most furious and most fatal Dissentions take place, as France experienced in the Reign of Charles the VIth Nor let at be faid that a mix'd Monarchy hinders these Disorders, for never were so many memorable Conventions seen in France as in this Reign And to speak freely It has not often been known that the States General have appeared Troubles, but rather contributed to foment and increase them. This appeared under the Reign of the Children of Henry the IId. Such then is the Condition of Human kind that there is no Chouse to be made here. man kind, that there is no Choice to be made between Good and Evil, but between the Evil and tween Good and Evil, but between the Evil and the Worse, and it very often happens, that we make choice of the Worst when we think to chuse the lesser Evil For Example, The Dauphin and they who govern'd him, resolv'd on the Death of John of Burgundy, as a necessary Remedy, which would at least prevent a greater Evil, and yet it appear'd that they only made things worse The Son of John occasion'd more Consumors and Missortunes than John would have done

(B) Employment enough in the Netherlands in Pur-

(B) Employment enough in the Netherlands in Pur-fust of Jaquelina of Bavaria] That Lady was (b) the only Daughter and Heiress of William of Bavaria, the 4th of that Name, Earl of Hainsult, Holland, and Zealand, and Lord of Vriesland, and was married to john of France, Dauphin of Vienness, Son of Charles the VIth That Dauphin dying in the Year 1416, the was married again to John Duke of Brahant, Cousin-germain to our Philip the Good (T) But the young Coquet not being contented with that Second Husband, a Man of little Virtue, Sued for a Divorce, and got some Captains to run away with her, and carry her into England, where she marry'd Humphry Duke of Gloucester, Brother to King Henry That Enterprize turn'd much to the Contempt of Philip He oppos'd the Duke of Gloncester briskly They (d) mettl'd each other by Letters, and went so far as "to challenge one another to fight it Hand to "Hand, and to agree on the Day, Place, and Weampons The Duke of Bedford having assembled the chief French and English Lords, annull'd the "Challenge, and declar'd that there was no just "Cause for a Combat". Nevertheless there was great War in Holland about it, where the Duke of Gloucester and the Duke of Burgundy try'd their Forces, but the Yope having declar'd at their Forces, but the Pope having declar'd at two Years End, That the Marriage of Jaquelina with the Duke of Gloucester, was and married a Lady whom he kept " (e) During the "ried a Lady whom he kept" (e) During the Pag 239 whole Tear 1428, the Duke of Burgundy was taken up in the Netherlands with the Affair of Jaquelina of Bavaria He followed her so close, that having besteged her in the City of Ghent, he oblig'd her to diclare him Heir to all her Estates, so that he added HAYNAULT, HOLLAND, ZEALAND, and FRIESLAND to Flanders and Artois Historians represent Jaquelina as a fickle wanton Woman, who left her Husband only (f) because she did not think him able to get her with Child This was a Means for her to gratishe her Affections and Amours, tho' at the gratifie her Affictions and Amours, tho' at the Price of her Honour and Reputation She would She would not consent to remain under the Power of the Duke of Burgundy, till such time as the Pope should decide the Dispute concerning her Marriage, although her Mother and Husband had a-greed to it The Inhabitants of Mons compell'd her to submit, and deliver d her to the Duke, who had her conducted to Ghent, but she did not stay long there, for having gain'd some Domesticks, she disguis'd her self in Man's Appaicl, and fled into Holland (g) She found some Partisans there, and by their Means, she cut out the Burgundians a great deal of Work, for she was not discouraged at the list success of her Arms (b) The Spirit of a Meman Gails it Gande who gives her felf a Loofe in Amours, is never to be conwho gives her jeif a wooje in carriers, for Reason and good quered without extream Constraints, for Reason and good quered without extream upon a Love sick Brain She Advice are thrown away upon a Love fick Brain She did not yield when the knew that her Marriage with the Duke of Gloucester had been declared void by the Pope, and that that Duke had married his Concubine, nor yet when she was certainly inform'd of the Death of her true Husband, the Duke of Brabant Most of her Friends forfook her, seeof Brabant Moit of her Friends forflook her, feeing the Superiority of the Burgundians, and their refolving (i) to behead all the Chiefs of the contrary Party who fell into their Hands. In the mean time, the did not treat with the Duke of Burgundy till he had belieg'd her in (k) Tergou After the Treaty, he gave the Government of Holland to Francis Borfelle, who privately courted Jaquelina, and married her unknown to the Duke in the Year 1432

He was raken Prifoner, but upon her making a new He was taken Prisoner, but upon her making a new Refignation of all her Rights, was permitted to fare rat Meytiate himfelf in the Enjoyment of his new Amours She nier, Dedy'd at the Hague without Children the 4th of mandes

Offsber 1436 (1)
All this shews that our Philip the Good was an active Prince, and one that did not scruple to aggrandize himself at the Expence of the forced Continency of a Woman, for he only oppos'd Jaque-lina's Amours, to hinder her from having Chil-dren, and as soon as he knew that those she might have had should not inherit, he e'en let her satisfy

(C) It may without a Hyperbole be said that he oblig'd him to do Penance] I have quoted a long Passage (m) elsewhere, and left a Chasm there which should have contain'd the following Words (n) Before Lewis the XIth's Days, his Father King Charles the EXIT did a much stranger thing. Some to the extension the VIIth, did a much stranger thing, for to obtain Peace with Philip Duke of Burgundy his Vassal, and Leece 2

(e) Id 1b (g) Id 16 (b) Id 1b (i) Id ih (k) Otherwise Gouda Gollut calls this Town Gonde or Gande (1) Ex codem ibid See also Pontus ubi Supræ pag 110 (m) In one of the Remarks of the Article of Loui

(n) Hono-

curteules

& reponses libres pag

59 >, 591

(a)Olevier de la Marche, Me-moires liz

obliged him to make an Amende bonourable. By Means of these shameful Sub-missions, but which the Necessity of (D) the Time ought to excuse, Charles the VII, drew him off from the Alliance of the English From that time the latter became natural Subject, he sent the Constable of France, the Chanceller, a Marescal of France, and divers other great natural Subjest, he sent the Constable of France, the Obanceller, a Marysal of France, and divers other great Lords to treat with him, who in a full Assembly, and in the Name of the King older, ask of Paradon for the Death of John Duke of Burgundy, leadily and distinctly confessing that the King had done Ill as being a young Man of listle Sense and ill adoid; destring the Duke to sorger hus just Resonants of a Rast which could not be recall d Whereupon the Duke declar'd that he pardon'd the King for God's sake, and in Compassion for the People of France, and to obey the Council, the Pope, and other Christian Princes who interceded with him. A Slave could not have made a those homewable Satisfaction to his Lord than the King then did to his Subjest, in order to restore his Kingdom to its sirst splandour, and divide the English out of it, at he did son after, and in that to bring this same Man to he Duty again, to whom the Netessity of Assets had oblig'd him to make such a Submission. The Romans would some house less there are Satisfacted to such a Assemble As in Matter of Satisfacted in Such as Assemble in the humble Submission of Terms is sometimes of Consequence, my Readers cannot be fully satisfied if I should leave them to the Authority of that Writer Wherefore it is netterfary that I here for down the very Words of the Treaty of Arras, which contain the humble Submission of Charles the VII. The first Arricle is shis. "(a) That the King shall say, or "by some of his great Officers sufficiently authomatic is shis." (a) That the King shall say, or by some of his great Officers sufficiently authomatic had been and that it always had displaced him, and shill does displaced at his very fleart, and that, if he had known of the said Murder, and had with Age and Understanding as he has at present, he wou'd have oppos'd k with all his "Power, but that he was very young, and had but hit he way all Rancor or Harred, that he may have according to the first hum on the Score from his Heart. Lords to treat with him, who in a full Affembly, and in 1 chap 3 pag m (84, 85 "vis'd as to fee the Heinoutheis of it. And he shall "pray my said Lord of Burgundy, that he will barnsh away all Rancor or Harred, that he may have against him on that Score, from his Heart, and that there may be a good Peace and Love between them, and this shall be expressly mention'd in the Deeds which shall be exchanged of the Agreement and Treaty between them." Let us also fet down the three following Articles "ITEM. That the King shall abandon all those ITIM, That the King shall abandon all those who perpetrated or were consenting to that wicked Ast, and use all possible Diligence to cause them to be apprehended and taken (where ever they may be found) to be punish'd in Body and Estate, and if they connot be apprehended, he shall banish and cause them to be banish'd out " of the Kingdom, and out of Dauphine for ever, " without Grace or Repeal, with Confifcation of all their Estates, and never more to be capable of being included in any Treaty ITEM, The King shall not suffer any of them to be receiv'd or favour'd, in any Place under his Obedience or Power And Publication shall be made in all Places of the faid Kingdom, and in Dauphina, where Publications use to be made, that no Body " shall receive or favour them, on the Penalty of Imprisonment and Confication of Goods ITEM, That Monsieur of Burgundy shall as speedily as may be, after the said Agreement as concluded, name those who he is, or shall then be concluded, name those who he is, or shall then be informed, had perpetrated, or were consenting to the said wicked Fact, that they may immediately and diligently be proceeded against by the King's Authority, as is abovefaid. And moreover, because My faid Lord of Burgundy may not yet have right Knowledge or due Information of all those who perpetrated that wicked Act, or were consenting to it, every time that he shall be duly informed of any others, he may name them, and signific them by his Letters Pattents, or otherways, sufficiently to the King, who shall in that case be bound to order a speedy and diligent Proceeding against them, in the abovesaid manner. Charles the VIIth was not excused for this Amande Honorbie, he was moreover con-

this Amande Honorble, he was moredver condemn'd to pay all the Costs, Damages, and Interests Take the Trouble to read the west of the Treaty of Arma at Ohmer de la Marche, you will there find an angular see Profit of the Dake of Bargandy Add to this, that the mortifying Conditions he imposed on Charles the Vilth were not express'd in

(b) The

Add to this, that the mortifying Conditions he imposed on Charles the VIIth were not express in private Articles, but regulated and published by the Mediation of the two Cardinals, one from the Council, and the other from the Pope And never was such a Train seen as that of the Ambassaday who assisted at that Treaty They had above thousand Horse (c) in their Attendance

The Chroniclers of the House of Bungundy, not sinding Matter enough of Vanity in the Facilication of Arras, have sought out for more magnificant matter in the Preliminaries. They say, that the Ambassaday and melting in Tears, supplicated him to pardon their Master; but that he rejected their Tears and Supplications, and did not yield till after a Miracle had frighted him with the Excommunication wherewith the Cardinal Legates threath'd him. Let us see this sine Narrative as Lewis Gollus gives it us "(d) The Belgick and "Holland Annals say that the Ambassada" dors of France (being inform'd that the Ambassada dors of France (being inform'd that the Duke of Burgundy heard Mais at St Wass oame to him there, and (all kneeling on both their Knees, actionpany'd with the Dutches in Person, who kneeling as the others, participated in the Recognition with the Recognition wi kneeling as the othors, participated in the Roqueft) desir'd Peace of hun, and that he would be fatissiced with the Revenge he had already taken diviors Tears for the Death of his Rather, and pardon the king the Fault he had committed thre' the all Counsel of some about him, being yet young, and was pass sixteen Years of Age, adding, that since the King had attain'd to the Years of Discretion, he had lamented that Murther a thousand times, and sigh'd as passissaction and Reparation to the Duke, for as might be consistent with the royal Dignity of a King of France They spake this so pashesically, and shed Tears so plentifully, that they mov'd the Duke (taken thus and set upon many affectly) to shed Tears also;
pisying to see the main of the general Lords, his dear Companious so departed, and commissionating the Calumittes of his Country, and also, because he foresom that by that Agreement, the Revenge for his Fambor's Death would be stope'd, and his Murthorers less under mushed Berng then touch'd with a good Affection, dain more inclined to the Preservation of his House thous to the Grandeur of the English, he courseously mais'd more inclined to the Preservation of his House thouse to the Grandeur of the English, be courseously noted all those Lords and Ladies, and told them. That as for himself he would not resuse Peace, if he could grant it, but having given an Oath to the English, he could not treat mithout their Participation. But the Cardinals (who were come on purpose to be present) remov'd that the participation and assured him, That the Oath was not stated, as having been taken against Reason and as and Conscience. The fame Annals say, That the Duke shewed himself hard so be mov'd, and that he plantly remains the Atmosphery to the Franch, and that the fame. felf hard so be wnow'd, and that he plainly returned the Agreement to the French, and that the Cardinal of Sr. Greek being troubled at at threatened to exert the ecclesiastical Authority against the and the English. And the same Annals add, the Cardinal minding to give the Duke at Instance of the ecclesiastical Power, call'd for some White-bread, which (in great Assurance) he curs'd in the Presence of them all, and that immediately the Bread became black, and that asterwards the Cardinal changing his Imprecations, bless'd it before them, whereupon the Bread became white again as before. The Duke being much frighted at it, promis'd to agree with being much frighted at it, promis'd to agree with the King, being satisfied with the Revenge he had taken for his Rather's Death "

"had taken for his kather's which the New (D) Those shameful Submissions which the New of the Time ought to excuse I Let no one come will tell us that the (e) Romans would rather have risk a tell us that the (e) Romans would rather have risk a tell us that the (e) Romans would rather have risk a tell us that the (e) Romans would rather have risk a tell us that the (e) Romans would rather have risk as the content of the con their State, than condescended They were a Peo-ple of too singular a Courage to be given for an Ex-ample Neither let 'em tell us, that a private Gontleman would rather lose his Life than yield so far that Duke's great * Enemies, and commuted all manner of Hostulities in his Estates * 1d ib He † would buve reveng'd bimself by the taking of Calais, . . and besieg'd st with a pag 254 very numerous Army, but the Flemmings torsook him, and baulk'd him in that †1d ib Enterprize He did a very generous Action in the Year 1440, for he procur'd the pag 255 Liberty of the Duke of Orleans who had been 25 Years a Phisoner in England, ad ann and these two Princes were seen, has sincere and cordial Reconciliation to extinguish the 1436 mortal Enmitses that their Fathers had given Brith to The Duke of Burgundy concern'd himself but little with the state of Assure and the raising of the Siege of Calais, he pag 259 found ad ann 1440

1440

(a) Set the Article A Gontant (Charles) Remark D and the unde ditters Amerik I

W At foeth exduc ignoa indufe desiryo cit icd ca charitas patriæ est ut tam ignominia cam quam morremofita li 0par fit, Tervenius Subcatur ergo ista quanta-cunque est mais gniers, 🏖 paregrur necellitatı guam ne Dii quidem taperant T. Livius lib 9 pag (c) Ohvier de la Marche ubs fu-to his Enemy in a Quarrel of Honour, or make the Submissions that Oharles the VIIth did Sovereigns Submissions that Charles the VIIth did Sovereigns cannot govern themselves (a) according to the regordate Laws of Chivalry To favour their Subsects and to extricate themselves from a dangerous War, they must do many Things that might be call differ and ignorations from a Gentleman in a private Quarrel It is not their Business to stand nicely on the Point of Honour. The publick Interest requires that without Prejudice of their Glory, they may offer Peace to their Enemy, and desire it earnessly of them Year after Year, without being repulsed by Haughtiness and Disdains To avoid a greater Evil, they ought to sacrifice their Reputation and their Frontiers too, for the sake of Peace Let a private Parson who goes to Law for an Estate, sancy as long as he pleases that he shall not be cast, and spend to his very Shirt in the Sute, rather than voluntarily yield his Posthat he shall not be cast, and spend to his very Shirt in the Sute, rather than voluntarily yield his Possession, that is of no Confequence to the Publick But if a Prince should stand out so, he would expose his Dominions, and sin against the Maxim, Salus populi suprema les esto, and seeing the Resignon of an Oath it self, the most facred and inviolable. Thing in the World, is submitted to that Law, Ought not the worldly Glory of the Sovereign give place to it? A Roman Captain (6) affirms that a Person ought to suffer Ignominy it self for the Preservation of the State.

PPATE STO

Prelitivation of the State Olivier de la Marche is of Opinion, that the Peace off Arras was (c) a Work rather Divine than Natural, for the Affairs of Charles the Vilth went well, and those of the Duke of Burgundy Itil better, This nevertheless being both great and flout, Nature (which cannot lie) found it felf aggress'd and wounded by each Party For which Reason the two noble Princes totalescended to the whovesaid Peace And when I have well enduired into and calculated the Reasons which well enquired into, and calculated the Reasons which moved each Party to wish for Peace, I find shat on the King of France's side, he made a Conscience of the Cuse about the Death of Link John Secondly, he saw no Possibility of bearing the murther of the English and Burgundians both at once, without great Danger of Danage to his Dominions. Thirdly, As to he War, he found himself so over-ruld, and in the Hands of Consedurations. Strangers and Natives, that there while of Gens-d'armes, Strangers and Natives, that there was not the least inconsiderable Captain in France awas not the least inconsiderable Captain in France against whom they durft shut the King's Gate, or the Door of his Bed-chamber, the never so busie Fourthly, He was so wise and reasonable a King, that he preferr d the Prost and Utility of his Kingdom, to the standing it out in a wrong Notion, without Safety or Quict. As sor good Duke Philip's part, that which made him condescend so lightly, south to have been a Regard to the Safety of the Kingdom of France, and to the noble Blood from whence he was described (which boil a in his Breast, and narest his Heart) and to the great Benefits he had received in his Predecessor, from the Royal Family, as well by natural Right as by Favour. These three Things which make but one in the Mind, induced him to forwhich the Offence, and the sad unlucky Adventure. Semily, the little Assistant and Love he had for the English. And thirdly his own Honour and Virtue who had all his List-time reached forth his Hand with all his Night, to support, maintain, and operations to support, maintain, and operations. Night, to Support, maintain, and preserve the Royal Ma-jesty of Trance, no withstanding any Offences, any Inducement to the contrary any Wrongs so ver which he had received at diver: Times, sometimes in Deeds, and sometimes

Words Here we see indeed the Language of a Dometrick of the Dukes of Burgundy, altogether partial to his Master's Amplification on the one side, tial to his Master's Amplification on the one side, and Diminution on the other. He says, but one Word of Duke Philip's want of Affection for the lish, and dissembles the bloody Affron's given n, which would have occasion'd a total Rupture, Charles the VIIth could have manag'd that Oction. Then he speaks with an Emphasis of his Master's Love for the Kingdom of France. A mere Chimera. A Turk would not have been harder than Philip was to Charles the VIIth, and would not have exacted a more difgraceful Reparation Had the Duke of Burgund, felt but the least Drop of the Royal Blood in his Veins, from which he was descended, he never would have constrain'd the king of France to Submillions, fo unworthy of a Monarch of France to Submittions, to unworthy or a trionarch I fay it once again, Charles the VIIth was exculcable, he was neither Warriour enough, nor Politician, to extricate himself other ways out of Trough ble, but had he had the Resources of Courage, and Gemus which others have had, he would never Gemus which others have had, he would never have profituted his Honour to far as he did by the Peace of Arras, and it may be if he had let some Years pass, he would have found himself in a Condition to justify to the World, that he only did his Duty, in gerting Duke John kill d, and that not being able to bring him to condign Punishment, in a Way of Justice, he had been obligd to have Recourse to other Means, thereby to efface the greatest Scandal of the Reign of Charles the Vith, there being nothing that can more visibly demonstrate the Missery and low Condition of France under that Prince, than sceing the Murtherer of the King's only Brother, not only appear in publick, but continue ten Years successively to trouble the State, and turn all things in it up side down, according to his sancy. A little Parience might perhaps have let Charles the Vith see the Rupture between the English and the Burgundians. The latter had more Reason to dread the Prosperities of England than those of France, for if the English had ruin'd Charles tha Vith, they would more easily (d) Comphave conquer'd (d) all the Duke of Burgundy's pare what Bitates than France could have done, after the 1x- w said by the Resentment of some Affionts, the Burush substitute and by the Resentment of some Affionts, the Burush substitutes and he must have done it sooner or later. have profituted his I Tonour to far as he did by the gundian found himself oblig'd in Interest to forsake par 716 them, and he must have done it sooner or later

(e) The Old Men of our Country say, they are Lewis (e) Gollut Gollut's Words, that the Duke (f) of Bedford hellor d ibid pag him so far at one time, as to reproach him for but speak 123 ing of the Peace mention'd before, and he objected to Duke Philip hu Lewity, because he lent an Ear to (f) Brother Promises and Oather the French The they to iame Old Men say, That the Duke of Bedford added Henry V in an angry Tone, That he had Means in his Hands king of to help it, and that the Duke of Burgundy would be Lingland, much astonish d if he were sent to drink Beer and and Regent much astonish d if he were sent to drink Beer and and Regent Ale in England more by peradventure than for of I rance Thirst Whereupon they say, (that the Duke being then but slightly attended) made Answer, Good Cousin, I have done nothing that is Ill, and be not troubled And having some Days after taken Measures for his Men to come up to him, he order to the Mareical de Vergy to do what I am going to say, which was, That the Sieur de Vergy should take notice when the Duke should go to the Duke of Bedford's, and then draw out three or four hundred of the stought Gentlemen, who (having their Arms cover'd and Battle-Ax in Hand) should suddenly enter the Hall where the Dukes in Hand) should suddenly enter the Hall where the Dukes were, with angry Looks, as they accordingly did, then addressing themselves to their Prince, and saluting him on their Knees (without taking notice of the Duke of Bedford) the Sieur de Vergy spoke to him in this manner, Sir, It is well here and elicwhere, but elsewhere with the property of the saluting with the saluting them. ner, Sir, It is well here and elicwhere, but elsewhere much better than here, for there you will be serv'd, honour'd, and obey'd. And therefore we desire you to come away and leave those haughty Gentlemen to reap the Fruits of their Bravado's and Presumptions. Whereupon the Duke ask'd them, whether they advis d him to it? They answer'd him with a general Voice, Yes, Yes, let us go, let us go, we have nothing to do with those who have no Business with us. Whereupon the Duke surning to the Duke of Bedford, said to him, Sweet Cousin, you see what my Gentlemen advise me. I Cousin, you see what my Gentlemen advise me, I am resolved to take their Advice, and so I take my Leave of you, and that thereupon he departed, without any ones daing to str, for Orders were given every where to draw to his Relief if Occasion required

(E) And

BURGUNDY.

* Id 10 pag 305 P Auselme pag 211 lays the 158h of June Ponterus ub: lupra pag 149 says the 16th of July found imployment at home, his Subjects in the Netherlands, and chiefly those of Ghene found imployment at home, his Subjects in the Netherlands, and chiefly those of Ghent (E) gave him trouble enough, but he brought them to Reason. He gave the Dauphin a Retreat for divers Years together, and accompanied him into France at the Head of Four Thousand Horse when they heard of the death of Charles VII in the Year 1461. He had till the * 15th of July 1467. He was a Prince of great merit, he enlarg'd (F) his Dominions considerably, he made himself belov'd by his Subjects, and honour'd by all the Princes of Christendom. He had been married three times, and was (G) extremely incontinent. To conclude it was he instituted the Order of the Knights (H) of the Golden I leece, and founded the University † and Parliament of Dole. It's a very great proof of his Abilities, that he could (I) keep his only Son within the Bounds of Duty, tho' somewhat discontented, and the proudest, rashest within the Bounds of Duty, tho' somewhat discontented, and the proudest, rashest Man upon Larth. BUR-

† About the Year Gollut นย์ "แองส PAR 455

(A) Mezc 111 401 lubra pag

(E) And chiefly those of Ghent gave him trouble, but to brought them to reason] "(a) Those of Bruges having mutinyed in the Year 1437, suffer'd him " to come into their City as if they would give him
" Satisfaction, and then fell upon his Men, killing above anl lundred of them, among whom was the Lord of l'Isle Adam He himself was in great dan-

"Lord of Fife Adam He himlest was in great dan"ger and got off with much difficulty by causing
"the City Gate to be broke open with Hammers
"Their Fury was moderated when they heard "That the Duke came to Besiege them with a "great Army They beg'd his Pardon, which they did not obtain without hard Conditions It cost
"they Taye hundred They find Crowne in Gold "them Two hundred Thousand Crowns in Gold,
"the Loss of divers of their Privileges, and the "Lives of Twelve or Fifteen of the Ringleaders
"Those of Ghent gave him much more trouble by "their frequent Revolts The most dangerous was "that of the Year 1452 The Excise was the octhat of the Year 1452 The Excise was the oc-casion of it He would settle it in Flanders, and make it perpetual imposing 24 gross (the Coine of the Country) on every Sack of Salt They resolv'd to abide all manner of Extremities, rather than suffer a Duty upon Water and the Sun which are the common and free gifts of Nature which are the common and free gifts of Nature They trusted in the King's Protection, indeed he writ earnestly to the Duke of Burgundy but having receiv'd a stronger Aniwer, he did not think at advisable to ingage in a Civil War, being not as yet out of a Forreign War against the English The Losses which the Ghentois suffer'd in Five or Six great Battles, did but heat their sierce Courage the more but the Battle of Ribalmond, and "rage the more but the Battle of Repelmond, and afterwards that of Gaure, where they lost Twenty "Thousand Men, brought them so low, that they were forc'd to come to a Composition Two I housand Men bare-headed and bare-footed, and Thousand Men bare-headed and base-bottom, all the Senators, Sheriffs and Officers strip'd to their Shirts went a League to meet the Duke and his Son, and to beg their Pardon The Gate through which they march'd to the Battle of Ripelmond, was wall'd up for ever They were condemned to pay I our hundred thousand Riddes of Gold, to bring him their Banners that he might do with them what he pleas d, and bear the changing their Customs and Priviledges."

All this shews the good Fortune, Valour, and Ability of our Philip

(F) He inlarg'a his Dominions considerably] Let us here observe in what manner the House of surgundy united fo many Provinces under its Dominion Philip the Hardy added the Counties of Flanders and Artois to the Provinces he had received from his Hather, by his Marriage with Margaret, Daughter of the Earl of Fianae: He left all his Dominions to his Fldest Son, and his (b) Second Son had Brabant and Limburgh by his Aunt's last Will The Duke of Brabant was Father of him who married Jaquelina of Bavaria We have seen (i) before Jaquelina of Bavaria We have seen (1) before how that Jaquelina yielded Hainault, Holland, Zeelind, and Friesland to Duke Philip the Good in the Year 1458 That Duke (d) took possession in the same Year of the Countries of Namur, and Zupphen, which he had bought of Count Theodorick (e) In 1430, he inherited the Dutchies of Lothier, Braband, and Liphing the Manage of the Hall Emphasia. and Limburg, the Marquisate of the Holy Empire, and le I or distip of Antwerp by the death of his Cozen Philip of Burgundy, who Succeeded his Brother the Hust and of Jaquel na He made himself Master of the Country of Incoming (f) in the Year 1443

(3) he married three times, and was extremely incontinent.] Meliela of Irance Daughter of Charles VI whom he married in the Year 1409, and Bonna of Arters, whom he married in the Year 1404, were his two first Wives but he hid no Children by them

Afterwards he married Isabella of Portugal Daughter Afterwards he married Isabella of Portugal Daughter of John I King of Portugal the 10th of January 1430 He had three Sons by her, whereof the two first liv'd but a little while As to his Natural Children, they were Fifteen in number (g) Here's a Passage which deserves reading I have it out of the Memoires of Oliver de la Marche in the Chapter where he speaks of the Journey which the Dutchess of Burgundy made into France in the Year 1444 (b) The king of France, says he, receiv'd that Dutchess very bonourably, and the Queen bonour'd her also with her sahonourably, and the Queen honour'd that Dutchess very honourably, and the Queen honour'd her also with her familiarity, for both the Princesses were already pretty well firsten in Years, and out of Date, and I believe they were both sick of one Discase, that is Jealousie, and that they discourse many times privately of their Passions which was their privacies and intruth their Suspitions had some ground For the King had newly rais a spoor Gentlewsman that was handsome, whose name was Agnes du Soret, to such a degree that she might here was hand the Princesses of the vehand the vehand the Princesses of the vehand the Princesses of the vehand the vehand the vehand the Princesses of the vehand had some ground For the King had newly rais a spoor Gentlewoman that was handsome, whose name was Agnes du Soret, to such a degree that she might be compar'd to the greatest Princesses of the Kingdom On the other hand the Duke of Burgundy was the most Sparkish, and most Amorous Prince alive and had a great many natural Children So that the Queen and the Dutchess met often together to condole their Grievances

(H) The Order of the Knights of the Golden Fleece]

He instituted it in Bruges the 10th of January 1430 which was the day of his Marriage with Isabella of Portugal He would have it composed of thirty one Knights See here a more curious than decent Fact Knights See here a more curious than decent Fact which is found in the Collections of the Sieur Colomies, (i) I have heard Mr Voffiss fay, "That he remember'd to have read in a Flemish Chronicle, mids, rethat Philip Duke of Burgundy Surnam'd The Good, cueil de had instituted the Order of the Golden Fleece, particulation on the finding of one of his Mistrelles Hairs, ritex pag which was of a Yellow Colour This I have 126, 127 found confirm'd by Andrew Favin, at the beginning of his Second Volum of his Stage of homour Others, fays he, say that Philip Duke of Burgundy having an intriegue with a Lady of Brugese of exquisite Beauty, and coming one Morning into her Chamber found some of the Fleece of her Country bellow on her Toilet, of which the Lady having been low on her Toilet, of which the Lady having been carelest, gave occasion of laughter to the Gentlemen of the Dukes retinue, who to cover that Mystery took an Oath, that they who laught at such a Fleece, should not have the lonour to wear a Gollar of the Order of the Fleece, which he design'd to establish for the Love he bore to this Lady

(1) That he could keep his only Son within the bounds of his duty who was somewhat discontented] That such an ambitious Son and fo rash as he was, at a distance from the Court, and arriv d at the Age of commandrrom the Court, and arrived at the Age of commanding, belov'd by a People inclin'd to mutiny, shou'd spare his Father's Old Age, is a Sign that the aged Father was a great Man. The Son of whom I speak (k) undertook nothing before he was about twenty two Years of Age then he began to trouble himself with his Father's Governors whom his faid Father supported wherefore the Son absented himself and went into Holland, where he was well received, and held intelligence with those of whent, and somet mer made a true the land, where he was well received, and held intelligence with those of Chent, and somet mes made a trip thister. He had nothing allowed him by his Father, but the country of Holland was very rich, and gave him great gifts, as did also divers great Towns of other Countries, in hopes of acquiring his favour in time to cometries, in hopes of acquiring his favour in time to cometries the general Custom to please those more whose Power and Authority is growing, than those who are already at the highest Pitch that they can rise to, and the Lovo feethem is greater, especially among the People Wherefore when Duke Philip was told that those of Ghent loved his Son so well, and that he knew very well how to manage them, he answered that they always loved their nage them, he answer'd that they always lov'd their Lord who was to be very well but when he came to be their Lord they hated h m

(g) See Pere Lab bè sabl gea che liv I chap 13 p m 159.

(k) Comichap 13

(b) Pontus Hruterus r erum Burgund Lib 2 pas

(i) In the Remark !

(a) Mize-74 . 11 Jupinp 2,9 (c) 1 a

(f) See Collut ub: Tupra pag 794, 795

pag 240

(A) Iwas

BURGUNDY (Charles Duke of) Son of the foregoing, was born at Dyon the 10th. of November 1433 He was one of the most Martial Men in the World During his Father's Life he was known by the Title of Count of Charoloss There was a prodigious antipathy between Lewis XI and him, which was begot during the Abode * * see Matof that Monarch at the Court of Philip the Good Duke of Burgundy, while he was only theu, This reciprocal Harred was a continual Source of Enterprises which caused House de Louis Y great Evils: Those two Princes studied nothing more than to thwart each other They liv i pag made War on each other several times, and when ever they ended it 'twas only with a m 56 ard defign (A) to ensure each other, the one ever holding intelligence with the Linchies the followof the other If the Court of Vienna had been as active in those times as it has been since ing in taking an Advantage of favourable Conjunctures, it would have been hippy for Lewis XI but he found it (B) in a Lethargy, and could never flir it up against Duke Charles the was formed the to divers States of the Empire He found more I is in the Court the Arch-duke Sigismond, and among the Swiffers † in the Affan of Ferrette He was † See the mightily perplex'd the first time he had to do with that terrible Enemy This wis Remark B. in the Year 1465. The Count de Charolois enter'd France with a fine Army, to support the Grandees of the Kingdom in a Consederacy which they had form'd against the King, and which they call'd the Confederacy for the Publick good The Bittle of Montlebers between the King's Troops and the Burgundians decided nothing, each Party attributed the Advantage to itself the Count signalized his Courage there, and was wounded Some time after he was joyn'd by the Heads of the Conicderacy, and they Taken wanted but little of taking Paris 'Tis probable they might have diffinemented the April Monarchy if they had had as much Prudence as Power, but some of them being uncapable to conduct that nice Affair, and each capable of obtaining several advantages Chronolog by a Treaty, they conferred to a Peace which was concluded the action of the several advantages. by a Treaty, they consented to a Peace which was concluded the 29th of October, tom 3 pag 1465 || The Count return'd very well satisfied, and found Employment it home in 294 and a War against those of Lesge He commanded the Army of the Duke his I ather before Dinant in 1466 The Town was taken and us'd with the utmost Rigour the Truth is it had (C) carried itself very insolently 4. He continued that War after 4 1d 1b

the Pag 301

(a) Came-AT1 45, Meditat historiques vol 2 liv 4 ch 18 p m 330, a

(b) Ptalip

(A) 'Twas only with a design to insure each other] Philip Camerarius shall be my Commentator
"(s) How many times, by the report of Histori"ans, have King Lewis XI and Charles Duke of "Burgundy confirm'd their Treaties by solemn "Qaths? and how many times have they broke
"them again, according as either of them undo'd them again, according as either of them judg'd that the good of his Affairs requir'd it? infomuch that it may be faid that they gave each other their Faith, and Swore, only that they might the more easily break what they had recimple the more easily break what they had reciprocally promy'd each other to observe Accord "might the more easily break what they had reciprocally promis'd each other to observe According to which Philip de Comme faid, that all their Councils tended to deceive each other, and that the minds of those Princes were all their life-time directly contrary, except once, (viz.) when they conspir'd to put the Constable to Death "

[2] He found the Court of Vienna in a Lethargy]

When the Duke made War in the Country of Constable to Death "

[3] He found the Court of Vienna in a Lethargy]

togne, Lewis XI (b) dispatch'd John Tiercelin to the Emperor, to advise him not to make any Agreement with the Duke and to offer him some Proposals which were that they should promise each other not to make any Peace or Truce without the consent of both Parties and that the Emperor foould form all the Lordships that the Said Duke held of the Region, and which ought to be held of it, and should come them to be declar'd confiscated to him and that the King should scize those which were held of the Crown of France as Flanders, Artois, Burgundy, and divers others Although that tois, Burgundy, and divers others. Although that Emperour had been all his Life-time a Man of very literature, yet had he a good Understanding, and as he life at a Story and (c) paid our king with a rable, without giving his Envoy any other Answer Philip de Comines had already said (d) that the Emperor was a Man of a very mean Spirit who would put up any thing racher than he at the least expense.

The better to understand what I have hinted concerning the Business of Ferrette, you must know that Duke Charles having lent great Sums to Sigimund of Austria Count of Tirol, received of him the Possession of the County of Ferrette, the Landgraviate

Possession of the County of Ferrette, the Landgraviate Possession of the County of Ferrette, the Landgraviate of Assis, and of the four Frontier Towns in the Fifth 1469 (e) Five Years after the King of France (f) reused Duke Syssmund, by giving him 16000 Crowns, for which his Countries of Assac, and Ferrette were ingag'd, and the Money having been deposited as Basil, that Duke caused Duke Charles to be summed to take it, and to deliver up those ingaged Countries. The Duke answer'd that he was ready to receive the Money, provided it was paid him at Bezançon in the Franche Compte, otherways he said he would not deliver up the Places Whereupon there was a general Revolt of these Countries (g) The Duke of Burgundy's (g) Id is Troops were sent a packing Hagemba, who had been Governour for him of the Country of Ierrecte, and who had been guilty of divers Excesses, was beheaded, (h) and all the Country of Terrette was deliver'd up to the said Duke Sigitmund of Austria nes live 4 and the Swissers began the War in Burgundy, and ch 2 pag took Blasmont Prisoner, who was a Marshal of Burgun-203, 204 dy, and of the House of Neuschatel they besseg a also ad ann the Castle of Herycourt, which belong d to the said 1474 House of Neufchatel, whither the Burgundians merch d to relieve it but they were over-power d and defeated

The said Swissers did much haim to the Country All this was contrived by Lewis XI, as Philip de Commines (1) confesses the Forces which the Bui- (1) Id ib gundian fent into that Country had sometimes the Pag 203 advantage (k)

(C) The Town of Dinant was us'd with the utmost Collut feverity The truth is, it had carried it felf very infoibid lently [(1) Those of Leige and Dinant sent to de" clair War against Count Charolois as he wis (1) M ze" marching for Paiss" The Duke his Lather rai, ubi forc'd them in few days to buy a Peace But a little supra pe after upon a Report which was fixed that Charolois was 302 ad But a little supra pag after upon a Report which was Jired that Charolois was 372 ad kilf d at Montlehery, they took up Arms again with ann 1465 greater fory then ever Thos of Dinant, a fames are not rich by its Copper Works, committed a Thousand Outrages against Charolois, so far as to call him Bastand, and hang him up in Lity Veng and follow'd their Insolence close at the hiels the Duke laid Seige to Dinant, his Son Commanded the Army The Town was taken by assault and burnt, eight hundred of its sububstants drowned in the Macie. and the rest ridu-Town was taken by affault and burnt, eight hundred of its Inhabitants drowned in the Macic, and the rest reduced to great misery Lewis Gollut says (m) that "The "Town was demolished, and rased in such fort that ubi supra "no Sign of it was left Thus it commonly happens to ubi supra "these who have the boldness to affront or wilsin great page 38. Princes" These last Words are but too often true, page 8314 and yet I do not think that Free States will ever be cuted of the Insolence that the People under em are cured of the infoience that the reopie under em are subject to as to wounding the Honour of a Prince their Enemy by Libels, Pictures and other Means Wise Heads cannot sufficiently repress the Fury of a Mob, if they should undertake it, and it may be they don't think it adviseable to imploy the state of the relative the way at the helpsy'd that this their Authority this way, it's believ'd that this kind of outragious Treatment nourifles Hatred, infipres Courage, and opens the Purses all very fit things to facilitate the means of resisting. But when they have no be over-powed then when when they happen to be over-powred, then what would they not have given that they had taken other Courses? Observe that a falle Report or piece of News believ'd but for three days is as capable

(m) Gollut

(e) See Louis Gollutubs (f) 1d ib.

ehap 101 101 108 100, 101

(c) Id 16

JAK 207 (d) 1d 1b

PPS- ANS.

B He died in July 1467 Y Mezeras 16 p 306 Pag 309 and the following Idem liv 2 ch x and the following In the Moush of May, 1472 Mezerai ubi fupra pag 319 1 1d 1b pag 320, 321 ad ann 1472 (b) Meze-

rai, ubi

Supra pag

ann 1468

(c) 1d 1b (d)Munster Cosmograph lib

2 pag 111

134 (*) A cotain Hiftorian observesthat

the Soldiers never

Maids till

After they have vio

tiam a sacerdo-latedthem Neque evirginum

tum cæde fatis tem-peratum

est, quas

bene flu-

prius, ef-ferus miles jugulare, 🚱. Renerus

Snoius, serum Batavicar 1

II pag

(e) Mizi-

rai, ubi

Supra pag

.20 ad #nn 1472

(f) That's

to Say, the

Guienne,

Brother to Lewis XI

(g) Ican de Se re in ent de 1 bift a

Franc de Louis \1 pag m 827

See this

usore at leneth in pratas

kill the

the Death & of his Father, and won a Battle against the Liegeois near St. Tres in the Month of November 1467 , He was Master of Peronne when he receiv'd a Visit there from Lewis XI in the Year 1468 That Interview had an Issue quite different from what that Monarch expected, for he found himself the Duke of Burgundy's Prisoner, and was constrain'd to follow him to the Siege of Liege, to be Witness of the Punishment a Town would be made to undergo which he had induced to take up Arms again. It was taken by Assault (D) the 30th of Ottober 1468, and cruelly treated. The King was permitted to retire Four Days after. He soon broke the Treaty he had made as Personne and in 1472 fourth on Comp. Towns of Punishments. had made at Peronne, and, in 1470, seiz'd on some Towns of Picardy which belong'd to the Duke † That War which was interrupted by a Truce, became very bloody after the Death | of the Duke of Guienne the King's Brother The Duke of Burgundy † Philippe to the Duke † 4 put all to Fire (E) and Sword thro' Picardy and the Country of Caux. He undertook Two Sieges which he was forced to raise, that of Beauvais and that of Rosen It is faid that the Women of (F) Beauvass signalized themselves in the Desence of their Town, and that they were rewarded for it with a Priviledge which is very pleasing to their Sex, for they were permitted to dress themselves as they thought fit. after a Truce was made, during which the Duke undertook the Conquest of the Country of Guelders That Addition begot a Design in him of getting has (G) Dominions to destroy a State as save it Those of Dinant were destroy'd only, by having too lightly believ d the News of the Death of Count Cha-

(D) The Town of Dinant was taken by Assault and cruelly treated] "(b) A great part of the People "fled by the Bridge over the Maese into the Ar-"dennes, where above half of them died of Cold "and Hunger, the rest fled into the Churches, or "hid themselves in Houses" The Duke (c) cau'd a thousand or twelve hundred of these unhappy Creatures who were taken in the Houses of Leige to be drown'd, and the Town land in aller all except the Churches and three the Town laid in ashes, all, except the Churches and three hundred Houses about them which were preserved to lodge the Clergy Munster the Cosmographer affirms, that the Duke caus'd all the Inhabitants who were taken to be put to Death, that no regard was had to Age or Sex, that the Priests had their Throats cut in the Churches, and even in celebrating Mass; that Twelve thousand Women were thrown into the River, and Forty thousand Men massacred in the Town (d) Dux obsents civitate fecit proditores omnes decollari una cum aliu promiscuis ex hominibus quos omnes interfecit, nullo habito delestu inter faminas & viros, pueros & senes Confodiebantur etiam sacerdotes & monachi in templis & in missarum solemnis Colligebant multeres a tergo & projectebant in Subjectum Mosa fluvium Ultimo exurebant civitatem, & diruebant murum Numerantur quadraginta millia hominum in civitate trucidati, & duodecim millia mulierum qua in aquas projecta fuerunt acque submersa See the Margin (*)

(E) Put all to Fire and Sword in Picardy] His cruel Temper has appear'd by the foregoing Remarks, let us fee another Specimen of it "(e) He enter'd Picardy with a Torch in one Hand and a Sword in the other Until that Time no Burn-"Sword in the other Until that Time no Burnings had been practis'd by either Party Nevertheless they made a Bone-fire of all the plain Country, and he sacrificed all that fell under his Power to the Manes of his (f) Friend ken by Assault, underwent all forts of Cruelry, because its Inhabitants had kill'd an Herald of Arms who went to fummon them, and Two Men more, during a Ceffation which was granted them to treit in The Reverence for Altars did not " fave the Innocent who fled into the Churches, " and they who escap'd the Sword were all hang'd, " or had their Handscut off " See here the Words of another Historian The Duke (g) marches towards Nesle in Vermandois Nesse in Vermandois besieges it, takes it by Assault, bangs all in it Of Five hundred Bowmen, who were commanded by a Captain call'd the little Picquard, very few were left alive some he hangs, and the Captain amongst the rest cuts off the Hands of others. Divers Soldiers and Inhabitants who took Saustuary in the Churches, nere innumanely butcherd on the Altars, embracing the Images The Duke came himself into the Church on Horse-wick, and seeing those Carcastes, said. This is fine, I have good Butchers Afterwards he burns and razed to e Place

(F) That the Women of Beauvais signalized themselves, and that they were rewarded for it with a Priviledge that is very pleasing] "(b) It is a memorable Thing, "That at a general Assault that was given to the "Town on Thursday the 9th of July, the Men be"ing ready to retire; the Women (led on by one
"Jane Hackette) perform'd Wonders, and repulsed
"the Enemy with Showers of Stones, with Wildfire, and with Lead melted in boiling Rollin The Effigy of that Woman is still to be feen in the Town-house, holding a Sword in her Hand, and a Procession is always made on the sorth of desensan July, which is the Day that the Siege was rait'd, where the Women go before the Men" Mezerai pag 260 process the chief Communication and Mezerai was raited. forgets the chief Circumstance, and therefore I quote another Writer, who in a Chapter wherein (1) V Se he maintains (1) that the Women believe, That Munstern Finery is a Right that belongs to them by Priviledge, all in notice a ledges Two Proofs, one taken from the Practice of Evangethe Jews, and the other from an Ordinance of limit Helmis XI. These are his Words The Jews had the brais. regard for their Wives in the Observation of their foolish Traditions For they forbad the doing any Innocent Work on Solemn Days, althout twere for their pressing Necessities, but they excepted their Wives Garments and Jewels, which they thought was permitted them to buy on those (2) P Days (1) It was also a Priviledge granted to the Wo- Phistoire men and Maids of the City of Bexavais, by Letters Pa- Beauvais tents from King Lewis XI, in the Tear 1473, that they par Ant might adorn themselves on their Wedding-days, and when Lossel pa it should please them, with such Garments, Attires, Qr234, Or it should please them, with such Garments, Actives, Ornaments and Jewels as they pleas'd, in consideration of the Courage they shewed in guarding of their Town against the Duke of Burgundy This Priviledge (2) is soind to another that is particular enough (VIZ) That they may go before the Men at the Procession and the Offering on the Feast-day of St Agadrema Patroness of the City of Beauvais Andrew du Chesne (k) mentions these Priviledges granted to the Beauvoisines by King Lewis the Eleventh

This puts me in mind of the Prerogative granted to the Women of Rome, after the Mother of Coriellanus, accompanied with some Ladies, had oblig dhim to retire from the City with the Army of the Volsci The Senate (1) order the Magnifrares to grant the Women all the Marks of Favour and Consideration that they have the them they are the state of the Marks of Favour and Consideration that they would see Them. ideration that they should ask. They desir'd nothing more than that a Temple should be built to (m) Id in I emale Fortune. The Expence of the Worship was pag 232 to be at the Publick Charge, but they offer'd to be at the Charge of the Structure. The City toolsat all upon themselves. Plutareh (m) stops here, he does not say as Valerius Maximus does, That an Order was made by the Senate that Men should yield the Upper-hand to the Women, and that they might wear Ornaments of Gold and Purple, &c. (n) In quarum honorem Senatus matronarum ordinem benignissimus decrehonorem Senatus matronarum ordinem benignissimis decretis adornavit Sanxit namque uti saminis semita viri cederent, confessus plus salutis respubl in sola quam in Persander armis fuisse vesusissque aurium insignibus novum vista Periander discrimen adjects Permist quoque bis purpures vosts & B, the Aureward better (o) to Natural Inclination textac re-

(G) Of getting his Dominions erected into a Kingdom's textac reAt a Conference with the Emperor Frederick the Third at Triers, he promised to give his Daughter to that I imperor's Son, provided his Imperial Manefty would refuse the Kingdom of Burgundur at the marque D jefty would reftore the Kingdom of Busgundy as it was held by his Predecesfors, would crown and adorn him wish

(1) Joly tiens ch moraux l'histoire de Beauvaifie Loifel pag 351

Matthas

CAP IS

PAE 97

Cheine antiquite des rylles de France P M 411

(1) Pintarch in WITH COriolani pag

(m) Id 16

(n) Valemet lib 5 CAP 2 # I. p m 436

textac re-

Pierre Matthieu ubi supra pig 80 (h) Mezerai, ubi supra yag 321 ad ann 1472 erected into a Kingdom by the Emperor But he never compass'd that Design was much easier for him to engage the King of England in a Confederacy against France I have * elsewhere said that King Lewis XI laid that Storm with Sums of Money, he In the The Duke of Burgundy Was mighti- Edward made a particular Peace with the English in 1475 ly stung at it, and complain'd haughtily (H) to the King of England about it The bad Success of the Siege which he had laid to Nuits in the Country of Cologne, contri-The IV. buted not a little to break the Confederacy which he hid made with that Prince and with the Duke of Brittany, After some Biavado's he agreed also with Lewis XI on a Truce of Nine Years, not without much Spite, which he discharg d on Lorrain He fubdued it intirely, and after that rear'd up one Project on another, so far as to think on the Conquest of Italy, but before all Things, of obliging the Sunssers to submit to his I aws. He was bassled in that Design. They beat him at Granson the stb of June 1476, and at Morat the 20th of June of the same Year. At last he was Gollut, (I) kill'd before Nancy the 5th of January 1477 He was a Prince who might have Memoirs de made great Conquests if he had had as much Piudence as Courage, and if he had not had as Advantage and the Porson of Lawre XI who multiply'd France appears upon him con had an Adversary in the Person of Lewis XI who multiply'd Fnemics upon him continually by his Intrigues and Money His Military Ordin inces † are admirable || He was the first who reviv'd the Roman Discipline of securing his Troops in an intrench'd Camp The first Citile of his (K) Wir against the Spriffers was but a Trifle, the Plunder which they got at the Battle of Granson wis inclaimable, and strange Stories

t see'em 96,97,98

Mezerai,

(a) Collus, Royal Titles and Honours (a) The Emperor confented PAE 842

(b) Id 1d pag 843 (c)Utrecht,

Lieges, Cambrai, & Tourna:

(d) See Philippede Comines 1 2 ch 8 pag 105

(e Pontus Heuterus rerum Burgund lib 4 pag 172,173

(f) Matthieu Hift de Louis X1, 100 6 pag 321 See also Comines liv 4 ch

(g) Com1nes lew 5 ch 8 p _@288

(b) Gollut ubi supra pag 882

(1) Matde Louis XAMO

thieu, Hift m 390

(k) Id 1b

2 4E 391

to it, and the necessary Preparations were made But it was unexpect dly broke off by a Discontent that the Duke gave the Emperor It is thought, that King Lewis kept the Emperor from proceeding any farther in giving the Royal Titles It is faid too, That the Duke did not affort to that only, but rather to the Empire, in prejudice of Prince Miximilian Which the Emperor, who was a Juston Prince, fear d, and made the abovesaid Refu-fal (b) This happen'd in the Year 1473 Pontus Heuterus adds, That the Duke offer d Money to obtain the Cession of the (c) four Bishopricks of the Netherlands from the Emperor and Empire, and put in for the Vicarship of the Impire out of a secret Defire to succeed the Emperor Frederick, that the oftentatious Manner in which he fet forth his Riches, and the Beauty of his Houshold-goods, which (d) eclipsed those of the Emperor, strengthned the Suipicions which the king of France begot So that the Preparations for the Coronatiof him on were intirely laid aside, and Fr derick parted for Cologne without taking his leave of the Duke (e) (H And complain'd haughtily of it to the King of Fngland] He (f) went from Luxemburg with fixteen Horse to speak with him "Edward seeming furpriz'd at fuch a sudden Airival, ask d him "what brought him there? I come, faid the Duke, to speak with you Will you, faid Edward, do it in private or in publick? Whereupon the Duke, who could no longer bear his Anger, and who came to " fpeak his Mind, without confidering that he might also hear what he had not a mind to hear, ask'd the King of England if he had made Peace? No. " "the King of England it he had made reace. No,

"faid Edward, but a Truce for Nine Tears, in which "you and the Duke of Brittany are included, and I de"fire you to agree to it. The Duke reply'd in English,
"which he understood and spoke, That the Army
"needed not to have past the Sea for that, that
"that Treaty ruin'd the Reputation of the Kings
"The Treaty and that they wanted that Lyons " of England, and that they wanted that Lyons "Heart again which was buried at Rouen He "Heart again which was buried at Rouen Fie afterwards added, Ihad procured you an Opportunity, which will never be offer'd you again, of recovering what belong'd to you I don't speak for my own Interest, for I can do without you, and to shew you that I have no need of your Truce, by St George, I will not treat with the King before you return to England, and have been there three Months Edward not being pleas'd the base Philages 1855 him.

"with his Blufters, left him"

(1) He was kill'd before Nancy] He besieged that Place with very few Troops He was baiely betray'd by Campobasso, one of his Generals, he was attack'd by a very numerous Army, no wonder then that he perish'd in that Enterprize, but he was much to blame in not following the good Advice that was (g) given him He fought like (h) a that was (g) given him He fought like (h) a Lyon (i) After the Battle they were in pain to know what was become of him He was fought for among the diving and the dead . They found him in a Ditch, diving and the dead . They found him in a Ditch, his Face all bedaub'd with dirt and blood, the hard Frost having frozen all together, fo that they could not know him His Servants knew his Body (k) by divers Marks, by the want of his Teeth of the upper Jaw, which he lost by a fall in his Youth, by the Scar of a Wound received in his Throat at the Battle of Montlehers, by the Shriveling of the Skin on the Shoulder by a burning Coal, by a Fiftuls that he had under his Navel, and by his Nills, which he wore longer than any Person of his Court They found Three Wounds about him, (1) a Blow with an Halbert, which clove his Hial from above the Ear to his leeth, a pull with a Pike in his I high, and another in his Fundament. He was carry d to Nancy, (m) and after they had wash'd and dress d him in a plain Linnen Cloth, they laid him on a Table, with a Canopy of black Veluct over him, in a Chamber hung with the same (n) the Duke of Lorrain habited in a Mourning Suit, and 331 and with a Golden Reard of contract with a Golden Beard, after the manner of Champions came ann 1477 to give him Holy Water, "(o) and taking him by one "Hand, he isid unto him, God fave your Soul, you have done as much Harm and Grief He buried him (o) Mil"with all Funeral Honours" He buried him then ubi fine Tomb for him in St Georgs's Church at Nancy, with his Busto over it to the Life Charles V caus d the Body to be brought to Luxemburg, from whence h was afterwards carry d to Bruges where by the Command of the Queen Ellinor, he was buried in the Quire of the Church of our Lady, before the Steps of the Great Altar, in the Burying Place of Dame Mary his Daughter q) Note, That "(r) the People believed that he had eicip d, and hid himself in an Hermitage, from whence he was to return again after Seven Years

That Report prevail'd fo much, that divers lent Money to be return diwhen he should come again. His atrabilations Humour, and someboly that had been icen in Saahia, who was like him in Size, Hair, Voice and I ace, caus'd that Opi-

(K) The first Cause of his War with the Swiffers was but a Iriste I i peak thus to concur with the Common Opinion, for I am otherwise perswaded, That the great Wrongs they had done him in Assatia and Burgundy, were strong Motives to attack them There are the Words of Philip de Comines, (1) And for what Quarrel did that War begin? For a Cart load of Sheep-Skins, which the Lord of Romont took from a Swife, paffing by his Land If God had not for ak in that Duke, it is not likely that he would have haz irded the pinnelf for fo small a Thing I his Passage his made the pis an hundred Authors say, That a Cart-load of Skins pis 260 was the Original of the most bloody War between the Duke of Burgundy and the Swifers That Ixample is almost never forgot (t) when the Common Place is treated, That very small Matters ar the (auf couped of great Events But if it be confider'd, that Pool p of call de Comines contradicts himself, there can be no given Naude regard had to his Observation. He had fer down in plain Terms, That Duke Charles (n) would mak War with the Swissers, as well because they had begin (u) Comit against him having sat down before Nuis, as also here because they affisted to take the County of Veriette from him and also because they had taken Part of the 157 said Count de Romont's Territories from him How-Said Count de Romont's Territories from him ever it is, they fear d him very much, and crus'd all forts of Submissions to be made to him Comi- (w) / " nes mentions this, He says (w) the Swissers find ng him so near them, sent an Embassy to him, and offer'd to return what they had taken from the said Lord of The Duke entered into Burgundf, Romont

heffe

(1) 12 16

par 391

(n) $M z c_{-}$ 1 41 ub: ann 1477

fupra pag

(p) Go"ut ubi supi a

(a) Il ib

li floire des Dus de corne Rin rus Suorus ubi Surra pas

(1) See the couped tat

(u) Comi-

* Pontus Heuter ub: Supra pag 169

(a) Id ib 261

pag 261 (b) Rap-torus(Romanı) orbis postquam

cuncta vastantı-ere terræ

& mare fcrutan-

tur Si locuples

avair, fi

omnium opes atq, inopiam

pari affe-ctu con-cupil-cunt Ta-

CI* In VIta Agr c

(c) Co-

mines

Book 5

288 ch 8 1mg

(d) Horat

Od 4 1 3 (e) Comi-nes liv 5

ch I p

259 (f) Id

iv pag

(g) 1d ih

cap 2 pa 266 (b) Much

Stettlerus

lib 6 ad

ann 1476

af ud Hot-

t ng in

 $M^{2}bI$ gerds bi-

for Hel-

vetu pag

43° nes ibid

chap 1 pag 259 (k) Id 1b crap 3 pig 267 (!) Id 16

chap 5 pag 274, 275

Histor

Helse

260

10lı

pauper ambitiofi

The Grief he concerv'd upon that Defeat, had almost (M) con (1) are told about it him his Lite, and impaired his Understanding I must not forget that in the Year 1469 * he imploy d himself in Acts of Justice He visited several Provinces of the Netherlands, and puntsh'd Malefactors rigorously What he did to a Lord who had seduc'd a (N) very modest Woman, is too remarkable not to be related. He was so mistrustful where the said old Confederates of Germany, call d Swifters, came again to him, making greater Offers than before, and besides Restitution, they offer'd to forsake all the Aliances that were to his Prejudice, (and especially that with the King) and become his Allies, and serve him with six thousand armed Men for a small Pay, against the King, as often as he should require it, but the said Duke would not listen to any thing. They remonstrated also to him (a) "to make him de-" sist from that War, that he could get nothing "from them, for their Country was very barren "from them, for their Country was very barren

"and poor, and that they had no good Prifoners,
"and that they did not believe but that the Spurs bus defu- " "and that they did not believe that this Army were worth
"more than all those of their Territories could "pay in ready Money, if they were taken' That Reason had no Force with a Prince, who, like him, had the Ambition (b) of the Romans If he him, had the Ambition (b) of the Romans Is he had had their Prudence and good Fortune, he would have push'd his Conquests far, but he was too much bound (c) to his own Sense, and by that Means he ruin'd the greatest Power of Europe at that Time Never any Man verify'd that Maxim better than he (d) Via consilia expers mole hostis est

ruit las (L) The Plunder was inestimable, and strange Stories are told about it] The Duke of Burgundy mov'd in great (e) Pomp and had all his best Jewels and Plate with h m, and Plenty of other rich Moveables He dispos'd Matters for the Battle very imprudently, and so sudden a panick Fear seiz'd his Army, (f) that they all fled, leaving behind them their Camp, Artil-lery, all their Icnts and Pavilions (of which there was a great Number) and an infinite Quantity of other Coods to the Germans, for nothing was fav'd but their Persons, and all the Duke's great Rings were lost, but he lost no more than seven Men at Arms at this time, all It might better be faid of him, the rest steed with him It might better be said of him, I hat he lost both Honour and Money that Day, than it was said of King John of I rance, who was taken sighting valiantly in the Battle of Poictiers (g) The Spoils of his Army enrich'd those poor Swissers very much, who did not know at first the Value of what the, possibly and wishest Basilians fort of them. the rest fled with him One of the finist and richest Pavilions in the was shared in divers Pieces. Some of them fold several silver Plates and Spoons for two great Blanes a-piece, thinking the were Pewter. His great Diamond (which was one of the largest in Christendom) to which hung a large Pearl, was taken up by a Swiss, and put into its Case again, afterwards thrown under a Cart, then he came and fetch d it again, and offer d it to n Priest for a Florin The Priest fent him to their Lord, who gave him three Francs for it They got also three fine Rubics, call d The I hree Biothers for their Likeness, another Ruly call d la Hotte, another call'd the Ball of Flateders, (which were the largest and fairest Jewels in the World) and other infinite Riches, which made when known the Falue of Silver ever fince that time I have read in some Book or other that a Bernois whose Name was Part holomew Mey, bought the Duke of Burgundy's Di-amond for 5000 Florins Some Geneuese Merchants bought it afterwards for 7000 Florins of the Rhine The Duke of Milan gave eleven thousand Crowns for it, at last Pope Julius the II gave twenty thou-fand Crowns for it, and made it serve for an Ornament to his Ciown (h) Note that the Duke had us'd the Gairison of Granson very cruelly, which confifted of 7 or 8 hundred choice Men in the Beginning of the Siege They yielded at Discretion, and he put 'em all to Death (1)

cretion, and he put 'em all to Death (1)

(M) Grief had almost cost him his Life, and impaired I shall make use of Comines's Expressions once more "(k) He was full of Grief and Melan-"choly at the Disgrace he had receiv'd And to "speck the Truth, I believe his Senses were never so good after that Battle as they were before 'This Author resumes this Matter in another Place, and speaks thus (1) His Grief for the Lass of the field Rattle of Granson was so great the Loss of the first Battle of Granson was so great, and lay upon I s Spirits to such a degree, that it cast him are great Sickness His Choler and natural

Heat was so great, whit he drank no Wine but only Barley-water in the Mariding, and eat Conferve of Rofes to cool himself, and the offeres and Grief alter'd his Complexion so much, that they were oblig'd to make him drink the strongestWine without Water, and to draw in a manner his Heart's Blood with Cupping Glasses And you, My Lord of Vienne, know it better than my self, as having attended him in that Sickness, and cau'd his Beard to be sended him in that sienness, and cause his meare to be shaved, which he had let grow And in my Opinion, his Senses were very much diminished after that Fit of Siekness from what they were before I shall not pais this Remark without inriching it will confirm Research to the Misterian States. what I have so often faid of the Mistoitunes of the Great, as also that true Maxim, That none are lefs happy than they who seem most so (m) Since the War for he publick Good, What Ease had he? He had always Labour without Pleasure, both in Body and Mind For Glory and Ambition flam'd in his Heart, and mov'd him to conquer whatever he thought fit for and mov'd him to conquer whatever he thought fit for him. All the Summer long he was in the Field, in great Danger of his Person, and took all the Care of the Army upon himself, and yet never had all Things to his Mind. He rose the first, and lay down the last, as of his weight the Poorest Man in the Army. If he took any Rest to the Winter, his Brain was upon the rack to find Money. He the Winter, hu Brain was upon the rack to find money me was taken up sucry Day from fix in the Morning with receiving and hearing a great Number of Ambassadors; and in that Toil and Misery he ended hu Days, and was kill d by the Swisters before Nancy, as you have seen before And it cannot be said that he ever had one Hour's Happiness from the Time that he began to endeawour to become greater, to his dying Day What did he get by that Labour? What need had he of it? He who was so rich, and had so many fine Cities and Lordships under his Obedience, where he might have liv'd at Eafe if he would I make no Excuse for having copied this Passage, all my Readers will admire it who are Judges of what's Fine, and it were to be wish'd that all Princes would get it by heart and practise it, they would consult their own Felicity, and that of their Neighbour mines better than they do But what I that which we confider as their greatest Unhappiness, is but a lesser Evil, they would be yet more inserable, if they were obliged not to toil both in Body and Soul, and perplex themselves with Intreagues and Projects of Revolutions They with Intresques and Projects of Revolutions That have a Mind to act a great Part on the Stage of the World, and draw every Body's Eyes upon them's and to attain to this, they rise earlier than a Trades-man, they write more than a Lawyer, they fa-tigue more Clerks than a Register Whosoever should debar them of this Agitation, would make them still more miserable

(N) To a Lord who had feduced a very modest Woman] This Story has been related at large, and not without some Colours of Rhetorick, by Pontus Heuterus The Sum of it is this A very Pontus Heuterus front Gaptain of Duke Philip the Good, had obtain'd the Government of a Place, for a Reward of his Services, where he fell in Love with his Land-lady, who was a Woman of fingular Beauty and Chastity He courted her, and swore Secresse and Constancy to her She answer'd, that her Conscience would not suffer her to violate her Marriage Vow, and that he ought to think on the facred Laws of Hospitality, and lawfully direct his Flames (n) elsewhere That Answer serving only to increate his Passion, he try'd another Way, he offer'd her a great deal of Money, and promis'd to make her go finer (0) than any of her Neighbours and Relations, and to procure an advantagrous and honourable Employ for her Husband His Promises making no Impression, he rais'd another Battery, he imprison'd the Husband, under Pretence of Rebellion, and when the Wise ha Recourse to him as to the only Means to save the Prisoner's Life, he answer'd, That the Crime was plain, and that there was no dispensing with the severest Punishment, unless the Sovereign's the severest Punishment, unless the Sovereign's Pardon interven'd, adding withal, that he wou'd engage to obtain it, provided the would im-

13 p 409 (n) E CIS VETEN nes opulentas complures forma fe multo præftantioras, cligat unam qua genio reè qua li-beros lancto matrimonia procreatos fufcipere pos-Heuterus Burg 1 5. pag 165 (0) Aura acervum offert, ac in quem Velit ufam auferre jumines. mundum mulicbrem narum a cognatanamentis Competaà polit, a dens fe offir, ad-

MATITO

Princi-

pem unpetratus rum, M

patria 🐟 jus digar

apud

mistrustful of Lewis XI, that he despis'd the sincere Advice he receiv'd from him of Comines Campobasso's Treachery * If it were true, answer'd he, the King would never have given 6 pag m me notice of it. One of his greatest Faults was, his believing † That all the Favours and 28, Honours be bad received in this World, were owing to his own good Sense and Vertues, with 11d ib out attributing them to God, as he ought to have done He was much more temperate chap 9 | In his bodily Pleasures than either of his three Piedecessors Neither was his House sill deal out the state of his three Piedecessors of the state of the state of his three piedecessors of the state of the st of Bastards, nor himself too much addicted to his Wives He had been thrice (O) mar Goldwighter ry'd, and lest but one Daughter

'd, and left but one Daughter

BURGUNDY (Mary of) the only Daughter and Henefs of the foregoing, was page 855

orn 6 at Brullels the 12th of Edward 1457. As the was the orn well March or the state of 401/20 born β at Bruffels the 13th of February 1457 As she was the greatest Match at that whis sup a Time in Europe, divers Princes sought her in Marriage, but her Father had the pig 214 Cunning (A) to promise her sometimes to one, and sometimes to mother, without others, as ever deligning her for any It is very likely that she never would have been mary d. Louis Golduring that Prince's Life As soon as he was killed, they spoke in carnest of that prable is rying her, and several Intresgues were set on foot about it, as you may see in a p Varillas I have elsewhere spoken s of the irreparable Fault committed by Lewis XI 897 s. rying her, and leveral interspects to the irreparable Fault committed by Lewis XI by Varillas. I have elsewhere spoken s of the irreparable Fault committed by Lewis XI.

The consisted solely in not marrying his own Son to the Heiress of Bingunds, for he valence was not to blame, (B) as some pietend, in that he would not have another Prince of History I will not History I will not have a solely the committed by Lewis XI.

(b) Obticentem, lachrymantem, ac alta fulbiria ducentem, nec

(a) Id ib

tamen re-Juctantem in norum collocat Id 1b (1) Victa multorum ac magnorum viro tionarumque auctoritate mulier in and-ptias fere coacta consentit Id 1b pag 166 (d) Non diu post anımı mærore confecta Lupervixit ingentibus præfecti bonis liberos e prito fusce-ptos ditans Pontus Heateriu ubi su-ppd pag 167 (e) Libsius של אוווסחו exempl polit lib 2 cap 9 n 7 • (f) In the 7th Buck () op 23 p m 395 (g) Varillas, Hift de Louis XI Lv I pag 34 (h) Takin from Pere Anselme.

Hist gene-

mediately grant him the Favour he had ask'd her fo very often (a) Promitto me apud Principem gratiam marito tuo obtenturum, si voluntati mea obsequi nunc cum soli sumus voluerus. This Proposal made her blush, weep, sigh, rais'd a Constict between conjugal Love and Vertue, and took her very Speech away. He (b) makes use of the Irresolution, and satisfies his Lust. He is summon'd from time to time to perform his Promise, he makes use of a thousand Lies, and at last causes the Pusoper to be privately beheaded, and perswades Prisoner to be privately beheaded, and perswades the Wife that she may release him out of Prison, by giving the Goaler a certain Paper which he put anto her Hands She runs to the Prison, and finds that her Husband had lost his Life by the Hands of the Executioner The Sight of such an Object struck her speechless, but a little while after she return'd to the Governour, and loaded him with all the Reproaches that a just Indignation could fuggest He alledg'd an hundred Excuses, and of fer'd to marry her, promising her a great Fortune She rejects his Offers, and tells the whole Story to some Relations, who advis'd her to wait for the coming of Duke Charles, and demand Justice of him That Prince having examin'd the Truth of the Governour's Crimes, order'd him to marry the Widow (c) She express'd an Aversion to it. which was not to be overcome without strong Solicitations. The Contract of Marriage was drawn up, the Wife was to inherit all the Husband's Lstate, if he dy d before her without Childien. The Formalities of the Marriage were performed, then the Duke ask'd the Wife if she was strissied, she answer'd Yez, but I am not reply'd he, whereupon he fent the Governour to Prilon, and two Hours after, order'd him to be beheaded in the from Chamber where the first Husband lost his Head A Copy of the Sentence of Death was given to the Woman, and she was sent to the Prion to see that the double Crime of her Seducer did not remain unpunish'd She fell (d) into a Melanchelly upon the whole hell do not remain unpunished. cholly upon it, which killd her in a little time Lipsius (e) who relates this History with all its Circumstances, observes that the Scene was in a Town in Zealand See also Peter Matthieu in the History (f) of Lewis XI Mr Varillas has just mention'd it, but not without making a Blunder, for he pretends (g) that the Governour was compell'd to marry the Woman He needed no Compulsion, he desir'd no better

he desir'd no better

(O) He had been thrice married I To Catherine of France, Daughter of Charles the VIIth, in the Year 1439 She dy'd, in the Year 1446, without Issue II To Isabella of Bourbon, Daughter of Charles Duke of Bourbon, in the Year 1454 She dy'd the 1, th of September 1465, leaving a Daughter, whose Article I give III To Margaret Sister of Edward IV King of England, in the Year 1468
She had no Children, and dy d in the Year 1503 (b)

(A) Her Father had the Cumning to promise without

(A) Her Father had the Cunning to promise without designing to give her] A great Prince who has but one Dat other, and engages himself in great Designs at a d stance from his Country, has little need of a hon-in-law He ought to sear that such an Ally will foon be displets d with a private Life, and be Air le of too impatient of commanding. The Cares a Louis XI broad which take up the Father in-law's Thoughts fuffer him not to prevent domestick Cibals. In a (1) Comi-Word, the presumptive Henels of an I state is not nes live 3 fo much to be fear'd when unmarried, as when chap 3 for much to be fear'd when unmarried, as when chap 3 she has a Husband Belides, being a Maiden she pag 145 may serve for a Lure to a givet many Pretenders, (k) ld ib which gives her lather Opportunities of binding clap 8 and looling a great many intreagues. However it pag 160, be, the Duke of Burgundy (i) entertain dall those 173 See with his Daughter's Marriage who ask dher, And I Matthieu, believe, says Philip de Comines, that he did not as fre His de to see a Son, no disgn to marry his Daughter as long Louis XI as he lived, but would always have kept her to en cream live 5 pag the Hopes of Pretenders for his own Use and Assistance 246, 352 He said this on Occasion of a Negociation, that was (l) Committee of the said this on Occasion of a Negociation, that was (l) Committee of the said this on Occasion of a Negociation, that was (l) Committee of the said this on Occasion of a Negociation, that was (l) Committee of the said this on Occasion of a Negociation, that was (l) Committee of the said this on Occasion of a Negociation, that was (l) Committee of the said this on Occasion of a Negociation, that was (l) Committee of the said this on Occasion of a Negociation, that was (l) Committee of the said this on Occasion of the said this on Occasion of the said this of this own the said this of the said this of the said this of the said this of this own the said this of the said thi He faid this on Occasion of a Negociation, that was (1) Comifet on foot in the Year 1470, to marry that Princes nes ubit to the Duke of Guienne. Brother of Lewis XI Jupra pag (k) That Match was carried on so far, that some verbal 171, 172 Promises were made, and something said of it by Letters, ad ann Promises were made, and something said of it by Letters, ad ann but I have known as much transafed with Duke Nicho-1471 las of Calabria and Loriain, Son of Duke John of Ca-(m) This labria, who had been spoken of before The like was was the done with the late Duke Philetert of Savoy, and as King's Broaterwards with Duke Maximilian of Austria, now there and king of the Romans, the only Son of the Emperor the same land. Frederick The latter had Letters under the Daughter's as the own Hand, and received a Diamond by her Father's Com- Duke of mand All these Promises were made in less than three Guienne Tears time And yet I am very certain that no one could have concluded the Matter with him as long as he liv'd, at least by his Confent

(B) He was not to blame because he would not have another Prince of his Blood to marry her] It he had fufferd his Biother to marry her, he would have run the hazzard of an intire Revolution and iis not likely that the Crown would have descended to his own Son Heisnot to be blim d then for the Care he took to hinder that Marriage Mr Varillas expresses the Motives of Lewis XI very well express the Motives of Lewis XI very well (1) "The King who in another Conjuncture ought "to have defir'd his Brother's Marriage with the "Heires of Burgundy, abhorr'd it in this, because giving on the one Hand all the Attention to "that Alliance that it deserv'd, and making on the other Hand all the Research to the Other Hand all the Research to the other Witters Consequences wherewith too subtile Wits ne oniequences wherewith too lubtile Wits are apt to puzzle themselves, he look don himself of an Age already too much advanced not to leave the Son a Minor, whom the Midwives said the Queen was with Child of, and that consequently it would be in his Brother's Power to strip him, if to the Riches of the House of Burnardy he should join the valuant Soldiers that he gundy, he should join the valuant Soldiers that he might raise in Guienne Whereas if the Princes of Burgundy should have another Husband than the Duke of (m) Berry, the Minor whom his Majesty might leave, would be the better settl'd on the Throne, since if she married a foreign Prince, he would be less able to kindle a civil "Prince, he would be less able to kindle a civil "War in France again, and if they chole one for "her in the Kingdom of France, he ought at leaft
"to want that Authority and I stablishments "which make the Sons of France so Jangerous Ggggg2 liv 8

BURGUNDY

of his Blodd to marry her. He sent his Barber to her to speak (C) with her in private, but this was not permitted. She marry'd such a Prince as to Age, as her (D) Governess could wish, twas Maximilian of Austria Son to the Emperor Frederick III. The Wedding was celebrated the 20th of Austria 1477. She dy'd by a Fall (E) from a Horse, in the Month of March 1484, and left two Children, (viz.) Philip of Austria, who was the Father of Charles V, and Margaret of Austria, who was betroth d to the Dauphin the same Year. That Marriage was not consummated.

BURIDAN and the BURIDAN

(a) Com nes ubi lupra pag 171, 172 1471

(1) Mrz ial abreg (1020 tom , ptg aim 1477

" whenever they are weak enough to fuffer themselves to be drawn into a Revolt " As tnemicives to be drawn into a Revolt." As for what remains, England was much alarm'd at the Proposal of a Marriage of Mary of Burgund, with the Brother of Lewis XI. Commes will inform us of this (a) King Edward of England who thought neith that Marriage was treating of and was deceived in it as well as the King, labour'd with the Duke of Burgundy to break it, alledging that the King had no Son, and that if he dy'd, the faid Duke of Culcine expected the Crown, and consequently if that Marriage was concluded, England would be in great Danger, seeing so many Lordships joind to the Crown, and he took that Matter wonderfully to Hears, without any Occasion, as did also the whole Council of England, who would not hear any Reasons that the Duke of Burgundy could alledge Here is another Passage that will require iome Reslection (b) "All had pass'd in a little Time under the Government of France, had he taken the Way that was proposed to him of marrying that Princess to his Son, or to some other Prince of his Blood. And certainly if he had given that rich Heirels to Charles of Orleans, Count of Angoulesme, whom the passionately loved, all the Netherlands would have been to this Day united to Irance, for that Prince had a Son who came to the Crown, to wit, Francis I, but he hated the House of Burgundy so much, that he had a Design to destroy it, making account to resume all the Lands which it held of the Crown, and stare the rest among some German Princes in Alliance "with him It appears plainly that Mezers; centures Lewis the XIth for two Things, the First is, That he rejected the Dauphins Marriage with the Heire's of Burgandy The Second, That he would not juffer the Count of Angoul-Ime to marr This Historian is in the right on the first Point, but not on the Second, for it was not likely that the Count should be Father to a King of Irance, and there were divers Ressons to apprehend that his Marriage with so rich an Heiress night prove stall to the Crown Therefore the shift Fault being committed, the King govern'd himself according to the Principles of Prudence, himself according to the Principles of Prudence, in not fuffering a Prince of the Blood to inherit the Succession of Duke Charles The Answer he made to the Deputies of the Princels, on the Propolals to marry her with the Count of Angoulesme, was succee, and at the same time shew'd a tholas ultificere, and at the told them, (e) That a nine rough Politician. He told them, (e) That a nine rears Experence had but too dearly taught him what an Trans Experience had but too dearly taught him what an Unhappines it was for him to have a Prince of his Blood Master of the Provinces of the Newscape and his Neighbour That God having delivered and them it, he would take Care not to expose his the fact of the fact of the most of the fact of the have overwhelm's him in a more vigorous Aq. And that lastly, it was less Prejudice to him that Maiy of Butgundy should marry a Prince of any wher Sourcign House that she should make choice of among the Christian Princes, than of that of France, if she and the Christian Princes, than of that of France, if she and her Subjects had not rather wast till the Dauphin was sit to be married Livis XI had this Alternative, either to marry the Heiress of Eurgundy to the Dauphin, or elie to strip her of her Domini-ons by the Right of Arms He rejected the First, Javetakin and would chuse the Second, but he knew not some of the how, or was not able to execute it, whether the Qualities of the Oppositions of England, or the bad of the Qualities of a Conqueror The Truth is, she was but indifferently provided that Way, he was much fitter to imbroil the Affairs of his Neighbours, and to preserve his own, by Way of Intreagues, than to make Conquests. He stood in made spera as much Need of the Courage of the Duke of fell Prince.

Tredecessor 'However, the Marriage of Makingar milian of Austria with the Heirels of Burgundy, was a less Evil for France, than the Marriage of a French Prince with the same fileress, for Maximilian could not cabal with the Malecontents in the Kingdom, as a Printe of the Blood in his Place might have done, and it's very likely that the Flemmings govern'd by the Count of Angentessia, would have troubl'd France an hundred times more troubly VIII and under the VIII that under Charles VIII, and under Lews XII, than they troubled it under the Government of the Aufterians. I own the Patrimony of the Dukes of Burgundy was a Thorn to France under Charles V. But could Lews XI torefee that? Could the wifest of Angels have conjectur'd that the only Son of Maxeminan would inherit Spain, and that the Germans would have been simple enough to chuse so powerful an Emperor as the Grandson of Many of But-gundy?

As for what remains, the Evills which that Branch of the Royal Family did to Prance, will probably ferve many Ages for a Lesson, never to fusifer the great Provinces of the Kingdom to fall to the Let of the Princes of the Blood The Custom of them such Fiets was a very bad one, the Kingdom of France was thereby rendred less a Monarchy, than a State like the Empire of German, Burgundy, Normandy, Bistemy, Guieme, Languettic, Champaign, Provence, Daubhine, &c have formerly had their particular Lords, over whom the Kinghad little more Authority than the Emperor had over the Princes of Germany, and much less in Yellow had hell particular Lords, over whom the King had little more Authority than the Emperor had over the Princes of Germany, and much leis in the gard of some No wonder then that he was sometimes worsted in sofeign Wars, and that thele Civil Wars gave him so much Employment To referve an Homage, the Right of Investicute, the Reversion and Dependance, is a very inconsiderable Thing, that does not hinder the Mustitude of Masters in a Kingdom, the Erection of a State within a State, imperium in imperio, nor that Consusion which made the Prince of Poets say (e) (in a year of motion which made the Prince of Poets say (e) (in a year of motion with her alone, but it was not permitted by Master Olivier being admitted to the Audience of the Princets Mary, received Orders to do (f) Comicare his Message (f) He answer at that he was some but to her self in private He was teld that this was not married. He inssisted that he would say nothing but to her self They told him that (g) Last to the month of the felf They told him that (g) Last to

he would say nothing but to her self They told him that they would make him tell his Errant, at which he was and retir'd for that time

(g) Id tilo

afreid and retir'd for that time

(D) She married such a Prince, as to Age, as her Governess could well. You will comprehend all this by reading the following carrieds Passage or Phimp de Comines (g) "A Commel was before held such as the Comines (g) "A Commel was before held such as the Comines (g) "A Commel was before held such as the Comines (g) "A Commel was before held such as the Comment of the Comment find the Man See Republick of Learning See the News (b) from the

(E) She died by a fall from a Horse Being a great Box state Lover of Hawking, the had a Mind one Day to lee pag yas.

a Flight of the Hern, accordingly the rode out of a Flight of the Hern, accordingly and co-Bruges (1) mounted on a gentrous Horse and co-ming into the opin Tield, she gave her Horse the Brain the Girts of le Saidle breaking, the Dutchess was but natural B lently thrown on the Gioind but natural But wels and the Fear of graving her Husband, make her in affethble her linels (k) too long. In the mean time her property much bruisd, a continued from feez direct was obliged to keep her Bed, where she will be

(d) Cou'd be but

pale 8 114 169

BURIDAN (John) born at Bothame * in the County of Arton, was one of the "Valer most renowned Philosophers of the XIVth Century He discharg'd a Professor's Place Andreas Biol Belg in the University of Paris with great Reputation, and wrote some Commentaries on Arisand's Logick, Ethicks, and Metaphysicks, which were much esteemed. | DullarSome say || that he was Rector of the University of Paris in 1320 They add, that duringrahe was deputed to the Court of Rome. Robert Gaguin makes him flourth under the fat ad Reign of Philip de Valois in the Year 1348, whereby (A) he refutes a Story very injurious to the Foundress of the Colledge of Navarre It is a Story very like that which went current of a correction, Dowager, whose Palace was not in Being (A) in the Andream Days of Francis the First Aventinus & relates that Buridan was a Disciple of Ockam, and that being expelled of Paris by the Power of the Faction of the Realists, which was fold 639 to previous to that of the Nominals of which he was he went to Common where I had a fold 639 superior to that of the Nominals, of which he was, he went into Germany, where he founded not continue long. It is not easily comprehended why natural Bashtulnets should hander her to tell that she had hurt her Ribs Let'us leave that Author then. who joins Things together which have no relation to each other, and let us confult Mr Parilles, who expresses similar more clearly "Mary, (a) says he, "was gone a hunting on the gentiest Pad that could be found, nevertheless the Beast flying out all on a sudden, threw her on the Root of a Iree, which enterted into that part of her Body which "Modesty forbids us to Name That Would have not been increased to the Proposes would have not been incurable, if the Prince's would have bave fait if inferred a Surgeon to have taken it in hand but have fait is Shame restrained her so long that it gangren d, and eighty if the died in the Year 1481, (b) '(c) You may say three, the as you please, that she carry'd Shame to Fxceis, that ginning the property of such a Nature, that they who commit Year as the court Admiration more than they who do Month. It is a kind of Herosim this is to die a January. Marry to Modesty

(A) Whereby he resultes a Story very injurious to the fuffered a Surgeon to have taken it in hand

torum inmalus ellceta eerat epist

(c) Stul-

(d) Anshors (peak but of one Sophi∫m invented by Buri-«dan, to wit, that Relation be bornetn this Sophism and the The wours of a Ancen ! (c) This Place of Grama Philip of Valois was feet alswe in 1347. He dy di mistos 1370. don note that my Kärrinn has 1348

Martyr to Modelty

(A) Whereby he refutes a Story very injurious to the Foundress of the Colledge of Navarre. That I condicess was Jane Queen of Navarre, Wife of Philip the Fair King of Irance The Act of the Foundation is of the Year 1304. Very importanent Reports have been spread against the Honour of this Queen, to wit, That she caused Scholars to be brought to her to lie with them, and after having got as much out of them as she desir'd, she had them thrown out of her Chamber-window into the River Soine, to hide the Disorders of her Life, that only Buridan was spar'd, and that in acknowledgment of that Favour, par u, and that in acknowledgment of that Favour, he invented a certain (a) Sophim Mr de Launei confutes this Story by a Partie of Robert Gagun, which contains these I was teasions, first, That Buridan live dafter that Gagen, and next, That this Illustrious Princess had shewn too much Charles towards the Poor, by Founding the Colledge of Navarre, to deserve a Charge of this Nature of the Ass Grain proves his first Reason only by saying, That Now that Philosopher stourish'd in the Reign of Philo d Values, when Foulks was Bishop of Prise, in the Year 1357 (c) The Thing was worth the trouble of clearing it much better, for if Robert Gaguin were answer'd, That it is true Buridan did read some Lesures and wrote Books in the Year 1357, but that he was then very old, there would icarce remain any Strength is, the Apology They who fram'd the Story, and not suppose the Queen in the Flower of her Youth, or that she made chair of Scholars advanced in Years It is likely they pas'd that she was in her declining Years, and she desir'd very young Scholars to lie with her Suppose her to die then (if you please) in the Year Buridan might have been her darling, tho' was still living in the Year 1357 It's only supposing that he was then 75 Years of Age Robert Gaguin says nothing that consutes such a Supposition, therefore he has not defended that Princesses Honour well, the Matter would be much worse if Credit were to be given to those (f) who say that Buridan was Rector of the University of Paris in the Buridan was Rector of the University of Parisi in the Year 1320. Gagun sught to have provid foldly, that that Profesior was but of such or of such an Age, in the Year 1357. His Second Reason is of no weight, because it's no fare thing for laserious Princesses to have otherwise a thousand good Quahand make very useful Foundations for the and for the Publick. The best way to the Cueen of Nancorne, is by saying, First, the Story is not supported by any good a Calumny, since go avoid the Name of a Calumniator, it as not sufficient that what one reports against his Neighbour's Honour be true, but at must gainst his Neighbour's Monour be true, but at must moreover be thought fo on convincing Reafons In the Second Place, That tis against all common Sense, that a Queen of France deliring to divert herfolt with the Sports of Venus, should be oblig'd to fend for Scholars, or such-like indiscreet Persons, who must have been put to Death if the would hide her Crime Are there not Men enough newer at these in the Lowura, and more fectet than Students can be? However, let us see Robert Gaguin's Words, as quoted by (g) Mr de Launoi Fuerum quoque insignibus faminis sua faon, nam unores silierum Philippi tres adulerii insimulata sunt Ob hanc impadicitiam Crime Are there not Men enough nearer at hand aduterii injimulata junt Ob nanc impaaicitiam injanum mulierum natam fabulam reor, quæ de Joanna Philippi Pulchri uxore u rerum imperitis memorari folet, eam videlicet aliquot Scholafticorum concubitu usum, eam videlicet aliquet Scholasticorum concubitu usum, eosque ne pateret scelus, protinus entinuisse, & in Sequanum ammen de cubiculi sui senestra abjectse, sed unum tantum Joannum Buridanum eo periculo sorce liberatum, & propeerea saphisma ab eo editum este Reginam intersecer nolite, eimere bonum est Euit signidem Buridanus Joanna pasterior, quippe qui Philippe Vulcsio regnam moderante, cum liberalium Arcium nonvaatissimus Pratessor alit, musta & in rationali & morale Philosobia Projefor effet, multa & in rationali & morale Philosophia Professor esset, multa & in rationality moraes Enterpopular Scripst, dum Parisina Ecclesia Fulco prasidebat anno Christiana resurrectionis (b) MCCCLVII Nec commercit pratiana mulier hajusmodi vitto taxari, cujus liberalitate & miseriardia erga pauperes, & c. Let's meruit practions mulier hajujmodi with taxari, cajus liberalitate & miseriordia erga pauperes, & Let's consider Robert Gagnins Conjecture a little, he fancys that the Immodelty of the Three Princesses who married the three Sons of Philip the Full gave Occasion to the Scoty we speak of There are Historians who attribute to one of these Three Princesses the Inferthet from which come to movel the second Princesses the Infanty from which Guy 4 would justify the Wife of this Monaich (1) "Margurer" Queen of Navarre, Jean Countess of Pointers, and Blanche Countess of March, who married the three Sons of Pronce were accused of A. dultery, and committed Prifoners to the Caffle of Pars mad The first died in an unknown It is this Queen of Navarre, who Gailland manner was of such a forward Temper, that when she saw a Man of a good Mien and Air, she had him brought to her Appartments, from whence he never stir'd till he was thrown headlong into the Seine, that he might not tell Tales A Scholar whom they had not bound very fast, saved himself by swimming, and discovered the whole Matter Some Authors afersbe these Adventures to Jour the Mother of Lewer (k) Hunn," the was the the first of the Colledge of Navurre The Paffage the have just now cited, is (in a gaulish bryle) the have just now cited, is (in a gaulish style) is the History of (1) Spain, write by Mayerne. He presses himself very wrong when he calls the size of Lewis Hatin, Roine Marguerice de Navarre in Signifies that she was of the House of Navarre, cas not true that she was so, sor she was New Action of true that the was to, for the was Daughter of Robert (m) II Duke of Bulgarity There is no Error an calling her Queen of Navarre, fince her Husband (Lewes Hussen) was Kang of at (A &) Whofe Pulme was wes in Being in the time of Francis she Frist] Road this Epigrain of John Stcundus a Duch Poet, who died on the Year 1536 (n) In Arcem reging Alba, Purifis

(m) Muschen hist general p 95 (M) 90 Salata epigraman dibro pag 140 valo Lugh. Date 4619

Carnise, flavence:s ubi vobult Sequina lymphas,

Et, quaffaou undis, vones flubiamur & ridbri,

Chaonias sedem ponere nolit aveis Dud firdz, quil Purie volitent, quil plurimà faithh

Males with fermies mothe quorumour wees

Cypres who sheers, flamming who for wrucheles,

Semirusam, ferentr quam coluiffe prius Effera functus regina lobblicus, irrein, Wine altere mult at sempora fola fince:?

† Lib 7 fol 639 apud iacobum Thomasium, Orat 12 p 274 (g) Launoius, bifor Navarre Gymnalis Parte I lib I cap 2 pag 15 7th Book of Gaugin's Hiftory of I rance (b) My Edition of Giguin, which s of Paris, p 129, Jays, apud Petrum Vidovæum 1528, 1n anno Christiane reiuirectionis Мссс xlviii this weakens the Apology (1) Heftour chronolog d espagne tom 2 p 177, 178 ad ann 1312 (k) he was the eldest Son of Philip the Fair and note that Mezerny AYS that Philip the Full was the eldeft Son of Philip the Fair Abr chronolog tom 2 tom 2 p m 776 ad ann 1201 (!) Mayterne's Hiistory of Spain,tom 1 p 559, י, Ann בי Mezeray placer this 11 100 2 AT · * * 1,13

founded the Academy of Vienna. Buridan's Ass has (B) been a kind of Proverb or Example which subsisted a very long time in the Schools. I cannot rell whether I guess right what it was, for I could never yet meet with any one who could explain it to me, or with any Book particular enough on that Matter. Gabriel Naudé (C) who was acquainted with so many Books and Authors, did not well know the Time that our Fobn Buridan lived in There was an Author in the XVIIth Century, whose Name Was John Baptist de Buridan, who wrote some Commentaries on the Customs of the Vermindois of Ribemont, St. Quintin, Noion, Coucs and Reims. See the Journal des Savans of the Eighth of February 1666

Exululet raucis questibus umbra suum Sic domus atternum numerosa confcia cadis Impia lasciva fatta luit Domina Labuntur, lentis & condemnata ruinis Implorant hominum pendula saka manus Implorant frustra stant hac rata lege severa, Instauratricem ne ferat ullus opem, Aut subeat gladios, pretium pietatis iniqua Et quis adhuc ausit satta nesanda sequi ? En, etiam sauis mortem censura minatur, Longaque post cineres stant monimenta mali. (B) Buridan's As I cannot tell whether I have guess'd right what it is I thought a long time that it was only an Example that Buridan had given of the Dependency wherein Beasts live, as to the Objects of Sense They who hold the Free-will properly speaking, admit a Power in Man of Determining himself either to the right or to the left, at the same time when the Motives are exactly equal from the two opposite Objects, for they pretend that our Soul can fay, without having any other Reason to make use of its Liberty, I love this better than that, the I see nothing more worthy of my Choice in this than in that But they do not give that Power to Beafts they suppose then that they could not determine themselves at the Presence of two Objects, which should draw them with equal Force, one on the one fide, and the other on the other That for Example, an hungry Ais would starve between two Bushels of Oats, which should ast equally on his I aculties, for having no Reason to prefer the one before the other, he would remain unmovethe one before the other, he would remain unmoveable, like a piece of Iron between two Load-stones of the same horce. The same thing would happen if he were equally press with Hunger and Thirst, and had a Bushel of Oats and a pail of Water before him, which should act with equal Foice on his Organs. He would not know where to begin, and if he eat before he drank, his Hunger must be greater than his Thirst, or the Action of the Water weaker than that of the Oats, which is against the Supposition.

Burydan made use of this Example to Supposition Buridan made use of this Example to thew, that if an External Motive does not determew, that it an external Motive does not deter-mine, Leasts have not the Power to choose be-tween two equal Objects I here was Reaion enough to laugh and break Jests upon the Supposition of iuch an Ais, and a Iteld for subtilising the Cavils of Dialecticks according to the Mode of those Times It's no wonder then that Buridan's As became famous in the Schools I find that the Sceur Naude (a) places this Als among the Fictions of the Humane Mind, and I shall occasionally that the Schoolmen plagued themselves in such a manner with alligning a Caule for every effect, that they demand a Reason why one individual of Hear, for example, is sooner produced rather than another Hear is, according to them, a kind of Quantum another Hear is, according to them, a kind of Quantum another Hear is, according to them, a kind of Quantum another Hear is, according to them. lity that comprehends, under its Genus, a vast number of possible Individuals. The Fire produces one of these Individuals every time it heats the Water

This is not without its Difficulty there are more Depths in this Matter than one's aware of Another Thought came lately into my Head; whichis, That Buridan's Ass might be a Sophism

But why one rather than the other? Turn your-felf which way you please, you'll find no manner of Reason for this any where but in the pure Will of God, here we must transgress the Law of the Schools, non est Philosophi recurrere ad Deum, and teach, That as the Second Cause determines the First, as to the Species, the First Cause determines the Second as to the Individual. If you go higher, if you ask why God made choice of one Individual of Heat rather than another? you are answer'd, That his Supreme Independency gives the Right of Choice, without being determin'd by the Pre-eminence of the

which that Philosopher proposid as a kind of Dilemma, that whatever answer were given him, he might draw some puzzling Conclusions from it He suppos'd either an Ass much famish'd between two Measures of Oats of an equal Force, or an Ass as much prest with Thirst and Hunger be-As as much press with Thirst and Hunger between a measure of Oats and a pail of Water, which acted equally on his Organs Having made this Supposition he ask'd, (b) What shall this As do? (b) I is any body answer'd, he must remain immoveable, assimption, then, concluded he, he must die of Hunger between I on'y suptimo measures of Oats, he must die of Thirst and Hunger pose it swithin reach of Meas and Drink This seem'd absuid, say the sand he must have the Laughers on his side, against same are in and he must have the Laughers on his side, against same whoever should make him that Answer If he the Explithan the other, the nothing moves him more strongly to- Lynn wards that Place than towards this then he is endered of two Weights poized in equilibrio, one moves and raises Lu. in the other These two Consequences are absurd Hermos there remain'd then only one Answer, That the mo, or one of the Objects than by the other one of the Objects than by the other but this was overthrowning the Supposition, and thus Buridan apul Gasain d his Cause in what manner soever his Question was answered. This Sophism puts me in mind of the Crocodile (c) of the Stocks, of the (d) Electra of Eubulides, and of such-like captious Questions of the Antient Dialecticians, to which they gave the Name of the Thing which they took for an Example Spinoza (e) does not speak of Buridan's Ass, but of his She-Ass, and he confesses plainly, that a Man who should be in that She-Ass's Condition, would die of Hunger and Thirst Ass's Condition, would die of Flunger and I nirit The Ass-burdin is a Proverb in Burgundy, whereof Paradin (f) has given a Talse Etymology, for it is plain, That Burdin is only a Corruption of Buridan By the way, Spinoza's Approbation is very ill grounded, for there are at least two ways whereby a Man may disingage himself from the Snare of the Fourthern One is that which I have already mention d, That to flatter himself with the pleasing Imagination that he is Master at Home, and that he does not depend on outward Objects, he might pass this Act, I will prefer this before that, because I will have it so, and in this Case, that which determines results not from the Object, the Motive is only taken from the Ideas that Men have of their own Perfections, or of their Natural Faculties The other Way is that of the Lot or Chance A hadies, he finds nothing in them that determines im but if he were of necessity obliged to prefer one to the other, he would make them draw Lots for him. He would do the like in regard of two Curtezans with whom he had a mind to divert himself, but without shewing the least shadow of preference Chance would decide with whom he should begin the Equilibrum would not keep him in a state of Inaction, as Spinoza pretends, a Remedy might be found

(C) Gabriel Naudé did not well know the Time] He believ'd that (g) Nicholas Orefme, 'Preceptor of Charles the Vth King of Irance, preceded Baridan, for after heving observ'd that that Preceptor of Charles the National States. (C) Gabriel Naudé Buridan, for after heving observed that that Preceptor of Charles the Vth published Aristotle's Politicks and Morals in French, he adds, that Buridan pubde Launes lished some Questions on Aristotle's Politicks a fittle Histor Colafter (b) Paulo post estam Johannes quidam Buridanus celeberrimi nominis Sophista suas in libror politicarum quastiones evulgavit, sed nugacis ac increas, ut ejusmodi Scholasticorum sermi omnia We must know that this Work of Nicholas Oresme was written (b) between the Years 1370, and 1377 Now action ting to Gaguin, Buridan's Works on Logick and Ethicks belong were answered, That the Ass has more Sense than cation in to die of Hunger and Thirst in fuch a Situation, the forethen (concludes he) he must turn on the one side rather going Cowith a Iree-will, or which is all one, it may happen sant Als must ever find himself more strongly moved by but this was Ass's Condition, would die of Hunger and Thirst One is that which I have already

(g) He makes bim Archb: shop of Bayeux, he should ! have faig Bishop of Lilieux, and at most Baieux 15 but a Bi-

Hermoti-

mo. & 12 auctione

Ultarus

3 2 40

(e) Spinoza, Ethices parte 2 p 89

nales de

Bourg &ne

l 2 p m

(b) Naudans Bibli ogr politi-CA PAG M 26

Shoprick

the Euto-Ins rationis of Chimera, δc

'Tis to be observ'd, that John Buridan was plac'd by Illyricae in (D) the Catalogue of the Witnesses of Truth.

BURNETTUS, or BRUNETTUS Latinus, was a Florentine. He writ a Book intituled, A Treasure of the Origin and Nature of all Things He composed it field in French, and then he translated it into Italian * His Answer (Z) to those Mabillon, who ask'd him why he had writ his Book in French, and not in Italian, which was his Mother Tongue, should that our Tongue has been a long time in vogue in Force of reign Countries. He countried several other Books, and dy'd at Florence in the Year 169

† 1295 See the Article Countries the Countries of the Article Countries.

BURRUS (AFRINIUS) was a Man of great Merit, and worthy of a better Poccianti-Age than that of Nero pina, that Prince's Mother, designing to ingage Burrus in her Interest, who had great Reputation in the Armies, perswaded || the Emperor rent pag Claudius her Husband, to remove the Commanders of the two + Pretorian Cohorts, and to 34 bestow that Post upon Burrus alone He was made afterwards Governour of young | Tacis Nero, and had Seneca for his Affistant The good Intelligence a of those two Go-Annal 1 vernors, shews they were Men of great Probity, and that they aim'd chiefly 12 c 42 ad ann at the publick Good in their Instruction of that young Prince, who would have god ann prov'd an accomplished Emperor under such Masters, had not his natural Wickedness prevailed, and made all their Care welch. edness prevailed, and made all their Care useless. Nero being resolved to get rid of the Rehis Mother, was like to , take from Burrus his Imploy of Colonel of the Guards, giment of remembring that he got it by Agrippina's Favour, and fearing that such a Benesit Guardi would ingage him in his Mother's Interest, but whether it be that Seneca diverted the Thing, or for some other Reason, Burrus kept his Place, and approved of Agrippina's Death, provided she was convicted of what was charg'd upon her can add the such as the last that the last the last that th He represented to Nero, that the least thing he could do for his Mother, was to ann 808 That Expedient diverted the Storm for the * 1bid St refolv'd to put off no longer the Death of Agrippina, and Burrus being not the longer to give his Older about it to any of the longer to prevent it, refused however to give his Older about it to any of the longer than once obliged, to his great Grief, to seem to ad ann ad ann approve Nero's Infamies, for which he could find no Remedy He dy'd in the 812 62d Year of the first Century, three Years after Agrippina, not without some Suspicion # 16 c 15 of having been poisoned

BUSBEQUIUS (AUGERIUS GISLENIUS) an illustrious Man, on 51 adams account of his Embassies, was born at Comines win the Year 1522, of a Mother of 1 115 mean Extraction, but of a Father who was of a good Family, and Loid of Busbeck upon the River Lis, and who did not marry below himself, to bring that of Ilander Child into the World The Reader may easily perceive, without a Commentary upon the on these last Words, that Augerius Busbequius was a Bastard He confirmed the common Opinion which the World entertains of the Wit of those, who, like himfelf, are unlawfully begotten. He made very early a wonderful Progress, which mov'd his Father, who had him brought up in his House, to spare neither Pains

France

Por Cost for his Instruction, and to set him legitimated by a Rescript of Pas 475 nor Cost for his Instruction, and to get him legitimated by a Rescript of pag 475 He scnt him to the most celebrated Universities, to Louvain, Paris, a Native of Venice, Bologna, and Padua e He did very much improve under the learned Mi-Bruger fters he heard in those Places He was for some Time at London with (A) the long to the Year 1348 He comprehends the Writings on Politicks under those of Ethicks

(a) Flaci-

us Illyricus al

Juco-

Modelico, fireligiones.

West.

p 169

(D) Buridan was placed in the Catalogue of the Witnesses of Truth] He is there is d to have been an orthodox Author in Point of Free-Will (a) Anorthodox Author in Point of Pree-Will (a) Anderes de Castro & Jammes Buridanus disputant de libere arbitrio contra alias satentiarios, & veram tuent tentiam Vide Andr in 1 sint dist 45 & aum in 3 Ethic A Dutch Minister has paraphatically those Words thus Joannes Buridanus Rettor School Paristensis ejusque nomine Romam Legatus, professional Philosophy Constitutional Philosophy Constitutional Philosophy The property of the state of th logos referendus, pro studiorum commun one, ita & inter testes veritatus Nullo enim modo placuit ipsi quod Roma ex Pelagu sententia de Peccatoris coram Deo justificatione tum temporu audiverat, & passim re-ceptum erat Atque adeo renascenti de gratuita per Mar Sulpitio fidem in Christo, junta Scriptura doctrinam, justifica-tione, renascenti inquam sententia adfipulabatur Bu-ridanus noster sententiam suam orthodoxam in

3 Ethicorum Arisatelis proposuis (b)
(Z) His Answer shews that our Tongue has long time, &c] He gave two Reasons for the was that he lived in France, when he want Treatise, the second was, that the French congue was more pleasant and more common an others Percio che la parlatura Francischa e più sevele & piu comuna che tutti altri linguagi (c) his we find in the first Chapter of his Book, which was published only in Italian. which was published only in Italian.

(A) With the Ambassador of Ferdinand] The pag 93 anonymous Author, who published in 1693, the History of the Archduke Albert, says (d. (d.) Pag 9 That the Emperour Ferdinand (e) II placed our Busbequius in the Family of his Ambassadour in Estand, and made him Preceptor to his own sons, I neither of these I acts is true 1 find by a rest Relation of Busbequius that he begin 'f) Bushes be known to Ferdinand only after he had been at London in the House of the Ambassadour in been at London in the House of the Ambastidour France (f) Non te fugit cum essem ex (g) Ut demum reversus a Regis Philippi & Rie næ Viennam Maria aupriis, ubi fueram inter comites Don Petr Viennam Lassi quem honoris causa eo Romanorum Rex Ind- Jo Vanandus dominus meus elementissimus legaverat, q in admodum idem Ferdinandus me per literas al ho ad I erditter evocarit. He tells us a little after (g) how nondum, he was approduced by John Vander da Secretaty (1115 a.) the evocarit He tells us a little after (g) how nandum, he was introduced by John Vander As Secretary to Ferdinand, and how kindly he was received by that Prince All this looks like a first Acquaintance, especially considering that the Wilters (b) of Bussequius's Life, observe that he was sent for to Vienus by the good Offices of that benevoting that the Wilters (b) of Bussequius's Life, observe that he was sent for to Vienus by the good Offices of that benevoting a Proof of a first Acquaintance, what I say could not be reasonably denied, since Bussequitions could be the sent of the control of the sent of the good of the sent of the s uti solet erga eos quorum de fide & probitate opinionem aliquam concept Id (h) Melch Adam ib in vit Jurif pag 316 Bullart Academ des scienc som i pag 80 3hi cails him Peter Vanderan

rent pag

₹ 16 cap

Ambaffidor 5 Fy lal Bibl Bilg us Cipio , QUILLS TE

* call d PeterLaf-

(1) The ife of Busbequius prefix'd to his Works, Melchior Adam, 16 Bullart, 16 Swertius Athen Belg Teifher t 2 Speak only of Maximilian's 50215

(b) See his first Letter at the Beginning

(c) Hift Al vert pag

(e) I al Andreas B bl Belg PAE 93

(f) Patie e VIVIS i blito Javenis t tatis an no tertio ac Vicefimo in Angliam a lerdinundi Imp Oratore evoies alıquot familimiter patiiam IEVERTItui 11 1b

(g) Quas (literas) cum Infuls, Novema bus nocepilleni tutum mora mterpolui dum id Buden num defletteicm prting is 311111111 Vilcer c-11 1 I s big p

Embassador of Ferdinand King of the Roman, from whence being return'd into Flanders, he received there a Letter from that Prince, who informed him, that he designed to send him Ambassador to Constantinaple. Bushequius did quickly reput to Vienna, from whence he soon set out (B) for that Embassy Not finding Soliman at Constantinople, he was obliged to (C) go to him at Amassa. He was sone to the Port to stay there, in the Quality of Ambassador Ordinary, nevertheless, he us fays nothing whereby it may appear that Ferdinand contributed to his Journey into England Had it not been a very glorious Thing for Bulbe-quies to have been placed by Ferd nand himself in the House of his Ambassador, who was sent to London at the Time of the Prince of Spain's Wedding? Why should such an honourable Circumstance have been suppress'd? To which I may add the Silence of all the Authors I have confulted, and the express Observation of Valerius Andreas, that it was the Ambassador him-ielt who call'd Busbequius to London We may therefore reckon this among the Mistakes of that anonymous Author Here's another It is certain anonymous Author from Busbequius's Relations, that from the Time he was intioduc'd to the Court of Ferdinand, to the Year 1562, he was wholly taken up with his Embassies to Constantinople, and therefore if he had been Preceptor to Ferdinand's Children, it must have been since the Year 1562 But the it must have been since the Year 1562 But the Sons of that Prince were not then of an Age that requir'd it The Sons of Maximilian King of the Romans, wanted a Governor and a Preceptor, and Busbequius (a) was intrusted with their Education I don't question that the anonymous Author was misled by Morers See the tollowing Remark

(B) Irom whence he soon sit out for that Embassy]
He received Ferdinand's Letter (b) at Liste the 3d of November, and he was to be at Buda in the Beginning of December You may judge whether he had much Time to make himself ready The Departure of an Ambassador was never to much hasten'd, and yet, if we must believe Moreri, the Thing happen'd thus The Emperor Ferdinand Sent for him to Vienna, where some time after he chosc him to be Preceptor to hu Children, and afterwards sent him to be Ambassador to the Fort Thus Time and Matters of lact are confounded by those who do not consult the Originals Morer: had confulted them, he might have feen that Firdinand was only king of the Rojus conmans,, when he fent for Bushequius to Vienna, and that the first Employment he gave him was per men the Embissy to the Poit The Historian whom I have confuted in the foregoing Remark, had without doubt confulted Morers, there he found (1) I hat Augerius made two Vojages into Turky, after the Emperor I endinand I had made him Preceptor to his Sons lift am less surprised at those I sults than I am at those which I am going to observe The Words of Bushequius which I have quoted shew that he did not leave England, where he had been in the House of King Ferdinand's Am-lassidor till after the Wedding of Philip and Queen Mny, that is after the 25 of July 1554, and that he mide his first Voyage to constant nople after his Return from England Valerius Andreas does therefore confourd the Times, when he (1) tays that Busbequius having been some Months in the House of the Ambassador, at London, whither he went at 23 Years of Age, returned into his Country, where he staid till he was cill d to the Court of Ferdinand, which supposes that he loarney into England, and his Journey to Jienna did soon follow one another. 'I is not therefore true, that he went into England at 23 I cars of Age Falcrius Andreas is guilty of a grois Mistake, for on one Hand, he fiys Busbequius was 7 Years old in 1592, and on the older, in 2, Years of Age, he was tome Months at London, in Ambaffador, he must Years old in 1592, and on the other, that being the llouie of Ferdinand's Ambassador, he must therefore have been there in 1545 but he himself ins that he went to Confiantinople after he had been vith the tame Ambilladoi, and after the Wedcm of Philip and Mary Queen of England, which was made the 25 of july 1554, he was therefore older than I alerius Anarcas makes him to be, when he vent to London That Author has committed another lault. He tays that Busbequise didn't to to the Ambulador till after (f) his Father's Death But Busbequius declares (g) that ha-Ving receiv d Fid nand's Letter after his Return, he put off his Journey to Vienna no longer than was necessary to take his Leave of his Father and of his Friends desides, its a Piece of Unexactness to say that Ferdinand had the Title of Emperor in 1545 There is a Difficulty in these Words of Bushequius: Non te fugit cum essential domum reversus a Regu Philippi & Regina Maria nuptiis, ubi fueram inter comites Don Petri Lassi quemadmodum Ferdinandus me per literas ad Lassi quemadmodum Ferdinandus me per literas ad hoc ster evocarit Quas cum Insulis 3 Novembru accepissem. They signifie that he didn't return into Flanders, till after the Wedding of Mary Queen of England, from whence it follows, that the Letter he receiv'd at Liste the 3d of November, was not receiv'd before the 3d of November 1554, at the soonest And yet his Relation of the first Voyage he made to Constantinople after he received that Letter, is dated from Victura the 1st of September 1554, and the Relation of his second Voyage, is dated from Constantinople the 14th of July 1555. To remove that Dissipation, we need only mend those two false Dates, by putting 1555 in the first, and 1556 in the sewe need only mend those two raise Dates, by nales in putting 1555 in the first, and 1556 in the fermious cond For since Busbequius declares (b) that his fucus cond For since Busbequius declares (b) that his fucus from the last, a little before the Coronation of the Daman. Which happend Maximilian King of the Roman, which happend the 30 of November 1562 'tis manifest that the the 30 of November 1562 'tis manifest that the Month of November in which he prepared himfelf for his first Voyage is that of the Year 1554, and that the Month of November in which he began the second is that of the Year 1555 When he mentions his Arrival at Francfort (1) a little before Maximilian's Coronation, he says, twas then 7 Years wanting one Day, since he set out from Vienna for his second Voyage Seeing therefore his second Letter is the Relation of his second Voyage to Constantinople, 'tis plain it must be dated not the 14 of July 1555, but the 14 of July 1556 Here's another Mistake of Moreri he says that Bushequius procur d in 1560, the Liberty of fays that Bushiquius procurd in 1560, the Liberty of Alvares de Sande, Sanches de Leve, and Beienguel de Bequelens taken by the Bassa Piali in the Iste of Geibes, and that he return'd with the first about the End of the same Year to Vienna There is a Misreckoning of two Years, Melchior Adam has

(C) He was oblig'd to go to him at Amalia] This does plainly appear from his first Letter, which makes me believe that of a hundred Authors who speak of Busbequius, there are scarce six that confult the Originals 'Tis certain that Moreri did not give himself that Trouble Soliman, says he, was then at Constantinople Busbequius made a second Voyage to him at Amasia in Asia Moreri is not the only Writer, who divides the two Embassies in that manner, I mean who pretends that Burbequius went the first time to Constantinople, and the second time to Amasia Valerius Andreas has committed the same Mistake, has prima illius in Asiam legatio, he means the Embassy to Constantinople, altera Amasiana fuit Melchior Adam (k) and Swertius (1) expreis themselves in the same manner The Expression is more faulty still in the Life of Busbiquius presided to his Works. The Embassy into Asia is (m) there distinguished from his Fmbaffy to Amasia The best of all is, that some believe the Embassy to Amasia was not design d for the Turkish Linguistry, but for some other supra Lastern Prince He likewise (they are the Words of a (n) French Author) made himself known in the Courts of Asia His Embassies to Amasia and Constantinople, rais'd the Admiration of those Eastern Nations. This Mistake proceeds in all likelihood from his being cited as the Author of a Relation of a Vove age to Constantinople, and as the Author of a Relation of a Voyage to Amasia Indeed his first Letter contains these two Relations, but besides that those two Voyages concern one and the same Embassy, which is the first, it would be a very improper Way or speaking to denominate the second by Amasia, tho he had gone the second time to Amasia without passing through Constantinople

(b) Bonis avious fub finem menfis Augusti optatum iter ingreffus ium, me cum refe rens an octo fruaum o-&en-4 Pag m 371 (k)Earum (legateo-num) IRfignes imprimis fuere Constantinopoli-Amafiana, Melch Adam ubs (i) In legationi-bus enituit quarum primis infignes fuere Constantinopoli-Amaliana Swert ubi supra (m) Legaquarum Prima A fiana fust altera Amafiana fuit Vita Busbequit (n) Bul-lart ubs made but a short Stay there He only obtained from Soliman (D) a Truce of six Months, and 'twas thought expedient he should quickly return to Ferdinard, to bring him the Letter of the Turkssh Emperor He did it, and was presently sent back again with other Orders to that proud Monarch, who would not hearken to Reason on the Affair of Transilvania That second Ambassie was much longer, and more fortunate than the first, for it lasted seven Years, and ended in a good Treaty * Let us not forger, that tho' he neglected nothing of what concern'd the *Ev opi-Affairs of the Lmbassy, yet he did not cease to libour for the Republick of Learning, soil is Busas well with regard to that Bart which we cill Critical, as to that of Nitural Philoso-beam de phy He collected (E) Inscriptions, he bought up (F) Manuscripts, he sought for legatione rare Plants, and inform'd himself of the Niture of Animals. There are Proofs of There are Proofs of all this to be found, either in the Treasure of Gruterus, or in the Imperial Library, or in † Melebior the Books of Mathiol, and 'tis well known that in his second Voyage to Constantinople he took a Painter along with him, that he might be the to communicate to Jurise the Curious, at least Tigures of the Plants and Besils which are not well known in Pag 318 the Western Parts of Europe He dived perfectly into the State of the Ottoman Empire, Intituled, and the time Means of attacking it with Success, upon which he composed ill very De remijudicious Discourse The Relation which he compos'd of his two Journeys into Tur- litaricontum de se. key is also a good Work, and which deserves the Approbation (G) of those who know mestribus how to judge of such Writings He had a 4 mind to pass the Remainder of his struenda

Days confibunt

‡ Epift 4

The Denomination of an Embassy is not taken from the Town, where an Ambassador has his Audience, but from the Court to which he is fent It would be a pleasant thing if an Ambassador of the I mperor to the King of England, who not findthe Imperor to the King of England, who not finding that Prince at London, had gone to him into i peg 105;
he and in 1690 should boast of two Embassies, the one into England, and the other into Ireland, but it might very well be said, if he publish'd a Relation, that it contains his Voyage to London, and his Voyage to Dablin I must mend another I ault When Melchin Adam mentions Bushether I ault When Melchin Adam mentions Bushethe I mperor to the King of England, who not findquius's Curiofity for Drugs and Plants, he fays he undertook a Journey to Arrasia to make a Collection of Plants, and such like Rarities He adds, that Amalia is fituate on the River Halys, which di-vides Galatia from Cappadocia What I have alvides Galatia from Cappadocia ready faid is sufficient to shew that he made a Voyage to Amasia out of Necessity, and not out of Curiosity That Town does not stand upon the Halys, but upon the Iris

induciis

dum deferri ref-pursum referrique postet in-

Convenit

ter nos

bulque

reruin

induciis

& iumma gestarum certio-rem 16

P 119

(1) Id

epift 4

360

PAE 372,

(e) Suffe-

aus Bul-bequius

qua erat anımı modestia

& impeectis Octennii

dducus

in Germa

miain re-vertitus

Hec pri-ma illius in Afiam legatio, altera A-mafiana

fuit Val

Andreas,

PAE 93

atque constantia mitigato Solimanni animo,

(D) Only obtain'd a Truce of fix Months]
We have here an egregious Instance of what I said before, that few Writers have consulted the Originals with respect to Busbequius The Author of his Life whose Name is prefixed to his Works, tells us, that Busbequius did so soften the fierce Humour of Soliman, that he obtained from him a Truce for eight Years, Prout, as he goes on, latius & legations Turcica Epiflolis patet This is what he d legations Turcice Epiflolis patet This is what he ascribes to him with respect to his first Lmbassy, as to the second, he is contented to call it Amasi-What a Confusion ! The first produced only (a) a Truce of fix Months, the second produced a Treaty which (b) the Emperor Ferdinand ratified, and contain'd a Truce for eight Years Valrius Andre makes yet more Faults than the Author of Busbequis's Life He pretends, that the Grand Signion breathed nothing but Threats and War, because of the Trenty of Luckings which Ferdinand had concluded concerning Trans filvania, and that there being a necessity of tending an Ambassador to pacifie the Sultan Malwezzi was pitched upon, who was first put in Principle, and some time after released, and return'd surpose account of the surpose accoun without concluding any thing, but that Bushequius, (1) who was appointed to succeed him, did not return into Germany until he had concluded a Truce of eight Years Let us not repeat the Confutation of this last Fault, but only say, that John Maria Malvezzi was fent to the Port before (d) the Exchange of Transilvania was spoken of, and that he was imprison d for having deceived the Grand Vizier, by affuring him that all the Reports which ran of Ferdinand's Enterprizes upon the Principality of Transilvania were false Cum jam potito totius Transilvania Fordinando certa res esse actue dissimulationi locus relinqueretur, vehementer Turcarum Imperator in Rustanum (he was the Grand Viziet) quod affirmationi Malvezzi tantum fidei ba-buisset, mulio etiam magu in Malvezsum Rustanus tujiu se fraude circumventum clamabat, eneanduc-

(F) He collected Inscriptions] Morers says, that he Pag 31-1 (E) He collected inscriptions I Moreri lays, that he fent them to Scaliger, Lipsius, and Gruterus I do not ask him why he varies from his Guine Melchior Adam, who lays, that Busbequ us font his Inscriptions to Clusius, who sent them to Gruterus, and that the latter inserted them in his great Collection with the Corrections of Scaling I do not useful on this special of the property of the propert ger, I do not insist on this, since I find in Bus-bequius's Life, that he communicated several Inicriptions to Lipsius, by whose Means they were publish'd in the Collections of Smetius, and in that of Gruterus This helps Mr Morers, but not fo far as to discharge him of all the Burthen It must not be forgot, that the Publick is indebted to our Busbequius for the Monumentum Ancyranum, which would be one of the most curious and most mestructive Inscriptions of Ant quity, is it were whole, for we should see a List in it of all the Actions of Augustus Busbequius (f) passing through Ancyra, a City of Galaira, took a Copy of all that remain d legible of that Inscription on the Marble of a ruin'd Palace, and ient it to (g) the Jesuit Schottus You may see in the Suetonius of Mr Grevius what it is, Lipsius and Casauvon have had a Dispute about it

Note, That Mr Gronovius publish'd this Monu mentum Aucyranum at Leiden in the Year 1695, from a more ample and correct Copy than that of Busbequius

(F) He bought up Manuscripts] The Anonymous Panegyrift (b) of the Archduke Alber, frys, that (b) Pag 9
Busbequius enrich d the Imperial Library with a great Number of rise and excellent Manuferipts Why does he stray from his Guides? Why does he not limit himself to the Number of an hundred as others do, Quin & centum amplius antiques cum Graces tum Latina in membranu calamo examples and the stray of the stray rata volumina media in Gracia studiosè collecta in Casaream Vienna Austria Bibliothecam intulit (1) I do says he, magnam farraginem veterum numismatum quorum pracipuis donabo Dominum meum Adha librorum Gracorum manuscriptorum tota pla stru, to as naves, sunt, credo, libri haud multo infi 1 24, ques mari misi Venetias, ut inde Vicinam deporten-tur Gonverti omnes angulos ut quiegu d restabit bujusmodi mercis, tanquam novissimo Spiciligio, co-

gerem (G) Which descrives the Approbation] Mr de Thou fays this of it (1), Vir erudisione, rerum agendarun perisia, candore & probitate insignis qui unam asyic alteram legationem ad Portam Othomanicam Jub Iei- lib 104 dinando Cesare magna sua cum laude gessit, & ele- pag 489. gantissimis ac lectu jucundissimis epistolis explicavit, ex quibus quar plurima in hos Annales me transcripsiffe ingenue profitsor, (m) Mr seisser reduces the Letters (m) Teisser of Auger Bushequius to two It may be he made clog taken use of an Edition wherein Mr Thuanus acknowledged but two, for it is true, that there were no more published at first Lewis Carriou to 2 p 189 published these two at Answerp by Plantin in the Year 1581, without knowing whether the Author would be pleased with it or not, he only quibus quar plurima in hos Annales me transcripsife

(f) Epift 1 pag 87

(g) Milch Adar : ubi si pra

(i) Melch Adam a t Jurisc pag 316 alto Bil+ lart Acad des sciene t 1 p. 80

4 Sub fin

(1) Thuan

٧,

(d) See the first Letter of Busbec

(e) Ibid POE 87

316

Tord

Days in Private Life, but was obliged to re-imbark more than ever in the see the Affairs the Court He was antrusted a with the Government of the young Remark A. Princes, Sons of Maximilian II. And when the Princes Elizabeth Daughter of that Emperor, was married y to Charles IX, King of France, The had the Commission to conduct her to Para That Queen give him all the Administration of her House and Affairs, and when she quitted France after the Death of her Husband, she lest ham there as her Ambassador & He had also that Character from a the Emperor Rhodolphus till 1592 At which time having obtained Leave to take a Journey into Flanders to set his own private the interpretation of Normandy Bur he had in vain furnished himself with the King's Passes, and with those of the Consederacy, for he was robb'd (H) and abus'd by a Confederate Party in the Village of a Casili three Leagues from Roan. These Robfederate Party in the Village of a Cailli three Leagues from Roan. These Robbers durft not detain him Prisoner, nor take away his Baggage, when they re-3 Thuan flected on what he represented to them concerning the inviolable Privileges of his Character, but though they return'd him his Liberty and his Trunks, yet it interrupted his Journey He caus'd himself to be brought to the Lady of w Bullart Acad of Mailler's House at St. Germains, near Rouen, where he was taken with a Pever, which carried him off, after some Days, on the 28th of October 1592. His Body Sciences r 1 p 8 t

only hoped it would not displease him too highly. The Title of these two first was, Hi-(a) Apud highly The Title of these two first was, winera Constantinopolitanum & Amassanum Some time after appear'd sout more under the Title of Au-(b) This is after appear'd four more under the little of Augerin Gistinis Busbequin legations Turence epistela quation. They have been printed several times, Scaliger has prais'd them highly, and Francis Hosman (a) cites them in his I reatise of the Office of an Ambassador, as a Book worthy of that Character, and which contains ample Lessons for those who are imploy'd in those high Functions. It's wrong to consider these four Letters (b) as a different Work from that which boars the Title of tracers Constantination of Amawhat Melchior Adam, Sweit, Valerius Andreas, Moreri, Pope Blount. the Title of Isinera Constantinepolitanum & Amaand berift figure. They do not otherwise differ from it than as the whole differs from some of its parts. As to Bushqueen's Letters to Resulphus do who make the number concerning the Ambassy of France, they conof bis epistolæ Turcicæ lencon in the Netherlands, and were not publishlencon in the Netherlands, and were not published till 1632, curonte Jo Baptifio Houwart J C & Patricio Bravellense The following Year they were reprinted at Leyden with all the Works of Busbequias By the Way, Mr do Thuanus in the Words I have quoted, places these two Ambassies in the Reign of Ferdinand I He is in the right of it, but Mr Telsser (c) does not agree with him, since he will have at that Bushequias's Ambassies were possessor to the Office ſtv, #s Melch Adam #nd Konig (c) Ubi Inpra p 190 (d) Cum Busbebequius's Amballies were posterior to the Office quius noof Governor to the Emperor Maximilan's Children Currion was not very exact when he faid, that the Ambassies of Turky (d) belong to the Reign of Ferdinand, and to that of Mammilian Imp Ferdmandi & Maxi-They who would know the Elogies which have miliani been given to our Busheymus, need only confult Sir Thomas Pope Blowns, at the 554th Page, and Lewis Guicetarum at the Place where he ipeaks of Commines in the Description of the apud I urcam Oritous paripeaks of Commines in the Description of the Netherlands Fle lays, that Bushequius spoke seven Languages perfectly well; (viz.) Latin, Itahun, French, Spanish, German, Dusch and Sciarandan The Letters Patents of the Emperor singlement of a Promotion to the Order of Knighenoul, wherewith Maximilan, King of the Romans, honour'd Bushequius, doserve a Panegyrick; shay are (c) dated the third of spiral 1564 Such of his Historical Medications.

The Author of the Miscellanes of History and tes agerct Epift dedicat ad Nicolaum Micautium which be believes to be the Same to a hom Busbe-Quius mro c bis Relations (L) Swert Athen Bely (f) seg-noul Mar-

The Author of the Miscellanies of History and Internture has given so fine a Judgment of one of Bushequius's Works, that I can't forbear copying it Burbequius's Lectors to the Emperor Reddolph 11 (f) fays ite, contain where Marrer and are much n ore useful oban these of Bongat's They were musumal Draught of the Affairs of France in the Reign of Chentry III He relates Matter with so much Perspicately, that they seem to be translated before our Dats in so small a Discourse Theorem Motions of the County in so small a Discourse Theorem Motions of the County, were equally well described there The Possess or Answers, we equally well described there The Possess or Answers (as one may say) in which he places Honry III the Resen Mother, the Duke of Aleman, the King of Navatra Resen Margatta, the Duke of Gaille, the Duke Duke of Date, and the other Coursess and Foreuries n ore ufeful shun those of Bongar's They were warmal wille, Mrlanges d' Hift & de Litter $ 52, 13. Edit of itouen, 1099 of those times shew 'em to us in such a manner as discovers their firing and their weak Side, the good and the bad in 'em in a word, Busbequius's Letters are a Model of writing well for Ambasadors who are to a Model of writing well for Ambassadors who are to give their Masters on Account of what passes in the Courts where they reside

(H) He was robb'd and abus'd Before I give account of the Variations and Fassities configuration in Busbassus's Death, I shall say that Mr. Thuanus ought not to have forgot that that good Man was an Ambassador from the Emperor to the Court of France He did what he could (g) to make his Readers believe that Busbassus had no other Character there than that of Agent of the Widow of Charles IX As for what he adds, that the Leaguers who stoot and plunder'd him. that the Leaguers who stopt and plunder'd him, joined to this the most cruel Treatment, which broke his Heart, while they waited for Letters from the Duke de Maienne, I find it no ways conformable to the Narrative of other Authors Melchier Adam, Swertsus, Valersus Andre, the Life which is at the head of his Works, Bullars, &c agree that all his Baggage was return'd to him, that he was left at full liberty to go where he pleas'd, that the Governor of Romen promis'd him to punish those Villains, and that he got himself carried to the House, where he died, only because he had some Symptoms of the Sickhols which seiz'd him a little Symptoms of the Sickness which seiz'd him a little after. This we must stack by as the most probable. Account, for as to the Rumour which went about, and which was credited by some Authors, (vin) that he was kill'd in a Wood, the Felsity of it is long since known. The good Philip (h) was 5 Camerarius was not undeceived in it when he was hilled his Historical Meditations, for here is 3 well a Passage of it (h) from the French Translation it is every way a lamentable Case that so excellent a Main, who had done so much good to the Publick, and (i) He was had been tweet ambassage of a Constantinople from only so to what Burperers, whence he came laste, after having hap. Forder was oven twice ambassisder at Constantinople from only so to the st. Emperors, whence he came safe, after having hap. Forder overcome many Dangers, should at last in a Journey nand a prosest by a Gang of High-way Men, a Person worthy of a longer Life, and a milder Death

Noither was Scaliner undeceived he save (1) about

Neither was Scalinger undeceiv'd, he fays (1) that the Busbequius was kall'd near Para I should not wonder that Lipsus, who was one of Busbequius's pood Honry Friends, should in a heat mention the pretended Nurther in an Epitaph on the Credit of common Barnes, but at a factor when the common beauty in Fame; but it is ioniewhat strange that at nine Years end he should consecrate that Error, and being advertis'd of it, should not take care to correct that Epitaph It is still to be seen in all (m) read the Editions of his Works with that original Sin, vocce fuftulis viam per ipfam miles incertum an latre, fed (m)Lipfan fusiulis You find it also uncorrected in divers Au- epist 78 thors who speak of Auger Busbequius. Lipsus can ad Belga thors who speak of Auger Bussequius., Lipsus can ad Belgion not be excused on the score of the Affection of Poets for thoir Works, nor on the Experimental Poets for thoir Works, nor on the Experimental Poets, who having composed in moneur of some Friend whom they thought to be dead, have, nevertheless, put thor, of whom I speak, did the same in Profe, 1918 90, 1918 may see in Still in the Letters: (n) In Bussection Missell was honourably interr'd in the Church of the Place, and his Heart carried to "Melch the Netherlands to be plac'd in the Tomb of his Ancestors". He was so well Adam & pleas d with France, that (I) he bought some Lands there, and seem'd as if he design'd to settle there. The Speeches which he had made to the Kings of H forre de France in French, are much † praised Bushequius's Estate was erected into a || Barony I Archiduce by the Archduke Albert Governour, and afterwards Sovereign of the Spanish Ne-Albert

This Prince would thereby honour the Memory of his Governour and Printed at berlands That Prince would thereby honour the Memory of his Governour, and Cologne express his Acknowledgment to him

BUSBEQUIUS (Augerius Gistenius) See Busbequius before

BUSIRIS. If we believe Diodorns Siculus, there have been divers Bustris's in du Maine Egypt For he relates 4 that Osiris having a great Expedition in his Head, declar'd 475 the Queen his Wife & Regent, and gave her two Lieutenants, the one for Counsel, His de the other to command the Forces, and that he gave the Government of Phænicia, Parchid and the multime Places to Busins In another Place, he says, that after 52 Princes Abort p had successively possess the Throne of Menas, from whom they were descended, 9.5 372

Business became king of Egypt Eight of his Descendants, continues he, succeeded—

Diod

Similar Diod

Similar Diod ed him, the last of which was call'd Busires, and built the magnificent and power- 1 cap 17 ful City which the Greeks call'd Thebes The same which the Egyptians call'd the Ashe was of one Business, was a Fable of the Greeks, but a Fable which had for its Foundation a Custom practis'd in Egypt They sacrificed all the s red-hur'd People s id ib that they cou'd find to the Ghost of King Osiris, and as the Natives of the Sthirman Country, were hirdly ever of the Country, we have a second country were hirdly ever of the Country were hirdly ever of the Country were hirdly ever of the Country were a second country. Country were hardly ever of that Complexion, there were few, except Strangers, out of Harwho ferv'd tor Victims Now in the Egyptian Language, Business figurated the Science Typhon pulchre of Osins This is the Original of the Story which pass'd for current among who was the Greeks, That Business King of Egypt was so barbarous, as to order the Thioats of this of all Strangers to be cut \(\begin{align*} \limits & \text{iuppos} \\ \limits & \text{iuppos} \\ \limits & \text{that he himself was facrificed } \((A) & \text{ by } \)

Hereules, \((A) & \text{ by } \)

And had \((A) & \text{ by } \) Hereules, \((A) & \text{ of On-position of the position of the pos quis morte & tali morte in animo meo delui tum bunc virum per tot discrimina apud exteros, apud barbares, ut in limine fere patriæ latrenum manibus (ita audimus) periret? He had been advertised of that (a) Lalfhood, and yet did not correct it As for what remains, since his Letter is dated the 11th of January (13 13x(11, it should from thence be concluded that Bubequin's Death has not been well noted under the 28th of Officber not been well noted under the 28th of Ottober 1592 I fay, this Conclusion must be drawn from it, if it were not more reasonable to suspect the Omission of an I, there For I see no kind of likelihood that Lipsius should date his Letter according to the Style of those who do not begin the Year from January

(a) De Busbe-

quii morte, fc10

errorem sed adnotabitur & tamen famam epifolz non historiam

wi infer-tum Id

epift $1 cent 4 Mıscel (b) De Patriis piror 11-Luftr pag Pot (c) The

Selectarum Or

her Ediions have r,Miscelanearum

(1) Justus Lipfius ent 2 pift se-lest 99

(d) Thuon hift l

to pag 122

I cannot end this without giving an Example of the little Care Authors take to verifie ample of the little Care Authors take to verifie what they deliver at a Distance from the Fountain-head Quensical (b) assures us, That Busbequius was not only an excellent Politician, grave and prudent, but also that he was a great Lover of good Literature, and above all, that he was very curious in natural Philosophy For this, he cites a Letter (c) of Justus Lipsus, wherein only these Words are to be found, Susvem fammer reliquist dostrine sus, prudentia, probitate Muscher Adam, without giving himself any farther Trouble, for if he had only consider'd what Melchio Adam had grounded his Citation upon, he would have thought himself oblig'd to keep within the same Bounds I shall set down the whole Passage, that it may serve for a Scare-Crow to Transcribers This is the Judgment that ought to be made of divers Things which I set down It is not for their own Sakes that I do it, but that they may serve for a Looking-Glass in which Compilers may see what they ought to avoid Fuit his, 'its the Passage of Melchier Adam was solutious excellent excellent expanse 99th of the 2d Century Looking-Glais in which Compilers may fee what they ought to avoid Fust hic, 'tis the Passage of Melchier Adam, non solum politicus excellens gravis (1) ac prudens sed mansuetiorum etiam Musarum amantusmus ac imprimis rerum naturalium consolimdarum cupidissimus Lipsius is call'd in as a Witness, only to the Elogy of prudent, the rest all of the others own coining (1) That he purchased some Lunds there?

If the others own coming (I) That he purchased some Lunds there Mr Thunds informs me of this I shall give the whole Passage from him, because it confirms what I have faid before (viz.) That it is not Mr Thunds Fault that we are not absolutely ignorant of the Character that Bushequian had in France from his Imperial Majesty There is besides I know not what in this Passage which furfides I know not what in this Passage which surprises the Readers (d) Elizabetho Caroli sixor vidua in Germaniam ad Maximilianum patrem se contulit, relieto in Gallia qui res suas procuraret, Augerio Gistenio Busbequip qui to o vita Elizabetha tempore in Gallia mansit, & post mortem equassive loci commoditate, sive ingeniorum amanitate capius, comparatis apud nos practis larem fixit, donce be calamitatis ultimis temporibus cum novam patriam deferre cogeretur, cum agrè se itineri accingentem mors oppressi. One might naturally conclude from hence i That nothing detain'd the Sieur Busvequius in France, after the Death of the Widow of Charles IX, but the Pleasantness of the Place 2. That there pass much Time between the Death of that Queen, and the Departure of heir Resident, for to buy Lands in a Country, and to six one's Abode there, until the I a't of a 7. to fix one's Abode there, until the Lat or 8 Years civil War drives you from thence, no Things which import more than 8 Months. Yet this is all the Time of that good Man's Asode there, after the Death of the Queen his. I freek I defire no other Witness to this, than Mi Thuanus himself. He tells us, (e) That this Queen (e) Id died about the latter End of January 159, and lib 104 that Busbequius died towards the End of O'tober of the same Year. In this Place the Historian gives no other Reason for his Departure than the Death of Elizabeth Cum vero ille (Busbequius) post principis bene de se merita obitum in Belgium, homast in patriam, cum tota samilia remeaturus ad cer se accinnisset.

(A) That he was sacrific'd himself by Hercules I Things which import more than 8 Months

(A) That he was secrific'd himself by Hercules] Here's what we find upon this Head in Apollodorus (f) After Hercules had kill'd Anteus, he (f) Apolwent into Egypt, where Busires the Son of Neptune, lod B l' of went into Egypt, where Busiris the Son of Neptune, and of Lystanasis the Daughter of Epaphin, was lib 2 p King This Busiris sacrific'd Strangers to Jupiter, this he did in Obedience to an Oracle The Harvests had been very bad for 9 Years successively in Egypt Upon this, there comes a Soothsayer from Cyprus, whose Name was Thrassius, who declar'd that this Misfortune would cease, if they every Year sacrific'd a Stranger to Jupiter Busiris giving Credit to this prophetick Declaration, began to execute it by the Soothsayer himself, and commanded that Thrassius should be sacrific'd first of all, and from that Time treated Strangers in the same manner Hercules was design'd for the same Ceremony, they had seized him, and led him bound to the Altar, but he broke his Chains, and kill d Busiris and sphidamas and Challes. The first was the Son of Osiru, the last was his Herald of Arms Iserates refutes this Story, and hear how They who say that Busiris sacrific'd Strangers, say also that Marine G g g g g g g 1693 p 9 † La (rois T1S 15 c 88

Hercules, whom he wou'd have had the Boldness to have serv'd like the rest. There is a (B) Passage in Virgil concerning Busins, which has exercis'd the Cri- (b) Alteticks and Interpreters. It seems to me, that they do not take Isocrates Right ro modo

(a) Ifocra-Ves in Bufiridis lau datione Pag 333, edit Bafil 1570 in fol

(b) Id 1b PAG 328

(c) Phi-Largyrius In Georg Vingil lib (d) Ov:dius de arte amandi l 1

(e) I irg Georgic 1303

laudatus

(g) Aulus Gellius 1 2

cules kill'd him Now all Historians agree that Hercules liv'd 4 Generations after Perfess and Dana", and above two hurdred Years after Business (a)

The latter was the Son of Neptune, and of Libys the Daughter of Fpaphus, who was the first that reign'd in the Country which bore her Name (b) Note that an old Commentator of Virgil differs a little from Apolledorus as to Circumstances Busiris, says he, (c) Egypti rex omnibus annis Joui hospites immola-bat Nam per otto annos sterilitate Ægyto laboran e, Pygmalion Cyprius finem futurum non ait, nist sanguine bospitis litatum fuisset Primus autem Thyestes alie-nigena immolatus originem sacrificio dedit (d) Ovid reports the Fact just as Apollodorus does

(B) A Passage concerning Busins that has exercised | Virgil places the Cruelties of that Tyrant, among the Stories which the Poets had sung a thousand and a thousand Times over, and which he could not make choice of for the Subject of his Poems, so very trite a Subject it was Catera (c) que vacuas tenuissent carmina mentes Omnia jam vulgata Quu aut Euryfthea durum, Aut inlaudati nescit Busiridu aras?

The Word inlaudati strikes every Reader, Grammar it has been found altogether improper Is it

RE
enough to fay of fo inhuman a Monster

MARKS that he was not praised, or that he deserves no upon the Praise? Ought he not to have made use of a Word in Term which should inspire his Readers with all Term which should inspire his Readers with all the Horror that so much Cruelty deserves? This the Horror that so much Cruelty deserves? This Centure is not new, nor invented by those who are on Mr Perrault's Side, the Grammarians who liv'd a little after Virgil enter'd that Process (f) Auliu against him (f) Nonnulli Grammatici atatis supercellius l rioris in quibius est Cornutus Anname, hand sane indosti neque ignobiles, qui commentaria in Virgilium composurunt illaudati parum idoneum esse verbum dicunt, neque id satis esse ad saciendum sceleration minis detestationem, qui quod hospites emmium gentium immolare solitus fuit, non laude indignus, sed detestatione exservationeque tatius generis humani dignus esse immolare solitus fuit, non laude indignus, sed detesta-tione exsecrationeque totius generis humani dignus esses. There was no more Want of Apologists at that Time than now, and we shall see the two Rea-fons that one of his Advocates in the second Cen-tury alledged in his Defence. In the 1st place he maintains (g) that the Word inlaudatus or illau-datus, signifying a Person who never did any thing Praise-worthy, is very proper to give the Idea of a very wicked. As never to have spoke so profligate and wicked, as never to have spoke fome Word, or done some Action that deserv'd to be approved He adds, that feeing the Term of inculpatus fignifies the utmost Limits of moral Good, that of illaudatus ought to fignifie the Extremity of Malice, and he proves by Passages out of Homer, that the most sublime Praises are contain'd in the exclusive Terms of Impersonant that therefore a Term which excludes Passage. as the most proper in the World for Blance He alledges the Term inamabilis, which Virginal content to use to express the most deteitable. Thing in the World Neme quisquam tam affinitis est meribus, quin faciat aut dicat nonnunquam aliquid quod laudari queat. Unde hic antiquissimus veisus vicem proverbis celebratus est, slowiam you moost ayay pana naiseus stame. Sed enim qui emin more assur pana naiseus stame. re atque omni tempore laude omni vacat, is illaudatus eft, isque omnium pessimus deterrimusque eft ficuti omnis culpa privatio inculpatum facit, inculpatus autem inflar est absoluta virtutis, illaudatus igitur quoque siuis est extrema malisia. Itaque Homerus men virtutibus appellandis sed vitiis detrahendis laudare ampliter solet. Eadem ratione idem virgilius inamaampliter foles Eadem ratione idem virgisius inamabilem divit stysiam paludem, nam sicut illaudatum nala laudis stysion, ita inamabilem nasa amoris sipum detistatus est. The 2d Manner of justifying Pirgil is this In old Latin laudare signified to name, so that idaudatus is the same as illaudabilu, it's supposed that the Poet meant that Businis did not deserve so much as so have his Name mention'd. Now this is much as to have his Name mention'd Now this is expressing the work of that Tyrant very powerfully, it is required in it as the most execrable. Thing in the world (b)

It would be very difficult at present, to judge which are most in the right, the Criticisers of Viral que in act. gil, or his Advocate A Gellin, for to perceive the whole Strength of the Objection, and of the Answer, we ought to know what Idea tuch and fuch Latin Words presented to the Mind in Virgil's Time Argument serves but little in this Matter, because the Force of Words depends altogether on Use Now to know the Use right, we must either live with those who make Use of such a Language, or consult Authors who have clearly and precisely noted the Ideas which answer'd to such and such Words It is very certain, that if one of our modern Poets should make use of the Epithete modern Poets should make the of the Epithete net praised, or not worthy of Praise in speaking of Caligula, he would not only expose himself, without Reply to the Censure that Gellius endeavour'd to refute, but would even be turn'd into ridicule. Always supposing that the Piece wherein he should speak so, was of a grave Style, and not of the Burlesk or comick Kind. It would also not of the Surlesk or comick Kind. It would be an always of the Surlesk or comick. be in vain to offer Cellius's first Reason and losophize on the exclusive Terms of Perfection Sir, might any one answer him Imperfection Sir, might any one answer him used to apply the Idea of a very small Evil to the Word not worthy of Praile, so that when you tell us that Caligula is not worthy of Praise, it is so far from making us conceive a wicked Person and a Monster, that you incline us to think that he was but moderately wicked So that it would be impossible to save wicked So that it would be impossible to lave Virgil's Honour, if in Augustus's Time, Illandatus had been of no greater Force than our English Expression unextoll'd, or unworthy of Praise Gellius's 2d Reason does not remove the Difficulty for if a celebrated Author is permitted to make use of some old Expressions, it is only on Condition that the Word has not alter'd its Natural by the Acquisition of a new Sense. The Condition that the Word has not alter'd its Nature by the Acquisition of a new Sense This ne quis Rule Virgil had violated, if his Expression were ullo in to be judg'd by the Gond Answer of his Advocated In Augustus's The the chief, governing, common Signification of the Words laudare, lautering and datus, inlaudatus, were not to name, named, not Gellius named, not worthy to be named, but to praise, praised, which mad the word inlaudatus in a Signification of laudare, which had no more Place in a manner, but had yielded it to A Gellius without no more Place in a manner, but had yielded it to A Gellino another Signification Besides, that it's a License somewhat vicious to make use of a Word in which no reasonable Sense is to be found, but by the service of which no reasonable Sense is to be found, but by supposing that a Participle was put in the Place of a Noun, and yet what Participle? A Participle which denys the Fastis Word that denys the Right, a Participle therein the Event is sound, an Expression in which is to be found what does not deserve to happen. What shall we say then? I should not for my part think it amis, to suppose that that Place of Virgil, is one of those Verses wherein the Necessity of the and long Syllables engaged the Poet to make and long Syllables engaged the Poet to make of a Word less proper, or even prejudicial the Sense The Quantity of Syllables requires many a such Sacrifice from Poets, in a dead Language, as Rhime requires many such in the

Living
I distinguish'd before between the comick I diffinguish'd before between the common and the grave Style, because I remember'd some popular Ways of Speaking, not unlike the suppraised Caligula The Foot-Pads stripp'd this good old Man to his Shirt, in a Wood cover'd much Snow, this was not over pleasant Such Snow, this was not over pleasant Such received a Musket Shot through the Body Philipibargh, this was not faturiferous. The popular Phrases, or as one may say, They are composed of Terms exclusive of good Outlery. good Quality A Gellius admires Homer, who by such like Words rais'd the Elogy to a superlawho its defenditur*Leu*dare fignificat prif ca lingua nominia appella. Sic inactionibus civilabus au-donalau-donalau-donalau-con somanarı Illandatus cnım est quafi illaudabilu. dan nedage aut more ulle dignus, neque unquam nominandus isft ∫ S1-W duondam > ni concimen cjus, qui templum Diana Epheliæ in cenderar, Saturnaà commu-

who say (C) the made the Panegrick of that instamous Tyrant Busins *Inchrist It is not contact there ever was a (D) King of that Name in Egypt, but we must own there was a City in Egypt (E) of that Name Melanchibon * thought it likely enough that Businss was the same Pharaob who caused the Children of the Israelites to be destroy'd. Orosius places him (F) 775 Years before the Foun-Mechinical Pharaob. dation of Rome BUSLEIDEN (Jerom Latin Bushidius, illustrious by his Embissies, and by the few Months the College of three † Languages before his the University of Lowvain I shall add very little to what has been said of Death, he him in Moreri's Dichaphary I do not believe that he was the Maker of (A) his own Fortune, as the firm d in that Dictionary He was much regreted by Eras-dewment for the Verses, Specifies, and Fpistles of his making, were found at Bruges, a long Maintenance of the A Death I do not know that the Publick has seen any Thing of mance of the Proceedings.

tive Degree They are doubtless Privileges of the Greek Tongue, on which Latin Authors ought not to have made the Reflection which Martial (a) made in another Case, if the learned Casaubon has justify'd Livy well It is thought a little strange, that that Roman was satisfied with calling Polybius no despicable Author (b) According to our Idea's, it is a very mean Elogy, an Author cannot be more moderately prais'd, quibusest nevertheless Cafaubon (c) proves by I know not how many Examples, that that Expression of Livy, is of an extensive Signification to the Homes and Clory of Believe III allows nour and Glory of Polybius I II allow it, it s a strong Proof of the Capitacousness of Custom in matter of Speech (C) When it is said, that Isocrates made the Panegyrick of Busiris] Almost all they who give the List of Writers, that have diverted their Pens in praising Evil, as for Example, Fever, Gout, Folly, Nero (d), place Isocrates in the first Rank, as the Panegyrist of Busiris Is they had the Speech which they have taken for that

(a) Dirange ta-

Græcı

nihil negarum, Et quos decer to bis non

I-mus fe-veriores Martial

epig 12

guaquam

fpernendus author Liwins 1 30

ın fine

(c) Prefet

(d) Infa-

mes materias, five quis mavult dice-

re mopiquasGræ

CI alleuc

THE TOTAL

licet of the Mufas co-Tyrant's Panegyrick, with any kind of Attention, I am certain they would have made these two Ressections First, That Isocrates schief Aim is to criticise an Orator (e) who had composed Bussier's Flogy, and the Accusation of Socrates He criticises that Elogy on this Foot, That the Author had own'd the Evil that was said of Bussier and had not made the most of the Good (b) Haud first, and had not made the most of the Good which might have been and thim These are the grossest Defects of a Penegyrist Upon this Isocrates assumes the waste of a Pedagogue, and shews that Orator what might be said to the Glory of Bustin The Second Resection is, that effectates in pointing out, to this bad Panegyrist, the common Places which he ought to chuse, and the Manner how he ought to treat them to make Businer's Elogy, shews none but very good and very laudable Actions which he pre-

Togod and very laudable Actions which he pretends ought to have been attributed to him. He does not allow of the Cruelty that is attributed to that Prince wilds Strangers, neither does he invent Read wilds the Cruelty in his Hero, and who had owned the Cruelty in his Hero, and who had also amplify'd it, and as for him, the ship was him the Way (f) to refute it, (g) Togera and who had also amplify'd it, and as for him, the ship was him the Way (f) to refute it, (g) Togera way fine surgering the surgering of surgering the surgering of surgering surgering the surgering of surgering the surgering of surgering surgering surgering the surgering surgering surgering the surgering surgering surgering the surgering surge Eires une actumiteines an it unitegum antes ans a gompec "Tale Tantum abest ut eam in dicendo rationem tu Seculus sis, ut Busicidis desensionem prosessus, non mo-dò crimina qua illi obsiciuntur, non resutavieris, sed O tam insignem ei notam immanitatis inusseris, ut nibil contumeliosius excepitari queat Nam cum alii quibus illi maledicere visum eft, unam in co mattationem bespitum execrentur tu etiam deverare bomines folisumes criminatus So that it's evident he out to be plac'd among those who wrote on wacked Things, seeing that be-

Orations, being rather a Criticism of Elogy that was made on Busings, than the Elogy it self, he does not undertake the Defence of the Crimes which are imputed to that He supposes in nubibus, that divers fine Addisons of that Prince might be described, tho'

he confesses he has no good Author to warrant Greek, 'em, but he says, that the Orator whom he cilticifes, cannot quarrel with him on that Head, he who advances much more incredible Things without any Proof. He does not deny but the Objection would be good in the Mouth of another. Is not this declaring, that he had very little Regard for the Honour of Busins, and that he meant nothing more than to shub an impertment Panegyrist? From A of the Note the Greek. umoduto Ego vero, si quis alius hoc mili opponeres, erudite me ab eo repreb i di putarem Sed tibi sie argumentari nesas es (b) So that to me it seems that Servius Winted Exactness when he said (i) that inlaudatus in Virgil ought to be taken for iliandabilis His Reason is, that since Isona is praised Bisl Anthat Prince, it could not be said that Busins die Bibl. was a Man who had never been prais'd Sirvin Relg pag would have done better if he had cited the (k) 387 Orator criticised by Isociates, for that Orator (h) Ibid prais'd Business, considered by the same View in pag 3,3 which Virgil confiders him

(D) It is not certain that there es r was a Bistiris (D) It is not certain that there est r was a Busins winGeorg King of Egypt] Strabo cites Eratoshenes, who l, vs affirms, that there had been no King nor I years, (k) Cumwhose Name was Busins, but that the Scory that til an l 2 was published of him, was founded on the Cru- e 17 does elty which the Inhabitants of the City and Pionous City which the Inhabitants of the City and Pionous City of that Name | Divers Authors but this make mention of it It was built about the Ora or middle of Egypt, in the Delta There was a very (1) Ouds fine Temple of Iss, and the Iomb of Ossis to be $8.47\text{ as feen in it Some said, that Iss having caused the the Iomb of Ossis to be feen in it Some said, that Iss having caused the

feen in it Some faid, that Ifis having caused the Body of Ofiris to be put (m) into an Ox of with These Wood, had built that Tome for him This might have been the Etymology of that City's The Name Others pretend that it was so call'd become of the Comments cause Osiris gave the Government of it to Bustiers (n) We have said in the Body of the Arris (n) ticle, that according to Diodorus Siculus, there was one Busiris, whom Osiris left Governour of Phenicis, and the maritime Cities, upon his fetting out-on a great Expedition Isocrates relates (o) that Business leaving Lybia where he was born, and where his Mother reign'd, went into Egypt, and founded a Kingdom there Without doubt, and sounded a kingdom there without doubt, 77 Fast was in the Country that bore his Name, 552 for there was not only a City in Egypt that was (m) It must call d Bussirs, but also a Government, or a Nomos be read in (p) of that Name That City was laid in Rubbish in the Reign of Dioselesian (q) on the Score nus, By-raintinus of Rebellion

(F) Orosius places him 775 Years before the Foundation of Rome | Eusebius makes him live in Joshua's Time, about 700 Years before Romulus built Rome See here the Words of Orosius (r) Bustridis in Ægypto cruentissimi tyranni crudelis hospitalitas & crudelior religio tunc fuit, qui innocentum hospitum sanguinem dis scelerum suorum participibus propinabat. St Augustin (s) spoke almost in the fame Strain

(A) That he was the Maker of his own Fortune] Stephan He had a Brother whole Name was Francis, who was (#)Stepha-

* In Chron 111., three Pro-feffors, one in Latin. and one in Hebrew ptor Sæc See the madin his Praise, epift 6 (1) Serviu inGeorg Ed Tuesari GEOHOLIDO Cum medius fidius nullus neque rev firs nec tyrannus. Strib lib 17 PM (m) it mult 72mtinus Sel Jal TII பெரு Har or ge This is Mr Bochart's Correction. See Berkelius in nus de urbibus voce Banks he does hardly any more than copy II rodotus; l 2 c 50 (0) In Busiredis laudatione pag 329 (p) S rabo und Supra (q) Eusebius in Chron (r) Oros lib 1 cap 11 (1) August de civit Det 1 18 6 12

* Thuanus

13 pag 7 7 † 1d 1b

1bid

4 Chorier.

abrier de 1 Hiftoire

elop to 2 pas 4-3

his, except a Letter that was printed with the Utopia of Sir Thomas Moor great Mistake to say that Cardinal Ximenes sounded some Colleges by his (B) ₹ In 2 wol In A

BUSTAMANTINUS (John) Professor of Philosophy and Physick in the University of Complutum, his Country, made a Book that is admirable, if regard be had (X) to the Title It was printed at Complutum, (in the year 1595, and at wol in 8 8 Pag 31 Lyons , in the year 1602 C

BUTAS, a Greek Poet, Author of a Work in Elegiack Verse, wherein he gave A Allard the Regions of the Pagan Ceremonies Plutarch quotes him (1) in the Life of B bliothe-8 Romulus In my Opinion, they who doubt that Arnobius quotes him (Z) are in que de i auphiné ·he wrong pag 41

BUTLO (John) a fimous Mathematician of the XVIth Century, was born at Charpet near Valencia in Dauphine x. He was a I riar of St Anthony, and yet studied the Mathematicks with the utmost Application. He invented divers Instruments and Machines, and composid (A) several Works * He published one, among others, on de Dau-ph ne apud his Books, for he was forced to quit his Residence, and go to Romans, where he

the Dimensions of Nosh's Ark, wherein he shew'd, that it might easily contain all the Animals that were shut up in it, and the necessary Provisions for their Subsistance, during the I lood He disputed against his Master Oronce Fine, about the squaring of the Circle † The Civil War on the score of Religion, which laid the Kingdom wiste, especially Dauphini in the first year of the Reign of Charles IX, tore him from died of Melancholy in 1564, aged 75 Years Mr Thuanus || gives this Account, but another Historian more credible (B) in this Point than he, affirms, 4 that Buteo

(a) Fledu Card Aimenes hou I pag 17 dist at Hod

(1) Id 16 par 192

(ı) Era∫m 1bid

(a) 1 be 40 of the 3d Book

(i) M ratis ac fripter f cult 16, pag 1 , و2 س

(f) 1b.d An one Bib Hilp tom 1 Pig 905 Joannes de Buff 1munte de laCamara, and Says be was a Na-TIVE of Complutun was Pieceptor to Pince Philip, the Tather of the Imperous Charles V That Preceptor always preferved a great Power over the Mind of his Different and the Power over the Mind of his Different and the Power over the Mind of his Different and the Power over the Mind of the Power over the Mind over Imperious Charles V I hat Preceptor always preferved a great Power over the Mind of his Disciple, and was made Archbishop of Bexanson Having seconded the Solicitations of the Ambashidors of Ferdinand and Isabella, (a) he overcome Philip's kelustance for the Voyage of Spain (b) He was given him for his Counsellor, and died and the Year Isco I le was much lamented by that Prince, whose Affection he had gain'd by his Interity and Prudence. This is what I bornow from the Life of Cardinal Limenes, composed by the Lloquent Mr Flechier, Bishop of Nismos. I here's all the Ground in the World to believe, that the Archbishop of Bexanson, with the Credit he had in the Netherlands, made his Brother jerom's I creune. They had a Brother, whose Name was Giles, who had a Place in the king of Spain's Treatury. He was Executor of from's Will, as to what related to the College of the three Linguiges Erasmusexhorts him in a Letter (c) not to justice himself to be diverted from so laudable an I xecutorship. In another Letter (d) he recommends a converted Jew to him, as a very fit Perion to teach the Hebrow Tongue in that new College. He was a Spanish Physician whole Name was Matthew Adrian, he was admitted to the Professionish, for which Erasmus judged him sit and so which he quitted Germany. That Profession read his sits Lecture the 1st of December (e) 1518.

(f) That by his Example Cardinal Ximenes 1 There laudable an I xecutorship In another Letter (d)

(I) That by his Example Cardinal Ximenes] There was but three Months difference between the Death of Buffeiden, and the Cardinal's, and he had laid the Jimber-work of the Roof of his University ot Alcala, some Years before his Death le Mre committed the Error of which I ipeak Fa corre laus, lays he, Bustidio nofro debetur qued (e) N colas primus in orbe Christiano collegium trilingue infituit Cujus d'inde exemplum secuti sunt alir, in his Fran-ciscus I. Rex I utetia in Gallia & Franciscus Ximenius tenius Complute in Huspania (f)

(X) If we judge of it by the Tisle] I his is it Toannis Bustamantini Camerensis (g), apud Compluten-Jes Philosoph & & Medicina primaria moderatoris publici, de animalibus Scriptura Sacra Opiu eximia anudetimus & utilitatis, cum Theologie tam Scholasticu, quam concionatoribus sacris, scripturaque interpretibus, tum Modicis, Philosophis, & sis qui de bella literarum supullesile bene situate. Mr Bochare quotos this Book sometimes in his Historion, which runs on the same Subnet

(r) Pluturch quotes him] It is in the Place where he if ciks of the Lupercalia Burns of the abrins pubadeic εν ελογοίοις πορί των βαμαικών αναγράφω , φάζε (b) Causas fabulosas Butas quidam in Elegius rerum (b) Plus Romanarum prodis He was perhaps but an ordinary Author enough, yet he might be very useful page 31 if we had him at present Our Criticks would find Gold in that Dunghil, I mean the Explication of divers things which are not well under-flood concerning the Religion of the Pagans

(2) That Annobius quotes him are in the wrong] After having faid that Fauns or the good Goddeis, having drunk a full Barrel of Wine unknown to her (1) Arno-Husband, was whipt with Rods of Myrtles, he bius adadds, for which reason Myrtle is forbid when the versus Women celebrate the Feast of the good Goddess, genter 1 5 and he cites Butas (1). Nec myrteas fas fit suferre p m 168 verbenas ficut sus scribit in Causalbus Butas. They Vossius de who were ignorant that there ever had been Hist Græsuch an Author in the World, corrected that word pag 337 io often itill at last they made Plutarch of it First they made Plutarch of it First they put Puter instead of Buter, and then Plutero (k) Harelinstead of Putas, and last of all, they have said (k) Heral that Flutar was the Abbreviation of Plutarch (k) due notis That Conjecture feem'd fo much the happier to in hunc them, as it is certain that Plutarch (1) has faid what Arnobia alledges However, let us be affur'd that Arnobia Armobius cited Butas, for nothing hinders but that adopts all which is read in Plutarch concerning the Inter-this diction of the Myrtle, may be found yet more clearly in the Work of this same Butas, who was (1) In his quoted by Plutarch

(A) And compoid many Works] Here are the Treatife of Titles of some of them Delibra & states Cujus his arrive forms & capacitatis fuerit area Nov De sublicus passe, pulsaines, te Casaris Explanatio ad Quintiliani locum Geometri- so called, Emendatio figurationis organi a Columella deserge in Romu-De fluviationi insuliis, secundum jus civile divides 10 & Cadu De quadraturus circulorum tam antiquis quam mo-vus Le fluemis aqua mensura Ad problema cubs duplicandi Geometria cognitio Jureconsulto necessaria Ad legem Juliani Si ita icriptum Ad legem Africa- Hist Ad legem Juliani Si ita icriptudii An regem Africa- Lain ni Qui quadraginta Ad locum Vitruvii de propor- Grae tione lapidum corruptum refitutio You will find pag 337 some other Titles in Mr Teiffer (m) The Sieur Allard (w) says that Buseo translated the Meneloge, (m) Addition and the Horiege of the Greeks and the Horloge of the Greeks

(B) Another Historian more so be credied in this flagestume. Historian is diagrestume. The Preference which I give im se founded on this that his Work is confined to the Province of Dauphine Configuratly it to be prefumed that he drew his Account from more exact Memoirs than Mr Thuanus, concerning the Illustrious Men of that Province, (n) Biblious for Mr Thuanus collected Memoirs indifference page 42

millo. apud Vo fium de tions and & renely ne pag 42

died in the Just 1500 in the Abby of St. Anthony; whereby those of the Protestant Thus they Religion are absolved of the Crime of having caus'd the Death of that learned Person his Polish Besides the Mathematicks he understood Greek and the Law very well. He wrote fome good Books of Civil Law. See Mr Moreri at the Word (C) Boteon,

Bzowski

BZOVIUS * (Abraham) has been one of the most famous Writers of the XVIIth † 2011 Century, by the aftonishing Fecundary of his Pen. Some maintain, that it's no Hyperbole to say, that he compos'd more Books than others have read Two † Pages could hardly contain the Titles only of his Writings The chief of his Books is the bine one Continuation of Baronias. He began at the Year 1198, where that Cardinal had Paging onded, and compos'd receive Volumes of Annals of the Church, which are not all caperent fanus Ningered as yet. They were (A) not much valued at first. He was a Pole and a Doccus Eryminican. Being come to Rome, he was received there with open Arms by the Pope, threus and lodg'd in the Vatican He deserv'd that Reception, for he imitated Baronius won- ubi infra, derfully in his manner of turning all things to favour the Plenary Power, and raise || There are the Glory of the Papal See His inconsiderate and irregular Zeal drove him into nine of 'em Proceedings whereof he had reason to repent He had very much abus'd the Emprinted, peror, Lewis of Bavaria, and raz'd him ignominiously out of the Citalogue of Emprinted, perors. The Duke of Bavaria was so incensed at this Audaciousness, that not significant and significant the state of the tisfied with causing an Apology to be writ for that Emperor, he brought a formal logne is Action against the Annalist, and got him condemn d to (B) make a publick Rc- 1616 The tractation Browns did not get off for this Disgrace, he was treated like (C) a Dog Jeven folion the Apology of Lewes of Bavaria, which George Herwart publish'd, and which made lowing great Breaches in the Reputation of the Dominican It's pretended, that Simon Stades of the Could be a could be a greated by the Could be a could be a greated by the Could be a greated by the Could be a could be a greated by the could be a grea rovol/cius repair'd them (D) the best he could Browsus would have expected Death sameTown, in the Vatican, if the Murther of one of his menial Servants had not struck him with one after a Terror, which oblig'd him to retire into the 4 Convent of Minerva The Murtherer was fitted to undertake any thing, by the (E) Life he had lead Bzvoin 1641

Vius The ninth mas printed at Rome in

(g) Maima cad de rently concerning Illustrious Men of all Coun-tries, and he treated that Part as a small Accesfory His chief Design was to give the History of France, and that of all Europe

(C) Mr Morers of Manuford Boteon This is the Franch Name which he makes to answer to the Latin Name Butes, by whach our Mathematician was known He notes, that the Translater of Mr Thu-anus's History turns Buteo wrong into Bourel The Editions of Helland have chang'd Bourel into Bou-

Bourel So that it is probable that su Rier faid Bourel, and not Bourel You I find (s) Bourel in his Translation, and Mr Teffer repeats the same Word in his Additions Resides, I find in the Robbestheque of Dauphine, (b) composed by a Man of that Country, that Buteo is Borel or Boscon in French tel Indeed Beusel agrees better with Buteo than

(A) They were not much valued at first] The Author whom I quote observes, that the very all Successes of those that undertook the same thing, gave this Man's Labours fome Reputation, which but for that had been a bad Merchandize for the Booksellers. These are his Words, aize not the poontellets their are his words, (d) Prafersim sum non parum mults ab excess Barenia affiduo opere condem socialem dies notifique tutularint, neque suding mailman in hoc genere quod magnop re probares adalement Quamobrem Brovis annales quorum precita tu inflematione hominum diu jacuerunt, rums inondum quildquam quod sit mendibilius apparent, rement acquet attellere, seme altius efferre Itaque experant caput attellere, seque altius efferre

And got hom condensed to make a publick Reconstitution of The Words of Nicias Erythraus are these, (e) Verum ille su Ludovico Imparatore ad eumdem fospulum naviem isfondit ad quem suam Vecchiettus
(f) uffizierat Etemim censoria quadam authoritate quam sibi infe attribuerat, est comatus aumdem (tanquam nec jure nec legiqui creatum) Imperatum quasi Senaru movere, fod phfulante Bayaria Duce, ac tau-num momus foce injureous factam querente, in judicium vacatus gudicium fontensiis aft coactus abolere quad fori-pfenat, no Ladhvicum in aa, wude dagecerat, fede repo-

Lewis

Beat stiam in co (libro) de Ludovico Interese Ducis Bavarie animum offenderant Etronymum à Ludovico Cardinali Ludole Dux illequestus fuerat, quique tum relitolam, in qua equa videm dolet qui ca actate with m primis empida cantem in fe negotif molem at-

nere Oderic Rainaldus did not grow wife by this 1672, the Example, for in his Annals of the Church, be, eighth beas well as Baovius affeits to call that Prince by no other Rins at the name than the Bavarian, and reckons the 3, Years of his Rugu an Interregium in the Empire, as if there and ends had been no Emperor in all that time (g) Bzovius's with he Retractation was printed at Ingolftads in 800 in Death of the Year 1628

(C) He was treated like a Dog in the Apology 12 1565 that George Herwart] Twas Entituled, Ludovicus The ninth IV Imperator defensus contra Bzovii calumnias in an-Imperator defenjus contra Bzovii calumnia in annalibus suis, and printed at Munich in 1618, in 410 hends the
He pretends, that Bzovius had not acted in his Pontificate Annals like a Man of Honelty, or Wit, or Judg- of Pius V ment, or Memory, or any other good Quality of a + He is of Writer If he had discharg'd all his Anger on the the Order Person of the Annalist, it may be he might have co- of the Dover dhis Apology from the Thunders of the Inquifition, but he extended his Cenfure to other things, and therefore his Work incurr'd the Indignation of that Tribunal Invectus est in eum, it's Nicius Erythreus speaks again, acriter vehementerque Georgius Hervartus qui Ludaviei defensionem arripucrat, a- l Emp 16. des ut quantum in ipso fuerit omnem ab co ingenii, p m 620 memoria, solertia, acuminis, diligentia, sidei & inte-gritatis commendationem averteit qui Hervarti liber Ludovici defensi titulo inscriptus superiorum decre o ve-titus, statim depulsus est ab hominum manibus, propterea quod ille cum Ludovici defensione conjunxerat multorum pratorea dedecus

(D) Repair'd as well as he could That's to fay, ave Bround all the Praises due to an Excellent Vriter But this was not answering the Arguments of his Adversary However it be, let us hear what Nicius Erythreus says again, Qued Hirvartus Bzovio ingenii, judicii, memoria, eruditionus, eloquentiaque patrimonium est conatus eripere, id il-li Siman Starvessus (h) inscriptorum Polonicorum H. ti Simen Starvellius (h) in scriptorum Polonicorum H.catoneade tanquam tutor sidelu ac fortu summa ope studuit conservare, ac prater alias laudis quibus eum exornat, vurum vocat ad laudem, ad gloriam, ad immortalitatem nominu, ad seculi sui miraculum, ad posteritatis utilitatem divinitus datum asque concesfum A meer Rhotorical Declamation

(2) By the Life be had led. Hear his Character in few Words His first Profession was that of a Beneditine Monk He forfook his Monkby Order, and turned Protestant. He followed Mark Anthony do Dominis into England, he return'd again with him into Italy, he enter'd with him again into the Profession of the Catholick Reli-

PAS 264 (b) Pag

Committee Committee For un l'Electi

(d) Nicius Erythraus Pynacóth. 1 9 198. (d) 1812

P# 199

Grenoble

() Eryfind, o That Microme Vecchiettus bud Joake ill

Lewis

* Taken from Jacius Erythræus Pinacoth 1 PAR 198 O

vius died in that Convent a few Years after he came into it. It was in the Year 1637 He had brought himself into much Trouble with the (F) Cordeliers; not only for the Reason that Mr Morers speaks of, \dagger but also for other Matters. Besides what he compos'd on the Popes in general, he writ particularly the Lase of Silvester II, and that of Paul V A Judgment may be made of that Author's discerning Faculty by the Fables he has vented about the Genealogy (G) of this Silvester The Jesuits are no better satisfied with his Annals $(G\Delta)$ than the Cordeliers deliers

As for histalking diladvansagiously of the Jubtle Doctor Johannes Scotus

incumbe-

Jaus Janfenius cujus anim-

Bzovium de Vita &

Since the first Edition of this Dictionary, I have found the following Facts in an Llogy of Bzowins His Grandmother by the Fathers side, was of the Fa-gion, and was his Steward in Rome. He fell in Love with a Woman in the Neighbourhood, and enjoy'd her a pretty while, without her Husband's perceiving it, but at last the good Man discover'd the Matter, for coming unexpectedly home, he found firsh Marks (a) in his Bed of the Place that another had lain in. The Gallant foresaw that for fieris hothe future, it would be impossible for him to connesto viro tinue his Commerce, wherefore he resolved to nupræ,

mike away with the Husband, and having taken his Measures with the Wise, he kill'd him one Morning in the Streets This happen'd during the Sede menfes wacaute which follow'd upon the Death of Gregory continu-XV A thousand Disorders are committed in Rome os ejus ufrom the Time of the Death of one Pope till the furam Election of his Successor, and most of the Crimes that are committed in that Time, go unpunish'd The Wise was present at the Murther, and unconcern'd at it No Search was made after the Murtherer. So that he had the Leisure to marry corporis ceperat priulquam id Murtherer So that he had the Leisure to marry his Mistress to the Valet de Chambre of Mark Anthony de Dominis, and to share the Enjoyment of her peaceably with the new Husband, for he was a Man who freely consided at the Adultery as long as his Wife could get by it wherewith to keep the House, the Charge of it was considerable, and the Adulterer not hiving any longer wholewith to supply them, took to Robbing and (b) Murthering He understood that Bravius's Chest was well furnish'd with Money, which put him upon the Design of Robbing him, knowing therefore one Day that this good Monk was vno fuboleret, fed cum palim fa-Chares elfet, quod eximpromuni rediens in letto rehim upon the Delign of Robbing him, knowing therefore one Day that this good Monk was not at home, he broke open his Chamber, after he had kill'd the Servant and carried away all that he found to his Whore This was foon fpent, and as there came no fresh Supply, the Husband was disgusted at his voluntary Cuckoldom, and inform'd against him The Confequence was that this wicked Murtherer was hang d I do not wonder that the Annalist frighted at the Murther of his Servant, and sorry for the Loss of his Money, shou'd have a Mind to seek a securer Retreat in the Convent of Minerva cens unpressa adultern vestigia depre hendisset thr p 200 (b) Cum domeftici omnes lumptus an iplum Minerva incumberent, nec conference (F) Much Touble with the Cordcliers] Every one knows the Jealousie that has reign'd so long and which is not yet extinguish'd between the Order of St. Francu and that of St. Dominick. Continual Signs of it are to be seen all along the Annals of Brovius, in his affecting to lash the Franciscans whenever Occasion offers. He had blacken'd the Memory of their great Hero, the substile Scotus, they could not remain silent, but caus'd an Apology to be printed, which one (c) (c) Nico.

11 Nico.

(F) Much Trouble with the Cordcliers] Every one knows the Jealousie that has reign'd so long and which is not yet extinguish'd between the Order of St. Francu and that of St. Dominick. Continual Signs of it are to be seen all along the pranciscans whenever Occasion offers. He had blacken'd the Memory of their great Hero, the substile Scotus, they could not remain silent, but caus'd an Apology to be printed, which one (c) of Browius's Brother Triers reply'd to Besides, that particular Apology of Scotus, the Cordeliers (F) Much Trouble with the Cordcliers] Every one that particular Apology of Scotus, the Cordeliers publish a general one at Lyons, in the Year 1627, whereof the Author's Name was Dermieus res adversional results of the Author's Name was Dermietus adversional results and the Book is intituled Nitela Franciscana Religionis & abstersio fordium quibus cam conspurcare scholar in tentavit Arr Bzovius. We shall see that Wading apologian the Annalist, of the Order of Francis, was a permitted and petual Antigonist of Bzovius, as to all Points reditam contral lating to the Franciscans. We shall see it, I say, in these Words of Father Mainbourg (d) I saw, have the Browness of the proposess. tays he, that Bzovius the Dominican, an impla-cable Enemy of the Ghost of that great (e) Destor, has wounded his Memory in a strange manner, by

Joh Duns Scoti, extant in calce tomi 15 Annal Bzovil This is the 3d Volum of Bzovius, for the 1st is reckoned the 13th with regard so Baronius (d) Decadence de l'Empire l 9 p. 606 cdit of Holland. (e) That's to say, of Okam calling him Arch-heretick, Corrupter of Philosophy and Divinity, and by accusing him of having been the da-ther of all the, Buil that Lewis of Bavaria did to the Church and the Pope, but I know also very well, that Wading, a very learned Cordier, who refates him very folidly, in all that he says out of the way, against the Cordeliers, whom he never spares on ac-against the Cordeliers, whom he never spares on eccasion, made Okam's Apolopy against him in his Annals of the minor Brothers

(G) The Fables he has wented about the Genealogy of that Silvester] I think I shall do my Readers a Courteise, if I shew them a Sample whereby they may judge of the whole Piece, for a World of People would rather have the Character of a Writer's Genius, than the whole Story of his Life Browns had given himself the Trouble, and not without Reason, to refute a thousand impertinent I bles which have been the forth concerning the Birth of Gilbert Casins, native of Guienne, Aichbishop of Reims, and afterwards of Ravenna, and lastly Pope, under the Name of Silvester II But he ought not to have given in the 100m of these Fables, a romantick Genealogy, and vouch the Truth of it in every Article He will have it, that this Pope Silvester was descended from a King of Argos, whose Name was Temenus, and that where are some of that Timenus's Descendants still in being, in France and Italy (f) You must know that this King of Argos was descended from Hercules, and that he was one of the Chiefs of the Hercules in the Expedition my which they retook the Pelanguage. was one of the Chiefs of the Heraclides in the Exwas one of the Chiefs of the Heraclides in the Expedition in which they retook the Pelsponnesus of August Now that Expedition is so ancient, that it precedes the historical Time, and belongs to the Fabulous. The Chronologists place it too the Time of the Prophet Samuel Judge then, if it be possible that at present such and such a Family, which is still substituting, can be known to have they work descended from that Temenus Judge then, when the Report of Reports. descended from that Temenus Judge then, whether a judicious Historian, and a Lover of Expactness, will ever say that a Pope, who had tooo Years after JESUS CHRIST, was descended from Hercules

(GA) The Jesuits are little bester satisfied with his the 18 2-Annals, than the Cordeliers An Apologist of the dition is Jacobins observes, that some Persons are of Opinibad been Jacobins observes, that some Persons are of Opinion, that a small marginal Note of Brovius was the Cause of the Indignation of the Jesuits In his third Volum, he insected the Prophecy of St. Hildegarde, and noted in the Margin, that it might be applied to the present Times. It is said, that this was the Original of the Hatred that the Jesuits had for him, and of the Contempt they expressed for his Annals (g) Hostili value of the Browners causam hand service present for him and of the Contempt they expressed for his Annals (g) Hostili value of the Browners causam hand service, pracextam autem suggestic michi vir eruditus, qued scilicet Browns in sua sand sand marginem Brovius apposuerit hac werba, Prophetia quædam S. Hildegardis, quæ ad hæc tempora referri potest, quasi Brovius eam Prophetiam Societalis tati addixerit. Hinc dicunt irarum & edit in Brovius art 2 vium eriginem susse cum tamen Browns Societatis non meminerit, sed tantum, Prophetiam ad hac temponon meminerit, Jed tantum, Prophetiam ad hac tempo- 106. non meminerit, Jed tanium, Prophetiam and hac tempora retulerit Lewis Garchier, one of them, calls that Continuation of Baronius, (h) firaminum additation mentum, an Addition of Straw Anothe Jeliut vieus Can affirms, that they are rather the Annals of the therius is Dominicans, than the Annals of the Church; that Bzevius a Man of little Judgment, is only a Foil tiember to Baronius, that he only relates at large what pud Vin concerns his own Order, except in Matters to come Baronius in their minum in

(f) See nal des of Bzovi-US mathema their nium ibi

mily Sucrepanowski, which had produc'd St. Stoneslaw Bishop of Crachw Thomas "Ablau-Offold that Lady's Son, or his Wife Magdelen Vessera, did not live to educate their rentions of the Was but 18 Months old when his Mother dy'd, and he diddent for his Father soon after He was educated by his Grandmother on the Mostarousses Statements. ther's Side, in the City of Profountz, and he made so good Use of the Instructions of ubsimpra one of his Unikes, that at ten Years of Ago, he could write in Latin, and compose † in Musick and make Verses One of his Aunts sent tor him afterwards to † Musicos pole † in Musick and make Verses One of his Aunts sent for him afterwards to Secomin, where some good French Philosophers and good Humanists whom Stanishams Szafranietz had drawn thither, taught the Youth of Poland They were indeed Hereticks, but Bzeton, though he was but 15 Years of Age, preserved himself from their Porson and brought also some of his Comrades into the right os & Laway again After this, he went to continue his Studies at Cracew, and made the great Progressies in an He took the Habit of a Deminican in the same City, in gere, it is the Convent of the Trinity, and being sent into Italy, read some Lectures of Plantosophy at Milan, and of Divinity at Bologna Being seturn'd into his own Country, he preached in Posamia, and in Cracew, with the Applicate of all his Division has own Order as He settled a latertriny of the Rosaria, he consecrated a Chiege of the Image of St Mary the Great, which he had brought from Rome to Cracew; The sumished the Library of the Convent of the Dominicans, with a great sum in sum of the Malecontents, he caused the Church of St Hyacimbus to be built in Warsaw, which was the first that was built to that Saint in Poland, he is more founded a Convent of Dominicans in the same City under the Title of St Hyacing vocant founded a Convent of Dominicans in the same City under the Title of St Hyacing vocant founded all manners of Conveniences for that my Montality vocant and the same case of the conveniences for that my Montality vocant and the same case of the conveniences for that my Montality vocant and the same case of the conveniences for that my Montality vocant and the same case of the conveniences for that my Montality vocant and the conveniences for th founded a Convent of Dominicans in the same City under the Title of St Hin- vocant) conthus, he procur'd all manner of Conveniencies for that new Monthly, 1 control of the same of the sa and || got that Saint inferted in the Missal and Breviary, he recovered the Monative of Polind, the ferres of Silesta which had been 20 Years separated from the Province of Polind, binum he took Care to have the Relicks of St Cessaus Odrowasus laid up in a scale Pour Pour phase, he was commission'd by his Superiors, to digest the Constitutions of the Max 110-

Dom nicans curint

(a)Theoph dus de immanus Cy-TI ACOTUS distr 7 P#$ 332 Apopom-

(b) Id. ib

their Disadvantage, which could not be refuted; that he turns off from those Places as dumb as a Fish, and shews an extraordinary Diligence when Occasion offers to censure and ridicule the Franeiscans, (a) Perexigui Judicii scriptor, nec tam autor quam confarcinator, emiss multa volumina continuationis Ecclesiastica historia post Baronoum, eui succedancam in co argumento operam navivit, ut objectu contrarii, magis elucesceret Baronii accuratio, junta Philonis observationem lib quis rer divinat ha-res Tomi Bzoviani sun potius annales Dominica-norum, quam Annales Ecclesiastici Est enim totus in rebus domefices efferendis, ac delatandes, ness com aliqued order probrosum, quod convellere non posset, mals avibue in historia seriem incidet sun enim supra piscem tacitus abit At cum agitur de mor-dendis Orissis omnium exponendis Fratribus Minoibus, probat exquisite diligen iam Arripit omnia, sive aperte fassa ut quod de rabie Scoti morientis exaravit, five e solis rumoribus inanibus hausta, ut cum F Berthodum infamat ob inventas bombardas, & aliis severatis locis consimilibus. The same Writer assims, that Bravius had inserted the History of the Council of Trent, composed by Father Prul into one of his Volums, and that it was not he Fault that that Volum was not printed with that Picce stuffed with Posson, but having already caused that Volum to be examind, and obtained Lave of the Master of the Garad Polesce and Annual Control of the Master of the Garad Polesce and Annual Control of the Master of the Garad Polesce and Annual Control of the Control Polesce and Annual Control of the Control Polesce and Control Polesce and Control Polesce and Control of the Control Polesce and Control Polesce and Control Polesce and Control Polesce and Control of the Control Polesce and Control of the Control Polesce and Control of the Control of Leave of the Master of the sacred Palace to print of Urban VIII That Pope shew'd a little Difficulty at first, but at last committed the new Revening of it to the Vicar General of the Circums who had no sooner run over some Parages has been used from the way from the way for the work about the contraction of the Circums who had no sooner run over some Parages has been used from the way for the work about the Circums of the contraction of the circums and contraction of the circums of the ges, but he was struck with the Odour of the mortal Poison of Fra-Paolo. The Pope was acquanted with it, and named other Commissioners to examine that Book These condemnide the Manuscript with one Consent, and passed all the Leaves of it one to the other (b) Subit Abrahamum cupido, nova recognitionis quarenda, quam aliquis nominatim à summe Pontifice desettus prassaret Interpellavit ea de re Urbanum VIII initio morosum ad concedendam novam recognitionem D. Hilarion Ransatus Vicatius Generalis Cismontanus Ciferciensium denique ad id delettus est a Pontifice. Is vix partis folicis evolutis, putorem operis, & pro sua-vii odore, autoris exserpti fatorem illico odoratus, de morte in olla Pontificem admonuit, a quo alic insuper recognitione sunt adhibiti, de tanta obesitate ad veritatem prenuntiature De emnium fententia, factum eft

Codice Broviano, Pauli Suavis pestiscra script one staginato, ita ut Paulus suavis sub nomine Brovis edendus este, se coder Brovis prodissit, factum inquam co est, qued à Ephremo olim issu prasticum circa sibrum hareticum, retuit Gregorius Nyssus Matuo namque per sanctum sumpto impio volumine, omnia fulia inti-posso glusina simul sunt compasta, ita ut deinceps explicari as evalui paginas, ut ad legendum necess sumpossibile sucres

impossibile fuerit

hather Baron answer'd as well as he could for his Brother the Annalist, to the Centures of Theophilis Rayna id, and in some Respects it may be said that his Apology is not bad, but here are two Points wherein it seems to me defective The first concerns the Prophecy of St Hidegard. The second concerns the Incorporating Lather Paul's History. The Apology (1) answers thei Paul's History The Apologist (1) answers, 1 (c) I ne That Bzov us without making any Mention of the Baronius Jeiuits, faid only that the Prophecy of St (d) Hil- uli Supra degarde might be apply d to these I mes 2 That pag 106 he cannot believe that that Annalist would insert (d) Line the Works of Father Paul into his Annals Bzo- Baronius vi is was not ignorant that Mark Anthony de Do- uhi supra minis, the Apostate Archbishop, had publish d feet 1 and that Work, whose Infamy could not be unknown 2 paragraph It was a condemn'd Work, it is not then 3 pig 24 to be thought that Bzevius would infert it in his Annals That History oftends the Church of Rome and the Popes so often, that Exercise could not be so blind as not to see the Posson which flows every where from it (i) lot actant i funt in ea historia contra fummos Pontifices, contra Roma- () Id b. nam Ecclesiam, ut non potuerit Brovius ita cacutire quin venenum quod undiquaque erumpit non annotarit. He concludes with laying, that at worst, the Precaution of the Annalist ought to be prais'd He desir'd a new Revision of his Writing, that the Evil which might have slipp'd into it thro his Neglect, should not remain without Remedy All Negleft, should not remain without Remedy All this is very weak, for in the first place, a Person could not value himself, because the marginal Note names no Body, for the Malice of beautiful does not appear a Jot the less, he knew well enough that the Jesuits Linemies apply the Prediction of St, Hildegarde to them So that he explain'd himself sufficiently, and he could not have specified the Jesuits without exposing himself to vexatious Troubles, and to formal Processes before the Pope's Tribunals. I say in the second Place, that Theophylus Raynauld having advanced an Place, that Theophilus Raynauld having advanc d an Accusation, accompanied with Circumstances of Hhhhh

* Taken from Si-mon Starovolicius, in Scriptorum Poloniæ il-Inftrum centuria. before the lum of the Annals of Bzovius rinted at Cologn, IN 1641 † Taken from the Dominicans into better Form, and he published a great Number of Sermons, and other Writings*. One of his Works prepared his Way to the Constitution of Raronius, it was the Abridgment of the Ecclesiastical History which the extracted chiefly out of the Annals of that Cardinal. He shewed the Mannals of it to some Persons, who not only exhorted him to publish it, but also to undertake his Continuation of that History to his own Time. He happened to be then at Rome with Virgimo Ursmi, Duke of Bracciano, who made him Library-Keeper †. The Deserence which he had for the Exhortations whether have mentioned, brought the great Work of the Continuation of Baronius afterwards as light. The Letter which the King of Poland (H) writ to the Pope in 1611, does of Dominican a great deal of Honour Honour

Fact, it is almost in vain to oppose it by probable Reasons. A Man might be satisfied with them, a Man might take up with them against Accu-fers who alledg'd only Proofs of the same kind, but when they alledge Witnesses, and specific Cir-cumstances of Time and the Qualities of the Perfons, it is necessary to have Recourse to some Proofs of Fact, and thereby destroy the Witness whom they alledge The Accuser had maintain'd that preface to they alledge The Accuser had maintain'd that they alledge The Accuser had maintain'd that Urban VIII had commission'd Don Hilarion Rancate for the Revising of Browner's Book, he had in some manner, mark'd the very Dwelling-house of that Commissary It lay then on the Jacobins to prove that that Monk had never had that Imploy, or had never made the Report in question to the Pope There were many Persons alive in Italy, who had known Don Hilarion Rancate, who had spoken with him, who could shew some of his Papers. Or It is a strong Presumption in Favour pers, &c It is a strong Presumption in Favour of Father Theophilus, to see that the Defender of Bzsvim alledges none of their Testimony, for this shews that the Jacobins durst not make any Enquiry, or publish what their Informations had clear'd up to them A negative Deposition might be of some Use, as for Example, That a Friend of Don Hilarion deposes, That having heard him tell divers curious Facts concerning the Examination of Pooles, their Apprehension their Prohibition tion of Books, their Approbation, their Prohibi-tion, or Permission to print them, and this in Conversations of Intimacy, wherein certain Parti-culars which concern d Bzovins were mix'd, he remember'd very well that he had never heard him speak of the pretended Insertion of Father Paul, I say, if a Friend of this Don Hilarion should depose this, it wou'd be more concluding against the Accuser, than repeating over and over, it is not probable, it is not to be believed, &c I own it is hard to believe that Bzovius was ignorant that the Hi-

flory of the Council of the displeased the Council of Rome, but in the main it is not impediate, and they alledge Facts to us, which there was ignorant of that Truth A writer like him, had need to have many Things showed to diffu, and had not Time to read them all, if he had well examined all that he gave to the Process he are the Process he are the Process had not the process he process he are the Process had not the process he process he are the process had not the process he process he are the process had not the process he process he are the process had not the process he process he are the process had not the proc examin d all that he gave to the Printers, he could not have produc'd Folio's with fo much Dispatch not have produc'd Folio's with 10 much Dilpatch It is certain, that he has inferted formed Towns for in his Annals, which others had published him He did this with regard to the Mines procificus of Father Moned, (a) Hunc Commentarium pene ad verbum descriptit, & ad calcem voluminis fui 17 Annalium Ecclesiasticorum adjecit Abrahamus Bzavius, ut qua de Felice parum rei consentanea scripferat, oat streamer

figares (H) The Letter which the King of Poland does the leb sur Dominican much Honour] It was printed in the (b) Elogy that Starovolfeint confectated to the Glory of Bzevius The King supplicates Urban VIII, most humbly to suffer that good old Man to return into Poland, whom he desir'd to enter the composing the History of the letter of the lefter of the letter of the lefter of the letter of the le ploy in the composing the History of the late. Transactions there He declares that he shall effect himself very much indebted to his Holiness, if he will be pleas'd to grant him that Favour which he fo instantly requests of him Certus fum, lays he, id Santitatem Viftram enixa petitioni med daturam, ut vir milis cumpainis charus, ad natale fo-lum, redeat quit content infinita Sanctis. Veftra erga me benevole, the augumenta, non postremo loco reponam, quando verum tam paterna quam mea gloria studiosum propinquius complett, & consuctudina illius atque lucubration frui licebit

(a) Setuel Bibliet b

CAYET